
The Report Denied.

ASHLAND, KY., March 11.—The report concerning the arrest of the true murderer of the Gibbons children is entirely new to us, and just as utterly false as it is new. There is not the shadow of truth in the report. All, or at least the majority of our citizens, are resting perfectly easy that the true perpetrators of the Ashland horror have had the life strangled out of them. The report is as unstable as chaff before a mighty gale.

Threatened Strike.

CINCINNATI, March 11.—A meeting of Cincinnati street car drivers and conductors was held last night, at which it was resolved that the demand be made for two dollars a day of twelve hours, paid by the day, extra work to be paid for by the hour at the same rate, and that employers be given until 10 o'clock Saturday morning to answer.

Distressing Fatalities.

CANTON, O., March 11.—Lawrence Mosbach, a miner working in the McFarran coal shaft at Elton, Stark County, was horribly mangled and fatally injured by a premature explosion of a blasting cartridge while shooting down coal last night. His sister, Mrs. John Beautz, living at West Brookfield, five miles distant, was sent for, and in her hurry to reach her brother's bedside she urged the horse to a gallop. The animal took fright and ran away, wrecking the buggy and hurling Mrs. Beautz violently to the ground. She is now lying in a farm house near the scene of the runaway, with small hopes for her recovery.

Attempted Poisoning.

LEBANON, PA., March 11.—A miscreant put four pounds of paris green in a pot holding a barrel of coffee, at the alms-house. Eighty inmates were prostrated, and were only saved from death by the dose being too strong. As it is, twelve persons are still in a critical condition.

Steamer Blows Up.

VICKSBURG, MISS., March 11.—The steamer Ike Bonham, blew up to-day eleven miles below this city. The mate, William Standre, and several negroes were killed, and Pilot Ed. McElroy, Engineer Charles Girard and a number of deckhands were severely wounded.

A Woman Burns Herself to Death.

GALENA, ILL., March 11.—Mrs. Gummway, the wife of William Gummway, a farmer of Scales Mound in this county, yesterday set fire to the bed clothes in her sleeping apartment and deliberately stepped into the flames. Her husband entered the house to save the building from destruction, but found his wife dead.

Bull in a School-Yard.

CINCINNATI, March 11.—An excited bull, escaping from a drove, rushed in the yard of the Second District school, where there were two hundred children, let out for the noon recess. A number of children were knocked about, but none seriously hurt, except a little boy, whose wounds will not prove fatal.

XLIXTH CONGRESS.

First Session.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—SENATE.—A bill was passed authorizing the Central Missouri railroad to construct a bridge across the Mississippi river at Alton, Ill. The urgency deficiency bill was reported. The Iowa land grant forfeiture bill was discussed, but went over at 2 o'clock, when the resolution from the Judiciary Committee was taken up. Mr. Edmunds spoke at length in criticism of the position assumed by the Executive. At 4:30 p. m. the Senate went into executive session, confirmed a few unimportant nominations, and soon after adjourned.

HOUSE.—A reply from the Secretary of the Navy in relation to the Norfolk Navy-yard removals was received. It was referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs. A bill from the Judiciary Committee was reported, providing for closing up the Alabama Claims Court. A bill granting pensions to the soldiers and sailors of the Mexican war was reported and placed on the calendar. The House resumed consideration of the bill requiring Pacific railroads to pay the cost of surveying their lands and taking out patents, and passed it without opposition. A bill was passed prohibiting the employment of contract labor by any officer, servant or agent of the Government. The Indian appropriation bill was taken up, and pending action the House adjourned.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—SENATE.—Executive communications were received and referred. Mr. Blackburn attempted to report committee action on a nomination in open Senate, but apologized when the Chair said it would be withheld for executive session. The Iowa land forfeiture bill was taken up and debate resumed. The full list of Senators' private secretaries was laid before the Senate, in compliance with the Riddleberger resolution. Senator Pugh spoke in reply to Mr. Edmunds on the controversy between the Senate and the President. At the conclusion of his remarks Mr. Wilson (Iowa) yielded for the urgency deficiency bill, which was passed. The Senate adjourned at 5:30 p.m. The President sent in his first veto message. It returned a bill authorizing the President to promote an officer and place him on the retired list.

HOUSE.—The bill to increase the efficiency of the navy was reported. A bill granting to the State of California five per cent. of the net proceeds of the sale of public lands in that State, was reported from the Committee on Public Lands, and was referred to the committee of the whole. The Seney bill, to repeal the civil service law, was reported adversely, and placed on the calendar. The bill requiring the Northern Pacific railroad to pay the cost of surveying its lands, was reported from the Committee of Public Lands, and sent to the House calendar. The bill repealing the limitations for filing claims by militiamen disabled while acting under the orders of U. S. officers, was called up and debated. Pending action the morning hour expired. Debate on the Indian appropriation bill was then resumed. Pending action the House adjourned at 5 p. m.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—SENATE.—Letters from the Secretary of the Treasury, containing certain information asked for, were received and appropriately referred. A petition from the National Bimetallic Coinage Association was presented by Mr. Jones, of Nevada, who made a speech on silver by unanimous consent. A resolution was adopted authorizing the printing, for the use of the committee, of fifty copies of the testimony now being taken relating to the pension office. Mr. Hawley reported adversely Vance's bill for the repeal of the civil service law. It was placed on the calendar. Mr. Logan submitted the minority report on the Fitz John Porter bill. The Iowa land forfeiture bill was taken up and debated until two o'clock, when the Judiciary Committee's resolutions were laid before the Senate and the discussion thereon resumed. Mr. Wilson, of Iowa, supported at length the views of the majority. Mr. Kenna obtained the floor to speak on the resolution to-morrow. The President's veto was received of the bill "to quiet the titles of settlers to the Des Moines river lands," and ordered printed and to lie on the table. Resolutions on the death of Senator Miller and providing for a committee of five Senators to accompany his remains to California were agreed to.

HOUSE.—A resolution was adopted calling on the Secretary of the Navy for information in regard to expenditures in the ordnance shop at the Washington navy-yard. The resolution directing the Judiciary Committee to inquire into the right of the United States to cancel patents was reported back adversely and laid on the table. The militia pension bill was debated, without action, in the morning hour. The Indian appropriation bill came up in committee of the whole and was discussed, but no vote taken. A resolution providing for a committee of seven members to join a similar committee from the Senate and accompany the remains of Senator Miller to California was adopted.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—SENATE.—Consideration of the Iowa land grant forfeiture bill was resumed. Pending action the morning hour expired. Debate on the Edmunds resolution was continued by Mr. Kenna. Senator Cullom was recognized for Monday at 1:30 p. m., and the Senate went into executive session at 5 p. m. Adjourned.

HOUSE.—The invitation of the Senate to attend the funeral services for the late Senator Miller was accepted. A resolution calling for a statement from the Secretary of the Treasury of the war tax account was offered and referred. A resolution against cranks or chronic objectors to the consideration of bills was objected to as disrespectful to the House. A pension bill granting the widow of Geneneral Hancock $2,000 a year was reported and placed on the private calendar. The House at 2 p. m. took up the private calendar and passed a few bills. The Speaker announced the committee to accompany the remains of Senator Miller to California, and at 4:30 p. m. a recess was taken until 7:30 p. m., the evening session being for the consideration of pension bills.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—SENATE.—The day was devoted to the ceremonies attending the funeral of Senator Miller.

HOUSE—The members assembled to attend the funeral services in the Senate chamber, and upon returning to their own room adjourned.

COMMITTEES—The Pan-Electric Investigating Committee continued the examination of J. Harris Rogers, and then adjourned until Monday. The House Ways and Means Committee devoted the morning to the wool industry and heard arguments from John T. Clarke, of Pennsylvania, and John L. Hayes, Secretary of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers; the former for a restoration of the tariff of 1867, the latter against any tariff agitation.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—SENATE.—Rev. Dr. J. G. Butler was selected chaplain to succeed Rev. Dr. Huntley, resigned. A number of petitions were presented. A House bill was passed providing for the printing of 75,000 copies of a new edition of the laws and regulations of the Post-office Department. Mr. Ingalls submitted a resolution, which was referred, proposing a constitutional amendment to substitute the 30th of April for the 4th of March as inauguration day, the one hundredth anniversary of Washington's inauguration. At 2 p. m. Edmund's report and resolution came up, Mr. Cullom having the floor. The death of Representative Hahn was announced by Mr. Eustis and appropriate resolutions submitted after which the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—After the reading of the journal, the death of Representative Hahn, of Louisiana, was announced by Mr. St. Martin, who offered a resolution providing for the appointment of a committee to conduct the funeral ceremonies. By an unanimous consent Tuesday was set for Monday's business. Mr. St. Martin's resolution was adopted, and the House adjourned at 12:20 p. m.

—Feminine subservience to fashion is the greatest enemy to our native birds. To minister to this vanity an army of men and boys are employed throughout the country to murder these innocents, that their stuffed skins may decorate a lady's bonnet. Travel a hundred miles along our coast and you may not see a gull where five years ago there were thousands of white breasts flashing in the sunshine. In many places meadow-larks, bobo-links and orioles are almost extinct.—Chicago Tribune.

—Another Nihilistic plot having been discovered in the neighborhood of the royal palaces at St. Petersburg, it stands the Czar in hand to have another bolt put on his door, if there is room for it, and have an additional boiler-iron counterpane spread on his bed.—Chicago News.

—Commenting on Julia Ward Howe's remark: "It is merely a question of time when women shall wield the ballot," the Boston Post notes that "the tendency of women to speak of the ballot as though it were an improved kind of broomstick is calculated to make the men nervous."

THE COMMONWEALTH.

Louisville Leaf Tobacco Market.

We quote 1885 tobaccos as follows for full weights and sound packages:

	Dark and Heavy.	Burley.
Trash	$2 25@ 3 00	$3 50@ 4 25
Common lugs	3 00@ 4 00	4 50@ 5 00
Medium lugs	3 75@ 4 00	5 50@ 6 00
Good lugs	4 25@ 4 50	4 25@ 7 25
Common leaf	4 75@ 5 00	6 00@ 8 75
Medium leaf	5 25@ 6 25	7 00@ 9 00
Good leaf	7 25@ 8 25	9 50@12 25
Selections	9 00@10 50	14 00@16 00
Burley wrappers	.....@	18 00@20 00

Proceedings of the Legislature.

FRANKFORT, March 8.—The House adopted a resolution to adjourn April 1. The Senate refused to suspend rules to concur, but will do so. Dixon high license bill up in the House, and recommitted. Nothing else done.

FRANKFORT, March 9.—SENATE.—House bill repealing an act regulating the public roads in Pulaski, Rockcastle and Laurel Counties. Authorizing city of Hopkinsville to provide aid for building the Hopkinsville and Cadiz railroad or any of its branches. Amending an act regulating the advertising of judicial sales in Harrison County. House bills prohibiting the sale or giving away of liquors in Carter County. Requiring railroads to provide safe storage room for freights at all depots in this State, and fixing penalty for refusal or neglect to do so. Amended by making the bill apply to stations where trains stop daily for delivery or reception. Bill as amended passed.

HOUSE.—The following joint resolution was offered by Mr. Thomas in the House to-day: Whereas, The working of convicts in the coal mines of this State is a death blow to free labor and the business prosperity of the mining regions and all having interest therein; and, Whereas, By the employment of convicts in said mines business is depressed, property depreciated, miners idle and daily leaving the country, capital driven away from the State, and a general feeling of uneasiness and despondency existing; and, Whereas, Many of these miners having been driven from the coal-fields of Alabama, Georgia and Tennessee by convict labor, and now from Kentucky, they were asking, Where can we go to escape what our lawmakers are forcing on us?—more destructive to free labor than negro slavery was in its palmiest days; and, Whereas, The peace and quietude of the whole State is periodically disturbed by agitation consequent on convict labor, which is alike unjust to capital and free labor, and destructive of both; therefore, be it Resolved, By the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, that we greatly deplore the present unfortunate state of affairs now existing at Greenwood mines, and our heartfelt sympathies are enlisted in behalf of the suffering people of that region; and, be it further resolved, in order to remove the disturbing cause and restore peace to the country, that it is the sense of this General Assembly that the convicts now employed in the Greenwood mines be returned and placed within the walls of the penitentiary, where they properly belong. Bills passed: Changing name of Ohio Valley Railroad Company to Ohio Valley Coal and Mining Company; establishing a treasurer for Harlan County; incorporating the Deposit Bank of Calhoun; incorporating the Frankfort, Bellepoint and Leestown Street Railroad Company; incorporating the Security Trust and Safety Vault Company of Lexington; incorporating the People's Loan and Trust Company of Russellville; changing the name of South Kentucky Railroad Company to Ohio Valley Railroad Company.

FRANKFORT, March 10.—SENATE.—In the Senate, Mr. Hays reported from the Committee on Finance a bill to amend the charter of Louisville, which was passed. This bill authorizes the city to issue bonds to the amount of $500,000.

HOUSE.—Mr. Spalding moved a call of the House, announcing that he desired to report the bill to continue the Superior Court. The call was ordered, and eighty-seven members responded to their names. Further proceedings under the call were dispensed with, and the Superior Court bill was reported. After debate, the previous question was then ordered, and the voting began. The bill was put on its passage and passed—yeas, 52; nays, 31. A motion to reconsider was laid on the table. The Senate will now concur in the House amendments, and the existence of the Superior Court for another four years is assured.

FRANKFORT, March 11.—SENATE.—Bills passed: Authorizing the County Judge of Boyd County to collect certain uncollected revenues of said county; creating the Nineteenth Judicial District and providing for holding courts therein; House bill incorporating the Hopkins County Fair Association; House bill establishing a police court in the town of Crofton, in Christian County; House bill reducing into one all the acts in relation to the town of Mayfield, in Graves County; House bill amending and reducing into one all acts in relation to the town of Midway; House bill excluding Muhlenberg County from the provisions of the Fish bill; House bill putting Knott County in the Tenth Congressional District; House bill regulating pay of commonwealth witnesses in felony cases; providing pay for witnesses only when regularly summoned and his attendance claimed in open court; House bill amending the road law of Russell County. The Governor appointed the following additional members of the State Board of Health, under the provisions of the pleuro-pneumonia bill: A. G. Herr, D. A. Givens and T. C. Anderson.

HOUSE.—The pleuro-pneumonia bill was passed over the Governor's veto. The committee appointed last Saturday to investigate the Greenwood mine troubles reported this morning in the following bill: "Section 1. If any two or more persons shall band themselves together to conspire, or agree, or with the intent to prevent or interrupt any person, company or corporation in doing or transacting or pursuing his or its lawful business or occupation, or any one in his or its employment, they or either of them on conviction thereof shall be fined not less than $200 nor more than $500, or imprisoned in the county jail not less than three nor more than twelve months, or both fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court or jury trying the case. Section 2. If any injury, damage or pecuniary loss or stoppage of lawful business shall result or be caused to any person, company or corporation from or on account of the banding together, conspiracy or agreement of two or more persons, as stated in the preceding section, then the person or persons and each of them and their aiders or abettors engaged or participating in the act or acts causing or inflicting such injury, damage or pecuniary loss or stoppage of business, shall on conviction thereof be confined in the penitentiary not less than one nor more than three years in the discretion of the jury."

FRANKFORT, March 12.—SENATE.—A number of bills were passed, among which were the following: House bill to prevent stock from running at large in Marshall County. Bill amending and repealing so much of the charter of the city of Louisville as relates to selling the products of the city work-house. Mr. Berry's bill making eight hours' work a day's labor for all laborers employed by the State.

HOUSE.—The Speaker laid before the House this morning a communication from Marcellus E. Thornton, one of the principal stockholders in the "Main Jellico Mountain Coal Company" of Kensee, Whitley County, Ky., in which he says that convict labor was employed in said mine without the knowledge and consent of the stockholders, and he wants the State to withdraw them. He further states that he was induced to come to this State and invest his money by the fact that convict labor was not allowed outside the walls of the penitentiary. He thinks if one coal mine is allowed to employ the cheap convict labor all mines should have the same privilege. The letters were referred to the special committee on convict labor question for consideration. The Governor withdrew his veto sent in yesterday to bills for the benefit of Messrs. Dawson, Hill and others, of Bullitt County, having found a decision of the Court of Appeals that declared similar bills constitutional. The exemption bill came up again and, after a two hours' wrangle, it was passed. It provides for the exemption of any kind of property to the amount of $500. The Committee of the Whole, after much labor and discussion, succeeded in amending and passing the fourth section of the revenue bill, which has been considered for the last four days—one section per day.

Miscellaneous Items.

ALLEN C. DALZEL, until recently an employe of the Dueber Watch-case Works at Newport, was arrested at the Fahyes Watch-case Works at Sag Harbor, N. Y., and brought to Newport on the charge of dishonestly appropriating patent appliances belonging to the Dueber Works. The prisoner is an inventor and accomplished workman, and claims the patents were his own property.

AN appropriation of $12,000 will be made to complete the public buildings at Frankfort, within five months.

REMINGTON REDMAN was killed at Burgina, by a log which fell from a wagon on his head.

AT Louisville, jealousy caused Charles Craizer to be harsh with his wife, Elten, whom he married only two months ago. Several days ago she was rescued from suicide by drowning, she having leaped from a bridge over Beargrass creek. She returned home, but the occurrence did not bridge the family trouble, and on the night of the 12th, the wife took morphine, and when found by her husband was thought to be dead. He found the vial from which she had taken the poison, and swallowed enough from it to kill himself. Both were discovered, however, before death, and it was thought that they can be revived.

A STUPENDOUS BRIBE.

The Blair Educational Bill a Venal Offer for the Democratic Birthright.

Of the political questions before the present Congress there is none worthy to compare in importance—none so far-reaching in its possible political consequences as what is known as the "Blair Educational bill." It does not require many words to state the purpose of the measure. It is an act to split the solid South. What the Republican party failed to do with the bayonet under Grant, it hopes to do with bribes under Cleveland. To the Democrats of the South it offers the lion's share in seventy millions of the people's money to be taken with their aid from the public treasury, while it seemingly imposes no conditions upon its acceptance other than that of their co-operation in removing the constitutional barriers which protect the treasury.

But the involved conditions in this most insidious proposition are inexorable. If Southern Democrats accept the bribe, it can only be at the sacrifice of every principle on which Democracy rests. They must deny their capacity for individual self-government; reject the doctrine of strict constitutional construction and the Democratic axiom that the general Government has no powers except such as are expressly granted to it; it must repudiate the constitutional amendment declaratory of reserved rights in the States and the people and make an unqualified submission to the Republican proposition that while the general-welfare clause remains in the constitution, no act which a majority of Congress judges to be for the general welfare can be unconstitutional. It must put the control of its schools and the education of its children in the hands of the general Government, and join with the Republican party in hurrying forward to the time when a centralized, paternal Government will look after the welfare of a people too weak and unmanly either to care for or govern themselves. It must change the Democracy of Thomas Jefferson for the Federalism of Alexander Hamilton and the Republicanism of the Grants, Blaines and John Shermans.

—The bribe can not be taken without a complete repudiation of Democratic principles. The initial effects of the measure may be seen already. In Mississippi, Texas, Tennessee and other states, factions which have since the war adhered to the Democratic party are finding in this bill an issue upon which to divide. The South is poor. It needs money. It was drained by a long war, from which it has never recovered. The Federal Government made citizens of its slaves and should educate them for citizens. These are their arguments, but the real argument is the seventy-million shining dollars—the mess of pottage the Republican party offers them for their Democratic birthright.—St. Louis Republican.

A LABORING MAN.

The Unceasing Strain Put upon Our Faithful and Industrious Chief Executive.

There has been a renewal of the reports that President Cleveland's health is failing, but there is no foundation for such statements. He is in his usual health, although his working hours are from nine o'clock in the morning until two o'clock at night, with slight intermission graciously allowed him for lunch, dinner and a drive. It comes from the White House, however, that he is convinced he should find some way to get more time to himself than the present very lax rules of the executive mansion allow him. When he entered the White House he was overwhelmed with work, as he naturally expected to be, and devoted the days to the reception of visitors and the long hours of the night to labor without complaint. But a year has now elapsed and the President finds himself unable to shorten his long day. This is not due so much to the actual amount of work he is called upon to accomplish as to the fact that his time is frittered away by thoughtless and inconsiderate callers.

When the time came for the preparation of his annual message to Congress the public's hours at the mansion were reduced, and during November he had more time to himself than in any other month since he entered the White House. After Congress met, however, he found it necessary to return to his previous habit of giving up pretty much all the time during the day to visitors. Between 10:30 and 1:30 o'clock he accords a reception to every person who has business with him. It makes no difference whether the visitor wishes to see the President on the most trivial subject or the matter is of grave import, the sending in of his card gains admission to the library and in due course of time a personal talk with the President. At 1:30 o'clock the President receives in a body those persons who simply wish to pay their respects, and if his devotion to visitors ended here there would be and could be no cause for complaint, but it does not. Senators and Congressmen return again during the afternoon, sometimes with office-seekers, sometimes with relatives, sometimes with constituents and rarely with a good reason.

The result is that four or five o'clock arrives before a single matter of public business has received that attention the President feels in duty bound to give it. An hour's ride in the afternoon and an hour for dinner are followed by five or six hours of as hard work as any man could well be asked to undertake when refreshed in the morning, much less at the close of a long and fatiguing day. His health has endured one year of this strain, but it is a question if he can hold out through his four years without breaking down. Absolutely the only exercise he gets is when he descends from his carriage during his afternoon rides and takes a short walk along some unfrequented road. It is almost certain he will have to confine his office hours to the morning so as to give him more time in the afternoon.—St. Louis Republican.

——Secretary Whitney is resolved to guard the Government against the wiles and strategems of contractors which have cost the country hundreds of millions of dollars without any thing substantial to show for such expenditures. In his instructions to the Board on the new cruisers he says: "The point to be reached is making the specifications and plans so detailed and definite that the contractor and the Government have their rights specifically defined. This is the only way to insure close bidding. The contractor ought to be able to take his contract and specifications and plans and read them as he would read a book and go to his yard knowing precisely what he has to do to comply with his obligations."—Albany Argus.

AN HONEST PAPER.

The Bomb Which President Cleveland Has Thrown into the United States Senate—Senator Edmunds' Consternation.

For three months the Republican majority of the United States Senate has been strutting around in executive sessions with a large number of Presidential nominations in its pocket and a chip of defiance of the Presidential prerogative on its shoulder. Yesterday the President took notice of the challenge and threats of his would-be tormentors in a spirited and decisive message that fairly startled poor Senator Edmunds into the belief that he was back in the days of his younger manhood when Charles I. was King. Visions of Runnymede, the magna charter, the bill of rights, the ship tax and Punch's essence of Parliament danced before his senescent eyes. But, notwithstanding Senator Edmund's ire, the people of the United States will be thoroughly gratified at this new proof that they have a man in the White House who within the fair lines of his office is determined to be every inch a President. There is a ring of honest courage about the manner in which Grover Cleveland states his convictions that adds weight to the blunt logic by which he sustains them. He does not waver a hair's breadth from what he considers his constitutional right to make removals for cause. He invites the Senate to exercise its constitutional supervision of the nominations submitted to it and asks a fair scrutiny of his appointees. That he has made mistakes he is willing to admit. He acknowledges the binding force of his ante-election pledges and challenges the Senate to show wherein they have been disregarded. He stands manfully by his year's record, made in the face of disaffected Democratic friends and malignant Republican foes, and promises to continue to fulfill the promise of good government upon which he was elected.

It will bother the Republicans of the Senate mightily to reply to this message. The record of their party on the Tenure-of-Office act is such that it virtually estops them from consistent criticism of the President's position. When Lincoln was inaugurated removals of Democrats from office were made with rapidity and without interference. It was not until Johnson began to replace Republicans with Democrats that the Tenure-of-Office act was passed. The first bill introduced in the Senate after Grant's inauguration was one to repeal this act, and the second was one by Senator Edmunds to amend it. March 9, 1869, Ben Butler introduced and rushed through the House, under suspension of the rules and the previous question, a repeal of the act, and on every division in accomplishing this lightning feat Congressmen (now Senators) Allison, Conger, Hale, Cullom, Dawes, Logan and Hoar voted with the candid Ben. The Senate amended this bill for repeal, but after conference it was passed in a shape that emasculated the original Tenure-of-Office law into the present impotent conclusion. When the conference bill was before the House Mr. Logan made a spirited speech concerning it that should range him in the ranks of the President's supporters in the present struggle.—Chicago News.

Waving the Shirt.

Representative Henderson, of Iowa, dug up the bloody shirt and made another attempt to wave it in Congress yesterday. He cited the fact that sixty-four out of the sixty-six votes against the bill which was recently passed increasing widows' pensions from eight dollars to twelve dollars a month were cast by Southern Democrats, and virtually charged them with disloyalty for such action. Mr. Henderson and his kind might as well understand that the day for this sort of demagogism is gone, never to return. The South is just as much a part of the Union as the North, and a Representative from South Carolina or Mississippi has just as good a right to oppose any measure which does not commend itself to his judgment as a representative from Wisconsin or New York, without having his patriotism called in question. Congressman Hewitt, of New York and Congressman Bragg, of Wisconsin, the latter the gallant commander of the "Iron Brigade," in the Union army, voted against the increase of widows' pensions, and nobody has any more right to "arraign" the sixty-four Southern members who stood with them than he has to charge either Mr. Hewitt or General Bragg with disloyalty. The increase of widows' pensions above eight dollars, the rate before the war, now that the cost of living has sunk to the ante-war level, was unjustifiable, and it is only to be regretted that more Northern members had not, like Messrs. Hewitt and Bragg and their sixty-four associates from the South, enough independence to oppose a measure which increases taxes by more than $6,000,000 a year.—N. Y. Post.

How Evarts Is Drunk.

What's this we hear about Hon. W. Maxwell Evarts? Chairman Hackett, of the Republican State Executive Committee, according to a correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer, speaks in the following disrespectful terms:

> The help I gave to the election of Evarts is one of the things I shall never forgive myself for doing. He is eaten up with his own conceit. He has an idea that he can be President. When we wanted to get him to make speeches last fall we had to send delegations of fifteen or twenty men to wait on him with flattery and adulation before he would consent. We got him to go to Syracuse by sending a gang of twenty Syracuse people to wait on him. He is no use to the party.

And Senator Vedder, the gaudy cockatoo of Chautauqua, who never loved the lean and slippery William any too well, thus flaunts his scorn:

> The fellows who voted for Evarts are the sickest lot of men you ever saw. They say that he has played the party for a sucker, and caught it on the first nibble. The trouble with Evarts is what Beaconsfield said of Gladstone: "He is drunk with the exuberance of his own verbosity."

Of what use is it for a Presidential voltigeur to perform for the edification of Michigan Republicans, when his own party in the great Empire State rises up behind him and accuses him of "playing it for a sucker?"—Brooklyn Eagle

——No bill before Congress more deeply affects the people of this State than an inter-State commerce bill; and it matters very little whether a beginning is made under the Cullom bill or under the bill that Mr. Reagan has long advocated in the House. Each would inaugurate a National system of control as to inter-State traffic. Neither is perfect, but either would furnish a basis for such amendments as experience would suggest.—Atlanta Constitution.

THE RECORDER.

WEDNESD'Y, MARCH 17, 1886.

RIDDELL & HALL,
Proprietors.

Rates of Subscription.

One year	$1 50
Six months	75
Three months	40

☞ Payment invariably in advance.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1 Column	1 year	$80
1	1 "	40
1	1 "	20
1	" 1 "	20
1	" 1 "	10
1	" 1 "	6

We are authorized to announce Col. WARREN MONTFORT, of Owen Co. as a candidate for Circuit Judge in this Judicial District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce P. U. MAJOR as a candidate for reelection to the office of Circuit Judge, in this district, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce GEO. C. DRANE as a candidate for the office of Circuit Judge in this district, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorize to announce THOS. R. GORDEN, of Owen county, as a candidate for Commonwealths Attorney in this 11th Judicial District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce JNO. S. GAUNT, of Carroll county, as a candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney in this, 11th Judicial District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce H. J. FOSTER as a candidate for reelection to the office of County Superintendent, subject to the primary election, first Saturday in April 1886.

We are authorized to announce JOHN P. RYLE, of Carlton Precinct, as a candidate for County Superintendent, subject to the action of the primary election, April 3, 1886.

We are authorized to announce M. C. NORMAN, of Union, as a candidate for County Judge, subject to the primary election, Saturday April 3, 1886.

We are authorized to announce EDWIN H. BAKER as a candidate for County Judge, subject to the Primary election, Saturday, April 3, 1886.

W. L. Riddell is a candidate for reelection to the office of Circuit Clerk; subject to the action of the primary election, April 3d 1886.

We are authorized to announce M. T. GARNETT as a candidate for re-election to the office of County Clerk, subject to the action of the primary election April 3, '86.

We are authorized to announce J. R. CLUTTERBUCK as a candidate for reelection to the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the primary election April 3.

We are authorized to announce S. W. TOLIN as a candidate for re-election to the office of County Attorney, subject to the action of the primary election April 3, '86.

We are authorized to announce L. C. YAGER, jr, of Florence as a candidate for County Attorney, subject to the action of the primary election April 3, 1886.

We are authorized to announce G. M. RILEY as a candidate for re-election to the office of Assessor, subject to the action of the primary election, Saturday, April 3, 1886.

We are authorized to announce W. E. VEST as a candidate for reelection to the office of Surveyor, subject to the action of the primary election April 3, 1886.

Subscribe for the Recorder.

A BILL was introduced in the Kansas Legislature to change groundhog day from February 2d to February 1st.

THE Mississippi legislature has passed a bill imposing a fine of $500 for distributing polygamous literature in that State.

THE Frankfort Yeoman has discontinued publication owing to financial complications in which one of the members of the firm is involved.

Ed Stokes, who killed Jim Fisk fifteen years ago, is now worth over $2,000,000, and still some people think advertising don't pay.—State Journal.

AN examination of the books of the County Treasurer, of Vincennes, Indiana, shows a shortage of $78,278. It was squandered in margin gambling. Send him to Canada.

A BILL has been introduced in the Legislature, prohibiting selling, giving or furnishing tobacco in any form to minors. Those violating the law to be fined $20 for each offense.

THE second trial of McMillan, who shot and killed young Commings in Newport, about a year ago was held at Falmouth last week, and the jury failed to agree on the number of years.

THOMAS J. HENRY, Clerk of the Court of Appeals, was arrested and incarcerated in the Central Police Station at Louisville, one day last week, for drunkenness and insulting ladies on the street.

THE U. S. House committee on naval affairs recommends the construction of five large war vessels, one at a government yard hereafter to be determined upon, and four to be given out by private contract.

TREASURER TATE has notified the Auditor that he could pay no more money on warrants, the cash in the Treasury being exhausted. This may cause the Legislature to "April fool" the people, and adjourn the first of next month.

THE number of men now on a strike in the United States is computed to be about 51,000, of which number over 21,000 are coal strikers, against about 18,000 a year ago. The principle object of the strike is to get same amount of wages formerly given.

ROBT. FOWLER, who murdered his neice, Miss Durnett, last August, near Boxvill, this State, and sentenced to be hanged, has been refused a respite by the Governor, and April 23rd, 1886, is the day fixed for the execution.

THE government has decided to raise the price of the liquor license and has fixed the scales, in cities of over 20,000 inhabitants, $250; under 20,000, $200; in towns, $150; in villages; $130 and in townships, $100. Saloon licenses in cities will be $300 and in towns $250.

THE check for $250,000, lately sent to Mrs. Grant by the publisher of the General's memoirs, is the largest sum of money ever paid to an author or his representatives. Macauley received $100,000 for his "History of England," and the largest sum ever received by Sir Walter Scott from his publisher was $200,000.

THE President sent his first veto message to Congress last Wednesday. The act of Congress vetoed was one rostoring Lieutenant Colis McBlair to the retired list of the army. The President took the ground that President Lincoln in dropping him from the retired list was governed by wise reasons, and that there was nothing in his case which should make it an exception to the general rule. In the opinion of the President there are hundreds of cases more meritorious.

There is a peculiar case in the Superior Court at Frankfort. A mountain man in Eastern Kentucky killed a dog named Tom Jones. The owner of the dog had the man who killed the dog indicted before the grand jury for killing a man named Tom Jones. The case was in the courts a long time before the fraud was discovered, and the cost to the State has been nearly $100,000. This is only one instance of the many frauds perpetrated on the State. Let each county pay the cost of its own prosecutions and such frauds will be in a great degree averted.—Lexington Press.

THE Sun's misinformed correspondent complains of the slowness with which the work of removal has gone on. Let us see. The Administration was inaugurated the 4th day of March last. We will allow it thirty days to prepare for work. From the 3d day of April to the 1st day of January there were 222 working days, during which 15,000 fourth-class post masters were removed and others appointed in their places. This at the rate of 67 a day, and giving 10 hours to the day, at the rate of about 7 an hour—or a removal and an appointment for every 9 minutes of time.—N. Y. Star.

FEW, indeed, are the preachers who have reaped so rich a pecuniary harvest from their labors in pulpit and platform as Rev. Henry Ward Beecher. The Plymouth pastor estimates his earnings during the last forty years as follows: Salary as preacher, $320,000; lecture fees, $240,000; wedding fees, $50,000; sundry publications, $100,500; incidentals, $40,000—making a grand total of $750,000. Mr. Beecher considers that the laborer is worthy of his hire, and, in his instance, the laborer has certainly had it. He has not hoarded his money, however. One of the most generous of hosts and accommodating of friends, he has been liberal in his entertainment both in town and country, and lavish almost to folly in his loans. He still has a handsome competence left for his declining years.—N. Y. Star.

IN the debate in the House, on the Pension Bill, Col. W. C. P. Breckinridge expressed himself in favor of liberal pension, and thought that it should always be policy of the republic to pay generous pensions. Having no standing army it was the policy of the republic to say to all of her sons that in time of war a part of her contract was, that if they fell their families should be taken care of, and, that if they were disabled, they should be compensated for the loss of power to earn money; but there must be some economic and statesmanly consideration both as to persons and amount. It was not a matter of sentiment which must decide the rate, but a matter of wise calculation. He closed his speech with an eloquent peroration descriptive of the beautiful cemetery at Lexington, which contains the graves of fathers and sons and brothers, who had fallen in opposing ranks in the terrible struggle of the war and of the peaceful lives of the descendants of those men who, thought they had been divided in a sense of duty, had never been divided in their love. "As an American representative," he said "treating of American questions, loving the American people, denying that this is a paternal Goverment, denying that taxes should be wrung from the people, except from necessity, I shall vote my own convictions treating with contempt any effort to intimidate or any purpose to misconstruc."

Gee. Leib, a colored carpenter, of Savannah, Ga., fell backward from a third story scaffolding the other day, turned a complete somersault, struck squarely on his head, looked around to see if any one was hurt, and quietly climbed back to his work.—Henderson News.

To the Editors of the Recorder:

I enclose to you a poem, recently brought to the attention of the public by Mrs. Harriot Cornelius, of Rising Sun, Ind., which is of peculiar historic interest to the people of Boone county, Ky. The author was Mrs. Mary Lane, then wife of Hon. Amos Lane, subsequently a Democratic member of Congress from the Lawrenceburg, Ind., District, and father of Hon. Geo. W. Lane, of Dearborn county, Indiana, and Gen. J. H. Lane, of Kansas. It was written in 1813 a few weeks after the bloody battle, or more correctly speaking, the fiendish massacre, at the River Raisin, in which Kentucky lost so many of her gallant sons, Boone county furnishing a number of those murdered on that memorable occasion. At the time Mrs. Lane wrote the poem she was residing with her family at Tonseytown, on the Kentucky shore, directly across the Ohio river from Lawrenceburg, and a short distance below the celebrated "Boone House." She was then teaching school in her family residence, Mrs. Cornelius, formerly Miss Harriet Smith, being a pupil. Mrs. Cornelius was a favorite of Mrs. Lane and after the poem was written she gave it to Mrs. C., who preserved it in Mrs. Lane's own hand writing unto this day.

Mrs. Lane was a lady of refinement, liberally educated, and was possessed of ardent, patriotic impulses, as the literary gem inclosed clearly indicates. She was acquainted with nearly all of the persons of distinction in letters who resided in the west in the days of her life, and commanded the esteem of all such who formed her acquaintance. Gen. Lewis Cass, U. S. Senator for Michigan, who, on several occasions stopped at Mrs. Lane's house going to and returning from Washington, once remarked that Mrs. Lane was a lady of superior intellectual endowments, and of Gen. Cass it may truthfully be said, he never indulged in flattery.

In Raisin massacre Capt. Sebree, of Boone county, commanded a company of men, numbering about 60. Would it not be, all this time, of great historic interest to the people of Kentucky, also of Indiana, if the RECORDER would ascertain and publish a roll of that company? I am certain it would be appreciated with lively interest in Dearborn county, Indiana, and I trust it will be done in connection with the beautiful poem I enclose to you.

Very Respectfully.

OMAR F. ROBERTS.

Oh! dear Kentucky, what a dreadful fate
Has met the sons of thy illustrious State!
What tongue can tell the direful scene of woe,
Or who in numbers paint the horrid foe
That with such fury struck the deadly blow?
Oh! where is now that chosen valiant band,
The pride and glory of this happy land—
The hoary veteran, by experience taught,
The able statesman, he with wisdom fraught,
The melting orator with fame renowned—
Profound from science and with virtue crowned—
The youthful hero, the fond matron's pride!—
The industrious planter leaves his fireside:
All, all unite, their country's rights to save—
And all, alike, sink in one dreary grave!
Stop tears, thou must not flow! The hour's too late;
Revenge, revenge, or share thy brothers' fate.
Our proud Kentucky sees her richest blood
Down Raisin's banks deecnding like a flood!
With indignation every breast must swell,
And every arm be raised for those that fell.
Rise, heroes, rise, their mangled virtues cry;
Rise, and revenge their death or with them die!
For what is life unless we nobly live,
And what is death, if valiantly we die?

KENTUCKY BARD.

The Pension Fraud.

It is natural to suppose that the number of persons drawing pensions would gradually become smaller. We read from time to time of ex-soldiers dying, but according to the pension rolls the average pensioner rarely draws his last breath.

Strange to say, the war widow, who has been described as one of the most deplorable results of our civil struggle, is on the increase.

It would also seem strange that beign pierced through the vitals by a cannon ball, or being punched with a bayonet in some part of the human frame with a Latin name might interfere with a man living to a green old age, but the pension rolls don't show it.

To deal with this question seriously we may remark that, like charity, the pension list covers not only a multitude of sins, but a vast army of sinners.

The steadily increasing number of veterans is a high tribute to the enterprise and goaheaditiveness of the American people which ought to be sat down on. It also fills the taxpayer two-thirds full of anxiety.

To make matters worse there is a generous rivalry among members of Congress to make political capital by devising fancy pension schemes. This is not right. If they give up their minds entirely to the pension they must neglect poker. What's to become of the lobby if Congressmen think of nothing else except pension schemes?—Texas Siftings.

MR. EDISON is married. We may look out for an electric baby-rocker in the near future.—Lou. Times.

A Bit of Advice to Boys.

No one wants a boy who is seeking an easy place; yet just here is the difficulty with thousands. They want easy work and are afraid of earning more than their wages.

They have strength to be out late at night, to indulge in vices and habits which debilitate them; they have strength enough to waste on wine, beer or tobacco all of which leave them weaker than before; they have strength to run and leap and wrestle, but they think they have not the strength to do hard work.

Will the boys let us advise them? Go in for the hard places; bend yourself to the task of showing how much you can do. Make yourself serviceable to your own employer at whatever cost to your own personal ease and if you do this he will soon find that he cannot spare you, and when you have learned how to work you may be sent to teach others, and so when the easy places are to be had they will be yours. Life is toilsome at best to most of us, but the easy places are at the end, and not at the beginning, of life's course. They are to be won, not accepted, and a man who is bound to have an easy place may as well understand that the grave is the only place within the reach of lazy people.—Boston Budget.

MONTENEGRIN WOMEN.

Their Hard Lot as Servants to Willful Husbands.

The Montenegrin woman is in many respects an object of pity to the travelers who pass through the strange little principality, but there is no woman in the country who would not be grievously offended at any show of sympathy. To work incessantly and to suffer is the destiny of the women of this race. They are not even welcomed into the world. A Montenegrin father, when asked by his neighbor what the sex of his new-born child is, answers: "God pardon me! it is a girl." Sometimes he says: "It is a serpent," which is a poetical manner of expressing his regret at the birth of a daughter. The girl grows up neglected and often cursed. She carries fagots of wood on her head in order that she may earn a few coins with which to buy arms for her brothers. She has no youth. At twenty-five she seems already old. She is married young, and cares for her children while supporting labor in the fields which would be hard even for strong men. She trembles before her father, her brother, her husband; she only awakens to freedom and independence of action when excited by the noise of the combat, to which she frequently follows the warriors. She urges them on, and loads their guns, and dresses their wounds. The Montenegrin woman is rarely beautiful of feature, and the coarse work which she performs soon ruins her form. Her virtue is beyond reproach; intrigues are unknown in Montenegro, and gallantry would find a sharp reproof at the point of a yataghan. The women wander unattended wherever they please throughout the country; for while a Montenegrin warrior would never think of relieving a woman from the heavy burden of fagots or provisions which she may be fainting under, and while he may, perhaps, rail at her for her weakness, he would not by word or deed offer her the slightest insult. The woman is almost servile with regard to her husband: if she sees him coming along the road, she turns off, or passes him rapidly, that he may not be compelled to recognize her. Should the warrior be seen wasting his time in loitering by his wife's side he would be subjected to reproach from the elders in the village. A few years since one could not have found in the whole of Montenegro one woman knowing how to read or write. Latterly some few schools to which women have access have been established.

The duties of hospitality all fall upon the woman: It is she who unlaces the boots of the stranger when he arrives, and who washes his feet, who serves at the table and holds the flaming pine knot by which the others see to eat. The husband does not even notice his wife unless it be to request some menial service of her.

It is a wonder Montenegrin babies ever live through the severe course of swaddling which they undergo from their earliest day until they are weaned. They are strapped to boards and slung over the backs of their mothers, and thus, winter and summer, they make long journeys in the mountains and among the rocks.

When the husband falls ill it is not the wife who cares for him, but his parents. Etiquette demands that the wife should not appear indifferent to his condition, and should attend to her duties in house and field as if he were in no danger. But when he dies she is expected to burst into loud lamentations, and in all the country round sing the praises of his courage and his prowess in front of the enemy.

This overworked and much-abused creature has one gracious accomplishment; the Montenegrin woman is exceedingly expert in embroideries, and they are a prominent feature of the national costume. The women work at them when they are walking along the roads, bearing upon their heads burdens which seem heavy enough to crush a pack-horse.—From Edward King's "Europe in Storm and Calm."

A Mock Polar-Bear Hunt.

The mock polar-bear hunt is a favorite game among the Esquimau boys. A few lines will describe it. One of the boys of the village gets a polar-bear robe, and wrapping it around him after he is out among the ice-hummocks about the village, he comes crawling along some sledge path near the ig'loos, when he is discovered by the dogs and surrounded. This is likely to be very rough sport: for the boys take their spears and jab away at their brother in the bear robe, until you would think they would break some his ribs; while the dogs, emboldened by those supposed brave advances, oftentimes take big bites of fur from the dangling edges of the robe. The mock bear rears up on his hind feet and growls in a very ferocious manner, until, worn out at last with his hard work and with having his head so tightly covered up with a heavy robe, he finally falls over at some thrust of a spear and pretends to expire. But the next moment he crawls out from the robe, much to the disgust of the dogs, with their hopes of a fine meal of bear flesh.—Lieutenant Fredrick Schwatka, in St. Nicholas.

THE "Pleuro-pneumonia" cattle bill, which was vetoed by the Governor and again passed by the Senate over the veto, was so passed by the House last Friday and is now a law.

Louisville has sold this year 11,288 hhds. of new tobacco, while Cincinnati has sold 965.

R E A D!

Feeling the urgent necessity of a first-class Drug Store in Bellevue, and ever willing to cater to the wishes of a generous public I have just opened a fresh stock of Drugs & Patent Medicines.

— Terry & Co's Brands of Tea. —

Ibold's Brand of Cigars & Tobacco.

—Perfumery and Fancy Toilet Articles.—

Paints Ready For Use,

From a gallon can down to the smallest.

WHITE LEAD, OILS, VARNISHES, DYE-Stuffs, Brushes, Etc., Etc.

I will furnish to any one wishing to paint their house or barn, any kind of paint at two days notice, at the lowest cash prices. Give me a call.

A good barber shop attached and work satisfactory.

W. M. BALSLY.

1886 THE COURIER-JOURNAL. 1886

AN ORGAN OF
LIVING IDEAS AND LIVE ISSUES.
AN ENEMY OF
Monopolies, Oligarchism, and the Spirit of Sectional Strife.

The Courier-Journal (HENRY WATTERSON Editor-in-Chief), is the acknowledged Representative Newspaper of the South, is Democratic in politics, and first, last, and all the time is for a reduction of the War Taxes as levied on the people by the tariff now in force.

The Weekly Courier-Journal

is the best weekly newspaper published in the United States, and for the quantity and quality of matter that appears in each issue of it, it is the CHEAPEST. Its telegraphic news far littles untelass any other paper, and it has the services of the ablest writers and correspondents in the country. It presents the news of the week from every section of the World. It gives to its readers throughout the year a greater number of Serial and Short Stories by prominent and popular writers than any of the high-priced magazines. It is in every respect a Model Political and Family Paper.

The Weekly Courier-Journal has by far the Largest Circulation of any Democratic Newspaper in America.

It is acknowledged by press and people throughout the United States to be a great paper; great in size; great in enterprise; great in ability; great in its correctness of information; great in variety; great in every sense of the word. It is the paper that everybody should have. To be without it is a great opportunity lost. Those who once take it are not willing to be without it in their homes.

FREE PREMIUMS.

A list of handsome and useful premiums of great variety are offered free to yearly subscribers. On receipt of a request for them, we send free of charge a sample copy of Weekly Courier-Journal and our Premium Supplement, giving our full list of premiums, to any address.

SUBSCRIPTION TERMS.

Weekly, one year, including a free premium ... $1.50
Weekly, in clubs of five and over, without premium, each ... 1.10

For every club of five names sent us at one time, the sender of club will be sent as a present any one of our free premiums selected by him.

Daily, (except Sunday), one year ... $10.00
Daily, (except Sunday), six months ... 5.00
Daily, (except Sunday), one month ... 1.00
Sunday, one year ... 2.00
Sunday, six months ... 1.00

No traveling agents are employed by the Courier-Journal, but a good local agent is wanted for it in every community, to whom a liberal cash commission is allowed. If the Courier-Journal has no local agent in your neighborhood, send to us for our Agent's Canvassing Outfit, which we send free of charge. All subscription orders, requests for outfits, sample copies, etc., should be addressed to

W. N. HALDEMAN,
President Courier-Journal Co.,
LOUISVILLE, KY.

REPORT OF THE CONDITION

OF THE

Farmers & Traders National Bank

AT COVINGTON.

In the State of Kentucky, at the close of business, March 1, 1886.

RESOURCES.

Loans and discounts		$577,951 88
Overdrafts		2,283 04
U.S. Bonds to secure circulation		50,000 00
U. S. Bonds on hand		100,000
Due from approved reserved agents		55,808 76
Due from other Nat'l Banks		7,404 52
Due from banks and bankers		4,741 23
Real est., furniture & fixtures		1,668 91
Current expenses and taxes		2,159 22
Premiums paid		31,512 70
Checks and other cash items	842 31
Bills of other Banks	3,000 00
Frac. paper currency, nickles and pennies	130 27
Specie	10,660 00
Legal tender notes	25,000 00	39,572 61
Redemption fund with U. S. Treas. (5 per cent. circulation)		2,250 00
Total		$878,153 67

LIABILITIES.

Capital stock pd in		$300,000 00
Surplus fund	$30,000 00
Undivided profits	13,408 05	43,408 05
Nat'l Bank notes outstanding		45,000 00
Individual depts subject to check	363,452 09
U. S. Deposits	75,000
Due to other N'tl Banks	25,240 29
Due to State B'ks and bankers	26,053 24	489,745 67
Total		$878,153 67

State of Kentucky, County of Kenton ss
I, John L. Sandford, Cashier of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

JOHN L. SANDFORD, Cashier.

James S. Wayne, Pres't.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 6th day of March, 1886.

A. KLOENTRUP, Notary Public.

Correct—Attest:
M. C. Motch, }
J. H. Mersmann, } Directors.
E. J. Hickey, }

FARM IMPLEMENTS.

Buy your Farming Implements, Fence Wire, Cutting Boxes, Feed Grinders, Corn Shellers, Road Scrapers, Excavating Carts, Sewing Machines, Mowers and Reapers and

Deering TWINE Binders,

GROCERIES, &c.

READY MIXED PAINT.

—of—

J. C. Smith,

Successor to W. H. Hill & Co.

22 and 24 EAST THIRD STREET,

Cincinnati, Ohio.

Or of our local Agent C. W. RILEY, North Bend, Ohio, (Ky. Box). All goods sold strictly on their merits.

OPIUM and WHISKY HABITS cured at home without pain. BOOK of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.

County Directory.

OFFICERS.

Assessor—G. M. Riley.
Jailer—Samuel Cowen.
County Surveyor—W. E. Vest.
Coroner.—Dr. A. A. Murat, Constance.
Superintendent of Schools—H. J. Foster

COURTS.

CIRCUIT COURT meets the 2d Monday in April and first Monday in October, P. U. Major, Judge; W. L. Riddell, Clerk A. G. DeJarnette, Commonwealths Attorney; W. L. Riddell, Trustee Jury Fund.

COUNTY COURT meets the first Monday in every month. L. H. Dills, Judge; S. W. Tolin, County Attorney. M. T. Garnett, Clerk; J. R. Clutterbuck, Sheriff, T. W. Finch and W. T. German, Deputy Sheriffs.

QUARTERLY COURT meets the first Monday in March, June, September and December. The officers of the County Court preside.

COURT OF CLAIMS meets the first Monday in November.

MAGISTRATES' COURTS are held in March, June, September and December, as follows:

Bellevue—M. B. Green, first Saturday, and T. H. Sutton, third Monday. J. M. Moody, Constable.

Burlington—E. H. Baker, Thursday after first Monday, and Oscar Gaines, fourth Monday. C. W. Saxton, Constable.

Carlton A. G. McConnell, Wednesday after second Monday, and R. H. Ryle, Saturday after third Monday. Charles H Aera, Constable.

Petersburg—Jas. Hensley, Wednesday after first Monday, and L. A. Loder fourth Saturday. Geo. Comer, Constable.

Beever—W. M. Rouse, Friday after the third Monday, and Andrew Ellis, Fiday after 1st Monday. T. J. Coyle, Constable.

Union—M. C. Norman, Thursday after third Monday, and H. Bannister, Thursday after second Monday. H. G. Blanton, Constable.

Hamilton—F. M. Howlett, Tuesday after second Monday; W. W. Garnett, Wednesday after third Monday. R. L. Roberts Constable.

Walton—T. F. Carley, second Friday. S. F. Johnson, Tuesday after second Friday Al Arnold, Constable.

Verona—J. P. Vest, Tuesday after first Monday, J. J. Brumback, Tuesday after third Monday, J. H. Callahan, constable.

Florence—T. K. Dixon, third Saturday. Joe Wagstaff, second Saturday. Craig Pettit, Constable.

Taylorsport—A. B. Whitlock, fourth Monday, W. A. Goodridge, third Saturday Thos. Watts, constable.

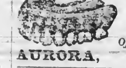
ROBERT B. REED
Attorney at Law.
OFFICE AT UNION, KY

F. RIDDELL. H. P. STEPHENS.
RIDDELL and STEPHENS,
ATTORNEYS at LAW
BURLINGTON, KY.
☞ Office over Dudley House's Store. ☜

W. E. VEST,
COUNTY SURVEYOR
WALTON, KY.

Is prepared to do all kinds of surveying. All orders sent him through the mail to Walton, will receive his prompt attention.

DR. A. B. HARRYMAN,



Resident
Dentist.
Office over Post-Office.
AURORA, INDIANA.

E. E. IGOE,

Resident Dentist.
Rising Sun, Ind.
WITH
J. P. Ulrey.
Monday and Tuesday at Rising Sun. Ind
Wednesday and Saturday at Aurora, Ind.
Thursday and Friday at Lawrenceburg.

J. J. Landram. G. G. Hughes.
LANDRAM & HUGHES.
ATTORNEYS at LAW.
Will practice in the Boone Circuit Cour and the Court of Appeals. Prompt atten ion given to Collections, on application t G. G. Hughes, Burlington, Ky.

S. W. TOLIN.
ATTORNEY AT LAW
BURLINGTON, KY
Office in Court-house on 2d floor.
Will manage litigation in any of the Courts of the State, contracts and other legal instruments drawn up at reasonable rates. Aprompt an studious attention given to business intrusted to my care. A trial solicited. 12-1y

W. J. RICE,
CARPENTER & BUILDER,
BULLITSVILLE, KY.
Is prepared Raise or Move
EITHER LOG or FRAME BUILDINGS
On Short Notice,
And at the Lowest Possible Figures.
33-tf Your orders respectfully solicited

LUMBER.

Goe. M. Bedinger & Co.,
Erlanger, - - Ky.

We keep constantly on hand all kinds of Lumber, Laths and Shingles. Also Builder's supplies of all kinds.

—Come and see Us—

JENKINS'

ALMONT,

This renowned trotting stallion and sire of trotters will make the season of 1886, at the stable of John D. Norris, ½ mile from Petersburg, Boone county, Ky., at $30 the season, with the privilege of returning in 1887 should the mare fail to get with foal, money due July 1st, 1886.

Jenkins' Almont was sired by Wither's Almont, the sire of 26 horses with records of 2:30 or better. 1st dam by Toledo; 2nd dam Sonsby Grays Highlander; 3d dam by Conerde Leon, a noted pacer.

Jenkins' Almont is the sire of Bessie G. 2:25¼; Grafton, 2:28¼; Will Henth, trial, 2:21, and others gifted with great trotting speed.

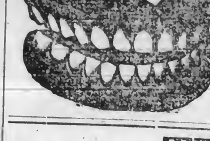
Pasture furnished at $3 per month. Care will be exercised to prevent accidents or escapes, but will not be responsible should any occur. We are endeavoring to give the people of Boone Co., a chance to get a fine colt at a low price. J. D. NORRIS & Co.

City Flouring Mills,
—RISING SUN, INDIANA.—

FLOUR EXCHANGED FOR WHEAT OR CASH. THE HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR GOOD WHEAT.

J. W. TALBOTT.

OHIO STEAM DENTAL CO,
ESTABLISHED 186



47 WEST SEVENTH STREET,
CINCINNATI, O.

TEETH EXTRACTED WITHOUT PAIN by using Fresh Nitrous Oxide Gas.
ARTIFICIAL TEETH made of the best quality and workmanship finish, with guaranteed fit.
OPERATIVE DEPARTMENT handsomely finished and well lighted—the principal having had a life-long experience in the treatment and filling of the natural teeth.

L. ROBERTSON, D.D.S., Principal.

Office and Residence, 47 W. 7th St., two blocks north of Fountain Square, (formerly 7th Walnut and 6th & Vine). Office open at all hours.

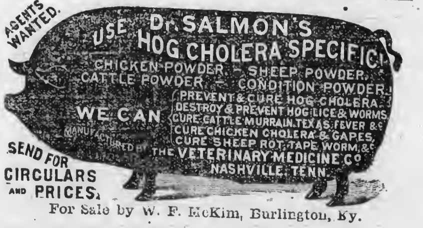
THE
COMBINATION FENCE

A fence that is wanted, and in time will be used by every one that wants a fence, either around the House, Garden or Farm, as it is cheap, durable and serviceable, to keep in check horses, cattle, sheep, hogs, chickens, etc., and restrain wolves, dogs, and rabbits, etc.

Having all the advantages of a picket fence in restraining animals from jumping, and not so liable to decay, and at much less cost, and no barbs to injure valuable stock, thus placing it far in advance of any other fence now in use, hence it must be the fence of the future; all who have it want more.

It is portable and can be removed from field to field by drawing staples from posts, taking out the splice lath and rebundling it. We offer this fence for sale in bundles of five and six rod at Burlington.

DILLS & CRISLER,
Burlington, Ky.

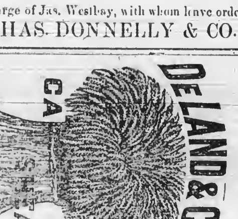


AGENTS WANTED.
USE Dr. SALMON'S HOG CHOLERA SPECIFIC
CHICKEN POWDER — SHEEP POWDER.
CATTLE POWDER — CONDITION POWDER.
WE CAN
PREVENT & CURE HOG CHOLERA.
DESTROY & PREVENT HOG LICE & WORMS.
CURE CATTLE MURRAIN. TEXAS FEVER &c
CURE CHICKEN CHOLERA & GAPES.
CURE SHEEP ROT, TAPE WORM, &c
MANUFACTURED BY THE VETERINARY MEDICINE Co.
NASHVILLE, TENN.
SEND FOR CIRCULARS AND PRICES.

For Sale by W. F. McKim, Burlington, Ky.

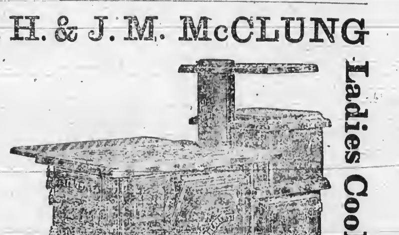
UNDERTAKING.

Branch House of Chas. Donnelly & Co., of Covington, Ky.
AT BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY.
Where a Hearse and all Styles of Burial Cases and Robes can be secured at as Low Figures as at Covington, or elsewhere.
Bodies Embalmed or preserved in a
REFRIGERATOR
When desired. All orders left with our Branch House in Burlington will be promptly attended, and funerals conducted in the best style. The business is in charge of Jas. Westbay, with whom leave orders.
CHAS. DONNELLY & CO.



DE LAND & CO'S
SODA
Best in the World.
For Sale by Dudley Rouse,
Burlington, K.

W. H. & J. M. McCLUNG



Early Breakfast & Ladies Cook Stoves

ALSO A GREAT VARIETY OF HARD and SOFT COAL
HEATING STOVES.
ALL KINDS OF STOVES REPAIRED.
Tin Roofing, Spouting, Guttering, etc., Done to Order.

535 & 537 Madison Ave. - Covington, Ky.
☞ Second Door Below Sixth Street. ☜

Subscribe for the Boone
County Rcorder.

Local News.

A great many bees died last winter

The spring bonnet will begin to ripen soon.

The new roof is being put on the Presbyterian church.

Only two prisoners in jail awaiting the next term of Circuit Court.

Last Saturday was a first-class March day in all of its appointments.

Sheriff Clutterbuck's youngest child has been quite sick for several days.

BOARD—By the meal, day or week.
MRS. CY RIDDELL.

The Aurora Fair will be held on the 17, 18, 19, 20 and 21st days of August,

Ellen Kirtley, colored, died last Saturday after a lingering illness with consumption.

Gracie, little daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Grant, was quite sick a day or two last week.

There will be preaching in the Presbyterian church at this place, every Tuesday night.

We fear that the fine weather is only borrowed and that it will be paid back later in the season.

The potato planting season is at hand and but a limited preparation has been made for the business.

Miss Mary A. Thompson has commenced teaching a spring school in the Bullittsville neighborhood.

Mr. John W. Gaines' family have moved into the house lately occupied by Jo C. Revill near town.

The farmers are taking advantage of the fine weather and are preparing for their crops the coming season.

John J. Rucker has gone to Hot Springs, Arkansas, for his health, being annoyed with rheumatism.

There will be preaching at the forks of Gunpowder on Saturday and Sunday the 27th and 28th of this month.

D. C. Peck, of Trimble county, was in town Tuesday on business as administrator of the late R. M. Johnson.

Some of our citizens have prepared themselves with shot-guns, and will wage war on the little English sparrow.

Buy best quality of perfection coal, at 9 cents per bushel in yard at
STOTT BROS., Petersburg, Ky.

FOR SALE—Wm Fritz's best Corn Beef at 8 cents per pound at B. F. ZIMMER'S, Constance, Boone County, Ky.

Benj. Drake and Miss Eva Lee Baird, of Bellevue, were married at the County Clerks office last Thursday morning, by Judge L. H. Dills.

If you want a pound of Liggett and Myer's best Star Tobacco for 40 cents call at B. F. ZIMMERS, Constance, Boone County, Ky, 14-tf-

To all those who have assisted us in the least in our effort to repair the Burlington Presbyterian church building we extend our thanks.

Prof. Whitehead proposes to build up a good school in Morgan Academy, and we trust that the public will assist him by a liberal patronage.

We hear tha[illegible]rs. Robert Platt and her daughter, Miss Katie, will return to Burlington to make it their home, provided they can secure a house.

Acres of tobacco beds have been prepared, and the indications now are that the coming crop will be equal in extent to any of its predecessors.

WANTED—1,000 men with 40 cents each to buy a pound of Liggett & Myer's, best Star Tobacco, at B. F. ZIMMERS, Constance, Boone County, Ky.

Miss Gustie Kirk returnd home last week, from a three weeks visit with relatives in Covington. She has been quite sick since her return, with the mumps.

Thos. R. Gordon, candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney, is calling on the voters in this county this week. He came to Boone the latter part of last week.

At present the indications are that the country will not be annoyed a great deal this spring with bad roads, which will be a decided digression from the usual run of things.

There was no preaching in the Presbyterian church Tuesday night per appointment. The minister who was expected notified the members that he could not be with them that evening.

Died—March 4, 1886, at the residence of her son, John Tupman, in Kenton county, Mrs. Catherine D. Tupman, wife of T. G. Tupman, decd., in the 84th year of her age. Her remains were placed in the vault at Highland cemetery March 6th.

The Ohio Medical College, Cincinnati, turned out last Wednesday evening seventy-six young M. D's, and among them were James W. Gaines, of Bullittsville, Ky., and Robert L. Grant, of Petersburg, a brother of Dr. J. M. Grant, of this place.

Remember that Geo. Huschart & Co. of Lawrenceburg, Indiana, can always give satisfaction both as to price and style of work, so when you want to buy a tombstone or a monument go to their yard or call on John Beall, of Hebron, Ky., their agent.

Mrs. Ida M. Terrill, wife of Dr. L. B. Terrill, died at her home in Delhi, O., last Saturday night, after an illness of several weeks. The remains were interred in the family cemetery on her grand father's old homestead. The bereaved husband has the sympathy of a large circle of acquaintances in this county.

One of the attractions at the Aurora Fair will be the marriage of a couple to be selected hereafter. President McGuire and Secretary Lastutter, are arranging for many rare attractions, and they will make the Aurora Fair, one worth attending, if energy and the assurance of fair, square treatment count for nothing.—Lawrenceburg Register.

The Greenwood miners who are deprived of work by convict labor at that point are entitled to the sympathy of the public. Legislation should be so directed as to encourage and benefit that class which depends on its labor for a living, instead of hazarding its chances for support by giving convicts a preference.

Prof. Edmons, the Spanish Wizard, gave two of his entertainments at the Court House, Wednesday and Thursday nights of last week, and was very liberally patronized. It appears to be the opinion of all who were present, that he rendered satisfaction. His sword swallowing is certainly worth the small price of admission, besides he performs many feats in legerdemain that are truly wonderful. The laughable play of Punch and Judy, never fails to please the old as well as the young.

James D Allphin, who has been ill for about a year, died at his home in the upper part of the county last Friday. It was thought that if he could pull through this winter his life would be prolonged, but all that loving relatives and friends and medical skill could do was of no avail. It was a general breaking down of the system, or as some think, consumption. The deceased was born near Big Bone Springs, Boone county, June 27th, 1827. He married Miss Elizabeth Roberts, and four children blessed the union, three sons and one daughter. His wife and two sons, Jesse R and Ransom survive him. Mr. Allphin was always a Democrat and when the rebellion broke out he cast his fortunes with the South, enlisting in Capt. George Terrill's company, which was assigned to General D Howard Smith's regiment. He was with Gen. John Morgan on his Ohio raid, and was captured at Buffington Island, July 1863, and incarcerated in the prison at Camp Douglass, at Chicago, where he remained until he was parolled, January, 1865. His imprisonment is supposed to have been the cause of his ill health. In civil life he was a gentleman, honest, frank and esteemed. He was a Knight Templar, belug a member of the Louisville Commandery, and a member of Hamilton Lodge, F. & A. M. He was a valued member of the Christian church for fifteen years. The funeral took place last Saturday under the auspices of Hamilton Lodge. Perry Johnson, the Master, conducted the services over the remains after which they were interred in the family cemetery on the old homestead.—Warsaw Independent.

Improve Your Town.

Talk about it.
Write about it.
Help to improve it.
Speak well about it.
Beautify the streets.
Patronize the merchants.
Advertise in its newspapers.
Elect good men to all the offices.
Speak well of its public spirited, enterprising citizens.

If you are a rich man invest something and employ somebody.

If you don't think of any good work, dont say anything bad about it.

Remember that every dollar you invest in permanent improvement is that much on interest.

Be courteous to strangers that come among you, so that they go away with good impressions.

Always cheer on the men who go in for improvements; your portion of the cost will be nothing only what is just.

Don't kick at any proposed necessary improvements because it is not at your own door, or for fear your taxes will be raised fifty cents.

Don't use rubber stamps on your letter heads—that is a dead give away on your own business, the town and newspapers published in it. Get your letter heads, envelopes, business cards, etc., printed in the printing office.

Never condemn the local paper unless it has unfairly missused you. If it has dealt with you unjustly write to it or go into the office and tell the editor about your case; if he was wrong he will loose no time in telling the public about it.

Don't let politics get mixed up with your business. If you are a business man don't loose the help that a newspaper can give you because its politics are not your politics, and by all means don't advertise to help the printer along, but advertise to help business and the town along.—Ex.

Auditor Hewitt has sent the following circular letters to Sheriffs of the Commonwealth:

Dear Sir:—I must urge you to even extraordinary exertion in collecting the balance of the revenue due April 1.

There is no money in the General Expenditure Fund. A large amount of claims have lain in this office unpaid for over six months. The Legislature is in session, and there is no means of paying their per diem. The only relief from this condition of things lies with the sheriffs. There never was a time when there was more need of diligence on your part, nor was there ever a time when the Auditor was more entirely precluded from granting indulgence to careless, indifferent and delinquent collectors of the revenue. From the very insignificant entries on the credit side of their accounts, it would seem that some few sheriffs have either entirely forgotten or are indifferent to the fact that they are required by law to settle their revenue in full on or before the first day of April. The large majority have, I am glad to say, come up to the full measure of their duty. Those who read this circular will have no difficulty in deciding as to which class they belong. The first mentioned will, I hope, take warning and save me the trouble and themselves the mortification and cost of a suit. The latter will accept my thanks.

By an act of the Legislature, passed two years ago, the Attorney General is entitled to 2 per cent. commission on whatever amount is due from a sheriff at the time notices are mailed.

Resp'ly, FAYETTE HEWITT,
Auditor.

Those who have not paid their taxes for 1886, will confer a favor by paying them before the first day of April, thereby saving themselves the per cent and cost, and myself the unpleasant duty of advertising their property for sale.
J. R. CLUTTERBUCK,
Sheriff of Boone County.

At a meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee the following named officers were selected to serve at the Primary election to be held Saturday, April 3rd, 1886, They will please serve or see that some other good Democrat serves in their place.

N. S. WALTON,
T. F. CURLY,
J. A. WILSON,
J. W. KENNEDY,
J. G. FURNISH.

Florence—Charles Bradford, clerk; Wood Carpenter and S. S. Scott, judges.

Bellevue—D. M. Snyder, clerk; J. S. Huey and A. Corbin, judges.

Walton—W. L. Norman, clerk; Jno. Snow and W. G. Stansifer, judges.

Verona—C. C. Roberts, clerk, J. R. Johnson and J. T. Roberts, judges.

Rabbit Hash—Walter S. Ryle clerk; J. J. Stephens and J. H. Walton, judges.

Petersburg—Elijah Parker, clerk; L. A. Loder and Stephen McWethy, sr., judges.

Bullittsville—Owen Watts, clerk; Jno Stephens Chas. Helm, judges.

Taylorport—Morgan Helm, clerk; W. B. Grubbs and Henry McGlasson, judges.

Union—H. G. Blanton, clerk; J. W. Conner and B. W. Adams, judges.

Beaver—J. O. Griffith, clerk; G. W. Sleet and J. C. Hughes, judges.

Hamilton—G. M. Allen, clerk; F. M. Howlett, and O. M. Huey, judges.

Burlington—T. W. Finch, clerk; J. A. Gaines and S. P. Brady, judges.

Notice to the candidates—In order to avoid confusion, and to have everything arranged systematically at the coming primary election, the committee had poll books prepared and incurred some other necessary expense. To meet that expense, every Democratic candidate, who desires his name placed on the poll books will be taxed 50 cents and can make it known by paying said amount in person or by letter to the undersigned.
J. G. FURNISH,
Chrm'n. Dem. Ex. Com.

Mr. O. P. Tanner is having his house painted.

Joe Reed left Monday morning for Petersburg.

Only twenty-six days until Circuit Court and the convention of the "Big Sixteen."

Rice and Hoffman have the contract and are covering the Presbyterian church.

Rev. Keller, Lutheran, and Rev. Gibson, Universalist, made our office a pleasant call Tuesday.

We are glad to hear that Mr. Allen Conner who has been very sick for several weeks is improving.

Dr. Grant and Perry Stephens are on a race in the garden business. They made the first heat Tuesday.

We acknowledge the receipt of well bound and handsomely printed report of the Commissioner of Agriculture.

WANTED—Music pupils, by an experienced teacher. Terms, 50 cents a lesson.
Miss Lillie Willis,
Bullittsville, Ky.

A FINE BULL—Our fine, red bull will make this season at $5, money due when service rendered.
T. D. Goodridge.
J. J. Berkshire.

It is reported that Davy Hogan has rented the store house at Waterloo, and will go into the dry goods and grocery business at that place shortly.

Some of our citizens planted garden Monday and Tuesday. "The worms catch the early gardens," if they ain't frozen before the worms get out.

We are glad to hear that Mr. Isaac Bally is able to be at his post again, the toll gate near Florence. He can now go about some with the assistance of his crutches.

Local news very scarce this week, and all our correspondents were too busy planting garden and indulging in other out door pleasures to send in the usual amount of neighborhood gossip.

I wish to notify the people of Boone and Kenton counties that I have bought the right to use the Wescott & Gurley Fence, and that the trouble between the Wescott & Gurley fence and the Lenox fence, has been satisfactorily settled. L. O. BRISTOW.

Rev. C. K. Gibson will hold a series of evening meetings at the Universalist church this week, closing Friday evening. Thursday evening he will deliver a lecture on, "Bright and Happy Homes." A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Having affected an arrangement with the Auditor allowing me to draw upon the Sheriff, for the February draft I am therefore, by reason of, this, prepared to pay the teachers of the following districts, to-wit: Nos. 1, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 18, 20, 22, 23, 24, 25, 28, 30, 35, 36, 37, 39, 40, 43, 44, 45, and 46. Also the following colored teachers, Nos. 1, 4 and 7.

Total amount for distribution $2,718 33. H. J. FOSTER, County Superintendent. Burlington, Mch. 15, '86.

We received a letter from Mr. James A. Stewart, last week, of New Boston, Texas, in which he says: "The weather is fine and grass is growing nicely—farmers are getting ready to plant their crops; cattle are doing well; plenty of work going on now, young men come to Texas, if you want to make money. You can come to Texas and take the RECORDER, and hear all the news from Boone, and be as happy as if you were there. I have been in Texas 2 months and I have had better health than I ever had in my life."

NOTICE.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

J. H. Walton, assignee of Davis Bros, &c. Plff
vs
J. W. Davis, &c. Defts

Pursuant to an order made and entered in the above styled action at its October term, 1885, I will, on Monday, the 5th day of April, 1886, at the Court House door, at or about 1 o'clock p. m. in Burlington, Ky., sell to the highest bidders all of the uncollected judgments, notes, accounts and other choses in action now in my hands, belonging to said assigned estate.

J. H. WALTON, Assignee.
March 16, 1886.

Take the Recorder.

SIBERIA.

Its Manufacturing Industries and Commercial Importance.

In the region of the Amoor, the industries are of very small extent, chiefly on account of lack of means of transportation. The only possible communication at present is upon the rivers, and is completely closed during a great part of the year, when the rivers are impassable for both boats and sledges. This is unfortunate, for on the borders of this immense territory lie important industrial interests.

At the sources of the tributaries of the Amoor are gold mines; Kamschatka and the neighboring islands produce valuable furs; the island of Saghalin has rich and excellent coal deposits. Moreover, in the southern part, in the so-called Usuri region, are rich timberlands and some land even capable of cultivation. The pursuit of these industries, with the fisheries and coal mines, would make this Usuri region a valuable source of revenue; at present, however, they are very slightly developed, and that mostly by Americans and Chinese, rather than by Russians. The latter, however, are making strenuous exertions to colonize the territory, and thus avail themselves of its resources.

The industries of the two western provinces, Tobolsk and Tomsk, are somewhat farther advanced; these two provinces contain over eighty per cent. of all the manufactories of Siberia. According to the official reports there are 2,300 of these, of which 1,460 are in Tobolsk and 650 in Tomsk. In all 12,500 hands are employed, and 14,000,000 roubles value produced annually. The most important class of manufactures is that which uses raw animal materials—dyeing and tallow rendering establishments, etc. The class next in importance includes the distilleries, breweries and flour mills. Besides these there are numerous soap, candle and glue factories, carriage factories, rope walks, felt-boot making establishments, etc. These latter can scarcely be called factories, but are rather of the nature of small work-shops. Except the mines and the smelting works closely connected with them, there is very little manufacture of mineral products in Siberia. There is one exception in the case of considerable glass works, which produce 200,000 roubles' worth annually. There are also small potteries and brick kilns. The only textile manufacturing worthy of notice is done in a single establishment in Tjumen, which produces annually 200,000 roubles' worth of army cloth. The needs of the people in this line are almost entirely supplied by household manufactures. Many knit and woven woolen articles prepared in this way find a market even in European Russia.

In all the Siberian manufactures there is almost no national division of labor or management of capital. The same person is often both capitalist and laborer, and the production of the raw material goes hand in hand with the manufactures. The manufactories are distributed here and there about the country, where the raw material is to be had to the best advantage, for transportation is difficult and costly.

Many products, even those which have a wide demand, produce a bad impression on account of their clumsiness and tasteless execution. The low standard of living and education among the peasants, who are the principal customers, is the main cause of this. For instance, in a town of Tobolsk are produced coarse, clumsy muskets with flint locks, which, nevertheless, find a ready sale at a good price, even as far as East Siberia and Amoor.

In general, however, manufacturing has taken many steps in advance in Siberia within the last fifteen years. In many places machinery has taken the place of hand labor, better processes in tanning, dyeing, etc., have been introduced, and a general improvement is noticeable in the quality of all the productions. With better means of transportation and an infusion of European enterprise, Siberia will yet contribute an important share to the resources of the world.—Science.

ALL HASH TO HIM.

An Ingenious Westerner Who Believed in Calling Things by Their Right Names.

The daughter of a Boston merchant of great wealth, wide mercantile connections and boundless hospitality was lately married. The Western agent of the merchant happened to be in town, and, as the proud father was inviting about everybody to his daughter's wedding he invited the Westerner, too.

The Westerner came. He was uneasy, and shifted about from place to place in the house as if he were hunting for spots that fitted him better than those he had been in. He put his hands nonchalantly on things and took them off again suddenly, as if he found them hot, and grinned familiarly at people he had never seen before, and then suddenly drew his features back with a ghastly solemnity. It seemed to be an occasion of great and overwhelming novelty to him.

When the refreshments came around he was inclined to fight shy of pretty nearly everything. It was as if he proposed to take on a little Boston formality, now that he was in Boston, and require an introduction to every dish. His host saw that he wasn't eating much, and came around to see about it.

"Why, you aren't eating anything, Mr. West," said he. "Can't I help you to something?"

"No, I thank you," said the Westerner, "I ain't very hungry to-night. I reckon I've eat enough."

Just then a waiter came along with some croquettes.

"Mr. West, take one of these croquettes; I think you'll like them; take one, take one."

The Westerner took one. He punched it with his fork, laid it open a bit, and examined it critically. Then he tasted it and exclaimed:

"Gosh! Hash!"—Boston Record.

—Prosecuting Attorney to prisoner—What provocation, Mr. Smith, had you for shooting the deceased? Prisoner—He called me Mr. Smith instead of calling me Colonel Smith. That's why. During the subsequent proceedings Mr. Smith was referred to as General Smith.—Texas Siftings.

NOTICE.

The stockholders of the Petersburg & Burlington turnpike company are hereby notified that an election will be held in the towns of Petersburg and Burlington on the 1st Monday in April 1886, for the purpose of electing a president and five directors for the ensuing year. N. S. WALTON, Sectly.

LAND FOR SALE.

50 acres good land near Constance, this county. All in grass and well watered. Terms easy—apply to this OFFICE.

FOR SALE!

Henry County Farm of 120 acres, situated on pike 1 mile from Smithfield, on Louisville & Lexington Railroad, 35 miles from Louisville. Said farm has on it a good frame house, of 8 rooms, good barn and all other outbuildings, and never failing water, convenient to good schools and churches. The land is first-class, all in grass but 25 acres, which is in wheat, 25 acres of fine tobacco land which has never been cultivated. Terms reasonable. For further information apply to

B. D. SPURGIN, Smithfield, Ky.
Henry county. 52-3m

CLORE'S SONS,

—o— Manufacturers of —o—

Agricultural Implements,

—:— SUCH AS —:—

Steel Turning & Side Hill Plow,

Road Plows, Double Shovels, Single Shovels, Bar Shovel Gophers, Harrows, Jumping Shovels and Rolling Colters.

RISING SUN, - - IND.

Send for Illustrated Price List. 13-3m

INSURE AT HOME

The Farmers' Mutual Fire

INSURANCE COMPANY

Of Boone County

Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.

Its Rates are Lower

Than those of any other Company, and it gives the farmers of Boone County a

HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE

In keeping their property insured.

EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY

should take a policy at once.

J. A. GAINES, President, Burlington, Ky.
J. H. WALTON, Secretary, Constance, Ky.
R. RANDALL, Treasurer.

DIRECTORS.

LEGRAN GAINES. B. L. RICE.
JNO. STEPHENS.
OSCAR GAINES, Agent.
R. S. COWEN, Assessor

COMMISSIONER'S NOTICE.

Boone Circuit Court.

Lewis Rice, &c. Plffs.
vs in equity.
E. L. Northcutt, &c. Dfts.

The parties to this action are hereby notified that the undersigned, as Master Commissioner of said court, will, on the 4th day of Feb'y, 1886, at the Circuit Clerk's office in Burlington begin his sittings in this case, and take and hear such proof as may be offered by the parties, and that he will adjourn from Thursday to Thursday until his sittings shall be completed.

Given under my hand as Master Commissioner aforesaid, this 12th day of January, 1886.

W L RIDDELL, M C B C C

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that Mrs. C. Fanny Latham, of Florence, Ky., wife of Robt. E. Latham, who is made defendant to the cause, has filed her petition in equity in the Boone Circuit Court, asking to be made a feme sole; and to be empowered to trade, and make conveyances in her own rights, as if she were a single woman.

C. FANNY LATHAM.
By R. Richardson, atty.
Feby. 6, 1886.

COMMISSIONER'S NOTICE.

Boone Circuit Court.

John T. Conner's assignee, Plff.
vs in equity.
John T. Conner, &c. Dfts.

The parties to this action are hereby notified that the undersigned, as Master Commissioner of said court, will, on the 3d day of Feb'y. 1886, at the Circuit Clerk's office in Burlington begin his sittings in this case, and take and hear such proof as may be offered by the parties, and that he will adjourn from Wednesday until Wednesday until his sittings shall be completed. Claims against Jno. T. Northcutt and Conner & Northcutt must be presented properly proven.

Given under my hand, as Master Commissioner aforesaid, this 12th day of January, 1886.

W. L. RIDDELL, M C B C C.

THE STAR

A Newspaper supporting the Principles of a Democratic Administration,

Published in the City of New York.

WILLIAM DORSHEIMER,

Editor and Proprietor.

Daily, Sunday, and Weekly Editions.

THE WEEKLY STAR,

A Sixteen-page Newspaper, issued every Wednesday.

A clean, pure, bright and interesting

FAMILY PAPER.

It contains the latest news, down to the hour of going to press:

Agricultural,
Market,
Fashion,
Household,
Political,
Financial and Commercial,
Poetical, Humorous and Editorial

Departments, all under the direction of trained journalists of the highest ability. Its sixteen pages will be found crowded with good things from beginning to end.

Original stories by distinguished American and foreign writers of fiction.

THE DAILY STAR,

The DAILY STAR contains all the news of the day in an attractive form. Its special correspondence by cable from London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna and Dublin is a commendable feature.

At Washington, Albany, and other news centers, the ablest correspondents, specially retained by the THE STAR, furnish the latest news by telegraph.

Its literary features are unsurpassed.

The Financial and Market Reviews are unusually full and complete.

Special terms and extraordinary inducements to agents and canvassers.

Send for circulars.

TERMS OF THE WEEKLY STAR TO SUBSCRIBERS, FREE OF POSTAGE in the United States and Canada, outside the limits of New York City:

Per year....................$1 25
Clubs of Ten................10 00
Clubs of Fifteen (and one extra to organizer)....15 00

TERMS OF THE DAILY STAR TO SUBSCRIBERS:

Every day for one year (including Sunday)....$7 00
Daily, without Sunday, one year........6 00
Every day, six months.................3 50
Daily, without Sunday, six months.......3 00

Address, THE STAR,
26 and 28 North William St., New York.

Subscribe for the Recorder.

ATTENTION!

TOBACCO

Shippers and Raisers, you can buy

Tobacco Hogheads,

Set up or Knock Downs,

AT THE COMPANY'S MILLS

At Lawrenceburg or Aurora, Ind.

Orders by mail will meet our prompt attention.

Exposition Medal Awarded for 1884.

$5.00 and Upwards

For a Beautiful Single Set of Teeth. Extracting without pain included.

DR. DeJOHNS.

In attendance at the office. Gold fillings $1 and upwards. Amalgam 50c. Gas and Spray used. All work warranted.

Will be in Burlington the first Monday in each month, County Court.

J. C. ALLEN, 327 Vine Str., Cor. 9th, Cincinnati, Ohio.

COMMISSIONER'S NOTICE.

R. D Hedges, &c. Plffs.
vs in equity.
James Marshall's heirs, &c. Dfts.

The parties to this action are hereby notified that the undersigned Master Commissioner of said court, will, on the 4th day of March 1886 at the Circuit Clerk's office in Burlington, Ky., begin his sittings in this case, and take and hear such proof as may be offered by the parties, and will adjourn from Thursday to Thursday until his sittings shall be completed. All claims against the estate of Jas Marshall must be presented properly proven. Given under my hand, as Master Commissioner aforesaid, this 23 day of Feb'y, 1886.

W. L. RIDDELL, M C B C C

IMMUNITY from ANNOYANCE

Made only of the finest and best quality of Glass for withstanding heat.

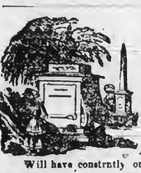
Every good thing is Counterfeited, and consumers are CAUTIONED against IMITATIONS of these Chimneys made of VERY POOR GLASS. See that the exact label is on each chimney as above. The Pearl Top is always clear and bright Glass.

Manufactured ONLY by

GEO. A. MACBETH & CO.

Pittsburgh Lead Glass Works.

FOR SALE BY DEALERS.



AURORA MARBLE AND GRANITE WORKS, Aurora, Ind

Will have constantly on hand

Marble and Granite Monuments,

Italian & American Headstones, &c.

I am ready to do all kinds of Stone Work on short notice and at low prices Hoping to receive the patronage of Boone County, I am respectfully,

F. W. KASSEBAUM.

PIANOS-ORGANS

The demand for the improved MASON & HAMLIN PIANOS is now so large that a second addition to the factory has become imperative. Do not require one-quarter as much tuning as Pianos on the prevailing wrest-pin system. Consult Catalogue, free. 100 Styles of ORGANS, $22 to $900. For Cash, Easy Payments, or Rented.

Mason & Hamlin Organ and Piano Co.,
NEW YORK : BOSTON : CHICAGO.

AGENTS WANTED

FOR

The PEOPLES CYCLOPEDIA.
FARM & STOCK CYCLOPEDIA.
THOMPSONS' MEDICAL ADVISER.
PIONEER HISTORY.

Address

THE CAPITOL PUBLISHING CO.,
P. O. Box 159, Cincinnati, O.

Subscribe for the RECORDER.

TAKE THE

RECORDER,

H. F. BLASE

540 MADISON AVE.
Covington. - Ky.

FALL GOODS ARE ALL IN.

5,000 NEW ELEGANT DESIGNS TO SELECT FROM.

SUITS AND OVERCOATS MADE TO ORDER ON SHORT NOTICE.

We Guarantee Goods, Fit and Workmanship.

We have also manufactured over 1,000 Suits and Overcoats during the dull season, made out of good material and by good workmen, which we can sell as low as any house in the country.

CALL AND SEE US.

H. F. BLASE,

540 MADISON AVE. COVINGTON, KY.

STOTT BROS,

PETERSBURG, KY.

We are still in the trade with a better class of Fall & Winter Goods and Lower Prices than was ever known in this county. We can sell you direct from one of the leading factories of the country, at from 15 to 20 per cent. less than last years prices, and warranted to be No. 1 goods as they will show for themselves.

FLANNELS

OUR YARNS,

are first-class and cheaper than ever before offered. We are agents for the Shaker Yarn, old fashioned or long reel, double cut, 120 threads to the cut, best in the market.

BLANKETS,

Very cheap. We keep a general assortment of Dry Goods Notions, Boots and Shoes, Hats and Caps, Glassware, Queensware, Hardware, Tinware, and a full line of

GROCERIES.

Coal from the Perfection Mines, in quality is "Love Among the Roses."

As our trade is gradually increasing, shows that we give you First-class Goods at Bottom Prices, and warrant all goods as represented.

Thanking the people for their liberal patronage in the past, we kindly ask a continuance of the same. Yours &c.

STOTT BROS, Petersburg, Ky.

JAMES S. WAYNE, President. JNO. L. SANDFORD, Cashier

CAPITAL $300,000.

FARMERS AND TRADERS

NATIONAL BANK.

Covington, Kentucky.

DIRECTORS.

James S. Wayne, I. S. Matson, M. C. Motch, J. H. Mersman, Sam Hind, J. L. Sandford, E. J. Hickey, L. H Dills, E. J. Greer, F. P. Helm, L. C. Stephens.

The general operations of banking transacted upon the most favorable term Collections made on all points in the United States.

The Business and Accounts of Farmers are Especially Solicited by this Bank.

dec. 20-6m

COME AND SEE FOR YOURSELF.

—(o)— We've got them from the lowest price to the finest. —(o)—

None disappointed or dissatisfied in five years business. We keep constantly on hand all sizes of

Burial Cases, Caskets and Robes,

— ALSO A SPLENDID —

HEARSE AND TEAM.

You can always come to us with the assurance of getting what you want in this line. We guarantee our prices 20 per cent. less than city prices. I. W. DAVIS has charge of this business at Hebron, and T. W. FINCH is our agent at Burlington.

J. J. RUCKER & CO, Hebron, Ky.

BUGGIES! BUGGIES!!

Pfalzgraf & Wingate,

—DEALERS IN—

Carriages, Buggies

— AND —

Spring Wagons.

—(o)— GAINESVILLE, KENTUCKY. —(o)—

A Large Assortment of Buggies and Carriages constantly on hand.

ANY STYLE TO ORDER ON

— SHORT NOTICE —

We call the attention of the People of Boone County to our stock on hand, made in the latest styles and of the best material. All work warranted to give satisfaction. Special attention given to

REPAIRING WITH NEATNESS & DISPATCH,

At the Lowest possible prices.

Old work taken in exchange for new

Pfalzgraf & Wingate,

GAINSVILLE, KENTUCKY.

KENTUCKY MILITARY INSTITUTE.

Advantages. 1. Exemption from temptations of city. One family—living, eating and working together. 3. Classes divided into small sections so that each cadet recites every day. 4. Expenditures under control of Superintendent. 5. Government adapted to the character of each individual cadet. 6. A faculty who associate with the cadets. 7. A system of military discipline which develops the body and imparts lessons of authority and prompt obedience. Address Col. R. D. ALLEN, Farmdale, Ky.

THE RECORDER

RIDDELL & HALL, Publishers.

BURLINGTON, : : KENTUCKY

IN THE CITY STREETS.

Rude was the man in speech, and rude
In raiment, and bowed with decrepitude
With crutch and cane at either side,
Like a figure by Doré typified—
A green shade over his bulging eyes,
Ever astare, in their ghastly guise
Repulsively, yet appealingly,
As he begged the dole of a dime of me.

I paused, as the great crowd surged ahead:
"Had no supper last night—nor bed—
Ner a cup o' coffee at breakfast time—
Ner a rusk at noon! And the fact is, I'm
A starvin' here in the city street
For a dime to buy a crust to eat!"

And I flinched, as I thought of the shameless wrong,—
Is he thus so shunned by the soulless throng—
The hundreds and thousands that pass him here?
But, e'en as I felt the rising tear,
I felt in my pocket's depths, slack
My own lone fortune of one greenback.
And I stayed my hand in its upward range,
Sighing to say that I had no change.

"Ef I could work like I ust to do,
I wouldn't be beggin' to day of you!
See what a hackin' cough I got—
Lungs jes' sluffin' off, like as not!
And old—and my eyes almost clean gone—
And I can't stay here, and I can't go on.
But it won't be long till I set my crutch
On the shores where a dime haint worth so much!"

Grotesque pathos! I smiled through tears,
Calming the old man's doubts and fears
With the crumpled note which I said should be Changed at once as he waited me
But he stopped me short, as I turned to go—
"Oh, you'll not come back agin'! No, no!
What's the size o' yer bill?" said he,
As I unfolded it dazedly.
"Only a ONE? W'y sakes alive'—
Feared I was runnin' against a FIVE—
I'm bluffed so much by you high-toned gents!"
And back in my palm dropped ninety cents.
—James Whitcomb Riley, in Indianapolis Journal.

HER WEDDING DAY.

An Oath, Fulfilled, Makes It as Black as Night.

I was married to-day. All the books I have ever read finished with the marriage of the heroine, so I suppose my life ought to be over now. But it seems to me as if it had just begun. I am not much of a heroine—only a poor country girl who has seen nothing of the world; but George says I know quite enough, and that there is nothing so delightful as a simple young girl who has never been into society. George is my husband. I was eighteen last week. Ever since my thirteenth birthday I have kept a diary, and never missed writing in it once. This is a brand-new one, with a lock and key. I almost wish a year was written in it already. I feel so curious to know about the future. People say it is silly to keep a journal, but I have had a great deal of pleasure out of mine. Sometimes on dull days I have read about merry ones gone by, and then every thing has come back quite fresh, and I have seemed to live the pleasant hours over again. Of course, I never intend to have any secrets from George, but I made him promise faithfully not to want to look at the new diary I am going to keep, and which I am beginning now. He laughed and kissed me, and swore that he would only read it if I gave it him of my own free will. I don't fancy I shall do that, because I have an idea that it would seem silly to him, and I don't want him to have a poor opinion of me and think of me as a little school-girl. Not that I ever was at school, which he says is a very good thing. I know he would laugh at the very words I am going to write now, and no doubt they are vain and ridiculous. I like being called "my lady." After having been no one in particular, and only a younger daughter, not very highly considered, it is delightful to be a "personage," and to be made a great fuss with. And, though it sounds very unamiable, I can't help feeling the pleasure increased by knowing that my sister and cousins are most dreadfully jealous of me. They tried to hide it, and they have made me promise to ask them to stay very soon, and to do all sorts of things for them, and I mean to if George will let me. And to think that three months ago I had never seen him, and never been in love, though I had always longed to be, only there was no one in our village that I possibly could have made a hero of! For three years I lived on the memory of the handsome young man who came to church once with the Courtenays, and made him the hero of my novels and dreams. But all that is past history, written in the volumes left at home in my old desk, together with the wonderful story of how I met Sir George, and how he fell in love with me and I with him. And I dare not say how I adore him, or how happy I am, for fear he should ever see what I have written.

We were married to-day, but every thing is inextricably confused in my mind. I know I woke at five o'clock with the sun streaming in at the window, and did not close my eyes again. It seems almost a week ago, and it is only twelve hours. My new carriage clock, one of my wedding presents, had just chimed "five." Then there was the dressing, and all of them coming to help me; and I wished them away, only did not like to seem unkind. It was the first time they had ever told me I was pretty. I liked that. Then the breakfast and the speeches and the carriage-and-four and the train—all that seems unreal, too. One thing puzzles me. When we were in the railway carriage George hardly spoke, but kept looking out of the window; and I saw the reflection of his face once, and fancied it had a haggard, worried look, or it might only have been distorted by the glass. And when we arrived here, he asked me if I would not like to rest a little, and I said "Yes;" but I was rather disappointed because I should have liked to have gone out with him into the delightful old garden that I can see from my window. This is such a pretty old-fashioned place, quite one's idea of what an old country inn should be, and there is a charming garden, with big trees and lots of flowers. Some great person wanted to lend George his country seat for our honeymoon, but he did not like the idea, nor did I. Then it was settled that we should go to his own home; but, just a day or two before the wedding, he asked me if I would not much rather go where neither of us was known, and I agreed willingly, because whatever he likes I like, and I should have hated the fuss and ceremony of addresses and triumphal arches and that sort of thing. All that, I suppose, will take place later, and I shall be horribly shy and nervous.

The most extraordinary thing has happened! George has just been in, looking quite pale and upset, to tell me that he has had a telegram from one of his most intimate friends, who has had an accident, and implores him to go to him at once. Poor George seems distracted. I hardly know how I felt when he told me, but after a moment I said that of course, under the circumstances, he ought to go. Then he caught me in his arms, but he looked so strange that I felt almost frightened and was rather glad when he went.

"I shall be back by twelve o'clock to-morrow morning at latest, my own darling," he said, and kissed me again; then rushed away. I sat a long time looking out of the window after he had driven off. I can not in the least describe how I feel. The expression of his face haunts me. I suppose he is dreadfully grieved about his poor friend; but he looked almost as if it was his fault—as if he had some sort of remorse about it. Of course that is all nonsense. I am rather given to fancying things. I wish now I had asked him something more about his friend—he did not even tell me where he was; but I was so taken by surprise that it did not occur to me to inquire. The last words he said were: "I shall be back to-morrow, darling, and then we shall be so awfully happy."

I have been wandering about the garden, and sitting under the trees, feeling very disconsolate and oppressed. I could almost fancy that I am a widow, and have lost him forever. I don't think I ever realized before how immensely I love him, and how blank and awful the world would seem without him. Why of all days should his friend have an accident to-day? I never read of such a thing happening in any novel. To think that I, who have led such a quiet, uneventful life (until I met him), should be the victim of such a strange accident! It will make this diary very interesting to read later; but, oh, I feel so wretched and miserable now! There is a tear which has made a great blot. What a bad beginning!

My head swims; I hardly know if I am in my right senses. I am staring at the paper now, and I cannot understand it one whit, and yet I know that some awful inconceivable calamity has happened to me. What shall I do? Where can I go? To whom can I turn?

I had just finished dinner—a dull enough meal, heaven knows!—the first I ever sat down to alone. All the time I was thinking George's handsome face ought to be opposite me, and that it should have been the pleasantest dinner I ever had in my life, and a lump rose in my throat and nearly choked me, and prevented me from eating.

I was looking out of the window, when the neat waiting-maid came in with a telegram. I had never had one in my life. It set my heart beating violently. I felt it contained some dreadful news. My fingers trembled so that I could not open it. Some instinct made me put it down and wait until the woman had left the room; then I tore it open and read: "Your husband is spending his wedding evening with me. He always promised that he would." I read it over half a dozen times; I did not seem to grasp the sense or meaning of it. Then I looked at the top to see from whom it came—"Minna Vane, Chapel street, London, to Lady Chalford, Rose Inn, R——."

Minna Vane! Minna Vane! A woman! There had been no accident. He had gone voluntarily of his own free will to spend this day of all others with another woman! I remembered his face in the train. I remembered it when he bade good-bye. This was why he had proposed coming to a place where we were not known!

A sensation came across me as though I had been struck a violent blow on the head, and for a time—I know not how long—I felt nothing but a strange deadness and apathy. Then slowly there came a quickening in my heart, growing and growing until it reached an intolerable agony, and smote me with a sense of overwhelming burning disgrace. Where should I go? Where hide my misery, my shame? I must return home—to the home which I left in triumphal state seven hours ago; slink back disgraced, to be a shaft for pity, wonder, scorn. I have never been anywhere alone in my life. I can not face strangers, above all under these terrible circumstances; but, oh, let me fly from him who has treated me so cruelly; let me never, never set eyes on him again! Why, O! my God, has he used me thus? What have I done to him? If a man wanted a terrible revenge on a woman, he might think of some devilish way of wreaking it; but what have I ever been but loving and humble, and glad to do all he wished or bade?

My maid has just been in under pretense of asking if I wanted anything. She looked curiously at me, as if she longed to question me. I dare say every one in the house knows or surmises that there is something wrong and strange. I hardly dare to meet their eyes. Oh, if I could but hide myself! I was never used to be revengeful; I could always forgive any one who vexed or offended me; but now my sense of injury seems to suffocate me. I could almost pray God to avenge me. What shall I do? What shall I do? To-night it is too late, but to-morrow morning early I will go. He returns at twelve. He shall not find his wretched victim. Oh, new book! new book! in which I thought to chronicle so much happiness, what a ghastly tale for your first pages! And what will be the end?

It is a month since I wrote those last words, and I have hesitated and changed my mind a hundred times before finally deciding to go on with my story. My memory serves me well enough. I remember every hour of that terrible time. I can recall almost every pang that helped to change me in so short a time from a child to a woman.

When I closed my book I went to the window and stood there leaning out for a long, long time. There was a glorious moon—so bright, it brought out every tree and shrub vividly. You could even see the color of the flowers. What a night to gaze at with one's lover, his arm about one, one's head upon his breast! And my lover is looking at it, perchance, with another woman's head pillowed on his heart, his arm about another woman. And, at the intolerable agony of the thought, I clinched my hands until the nails pressed into my palms, and tears forced themselves between my closed eyelids. "O God, punish him; let him not be happy!" I muttered between my tight-shut teeth. Unable to bear my misery longer, I turned away and rang for my maid.

"I will go to bed now," I said to her, forcing myself with a superhuman effort to speak calmly, even cheerfully, and I retained my composure while she undressed me, tortured my hair and performed various offices for me which I could well have dispensed with. I had never in my life been waited upon by a maid, and I hated it intensely. I felt that her manner was intended to convey sympathy. She was dying for me to make some little confidence or explanation to her. I almost wondered that she did not ask me a point-blank question—such a child as I was but, mercifully, she was too well educated in her profession to forget so far what was due to herself. The effort at composure was nearly too much for me, and the moment she left me I flew to the door, bolted it and flung myself on the floor by my bedside in a paroxysm of weeping.

Midnight chimed from my clock, and still I sat with my head pressed hard against my hands; still I sobbed and cried over my lost illusions. Half-past twelve—one! I rose and threw open the window, and stared into the night. The moon was more resplendent than ever; the hush of the night was perfect. I alone of all creatures seemed alive and awake—I with my intolerable woe. Then I lay down on my bed, but not to sleep. A dozen plans for the morrow chased each other through my excited brain, but through all of them ran the horror of that home-going to be a jest and a by-word. Again I rose and went to the window. Faint streaks of crimson lay athwart the horizon. I staid there until they changed to orange and to yellow gold; then, worn out and shivering with cold—summer night though it was—I returned to bed, and fell into a heavy sleep. Some hours later I awoke with a racking pain in my head, and a general feeling of illness and utter prostration. For some moments I lay trying to recall what had happened; then the past day and night rushed upon me like a flood, and I remembered that to-day I must go home. But, even with the thought, a paroxysm of pain overcame me. I laid my head back on my pillow moaning. * * *

Half an hour later, when my maid came, I was prostrate, speechless. Her words of commiseration fell like a stone upon my ear. I was indifferent to every thing but the maddening pain in my head—my wrongs even were forgotten—there was no thought of rising or going away. I could only lie and moan. The woman did her best for me. She bathed my head with eau de cologne, fetched me tea, begged to be allowed to send for a doctor; but all I craved was to be let alone. She shut out the light and left me, saying she would be in the next room; and I lay there and moaned and tossed my fevered head from side to side. Pride and grief were all gone; I was absolutely indifferent to every thing. George might have had a dozen wives. I might have been disgraced ten times over—I should not have cared. Hours went by, and then I heard his eager voice outside the door talking to the maid. Presently she came in softly.

"Sir George has come, my lady. He is so dreadfully grieved that you are ill. He says may he come in?"

"No," I moaned. "Oh, my head! my head!" She went out. I heard the ring of disappointment in his voice, then more talking. I did not care—everything but my pain was indifferent to me. Another long interval, and she came in again and whispered:

"The doctor is here, my lady."

She drew back the window curtains, and some one took my hand and asked questions of her in a low voice. I was past speaking myself. Then he went out, and another person came in on tiptoe and stood beside the bed, and looked down at me, uttering incoherent words of tenderness. I knew that it was George, but I did not unclose my eyes. I felt a gentle kiss on my brow, more kisses on my hand. They gave me neither sensation of anger nor pain—that maddening pain absorbed every thought.

"You will soon be better, my own darling," I heard him murmur; but I turned away my head and went on moaning to myself.

Presently Seaton came back and brought me something to drink. Then she put cold bandages on my head, and after a time the pain grew less intense and I fell asleep. When I awoke my head was infinitely better, but I had a dazed, drowsy feeling. I was able to drink some tea and eat a piece of toast, and by this time it was seven o'clock. I had the windows thrown wide open.

Would I see George now? He was so anxious, and Seaton put on her most pleading, persuasive tones. The blood rushed to my face. I turned away to hide it, and said that my head was aching again, and that I would rather not be disturbed.

She gave me a draught, and a delightful sense of well-being overcame me, and I slept—slept on till the next morning, when floods of sunshine were pouring in at the open window, and Seaton was standing uneasily over me.

"Oh dear, my lady, I am so glad you are awake!" she said; "Sir George has been fidgetting about the last two hours I must go and tell him."

My headache was gone, but I still felt drowsy and apathetic; utterly incapable of forming any plans; and when I tried to rise I was as weak as a baby, and staggered about. I ate my breakfast, and Seaton appareled me as she thought fit, choosing the loveliest tea gown from my wardrobe, and I was too indifferent to oppose her. My face was very white, my eyes looked unnaturally large. I had to lean on her and even to crawl as far as the sitting-room. George was there; he uttered a cry of delight. Unrestrained by the presence of the sympathetic Seaton, he embraced me and led me to the sofa. My heart was beating wildly, but I had a strange, confused feeling in my head, as though if I spoke I should swoon. I said nothing, made no resistance, but lay on the sofa as he placed me and closed my eyes.

He uttered a thousand endearing words, to which I made no sort of response; and yet my heart thrilled in answer to them; shame smote me that I loved him.

"What made you ill, my darling?" he asked; and then, with a sudden instinct, I unclosed my eyes and looked fixedly at him. It was his turn to wince and redden; he had to avert his face. Then my heart hardened.

"Some news I had upset me," I said in a measured voice; and he did not dare to ask me any further questions.

"Will you be well enough to drive this afternoon?" he inquired presently. "The air would do you good." And I assented.

After this he seemed to have lost his tongue. Every now and then he looked at me in an humble, half-frightened sort of way, and as he grew weak I grew strong, and a desire to be cruel to him came over me.

He drove me in his phaeton through lovely hedge-bound lanes, under avenues of trees, across breezy hills. Very few words were exchanged between us; now and then I cast a sidelong glance at his handsome face, which looked so careworn and miserable. My heart melted toward him; but then I would recall my wrongs, and it grew cold and bitter again. How careful he was of my comfort! There was such love and tenderness in every line of his face when he looked at me, I could not but believe, in spite of what had happened, that his heart was mine.

All through dinner I scarcely spoke, and I remarked that he, who had usually such a fine healthy appetite, ate scarcely anything. Afterward, he lighted a cigar and went out, and I could hear his footsteps crunching the gravel as he paced up and down. The influence of the narcotic was still upon me, and I dozed off. When I awoke he was sitting beside me.

"What time is it?" I asked, affecting to yawn.

"Half-past nine," he answered. "You are tired, are you not, my love?"

"Yes," I said, rising. "I will go to bed. Good night!"

"Not good night!" he uttered, in a low voice.

"Good night!" I repeated resolutely. Then, looking up at him, and speaking with a coolness that astonished me, I added: "Will you make arrangements to take me home to-morrow?"

"Take you home!" he echoed, his face growing deathly white. "What do you mean?"

"I mean that I wish to go home," I answered, in the same cool, cruel tone.

"And—and what is to become of me?" he said.

"I dare say your sick friend still needs your care," I replied, and with that I left him like one stunned.

I awoke perfectly well next morning. What would happen to-day? I wondered. I loved him. I did not mean to leave him, but still I had a desire to punish him—a cruel eagerness to exercise my new-found power. When I went in to breakfast I saw that he looked haggard and pale. I greeted him cheerfully, ate an excellent breakfast, and made a remark now and then.

"Have you found out about the trains?" I inquired when I had finished.

"How cruel you are!" he cried, rising and coming toward me. "I can not stand this any longer. What in God's name do you mean?"

I rose, too, evading his touch, and raising myself to my full height.

"I mean that I do not choose to share you with Minna Vane or any other woman," I answered. "After the outrage you have put upon me, I intend to return to my people."

"Minna Vane!" he stammered, looking at me with horrified eyes.

I went to my desk, unlocked it, took out the telegram and handed it to him.

"My God!" he uttered, then walked to the window.

My heart beat furiously. What answer would he have to make me. Presently he turned.

"Come and let me tell you the truth," and he took my hand, led me to the sofa and sat down beside me.

"Five years ago I was in love with this woman. She got a good deal of influence over me. I was for the time almost a slave to her. In a moment of madness she made me swear that if I ever married I would spend the first evening of my marriage with her. Boy and fool that I was, feeling certain then that I should never marry any other woman, I swore it. You may wonder, perhaps, that I thought such an oath binding. I had forgotten it, as I had long and completely forgotten her, when, a week before our marriage, I had a letter from her reminding me of my oath and the terms of it. It was a horrible one. I am ashamed when I think of it. I am not usually superstitious, but I had vowed that if I broke my word I hoped my wife would die before the week was out. Oh, darling!"—and his voice trembled and there were even tears in his eyes—"if you knew how I love you; if you knew how awful the thought of anything happening to you is to me, you would understand and forgive me! And if you knew the hell I have gone through the last three nights you would pity instead of being angry with me. She may have had her revenge, but I do not think," with a bitter laugh, "it can have been very sweet to her. She was glad enough to let me go after I had been ten minutes in her house."

I believed him—a weight was taken from my heart—yet still I had that cruel desire to punish him.

"Will you still leave me?" he said, in an agonized voice.

"I will forgive you on one condition," I answered. "If you will go away for three days; at the end of that time you may come back."

And all his prayers and entreaties left me inexorable, immovable—I, who three days ago was such a stupid child! At last he consented to the ordeal and went. I can answer for it that he alone was not punished. Oh, in those three miserable days, how my heart was racked and torn with pain, doubt, longing! Each day he sent the most impassioned letter, and those letters alone enabled me to bear the weary hours.

Then—he came back. Ah! no written page shall reveal the joy of that return; it shall remain forever sacred. I recked nothing then of the past suffering. I had gained a power over him that I should never else have possessed.

So, Minna Vane, your evil turned to good, your curse to a blessing. I have no fear of other women now.

Good-bye, book; I shall never write in you more.—Albany Journal.

NEW YORK BAKERS.

Some Inside Secrets of an Ancient and Indispensable Trade.

Four thousand journeymen bakers work night and day to make bread for the city of New York. Their labor is oppressive and weakening, and their pay is poor. Some of them by dint of untiring industry and the most saving habits, have accumulated sufficient means to start little shops for themselves. They do their own baking, supply the surrounding neighborhood, and send their bread around in the morning by the apprentice boy, who carries it in a large willow basket, which he balances on his head. But the baker who succeeds in winning out a shop is one among a hundred. The average baker moves along in the same rut from day to day, and dies in harness, very often without money enough to pay his funeral expenses. Nearly all the bakers are Germans and French. Some are Irish and American, but they are in a vast minority. The bakers of this city have a trade organization, but it is badly conducted and possesses but little practical power. It is a good baker, indeed, who can command twelve dollars per week, and many work for six dollars. Had they perfect trades-unions, this state of affairs would soon change. The French baker is the finest in the world and the most independent. They know their own value and conduct themselves accordingly. A German baker in Third avenue employed a French workman to make the finest grade of fancy bread. Every thing was pleasant for a week or two, when the foreman gave the Frenchman an inferior grade of flour to work with. Mr. Gaul at once detected the change and put on his street attire.

"Vat is de matter mit you?" inquired the boss.

"I can not wid ze self-respect work more," answered the Frenchman. "Ze grade of ze flour is inferieur."

"Vot has dot to do wit you?" shouted the German. "Dot is my pusiness."

"Pardon, m'sieu," replied the son of France. "Eet is not ze question of ze flour or ze bread, eet is ze reputation of myself," and no amount of persuasion could induce him to return to work.

There are a few bakers in this city who make a specialty of Boston brown bread, which New Englanders adore and eat with their Sunday morning breakfasts of baked beans. It is composed of yellow corn and rye meal, sweetened with molasses or brown sugar. During the remainder of the week Bostonians content themselves with ordinary bread and are partial to fresh tea-biscuit at night. Our German fellow citizens eat rye bread almost exclusively and are particularly fond of the schwarz and kummel brod. Both are made from black rye, but the kummel has carraway seeds sprinkled through the dough before baking. Americans, English, Irish and French prefer wheat bread as fresh and white as possible. Southern people eat corn bread smoking hot, and their wheat bread is usually in the form of small, flat soda biscuits, which are not palatable when cold—whence may be divined the reason for the reign of dyspepsia and heart-burn in the South. In strong contrast, strange as it may seem, are our colored brethren, who never eat corn-bread if they can help it, and who like their wheat bread warm and spongy. Italians and Chinese live on stale bread bought at large steam bakeries and seldom suffer from the toothache. Many improvements have been made in the construction of bakers' ovens. Now they are air-tight, the workmen are as far as possible protected from the glare of the fire, and by an ingenious system of self-acting telemeters, and automatic levers acting on fines and air valves, the temperature inside the ovens can be regulated to a half degree without opening the doors. Some years ago a machine was invented the purpose of which was to knead dough by steam power. It proved an utter failure, and dough is kneaded to-day, as it always has been, by hand. The silly story that bakers kneaded their dough with their feet never had any foundation in fact. Master bakers pride themselves on their cleanliness, and in many shops no journeymen who chew tobacco will be given work. The bakers' harvest time is in the spring and fall of the year. During the summer people eat less and thousands leave the city.—N. Y. Mail and Express.

—Not less than seven German Generals will complete their fiftieth year of active service during 1886.

A CHINESE DINNER.

Appetizing Description of a Meal Served in the House of a Pekin Magnate.

A member of a Bremen trading-house lately had the honor of taking dinner with a Chinese magnate in Pekin, and has given an appetizing description of the feast. The table was set with twenty-two dishes and was lit with ten large lanterns. Instead of being served in courses, the dishes were brought in one at a time and passed to the guests severally, beginning with the most distinguished or with the oldest. The merchant has given a list of them, with his comments, as follows: 1. Doves with mushrooms and split bamboo sprouts—delicious. 2. Fat pork fritters (or something like fritters)—splendid. 3. Pigeon's eggs in meat broth, the whites hard but transparent—very good. 4. Chinese bird's nests with ham-chips and bamboo sprouts (a mucilaginous dish)—excellent. 5. Poultry, different kinds, cooked with mushrooms and bamboo sprouts—very agreeable. 6. Duck with bamboo and lotus fruits, the fruits tasting and looking like an acorn without its cup—tolerably good. 7. Hog's liver fried in castor-oil—bad. 8. A Japanese dish of mussels with malodorous codfish and bacon—horrible. 9. Sea crabs' tails cooked in castor-oil, with bits of bamboo and ham—would have been palatable but for the wretched oil. 10. A star made of pieces of fowl, bacon and dove, covered with white of egg—very juicy. 11. Slices of sea-fish and shark's fins, with bamboo and mushrooms—it was hard to tell what kind of a dish it was, but it was rather bad than good. 12. Giblets of poultry with morels—the morels helped the giblets down. 13. Ham and cabbage—not particularly good. 14. Hams of sucking pigs cooked in their own juice. A pause now ensued, during which pipes and tobacco were brought in. The pipes held about a thimbleful of tobacco—enough for two or three whiffs—and we were kept busy filling and lighting them. 15. Land-turtles with their eggs in castor-oil—abominable. 16. Ends of ham—good. 17. Breasts of ham with sour cabbage—no delicacy. 18. Stale eggs (these eggs have been kept one month in salt and two months in moist earth.) The white looked like burnt sugar and were transparent. The yolks had a greenish color, and the embryos appeared dark, rolled together and perfectly recognizable—a terrible dish. Dessert: Conserve of sitzon, a red fruit that looks like a shadberry, and tastes like a kind of currant—good. Dark-green fruits having oval seeds like those of the plum, preserved in brandy—good. Crabs' tails cooked in castor-oil. A green, oval fruit with a long, hard seed, resembling a large green olive, but sharp and sour and disagreeable to the European taste. Light cakes—very fine. Nuts, almonds and castor-oil seeds, roasted and candied with sugar—good, even to the castor-oil seeds. Macaroni with sesame-seeds and three-cornered cakes covered with castor-oil seeds—passable. Various bonbons very moderate; baked lichis. The lichi is the finest of Chinese fruits, having a white flesh with the taste of the best grapes—excellent. Shaddocks mandarin oranges—good. The only drinks were tea, very weak and without sugar and samion, a rice-wine, which is drunk hot like tea, and is wretched stuff.—Popular Science Monthly.

WOMEN AND WORK.

A Caution Against Fraudulent Advertisements, Issued by the Woman's E. and I. Union of Boston.

The Women's Educational and Industrial Union of Boston, Mass., cautions all women to be wary of advertisements and circulars promising—on receipt of a certain sum—work at home, with large earnings. We are receiving letters from women far and near who have been defrauded by these promises. Either the person forwarding the money gets no answer at all, or the materials and implements sent are of little worth, or the finished work is rejected even if well done, or other obstacles are placed in the way, (the object being simply to get rid of her). The parties advertising make frequent changes of name and address, with some difference in circulars. They are now sending out through the United States, Canada and the Provinces, hundreds of thousands of plausible circulars, well calculated to deceive, for not many of the hundreds of thousands of women receiving them are aware that by a single advertisement any city firm can get plenty of workers close at hand.

Learning that this evil can best be checked by enlightening the public, we solicited the aid of the press, and the following continuous notice appears in our daily papers, each in turn giving it one week's insertion:

"The Women's Educational and Industrial Union, 74 Boylston street, will gladly give information regarding circulars and advertisements offering to women work at home."

It is earnestly desired that newspapers every where help to enlighten the public by copying the whole of this present article and by giving the above notice, or a similar one, frequent insertions; also that Women's Associations, variously located, join us in this work, and by suitable advertising make themselves known as centers of information. Any needed assistance from us will be gladly rendered. Individuals can aid by procuring the insertion of this article in their local papers.

Such general concurrence of effort will save multitudes of women from sorrow and loss, work effectively against the swindlers and promote the interests of the honest advertisers.

MRS. ABBY MORTON DIAZ,
President Women's E. and I. Union.

Address letters to our Employment Department.

—Cherry Bob, of San Antonio, the proprietor of a saloon was moved by the announcement that Messrs. Moody and Sankey were to visit that city to publish the following card: "Editor San Antonio Light: Fellow saloon men! now that Moody and Sankey are expected to visit us, would it not be advisable to get the inside track of them by closing our establishments on Sunday and keep sacred the Sabbath? Fellow saloon men! let us close our doors on the Sabbath; let us keep sacred the seventh day; we will lose nothing by it, but would be held higher in the estimation of our fellow citizens and receive the credit of the outside world.—Chicago Herald.

—Some interesting facts were developed at the recent electrical convention in Baltimore. Among these was the information that there are about 5,000 arc lights in New York and about 3,000 in Boston. Over fifty towns in the United States have each over 100 lamps. Tower lighting meets with great favor in some parts of the West. Domestic lighting by electricity has not advanced much, so far, on account of the expense, and meets with more favor in Europe than in America. There are now in use in the United States 95,000 arc lights and 250,000 incandescent lights, and the money invested in the electric light industry amounts to $70,000,000.

When the effort was first made to organize societies to prevent cruelty to dumb brutes it was ridiculed by the press and antagonized by the courts. Just when Mr. Henry Bergh was ready to abandon the work because of discouragement, he made the acquaintance of the late Horace B. Claflin, of New York, who at once gave his hearty sympathy and support, and contributed $25,000 to it shortly before his death. Such a movement could not long be confined to New York. It spread all over the country, and there are now in nearly every State, and in hundreds of cities of the Union, societies of this kind.—Central Christian Advocate.

—It is absurd to condemn a rule that won't work both ways. In these days of degeneration a thing is lucky if it works one way.—N. O. Picayune.

ALWAYS prompt and sure and only 25 cents. Red Star Cough Cure. No opiates. The merits of St. Jacobs Oil as a sure cure for rheumatism are known everywhere.

A CRYING baby at a meeting is like a good suggestion—it ought to be carried out.—Texas Siftings.

Stranger than Fiction are the records of some of the cures of consumption effected by that most wonderful remedy—Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." Thousands of grateful men and women, who have been snatched almost from the very jaws of death, can testify that consumption, in its early stages, is no longer incurable. The Discovery has no equal as a pectoral and alterative, and the most obstinate affections of the throat and lungs yield to its power. All druggists.

AN easy way to find a lost relative—Make a will in his favor.—Detroit Tribune.

Young Men, Read This.

THE VOLTAIC BELT Co., of Marshall, Mich., offer to send their celebrated ELECTRO-VOLTAIC BELT and other ELECTRIC APPLIANCES on trial for 30 days, to men (young or old) afflicted with nervous debility, loss of vitality and all kindred troubles. Also for rheumatism, neuralgia, paralysis, and many other diseases. Complete restoration to health, vigor, and manhood guaranteed. No risk incurred, as 30 days' trial is allowed. Write them at once for illustrated pamphlet, free.

A BLIND man is very sympathetic. He will never see anybody suffer.

"WHAT we learn with pleasure we never forget."—Alfred Mercier. The following is a case in point: "I paid out hundreds of dollars without receiving any benefit," says Mrs. Emily Rhoads, of McBrides, Mich. "I had female complaints, especially 'dragging-down,' for over six years. Dr. R. V. Pierce's 'Favorite Prescription' did me more good than any medicine I ever took. I advise every sick lady to take it." And so do we. It never disappoints its patrons. Druggists sell it.

THE rumor that "the world moves" because it is cheaper to move than to pay rent is denied.—N. Y. Independent.

The Speed of Heat and Cold.

It has been asked which travels faster, heat or cold; and answered heat. Because any one can catch a cold. It therefore follows that every one should keep Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullein, which will cure colds, coughs and croup.

A HICKORY club is very good lumber to floor a man with.—Merchant Traveler.

FOR weak lungs, spitting of blood, shortness of breath, consumption, night-sweats and all lingering coughs, Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" is a sovereign remedy. Superior to cod liver oil. By druggists.

IN Siam they bang cats' tails. In this country they aim to kill.—New Haven News.

THE scalp is cleansed and excited to a healthy action by Hall's Hair Renewer.

In Consumption, the disposition to cough is diminished by taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

BRAKEMEN will be sorry to learn that "trains" are to be made unusually long.—N. Y. Commercial Bulletin.

MISS FRANCES E. WILLARD has selected some Gospel and Temperance songs, familiar tunes, 200 copies of which will be sent to any church or Sunday school. Address the Publisher, MRS. LAURA G. FIXEN, Albert Lea, Minn., enclosing 20 cents for postage.

THE swimmer will never be a pauper. He is always self-sustaining.

IF a cough disturbs your sleep, take Piso's Cure for Consumption and rest well.

THE boy with the dirty face seems to "wantthe earth."—Pacific Jester.

PIKE'S TOOTHACHE DROPS cure in 1 minute, 25c. Glenn's Sulphur Soap heals and beautifies. 25c. GERMAN CORN REMOVER kills Corns & Bunions.

A TONGUE that never talks scandal—The tongue of a shoe.—Boston Courier.

THE MARKETS.

CINCINNATI, March 16.
LIVE STOCK—Cattle—Common	$2 00	@	2 75
Choice Butchers	3 85	@	4 50
HOGS—Common	3 40	@	3 80
Good Packers	4 00	@	4 25
SHEEP—Good to choice	3 75	@	4 50
FLOUR—Family	4 00	@	4 25
GRAIN—Wheat—Longberry red	95	@	96
No. 2 red	93	@	94
Corn—No. 2 mixed	38	@	38½
Oats—No. 2 mixed		@	32½
Rye—No 2		@	67
HAY—Timothy No. 1	12 00	@	12 50
TOBACCO—Common Lugs	8 80	@	9 35
Good Mediums	10 00	@	14 25
PROVISIONS—Pork—Mess	10 50	@	11 62½
Lard—Prime steam	6½	@	6¾
BUTTER—Choice Dairy	12	@	15
Ohio Creamery	20	@	28
APPLES—Prime	1 25	@	1 65
POTATOES—per bushel	65	@	70
NEW YORK.
FLOUR—State and Western	$2 90	@	3 40
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 Chicago	96¼	@	96¾
No. 2 red		@	96½
Corn—No. 2 mixed	44	@	49
Oats—mixed	37	@	44
PORK—Mess	11 00	@	11 50
LARD—Western steam		@	6 27½
CHICAGO.
FLOUR—State and Western	$4 50	@	4 85
GRAIN—Wheat—No 2 red	80⅝	@	81¼
No. 2 Chicago Spring	80⅞	@	81½
Corn—No. 2	36½	@	37½
Oats—No 2		@	29½
Rye	60	@	61
PORK—Mess	9 60	@	9 95
LARD—Steam	9 50	@	9 99
BALTIMORE.
FLOUR—Family	$4 50	@	5 00
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2	92½	@	93
Corn—Mixed	46¼	@	46¾
Oats—mixed	36	@	37
PROVISIONS—Pork—Mess	10 25	@	11 75
Lard—Refined	7¼	@	7½
CATTLE—First quality	4 50	@	4 87½
HOGS	5 00	@	5 25
INDIANAPOLIS
Wheat—No. 2 red	$	@	91
Corn—mixed		@	34¼
Oats—mixed		@	30½
LOUISVILLE
Flour—A No. 1	$4 00	@	4 50
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@	95
Corn—mixed	38	@	38½
Oats—mixed		@	33
PORK—mess	10 75	@	11 00
LARD—steam	7½	@	8

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS

WILL CURE

HEADACHE
INDIGESTION BILIOUSNESS
DYSPEPSIA
NERVOUS PROSTRATION MALARIA
CHILLS AND FEVERS
TIRED FEELING
GENERAL DEBILITY
PAIN IN THE BACK & SIDES
IMPURE BLOOD
CONSTIPATION
FEMALE INFIRMITIES RHEUMATISM NEURALGIA
KIDNEY AND LIVER TROUBLES

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS

The Genuine has Trade Mark and crossed Red Lines on wrapper.

TAKE NO OTHER.

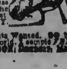
DR. ROBERT NEWTON, late President of the Eclectic College, of the city of New York, and formerly of Cincinnati, O., used DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM very extensively in his practice, as many of his patients, now living and restored to health by the use of this invaluable medicine, can amply testify. He always said that so good a remedy ought to be prescribed freely by every physician as a sovereign remedy in all cases of lung diseases. It cures consumption, coughs, colds, pneumonia, etc.

I CURE FITS!

When I say cure I do not mean merely to stop them for a time and then have them return again, I mean a radical cure. I have made the disease of FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS a life-long study. I warrant my remedy to cure the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a Free Bottle of my infallible remedy. Give Express and Post Office. It costs you nothing for a trial, and I will cure you. Address Dr. H. G. ROOT, 183 Pearl St., New York.

No Rope to Cut Off Horses' Manes.

Celebrated "ECLIPSE" HALTER and BRIDLE Combined, can not be slipped by any horse. Sample Halter to any part of the U. S. free, on receipt of $1. Sold by all Saddlery, Hardware and Harness Dealers. Special discount to the Trade. Send for Price-List. J. C. LIGHTHOUSE, Rochester, N. Y.



$250 A MONTH. Agents Wanted. 90 best selling articles in the world. 1 sample Free. Address JAY BRONSON, Detroit, Mich.

March April May

Are the months in which to purify your blood, and for this purpose there is no medicine equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla. It purifies, vitalizes, and enriches the blood, removing all trace of scrofula or other disease. It creates an appetite and imparts new strength and vigor to the whole body.

"When I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I was dizzy in the morning, had a headache, and no appetite; but now I can hardly get enough cooked to eat." EMMA SHEPARD, 1 Coral Street, Worcester, Mass.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"I take Hood's Sarsaparilla for a spring medicine, and I find it just the thing. It tones up my system and makes me feel like a different man. My wife takes it for dyspepsia, and she derives great benefit from it. She says it is the best medicine she ever took." FRANK C. TURNER, Hook & Ladder No. 1, Friend Street, Boston, Mass.

"I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla for dyspepsia, which I have had for the last nine or ten years, suffering terribly. It has now entirely cured me." MRS. A. NORTON, Chicopee, Mass.

"Last spring my whole family took Hood's Sarsaparilla. The result is that all have been cured of scrofula, my little boy being entirely free from sores, and all four of my children look bright and healthy as possibly can be. I have found Hood's Sarsaparilla also good for catarrh. Nothing did me so much good as Hood's Sarsaparilla." WM. B. ATHERTON, Passaic City, N. J.

"I have used Hood's Sarsaparilla in my family and consider it a splendid blood purifier." J. P. WILDSMITH, North 7th Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Purifies the Blood

"My wife thinks there is nothing like Hood's Sarsaparilla, and we are never without it in the house." F. H. LATIMER, Syracuse, N. Y.

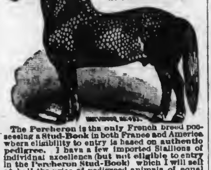
"When I bought Hood's Sarsaparilla I made a good investment of one dollar in medicine for the first time. It has driven off rheumatism and improved my appetite so much that my boarding mistress says I must keep it locked up or she will be obliged to raise my board with every other boarder that takes Hood's Sarsaparilla." THOMAS BURRELL, 99 Tillary Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.
100 Doses One Dollar

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.
100 Doses One Dollar

PERCHERON HORSES!
500 PURE-BRED MARES & STALLIONS
Of the most popular families, all recorded with Extended Pedigrees in the Percheron Stud-Books of France and America, now on hand at Oaklawn Farm.



The Percheron is the only French breed possessing a Stud-Book in both France and America where eligibility to entry is based on authentic pedigree. I have a few imported Stallions of individual excellence (but not eligible to entry in the Percheron Stud-Book) which I will sell at half the price of pedigreed animals of equal appearance. 100-page Catalogue, illustrated with engravings sketched by Rosa Bonheur, sent free. Address, M. W. DUNHAM, Wayne, Du Page Co., Illinois.

Proof.

I was a sufferer from catarrh for fifteen years, with distressing pain over my eyes. The disease worked down upon my lungs. I used Ely's Cream Balm with gratifying results, am apparently cured.—Z. C. WARREN, Rutland, Vt.

Ely's Cream Balm has cured me of catarrh of several years standing; restored my senses of taste and smell.—F. C. OGDEN, Elizabeth, N. J.

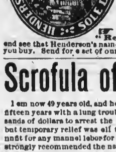
CATARRH

HAY-FEVER

A particle is applied into each nostril; is agreeable to use. Price 50 cents by mail or at Druggists. Send for circular. ELY BROTHERS, Druggists, Owego, N. Y.

FOR COUGHS, CROUP AND CONSUMPTION USE
TAYLOR'S CHEROKEE REMEDY
OF SWEET GUM AND MULLEIN.
The Sweet Gum from a tree of the same name growing in the South, Combined with a tea made from the Mullein plant of the old fields. For sale by all druggists at 25 cents and $1.00 per bottle. WALTER A. TAYLOR, Atlanta, Ga.

Red School House Shoes.



HENDERSON'S School Shoes for Boys and Girls are solid and attractive. They will not disappoint you.

☞ BEWARE of IMITATIONS! They are shoddy frauds. Any manufacturer, jobber or retail dealer, who offers for sale a Shoe with a picture of a school house placed upon the sole thereof (which is not made by C. M. Henderson & Co., Chicago) is liable to prosecution.

☞ Look for the Little "Red School House" and see that Henderson's name is on the label before you buy. Send for a set of our fancy School Cards.

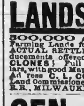
Scrofula of Lungs.

I am now 49 years old, and have suffered for the last fifteen years with a lung trouble. I have spent thousands of dollars to arrest the march of this disease; but temporary relief was all that I obtained. I was unfit for any manual labor for several years. A friend strongly recommended the use of Swift's Specific (S. S. S.), claiming that he himself had been greatly benefited by its use in some lung troubles. I resolved to try it. The results are remarkable. My cough has left me, my strength has returned, and I weigh sixty pounds more than I ever did in my life. It has been three years since I stopped the use of the medicine, but I have had no return of the disease, and there are no pains or weakness felt in my lungs. I do the hardest kind of work. T. J. HOLT.

Montgomery, Ala., June 25, 1885.

Swift's Specific is entirely vegetable. Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed free. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Drawer 3, Atlanta, Ga., or 157 W. 23d Street, N. Y.

PLAID SHAWL GIVEN AWAY!



Through the failure of a large manufacturer of Cashmere Shawls, there has come into our hands a large consignment of Plaid Shawls, perfect goods, which we propose to present to the ladies in the following manner: Send us 25c. for 3 mos. subscription to Farm and Household, a large, 16 page illustrated paper, devoted to Farm and Household topics, stories and general miscellany, and we will send you one of these beautiful shawls FREE, by mail, postpaid, or we will send 5 shawls and 5 subscriptions to one address for $1.00. Satisfaction Guaranteed or money refunded. Address FARM AND HOUSEHOLD, Hartford, Conn.

LANDS IN NORTHERN WISCONSIN
500,000 ACRES of Choice Hardwood Farming Lands for Sale on EASY TERMS to ACTUAL SETTLERS. EXTRAORDINARY inducements offered. NO DROUGHTS or CYCLONES! Full Particulars, with good Map, FREE. Address C. L. COLBY, Land Commissioner W. C. R.R., MILWAUKEE, Wis.
FARMS

GEN. LOGAN'S Book.
A BONANZA For good Agents. Write AT ONCE for territory.
A. H. HART & CO., Publishers, 16 Murray Street, New York City.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is the Best, Easiest to Use, and Cheapest.
CATARRH
Also good for Cold in the Head, Headache, Hay Fever, &c. 50 cents.

TELEGRAPHY Learn here and earn good pay. Situations furnished. Write VALENTINE BROS., Janesville, Wis.

MUSTANG
Survival of the Fittest.
A FAMILY MEDICINE THAT HAS HEALED MILLIONS DURING 35 YEARS!
MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT.
A BALM FOR EVERY WOUND OF MAN AND BEAST!
The Oldest & Best Liniment EVER MADE IN AMERICA.
SALES LARGER THAN EVER.
The Mexican Mustang Liniment has been known for more than thirty-five years as the best of all Liniments, for Man and Beast. Its sales to-day are larger than ever. It cures when all others fail, and penetrates skin, tendon and muscle, to the very bone. Sold everywhere.

DR. RADWAY'S
Sarsaparillian Resolvent,
The Great Blood Purifier, for the Cure of all Chronic Diseases.

Chronic Rheumatism, Scrofula, Syphilitic Complaints, etc. (see our book on Venereal, etc.; price 25 cents), Glandular Swelling, Hacking Dry Cough, Cancerous Affections, Bleeding of the Lungs, Dyspepsia, Water Brash, White Swellings, Tumors, Pimples, Blotches, Eruptions of the Face, Ulcers, Hip Diseases, Gout, Dropsy, Rickets, Salt Rheum, Bronchitis, Consumption, Diabetes, Kidney, Bladder, Liver Complaints, etc.

SCROFULA,
Whether transmitted from parents or acquired, is within the curative range of the Sarsaparillian Resolvent.

Cures have been made where persons have been afflicted with Scrofula from their youth up to 20, 30 and 40 years of age, by DR. RADWAY'S SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT, a remedy composed of ingredients of extraordinary medical properties, essential to purify, heal, repair and invigorate the broken down and wasted body. Quick, pleasant, safe and permanent in its treatment and cure. Sold by all druggists. One dollar a bottle.

RADWAY'S READY RELIEF
For the relief and cure of all Pains, Congestions and Inflammations.

DR. RADWAY'S PILLS
For DYSPEPSIA and for the cure of all the disorders of the Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Constipation, Biliousness, Piles, Headache, etc. Price 25 cents.

DR. RADWAY & CO., 32 Warren Street, N. Y.

We offer to send the PHILADELPHIA
LADIES' Home Journal
AND PRACTICAL HOUSEKEEPER
Three Months on receipt of only 10 Cents
Silver or stamps.
SPLENDID DOMESTIC STORIES
BY Harriet Prescott Spofford,
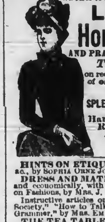
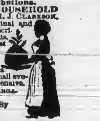
Rose Terry Cooke,
Marion Harland,
Mary Abbott Rand,
Charity Snow.



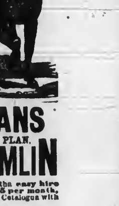
HINTS ON ETIQUETTE—How to entertain, &c., by SOPHIA ORNE JOHNSON (Daisy Eyebright).
DRESS AND MATERIAL—How to dress well and economically, with answers to correspondents on Fashions, by MRS. J. H. LAMBERT.
Instructive articles on "How to Appear Well in Society," "How to Talk Well, and Improve your Grammar," by MRS. EMMA C. HEWITT.
THE TEA TABLE—And how to make it attractive, with good and comparatively inexpensive recipes, by CHRISTINA TERHUNE HERRICK.
MOTHER'S CORNER—A page devoted exclusively to the care of infants and young children. Filled with interesting letters from subscribers exchanging views and methods of management, and original articles from the best writers.
ARTISTIC NEEDLEWORK—A Special Feature with Special Illustrations, Knitting, Crocheting, and all kinds of Embroidery. Edited by an expert. Prizes given for contributions.
BRUSH STUDIES AND HOUSEHOLD DECORATIONS, by LIDA and M. J. CLARKSON.
HOME COOKING—With original and tried recipes contributed by subscribers. This is a special feature with us, and is considered the best and most practical department ever published in any household paper. Prizes given for best recipes and contributions. How to prepare delicacies suitable for afternoon teas, or small evening companies that are not too expensive.
MUSICAL STUDIES—By MARGARET B. HARVEY.
FLORAL DEPARTMENT—By EBEN E. REXFORD.



The JOURNAL has over 200,000 Circulation and is edited by MRS. LOUISA KNAPP.
Address CURTIS PUB. CO., Philada., Pa.

DROPSY
TREATED FREE.
DR. H. H. GREEN & SONS,
Specialists for Eleven Years Past,
Have treated Dropsy and its complications with the most wonderful success; use vegetable remedies, entirely harmless. Remove all symptoms of dropsy in eight to twenty days.
Cure patients pronounced hopeless by the best of physicians.
From the first dose the symptoms rapidly disappear, and in ten days at least two-thirds of all symptoms are removed.
Some may cry humbug without knowing anything about it. Remember, it does not cost you anything to realize the merits of our treatment for yourself. In ten days the difficulty of breathing is relieved, the pulse regular, the urinary organs made to discharge their full duty, sleep is restored, the swelling all or nearly gone, the strength increased, and appetite made good. We are constantly curing cases of long standing, cases that have been tapped a number of times, and the patient declared unable to live a week. Give full history of case. Name sex, how long afflicted, how badly swollen and where, are bowels costive, have legs bursted and dripped water. Send for free pamphlet, containing testimonials, questions, etc.
Ten days' treatment furnished free by mail.
Epilepsy (fits) positively cured.
If you order trial, send 10 cents in stamps to pay postage. H. H. GREEN & SONS, M. Ds., 55 Jones Avenue, Atlanta, Ga.

LIVE STOCK CUTS.
We will furnish duplicates of LIVE STOCK CUTS or any other Cut shown in any Specimen Book, at or below quoted prices for same.
A. N. Kellogg Newspaper Co.
Electrotypers and Stereotypers,
177 & 179 Elm Street, CINCINNATI.



BEST ORGANS
ON the EASY PAYMENT PLAN.
MASON & HAMLIN
Now sell their unrivaled Organs on the easy hire system, payments at the rate of $3.25 per month, up. 100 styles, $22 to $900. Send for Catalogue with full particulars, mailed free.
Also the Mason & Hamlin Improved Upright Pianos, new method of stringing.
MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN AND PIANO CO., BOSTON, NEW YORK, CHICAGO.

FRENCH DECORATIVE ART DESIGNS.
New method of decorating Silks, Satins, Vases, Plaques, Lampshades, etc. Can not be detected from hand painting. Easily applied. Send for price-list and full directions. HOFFMANN BROS., 165 Main Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

SALESMEN WANTED Everywhere! Local and Traveling.
☞ Will pay good salary and all expenses. Write for terms, stating experience and salary wanted. SLOAN & Co., Manf'rs, 306 George St., Cincinnati, O.

SEND YOUR ADDRESS ☞ The Programme of the SARATOGA SUMMER SCHOOL will be mailed to you free. Sterns' School of Languages of New York City, 27 East 44th Street, New York.

SOLDIERS NEW LAWS; Officers' pay from commissions; Deserters relieved; Pensions and increase; experience 21 years; success or no fee. Write for circulars and laws. A. W. McCORMICK & SON, Cincinnati, Ohio.

DYKE'S BEARD ELIXIR [illegible] Smith Mfg Co., Palatine, Ills.

HOME STUDY. Book-keeping, Business Forms, Penmanship, Arithmetic, Shorthand, etc., thoroughly taught by mail. Circulars free. BUSINESS COLLEGE, Buffalo, N. Y.

FREE A book worth $10, on & Courtship, sent free by the Union Pub Co., Newark, N.J. Send stamps for post'g. LOVE

AGENTS WANTED for a New, Good-Selling HOUSEHOLD ARTICLE. ☞ Send 2-cent stamp for sample and terms to A. GOMBINO & Co., 209 William Street, New York.

FINE Blooded Cattle, Sheep, Hogs, Poultry, dogs for sale. Catalogues with 150 engravings free. N. P. Boyer & Co., Coatesville, Pa.

CANCER Treated and cured without the knife. Book on treatment sent free. Address F. L. POND, M.D., Aurora, Kane Co., Ill.

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOLUME XI. BURLINGTON, KY., WEDNESDAY, MARCH 24, 1886. NUMBER 20.

GAS EXPLOSION.

Startling Disaster at Murraysville, Pa.

Five Buildings Wrecked and a Number of People Dangerously Injured.

PITTSBURGH, March 19.—At 4:30 o'clock this afternoon another appalling disaster was added to the history of natural gas explosions. A new gas well, known as the McWilliams well, belonging to the Chartiers Valley Gas Company, located at Murraysville, was being turned into the company's main line at that point when the connection suddenly broke and the gas escaped in such volumes that it almost instantly filled the adjoining houses. The gas ignited in the house of Wm. Taylor, and a terrific explosion followed. The house was shattered, and was soon wrapped in flames. The inmates of the buildings, seven in number, were quickly taken out and carried into neighboring houses. The fire communicated to four other buildings, including the postoffice and a store, and all were totally destroyed. The fire ran back along the pipe to the well, burning the derrick and every thing surrounding it. The villagers were wild with fright, as it was feared at one time that the entire town would be consumed. The flames were, however, confined to the five buildings. The victims of the explosion are Wm. Taylor, his wife and two children; Mrs. Harry Taylor and her three children, and Lillie Lacock. One of the Taylor children and Miss Lacock are so fearfully burned that they can not live more than a few hours. All the others are dangerously burned except Wm. Taylor, who will recover. The loss on the buildings and to the Gas Company will amount to about $30,000.

GERMAN HOGS HAVE IT.

Many Cases of Trichinosis Since the Prohibition of American Pork.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 19.—Secretary of State Bayard has received a communication from the Consul General of the United States at Berlin, in which he states that within the last few weeks not less than thirty to forty cases of trichinosis have been discovered in Zattichen, a town in Silesia, and vicinity. Similar cases, the Consul General says, are reported from time to time from other places in Germany, showing that the theory which led to the prohibition of American hogs has received a setback by facts which can not be denied. Mention is made of the great sensation created in commercial circles at Berlin, caused by the bill lately introduced in the United States Senate, the fate of which the manufacturers and exporters of Berlin look upon with great anxiety.

Momentous Whisperings.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—A Washington correspondent, writing about the recent meeting at a reception at the White House of President Cleveland and Senator Edmunds, on the evening of the day upon which the latter made a few remarks in the Senate personal to the former, says there was some embarrassment when they shook hands. This did not last long, for Senator Edmunds leaned forward and whispered something in the President's ear. The President then leaned forward and whispered something in Mr. Edmunds' right ear. This is the conversation, according to the correspondent, that took place: Mr. Edmunds—Did I hurt you much, Mr. President? The President—Not much, Senator. The Critic says the correspondent was wrong, and thus sets the matter right: "For the benefit of history, we will print exactly what the conversation was: Mr. Edmunds—Where do you keep it? The President—In the lower right-hand corner of the cupboard, in the dressing-room. The sugar is just back of it. The ice-water is in a pitcher on the table."

City Hall Destroyed by Fire.

FALL RIVER, MASS., March 19.—Shortly after half past seven o'clock this evening flames burst through the roof of the City Hall, a three-story granite structure. The fire burned fiercely for an hour, and at half past eight o'clock the tower fell in with a crash, scattering thousands of sparks and burning fragments of the building on the roofs of the neighboring mills, but, fortunately, all of them were extinguished, and the flames were confined to the City Hall, which was entirely gutted. The Edison Electric Light Company lose about $1,000 worth of tools, which were stored in the attic. The city records and seals are destroyed, the safe not being fire-proof. The loss upon the building is estimated at $250,000. There is no insurance. The cause of the fire is unknown.

An Eclipse of the Sun.

OSHKOSH, WIS., March 19.—This city was visited this afternoon by a most remarkable atmospheric phenomenon. Shortly after 3 o'clock, a quite thick darkness spread rapidly over the city, creating great excitement. Women and children screamed, and superstitious persons howled out that the day of judgment had arrived. This deep gloom, and the attendant excitement, continued about ten minutes, when the darkness seemed to roll off towards the east in a great wave. A similar phenomenon is reported from several cities westward, showing that the direction of the cloud was from the west.

Even the Farm-Hands Trying It.

SEDALIA, MO., March 19.—The farm-hands of Pettis and Saline Counties have demanded of their employers an increase from $15 and board to $20 per month and board. The demand was at first refused, when no less than fifty men quit work. The employers have conceded to their demands, however, and nearly all the strikers have gone back to work at the increased scale. An organization is to be perfected, and the projectors hope to have the demand become general throughout the State.

A Michigan Desperado Found Dead.

TECUMSEH, MICH., March 19.—School children to-day found the dead body of Aaron Palmer, frozen face downward, in a mud swamp a short distance from town. Palmer was a desperado who, in a shooting scrape last November, dangerously wounded two merchants, A. P. and J. B. Anderson, left them for dead and fled. A large reward for Palmer was offered, but without effect. The cause of his death has not yet been determined.

Howard Made a Major-General.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Brigadier-General Howard was to-day nominated as a Major-General in the army, vice General Pope, retired.

The Russian Oil Fields.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 19.—The Russian Government has taken steps to thoroughly develop the petroleum fields of the Peninsula of Apsheron, on the west coast of the Caspian Sea. It has called a convention of scientists, engineers and oil-producers to meet at Baku on the south side of the peninsula on March 27 to discuss plans for the promotion of the oil trade.

A Week's Failures.

NEW YORK, March 19.—There were 225 failures in the United States and Canada reported to R. G. Dun & Co., of the Mercantile Agency, during the week, against 239 for the week before and 246 for the week previous to the last.

Suspected Express Robber Escapes.

DANVILLE, ILL., March 19.—Detectives went to Grape Creek this afternoon to arrest Mike Humphreys, who is charged with being one of the perpetrators of the Joliet express robbery. It was found that Humphreys had fled immediately after sending the dispatch making his whereabouts known and claiming an alibi. Humphrey's wife says he is simply trying to keep out of the way until the excitement over the crime cools down.

Pension Bill Approved.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The President has approved the bill to increase the pensions of widows and dependent relatives of deceased soldiers and sailors.

THE PRESIDENT'S BIRTHDAY.

Some Interesting Facts as to the Ages of Our Chief Executives.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 18.—President Cleveland is to-day celebrating his forty-ninth birthday. Only one other President ever celebrated a forty-ninth birthday in the White House. This one was President Grant, who celebrated his forty-seventh and forth-eighth, as well as his forty-ninth, birthdays there. Only three other Presidents entered the White House this side of fifty years of age. They were Grant, Garfield and Pierce, and the last two mentioned were past the forty-ninth mile-stone when they took the oath of office. President Grant came to the office even a little younger than President Cleveland. He was forty-six years ten months and seven days old when he assumed its duties. President Cleveland was forty-seven years eleven months and sixteen days of age when he entered the office. Thirteen of the Presidents were in the fifties when they entered the White House—Taylor, Polk and Fillmore, 50; Arthur, 51; Lincoln, Hayes and Van Buren, 55; Washington and Johnson, 57; Jefferson, Madison, Monroe and J. Q. Adams, 58. Five were past sixty at their inauguration—John Adams, 62; Andrew Jackson, 62 at his first inauguration; Harrison, 68; Taylor, 65; Buchanan, 66.

DAMMED BY ICE.

Disastrous Overflow in the Loup River—Hundreds Flee for Safety.

OMAHA, NEB., March 18.—Ice gorged at the Union Pacific bridge over the Loup river yesterday, causing the bottom lands to be overflowed for miles, and also a portion of the town of Columbus. Hundreds of people were obliged to leave their houses and seek safety elsewhere. The latest report states that the water is still rising, and much damage is feared, especially to railroad travel. The Platte river, into which the Loup empties, near Columbus, is very high and overflowing the country. It is reported that the Burlington & Missouri bridge over the Platte near that point has been partially carried away. People in the low lands were warned by couriers of impending danger, and as yet no lives have been lost.

To Be Arbitrated.

NEW ORLEANS, March 18.—The strike on the Texas and Pacific railroad, and other railroads of the Gould Southwest system, is in a fair way to settlement at last by the arbitration of the United States Circuit Court in the case of Hall, the workman discharged at Marshall. The proposition was accepted by the committee of Knights of Labor, who, on their part, promised not to interfere with freight trains pending the negotiations, and to assist in preparing passenger trains for service. The U. S. Marshal and his deputies, who have been in possession of the road's property at Goldsboro since Tuesday morning, were withdrawn at once, and yesterday afternoon the running of freight trains was resumed. The general impression is that the strike is virtually over, although some days may elapse before a full agreement is reached. It is also believed that the arbitration will result in the reinstatement of Hall. All trains, both passenger and freight, on this division of the Texas and Pacific railroad, are now running on their regular schedule time.

Barbed Wire Takes Another Twist.

CHICAGO, March 18.—The Barbed Wire Manufacturing Association, composed of the licenses of the Washburn & Moen Company, held a special meeting yesterday at the headquarters of the Association in this city. Ninety-five per cent. of the barbed wire manufacturers of the United States, representing a total output of 130,000 tons of wire, were present, as were also representatives of the plain wire companies and the jobbers. The meeting was harmonious, and upon its conclusion the pledge to maintain all agreements was signed unanimously. There was a general advance of ten per cent. made in the price of wire, and the combination was so greatly strengthened that it was thought the advance could be firmly maintained.

Boy Brigands.

NOANK, CONN., March 18.—This village is intensely excited over the disclosure that a band of five boys, aged about seventeen, two weeks ago organized under the names of "Night Hawks," to rob and murder. It is said their oaths were administered with cocked revolvers, and any traitor was to suffer death. The gang arranged a programme for last Saturday evening, which included the burglary of stores, the waylaying and robbing of Dr. O. E. Minor and Getty Patter. They were to take their "boodle" and embark at Mystic on the midnight train for New York. Their plans were frustrated by one of the number, who joined the gang for that purpose.

Poisoned Stockings.

CINCINNATI, March 18.—Last Saturday Louis Mosser, purchased a pair of stockings. He wore them Sunday. Monday morning he was unable to leave his bed, and to-day the physician, who has been in constant attendance, considered his case very precarious. His feet and legs are swollen two or three times their natural size, and give him the most intense pain. The stockings were dyed a cardinal red, and it is supposed the coloring matter must have contained poison.

Sentenced for Counterfeiting Stamps.

WHEELING, W. VA., March 18.—The jury in the case of James McCord, in the United States Court, this evening found him guilty of counterfeiting Government stamps and brands and manufacturing cigars without license, and he was given fifteen months and five days in the penitentiary and fined $200. He refused to purchase clemency by betraying his accomplices. James Nuirwanger, a boy who assisted him, was held for the Grand Jury.

Eat Your Oysters While You May.

BALTIMORE, March 18.—A meeting of the oyster packers of this city was held to-day and an agreement reached not to pack any oysters after the first of April, under a penalty of $1,000. The oyster season has heretofore continued until the 1st of May in each year, but the oyster beds in Chesapeake Bay have been so much depleted that a fear is entertained they may be destroyed.

Cholera.

ROME, March 18.—Two fatal cases of cholera are reported in Candia, two in Palio and seven in Padua.

Natural Gas Dangers.

WARREN, PA., March 18.—Jacob Winger, contractor, and Oscar Wiager, Wm. Warke and Elmer Margel, drillers, were fatally burned to-day by an explosion of natural gas, which ignited from the boiler at a newly shot well belonging to N. Moore & Co., at Tiona.

Action on Morrison's Tariff Bill.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—The Ways and Means Committee has adopted the entire free list of the Morrison bill, adding logs to it. For some reason logs were omitted from the original bill. Mr. Hewitt, of New York, offered a proposition to request Canada to remove its duties on lumber, so as to bring about a reciprocity.

An Insane Mother's Acts.

CINCINNATI, March 18.—Matilda Borrman, insane wife of William Borrman, a tinsmith, of Avondale, near this city, arose in the early morning and killed her sleeping son, aged fourteen years, by striking him on the head with a hammer. A younger son was struck, but not fatally hurt. The poor woman then ended her life by cutting her throat with a razor.

English Salvationists Coming.

LONDON, March 18.—One thousand soldiers of the English Salvation Army will soon depart for New York to revive religious feeling among the Americans. The campaign will be short and vigorous, and at its conclusion the army will return to England.

THE DEATH SHAFT.

A Very Sad Calamity at Pottsville, Pa.

Thirty Miners Caught Under a Fall of Rock and Five of the Number Killed.

POTTSVILLE, PA., March 22.—This morning there was a short, cracking noise in the new tunnel of the Pottsville and Mahanoy railroad, a short distance from town, which was followed by a tremendous fall of rocks. One bowlder weighed fifteen tons. Below a number of laborers were employed, and the great mass of earth and stones overwhelmed them. The wildest reports were quickly scattered to the effect that at least thirteen men had been killed, but later it was learned that three men were killed, four fatally injured and about a dozen more badly hurt. A number of the foreigners who were nearest the mouth of tunnel quickly jumped out of the way and escaped. The wildest scenes followed among the friends of the unfortunate men under the rocks. Manuel Masquella, an Italian, was first seen struggling to get free, but could not. He was pinioned fast between the two great bowlders, and could not get out. The brave men did not know how soon another fall of rock would occur, yet they instantly went to work and blasted the rocks, shattered them into pieces, and dragged out Masquella bleeding and crushed, and very badly hurt. Flying scraps struck Jim Dannato and knocked him into the debris, from which he was extricated in a dying condition. While he was carried across the hill to his boarding house at Mill creek he died. The dead body of J. W. Wright was next carried away. An Italian, known as No. 5, with an unpronounceable name, was found crushed to death under a tremendous bowlder that had to be raised by a powerful jack. Samuel Backers, Lew Reiber and John Collier, of St. Clair, were so badly injured that their recovery is doubtful. Jacques and Louis Robel, brothers, had their shoulders and legs crushed. Sam Craicus had his left leg broken near the hip and his right shoulder crushed. John Collen, of Landingville, had his face badly lacerated and his body bruised by flying timbers. Those who were but slightly injured were able to walk home, but the dead and wounded were carried to their shanties on the bleak hills, some distance from the works. The latest from the sufferers to-night is that five were killed. The prevailing sentiment is that the accident was entirely unavoidable. Coroner Halberstadt will hold an inquest. Edward Kelly is the contractor, and it was the first accident at the works. The last shots were fired on Saturday, and, to make the work more secure, additional timber were put up on Sunday. Some thirty men were at work when the accident happened, and but ten escaped unhurt. This was at the west end of the tunnel, but when the accident occurred all the foreigners throughout the works refused to labor any more during the day.

The Life-Saving Service.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—A bill has been favorably reported in the House to increase the number of life saving stations. The committee in its report made a wonderful showing for the efficiency of this service. It was organized in 1871, and since November 1 of that year to June 30, 1885, the number of wrecks which occurred within reach of the stations was 2,918. The total value of the vessels was $35,210,075. The total value of the cargoes was $16,553,619, making the total value of property involved $51,763,694. Out of this sum $36,377,929, of property valued at that amount, was saved through the efforts of the crews at the various stations. The number of persons sailing on the wrecked vessels was 25,893, and the number saved was 25,236. During the single year preceding June 30, 1885, the number of disasters in reach of the stations was 371. The value of the property involved was $4,634,380, and the value of the property saved was $3,379,538. The number of persons wrecked was 2,439, and the number saved was 2,428. Only eleven were lost during the year.

Huge Schemes.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Every session of Congress brings to light some new enterprises of mammoth proportions which somebody is willing to see the Government with its full treasury undertake. Mr. Eads wants the Government to help him out with his railway to carry ships across the Isthmus of Tehuantepec. Mr. Helper wants the Government to help build a railway line from this country to South America, and all Washington wants Uncle Sam to establish a permanent exposition in Washington, in which all the world in general and America in particular are to join. Besides this, however, two more magnificent propositions have just come to the front, one being a railway and steamship line to China via British America, Alaska, Behring's Straits and Siberia; the other a canal or inland water route from New York to Florida.

A Silver Brick for Beck.

RALEIGH, M. T., March 22.—Some of the prominent mining men of Butte City have prepared a brick fashioned into a paper weight which will be forwarded to Senator Beck as a testimonial of their regard for the defender of the people's money. It is elegantly inscribed: "James B. Beck, Defender of the People's Money." On the reverse is: "Presented by the Residents of Butte City." The brick is of pure silver, and weighs nearly a pound avordupois.

End of a Desperado.

OMAHA, NEB., March 22.—Ed. Johnson, a desperado, who killed his employer Saturday, intrenched himself in a barn near Oakland, where he resisted all attempts to capture him, and killed two men and wounded several others. The barn was set on fire last evening. A fire was opened on Johnson, and he was killed, falling in the flames. When the fire had subsided, the body was found in a large pile of oats, riddled with bullets.

The Railroad Switchmen.

ST. LOUIS, March 22.—The expected strike of railroad switchmen in East St. Louis has not yet taken place. There has been a general strike of switchmen in Kansas City and freight business is practically at a stand still. There are two hundred and thirty switchmen out, which enforces idleness upon one hundred and fifty engineers and as many firemen.

Heavy Snows in Michigan.

MARQUETTE, March 22.—A furious snowstorm raged all over the upper peninsula Sunday, and two feet of snow has fallen. All the railroads are blockaded. No trains were run yesterday and few to-day.

—Mrs. Senator Stanford, the wife of the California millionaire, says the New York Graphic, recently received a letter from a Chicago lady in which the writer said that as Mrs. Stanford was now in mourning she could not make a better use of her ball-dresses and gowns than by sending them to her. "I belong," she continued, "to that genteelly poor class who are compelled to present an appearance out of all proportion to their limited income. By complying even partially with my request you will oblige."

—"One of the most remarkable pictures in the Paris Salon this year will, I understand," says London Truth, "be an episode of the English campaign in the Soudan. It represents the Mahdi seated in his tent receiving the homage of his chiefs, who have brought with them a load of British soldiers' heads freshly decapitated."

—A recent writer asks: "Why are people poor?" We suspect it is mainly owing to their inability to acquire wealth, but we may be wrong. We haven't looked into the subject, and can therefore only hazard a guess.—N. Y. Sun.

ONE WAY OF MARRYING.

It Goes in New Hampshire if Nowhere Else.

BOSTON, March 21.—In the Supreme Court Judge Holmes is hearing a suit for alimony brought by Maria Norcross against Alvin C. Norcross, a Boston merchant, which is preliminary to a divorce suit next term, Mrs. Norcross being the libelant, the developments of which will be highly sensational. The evidence shows that in the summer of 1865 Norcross met Maria Taylor, aged eighteen, at Littleton, N. H., and after a courtship of one day threw himself on his knees, and called Heaven to witness that he took her for his wife. In response she raised her right hand and promised love and devotion. The following December he related the facts to the girl's parents, and asked to take her. The ceremony constituted a marriage by New Hampshire law, but Mr. Taylor wanted another ceremony, which Norcross promised to go through at Boston, but never did. The couple lived together in Boston as man and wife for eighteen years, having two sons. In 1883, after four years of bickering, Norcross ejected the woman from his house, each charging the other with inconstancy, and at once married Mary Freeze. Mrs. Norcross also accused Norcross of stealing a $10,000 bond, and securing, by false pretenses, her house in Boston. General Butler is counsel for Mrs. Norcross.

GERONIMO SURRENDERS,

But Under Circumstances That May Lead to Very Serious Trouble With Mexico.

TOMBSTONE, A. T., March 21.—A soldier stationed at Mud Springs, under command of Lieutenant Wheeler, arrived in this city to-day, and from him was learned the surrender of Geronimo to Lieutenant Maus. The facts leading to the surrender are reported to be as follows: Yesterday afternoon, about ten miles south of San Bernardino, the Apache camp was attacked by Mexican forces and a hot skirmish ensued. During the skirmish two Apaches were killed, and the forces of Geronimo were completely routed. Geronimo and his band fled in the direction of Lieutenant Maus' camp for safety, and surrendered unconditionally. The Mexican troops followed them across the line into Maus' camp, and demanded the prisoners, claiming that the fight occurred on Mexican soil, and that the victory was theirs. Maus refused to give the prisoners up, which greatly incensed the Mexicans, who threatened to take the prisoners by force. General Crook was hourly expected in camp, but at last accounts had failed to arrive. Two dispatches from Maus have been received at Mud Springs, appealing for troops and assistance. The situation is critical in the extreme, and the massacre of Lieutenant Maus and his command may occur at any moment.

FIGHTING A GAS FIRE.

Curious Scheme for Shutting Off Natural Gas at Murraysville, Pa.

PITTSBURGH, March 21.—After forty-eight hours' hard work the men have got the burning well at Murraysville in such a shape that the fire will be conquered. The flame was about eighty feet above the ground. A fire-proof shield was constructed, and under its shelter men gradually worked their way up to the stand-pipe. The pipe was then cut half way through and a chain fastened around it above the cut. This done, the workmen left the well, carrying an end of the chain with them. By means of this chain the pipe was pulled over and broken off close to the ground. An arrangement on the principle of an old-fashioned candle-snuffer is now being made. The arms on it will extend on each side a sufficient length to allow the men to work in safety. This contrivance will be pushed up to the well and a cap will be forced over the pipe and held there until the flames are extinguished by the cutting off of the fuel. It is thought this can be done in the morning. There is no danger from fire to-night unless the wind should change into a gale, and the alarm among the people has subsided.

Favorable Crop Reports.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 21.—Special reports from over five thousand crop correspondents of the American Rural Home, of this city, state that in general the winter wheat has not had a set back. The crop has fairly commenced to grow. The season is a little more forward than in 1885. Some spring wheat is sown in Nebraska and Dakota. Ploughing has commenced in Southwestern Kansas and Southern Illinois. There are early indications for spring work and putting in the crop. A favorable season is indicated.

No More Federal Prisoners Without Pay.

CHICAGO, March 21.—The Inter-Ocean's Joliet (Ill.) special says: "The Illinois State Penitentiary Commissioners, now in session, have forwarded to the Department of Justice at Washington a notice that, owing to the labor trouble in this State and the probable legislation by Congress against the employment of convict labor, the penitentiary will refuse to receive any more Federal prisoners unless the Government agrees to defray the cost of keeping them."

Death by Suicide.

OWENSBORO, KY., March 21.—Wm. L. Fraikes, a farmer four miles from this place, committed suicide early this morning by hanging himself. He climbed up on the roof of his meat-house, secured one end of a rope to a timber, and with the other about his neck, jumped off. His head was almost severed. Fraikes leaves a wife and eight children. He was a sober and hard-working man. No cause for the deed is known.

Two Feet of Snow in Iowa.

DUBUQUE, IOWA, March 21.—The heaviest and most destructive snow-storm that has visited Dubuque in the past five years began here yesterday afternoon and continued until late this morning. The snow fell to a depth of over two feet and drifted until fences were hidden from view, and several frail buildings fell under its weight.

Two Persons Killed by Lightning.

WATERBURY, CT., March 21.—About one o'clock yesterday morning lightning struck a house in Watertown, occupied by Wm. McGaffey and Clarence Cook. One side of the building was almost demolished. Two daughters of Mr. McGaffey—Sarah, aged twenty, and Eliza, aged eighteen—were killed. The ground in the vicinity was entirely plowed up by the electric bolt.

Unsuccessful Safe-Blowers.

CAIRO, ILL., March 21.—The safe of Sanders & Son, grocers here, was blown open this morning, but the noise attracted the police, and the burglars fled without getting anything out of it.

Damages for Failing to Make a Will.

CONNERSVILLE, IND., March 21.—Miss Barbara Haumesser, of Madison, recently filed a claim against the estate of the late John Farner, County Coroner, for one-half the estate, alleging that the decedent agreed to provide for her in his will to that extent, which he failed to do. The jury in the trial last night gave her $3,050 damages.

Another Bond Call.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The Secretary of the Treasury will, on Monday next, issue a call for $10,000,000 three-per-cent. bonds. The call will mature on May 1.

Killed by the Explosion of a Shell.

GALVESTON, TEX., March 21.—Fred Gould, aged eighteen, was killed here to-day by the explosion of an old Shrapnel shell which had been found buried near the spot where the Confederate forces had established fortifications in 1862. Young Gould had opened five of the shells and secured the bullets within, but the sixth exploded between his knees.

Idle Workmen.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—According to the annual report of of the Government's Bureau of Labor seven and one-half per cent. of the industrial establishments of the country and nearly a million working people were idle during the year 1885.

XLIXTH CONGRESS.

First Session.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—SENATE.—Drawings and reports of the Nicaragua Canal were received from the Secretary of the Navy. The testimony taken in the examination of the scientific bureaus was reported and ordered to be printed. The Committee on Pensions reported a bill to pension disabled soldiers honorably discharged after six months' service; also for the relief of dependent parents of deceased soldiers. The House bill increasing widows' pension from eight to twelve dollars per month was taken up and passed without amendment. At 2 p. m. the Senate resumed consideration of the Edmunds report and resolutions, Mr. Cullom speaking. Mr. Maxey followed, and Mr. Dolph had the floor at adjournment.

HOUSE.—A resolution was adopted directing an inquiry into the truth of charges against the assistant doorkeeper of the House, alleging the collection of money by him from citizens of Jeffersonville, Ind., for securing an appropriation of $20,000 in the Forty-eighth Congress, for the improvement of the Ohio river near that place. The call of States, postponed from Monday, was made, and a number of bills and resolutions were introduced and referred. By a vote of 179 to 87 the rules were suspended, and a resolution offered by Mr. Bland, of Missouri, was adopted, fixing special days for the consideration of the bill for the free coinage of silver. The Inter-State Commerce bill was made a continuing order for April 13, by a vote of 195 to 44.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—SENATE.—Executive communications were received and referred and memorials presented. A joint resolution of the Maryland Legislature urged the improvement of the coast defenses. A resolution was agreed to directing an investigation of the alleged use and destruction of timber on public lands adjoining the Northern Pacific railroad. Mr. Hoar addressed the Senate on the electoral count bill. Mr. George opposed certain features. The bill was finally passed without division. An unsigned Presidential message was returned to the White House on motion of Mr. Cockrell, of Missouri. Mr. Dolph discussed the Edmunds report and resolutions. Senators Coke and Wilson followed. A spirited discussion on the merits of the controversy took place between Senators Beck and Edmunds, which was continued in executive session by a resolution proposing to make the papers in one of the cases public. This resolution was not agreed to.

HOUSE.—A number of resolutions calling for information were reported back and adopted. Among the bills reported from committees was one providing for the payment of the Fourth of July claims. The urgency deficiency bill was reported back with a recommendation that the Senate amendment for $30,000 expenses at the Grant funeral be non-concurred in. The committee could find no authority for such an appropriation, but precedent would justify the payment of those bills approved by General Hancock. Bills objected to were presented by the New York militia and amounted to $8,000 or $9,000. The report of the committee was agreed to. The Indian appropriation bill was taken up and debated. After reading by paragraphs for amendment the House adjourned at 5 o'clock.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—SENATE.—Executive communications were referred. The Inter-State commerce bill was made a special order for March 30, and the bankruptcy bill for March 31. The urgent deficiency bill was taken up and some amendments objected to by the House stricken out, while others were insisted upon. At 2 p. m. the Edmunds resolutions were debated by Senators Brown and Spooner. The Senate went into executive session at 5 o'clock, and at 5:10 p. m. adjourned.

HOUSE—Executive communications relating to appropriations were referred. Committee reports were received, among which was the bill to establish a uniform system of bankruptcy, to establish export tobacco warehouses, and to amend the brewers' bond section of the Revised Statutes. The bill conferring jurisdiction on the Court of Claims to investigate private claims other than war claims was considered. Pending a demand for the previous question, the bill went over. Debate on the Indian appropriation was resumed. Forty-two of the forty-eight pages were disposed of when the House adjourned.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—SENATE.—Memorials and petitions were received and referred. Among the bills passed was one to establish a National live-stock highway, along the east line of Colorado, two miles in width. A number of private pension bills were also passed. At 2 p. m. Mr. Spooner continued his speech on the Edmunds resolutions. He was followed by Mr. Saulsbury. Mr. Colquitt, of Georgia, took the floor, and the Senate adjourned until Monday.

HOUSE—The minority report on the bankruptcy bill was filed. A number of private bills were reported, and the House went into committee of the whole on the private calendar. April 10 was set apart for the consideration of bills reported from the Committee on Commerce. At 4:45 p. m. the House took a recess until 7:30 p. m. At the night session a number of private pension bills were passed. Price, of Wisconsin, objected to the passage of the bill to pension the widow of General Hancock at $2,000 per annum. He is the member who objected to the Grant bill.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—SENATE—Not in session.

HOUSE.—In the House discussion on the adverse report of the free coinage bill was begun, which was diverted by O'Donnell, of Michigan, in the speech against the removal of the duty on sugar. Hemphill, of South Carolina, opposed and Bynum, of Indiana, favored the bill. Adjourned.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—SENATE.—Among the memorials presented were several from the Iowa Legislature urging the passage of the Des Moines river lands title bill over the President's veto. Mr. Logan submitted a resolution to consider nominations in open session. Mr. Ingalls, in a resolution, wanted to know why information in regard to the number of fourth-class Postmasters had not been furnished by the Postmaster General as requested. The urgency deficiency bill was sent to a conference committee. Mr. Logan's bill to increase the efficiency of the army was considered. Pending action, the Senate resumed consideration of the Edmunds report. Mr. Colquitt, of Georgia, spoke. He was followed by Mr. Jackson, who had the floor when the Senate went into executive session at 5 o'clock. Adjourned at 5:40 p. m.

HOUSE.—The Chaplain prayed that the land might be rid of gamblers in cards, stocks, etc. A session was ordered for Thursday night to consider resolutions on the death of Representative Rankin. Bills passed increasing to fifty dollars a month the pensions of the widows of Commodores Spicer and Fillebrown. Bills were also passed granting a pension of fifty dollars a month to the widow of Rear Admiral Harwood, and $2,000 a year to the widow of General Hancock. The Committee on Public Lands reported a bill to forfeit certain lands granted to aid in the construction of the Northern Pacific Railroad. A resolution directing the Committee on Rules to report a rule by which the House might reach the Educational bill was offered, and withdrawn on the suggestion that opportunity to take action will be given on Monday next. Under the call of States a number of bills and resolutions were introduced, and at 4:45 p. m. the House adjourned.

Foreign Notes.

MADAME MARIA HEILBRON, the prima donna, died at Nice, France, on the 21st. She leaves a daughter thirteen years of age and a fortune of £120,000.

THE Greek Government has negotiated a loan of £800,000 in London.

SOCIALIST meetings are being held daily in Berlin, and are attended by thousands of workingmen. The police have been specially instructed to watch the meetings.

—"Ma, we'll have to cut Sue Fitzpercy," remarked Ethalinda De Wiggs. "Why so?" asked Mrs. De Wiggs. "Why, you know she is getting her dresses made for her wedding. Well, she invited me to look at what she called her 'traveling dress.' 'Traveling dress,' indeed! Why, she ought to know that the English term now is 'going-away dress.'" "Yes, indeed: If she's that vulgar we shall have to cut her, certainly."—Pittsburgh Chronicle.

—An order for a farm in Washington County, Ind., was received by a man, who wanted, also, if possible, "a local real estate agent there from an Ohio wife between the ages of twenty and forty-five years," to go with the farm.—Chicago Mail.

—Charles J. Sauter, of Dwyer, Ind., claims that there are but five madstones in the United States and that he owns one of them. He makes a profit of $1,500 a year off it.

—The mussel has been turned to account for stewing at North Haven, Me., and is already said to rival the oyster for that purpose among local epicures.

THE COMMONWEALTH.

Louisville Leaf Tobacco Market.

We quote 1885 tobaccos as follows for full weights and sound packages:

	Dark an' Heavy.	Burley.
Trash	$2 25@ 3 00	$3 50@ 4 25
Common lugs	3 00@ 4 00	4 25@ 5 25
Medium lugs	3 75@ 4 00	5 50@ 6 00
Good lugs	4 25@ 4 50	6 25@ 7 25
Common leaf	4 75@ 5 00	6 25@ 7 00
Medium leaf	5 25@ 6 25	7 00@ 9 00
Good leaf	7 25@ 8 25	9 50@12 25

Proceedings of the Legislature.

FRANKFORT, March 13.—SENATE.—Bills passed: Providing for moving of records in Muhlenberg County. Incorporating the American Accident Insurance Company. Creating Gabater Mill Magisterial District in Campbell County. To prevent hogs and sheep from running at large in Jefferson County. Amending auditor's agent act requiring itemized accounts and regular annual reports from said agents, under a penalty of $100 for failure to do so; amending charter of city of Covington; authorizing the city of Frankfort to issue bonds for school purposes; authorizing Wayne County to levy an ad valorem tax for bridge purposes; creating an additional voting precinct in the county of Campbell.

HOUSE.—The usual number of bills were introduced in the House this morning, and but little else was done. The Thomas bill, providing for check-weighmen at coal mines for the protection of the miners, was passed.

FRANKFORT, March 15.—SENATE.—In the Senate nothing was done, as it was in session but about forty minutes.

HOUSE.—The Revenue bill occupied nearly all the time in the House to-day, and almost to no purpose. The House decided to take up the bill each day at eleven o'clock and discharge the Committee of the Whole. Mr. Mulligan then moved to lay the bill on the table. Lost—yeas, 5; nays, 64. The following bills were passed: Senate bill incorporating the Ruthenburg Automatic Fire Extinguisher and Assurance Company; regulating terms and times of holding the Circuit Courts in the Thirteenth Judicial District. Amending an act for the benefit of the licensed keepers of stud-horses, jacks and bulls in this commonwealth. Senate bill to authorize the Pendleton County Court to issue bonds and provide means of redeeming and regulating the manner of executing sale and disbursement of funds. Speak Offutt introduced a resolution looking to the bringing in of a bill appropriating enough money to complete the branch penitentiary; to rescind summarily the contract for the convict labor with the present lessees, and to employ all the convicts now in mines on the branch penitentiary at Eddyville, and making the necessary appropriation to defray the expense of keeping the convicts. The resolution lies over one day. If its provisions are carried out some good measures may result.

FRANKFORT, March 26.—SENATE.—Bills passed: The vote by which the bill creating the Nineteenth Judicial District was passed, was reconsidered and substitute offered, and passed. Under the substitute the district is composed of the Counties of Estill, Powell, Lee, Clay, Perry, Letcher, Knott and Breathitt. The bill continuing the Superior Court was then called up in order to consider the House amendments thereto. Amendments concurred in. The Offutt resolution, looking to the solution of the penitentiary muddle, came up this morning and was discussed for an hour, but a vote on it was cut off at eleven o'clock by the Revenue bill. Quite a number of amendments were adopted to the Revenue bill, the most important of which was one taxing the owner of every pistol $2.50. There was considerable discussion as to whether church parsonages should be taxed or not, but finally decided that they should not by a vote of 36 to 34.

HOUSE.—Bills passed: Act amending an act establishing the South Covington District in Kenton County, exempting such lands as are used for dairy purposes from the provisions of said act and repealing Section 10 of said act; act incorporating the Bowling Green and Stallard Springs Telephone Company; act to re-establish two terms of the Fleming Circuit Court; Senate bill rechartering the town of Louisa, in Lawrence County; Senate bill incorporating the Proctor Coal Company; act incorporating the Boys' Home Society, of Louisville; Senate bill amending charter of the city of Ashland.

FRANKFORT, March 17.—SENATE.—Bills passed: Regulating the holding of Circuit Courts in the Thirteenth Judicial District; authorizing the county of Pendleton to subscribe stock to turnpike roads; authorizing Perry County to issue bonds to build a jail and court-house; amending an act providing for building a bridge over Greenriver in Hart County; to charter Supreme Lodge Brotherhood of Knights of Honor; House bill incorporating the Louisville Cemetery Association.

HOUSE.—Mr. Spaulding occupied the Speaker's chair this morning and appointed a committee to investigate the Offutt-Madden matter—Messrs. Thompson, Moss, Straus, Breathitt and Myers. They held a meeting and examined the two principal witnesses—Offutt and Madden. The committee will meet again to-morrow morning at eight o'clock to take further testimony. A resolution was adopted adjourning the House at one o'clock in honor of St. Patrick's Day. The Revenue bill was again taken under consideration and "perfected" as far as the twelfth section. One of the provisions as it now stands permits the stock in building associations to be taxed. It has heretofore been exempt.

FRANKFORT, March 18.—SENATE.—Bills passed: Authorizing the town of Carrollton to sell certain lands to the Federal Government to establish an ice depot. Regulating the transfer of appeals in Kenton County Courts. A resolution reciting that it is inexpedient and unwise to work convicts in the coal mines in this State was adopted.

HOUSE.—Mr. Owens called up the resolution fixing April 5 as the day for final adjournment, and on motion of Mr. Nesbitt it was laid upon the table by a vote of 36 to 29. The revenue bill then came up and was considered until nearly one o'clock, when the Offutt-Madden Investigating Committee made a report exonerating the Speaker. At the afternoon session to-day the House passed the following bills: Senate bill authorizing the creation of a Sinking Fund for the liquidation of the funded debt of the city of Newport. Senate bill amending charter of the Grand Lodge of Ancient Order of United Workmen, repealing section 7 empowering the organization of the Supreme Lodge; act amending charter of town of Bellevue. Campbell County, authorizing the trustees among others to increase the tax twenty-five cents on the $100. Senate bill incorporating Jessamine Confederate Memorial Association.

FRANKFORT, March 19.—SENATE.—Bills passed: Bill in regard to trade-marks on floating timber in the Ohio and Big Sandy rivers; to incorporate the Dayton and Ohio Turnpike Company in Campbell County; providing for the reorganization and maintenance of public school in Lima; amending the charter of the Shelby Railroad Company; incorporating the Cincinnati, Covington and Latonia Railroad Company; amending the charter of the city of Maysville; regulating the sale of liquors in Allen County; regulating the sale of fertilizers in this commonwealth; House bill incorporating the Frankfort, Bellepoint and Leestown Street Railroad Company, with an amendment.

HOUSE—The Thompson bill giving the county judges exclusive jurisdiction as examining courts in certain cases was amended so as to apply only to cases of homicide, and then passed. The Revenue bill then came up and the rest of the session was consumed in amending and discussing it. More progress was made on it to-day than all the days together heretofore.

Miscellaneous Items.

THE U. S. Marshal sold the steamer Ariadne at West Covington, for $3,525 to Captain F. Hopkins, for the Evansville and Cairo Packet Co.

AT Crab Orchard John W. Baker, colored, was beating a horse; D. G. Slaughter remonstrated, when Baker pulled a pistol and began shooting: missed twice and Slaughter shot him dead.

THE Louisville Buggy Company assigned. Liabilities about $7,000.

LIZZIE MIDDENDORF, a young mother, with her babe in her arms, jumped from the Covington and Cincinnati ferryboat a few days ago. She was buoyed up by her clothing and was rescued by men in a canoe after she had drifted nearly a mile. Just as the men grasped her she released her hold on the child and it was drowned.

THE barbers of Covington are engaged in a movement for closing shops at eight o'clock in the evening and all day on Sunday.

THE Kentucky Senate Committee on Propositions and Grievances reported adversely the House bill to establish the county of Carlisle.

SEVERAL prisoners, including one murderer, escaped from the Bardstown jail. The latter was recaptured.

AT Shelbyville, W. W. Knight, the oldest son of Rev. A. B. Knight, was taken a little sick the other day. He purchased a bottle of patent medicine, of which he took too much, which caused his sudden death sometime afterward. He was about 27 years of age. His parents are at their winter home in DeLand, Fla.

AT Nicholasville, Robert Smith, colored, who is to be hanged April 17 for the killing of his step-father, has made a full confession. This will be the first legal execution in Jessamine County since July 19, 1858.

BRECKINRIDGE.

Extracts From His Speech Delivered in the House of Representatives,

Upon the Widows' Pension Bill—Kentucky's Reputation Well Sustained.

In the House of Representatives, when the Pension Appropriation bill was pending, Representative Breckinridge, of Kentucky, was among the speakers, and his eloquent utterances caught the ear of the House and country. We publish herewith liberal extracts from his remarks:

Mr. Chairman, when the proposition came before the House to increase the rate paid to the widow and orphan 50 per cent., and a representative had to consider the elements which entered into his decision upon that proposition, the first fact which met him was that the present rate had been fixed years ago; that it had originally been agreed upon by a former generation of statesmen; that it had been accepted in the very throes of the war; that it had been unchanged when the money in which it was paid was at a large discount; that it had been received without complaint from 1862 to the present time. It was not, therefore, the question, shall the widow and orphan be pensioned? Nor was it the new question, to ascertain from careful calculation what was a fair rate; but it was to add, without any proof of necessity, without any cause given, 50 per cent. to a well-established and long accepted rate.

The next fact was that at the time at which it was offered was a time when a dollar had the largest purchasing power that it had possessed for many years. To-day, he who has a fixed salary is in a better relative condition than he has been for a quarter of a century or more. Every thing in the country has almost touched bottom prices. Never, since the war, has a pension been relatively so valuable as it is to-day. Never could it purchase so much of comfort, so much of whatever adds to the pleasure of human life. Instead of there being any necessity in the general state of the country and of its markets, and of its prosperity, why this change should be made, there was every reason why it should be at least postponed. For while the dollar was now more valuable than ever before, it was also harder to obtain. There is more sweat in the dollar that pays for labor in these hard days of winter than ever before in this country.

Everywhere are the unemployed stalwart men, with wives and children dependent upon them, standing idle in the market place, for no man hath employed them. The unpleasant symptoms of the unsatisfactory condition of labor obtrude themselves upon us on every side. The strikes, which, alas! are the protests of heart and muscle against unjust demands and unrequited toil; the labor organizations, by means of which co-operation may produce more justice and wiser treatment; the sad wails of poverty which come from every city, bear testimony that it is not the time to increase the burden of the laborer, to take more from the earnings of the toiler. There are other widows and other orphans than the widows and orphans of the soldiers, and every dollar added to pensions is, in part, taken from them. No war can be carried on by the soldiers alone. He who drives the plow or the plane, he who strikes the anvil or holds in its place the machinery which, with almost life-like intelligence, weaves the garments that are worn, are as truly the soldiers of the Republic as those who, with serried ranks, carried her banners to victory. They are the soldiers in the great battle of life, who deserve well of their country, and whose widows and orphans deserve our care and protection. In this discussion I pay a heartfelt tribute to the great army of the peaceful obscure, who in every rank and walk of life, through all their days of care and toil, perform well the part to which they are called; and I hesitate with sincere reluctance to vote any added dollar for any cause to the burdens which are already so hard to be borne.

I plead to-day the cause of the humble home, whose father, buried in an adjoining grave, did not go to the war, but with equal patriotism did his part in the great battle of life. It is not only the soldier element that we are to legislate for, but it is every element of the country in every part of the country. These are the conditions that stares in the face every man who had to pass an intelligent consideration upon this subject.

The provision made by existing laws for pension is in its aggregate startling; I will not attempt to show that it is unreasonable. But I do mean to say that before any increase of it ought to be made the necessity therefor should be demonstrated. The amount paid for pensions up to the 30th of June, 1885, is reported to be the sum of $765,092,640.18. To this must be added the sum of $60,000,000 appropriated for the current year. These aggregate $825,095,650.18. To this add the amount covered by the present bill, $75,754,200. These various sums aggregate $900,849,840.18, which is the sum that has been or will be paid under the laws as they now exist up to June 30, 1887. To this must be added that unknown sum which will have to be paid to those pensioners whose applications, yet undecided, will be allowed. How large this may be is a mere matter of speculation. Some have estimated it (as I see from the admirable and well-tempered speech of the gentleman from Georgia, Mr. Crisp) as adding enough to the present annual appropriation to require the annual expenditure of $125,000,000. Others make it much smaller, but it certainly will not be less than somewhere about $100,000,000, and that for a series of years.

Mr. Chairman, these figures do not, of themselves create any very distinct conception in our minds of their magnitude. I find in Spofford's American Almanac that the assessable value of all properties in the great State of Texas is $562,103,227, and in the prosperous State of Kansas $248,845,227, which, added together, is $810,948,510, which is over $14,000,000 less than we have paid for pensions by the 30th of June, 1886. Kentucky owns $123,775,589 and Iowa $465,747,387. These two States combined ($889,522,976) are $11,000,000 less than the amount we will have paid by the 1st of July, 1887, under existing laws, without the addition of a single pensioner on the rolls. The rich State of Illinois reports $798,341,320, which is in round numbers $30,000,000 less than the amount we will have paid to pensioners by the end of this current fiscal year.

Mr. Chairman, if we could make these dull figures instinct with life, if we could transform them into smiling landscapes, fertile fields, growing cities, loving homes—if we could see them turned into the implements of industry and the herds and flocks which graze upon our fields and bring comfort and prosperity to our homes, and then realize that these lands and homes and flocks have been, so far as value is equivalent thereto, paid in installments year by year under these laws which have been passed for the benefit of but a single class of our citizens, we might form some conception of the magnitude of these sums.

Of course I do not mean to be understood as representing that all the sums mentioned have been paid to and for those who served in the late war, or that there will be a permanent annual expenditure of either $100,000,000 or $75,000,000. Part of the sum—in itself considerable, but relatively quite small—has been and will be paid on account of the war of 1812. And as the pending claims are allowed there will be an increase in the amount needed, then the climacteric having been reached, there will a gradual decrease. For how many years and to what extent this increase will continue no one can with any accuracy foretell. Certainly the amounts will reach into the hundred millions. And we may obtain some conception of the time this burden will rest on industry by looking at the pension-roll of the war of 1812.

Seventy-one years ago that war ended—over two generations have passed away; and yet on June 30, 1885, there was 20,157 persons receiving pensions on account of the services rendered by themselves or their husbands therein. Compare the mighty armies of the last struggle—the multitudinous host which demonstrated to an astonished world that America was the most warlike nation that the world ever saw—with the mere handfuls of men that on our northern frontier, that at Lundy's Lane or the Thames, at the River Raisin, or on the plains of Chalmette crowned the rolling mistress of the West with unfading glory, and we may perhaps realize how at the end of fifty more years the pension-roll, even though a list of honor, will be a burden; so that any increase of either rate or class means an increase of burden for at least fifty years.

It will also be borne in mind that the object of the pension law is not to support, but it is to assist in supporting its beneficiaries. It is impossible so to frame such a law as to help only those who absolutely need help. Such laws must be, in their nature and in their provision, general; applicable to classes as classes, and not to each individual in the peculiar circumstances of his particular case. The country does not undertake to furnish full support for all the persons on its pension roll, nor would it be able so to do. So the rates must be adjusted to aid in the support of those who are its objects.

Mr. Chairman, the addition to the annual expenditures by the passage of this widows' bill is estimated to be $6,106,922, which capitalized at 4 per cent. is a real addition to our public debt of $152,673,050. If our annual appropriations for pensions be no greater than the amount covered by the bill now under discussion ($75,754,200), it capitalized at 4 per cent. is an addition to our fixed indebtedness of $1,893,855,000. In view of these figures and of the present condition of the country, I, for one, am not willing to go any farther in this road, which leads, first, to repeal of the limitation on the arrears of pensions to every one whose name was borne on the rolls of the army during the war. No one can estimate what cost awaits us if we pursue this farther.

It is the misfortune of this weak human nature of ours that the noblest emotions may cause lower and meaner motives; gratitude and justice to the soldier may give place to the attempt to gain or retain power by means of extravagant pensions. I impugn no man's motives; I criticise the vote of no Representative; but history reveals the dangers which lie in wait. The expenditure is startling and destructive of every present hope of development, retrenchment and revision. But this is not its worst effect. It emasculates the courage of our public men; it tempts to low views concerning public moneys, and it fosters a spirit of dependence on Government bounty. It may be years before—God grant it may be never—that stalwart men will fill the air with shouts of "panem ac ludes!" "bread and game!" but this has been and may be. Let us appeal to the loftier spirit of self-dependence.

These soldiers are our brethren—bone of our bone, blood of our blood—and want us to be frank and just. To them I confidently appeal from the clamors made ostensibly in their name. With them I am persuaded there is no desire to see heavier burdens laid on other people; they are not clamorous to live on the sweat of their neighbors and friends, of men as brave and as poor as they. I receive with some incredulity statements as to the poverty and sad necessities of any considerable number of the beneficiaries of these pensions. That some of them are in distress is undoubtedly too true. This is true of persons of every vocation in life. The fight to keep the wolf from the door, the strife to make "tongue and buckle meet," the ceaseless battle against sickness, misfortune, weakness, no doubt has gone against some of the most worthy. This is the not uncommon lot of humanity. But that any considerable number of the Federal soldiers or their families are objects of charity or inmates of poor-houses I can not believe. It is not so in my section; I never knew a Federal soldier in a poor-house. As a rule they are well-to-do, fairly successful, and more than usually thrifty. The qualities which as a rule urged them to volunteer and to persevere—the energy, earnestness, courage, enterprise, which made the Federal army what it was—characterizes them in peace and brings their usual reward.

Mr. Chairman, it can not be; it would be a slander on the army of conquest. I recall another disbanded army—the army of the conquered—whose soldiers have received no pensions. These had borne four years of march and battle, had stood in the opposing ranks exposed to the storm of shell and shot. They returned, not to prosperous communities, rich and happy, not to homes of plenty, but to a land desolate, conquered, in ashes. Without pensions they have fought the fight of life.

Mr. Chairman, all these soldiers were of common blood; to-day they are brothers; and I will not believe, I can not believe, that those who were victorious in war have not been fairly successful in peace.

For the brave soldier I have naught but esteem. To him who from conviction offered his life on the wager of the battle I uncover my head and offer my hand. By a tie of common manhood and like service we are brothers. To-day between us there can be no other rivalry than for our country's good—for her glory. He who gave his services to his country can now do her no greater benefit than to call a halt in this wild chase for pensions. The day of reckoning must come; the day of payment will be the day of judgment.

The sober, solid, grave mass of the people, I confidently believe, agree with these views. For one, here I halt.

I do not mean to say, sir, that I am not willing to put individuals on those rolls who for some technical or other reason can not be placed upon the pension rolls; nor that in certain specified cases, where the disability is of an exceedingly grave and painful character, I might not be willing to increase the rates received, or in some given case, for reasons peculiar to it, that I would not gladly vote whatever might seem to be just; and I am willing, and more than willing, to give to the veterans who in the Mexican war won for us an empire so vast and so rich and opened to us the gateway to other and not yet realized benefits, some testimonial not only of gratitude, but of the justice of the country whose area they so greatly increased, and whose pathway to a higher destiny they so gloriously widened.

And I entreat that from this time forward that you marry indissolubly in the same bill increase of pensions to the mode of raising the necessary revenue; no longer let the vast expenditures be hidden amid the rhetorical generalities about our great wealth and overflowing coffers, but let us come down to the practical calculation of the wise builder in the parable, and see where and determine how the needed moneys are to be raised. If we will increase this debt to run for fifty years, let us dedicate a tax to its payment—a tax to be as sacred as the debt. Then we will deal candidly with the country, with the taxpayers, with the pensioners, and with ourselves. It is either mere hypocrisy or folly to thus increase our expenditures, to make promises so solemn, and then neglect to provide specifically for their payment.

Now, when the coasts of the Republic are defenseless, when a dependent race, enfranchised by the march of events, needs care and education; when the fortifications have rotted on our coast, and our flag has nearly disappeared from the seas; when the monetary system calls for revision and the tariff system calls for modification and reduction, I for one must halt before I go further in increasing either the lists of pensioners or the amounts that are to be paid them. When, sir, we are called upon to vote additions to these startling amounts, the additions in part to be borne by my people, I will not allow any man on this floor to challenge my vote for any past conduct of mine or anybody else.

It is no answer to my conscience or my heart when men say to me: "You must vote so and so or you will be suspected." I will vote as I believe the best interests of the people, for to-day and to-morrow and for years to come, require at my hands.

There are other things I wished to say, but I have only a few moments remaining. May I be pardoned, in conclusion, for personal allusion. I feel I can speak with absolute frankness. I have no concealment; I have nothing to hide.

Mr. Chairman, I believe that I represent in the vote that I have cast and that I may hereafter cast that noble and beloved constituency which has intrusted me with its representation. In its boundaries there are no animosities growing out of the war, nor has there been for years. May I be pardoned, merely to illustrate the condition of that district, a personal allusion? Of the two grown men who are dearest to me, one served four years in the Confederate army, one four years in the Federal army; suckled at the same breast, instructed at the same knee, in early boyhood becoming motherless, between the three there is only confidence and affection. There was a fourth for whom the mother gave her life, and who seemed to grow up with the sunny lovingness that made that mother dear to all with whom she came in contact. In the early flush of his young manhood he laid his life, a Federal soldier, upon the altar of his duty, and he lies at the feet of a venerable man whose earnest, intense, and able devotion to the Union of the States is well known among the people from whom I came.

Standing by those graves and looking across the bluegrass sward, can be seen in concentric circles the headstones of the Federal dead, and not far off on the slope of a beautiful hillside, under the shade of forest trees, stands the St. Andrew's cross, draped with the furled banner on the broken flag-staff of a dead confederacy, guarding in its white purity the graves of those who gave their lives for that flag. Scattered all over that beautiful cemetery are the fathers and sons and brothers who served in opposing armies; and in the adjoining city, and through all the adjacent country, are those who loved those dead heroes, and live now in sweet accord, forgetful of all that was harsh and bitter, remembering with grateful piety only that which was brave and kindly and heroic. Among those people it has been my happiness to dwell—my hope to die and there to lie until the resurrection morn, so that when the sun of righteousness comes in the East, and I rise to meet its beams, the first sight upon which my risen eyes may fall shall be the faces of those who, however divided we may have been in our views of duty, were never divided in our love. [Great applause.]

Mr. Chairman, with memories like these, with ties like these, conscious of the rectitude of the motives which control the vote that I give, I shall meet with contempt all effort to intimidate, all purpose to misconstrue, speaking, acting, voting, as an American representative on the floor of the American Congress, officially the full peer of any other representative, come from where he may, whatever he may have been. It is our country, and I shall keep in view, with ceaseless care, her honor, her prosperity and her glory, awaiting with calm confidence the decision of the tribunals to which I am responsible, my own conscience, and the generous people whose commission I bear. [Prolonged applause.]

—A man in New York, who pretended to cure by astrology, and did not even know the names of the planets, has been sent to jail for swindling his patients. That an astrologist should know the names of the planets is a ridiculous notion. It is the "stars" in his police district that he should "know," in order to prosecute his business unmolested.—Norristown Herald.

—Street-car-companies only own the surface of such streets as they choose to occupy. Below the surface the gas and water-works companies are sole proprietors. Above, the wire concerns—such as telegraph, telephone and electric companies—are supreme. Any other odd space that may happen to be about is used by the city for storing dirt.—N. O. Picayune.

THE RECORDER.

WEDNESD'Y, MARCH 24, 1886.

RIDDELL & HALL,
Proprietors.

Rates of Subscription.

One year	$1 50
Six months	75
Three months	40

☞Payment invariably in advance.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1 Column	1 year	$80
1	"	40
1	"	20
"	"	20
"	"	10
"	"	6

We are authorized to announce Col. WARREN MONTFORT, of Owen Co., as a candidate for Circuit Judge in this Judicial District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce P. U. MAJOR as a candidate for reelection to the office of Circuit Judge, in this district, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce GEO. C. DRANE as a candidate for the office of Circuit Judge in this district, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorize to announce THOS. R. GORDEN, of Owen county, as a candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney in this 11th Judicial District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce JNO. S. GAUNT, of Carroll county, as a candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney in this, 11th Judicial District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce H. J. FOSTER as a candidate for reelection to the office of County Superintendent, subject to the primary election, first Saturday in April 1886.

We are authorized to announce JOHN P. RYLE, of Carlton Precinct, as a candidate for County Superintendent, subject to the action of the primary election, April 3, 1866.

We are authorized to announce M. C. NORMAN, of Union, as a candidate for County Judge, subject to the primary election, Saturday April 3, 1886.

We are authorized to announce EDWIN H. BAKER as a candidate for County Judge, subject to the Primary election, Saturday, April 3, '886.

W. L. Riddell is a candidate for re-election to the office of Circuit Clerk, subject to the action of the primary election, April 3d, 1886.

We are authorized to announce M. T. GARNETT as a candidate for re-election to the office of County Clerk, subject to the action of the primary election April 3, '86.

We are authorized to announce J. R. CLUTTERBUCK, as a candidate for re-election to the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the primary election April 3.

We are authorized to announce S. W. TOLIN as a candidate for re-election to the office of County Attorney, subject to the action of the primary election April 3, '86.

We are authorized to announce L. C. YAGER, jr., of Florence as a candidate for County Attorney, subject to the action of the primary election April 3, 1886.

We are authorized to announce G. M. RILEY as a candidate for re-election to the office of Assessor, subject to the action of the primary election, Saturday, April 3, 1886.

We are authorized to announce W. E. VEST as a candidate for reelection to the office of Survey, subject to the action of the primary election April 3, 1880.

FOR copying assessor's books the State paid last year $24,754. 03.

THE fees of jailers in Kentucky last year amount to $91,165 03.

REVENUE BILL is more than a match for the boys in the legislature.

A Boyle-county mule has attained the age of 55 years, and still insists on being a colt, gay and frisky.

A CLAUSE in the State Revenue Bill, under consideration by the Legislature, that provides that every pistol shall be taxed $2.15.

A BILL to incorporate the Louisville Natural Gas and Heating Company, together with numerous other private bills, passed the House. Good.

No doubt a few old fashioned knock-downs in the lower house of the Kentucky legislature would facilitate business. More fights and fewer investigating committees are needed.

As yet the convict trouble in Pulaski county has not been solved. There has been no collision between the troops and the miners who are deprived of work. They are awaiting a peaceful solution, but the legislature seems to be at a loss to arrive at a satisfactory disposition of the trouble.

THE farmers should not let fine weather beget such a desire to hasten their plowing as to prompt them to over work their teams before they become hardened and prepared to stand crowding. A team which is broken down at the beginning of the season will not recover during the cropping season, although great pains are taken to revive it.

THE Capital of the 20th inst., has a very striking portrait of Hon. Reuben Conner, followed by this brief biographal sketch:

"One of the solid men in the House of Repsentatives is Hon. Reuben Conner, of the county of Boone. He was for twenty years a magistrate in his county, and served in the Kentucky Legislature in 1879-'80. He is a farmer, and resides at Richwood. Mr. Conner is a pleasant, affable gentleman, quiet, but observant, and a safe, reliable law-maker. He is about sixty years old, but looks younger. He is a married man. His committee assignments have been important ones, viz: Penitentiary and Ways and Means.

THE BRANCH PENITENTIARY.

In the Senate Mr. J. H. McDanell, chairman of the Committee on Eddyville Penitentiary, submitted the following report which was ordered printed.

"We the undersigned, your committee appointed to visit and inspect the branch Penitentiary, at Eddyville, would respectfully report that we have, in conjunction with a committee from the House of Representatives, visited Eddyville, and we confess our surprise at the magnitude of the enterprise and the progress of the work.

The prison is located about one-half mile east of the Chespeak, Ohio and Southwestern Railroad, on the north bank of the Cumberland river on a beautiful knoll, the summit of which is one hundred and ninety feet above low water mark, and the front one hundred and twenty-seven feet above; ten and one-half acres of land surrounded by a substantial stone wall twenty-three feet high, constructed of stone ranging in size from three and one-half to seven feet long from thirteen to twenty-eight inches thick, with base three feet and two feet at the top, with coping projection of eighteen inches on either side forming a convenient foot way around on top, with hollow octagon corners, forming a guardhouse on top accessible only from the outside, giving the guard a full view of the walls on either side, without the least exposure from danger and weather. The entire structure and walls are laid in lime and cement, and built on a natural stone foundation, the entire walls inclosing the ten and one-half acres of land, except 388 feet, which is now in course of construction.

The two main entrances, on each front corner, are so constructed as to require you to pass through two gates, about forty feet apart, neither of which can be opened unless the other is closed, and will be so arranged as to be operated by a gate-keeper in the guard-house, over the entrance, having a full view of all approaches. The buildings constitutes the front wall, and front Cumberland river, containing offices, cell-house chapel and dining halls. Here will be 413 cells, eighty of which are now about finished. They are constructed after the most improved plan now in use, and universally commended by all prisoners, and are like those in Joliette, Ills., prison, each provided with a current of pure air, by means of a tube for that purpose, and with a foul air escape, a sanitary arrangement unexcelled.

An especial feature in regard to the construction of these cells is that the doors are so arranged that when each prisoner is to be locked in for the night, an entire tier of doors can be closed and locked simultaneously, by means of a spring operated by an unexposed guard, and can be opened and closed, independent of each other. The plan and architecture of the whole building, so far as we are capable of judging, is perfect.

With a front on the north bank of the Cumberland river, which is navigable at all seasons of the year, the location affords both officers and prisoners an enchanting view for at least eight miles up and down that beautiful river, and over a stretch of country, the scenery of which is unexcelled by any other location in that country; besides the prisoners have the benefit of the pure breeze from the south, east and west in the summer, and are sheltered from the wintry winds by the dense forest on the hills. On the north the drainage of the prison ground is perfect, the supply of water abundant, from a pure and inexhaustible running spring; the Cumberland waters can be easily and cheaply utilized for power to operate any machinery the State may in the future place within the walls.

To much praise can not be accorded the administrative and executive ability of General Lyon for the manner in which he is conducting the works, which is much cheaper for the State than under the contract system, and when the State contractors threw up their contract and failure threatened the enterprise, the General, prompted by an interest of true devotion to his State, pledged his individual estate, fifty thousand dollars ($50,000), took personal charge of the enterprise, and has, by his active management, prosecuted the work with a vigor and economy highly commendable, and we doubt if there was ever more work done in so short a time and with as little outlay as since he took charge.

The State has about 100 acres of land, with abundance of timber, inexhaustible quarries, already opened of the finest stone in the world, seven hundred thousand brick already burnt and already for use, $1,500 worth of machinery, brick machines, derricks and engines, one thousand yards of goods for suiting for prisoners, $5,000 worth of stone cut and ready for the wall, twenty-eight head of mules and two horses all in fine condition and sound, has fed, clothed and guarded the prisoners, one hundred and fifteen in number, for one year and five months, and but two deaths, one a consumptive and one a boy who died with pneumonia. This is a mortality as favorable as could be hoped for. The prisoners are comfortably clothed, well fed and all look healthy.

They hire no labor except guards and stone-cutters, and hope to be able to complete the structure within eighteen months, or even less time, provided the appropriation is made available. The only delay in the progress of the work since General Lyon took hold of the enterprise has been that the appropriation has not at all times been available. This fact alone has, we are informed, retarded the progress of the works at least twenty-five per cent.

This prison, once completed, will afford ample accommodation for all the prisoners the State is likely to have at one time, and will be one of the best, if not the best penitentiary in the United States, a credit to the State and a happy solution of the vexed question of competition between prison and free labor, now agitating the public mind and threatening hostility and bloodshed. Therefore, your committee would unanimously recommend a further appropriation of not exceeding three and one-half cents on the $100 of taxable property of the State, which shall be levied and collected as a separate and special fund for that purpose, and that commissioners be furnished all the prison labor they desire or can use, and that they be assisted and urged to prosecute the work to an early completion. All of which is respectfully reported.

J. H. McDANELL,
Chairman Senate Committee.
WM. P. THORNE,
Chairman House Committee.

Points for Wives.

Don't disturb your husband while he is reading the morning or evening paper by asking foolish questions. He may be reading the latest scandal or divorce suit, but he is just as much interested as though it were foreign news or market reports. Be patient, and when he comes across anything he thinks you can comprehend, perhaps he will read it to you.

Don't put the morning paper at the bottom of the pile, and don't have more than a dozen different places for the button hook.

Don't monopolize every hook in the closet. Graciously tender him one nail for his very own—and then in mercy hang your Mother Hubbard, your pelerine, your shopping bag and your bonnet some other place.

Don't ask him where he has been the moment he enters the house, or where he is going if he starts out for a walk before breakfast. It nettles him, and men hate to have such pointed questions sprung upon them. Besides that, we live under a free flag.

Don't indulge in flights of temper when your husband suggests how his mother did. If he objects to having eggs boiled in the tea-kittle, and prefers them washed previous to cooking, endeavors to please him by indulging him in his fancies. In the meantime, bring your sons up as carefully as you can, and when they are married you yourself will doubtless be held up as an example of virtue—and revenge is sweet.—Chicago Herald.

SOME time ago the Star entered its protest against the destruction of birds that is now going on to an alarming extent all over the country. The feathered victims are utilized for millinery purposes, and the ruthless destroyer, whose name is legion, like David of old, slays his ten thousands every year. In one season 40-000 terns were killed at Cape Cod by one man; at Cobb's Island, Va., a contractor bagged and shipped to the Paris market 40,000 skins of gulls, and Texas sent several lots of white egrets, in quantities of 10,000 each, to New York, to supply the demand for fashionable plumes. The fashion that would extinguish the birds is neither humane nor civilized; it is simply cruel, and should be abandoned.

THE Chicago Times prints reports on the condition of the winter wheat crop covering the entire belt from Ohio to the Pacific slope. One third of the crop has suffered more or less from winter killing during the last thirty days. This acreage it from eight to ten per cent below the acreage of 1885. The conclusions are substantially these: March 12, the prospects are fair for an average crop with favorable weather during the next thirty days, but there are no indications of a full or excessive crop. A most encouraging outlook comes from the Pacific slope.

LEXINGTON and Fayette county could hardly be expected to pay $500,000 for the State capital. If we are going to spend a half million in any enterprise, we will put the money where it will do us more good than investing it in getting the capital removed here. That sum would bring a hundred manufacturing concerns here, a few of which would be worth more to the city than anything else.—Transcript.

Col. Tom Bowman told us the middle of this week that he had 60 acres of ground ready for corn, and the first of next week he would begin putting in his crop. He says that most of our farmers wait too late in the season to put in their grain, and the drought, if their is one, generally catches the crop at a vital point.—Harrodsburg Democrat.

SUICIDE STATISTICS.

Curious Features Presented by a Recent Statistical Report.

It is a well established law that the suicides in summer are far more numerous than in winter, although at first sight it would seem that the hardships and privations of winter in cold climates would be a direct incentive to ending life. The statistics of suicide in the United States for June, July and August of August of 1885 present some curious features. The total number was 420, distributed as follows: June, 157; July, 142; August, 121. Insanity leads the list of predisposing causes, claiming no less than 101 victims; family trouble comes next with 48; love trouble caused 37, dissipation 25, destitution 21, business trouble 17 and grief 5, while chagrin at parental discipline led 5 foolish children to end their lives. It is a popular delusion that the married are more exempt from the despondency that leads to self-destruction than the single, but these statistics disprove this assertion. They show that the husbands led the list of suicides last summer with a total of 180, while the philosophic bachelors came lagging after with only 92. Women are chary of yielding up the opportunity to make some man their slave, for only 34 wives and 26 maids took this desperate course to end their troubles. Fifteen widowers decided to leave this cold world and not attempt another experience with fickle woman, while only six widows despaired of their power over the other sex. It is commonly supposed that drowning has peculiar attractions for the suicide in the warm summer months, but these figures show that the ghastly method of exit with the pistol appealed to 145, while 82 used cold poison. Next came hanging, which claimed 54, and drowning 53, while 39 cut their throats and 3 adopted the classical method of opening their arteries. The method of jumping from great heights, which used to have a strange fascination for many suicides, seems to have lost its force, as only 6 adopted it in these three months.

In regard to nationality some interesting comparisons are suggested. Of course, the Americans lead the list with 147, but the Germans contribute an abnormal number—no less than 51. The French come next with 18, the Irish follow with 12 and the English with 10. The Chinese are away down on the list with only one coolie who concluded to venture to that other shore where the red certificate is unknown. In regard to occupation, the farmer, who, according to the philosophers, ought to have the best balance of temperament because of his outdoor life and his communion with nature, leads all other workers, numbering in the three summer months 34. Philosophy aside, no doubt loneliness and the lack of innocent amusement in American country life have much to do with this large percentage of the tillers of the soil. With more cheerful surroundings and freedom from the excessive toil which especially falls to the lot of the farmer's wife, the result might to be far different. The American farmer in the older-settled States makes work a fetish. There is little light in his life, and although he rarely feels the pinch of want he has few of the innocent pleasures which go far to relieve the drudgery of the mechanic or the clerk in the large city. Of the other occupations which cut any figure in the record of suicide, the merchant leads with 16, the manufacturer follows with 13, then come saloon-keeper, 10; laborer, 9; and commercial traveler, 8. The high proportion of some of these is due without doubt to the hard times which force many business men to the wall and seem to leave them, in their despondent condition, only one way of safety out of their troubles. It is remarkable that the learned professions and the other occupations which demand some intellectual culture do not furnish any material addition to the list, but it is noticeable that no less than five ministers committed suicide. To what this is attributable it would be difficult to say.—San Francisco Chronicle.

CHEAP LIVING.

Getting Along on Less Than Three Hundred a Year.

"A man can live cheaply nowadays," said a well-known business man to a Globe reporter. "Why, you can start by buying a newspaper for 2 cents, and look for the prices of boots and shoes; he finds a kind which will wear three months and he only has $1 to pay for them. Next he looks for stockings, finds that some large store is having a run on such goods and that he can get a pair for 4 or 5 cents and warranted to wear well. He buys a pair for each week, and saves a pair or so for accidents; that makes sixty pairs of stockings at 5 cents each, $3. He then looks for underwear. He has two sets to get, price $3, and he can get a suit of clothes for about $8, and a hat for $1. Collars cost very little, and 80 cents will buy enough to last a long time.

"If you have noticed you probably saw that bosom shirts may be purchased for 50 cents, and he will need three, and an overcoat can be purchased for $7.50, and gloves are ready at hand for 70 cents. Now you foot the list up, and you will find that it costs but $29.50 to clothe the man for a year. Throw in $13.50 for washing for the past year and your bill foots up to $43.

"I can say from my own experience that there are many places in the city where one can secure good living for $120 a year for food. Now, by adding perhaps $34 for extravagances or incidental expenses, you have a grand total of $275 for the year's expenses or $5.29 a week, which is 75 4-7 cents a day, and almost any man can save on that. If people only realized how little it took to live there would be more money saved."—Boston Globe.

—A peculiar accident occurred recently at South Abington, Mass. The Brockton branch train, when running around the Y curve, jumped the rails, ran quite a distance on the sleepers, and then, striking a patent switch, took to the rails again in good style, without doing the slightest damage to the train, merely giving the passengers a good shaking up.—Boston Journal.

NOTICE.

The stockholders of the Petersburg & Burlington turnpike company are hereby notified that an election will be held in the towns of Petersburg and Burlington on the 1st Monday in April 1886, for the purpose of electing a president and five directors for the ensuing year.

N. S. WALTON, Secty.

FOR SALE!

Henry County Farm of 120 acres, situated on pike 1 mile from Smithfield, on Louisville & Lexington Railroad, 31 miles from Louisville. Said farm has on it a good frame house, of 8 rooms, good barn and all other outbuildings, and never failing water, convenient to good schools and churches. The land is first-class, all in grass but 25 acres, which is in wheat, 25 acres of fine tobacco land which has never been cultivated. Terms reasonable. For further information apply to

B. D. SRCKOIN, Smithfield, Ky.
Henry county. 52-3m

LAND FOR SALE.

50 acres good land near Constance, this county. All in grass and well watered. Terms easy—apply to this OFFICE.

R E A D!

Feeling the urgent necessity of a first-class Drug Store in Bellevue, and ever willing to cater to the wishes of a generous public, I have just opened a fresh stock of Drugs & Patent Medicines.

—Terry & Co's Brands of Tea.—

Ibold's Brand of Cigars & Tobacco.

—Perfumery and Fancy Toilet Articles.—

Paints Ready For Use,

From a gallon can down to the smallest.

WHITE LEAD, OILS, VARNISHES, DYE-Stuffs, Brushes, Etc., Etc.

I will furnish to any one wishing to paint their house or barn, any kind of paint at two days notice, at the lowest cash prices. Give me a call.

A good barber shop attached and work satisfactory.

W. M. BALSLY.

1886 THE COURIER-JOURNAL. 1886

AN ORGAN OF

LIVING IDEAS AND LIVE ISSUES.

AN ENEMY OF

Monopolies, Oligarchism, and the Spirit of Sectional Strife.

The Courier-Journal (HENRY WATTERSON Editor-in-Chief), is the acknowledged Representative Newspaper of the South, is Democratic in politics, and first, last, and all the time is for a reduction of the War Taxes as levied on the people by the tariff now in force.

The Weekly Courier-Journal

is the best weekly newspaper published in the United States, and for the quantity and quality of matter that appears in each issue of it, it is the CHEAPEST. Its telegraphic news facilities surpass any other paper, and it has the services of the ablest writers and correspondents in the country. It presents the news of the week from every section of the World. It gives to its readers throughout the year a greater number of Serial and Short Stories by prominent and popular writers than any of the high-priced magazines. It is in every respect a Model Political and Family Paper.

The Weekly Courier-Journal has by far the Largest Circulation of any Democratic Newspaper in America.

It is acknowledged by press and people throughout the United States to be a great paper; great in size; great in enterprise; great in ability; great in its correctness of information; great in variety; great in every sense of the word. It is the paper that everybody should have. To be without it is a great opportunity lost. Those who once take it are not willing to be without it in their homes.

FREE PREMIUMS.

A list of handsome and useful premiums of great variety are offered free to yearly subscribers. On receipt of a request for them, we send free of charge a sample copy of Weekly Courier-Journal and our Premium Supplement, giving our full list of premiums, to any address.

SUBSCRIPTION TERMS.

Weekly, one year, including a free premium	$1.50
Weekly, in clubs of five and over, without premium, each	1.10
For every club of five names sent us at one time, the sender of club will be sent as a present any one of our free premiums selected by him.
Daily, (except Sunday), one year	$10.00
Daily, (except Sunday), six months	5.00
Daily, (except Sunday), one month	1.00
Sunday, one year	2.00
Sunday, six months	1.00

No traveling agents are employed by the Courier-Journal, but a good local agent is wanted for it in every community, to whom a liberal cash commission is allowed. If the Courier-Journal has no local agent in your neighborhood, send to us for our Agent's Canvassing Outfit, which we send free of charge. All subscription orders, requests for outfits, sample copies, etc., should be addressed to

W. N. HALDEMAN,
President Courier-Journal Co.,
LOUISVILLE, KY.

REPORT OF THE CONDITION OF THE Farmers & Traders National Bank AT COVINGTON.

In the State of Kentucky, at the close of business, March 1, 1886.

RESOURCES.

Loans and discounts		$577 951 88
Overdrafts		2,283 94
U.S. Bonds to secure circulation		50,000 00
U. S. Bonds on hand		100,000
Due from approved reserve-ed agents		55,808 76
Due from other Nat'l Banks		7,404 52
Due from banks and bankers		4,741 23
Real est., furniture & fixtures		1,668 91
Current expenses and taxes		3,158 22
Premiums paid		31,312 50
Checks and other cash items	812 31
Bills of other Banks	3,000 00
Frac. paper currency, nickles and pennies	130 97
Specie	10,600 00
Legal tender notes	25,000 00	—39,572 61
Redemption fund with U. S. Treas., (5 per cent. circulation)		2,250 00
Total		$978,153 67

LIABILITIES.

Capital stock pd in		$300,000 00
Sur, lus fund	$30,000 00
Undivided profits	13,408 05—	43,408 05
N't'l Bank notes outstanding		45,000 00
Individual dep'ts subject to check	363 452 09
U. S. Deposits	75,000
Due to other N't'l Banks	25,240 29
Due to State B'ks and bankers	26,053 24—	489,745 67
Total		$878,153 67

State of Kentucky, County of Kenton ss

I, John L. Sandford, Cashier of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

JOHN L. SANDFORD, Cashier.

James S. Wayne, Pres't.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 6th day of March, 1886.

A. KLOENTRUP, Notary Public.

Correct—Attest:

M. C. Mutch,
J. H. Mersman,
E. J. Hickey,
} Directors.

FARM IMPLEMENTS.

Buy your Farming Implements, Fence Wire, Cutting Boxes, Feed Grinders, Corn Shellers, Road Scrapers, Excavating Carts, Sewing Machines, Mowers and Reapers and

Deering TWINE Binders,
GROCERIES, &c.
READY MIXED PAINT.
—of—
J. C. Smith,
Successor to W. H. Hill & Co.
22 and 24 EAST THIRD STREET,
Cincinnati, Ohio.

Or of our local Agent C. W. RILEY, North Bend, Ohio, (Ky. Box). All goods sold strictly on their merits.

OPIUM and WHISKY HABITS cured at home without pain. BOOK of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.

County Directory.

OFFICERS.

Assessor—G. M. Riley.
Jailer—Samuel Cowen.
County Surveyor—W. E. Vest.
Coroner.—Dr. A. A. Morat, Constance.
Superintendent of Schools—H. J. Foster

COURTS.

CIRCUIT COURT meets the 2d Monday in April and first Monday in October, P. U. Major, Judge; W. L. Riddell, Clerk; A. G. DeJarnette, Commonwealths Attorney; W. L. Riddell, Trustee Jury Fund.

COUNTY COURT meets the first Monday in every month. L. H. Dills, Judge; S. W. Tolin, County Attorney. M. T. Garnett, Clerk; J. R. Clutterbuck, Sheriff, F. W. Finch and W. T. German, Deputy Sheriffs.

QUARTERLY COURT meets the first Monday in March, June, September and December. The officers of the County Court preside.

COURT OF CLAIMS meets the first Monday in November.

MAGISTRATES' COURTS are held in March, June, September and December, as follows:

Bellevue—M. B. Green, first Saturday, and T. H. Sutton, third Monday. J. M. Moody, Constable.

Burlington—E. H. Baker, Thursday after first Monday, and Oscar Gaines, fourth Monday. C. W. Saxton, Constable.

Carlton A. G. McConnell, Wednesday after second Monday, and B. H. Ryle, Saturday after third Monday. Charles H. Aera, Constable.

Petersburg—Jos. Hensley, Wednesday after first Monday, and L. A. Loder fourth Saturday. Geo. Comer, Constable.

Beever—W. M. Rouse, Friday after the third Monday, and Andrew Ellis, Friday after 1st Monday.—T. J. Coyle, Constable.

Union—M. C. Norman, Thursday after third Monday, and H. Bannister, Thursday after second Monday. H. G. Blanton, Constable.

Hamilton—F. M. Howlett, Tuesday after second Monday; W. W. Garnett, Wednesday after third Monday. R. L. Roberts Constable.

Walton—T. F. Carley, second Friday, S. P. Johnson, Tuesday after second, Friday. Al Arnold, Constable.

Verona—I. P. Vest, Tuesday after first Monday, J. J. Brambach, Tuesday after third Monday. J. H. Callahan, constable.

Florence—T. K. Dixon, third Saturday. Joe Wagstaff, second Saturday. Craig Pettit, Constable.

Taylorsport—A. B. Whitlock, fourth Monday, W. A Goodridge, third Saturday Thos. Watts, constable.

ROBERT B. REED
Attorney at Law.
OFFICE AT UNION, KY

F. R. DOELL. H. P. STEPHENS.
RIDDELL and STEPHENS,
ATTORNEYS at LAW
BURLINGTON, KY.
☞Office over Dudley Rouse's Store.☜

W. E. VEST,
COUNTY SURVEYOR
WALTON, KY.

Is prepared to do all kinds of surveying. All orders sent him through the mail to Walton, will receive his prompt attention.

DR. A. B. HARRYMAN,

Resident Dentist.
Office over Post-Office.
AURORA, INDIANA.

E. E. IGOE,

Resident Dentist,
Rising Sun, Ind.
WITH
J. P. Ulrey.
Monday and Tuesday at Rising Sun, Ind.
Wednesday and Saturday at Aurora, Ind.
Thursday and Friday at Lawrenceburg.

S. W. TOLIN.
ATTORNEY AT LAW
BURLINGTON, KY
Office in Court-house on 2d floor.

Will manage litigation in any of the Courts of the State, contracts and other legal instruments drawn up at reasonable rates. A prompt an studious attention given to business intrusted to my care. A trial solicited. 12-1y

W. J. RICE.
CARPENTER & BUILDER,
BULLITSVILLE, KY.
Is prepared Raise or Move
EITHER LOG or FRAME BUILDINGS
On Short Notice.
And at the Lowest Possible Figures.
83-tf Your orders respectfully solicited

JENKINS'

ALMONT,

This renowned trotting stallion and sire of trotters will make the season of 1886, at the stable of John D. Norris, ½ mile from Petersburg, Boone county, Ky., at $30 the season, with the privilege of returning in 1887 should the mare fail to get with foal, money due July 1st, 1886.

Jenkins' Almont was sired by Wither's Almont, the sire of 26 horses with records of 2:30 or better. 1st dam by Toledo; 2nd dam Sousby Grays Highlander; 3d dam by Coner de Leon, a noted pacer.

Jenkins' Almont is the sire of Bessie G. 2:25½; Grafton, 2:28½; Will Heath, trial, 2:21, and others gifted with great trotting speed.

Pasture furnished at $3 per month. Care will be exercised to prevent accidents or escapes, but will not be responsible should any occur. We are endeavoring to give the people of Boone Co., a chance to get a fine colt at a low price. J. D. NORRIS & Co.

SAM'L T. HARRIS,

Will make the season of 1886, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at Bullittsville and the rest of the week at my stable 1 mile from Constance, $25 at the pole.

He is a blood bay, with black points, 16 hands high. Trotting action steady and well balanced. He is a full brother to Royal Mont, (1 year younger), who has a record of 2:32, and has trotted in 2:22 at a private trial.

Sam'l T. Harris is by Bidwell's Almont, dam Royal George.

JACK STEPHENS,

Will make the season at the same time and places, and will serve mares at $10 to insure a mare with foal, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with. Not responsible for accidents.

He is a dark iron gray, 16 hands high, was sired by Bidwell's Almont; dam Volunteer; 2d dam Gray Eagle; 3d dam Copper Bottom. Good pasture furnished at $3 a month.

JAS. L. RILEY,

City Flouring Mills,

—RISING SUN, INDIANA.—

FLOUR EXCHANGED FOR WHEAT OR CASH. THE HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR GOOD WHEAT.

J. W. TALBOTT.

OHIO STEAM DENTAL CO.

ESTABLISHED 186.

47 WEST SEVENTH STREET,
CINCINNATI, O.

TEETH EXTRACTED WITHOUT PAIN by using Fresh Nitrous Oxide Gas. ARTIFICIAL TEETH made of the best quality and workmanship finish, with guaranteed fit. OPERATIVE DEPARTMENT handsomely finished and well lighted, the principal having had a life-long experience in the treatment and filling of the natural teeth.

L. ROBERTSON, D.D.S., Principal.

Office and Residence, 47 W. 7th St., two blocks north of Fountain Square, (formerly 271 Walnut and 6th & Vine). Office open at all hours.

THE

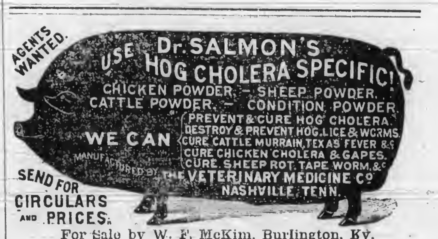
COMBINATION FENCE

A fence that is wanted, and in time will be used by every one that wants a fence, either around the House, Garden or Farm, as it is cheap, durable and serviceable, to keep in check horses, cattle, sheep, hogs, chickens, etc., and restrain wolves, dogs, and rabbits, etc.

Having all the advantages of a picket fence in restraining animals from jumping, and not so liable to decay, and at much less cost, and no barbs to injure valuable stock, thus placing it far in advance of any other fence now in use, hence it must be the fence of the future; all who have it want more.

It is portable and can be removed from field to field by drawing staples from posts, taking out the splice lath and rebundling it. We offer this fence for sale in bundles of five and six rod at Burlington.

DILLS & CRISLER,
Burlington, Ky.



AGENTS WANTED.
USE Dr. SALMON'S HOG CHOLERA SPECIFIC!
CHICKEN POWDER. — SHEEP POWDER.
CATTLE POWDER. — CONDITION POWDER.
WE CAN
PREVENT & CURE HOG CHOLERA.
DESTROY & PREVENT HOG LICE & WORMS.
CURE CATTLE MURRAIN, TEXAS FEVER &c
CURE CHICKEN CHOLERA & GAPES.
CURE SHEEP ROT, TAPE WORM, &c
MANUFACTURED BY THE VETERINARY MEDICINE CO
NASHVILLE, TENN.
SEND FOR CIRCULARS AND PRICES.

For Sale by W. F. McKim, Burlington, Ky.

UNDERTAKING.

Branch House of Chas. Donnelly & Co., of Covington Ky.

AT BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY.

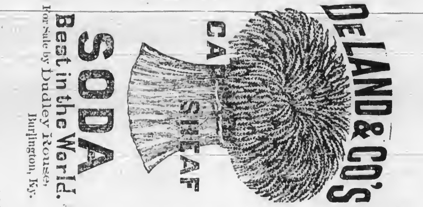
Where a Hearse and all Styles of Burial Cases and Robes can be secured at as Low Figures as at Covington, or elsewhere.

Bodies Embalmed or preserved in a

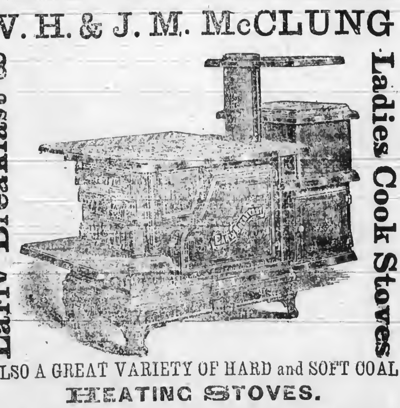
REFRIGERATOR

When desired. All orders left with our Branch House in Burlington will be promptly attended, and funerals conducted in the best style. The business is in charge of Jas. Westlay, with whom leave orders.

CHAS. DONNELLY & CO.



W. H. & J. M. McCLUNG



ALSO A GREAT VARIETY OF HARD and SOFT COAL
HEATING STOVES.
ALL KINDS OF STOVES REPAIRED.
Tin Roofing, Spouting, Guttering, etc., Done to Order.

535 & 537 Madison Ave, - Covington, Ky.
☞ Second Door Below Sixth Street. ☜

Subscribe for the Boone

County Reorder.

Local News.

Assessor Riley was in town Monday.

Joe Revill is having his house repaired.

Esquire Oscar Gaines is quite ill with pneumonia.

Mrs. W. A. Crigler has been quite sick for some time.

Read T. H. Sutton's fence advertisement in this issue.

Dr. Robt. L. Grant has located at Crittenden, Grant county.

The other end of ground-hog winter came along Sunday morning.

BOARD—By the meal, day or week.
MRS. CY RIDDELL.

The Lickskillet reservoir is being cleaned out and otherwise repaired.

Mr. S. P. Brady has been on the sick list for several days, threatened with pneumonia.

Mr. Allen Conner is still improving, and we trust that he will soon be able to be about again.

Buy best quality of perfection coal, at 9 cents per bushel in yard at
STOTT BROS., Petersburg, Ky.

John Kennedy and Chas Waller, of Verona, were in Burlington the latter part of last week.

Henry Killgore and Miss Emma Graves, of Francesville, were married in Cincinnati last Thursday.

Owing to illness Rev. Fulllove was not able to fill his appointments at this place last Saturday and Sunday.

FOR SALE—Wm Fritz's best Corn Beef at 8 cents per pound at B. F. ZIMMER'S, Constance, Boone County, Ky.

*If you want a pound of Liggett and Myer's best Star Tobacco for 40 cents call at B. F. ZIMMERS, Constance, Boone County, Ky, 14-tf-

Mr. Whitehead has a good school in the Academy. He has about thirty pupils, and now is the time to keep up a good school at that place.

We live in dread of a cold snap which may come and destroy the fruit buds, which the fine weather this month certainly advanced considerably.

There will be preaching at Mt. Pleasant church on the fourth Saturday and Sunday in this month, at 10 o'clock a. m., by J. C. Reed, of Franklin, Ohio.

WANTED—1,000 men with 40 cents each to buy a pound of Liggett & Myer's, best Star Tobacco, at B. F. ZIMMERS, Constance, Boone County, Ky.

The mercury registered at summer heat two or three days last week, which with the other pleasant days caused the grass to commence growing some.

The farmers took advantage of the recent fine weather and sowed many acres of oats, plowed some for corn, planted potatoes and made plant beds.

WANTED—Music pupils, by an experienced teacher. Terms, 50 cents a lesson.
Miss LILLIE WILLIS,
Bullittsville, Ky.

The warm weather last week almost revived among some of the lovers of rod, a determination to hie themselves to the creek, there to spend a few hours angling.

The Limaburg saw mill is now giving employment to several hands, and is turning out a large amount of lumber and other material. The proprietors are energetic young men.

Mrs. Elizabeth Garnett, of Bellevue, died last Wednesday in the 93d year of her age. Mrs. Garnett survived her husband and all her children. She was buried in the Bellevue cemetery.

Saturday old Probs. shut off the supply of fine weather, and substituted on Sunday a regular March day, a high wind and at intervals blinding snow storms. Altogether Sunday was a bad day.

Considerable new material has been put on the Burlington and Florence pike recently. By the way, on the first Saturday in next month the stockholders have their annual election. See notice elsewhere.

The ground which has been broken for corn this season is left by the breaking plow almost in a condition for planting. It will require very little labor to prepare the fields almost sufficiently for flower beds.

A heavy wind storm visited the Petersburg neighborhood last Saturday evening, and demolished fences, fruit trees and unroofed a few out buildings. An infant cyclone also make its appearance near James A. Botts'

NOTICE—On the first Saturday in April, 1886, the stockholders of the Burlington & Florence pike will elect a president and four directors. Election held at Rouse's store at Burlington.
FEELDEN ROUSE, President.

Remember that Geo. Huschart & Co. of Lawrenceburg, Indiana, can always give satisfaction both as to price and style of work, so when you want to buy a tombstone or a monument go to their yard or call on John Beall, of Hebron, Ky., their agent.

I wish to notify the people of Boone and Kenton counties that I have bought the right to use the Wescott & Gurley Fence, and that the trouble between the Wescott & Gurley fence and the Lenox fence, has been satisfactorily settled. L. O. BRISTOW.

Those who have not paid their taxes for 1885, will confer a favor by paying them before the first day of April, thereby saving themselves the per cent and cost, and myself the unpleasant duty of advertising their property for sale.
J. R. CLUTTERBUCK,
Sheriff of Boone County.

Meredith Noble, a poor man with a large family living on John W. Gaines' farm near Plattsburg, has been subject to fits for some time, and while out at work burning brush last week, he had a fit and fell into the fire, burning his face, arms and legs fearfully. The man and his family are in almost destitute circumstances and need assistance.

ARKANSAS LETTER.

HOT SPRINGS, ARK. Mch. 16, 1885.

To the Editors of the Recorder:

Eight years has produced considerable change in this place. It has built up a very different class of buildings.

A few more fires would cause the business portion of the place to be both handsomely and substantially built. They have some very fine brick buildings and a few stone fronts Every fire is a benefit. I suppose fire or heat of some kind is the making of the place.

The weather is delightful here now. When I left home on the 10th it was cold and snowing; on reaching here on the 12th I found the same, though everyone was taking a sweat. This evening a thunderstorm passed near us; it appeared to rock the houses and make about double the noise that it makes any other place I was ever in.

The estimated number of visitors is about 6,000. About 3,500 men, nearly two-thirds of this number are Colonels, Majors or Doctors. God pity them.

The government has put up four handsome brick buildings on the reservation near the springs and it is expected that more will be built.

Hot Springs still has its little shooting matches; last Saturday a young man shot another man's wife and then shot himself. The skull being very thick and hard the ball glanced off without hurting him much. As a rule it takes a good marksman to hit the heart or brain of an Arkansas dude.

Lots have advanced very much in the past eight years; lands that sold eight years ago at from $2 to $3 per acre, now sells by the front foot at that price or more.

This is a town of hotels, drug stores, doctors and gamblers.

You can see the genuine Arkansas traveler, bear hunter, planter and relic peddler every day on the streets.

CON STANT READER.

New Comers.

On the 17th inst, to John J. Huey and wife a girl.

On the 19th inst., to D. T. Tanner and wife a girl.

On the 20th inst., to F. A. Hall and wife a boy.

On the 22d inst to William Harris and wife a girl.

Having affected an arrangement with the Auditor allowing me to draw upon the Sheriff, for the February draft I am therefore, by reason of this, prepared to pay the teachers of the following districts, to-wit: Nos. 1, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 18, 20, 22, 23, 24, 25, 28, 30, 35, 36, 37, 39, 40, 43, 44, 45, and 48. Also the following colored teachers, Nos. 1, 4 and 7.

Total amount for distribution $2,748 33. H. J. FOSTER, County Superintendent. Burlington, Mch. 15, '86.

The Boone County Teachers' Association will meet in the school-house at Limaburg, March 29th, 1886, at 10 o'clock a. m. The following is the programme:

Essay—Literature in the Schools, Miss Nannie Bristow.

Grading the County schools, Miss Lizzie Conner and W. S. Cole.

Licensing teachers, J. C. Mack and W. E. Clutterbuck.

Geography—C. E. Gordon and Ezra Keller.

Select Reading, Miss Addie Hensley.

The Teachers duty to his profession, Miss Virginia Southgate.

At a meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee the following named officers were selected to serve at the Primary election to be held Saturday, April 3rd, 1886. They will please serve or see that some other good Democrat serves in their place.

N. S. WALTON,
T. F. CURLY,
J. A. WILSON,
J. W. KENNEDY,
J. G. FURNISH.

Florence—Charles Bradford, clerk; Wood Carpenter and S. S. Scott, judges.

Bellevue—D. M. Snyder, clerk; J. S. Huey and A. Corbin, judges.

Walton—W. L. Norman, clerk; Jno. Snow and W. G. Stansifer, judges.

Verona—C. C. Roberts, clerk, J. R. Johnson and J. T. Roberts, judges.

Rabbit Hash—Walter S. Ryle clerk; J. J. Stephens and J. H. Walton, judges.

Petersburg—Elijah Parker, clerk; L. A. Loder and Stephen McWethy, sr., judges.

Bullittsville—Owen Watts, clerk; Jno Stephens Chas. Helm, judges.

Taylorport—Morgan Helm, clerk; W. B. Grubbs and Henry McGlasson, judges.

Union—H. G. Blanton, clerk; J. W. Conner and B. W. Adams, judges.

Beaver—J. O. Griffith, clerk; G. W. Sleet and J. C. Hughes, judges.

Hamilton—G. M. Allen, clerk; F. M. Howlett, and Q. M. Huey, judges.

Burlington—T. W. Finch, clerk; J. A Gaines and S. P. Brady, judges.

Notice to the candidates. In order to avoid confusion, and to have everything arranged systematically at the coming primary election, the committee had poll books prepared and incurred some other necessary expense. To meet that expense, every Democratic candidate, who desires his name placed on the poll books will be taxed 50 cents and can make it known by paying said amount in person or by letter to the undersigned. J. G. FURNISH,
Chrm'n. Dem. Ex. Com.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

GUNPOWDER.

Mrs. Carrie Tanner has been on the sick list, but is better at this writing.

Arthur Vaughn says that 8 pound boy at his house will make a Methodist preacher, from the way he shouts.

Jim Barlow and wife have gone to housekeeping, on Uncle Jordon Beemon's farm. We wish Jim success.

The people in the Pleasant Valley neighborhood were glad to see their friend, E. H. Baker come around—he bought several crops of tobacco.

UNION.

George W. Haines, of North Bend, visited his sister here last week.

Mrs. Lizzie Huey, who has been quite ill for several weeks is improving.

Everybody and all the horses has the epizootic, or some kindred ailment.

E. H. Smith, wife and daughter, of Georgetown, are the guests of J. D. Smith here.

A Mr. Ryle was in town last week announcing himself a candidate for Superintendent of schools.

Miss Lillian Corbin spent several days of last week in Newport and Cincinnati. She will leave for Danville, Indiana, in a few days, where she will enter school for the summer term.

RABBIT HASH.

Making garden has been the order of the day for the last week.

Saturday was Esq. Ryle's court, with but few cases on the docket.

Mrs. Harriet Baily has obtained a back pension of $179, and gets $12 per month the rest of her life.

C. G. Riddell prized five hogsheads of tobacco last week, being the crop of John J. Platt. He will ship it to Louisville.

Tom Marshall is tearing up ground so as to have room for another big crop of tobacco, and he says this is the last one for him.

Mr. Mock has rented his store house to Mr. Stamper, which he took possession of last Tuesday, with a full stock of goods.

We would like to see more of our county candidates. The time for the sentence to be passed is drawing near. We hope all will be saved.

Thos. R. Gordon candidate for Commonwealth Attorney, from Owen Co., called on the voters here last week. I think his visit will pay him well.

In the item in last week's paper returning thanks for the assistance rendered the members of the Presbyterian church in repairing their church building at this place, the signature, "Committee," was dropped, but it was not the intention of the RECORDER to rob the committee of any of the credit so justly due it.

Spring commenced Sunday—would you believe it?

A CARD.

As some of my friends who are opposing my candidacy for the office of Circuit Clerk in this (Boone) county, take exceptions to the cards I have been using in my canvass, because it does not state that my candidacy is subject to the action of the Primary Election, April 3d, 1886. That omission is the result of an over sight in drawing the form of the cards. It is well known that when I offered myself for the office named I did so as a Democrat, and subject to the action of the Democratic party, and as an honorable man I stand by that election, be the result what it may.
J. W. DUNCAN.

A CARD.

I wish to say to my friends in Boone county, that from sixteen years intimate acquaintance with Mr Gaunt, candidate for Commonwealths Attorney, I know him to be strictly a sober and pious young man, and consider him specially qualified to fill the office to which he aspires, being possessed of a good knowledge of law, an unusual amount of energy, is quick, shrewd and a fluent speaker.
B. L. GAINES, Carrollton, Ky.

A FINE BULL.—Our fine, red bull will make this season at $5, money due when service rendered.
T. D. Goodridge.
J. J. Berkshire.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

Taos Marshall, Plffs.
vs | Notice of sale in Equity
John A Black, &c, Defts.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the April term thereof, 1885, in the above cause, the undersigned will, on Monday, the 5 day of April 1883, at 1 o'clock p. m. or thereabout being County court day, proceed to offer for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder, on a credit of 6, & 12 months at the Courthouse door, in the town of Burlington, the property mentioned in the judgment, to wit:

10 acres of land on Gunpowder Creek, being lot No. 8 in division of Sebastian Marshall's land.

The purchaser will be required to give bonds with approved security for the payment of the purchase money, to have the force and effect of a judgment, bearing legal interest from the day of sale, according to law. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms. Bonds payable to

W. L. RIDDELL, M C B C C.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

John Richeys' adm'r, Plff.
vs In Equity.
John Richey's heirs Defts.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the October term thereof, 1885, in the above cause, the undersigned will, on Monday, April 5th, 1886, at 1 o'clock p. m or thereabout, being County Court day, proceed to offer for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder on a credit of 6 and 12 months equal installments, at the Courthouse door, in the town of Burlington, the property mentioned in the judgment to wit:

200 acres of land bounded by the town of Walton, the lands of W. L. Norman, &c.

Or sufficient thereof to produce the sum of money so ordered to be made. The purchaser will be required to give bond with with approved security, for the payment of the purchase money, to have the force and effect of a judgment, bearing legal interest from the day of sale. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

Amount to be raised by sale $339 00

Bonds payable to the undersigned.

W. L. RIDDELL, M C B C C.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

Paxton Bros, & Co. Plff, vs
Elizabeth C. Kenner, Defts.
and | Notice of sale in Equity.
Levy Bros. Plfts, vs
Elizabeth C. Kenner, &c. Defts

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the Oct. term thereof, 1885, in the above cause, the undersigned will, on Monday, the 5th day of April, 1886, at 1 o'clock, p. m., or thereabout, (being County Court day) proceed to offer for sale, at public auction, to the highest bidder, on a credit of 6 & 12 months, at the Court-house door, in the town of Burlington, the property mentioned in the judgment, to-wit:

The undivided 1-2 interest of the defendant Elizabeth C. Kenner in the following two parcels of land, being same allotted to Mrs Carlisle Ward as and for her dower in the lands of her deceased husband, Maltby Smith, said lands are in Boone County, Ky., in the East Bend bottoms. The first parcel is bounded thus: Beginning on the bank of the Ohio river where the Burlington and East Bend road strikes the river upper conner of the tract formerly owned by B. F. Crutchfield, thence n 11¼ w 67¼ poles to a stone, thence with a line of fence n 78 1-4—34¼ poles to a stake in J H O'Neal's line, thence s 12¼ w 54¼ poles to a stone on the bank of the river corner with O'Neal, thence down the river binding thereon s 18 e 28 poles, s 70¼ e 39 poles to the begining containing 25 1-4 acres. The 2d tract is bounded thus: Beginning at a stone corner with the land formerly belonging to Daniel Platt in J H O'Neal's line, then with sd line s 12¼ w 44 3-4 poles to a stone, thence s 78 e 58 1-4 poles to a stone in line of the Thos Jones tract in the center of the said Burlington and East Bend road, then with the center of said road n 12 e 40 poles to the corner of said Platt land, thence with a line thereof n 12 1-4 w 57¼ poles to the beginning, containing 17 acres.

Or sufficient thereof to make the sume of money so ordered to be made.

The purchaser will be required to give bond with approved security for the payment of purchase money, to have the force and effect of a judgment, bearing legal interest from the day of sale according to law. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

Amount to be raised by sale $107 50.

Bonds payable to the undersigned.

W. L. RIDDELL, M. C. B. C. C.

Apothecaries in Germany.

In Germany no one can open an apothecary's shop without a special permit from the Government, which is very difficult to secure. Berlin, with 1,100,000 inhabitants, has only seventy-eight such shops, or one to every 20,-000 inhabitants. Consequently the apothecaries are all well to-do people. There are also a number of drug stores where miscellaneous articles are for sale, but where no prescriptions can be prepared on pain of heavy fines. Every precaution is taken to secure safety from accidents and first-class medicaments. Poisonous articles are only given on the stamped recommendation of a physician, and the poison has to be kept in a special room. There are Government inspectors who at various times, and without previous notice, visit the apothecaries and examine their stock. If stale or valueless medicaments are found, a reprimand follows, and repetition of the offense costs the apothecary his concession. The prices are regulated by law, allowances being made for the great waste entailed by the necessity of throwing away old and getting fresh supplies.—N. Y. Post.

The rehearsals for the entertainment for the benefit of the Presbyterian church have commenced.

Another installment of nice weather.

INSURE AT HOME

The Farmers' Mutual Fire

INSURANCE COMPANY

Of Boone County

Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.

Its Rates are Lower

Than those of any other Company, and it gives the farmers of Boone County a

HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE

In keeping their property insured.

EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY

should take a policy at once.

J. A. GAINES, President, Burlington, Ky. | J. H. WALTON, Secretary. Constance, Ky.

R. RANDALL, Treasurer.

DIRECTORS.

LEORAN GAINES, B. L. RICE.
JNO. STEPHENS.
OSCAR GAINES, Agent. | R. S. COWEN, Assessor

ATTENTION!

TOBACCO

Shippers and Raisers, you can buy

Tobacco Hogheads,

Set up or Knock Downs,

AT THE COMPANY'S MILLS

At Lawrenceburg or Aurora, Ind.

Orders by mail will meet our prompt attention.

Exposition Medal Awarded for 1884.

$5.00 and Upwards

For a Beautiful Single Set of Teeth. Extracting without pain included.

DR. DeJOHNS.

In attendance at the office. Gold fillings $1 and upwards. Amalgon 50c. Gas and Spray used. All work warranted.

Will be in Burlington the first Monday in each month, County Court.

J. C. ALLEN, 327 Vine Str., Cor. 9th, Cincinnati, Ohio.

COMMISSIONER'S NOTICE.

Boone Circuit Court.

Lewis Rice, &c. Plffs.
vs in equity.
F. L. Northcutt, &c. Dfts.

The parties to this action are hereby notified that the undersigned, as Master Commissioner of said court, will, on the 4th day of Feb'y. 1886, at the Circuit Clerk's office in Burlington begin his sittings in this case, and take and hear such proof as may be offered by the parties, and that he will adjourn from Thursday to Thursday until his sittings shall be completed.

Given under my hand as Master Commissioner aforesaid, this 12 day of January, 1886.

W L RIDDELL, M C B C C

COMMISSIONER'S NOTICE.

R D Hedges, &c. Plffs.
vs in equity.
James Marshall's heirs, &c. Dfts.

The parties to this action are hereby notified that the undersigned Master Commissioner of said court, will, on the 4th day of March 1886 at the Circuit Clerk's office in Burlington, Ky., begin his sittings in this case, and take and hear such proof as may be offered by the parties, and will adjourn from Thursday to Thursday until his sittings shall be completed. All claims against the estate of Jas Marshall must be presented properly proven. Given under my hand, as Master Commissioner aforesaid, this 23 day of Feb'y, 1884.

W. L. RIDDELL, M C B C C

NOTICE.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

J. H. Walton, assignee of Davis Bros. &c. Plff
vs
J. W. Davis, &c. Defts

Pursuant to an order made and entered in the above styled action at its October term, 1885, I will, on Monday, the 5th day of April, 1886, at the Court House door, at or about 1 o'clock p. m. in Burlington, Ky., sell to the highest bidders all of the uncollected judgments, notes, accounts and other choses in action now in my hands, belonging to said assigned estate.

J. H. WALTON, Assignee.

March 10, 1886.

LUMBER.

Goe. M. Bedinger & Co.,

Erlanger, - - Ky.

We keep constantly on hand all kinds of Lumber, Laths and Shingles. Also Builder's supplies of all kinds.

—Come and see Us—

J. J. Landram. G. G. Hughes.

LANDRAM & HUGHES,

ATTORNEYS at LAW.

Will practice in the Boone Circuit Cour and the Court of Appeals. Prompt atten tion given to Collections, on application t G. G. Hughes, Burlington, Ky.

Take the Recoreer.

CLORE'S SONS,

Manufacturers of Agricultural Implements,

SUCH AS

Steel Turning & Side Hill Plows

Road Plows, Double Shovels, Single Shovlse, Bar Shovel Gophers, Harrows, Jumping Shovels and Rolling Colters.

RISING SUN, - - IND.

Send for Illustrated Price List. 13-3 n

FRYE'S COMBINATION

FARM, GARDEN & ORNAMENTAL FENCE

It combines the advantages of every fence, and is free from any objections. Our combination fence is composed of fine two-strand cables of the best anealed bessemer steel wire firmly interwoven with pickets at a uniform distance of 2 to 5 inches apart, and the diagonal supporting wire which is interwoven as represented, enables us to hold each and every picket up off the ground with perfect ease, keeping them even on top and the entire fence always in the open air, making the lower ends of the pickets just durable as the upper ends. Sagging is utterly impossible, as we have a direct vertibal tensil strength of 1700 lbs. to each pannel which alone is three times as strong as an ordinary pine board fence. Our fine cables, which gives a combined strength of more than fifteen times that of a pine board 1x6, all interwoven in such a manner with the pickets that one wire cannot be broken without breaking 11. Thus giving us a fence 18 times stronger than a barb wire. The pickets are oak of first quality, and soaked in hot Alkalies, making them last many years. The pickets are supported every 10½ inches by the cables so that breakage is impossible, giving us a fence that will turn all kinds of stock, from the smallest pig to the meanest mule, without endangering the life of any. It is a portable fence, can be removed by drawing the staples and the fence rolled up and removed without the slightest injury. It is dog proof, keeps sheep in and dogs out. It will protect your orchards from the ravages of rabbits, and your gardens from chickens. It is endorsed by over 200,000 of our farmers, as filling every claim we make for it. No farmer can afford to do without this fence that has means to buy it. Any party wishing fence or any information in regard to this fence will address

T. H. SUTTON, Grant, Boone county, Ky.

N. B.—This fence can be sold and delivered at any landing on the river in Boone county, at the following reduced prices: Pickets 5 in. a part 55c; 4½ in. apart 60c; 4 in. apart 65c, 3½ in. a part 70c; 3 in. a part 75c; 2½ in. apart 80c; 2 in. a part 85c. We have strechers expressly for our fence, which we will furnish to any parties ordering fifty rods or more, and will furnish one hand to assist in putting it up, after the posts have been set.

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that Mrs. C. Fanny Latham, of Florence, Ky., wife of Robt. E. Latham, who is made defendant to the cause, has filed her petition in equity in the Boone Circuit Court, asking to be made a feme sole; and to be empowered to trade, and make conveyances in her own rights, as if she were a single woman.

C. FANNY LATHAM.
By R. Richardson, atty.

Feby. 6, 1886.

COMMISSIONER'S NOTICE.

Boone Circuit Court.

John T. Conner's assignee, Plff.
vs In equity.
John T. Conner, &c. Dfts.

The parties to this action are hereby notified that the undersigned, as Master Commissioner of said court, will, on the 3d day of Feb'y. 1886, at the Circuit Clerk's office in Burlington begin his sittings in this case, and take and hear such proof as may be offered by the parties, and that he will adjourn from Wednesday until Wednesday until his sittings shall be completed. Claims against Jno. T. Northcutt and Conner & Northcutt must be presented properly proven.

Given under my hand, as Master Commissioner aforesaid, this 12th day of January, 1886.

W. L. RIDDELL, M C B C C.

THE STAR

A Newspaper supporting the Principles of a Democratic Administration,

Published in the City of New York.

WILLIAM DORSHEIMER,

Editor and Proprietor.

Daily, Sunday, and Weekly Editions.

THE WEEKLY STAR,

A Sixteen-page Newspaper, issued every Wednesday.

A clean, pure, bright and interesting

FAMILY PAPER.

It contains the latest news, down to the hour of going to press:

Agricultural,
Market,
Fashion,
Household,
Political,
Financial and Commercial,
Poetical, Humorous and Editorial

Departments, all under the direction of trained journalists of the highest ability. Its sixteen pages will be found crowded with good things from beginning to end.

Original stories by distinguished American and foreign writers of fiction.

THE DAILY STAR,

The DAILY STAR contains all the news of the day in an attractive form. Its special correspondence by cable from London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna and Dublin is a commendable feature.

At Washington, Albany, and other news centers, the ablest correspondents, specially retained by the THE STAR, furnish the latest news by telegraph.

Its literary features are unsurpassed.

The Financial and Market Reviews are unusually full and complete.

Special terms and extraordinary inducements to agents and canvassers.

Send for circulars.

TERMS OF THE WEEKLY STAR to SUBSCRIBERS, FREE OF POSTAGE in the United States and Canada, outside the limits of New York City:

Per year........ $1 25
Clubs of Ten........ 10 00
Clubs of Fifteen (and one extra to organizer)...15 00

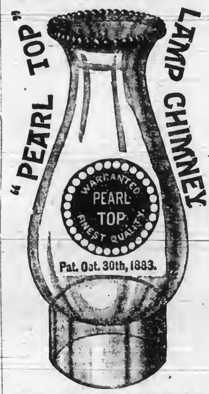
TERMS OF THE DAILY STAR TO SUBSCRIBERS:

Every day for one year (including Sunday)....$7 00
Daily, without Sunday, one year........ 6 00
Every day, six months........ 3 50
Daily, without Sunday, six months........ 3 00

Address, THE STAR,
26 and 28 North William St., New York

Subscribe for the Recorder.
Subscribe for the Recorder.

IMMUNITY from ANNOYANCE



Made only of the finest and best quality of Glass for withstanding heat.

Every good thing is Counterfeited, and consumers are CAUTIONED against IMITATIONS of these Chimneys made of VERY POOR GLASS. See that the exact label is on each chimney as above. The Pearl Top is always clear and bright Glass.

Manufactured ONLY by

GEO. A. MACBETH & CO.

Pittsburgh Lead Glass Works.

FOR SALE BY DEALERS.

AURORA MARBLE AND GRANITE WORKS, Aurora. Ind

Will have constantly on hand

Marble and Granite Monuments,

Italian & American Headstones, &c.

I am ready to do all kinds of Stone Work on short notice and at low prices Hoping to receive the patronage of Boone County, I am respectfully,

F. W. KASSEBAUM.

PIANOS ORGANS

The demand for the improved MASON & HAMLIN PIANOS is now so large that a second addition to the factory has become imperative. Do not require one-quarter as much tuning as Pianos on the prevailing wrest-pin system. Consult Catalogue, free.

100 Styles of ORGANS, $22 to $900. For Cash, Easy Payments, or Rented.

Mason & Hamlin Organ and Piano Co.,
NEW YORK; BOSTON; CHICAGO.

AGENTS WANTED

FOR

The PEOPLES CYCLOPEDIA,
FARM & STOCK CYCLOPEDIA,
THOMPSONS' MEDICAL ADVISER.
PIONEER HISTORY.

Address

THE CAPITOL PUBLISHING CO.,
P. O. Box 459, Cincinnati, O.

Subscribe for the RECORDER.

TAKE THE RECORDER,

H. F. BLASE

540 MADISON AVE.

Covington. - Ky.

FALL GOODS ARE ALL IN.

5,000 NEW ELEGANT DESIGNS TO SELECT FROM.

SUITS AND OVERCOATS MADE TO ORDER ON SHORT NOTICE.

We Guarantee Goods, Fit and Workmanship.

We have also manufactured over 1,000 Suits and Overcoats during the dull season, made out of good material and by good workmen, which we can sell as low as any house in the country.

CALL AND SEE US.

H. F. BLASE,

540 MADISON AVE. COVINGTON. KY.

STOTT BROS,

PETERSBURG, KY.

We are still in the trade with a better class of Fall & Winter Goods and Lower Prices than was ever known in this county. We can sell you direct from one of the leading factories of the country, at from 15 to 20 per cent. less than last years prices, and warranted to be No. 1 goods as they will show for themselves.

FLANNELS

OUR YARNS,

are first-class and cheaper than ever before offered. We are agents for the Shaker Yarn, old fashioned or long reel, double cut, 120 threads to the cut, best in the market.

BLANKETS,

Very cheap. We keep a general assortment of Dry Goods Notions, Boots and Shoes, Hats and Caps, Glassware, Queensware, Hardware, Tinware, and a full line of

GROCERIES.

Coal from the Perfection Mines, in quality is "Love Among the Roses."

As our trade is gradually increasing, shows that we give you First-class Goods at Bottom Prices, and warrant all goods as represented.

Thanking the people for their liberal patronage in the past, we kindly ask a continuance of the same. Yours &c.

STOTT BROS, Petersburg, Ky.

JAMES S. WAYNE, President. JNO. L. SANDFORD, Cashier

CAPITAL $300,000.

FARMERS AND TRADERS

NATIONAL BANK.

Covington, Kentucky.

DIRECTORS.

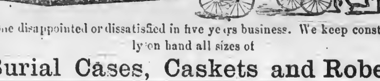
James S. Wayne, M. C. Motch, Sam Hind, E. J. Hickey, E. J. Green.
J. S. Matson, J. H. Mersman, J. L. Sandford, L. H Dills, F. P. Helm
L. C. Stephens.

The general operations of banking transacted upon the most favorable term Collections made on all points in the United States.

The Business and Accounts of Farmers are Especially Solicited by this Bank.
dec. 20-6m

COME AND SEE FOR YOURSELF.

—(o)— We've got them from the lowest price to the finest. —(o)—



None disappointed or dissatisfied in five years business. We keep constantly on hand all sizes of

Burial Cases, Caskets and Robes,

ALSO A SPLENDID

HEARSE AND TEAM.

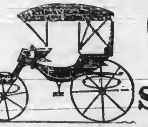
You can always come to us with the assurance of getting what you want in this line. We guarantee our prices 20 per cent. less than city prices. J. W. DAVIS has charge of this business at Hebron, and T. W. FINCH is our agent at Burlington.

J. J. RUCKER & CO, Hebron, Ky.

BUGGIES! BUGGIES!!

Pfalzgraf & Wingate,

DEALERS IN



Carriages, Buggies

AND

Spring Wagons.

—(o)— GAINESVILLE, KENTUCKY. —(o)—

A Large Assortment of Buggies and Carriages constantly on hand.

ANY STYLE TO ORDER ON

SHORT NOTICE—

We call the attention of the People of Boone County to our stock on hand, made in the latest styles and of the best material. All work warranted to give satisfaction. Special attention given to

REPAIRING WITH NEATNESS & DISPATCH,

At the Lowest possible prices.

Old work taken in exchange for new

Pfalzgraf & Wingate,

GAINSVILLE, KENTUCKY.

KENTUCKY MILITARY INSTITUTE.

Advantages. 1. Exemption from temptations of city. One family—living, eating and working together. 3. Classes divided into small sections so that each cadet recites every day. 4. Expenditures under control of Superintendent. 5. Government adapted to the character of each individual cadet. 6. A faculty who associate with the cadets. 7. A system of military discipline which develops the body and imparts lessons of authority and prompt obedience. Address Col. R. D. ALLEN, Farmdale, Ky.

THE RECORDER
RIDDELL & HALL, Publishers.
BURLINGTON, : : KENTUCKY

A SONG OF LIFE.

A woman sat by her cottage door,
  Above her roses hung;
A beautiful child in her arms she bore,
Who caught at the yellow rose she wore;
  And this was the song she sung:

"I sang a song in the early dawn,
When the sky was flushed with the rosy morn,
A song of hope and love and truth;
Oh, a sweet, sweet song is the song of youth!

"I am singing a song in the glory of noon
And it ripples along to a merry tune,
A song with love and happiness rife;
Oh, a sweeter song is the song of life!"

And I said: "Her song I will not borrow,
  For joy is not for long;
Who laughs to-day may weep to-morrow,
For life is bitterness, pain and sorrow,
  And the world is going wrong."

The woman sat by her cottage door,
  Above her the roses hung,
Her strong, white arms no burden bore,
A bit of crape at her throat she wore,
  And this was the song she sung:

"I am singing a song this afternoon,
And it drifts along to a mournful tune;
A song with grief and suffering rife,
Oh, a sad, sad song is the song of life!

"I shall sing my song once more, I trow,
In the tender light of the evening glow,
A song of rest and love and faith;
O, the sweetest song is the song of death."

And I carelessly said: "The joy I miss
  From her song of life to-day;
But who can weep in a world like this
Where all is sunshine and hope and bliss,
  And hearts are blithe and gay!"

The woman sat by her cottage door,
  Above her the roses hung;
A tiny babe in her arms she bore,
And white, white roses at her throat she wore,
  And this was the song she sung:

"I am singing my song of life again,
And it flows along to a joyous strain,
And a song with hope and love replete
Oh, the song of life is sweet, so sweet!"

And I said: "May we all her new song borrow
  In its gladsomeness complete;
We weep to-day and we laugh to-morrow,
For life is joy and life is sorrow,
  But the world is ever sweet."

—Emma C. Dowd, in Chicago Advance.

FAIRLY CAUGHT.

A Simple Story of Love and War.

When the war broke out in 1861, I was at college. Northern born and bred, I fully shared the feelings of the North, and when at the commencement of 1862 I finished my course of study, I resolved to enlist "for three years or the war." I entered a cavalry regiment just then forming, and, going out a non-commissioned officer, I returned wearing the bars of a Captain.

We had scarce begun to drill, when our regiment was called into active service, and during the continuance of the struggle we were kept almost constantly moving—breaking the communications of the enemy or protecting those of our own army, chasing small bodies of Confederates or exercising our ingenuity in keeping out of the clutches of larger bodies. On the whole, we succeeded in making ourselves generally disagreeable to the people on the other side, and though doing a great deal of service we had very little really hard fighting and hence came through with less loss in killed and wounded than most other cavalry regiments suffered. During the summer of 1864, we did service in one of the Gulf States. Much of the time we were away from our base of supplies and had to live off the country. This led us into a new line of experiences, some of which were amusing, some pathetic, some sentimental. Of the adventure I am about to relate, you may form your own opinion.

One day when, for a wonder, my company had been permitted to lie idle in camp for a whole week, I was sent with a train of wagons and about forty men to do some foraging. The country in the vicinity of our camp had already been stripped bare—so we went on and on picking up a little here and there until we were about twenty miles from camp. There was no hostile force known to be near us and so we felt perfectly safe.

Late in the afternoon we reached a plantation. It was of moderate size and had formerly been carefully cultivated, but the fields were now neglected and full of weeds. There were the usual outbuildings, and a little way off the slave quarters—now entirely deserted. The house was not large. It stood in a beautiful park, and in the midst of surrounding decay was very neatly kept. On our way we had heard of this plantation and of the family resident here. The owner had commanded a regiment of Confederates, and had but recently lost his life in battle. His only son was now an officer in the same army. The family at home consisted of the mother, who was infirm, and her daughter, a young lady of about twenty. There were about the place four or five old African women and two or three old black men, with a few colored children. All the able-bodied colored people had disappeared—some of the men being in the Union service. No other persons were to be seen about the plantation. As we had been told that these people had some corn, and also some corn-meal, we stopped to look the matter up. As our wagons were only about half loaded, the boys at once began to search the outbuildings, and, finding a few bushels of corn, promptly appropriated it.

Having given orders to the men, I went into the house to make some inquiries of the family. The young lady met me at the door and very frankly told me of their condition—told me of her dead father and of her absent brother—that her mother was sick upstairs, and that at present they were living on corn bread made without salt; that they had less than a bushel of meal in the house, and not a pig, a chicken, a cow, a horse or a mule, any where on the plantation. She hoped her brother might soon return, for if supplies were not obtained they must starve.

It was a terrible story, very plainly and simply told, with no complaining or faultfinding, no blaming any one, either Federal or Confederate. I was much interested and moved by the recital, but that I might understand the case better, I asked to be shown to the room of the sick mother. I found the condition of things was even worse than I had expected. Every thing indicated that the family had formerly lived in luxury, but aside from articles of furniture, the house was desolate indeed. The mother was unable to leave her room. Her face was very thin and pinched, and I saw at once that it was not disease that had prostrated her, but that she was suffering from lack of suitable nourishment—that in short she was starving.

Meanwhile, some of the men, having searched the outbuildings, getting, however, very little for their pains, come into the house to look for the meal of which we had been told. The young lady, who had accompanied me to her mother's room—on hearing the men moving about below—went down stairs. At the foot of the stairway she met two of the men, who, having passed through some of the lower rooms, were about to go upstairs. They at once asked for the meal. She told them that she had food on hand for only a few days, and that her mother was sick. Hearing the conversation, and wishing to spare the invalid as much as possible, I went to the door, and then down stairs. Several of the men were in the hall. Said I: "Boys, an old lady is sick upstairs, and next thing to starving. They have nothing fit for her to eat; the daughter tells you the truth about the meal. Instead of taking what they've got, let's give the mother something in memory of our own mothers who are safe at home. We won't lose any thing by it, for if we can't find all we need, Uncle Sam's supply train can help us out."

The boys needed no urging. I called Miss ——, who had gone to her mother as I was talking, and asked her to receive and take care of our gifts. Several of the men had their haversacks with them or entering the house, and all had either there, or in the wagons, personal supplies in plenty. I had some bread and a bottle of wine, and we found two or three quarts of salt that we could spare. One of the boys gave a chicken that he had picked up for his own supper, others gave other articles, and so the pile grew until the family, colored people and all, was provided with food for at least a week, and the sick mother in particular with provisions more suitable for an invalid than unsalted corn bread.

Of course the young lady cried at this new turn affairs had taken—that was to be expected—but when she thanked us specially for what we had given her for her mother, and prayed God to bless us for our kindness, there was a big lump in my throat as I thought of my own mother, safe in her Northern home, with plenty about her, and happy as she could be while her only boy was "gone to the war." And when Miss —— shook hands with me at parting I felt glad that we had been able to lend help to the needy.

We went on our way, found provisions and forage, loaded our wagons, and in due time reached our camp in safety. A day or two later we left that locality. During the month that followed, we were constantly moving, and had skirmishing and fighting almost every day. Some of the boys lost their lives and were buried where they fell, some were wounded, and were sent inside the lines, or to their homes in the North, to be cared for. I was taken prisoner, and with a few others captured at the same time, was hurried off to a prison camp.

Now, I am not particularly hard to please, but I did not like the restraints of my new quarters, and so, on general principles, I registered a vow that, as soon as I could tear myself away from the hospitality of my entertainers, I would change my boarding place. The opportunity was a good while coming, but it came at last.

There was considerable sickness in the prison and a number of men died during my stay. The burial ground was outside the stockade and some hundreds of yards distant. From time to time details of our men would be made to bury the dead—a guard always accompanying and keeping careful watch. I had been in the prison several weeks and though I had been on the watch for an opportunity to escape, had thus far been unable to see an "opening." Others had in various ways contrived to absent themselves without leave, but most of these had been recaptured. One evening, with seven other men, I was sent to the burial ground, three guards going with us. The work was finished a little after sunset and we sat down for a few moments' rest before starting back. A hundred yards away was a creek and I asked the corporal, a good-natured fellow, to let me go and fill my canteen with fresh water. Leave was given and I started for the water, walking briskly. This privilege had previously been granted to others, and when I started I suppose that a guard would follow me—indeed I thought it likely that all my comrades would ask leave to get some fresh water. Possibly they intended to do it, but were a little slow about starting, so that when I reached the water and glanced back over my shoulder I saw to my surprise that I was entirely alone, and that the guards and my comrades were quietly resting where I had left them.

Quick as a flash I determined to strike for my liberty. There was a large thicket not two rods away, and a half-dozen leaps took me out of sight. The moment the guards observed my movement they yelled at me to stop, and two of them came after me on the run. They did not shoot, for I was out of sight in the thicket before they were fairly waked up and had at least one hundred and fifty yards the start of them. They were in earnest in the pursuit, however, and dashed into the thicket within a few moments. The other boys looked on with interest, as did also the solitary guard who had been left behind. Noticing his forgetfulness of present responsibilities, the boys concluded that they, too, would move for liberty. Quietly stealing behind the guard, two of them seized, disarmed, tied and gagged him; and without further ceremony all soon took their leave. Three of them were captured the next day, but four escaped to the Union lines. Of course I knew nothing of this till long afterward.

When the guards called to me and ordered me to halt I knew that I had gone too far to back out. As I was "in for it," I put forth every energy and made my best time running. In some places the woods were tolerably open, but skirting the creek was a fringe of underbrush that made it easy to hide. Dodging from clump to clump as I ran, I kept entirely out of sight of my pursuers. In fact I don't think they saw me after I made my dash. In open daylight I could not have evaded them so readily, but in the thickets it was now growing dark.

At first I could hear the guards, as they rushed through the undergrowth, but I was careful to make as little noise as possible, and as they did not hear me they supposed I was hidden, and lost so much time peering about that I soon left them entirely. I knew that the search would be renewed in the morning and so determined to get as far away as possible during the night.

The forest was unbroken for miles in the direction I was traveling. Here and there a path or poor country road was found, but I saw no houses nor a single human being. I was going up stream, and I occasionally walked in the water as well as took other precautions to break my trail. At last I left the stream and turned off across the country. The sky was cloudless and the moon was nearly full. This gave me plenty of light and made it easy to get bearings and to keep them. Keeping a sharp lookout, I pushed on as rapidly as my strength would permit. Toward morning I came to a small stream. Changing my course abruptly I walked in the water for a quarter of a mile. I judged I was now fifteen to eighteen miles from the prison, and as daylight was coming on I hid in a deep thicket, lay down, slept a little and rested for the day.

I had eaten nothing since starting, and was in poor condition for traveling on the second night, but I trudged on, keeping my direction as well as I could, following no roads, but traveling directly across the country. I did not try to hide at daylight on the second morning, but pushed on, hoping to find a house where I might get some food. I had passed houses during the night, but seeing no one stirring, I had not stopped. About an hour after sunrise I met a black boy, who told me that a company of cavalry was in the neighborhood, and I must "look sharp," or I'd "done git cotched." The boy's home was not far off, and after a little manœuvering he brought me some food, and directed me to a safe hiding place in a neighboring swamp, where I rested for the day. In the evening he brought more food, and, getting directions for my journey, I traveled on.

I need not stop to tell the experience of each successive day and night. Usually I rested and slept by day. I made good progress, but I knew that I had a long way to go before I could reach a point occupied by the Union troops. Sometimes I had to go a day or two without food, at other times I was well supplied. After I had been on the way for two weeks—dodging this way and that, to avoid towns and the more public roads—I found myself reduced to extremities. I had now been two days without food; I had seen soldiers each day, and knew that I might be surprised by them at any moment; I had traveled a part of the previous night, and had been moving nearly all day.

Toward evening I came to a plantation. I saw the house at a distance across the fields and made a long detour to reach it without being seen. It was dark when I reached it, and coming up in the rear I was not long in discovering that the family had company from the Confederate army. A squad of soldiers was encamped about two hundred yards away and a sentinel was pacing in front of the house. The table was being set in the dining-room, and the smell of food almost overpowered me. Finding a window open I crept into a room adjoining the dining-room, hoping to find there something to appease my terrible hunger.

I had been in the room scarce a minute when the door was opened and a young lady entered carrying a light. I could have leaped from the window and escaped in the darkness, but my hunger had made me desperate. As I had nothing of the Federal blue about me the lady may have thought, at first sight, that I was one of the Confederate soldiers from the camp. Though she was evidently surprised at finding an intruder in the room she made no outcry, but closed the door and looked into my face with a quick searching glance.

I spoke at once: "Won't you please give me something to eat, I am almost famished." Judge my surprise when she replied:

"Are you not the Yankee officer who spared me a sack of meal, and gave me some food and wine for my sick mother?"

I gazed at her in speechless astonishment. I recalled the incident, and, looking for a moment, I recognized the lady who stood before me. My courage returned; I knew now something of my whereabouts and that the Union lines must be near. I resolved to throw myself on her generosity, and replied:

"Certainly. I recall the incident you refer to. I think, however, I did only my duty in the case, and that any other good soldier would have done the same. I am as much surprised as you can possibly be, at this singular meeting. I have been a prisoner and have escaped, and am starving. Can you give me something to eat?"

"With great pleasure, for we have plenty of food now. But there's a company of soldiers here, and the officers are waiting for their supper. I will supply your wants as soon as I can. For the present I must put you into this closet, where you will be out of sight."

Hastily opening a door, she pushed me inside a small room, closed the door, locked it and went away. I was in total darkness, for the room, or closet, had no window. I groped around for a few moments, but found nothing beside the bare walls. Then I tried the door, but it was too strong to be forced. Evidently I was, for a time at least, a prisoner; and feeling too nearly exhausted to do anything further, I sat down on the floor and began to consider the situation.

The guests came to the table, and from the sounds that reached me and the time they continued, I could imagine that the family larder was pretty well supplied now. It seemed to me they would never get done eating. I remembered that when a boy I had sometimes had to wait till a "second table" when my mother had company, and recognized the sensation. At last I heard footsteps, and the door was unlocked. But instead of my young lady here was a Confederate field officer, in full uniform, and wearing his side arms. He saluted me with "Hello, Yank," to which I promptly responded "Hello, Johnny."

"You must be a brave man to be captured and locked up by a woman."

"Well," said I, "that depends. You're not so hungry as I am, or you'd know how it is yourself."

"I beg your pardon, sir; you must excuse my pleasantry. I am Major —— the brother of the lady whom you have just met. My sister tells me that you did her and our mother a kindness some time ago. The food you gave my mother carried her through, and she is doing well now and likely to live for many years yet. But for your kindness I think she must have died, for the fortunes of war for a long time before and after your visit prevented me from doing any thing for her. Indeed, I did not, and could not, know of the condition of things at home. And now it is with great pleasure that I find myself able to do you a service. And Yankee as you are, and escaped prisoner to boot, I am going to supply your needs, and then take you to your own lines in safety. I can appreciate kindnesses done to my folks at home, and my duty to the Confederacy will not stand in the way of my requiting them. My sister has prepared some food, which I will bring to you at once, and I wish you to consider yourself an honored guest and not a prisoner. Of course you will excuse me for not introducing you to my other guests, as it might not be the best thing for either of us."

Giving me a chair and a light, he stepped into another room, returning immediately with a tray loaded with food. Telling me to eat at my leisure, he excused himself, saying that he would return as soon as it would be safe to do so, and would conduct me to my friends.

After my long fast, I can assure you that I ate heartily. I think no food ever tasted so good. No one would have called the coffee genuine Java, for Uncle Sam's blockaders had interfered with grocery business down South; but I was not fastidious. At last my meal was ended and my hunger fully satisfied. It was after midnight when Major —— returned. We went out at the window through which I had entered the house, and so passed the guards. Going to the stable, two excellent horses were found ready for use, and mounting them, we started at once on our way.

I will not attempt to describe the ride. Circumstances made us feel like old acquaintances, and in spite of the differences between the Blue and the Gray, we chatted with perfect freedom. The air was balmy, and the sky clear. We galloped on for more than an hour without incident. It was a plain country road, and no one was seen stirring. After going fifteen or sixteen miles, the Major checked his horse and asked me to stop. Said he:

"There is a Federal picket post half a mile further on this road. I can not safely go nearer, and for obvious reasons I must return at once. You are now free and out of all danger. Again I thank you for your kindness to my family. God bless you, and give you a safe return to your loved ones in the North. And when the war is over I hope to see you again at my house, when I may entertain you more becomingly than I have now been able to do."

I dismounted, gave the Major the rein of the horse I had been riding, took his hand, thanked him for the favors done me, and prayed that he too might be spared to return to his home. We exchanged addresses and parted. He galloped back to his comrades and I walked forward in the direction of the post, whistling with all my might:

"John Brown's body lies mouldering in the grave,
But his soul goes marching on."

It seemed like a pretty long half-mile to that picket-post, but at last I heard the welcome challenge of the soldier on duty. Behind him, aroused by my noise, were grouped a half-dozen of the "boys in blue." It did not take me long to prove my identity, when I received all needed attention. In due time I reached my regiment and put in a few more blows for the old flag. At the close of the war I returned home to find my mother in good health and waiting to give her soldier boy a worthy welcome.

A few months later I received a letter from my Southern Major. He, too, had passed safely through the war and had returned to his home and friends. A pleasant correspondence followed. During the next winter I revisited the old plantation "on business." The traces of war's desolation were being rapidly removed. The old lady was in excellent health, and insisted that on my next visit, a few months later, I should bring my mother with me. And if you will visit me at my own home, I will introduce you to the identical darling who captured and locked up the Yankee officer on that autumn night.—N. Y. Tribune.

BUTTER-MAKING.

Prize Essay Read by Miss Mina Holmes Before the Minnesota Butter, Cheese and Dairy Stock Association.

In the first place, to make good butter you must have the cows in good condition to make it. Have a good pasture for them in summer, and plenty of good hay, good feed and pure water in winter. Give them straw for bedding and make them as comfortable as possible. Then have the milking done in a clean manner. Don't let any of milkers dip their hands in the milk pail and wash off the cow's bag with milk, as I have seen some do, but rub it off with a cloth in dry weather, and wash it off with water in wet and muddy weather. The next thing is to take proper care of the milk. See that the milking utensils and cans are carefully washed, scalded and aired before using. Strain the milk as soon as drawn from the cow; the less it is agitated the better it will rise. We strain through three strainers, first the strainer pail, then the strainer that fits the top of the cans with a double piece of cloth fastened on the bottom with a rim of tin. In this way every particle of dirt that you can see is taken from the milk. Strain into cans and cool down with water to fifty or fifty-five degrees. The water in the tank should be changed once a day, and oftener if the morning's and evening's milk is set in the same tank. Let it stand twenty-four hours before skimming, and if convenient thirty-six is better. Skim the cream off instead of draining off the milk at the bottom of the can; then if there is any dirt that goes through the skimmer it settles in the bottom of the can, and does not get into the cream. The cream should be put into one large can, or if the dairy is a large one, two will be necessary. Then the cream should be divided into the two cans and thoroughly stirred after each skimming. The cream should be kept in a room as near sixty-nine degrees as possible away from the kitchen, to avoid all orders from cooking. In summer we have a small refrigerator in the milk house where we keep the cream sweet until we want to churn. Then the night before churning it is taken into the milk house, stirred frequently, and by morning it has soured enough to churn. In winter the day before churning warm the cream up to seventy degrees by setting a pail of cream in warm water and stirring thoroughly until it is the required heat. Then it will cool down to sixty-two degrees by the next morning. Stir the cream often while cooling and souring. My experience is, it will make the most and best flavored butter when after warming it, to let it stand until slightly sour. In summer commence churning at fifty-two degrees. When your churn, pour the cream into the churn through a strainer made of perforated tin; then if there is any sour milk that is not mixed with the cream it will not be in lumps in the churn. Use butter color to keep the color the same all the year round. Commence churning slowly at first, until the air is all expelled, then churn faster about fifty revolutions a minute.

When the first signs of granulation appear, pour into the churn one or two pailfuls of water, about fifty-five degrees, according to the size of the churning; then churn it until the butter is the size of wheat kernels. I find when the butter is churned about this size it is firmer than when buttermilk is drawn off sooner, then it is spongy while working over. Draw off the buttermilk and pour in water enough to wash it good, the temperature being fifty-five degrees. Draw this off and wash it in a weak brine. Let it drain dry; then take the granulated butter out of the churn, weigh it and put it on the butter worker. Do not let the butter stand in the water or brine any length of time, as it makes it salvy to work or salt. Weigh out the salt an ounce to the pound; use the best English salt and sift on the butter a little at a time and stir with a small paddle until thoroughly mixed. Then press gently with the lever; this makes it better to handle than when so fine. Put it into tubs and let it stand twenty-four hours, in summer, and in winter when it is churned in the morning, work over the same day, as it will be too hard and spoil the grain of the butter if left until morning. Work it as little as possible, never giving it a drawing or rubbing motion, just enough to work it dry and free from streaks. But the streaks won't trouble much if the salt is sifted on evenly. Pack in a tub a little at a time, by beginning in the middle with each layer and pressing toward the sides; then you will avoid leaving air in the tub. Do not put more than one churning in a tub. After the tub is full make it even by drawing a ladle across the top. Never smooth it off, as it gives it a greasy appearance. Put on the cloth. Use a cloth that is starched, as one that is not is fuzzy after being wet. Cut it around the edge of the tub with a sharp knife, pour on a little water and sift on some salt; this will form a paste that will help to exclude the air. Fasten on the cover with strips of tin; nail the tin on the cover, then bend the tin over the nail and bring it down on the side of the tub, and nail again. If you are not ready to ship the butter put the tub in a cool place, never in a damp cellar, as it soon spoils the flavor of the butter. The flavoring of the butter is improved by airing the cream while souring, also by feed. I used to think if a cow had enough to eat, no matter if it was wild hay, there could be no difference in the butter; but by experimenting, cornstalks and pumpkins make the best flavored and finest butter; next is clover hay, and for feed, corn-meal, ground oats and bran mixed together.—Hoard's Dairyman.

—Ginger pound cake: Six cups of flour, two cups each of butter, brown sugar and molasses, eight eggs, tablespoonfuls each of cinnamon, ginger and soda and two nutmegs. Dissolve the soda in a cup of sour milk. In baking, take particular pains not to let the cake scorch, for gingerbread is of all cakes the easiest to burn. Line the pans with greased paper, and put a brown paper over the top to prevent the crust forming too quickly.—Boston Budget.

HOME AND FARM.

—Rye Gems: Two cups rye, one-quarter cup flour, two teaspoonfuls Royal powder, sifted together, one egg, one-quarter cup of molasses, milk to mix soft.—The Caterer.

—It is told of a kicking horse that he was cured by suspending a sack behind him filled with hay. At first his kicking was something terrible, but he subsided entirely when the hay returned toward his heels every time.—N. Y. Times.

—For a dainty breakfast dish cut pork tenderloins in very thin slices; stew them in a little water till they are nearly done; then put them in a sauce-pan and fry them till light brown. Serve on buttered toast, and with raw tomatoes sliced thin.—Western Rural.

—Fine manure, spread thinly and evenly upon the mowing and pasture land, will have an excellent effect. Coarse manure is best when thoroughly composted, with either peat or swamp muck, or even with soil, as it becomes almost entirely homogeneous.—Montreal Witness.

—The Maryland Farmer is warmly in favor of feeding cattle in yards and sheds instead of pasturing them, at great expense for fencing and waste of food. The cost of fences is, it says, usually more than the value of the animals pastured, and some times more than the land inclosed.

—An animal impoverished in flesh, says the National Stockman, can not grow or mature, and it must be maintained at a loss of feed, interest on the money invested, and of the time of the farmer. An animal must be kept in good flesh and thriving to make it grow, develop and prove profitable.

—To broil ham nicely slice the meat from the ham raw, as thin as you can, then put it into a pan of cold water; set it on the stove in a stewpan and let it come to a boil; then have your griddle hot, and broil the meat with a little butter dropped into the pan and a plentiful sprinkling of black pepper.—Boston Bulletin.

—Egg gruel is at once food and medicine. Some have great faith in its efficacy in chronic dysentery. Boil a pint of new milk; beat four fresh eggs to a light froth and add to the milk while it boils; stir together thoroughly, but do not let it boil again; sweeten with loaf sugar and grate in a small nutmeg; add a little salt. Use half of it while it is warm, and the other half in two hours or so.—N. E. Farmer.

FARMER AND DOCTOR.

Prove All Things and Hold Fast That Which is Good.

The opinion is slowly but surely gaining ground that there is room in the farmer's calling for the use of a high education. We regard it as one of the most hopeful signs of the times. The following, from an English paper, the Berkhampstead Times, contrasts the farmer with the doctor. "Compare the agriculturist with the doctor. They have more in common than you think. Both have to do with life; and with both, accordingly, professional success depends largely on sharp insight into condition, and prompt appreciation of the corresponding treatment. A good doctor would certainly be a good shepherd, a good herdsman, a good farmer; and yet, what a contrast, rather than resemblance, there exists between the two! Compare the farm with the infirmary. In the former (the very home of routine) unquestioned dogma reigns supreme; in the latter, 'prove all things' is the constant rule of conduct. Every patient is an experimental station; the treatment depends, not on listless acquiescence in established rules, but on the closest observation of each separate case. In agriculture, however, we must at length acknowledge that, as general education grows, the need of investigation, study, proof, is getting gradually recognized. Experimental stations are being advocated. Trial grounds, long well known to seedsmen, who thus test their wares before disposal, are being established in the general agricultural interest. Men of science, who know the essence of things sufficiently for the purpose, as well as their relations to each other, are using their knowledge to ask questions of nature intelligently, and of many things in farming we can no longer say that they are accepted without proof. The relations of the soil, the seed, the plant; the relation between the food of the animal and its produce, whether a meat or milk—all are being investigated. And on the farm, as in the infirmary, we are gradually learning the advantage of proving all things. But until very lately the contrast was complete between the doctor and the farmer—far greater than it ought to have been, considering how much they had in common. The one had fallen into a long-established routine, accepting the dogmas of his predecessors without proof, and muddling on without inquiry. The other, in dissecting-room, and by sick bed, and in hospital, has been 'proving all things,' and growing in power continually. He can now fight disease with confidence. He can remove or fight its causes almost with certainty. In medicine he can treat his patients hopefully; in surgery he can treat them painlessly. Where, in all this, should we have been, but that there has been a profession which has been constantly obeying the injunction, 'Prove all things.' When agriculturists, too, shall display the same distrust of blind routine, the same hopefulness of the possibilities open to inquiry, the same earnestness in the work of proving all things, we may believe that they, too, will win their way. 'Prove all things; hold fast that which is good,' will justify itself in the experience of farmer, as it long since has in that of the doctor.—Rural Canadian.

Feed For Horses.

A good horseman writes that his method of treating both farm and driving horses, and a method which he has found to be a good one after many years' practice, is to give no hay in the morning, only a good feed of grain; at dinner time we give a good mess of cut feed, and at night, either another feed of cut food or a feed of grain. Just before retiring for the night or soon after the horses have cleaned up their other food, we fill their mangers with good, sweet hay, free from briars, thistles, trash and mustiness, being particular to give the driving horses clear timothy hay and the other horses—the work animals—either the same or that which is mixed with not more than one-half clover, and good hay at that. By this means the horses are always in a good condition to work, are given plenty of time to eat the single daily feed of hay we allow them, and can endure more work and longer drives than those which are stuffed with hay at every meal.—N. Y. Times.

Female Financiering.

Mrs. Flip—I hear your husband's store was burned out and all the goods entirely destroyed. Such a thing is so very unfortunate.

Mrs. Greathead—My husband does feel a little depressed, but I make it out that he gains by it.

Mrs. Flip—O! then he was insured!

Mrs. G.—Not for a cent. But you see for the past year he has been selling his goods at a loss of fifty per cent., and when they are consumed by the fire he can't sell them; therefor he can't lose the fifty per cent. see?—Philadelphia Call.

INTERESTING FACTS.

Some of the Peculiarities of the Government of the United States.

Here are some curious facts of interest, perhaps, to the student of our Government: The States of Colorado, Delaware, Florida, Nevada, Oregon, Rhode Island and Vermont have less than one-half the population of Illinois, but have the same number of representatives in Congress—twenty-two. Eighty-five years ago North Carolina had as many Representatives in Congress as New York. North Carolina now has nine, or one less than she had in 1800, while New York has thirty-four. The State of Nevada, which has two Senators and one Representative in Congress, has not so large a population by 617 souls as the city of New Haven, Conn. The five States of Delaware, Colorado, Florida, Nevada and Oregon combined have not so great a population by about 100,000 souls as the city of New York. Yet New York City has only eight Representatives in Congress, while the five States have sixteen besides their ten Senators. Virginia now has the same number of Congressmen she had in 1790, when there were only sixty-five members of the House. The thirteen States of Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, Oregon, Rhode Island, Vermont and West Virginia, with an aggregate population which does not exceed that of New York alone, have twenty-six United States Senators to New York's two. From the five States of New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Massachusetts and Ohio the Government derives one-half of all its postal revenues. More than one-half of the internal revenue receipts of the Government come from the four States of Illinois, New York, Ohio and Kentucky. California, with less than half the population of Indiana, pays to the Government more money for postal service.—N. Y. Tribune.

CONGRESSMAN BAGLEY, of Michigan, says Red Star Cough Cure is simple and efficacious.

EX-MAYOR BAXTER, of Louisville, Ky., says St. Jacobs Oil is a specific for every pain.

WHY is a dirty man like flannel? Because he shrinks from washing.—Chicago Ledger.

AS A toilet luxury, Hall's Hair Renewer never fails to give satisfaction.

Sufferers from Bronchitis will find speedy relief by taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

WE may be sure that our consciences are rebellious when they are mute in us (mutinous).

Throw Away Trusses

when our new method is guaranteed to permanently cure the worst cases of rupture, without the use of the knife. Send 10 cents in stamps for pamphlet and references. World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

EVERY bonnet has a "b" in it.—Lowell Citizen.

"As Good as New,"

are the words used by a lady, who was at one time given up by the most eminent physicians, and left to die. Reduced to a mere skeleton, pale and haggard, not able to leave her bed, from all those distressing diseases peculiar to suffering females, such as displacement, leucorrhœa, inflammation, etc., etc. She began taking Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription," and also using the local treatments recommended by him, and is now, she says, "as good as new." Price reduced to one dollar. By druggists.

THE traitor who is expected to be loyal to both sides—The arbitrator.—N. Y. Ledger.

GEN. JOHN A. LOGAN will begin a series of articles on "Reminiscences of the War" in the National Tribune of Washington, D. C., in the issue of April 2. Subscribe at once to secure the first number. $1.00 per year.

IF silence is golden what a valuable misfortune lockjaw must be.

BRONCHITIS is cured by frequent small doses of Piso's Cure for Consumption.

A GROWING evil—Your next door neighbor's squalling baby.—Somerville Journal.

IF afflicted with Sore Eyes use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye Water. Druggists sell it. 25c.

THE lawyer's advertisement—Give me a trial.

THE MARKETS.

CINCINNATI, March 28.
LIVESTOCK—Cattle—Common	$2 00	@ 3 75
Choice Butchers	3 85	@ 4 60
HOGS—Common	3 40	@ 3 80
Good Packers	4 00	@ 4 25
SHEEP—Good to choice	3 75	@ 4 75
FLOUR—Family	4 00	@ 4 25
GRAIN—Wheat—Longberry red		@ 93
No. 2 red	91	@ 93
Corn—No. 2 mixed	37	@ 37½
Oats—No. 2 mixed	32	@ 32½
Rye—No 2	65	@ 66
HAY—Timothy No. 1	12 00	@ 12 50
TOBACCO—Common Lugs	8 00	@ 8 71
Good Mediums	10 00	@ 11 71
PROVISIONS—Pork—Mess	10 00	@ 10 25
Lard—Prime steam	6⅛	@ 6⅜
BUTTER—Choice Dairy	12	@ 15
Ohio Creamery	20	@ 28
APPLES—Prime	1 50	@ 1 65
POTATOES—per bushel	65	@ 70
NEW YORK.
FLOUR—State and Western	$2 90	@ 3 40
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 Chicago		@ 95½
No. 2 red	92¼	@ 93
Corn—No. 2 mixed	42	@ 47
Oats—mixed	36	@ 44
PORK—Mess	9 75	@ 10 35
LARD—Western steam		@ 6 27½
CHICAGO.
FLOUR—State and Western	$4 50	@ 4 85
GRAIN—Wheat—No 2 red	84	@ 87
No. 2 Chicago Spring	75¾	@ 75⅞
Corn—No. 2	34⅞	@ 35
Oats—No. 2		@ 25¾
Rye	58½	@ 59
PORK—Mess	9 75	@ 9 90
LARD—Steam		@ 5 97½
BALTIMORE.
FLOUR—Family	$4 50	@ 5 00
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		@ 90
Corn—Mixed		@ 45¼
Oats—mixed	36	@ 38
PROVISIONS—Pork—Mess	10 25	@ 11 75
Lard—Refined	7¼	@ 7½
CATTLE—First quality	4 75	@ 5 00
HOGS	5 50	@ 6 25
INDIANAPOLIS
Wheat—No. 2 red	$	@ 88
Corn—mixed		@ 34½
Oats—mixed		@ 30¼
LOUISVILLE
Flour—A No. 1	$4 00	@ 4 50
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 92
Corn—mixed		@ 36½
Oats—mixed		@ 32½
PORK—mess	10 75	@ 11 00
LARD—steam	7⅛	@ 8

Flowers That Bloom

In the Spring—will be here before you know it, and you should be prepared to enjoy the most delightful season of the year. To escape the depressing, debilitating effects of the changing season you should purify your blood, and keep up a good appetite and good digestion by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. A single dollar for this reliable medicine now may save you a good deal of money later in the year. Take it now.

"When I bought Hood's Sarsaparilla I made a good investment of one dollar in medicine for the first time. It has driven off rheumatism and improved my appetite so much that my boarding mistress says I must keep it locked up or she will be obliged to raise my board with every other boarder that takes Hood's Sarsaparilla." THOMAS BURRELL, 99 Tillary Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla was a God-send to me, for it cured me of dyspepsia and liver complaint with which I had suffered 20 years." J. B. HORNBECK, South Fallsburg, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

FOR COUGHS, CROUP AND CONSUMPTION USE
TAYLOR'S
CHEROKEE REMEDY
OF SWEET GUM AND MULLEIN.
The Sweet Gum from a tree of the same name growing in the South, combined with a tea made from the Mullein plant of the old fields. For sale by all druggists at 25 cents and $1.00 per bottle. WALTER A. TAYLOR, Atlanta, Ga.

"It Knocks the Spots" and everything in the nature of eruptions, blotches, pimples, ulcers, scrofulous humors, and incipient consumption, which is nothing more nor less than scrofula of the lungs, completely out of the system. It stimulates and invigorates the liver, tones up the stomach, regulates the bowels, purifies the blood, and builds up the whole system. It is a purely vegetable compound, and will do more than is claimed for it. We refer to Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery."

SILENCE may be golden, but a dentist has never yet been able to fill teeth with it.—N. Y. Journal.

An Avaricious Man.

Why is an avaricious man like one with a short memory? He is always for-getting. So is the wise parent for-ever getting Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullein, the croup preventive, and cough and consumption cure. Ask your druggist.

THE American joke has been formally introduced into Japan.—Arkansaw Traveler.

Splendid Chances for Investment in Northeast Nebraska. For illustrated pamphlet describing the country and its advantages for farming purposes, and how to reach there, address T. W. Teasdale, Gen. Pass. Agent, St. Paul, Minn.

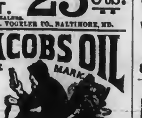
"I'm well backed with silver," as the looking glass said.—Stockton Maverick.

PIKE'S TOOTHACHE DROPS cure in 1 minute, 25c.
Glenn's Sulphur Soap heals and beautifies, 25c.
GERMAN CORN REMOVER kills Corns & Bunions.

A SOFT job—Shaving a young man for the first time.—Fall River Advance.

RED STAR
TRADE MARK.
COUGH CURE
Absolutely
Free from Opiates, Emetics and Poison.
SAFE.
SURE.
PROMPT. 25 Cts.
AT DRUGGISTS AND DEALERS.
THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO., BALTIMORE, MD.

ST. JACOBS OIL
TRADE MARK



THE GREAT
GERMAN REMEDY
For Pain
Cures Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Backache, Headache, Toothache, Sprains, Bruises, etc., etc. PRICE FIFTY CENTS. AT DRUGGISTS AND DEALERS.
THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO., BALTIMORE, MD.

ELY'S CREAM BALM

when applied into the nostrils, will be absorbed, effectually cleansing the head of catarrhal virus, causing healthy secretions. It allays inflammation, protects the membrane of the nasal passages from additional colds, completely heals the sores and restores sense of taste and smell.

NOT a LIQUID or SNUFF.

A few applications relieve. A thorough treatment will cure.

CATARRH

HAY-FEVER

A particle is applied into each nostril; is agreeable to use. Price 50 cents by mail or at Druggists. Send for circular. ELY BROTHERS, Druggists, Owego, N. Y.

BEST ORGANS
ON THE EASY PAYMENT PLAN.
MASON & HAMLIN
Now sell their unrivaled Organs on the easy hire system, payments at the rate of $3.25 per month, up. 100 styles, $22 to $900. Send for Catalogue with full particulars, mailed free.
Also the Mason & Hamlin Improved Upright Pianos, new method of stringing.
MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN AND PIANO CO.,
BOSTON, NEW YORK, CHICAGO.

THE WASHBURN GUITAR

is the finest toned and most durable in the world. Warranted to stand in any climate. Ask your nearest dealer for them. Illustrated catalogues mailed free by the manufacturers, LYON & HEALY, 162 State St. Chicago, Ill.

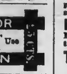
ASTHMA CURED
German Asthma Cure never fails to give immediate relief in the worst cases, insures comfortable sleep; effects cures where all others fail. A trial convinces the most skeptical. Price 50c. and $1.00, of Druggists or by mail. Sample FREE for stamp. DR. R. SCHIFFMANN, St. Paul, Minn.

CONSUMPTION
I have a positive remedy for the above disease; by its use thousands of cases of the worst kind and of long standing have been cured. Indeed, so strong is my faith in its efficacy, that I will send TWO BOTTLES FREE, together with a VALUABLE TREATISE on this disease, to any sufferer. Give Express and P. O. address. DR. T. A. SLOCUM, 181 Pearl St., N. Y.

25 CTS.
PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION

No Rope to Cut Off Horses' Manes.
Celebrated "ECLIPSE" HALTER and BRIDLE Combined, can not be slipped by any horse. Sample Halter to any part of the U. S. free, on receipt of $1. Sold by all Saddlery, Hardware and Harness Dealers. Special discount to the Trade. Send for Price-List.
J.C. LIGHTHOUSE, Rochester, N.Y.

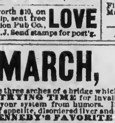


CHEAPEST and BEST. Prices REDUCED.
Holman's New PARALLEL BIBLES!
Over 2,000 pages. Fully illustrated. Agents Wanted. Circulars free. A. J. HOLMAN & CO., Phila.

FREE A book worth $10, on Love & Courtship, sent free by the Union Pub Co., Newark, N.J. Send stamps for post'g. LOVE

MARCH, APRIL, MAY
Are the three arches of a bridge which bind the season of ice to that of roses. SPRING is a TRYING TIME for invalids. At this time you should cleanse and purify your system from humors. If you are ever vexed with indigestion, headache, bilious, liver and kidney complaints, constipation, or feverish skin, take DR. D. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY now.
PURIFY THE BLOOD
Without an hour's delay. It is mild, quick and positive in action. Keep it in the house when you are at home, for the blood, and take it with you on journeys. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to the sex, FAVORITE REMEDY proves a real blessing.
DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S "FAVORITE REMEDY." SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS. $1 per Bottle; 6 for $5.00.
MADE BY DR. DAVID KENNEDY, RONDOUT, N.Y.

LIVE STOCK CUTS.
We will furnish duplicates of LIVE STOCK CUTS or any other Cut shown in any Specimen Book, at or below quoted prices for same.
A. N. Kellogg Newspaper Co.
Electrotypers and Stereotypers,
177 & 179 Elm Street,
CINCINNATI.



GEN. LOGAN'S Book.
A BONANZA For good Agents. Write AT ONCE for territory.
J. R. HART & CO., Publishers, 18 Murray Street, New York City.

CANCER Treated and cured without the knife. Book on treatment sent free. Address F. L. POND, M.D., Aurora, Kane Co., Ill.

FINE Blooded Cattle, Sheep, Hogs, Poultry, dogs for sale. Catalogues with 150 engravings free. N. P. Boyer & Co. Coatesville, Pa.

HAIR Wigs, Bangs and Waves sent C. O. D. anywhere. Wholesale & Retail. Price-list free. Goods guaranteed. E. C. Strehl, 157 Wabash-av. Chicago.

DYSPEPSIA
Is a dangerous as well as distressing complaint. If neglected, it tends, by impairing nutrition, and depressing the tone of the system, to prepare the way for Rapid Decline.
BROWN'S
IRON
Trade Mark QUALITY P PURITY NOT QUANTITY On Every Bottle BITTERS
—THE
BEST TONIC
PHYSICIANS AND DRUGGISTS RECOMMEND IT.
Quickly and completely Cures Dyspepsia in all its forms, Heartburn, Belching, Tasting the Food, etc. It enriches and purifies the blood, stimulates the appetite, and aids the assimilation of food.
Mr. WM. M. PLASTER, 1116 Underhill St., Louisville, Ky., says: "I was troubled with Dyspepsia for several years. Was not relieved until I used Brown's Iron Bitters. It cured me."
Mr. CYRUS W. BEAT, Justice of the Peace, Arcola, Ind., says: "I was so sorely afflicted with indigestion that I could eat nothing without distress. Brown's Iron Bitters has completely cured me."
Genuine has above Trade Mark and crossed red lines on wrapper. Take no other. Made only by BROWN CHEMICAL CO., BALTIMORE, MD.

M. EHRET, JR. & CO.
—MANUFACTURERS OF—

FOR FLAT AND STEEP ROOFS.
GUARANTEED
CHEAPEST & BEST IN USE.
ABSOLUTELY
WATER, FIRE & WIND-PROOF.
PUT ON BY ANYBODY.
W. O. BURGESS, Agt.,
8 and 9 Public Landing, - CINCINNATI, O.

KENSINGTON
STAMPING OUTFIT FREE!

Being fully aware of the great interest the ladies are taking in Kensington Work, we have prepared a Complete Outfit containing 50 Perforated Stamping Patterns on best quality [illegible] Stamping Powder, 1 Box white Stamping Powder, 1 Patent reversible Pounce, and full and complete directions for Kensington Stamping and Embroidery, Kensington Painting, Lustra, Metallic Flitter and Irridescent Painting, Colors and [illegible] Colors of all the different flowers. [illegible] To introduce FARM AND HOUSEHOLD, the large, 16 page illustrated magazine devoted to the interests of the country home and household, we will send one of these Outfits complete, Free and post-paid, to any lady who will send 25c. [illegible]
Farm and Household, Hartford, Conn.

LE PAGE'S
GLUES
Used by the best manufacturers and mechanics in the world. Pullman Palace Car Co., Mason & Hamlin Organ & Piano Co., &c., use it.
At the New Orleans Exposition, joints made with it endured a testing strain of over
1600 Pounds
TO A SQUARE INCH.
Pronounced strongest glue known.
TWO GOLD MEDALS.
London, 1883. New Orleans, 1885.
If your dealer does not keep it send his card and 10c. postage for sample can, FREE.
RUSSIA CEMENT CO., Gloucester, Mass.

CONTAGIOUS!
I am a native of England, and while I was in that country I contracted a terrible blood poison, and for two years was under treatment as an out-door patient at Nottingham Hospital, England, but was not cured. I suffered the most agonizing pains in my bones, and was covered with sores all over my body and limbs. Finally I completely lost all hope in that country, and sailed for America, and was treated at Roosevelt in this city, as well as by a prominent physician in New York having no connection with the hospitals.
I saw the advertisement of Swift's Specific, and I determined to give it a trial. I took six bottles and I can say with great joy that they have cured me entirely. I am as sound and well as I ever was in my life.
L. FRED HALFORD.
New York City, June 12, 1885.
Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed free.
The Swift Specific Co., Drawer 3, Atlanta, Ga. N. Y., 157 W. 23d Street.

Don't Buy SEEDS
without writing for our Catalogue. Our prices DEFY COMPETITION, and Seeds are NEW, PURE, FRESH, RELIABLE.
FREE Catalogue, invaluable to all, of 130 pages. Including Plants, Fruits, and price list, with 800 illustrations. Let us hear from you. Respectfully,
THE STORRS & HARRISON CO.
PAINESVILLE, LAKE CO., OHIO.

LANDS IN NORTHERN WISCONSIN
800,000 ACRES of Choice Hardwood Farming Lands for Sale on EASY TERMS to ACTUAL SETTLERS. EXTRAORDINARY inducements offered. NO DROUGHTS or CYCLONES! Full particulars, with good Map, FREE. Address C. L. COLBY, Land Commissioner W. C. R.R., MILWAUKEE, Wis.
FARMS

ARTISTS' MATERIALS. Lustra and Kensington Colors. Repousse Work. Wax Flower Supplies. Send for our various catalogues. Mail orders solicited. HOFFMANN BROS., 165 Main Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

MUSTANG
Survival of the Fittest.
A FAMILY MEDICINE THAT HAS HEALED MILLIONS DURING 35 YEARS!
MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT.
A BALM FOR EVERY WOUND OF MAN AND BEAST!
The Oldest & Best Liniment
EVER MADE IN AMERICA.
SALES LARGER THAN EVER.
The Mexican Mustang Liniment has been known for more than thirty-five years as the best of all Liniments, for Man and Beast. Its sales to-day are larger than ever. It cures when all others fail, and penetrates skin, tendon and muscle, to the very bone. Sold everywhere.

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOLUME XI. BURLINGTON, KY., WEDNESDAY, MARCH 31, 1886. NUMBER 21.

GLADSTONE

Will Introduce His Irish Measures Soon.

Home Rule to Take the Precedence of the Land Question.

LONDON, March 26.—Gladstone appeared in the House of Commons this afternoon. Referring to the announcement made in his behalf yesterday by Sir William Vernon Harcourt, Mr. Gladstone said the statement he would make April 8 would take the form of introduction of a bill for the future Government of Ireland. The announcement produced a sensation. It is now believed that the Premier has, in deference to the opposition in his own party, decided to abandon temporarily at least, his scheme for buying out the landlords of Ireland, and will make home rule in some form, pure and simple, the basis of his Irish proposals. A more careful study of Gladstone's statement throws doubt upon the belief that the introduction of the home rule bill would necessarily shelve the land purchase bill. Mr. Chamberlain to-night said the discussion in to-day's Cabinet Council only intensified the crisis. It had not, however, precipitated any resignations. A final effort would probably be made the coming week to effect a compromise between the Premier and the disputants in the Cabinet. Mr. Goschen denied at Windsor this evening, having been summoned as Privy Councillor by the Queen for consultation and advice. Later.—The Government's supporters have been privately assured that the Government's Irish programme has been settled by the Cabinet. The Home Rule measure will be introduced first, followed immediately by the land bill. Both measures, if passed by the House of Commons, will be presented to the House of Lords together. Chamberlain and Trevelyan will remain in the Cabinet until the home bill has been tabled. Gladstone dispatched a messenger to the Queen this evening with an important communication, which it is believed has reference to the home rule question.

A. N. KELLOGG.

Death of the Originator of the Auxiliary Publishing Business in the United States.

CHICAGO, March 25.—News has been received of the death, at Thomasville, Ga., of Mr. A. N. Kellogg, president of the A. N. Kellogg Newspaper Company. The deceased had been an invalid for many years, and of late was unable to devote his personal attention to the large business enterprise which is mainly the outgrowth of his foresight, energy and excellent business talent. He was the pioneer in the auxiliary publishing business, which has grown into such magnitude and importance within a little over twenty years' time. He was a public-spirited man, a man of sterling integrity and uprightness of character, and was greatly endeared to all in any way associated with him because of his kind and sympathetic nature and unostentatious generosity. He was fifty-four years of age. He leaves a widow and two daughters, who have their home in New York, to which city the remains will be taken for burial.

Mr. Kellogg was born at Reading, Pa., March 20, 1832, and graduated with distinction at Columbia College, New York, in 1852. He was a son of Frederick Kellogg and the youngest of six children. He married Annie E. Barnes at Baraboo, Wis., August 31, 1859. In 1861, while publishing the Baraboo (Wis.) Republic, a weekly newspaper, he became short of help and conceived the idea of the patent inside, and had copies printed by the Madison (Wis.) Daily Journal Company. He continued to print a "patent-inside" paper until 1865, when he came to Chicago and began printing "patent-insides" for country papers. He built up the Kellogg Newspaper Company, which now has offices in Chicago, St. Louis, Cleveland, Kansas City, Memphis, New York and Cincinnati.

BURNED AND DROWNED.

A Mother, Made Frantic by Flames, Throws Herself Into a Cistern.

READING, PA., March 26.—Mrs. Henry Franke, aged forty-two years, living about two miles from here on a truck farm, yesterday kindled a fire with coal oil, and while so doing the flames ignited to the can, which exploded with terrific force. The burning oil scattered over the body of the woman and upon her two children, aged nine and eleven years. The frantic woman ran into the yard and jumped into a cistern at the lower end of the garden and was drowned. The burning oil set fire to the house. The fire was seen by farmers and they extinguished it. The children were terribly burned about the face and body. A doctor was summoned, who stated that they can not recover, as the fire has entered their breast and lungs.

She Kicked in Her Sleep.

DETROIT, MICH., March 26.—Mrs. John Watkins, of Almena, this State, is a heavy dreamer. Last night Mrs. Watkins dreamed that her husband's span of mules were raising the mischief in the stable. In her mind Mrs. Watkins repaired to the barn, and, finding the mules kicking high, played the same sort of racket so violently that when Mr. Watkins succeed in awakening her she realised that she had broken several bones in her husband's foot, inflicted serious injuries on other portions of his body, and made him altogether mad as a wet hen. A physician's services were required to reduce the fractures suffered by the abused husband, and now a divorce is talked of.

Boycott Affects Ten Firms.

LYNN, MASS., March 26.—The boycott on Keene Bros., shoe manufacturers, began this morning, when their engineer, by order of the Knights of Labor, stopped his engine. The engine supplied power to nine firms, which had to shut down, throwing 1,200 or 1,300 operators out of work. The manufacturers who have been forced to suspend are very indignant, and threaten legal proceedings against the Knights.

Desperate Convicts.

LIMERICK, March 26.—Five men, who had been convicted of rioting and assaulting the police, were brought up for sentence in one of the criminal courts. The magistrate committed them to imprisonment for terms ranging from three to six months. When sentence had been pronounced the prisoners in concert, and while yet in the dock, made a most savage attack on the police present on duty. A terrible struggle ensued, causing such excitement that the magistrate was compelled to quit the bench. The prisoners were finally overpowered and again secured, but not until they had almost wrecked the court-room and had themselves been severely beaten.

Mulkowski Hanged.

CHICAGO, March 26.—Frank Mulkowski was hanged at the county jail a few minutes after 12. Mulkowski, at almost the last moment, concluded to accept the religious rites of the Catholic Church and made a confession to the priests, the nature of which was not to be divulged until after the execution.

Out of Patience With Court Dress.

LONDON, March 26.—Nearly one hundred members of the House of Commons have signed a memorial to Speaker Peel, praying that the rule requiring court dress at official levees be abolished.

Trouble Among Squatters.

DENVER, COL., March 26.—A large number of Mexican settlers on the Maxwell land grant, in Northern New Mexico, were arrested yesterday and placed in jail at Springer for refusing to obey the order of the Supreme Court, to vacate lands owned by the company. Much bitter feeling exists over the affair, and bloodshed is feared before the final settlement is reached.

Aged Negro Suicides.

READING, PA., March 26.—James Dennis, colored, aged ninety, hung himself at the county farm to-day. During the graveyard insurance craze his life was insured for $400,000; but the companies have long since gone out of existence.

EXTRAORDINARY ACCIDENT.

Descending to the Cellar, a Trap-Door Falls, Holding a Woman Suspended by the Head.

BOSTON, MASS., March 25.—Yesterday afternoon while Mrs. Jas. Hardie, of Milton, was at work alone in her house she had occasion to go to her cellar by a trap-door entrance. In going down stairs the trap-door fell just in time to catch her by the head and it held there two and a half hours, she suffering terribly, until she finally became unconscious. Her little girl found her when she came home from school and lifted the door. As she did so Mrs. Hardie fell to the cellar bottom. The little girl alarmed a neighbor, who went to her assistance and called a doctor. Mrs. Hardie remained unconscious for some time, and her life was despaired of, but she rallied under the treatment she received, and may possibly recover.

AN EXTRAORDINARY DUEL.

A French and an American Woman Fight on the Field of Waterloo.

LONDON, March 25.—A duel was fought on the field of Waterloo to-day, the contestants being Mme. Valsayre, a native of France, and Miss Shelby, an American. The duel was the result of a dispute on the relative merits of French and American female doctors. After a stormy altercation between the disputants, Mme. Valsayre threw her glove in Miss Shelby's face and a duel was forthwith arranged. The weapons were swords. Miss Shelby was slightly wounded on one arm. The four seconds were Americans. The latter expressed themselves as satisfied that the duel had been conducted fairly and that France's honor had been upheld.

Secretary Manning's Condition.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—Secretary Manning's physicians are not at all encouraged to-day by the symptoms of their patient. Among Mr. Manning's closest friends it is known that there is great danger of a second stroke of apoplexy, or paralysis, and all are filled with the gravest concern in this expectation. It is a fact that Mr. Manning was warned by his physicians some months ago, that he was liable to a stroke of apoplexy. He conferred with the President and desired to resign his office. The President begged him to remain until after the close of the session of Congress, and meanwhile to rest and care for himself. Mr. Manning consented to do so, but afterward suffered with a severe attack of dyspepsia and insomnia, and again conferred with the President, and the latter agreed to accept his resignation or give him an indefinite leave of absence. About this time Manning had a turn for the better, and concluded to hold on until the adjournment of Congress. He worked too hard and took little care of himself, and the end came Tuesday. The Secretary will never do any more work in the Treasury Department. At midnight his condition was somewhat improved.

The Great Strike.

ST. LOUIS, March 25.—The Governors of Missouri, Arkansas, Kansas and Texas issue proclamations relative to the railroad strike. The railroads are called upon to resume traffic, and all persons are warned against interposing any obstacle in the way. The Governor of Missouri pledges the whole power of the State to carry out the purposes of his proclamation. In St. Louis preparations are being made by the militia to protect the armory and the property of the railroad company. Between 11 a. m. and 1 p. m. a committee of District Assembly 93, Knights of Labor, went through all the yards and served an order on all Knights to quit work at 3 p. m. This order was coupled with a request addressed to switchmen who were not Knights of Labor, asking them to join their fellow-workmen and also go out. How well this order was obeyed and the request complied with was shown when, on the sounding of the whistles at 3 p. m., all the yardmen in the place quietly walked out and left the yards deserted.

Fourth-Class Postmasters Removed.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—In response to the Senate resolution, the Postmaster General to-day informed that body that the total number of removals of fourth-class postmasters from March 4, 1885, to March 3, 1886, was 8,645, divided among the several States and Territories as follows: Alabama, 46; Arizona, 9; Arkansas, 66; California, 75; Colorado, 33; Connecticut, 100; Dakota, 125; Delaware, 37; District of Columbia, 1; Florida, 26; Georgia, 61; Idaho, 16; Illinois, 613; Indiana, 499; Indian Territory, 6; Iowa, 399; Kansas, 253; Kentucky, 194; Louisiana, 32; Maine, 292; Maryland, 137; Massachusetts, 127; Minnesota, 124; Michigan, 341; Mississippi, 60; Missouri, 287; Montana, 19; Nebraska, 98; Nevada, 7; New Hampshire, 127; New Jersey, 255; New Mexico, 12; New York, 1,053; North Carolina, 130; Ohio, 878; Oregon, 34; Pennsylvania, 938; Rhode Island, 25; South Carolina, 47; Tennessee, 168; Texas, 74; Utah, 5; Vermont, 128; Virginia, 316; Washington Territory, 25; West Virginia, 138; Wisconsin, 205; Wyoming, 4.

Rottenness in the Chicago Police Court.

CHICAGO, March 25.—The grand jury has returned an indictment for embezzlement against William J. Clingen, ex-clerk of the Armory Police Court. He is charged with the embezzlement of between $10,000 and $12,000, and with making erasures and alterations in his returns, in order to conceal his stealings and delay investigation. City Attorney Washburne claims that the city has been robbed of $30,000 a year through the manipulation of the Police Court returns during the past four or five years.

Bloody Battle with Cattle Thieves.

KANSAS CITY, MO., March 20.—The Times' Fort Elliott, Texas, special says: In a fight at Tescosa over a matter of cattle stealing four men were killed and two probably fatally wounded. Two others remaining are now in jail. The dead men are Jesse Sheets, Fred Chilton, Frank Malley and Ed. King. Wounded, Fenton Woodruff and Charles Emery, while Louis Bozeman and Catfish Kid were unhurt.

Extension of Special Mail Delivery.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—The Committee on Post-offices and Post-roads has reported a bill to extend the system for the immediate delivery of letters. It provides that every article of mailable matter upon which the special delivery stamp is affixed shall be entitled to immediate delivery. It authorizes postmasters to employ any persons, including clerks and assistants at fourth-class offices, as messengers on such terms as they shall fix out of the allowance of eighty per cent. of the face value of all special delivery stamps received and recorded.

Rhode Island Republican Nominations.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 25.—At the Republican State Convention this morning George Peabody Wetmore, of Newport, was nominated for Governor; E. Lucius Darling, of Pawtucket, for Lieutenant Governor; and Joshua M. Addeman, of Providence, for Secretary of State. Samuel P. Cott, of Bristol, for Attorney General.

American Divorces Don't Go in England.

LONDON, March 25.—Justice Butt to-day rendered a decision to the effect that a divorce obtained in America from the bonds of a marriage performed in England is invalid in England.

Wealthy Farmer Suicides.

BLOOMINGTON, ILL., March 25.—Hon. Wm. M. Smith, of Lexington, Ill., committed suicide. He left the house in good spirits, and a few minutes later was found in the barn dead with a bullet-hole through his head. He was a general merchant and a large farmer and stock-dealer, and was worth $60,000. He was a native of Kentucky.

Very High Water in Central Wisconsin.

BELOIT, WIS., March 25.—Rock river has been rising rapidly for twenty-four hours. The water is at the highest point ever known. Considerable business and other property is flooded, and the prospects are that much additional damage will be done.

NOT ENDED.

Gould Says That Powderly Jumped to a Conclusion.

Fruitless Conference Between Gould and the Executive Board.

NEW YORK, March 29.—The spirit of exultation which filled the hearts of the Executive Board of the Knights of Labor this morning soon changed to grave anxiety. When Wm. O. McDowell called at Gould's office at 9:30 o'clock this morning he was not so favorably impressed with his reception as he was with the reception accorded him at Mr. Gould's house Sunday. Mr. Gould gave McDowell to understand that there had been a misconception of his telegram to Mr. Hoxie, which was sent Sunday night. Mr. McDowell at once returned to the Astor House and conferred with the General Executive Board, and two of the members at once returned with McDowell to Mr. Gould's office. The conference then was short, and an adjournment was had until 3 o'clock this afternoon, the hope being entertained that at that hour Mr. Powderly might be well enough to attend. At 3:20 o'clock, however, Messrs. Turner and McDowell entered Jay Gould's office without Mr. Powderly. About 4 o'clock the conference ended. Subsequent inquiry at Mr. Gould's office was answered by the following statement, of which Mr. Gould was the author: Mr. Powderly has evidently misunderstood the meaning of the telegram that was sent on Sunday night to Mr. Hoxie. "Our position is that this strike has been in a condition for arbitration all the time. We have had an agreement with the workmen for some time that all differences were to have been submitted for arbitration before any strike should be resorted to. Manager Hoxie has this matter in hand. He has full control, and the matter must be settled with him. We are just where we were before Sunday's conference." Gould and Powderly will have another conference to-morrow.

ST. LOUIS, March 29.—The strikers have received no specific instructions as yet in regard to resuming work, but they say that it will be impossible for them to return before Wednesday morning. While the executive board was in session to-night a telegram was received from Powderly saying that complications as to the methods of arbitration had arisen and that another conference would be held to-morrow. The board adjourned without ordering the men to work, and they will not be until further instructions are received from New York.

ESCAPED A FRIGHTFUL FATE.

A Woman Rises From Her Coffin After Being Apparently Dead for Hours.

ALLENDALE, N. J., March 29.—Martha Davene, a maiden lady, has been an invalid for several years. On Friday night her relatives were called to her bedside to bid her farewell, as she was evidently dying. Shortly after ten o'clock she closed her eyes and ceased to breathe. A looking-glass was held over her mouth, but no indication of respiration appeared upon it. She was accordingly prepared for burial. Undertaker Mitchell noticed that although the dead woman's form was rigid, with the exception of her extremities, her body remained warm. Without notifying the friends he placed her in a coffin without putting her on ice. For twenty hours she lay in the box and was viewed by several neighbors and mourned by her friends. Her relatives even opened and read her will, thinking that she might make some request regarding her funeral. Shortly after 6 o'clock last evening, while the family were at supper, Mr. Cook heard a noise in the parlor where his aunt's remains were lying. He was horrorstricken to find her sitting up with her head and shoulders partly out of the glass covering over the coffin. She had been in a trance. After getting out of the box she walked and appeared perfectly well. She relates many curious things that she saw while in the trance.

Export Whisky.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Attorney General Garland has given an opinion favorable to granting warehouse privileges to reimported domestic goods. This opinion is held to apply to whisky exportations, and under it much of the ten million gallons of spirits withdrawn last year from bond for exportation will probably now be brought back and warehoused for a year without being compelled to pay the internal revenue tax on landing. But it is left with the Collector of Customs at New York to decide whether importations of whisky had been preceded by an exportation in good faith. On the question of granting an abatement of overdue taxes where whisky has been burned in warehouses, Attorney-General Garland gives it as his opinion that where taxes have not been collected on goods in bond at the expiration of the bonded period the Secretary of the Treasury has the right, in case they are destroyed, to grant an abatement.

Alaskan Fever Attacks Michigaaders.

ISHPEMING, MICH., March 29.—Governor Swineford's glowing accounts of Alaska's enjoyable climate and great wealth of minerals have caused an Alaskan fever in parts of the upper peninsula. The Governor took with him, when he went, several Michigan men, who have all secured promising gold quartz claims, and estimate their future wealth at many millions each. Captain P. D. Tracy, a mining man of large experience, Endelman, a jeweler, and Marlow H Crocker, a prominent lawyer of Ishpeming, left the city last week for Alaska.

Exports and Imports.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The total value of the exports of merchandise during the twelve months ended February 28, 1886, were $663,723,574, and during the preceding twelve months $748,603,201, a decrease of $84,879,627. The total values of the imports of merchandise for the twelve months ended February 28, 1886, were $607,711,701, and for the preceding twelve months $604,489,440, an increase of $3,222,261.

Barney McAuley Dead.

NEW YORK, March 29.—Barney McAuley, the actor and theater manager, died to-day at St. Vincent's Hospital, where he has been under treatment for the past four days. He was born in Louisville, Ky., and was in his forty-eighth year. His wife, Rachel McAuley, is an actress, and is at present stopping at the Gedney House.

Snow Storms Northwest.

LACROSSE, WIS., March 29.—A general snow storm set in over this section yesterday and six inches had fallen up to midnight. It is considered a great help to the winter wheat crop.

The Eternal "Pollyvoo."

"It is quite fashionable to put an aigrette in the coiffure when it is arranged high upon the head," read Mrs. Pugmire from the fashion notes of her Vermont paper. "Well, well, how they do pollyvoo every thing about cooking now-days," said she. "I always put an egg in the coffee to settle it, except sometimes in the winter when they're so everlasting high, and then I use a piece of cod-fish skin. I don't understand what is meant, though, by arranging the coffee on the head, unless it's the head of a barrel.—Peck's Sun.

Mose Learned Something.

While going to San Antonio on the train, Mose Schaumburg observed the train was traveling very fast. Just then the brakeman rushed in and exclaimed:

"The engineer has lost control of the train. In ten minutes we will be dashed into a thousand pieces."

"Well, I'll be dushed if I ever buys a return ticket on dot road any more."

Fortunately the train was halted just in time to enable Mose to subsequently utilize his return ticket.—Texas Siftings.

—A North Carolina editor puts on his free list every woman in the State who becomes the mother of twin boys.

RAILROAD STRIKE ENDED.

Gould and Powderly Have a Conference—The Men Will go to Work at Once—The Knights of Labor Recognized.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Conferences between Jay Gould and T. V. Powderly to-day and this evening have resulted in orders from each of them to the parties to the Southwestern strike, ordering immediate resumption of work and traffic pending arbitration, to which Mr. Gould consents. This morning at 11 o'clock Mr. Powderly and W. B. McDowell called on Jay Gould at the latter's residence. There they met Messrs. Gould, Hopkins and George Gould. There was a general discussion of the situation in the Southwest on both sides, and a better understanding was arrived at than had been had by either party hitherto. After talking until 1 o'clock p. m., the conference was adjourned until evening. At 7 o'clock to-night they met again. At 8:30 p. m. Mr. Powderly had leave to keep an engagement with Congressman John O'Neil, of St. Louis, Chairman of the House Committee on Labor, who came from Washington to render assistance, if possible, in settling the strike. Mr. McDowell, however, remained with Mr. Gould and his party, and Mr. Gould finally handed to McDowell the following communication:

T. V. POWDERLY, G. M. W.—DEAR SIR: Replying to your letter of the 27th instant I write to say that I will, to-morrow morning, send the following telegraphic instructions to Mr. Hoxie, General Manager of the Missouri Pacific railroad at St. Louis:

In resuming the movement of trains on the Missouri Pacific and in the employing of laborers in the several departments of this company give preference to our late employes, whether they are Knights of Labor or not, except that you will not employ any person who has injured the company's property during the late strike. Nor will we discharge any person who has taken service with the company during said strike. We see no objection to arbitrating any differences between the employes and the company, past or future.

Hoping the above will be satisfactory, I remain, yours truly,

JAY GOULD, President.

The Executive Board of the Knights of Labor have sent out the following telegram:

Martin Irons, Chairman Executive Board, St. Louis: President Jay Gould has consented to our proposition for arbitration, and so telegraphs Vice-President Hoxie. Order the men to resume work at once. By order Executive Board. T. V. POWDERLY, G. M. W.

The Executive Board also sent out the following telegram:

To the Knights of Labor now on strike in the Southwest: President Jay Gould has consented to our proposition for arbitration, and so telegraphs Vice-President Hoxie. Pursuant to telegraphic instructions sent to the Chairman Executive Board D. A. 101, you are directed to resume work at once. Per order Executive Board.

T. V. POWDERLY, G. M. W.

O'NEILL'S ARBITRATION BILL.

A Measure Intended for the Amicable Settlement of Labor Disputes.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—In the House to-morrow Mr. O'Neill's long promised bill on the arbitration question will be introduced. He asserts that the bill is rational, operative and constitutional. It is entitled "a bill creating boards for arbitration for the speedy settlement of controversies and differences between common carriers engaged in interstate and territorial commerce or business and employes." The preamble recites that by Section 8, of Article 1, of the Constitution of the United States, Congress is invested with full power and authority to provide for the general welfare of the people of the United States; to regulate commerce among the several States; to constitute tribunals inferior to the Supreme Court of the United States, and to make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers. It provides for the formation within the law of a tribunal consisting of one on each side of the controversy, the two to select a third. If they do not select as provided within three days the United States Court of the jurisdiction in which the trouble exists shall do so. The tribunal shall have the standing of a United States Commission with all its powers, and shall be paid in like manner.

Alms-house Burned.

PEORIA, ILL., March 28.—There was great excitement in this city this morning when a mounted messenger came riding furiously with the information that the Peoria Alms-house, six miles distant, was in flames. A new wing had been added to the building last year. In this were forty-five insane people. Engines were immediately dispatched to the spot, but did not arrive in time to save the main building, a large two-story brick, erected seventeen years ago, at a cost of $40,000. Of this nothing but the walls remain standing. Fortunately the wind blew away from the Insane Hospital and by hard work it was saved. One hundred and fifty inmates occupied the burned structure, who will be temporarily lodged in the new wing.

Twelve Hundred Arrests.

PHILADELPHIA, March 28.—At a late hour last night the police made a raid on saloons and concert halls. It was at first estimated that six hundred people were arrested, but when the different squads of officers reported to-day it was found that between one thousand and twelve hundred persons had been taken into custody. All of the girls, with the exception of three, after being held to keep the peace, were released upon payment of costs amounting to $1.65 each. The three girls not released were given six months in the House of Correction, it having been learned that they were of the worst type of street-walkers. The proprietors were held under bail on the charges of keeping disorderly houses, selling liquors to minors, and harboring minors.

County Treasurer Bound Over.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 28.—Treasurer Hollingsworth, of Knox County, Ind., has been bound over to the grand jury to answer the charge of embezzling about $80,000 of county funds.

Young But Plucky.

LAFAYETTE, IND., March 28.—John McCutcheon, the fifteen-year-old son of the sheriff, was yesterday left temporarily in charge of the jail, when one of the prisoners, Doug Kramer, secreted himself and threw McCutcheon against the wall. Instead of sitting down to cry about it, Johnny seized a revolver and gave chase. Down the street, across lots and down alleys they went, Kramer running as fast as he could and McCutcheon shooting and calling "stop thief." After a long chase Kramer was captured by John A. Rice and returned to jail. Young McCutcheon is the lion of the hour.

A Mountain on Fire.

CHATTANOOGA, TENN., March 28.—The situation in the burning coal mine at Rockwood is becoming more serious. It now looks as if the entire mine would be destroyed. Four rifts of the mine are now ablaze and the fires are burning furiously and can be seen bursting from the mountain top like the eruption of a volcano. Chattanooga firemen went eight hundred feet into the mine with hose and fought the fire for eighteen hours, five of them being very seriously injured. The miners are now trying to close up all the entries and air courses in the hope of smothering the flames. Four hundred men are thrown out of work.

Short Married Life Ended.

ST. LOUIS, March 27.—A bride of twelve days committed suicide here to-day by taking "rough on rats." Two weeks ago she was a Miss Caroline Drow, and was employed as a servant-girl in a family on the levee. Her marriage to Wm. Limbrock, a laborer, was an unhappy one, as they quarreled from the start, and she ended her sorrows to-day with poison.

Fast Type-Setters.

PHILADELPHIA, March 27.—The type-setting contest, which began here on Tuesday, March 16, closed to-night, Duguid, of Cincinnati, taking first prize, and McCann, of New York, the second. Duguid to-day exceeded all previous records, his net composition being 6,635 ems in three hours.

XLIXTH CONGRESS.

First Session.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—SENATE.—The bill granting the widow of General Hancock a pension of $2,000 a year was passed. Ingalls' resolution of inquiry in regard to the number of removals of fourth-class postmasters was agreed to. Beck's resolution in relation to the payment of customs dues in coin was referred to the Finance Committee. Mr. Logan's bill to increase the efficiency of the army was discussed. Pending action the morning hour expired and the Edmunds resolutions were taken up. Mr. Jackson continued his speech of yesterday. Mr. George followed and Morgan took the floor. A motion to go into executive session was opposed by Mr. Edmunds with a view to fixing a day for a vote. It was agreed that to-morrow the time should be fixed. At 5:30 p. m. the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—Bills were reported to establish a National highway for live stock; to establish a Bureau of Public Health; to amend the act establishing a Bureau of Animal Industry; to extend the system for the immediate delivery of letters; to repeal the pre-emption laws; to provide for the uniform instruction of State militia; to provide for the equitable classification and compensation of certain officers of the United States; to provide for evidence in cases involving disputed handwriting. The House passed the 4th of July claims bill, amounting to $428,200. The Indian appropriation bill was taken up, and much time consumed in discussing points of order raised against certain items. A conference report on the urgent deficiency bill was agreed to, and at 4:45 p. m. the House adjourned.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—SENATE.—The Postmaster-General replied to a resolution calling for information in regard to the removal of fourth-class Postmasters by promising to furnish the information in two or three days. Mr. Van Wyck's resolution in relation to the price of gas in the District was referred after some discussion. A petition from the Pacific Coast, against the cruel treatment of unoffending Chinese, was referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs. Debate was resumed on the bill to increase the efficiency of the army. Pending action the morning hour expired. The Edmunds report and resolutions were taken up. Messrs. Morgan, Mitchell, Hoar, Edmunds and Grey made speeches. Mr. Voorhees got the floor for to-morrow, after a partial agreement to take a vote on Friday.

HOUSE.—The Committee on Naval Affairs reported back a resolution, which was adopted, calling upon the Secretary of the Navy for information in regard to the present condition of the new cruisers. A resolution was adopted calling on the various Cabinet officers for information concerning the employment of substitutes in the departments. Unanimous consent was given that an order might be made allowing the Committee on Labor to report for action legislation for the purpose of providing for arbitration in strikes on railways. Bills were reported granting the consent of Congress to the construction of bridges over navigable rivers, and appropriating $45,000 for the improvement of the public building at Indianapolis. The Congressional Library building bill was considered during the morning hour, but no action was taken. The Indian appropriation bill was taken up and passed. The Post-office appropriation bill, appropriating $54,326,588, was discussed. Pending action the House adjourned.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—SENATE.—A bill was reported establishing a commission to examine the Rochambeau, Franklin and other papers of historic value, with the view of publishing them. The Committee on Commerce reported a bill for the encouragement of American shipping. A bill was passed granting a pension of $50 a month to the widow of Rear Admiral Harwood. The Postmaster General furnished the Senate with a tabulated statement of fourth-class postmasters removed during the past year. There were, he says, 8,635 removed. The Edmunds resolutions were debated by Voorhees, Evarts and Call.

HOUSE.—The chaplain prayed against the founding of an aristocracy in the country. Saturday, April 17, was set apart for the consideration of public building bills involving an expenditure of less than $25,000. Bills were reported to promote the introduction of fresh water on the Colorado desert; to provide for the organization of the Territory of Oklahoma; for free ships, and to grant fifteen days' leave of absence to employes of the Government printing office. A number of reports and petitions were submitted. The post-office appropriation bill was taken up. Speeches were made by Dockery, of Missouri; Peters, of Kansas, and Guenther, of Wisconsin. At 5:10 p. m. the House took a recess until 7:30 p. m., the night session being for the consideration of pension bills.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—SENATE.—Among the bills introduced was one by Mr. Hoar providing for inquest under National authority into such outrages as the Carrollton massacre. The Edmunds resolutions were placed before the Senate and Mr. Ingalls took the floor. He was followed by Messrs. Harrison, Logan and Edmunds. At 7 p. m. Van Wyck moved to take up his amendment for open session consideration of nominations. On a point of order that this would change a standing rule of the Senate there was a vote of 31 to 26 sustaining the point. The first resolution of Mr. Edmunds was adopted 32 to 26, the second by 32 to 26, and the third by 30 to 29, Mitchell, Riddleberger and Van Wyck voting with the minority. The Senate at 9:30 p. m. adjourned until Monday, after adding a fourth resolution declaring that the removal of honorably discharged soldiers otherwise qualified for the position was contrary to the spirit of Section 1754 of the Revised Statutes.

HOUSE.—The chaplain prayed for the recovery of Secretary Manning. A communication from Assistant Secretary Fairchild transmitted the draft of a bill to amend the law of regulating immigration; also letter asking for an appropriation for the storage and transportation of silver dollars. Other executive communications were received. On a motion to reconsider, the House passed the Senate bill granting a pension of fifty dollars a month to the widow of General H. W. Benham. The private calendar was taken up, and the time of the House until 4:30 was devoted to consideration of the bill to change the rank of Henry J. Hunt from Colonel to Major General on the retired list. A motion to report the bill favorably was defeated, and a motion to report it with the recommendation that it lie on the table was not voted upon by the friends of the bill, leaving the House without a quorum. The House at 4:30 took a recess until 7:30, the night session being for the consideration of pension bills. Forty-one bills were passed, and the House adjourned.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—SENATE.—Not in session.

HOUSE.—The debate on the silver question was opened by Mr. Culbertson (Tex.), followed by Mr. Long (Mass.), Mr. Dorgan (S. C.), Mr. Hanscll (Ky.) and Mr. J. M. Taylor (Tenn.). Adjourned.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—SENATE.—An anti-Chinese memorial was presented from San Francisco. Memorials were also presented from the Legislature of Connecticut for coast defenses, and from that of Iowa in relation to the national board of health. Mr. Logan's Army bill was taken up and discussed. At 4:50 p. m. the Senate went into executive session, and at 5:35 p. m. adjourned.

HOUSE.—A number of small bills were introduced under the call of States. Resolutions looking to an investigation of the labor troubles were referred. Woolford, of Kentucky, introduced a bill granting a pension of eight dollars a month to all honorably discharged soldiers and sailors of the late war, and providing artificial limbs, or a money equivalent, for those Confederates who needed them. The Willis educational bill, identical with the Blair bill, was referred to the Committee on Labor by a vote of 138 to 113. This reference was made to get the measure reported to the House. The bill regulating compensation of U. S. Attorneys, Marshals and Commissioners was taken up and pending action when the morning hour expired. O'Hara, of North Carolina, asked unanimous consent to offer for immediate consideration resolutions providing for an investigation by the House of the Carrollton (Miss.) murders. Mr. Reagan, of Texas, objected on the ground that Congress had no constitutional power.

—A microscopic slide in the possession of the Manchester Philosophical and Literary Society, in England, contains the Lord's prayer written within the 405,000th part of an inch. The minute speck can be found with powerful microscopes only with great difficulty, as the focus point of the lens must be made to cover the exact spot bearing the object. It was engraved by Mr. Webb some years ago by the aid of an instrument now held by the society.

—Ollie, who has been a naughty boy, has just finished his evening prayer, when mamma says: "Are you not going to ask God to forgive you?" "O yes, I s'pose so. Please, God, forgive me for being so bad a boy, and forgive my mamma, too, for being very wicked (a long breath while he tries to bring some evidence of his assertion—then an inspiration) for she killed a fly, Lord, that you made!"—Chicago Journal.

—At the Antiquary's: Collector of Curios—"Have you any genuine Roman falchions?" Dealer (off his guard)—"I am sorry, but they're all being rusted and won't be ready until next week."—Detroit Free Press.

THE COMMONWEALTH.

Louisville Leaf Tobacco Market.

We quote 1885 tobaccos as follows for full weights and sound packages:

	Dark and Heavy.	Burley.
Trash	$2 00@ 3 00	$3 25@ 4 00
Common lugs	3 00@ 3 75	4 00@ 5 00
Medium lugs	3 75@ 4 25	5 25@ 5 75
Good lugs	4 25@ 4 50	6 00@ 7 00
Common leaf	4 50@ 5 00	6 25@ 7 00
Medium leaf	5 00@ 6 00	7 50@ 9 25
Good leaf	7 00@ 8 00	9 50@12 25
Selections	9 00@10 50	13 00@15 00
Burley wrappers	@ ..	15 00@18 00

Proceedings of the Legislature

FRANKFORT, March 20.—SENATE.—Bills passed: Providing for filling vacancies in the office of Judge of the Louisville Law and Equity Court; amending and reducing into one all laws relating to city of Paducah; amending chapter 29, General Statutes, known as the dog law. Permits the owners of dogs to have them assessed as property if they so desire; amending an act establishing a State Board of Health; authorizing the establishment of boards in cities of ten thousand inhabitants and over.

HOUSE.—Bills passed: Incorporating the Ohio, Kentucky and Virginia Railroad Company, and a bill empowering the county of Daviess to levy an advalorem tax. The revenue bill was then taken up and considered till end of session.

FRANKFORT, March 22.—SENATE—In the Senate nothing was done except to pass a few bills prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors in certain districts.

HOUSE—The bill known as the "Gambling bill" was called up this morning, and was considered. Mr. Cox moved to recommit because of the small number of members present. The motion was lost. Mr. Mulligan's amendment permitting the selling of pools on race-courses while the races are in progress, was adopted, and all other amendments voted down, and the bill passed as amended by a vote of 48 yeas to 8 nays. Those voting against it were Messrs. Hoerts, Jackson, Mulligan, Myers, Scott and Offutt. The following is a copy of the bill in full: "Act to amend article 1, chapter 47, entitled 'Gaming,' of General Statutes: That whosoever, with or without compensation, shall set up, carry on or conduct or shall aid and assist in setting up, carry on or conducting a keno-bank faro-bank or other machine or contrivance used in betting, whereby money or other things may be won or lost; or whoever shall for compensation, percentage of commission set up, conduct or carry on a game of cards whereby money or other thing may be won or lost, or shall, with or without compensation, percentage or commission, aid and abet in setting up, conducting on or carrying on a game so set up, carried on or conducted for compensation, percentage or commission shall be fined five hundred dollars and costs and confined in the penitentiary not less than one nor more than three years; shall be deemed infamous after conviction and be forever thereafter disqualified from exercising the right of suffrage and from holding any office of honor, trust or profit, whether it be State, county, city or municipal. The judgment of conviction in every case shall recite such infamy and disqualification, and shall not be valid without such recital. The provisions of this section shall not include nor be applicable to persons who play at such games unless they take other part in setting up, conducting or carrying on such games. Section 2. The change of the name of any of the games, tables, machines or contrivances included in this act shall not prevent the conviction of any person violating the provisions thereof. Section 3. An indictment for violating any of the provisions of sections 1 and 2 may charge the accused in one count with the commission of any or all of the offenses set forth in this act. Section 4. Procedure in cases arising under this act shall be the same as prescribed by the Criminal Code of Practice in other cases of felony, and the bond for the appearance of the accused shall be for a sufficient bail. Section 5. Prosecutions for violations of this act may be had within five years after the commission of the offense, but not later. Section 6. All acts and parts of acts in conflict with this act are hereby repealed. Section 7. This act shall take effect from and after its passage. The bill has already passed the Senate, and it is understood that the Senate will concur in the House amendment without opposition.

FRANKFORT, March 23.—Nothing of importance was transacted in either house. A few private bills were passed.

FRANKFORT, March 23.—SENATE.—Bills passed: Incorporating the Baptist Female College at Bardstown; bill providing for a tax for the improvement of the Fountain Ferry road in Jefferson County; incorporating the London, Manchester and Whitesburg Telephone and Telegraph Company; House bill authorizing Greenup County to issue bonds for paying for right of way through that county for the Big Sandy railroad; House bill authorizing the city of Danville to issue bonds for $5,000 for stock in the Danville Gaslight Company; to increase the pay of sheriffs for attendance upon courts was laid upon the table. Mr. Burnett, Chairman of the Special Advisory Committee on Greenwood Mines, explained why their report had been delayed. He said that the committee had employed Buckner Allen, of Lexington, as stenographer to take testimony, and he promised to send the testimony by last Sunday but had failed to do so, and he understood that he would refuse to give up the papers and testimony until he was paid for his three days' work ($15). About twenty resolutions and substitutes were offered, intended to provide a way for getting the testimony before the Senate and to have Allen arrested if he refused to give up the papers. Senator Wilson's resolution, empowering the committee to summon Allen before them and bring the papers and testimony with him was adopted. The prospect is that Mr. Allen will have to give up his "ill got gains" without receiving any compensation at all.

HOUSE.—In the House to-day the revenue bill was discussed during the entire session.

Miscellaneous Items.

MRS. MARY BARBOUR, wife of Hon. James Barbour, author of "Barbour's Digest," and daughter of the late Hon. I. N. Webb, died suddenly at her home in Newcastle of consumption. Mr. Barbour was in Louisville attending court at the time.

THE effect of the strike on the Gould system and of other labor disturbances begins to be felt at Louisville in every line of business. Not only is trade generally becoming stagnated, but workingmen in all lines are becoming uneasy.

COLONEL AMOS SHINKLE has presented the Greenup Street M. E. Church Sunday-school, Covington, with a new library, costing nearly $3,000.

WALTER D. KNOX, a Colorado stock herder, and Lizzie D. Miller were married a few days ago in Jeffersonville, by the County Clerk. Knox, who dresses like a typical cowboy, came to Louisville with a big roll of money and got on a high. He chartered a hack and asked the driver to find him a wife. The hackman saw the woman on a street corner and invited her to get in. She did so, when Knox asked to be driven to Jeffersonville, where the two were married after a courtship of less than no time. After the ceremony the woman asked Knox where they would live. He replied: "I guess we wont live at all; I've got no further use for you, and am going back to Colorado." The Miller woman lives in Madame Jones' house, on Jackson street, where she went alone after reaching Louisville.

TROOPS still remain at Greenwood watching the mines. They number sixty-five. The average cost of maintaining them is $125 per day, and the total amount expended by the State so far has been considerably over $3,000.

THE sheriff of Henry County was in Louisville the other night with warrants for the arrest of Tommy Warren and Tommy Barnes, the pugilistic heroes of the battle at Millcreek, but neither man could be found. Warren went to Memphis, Ind., and Barnes was nursing his bruises in a hotel at Jeffersonville. It is said the grand jury of Henry County will take hold of the matter. In any event it is safe to say there will be no more prize-fighting in Kentucky for some time to come.

THE jail in Covington is being filled with "moonshiners."

FISHER BROS. & CO., stove manufacturers, Louisville, have assigned, with liabilities of $19,000 and assets about the same.

BURGLARS again infest Covington. The other night they visited the residence of Judge M. L. Roberts on Scott street and made a thorough search of the place. They were evidently of a fastidious taste as nothing of particular value is missing. They also visited the residence of Mr. Thorp, but failed to effect an entrance.

JOSEPH YOUNGER, an old resident of Covington, dropped dead at his home a few days ago.

W. W. CALDWELL, tried at Hopkinsville a few days ago for the murder of Green Stephens, was acquitted.

DOCTORS DISAGREE.

The Views of a Massachusetts Republican Leader, of Some Eminence, Contrasted with Those Advanced in Senator Edmunds' "Greatest Effort."

Some "precedents" that his Lordship of Vermont neglected to include in his great report or mention in his "greatest effort," have been discovered by a Boston lawyer. They are interesting fragments of our constitutional history, though of no value for the information of the noble author of the literary and oratorical works mentioned. His Lordship, whose knowledge includes every thing, was not in ignorance of them, and no doubt passed his penetrating eye over them when he prepared his so-called precedents; but as they would not serve his noble purpose of presenting impartially the truth of history, he omitted them.

But, as his parasites of the star-chamber organs that made haste to parrot his arrogant assertions are not so well informed as he is in our constitutional history, it is worth while to reprint for their information a few of the historic facts that he found it convenient to suppress.

The first is a "precedent" that was made in the reign of Madison, and is taken from a book called "History of the Appointing Power:"

"The dismissal of the Postmaster-General, Gideon Granger, caused considerable remark in official circles. Contrary to the wishes of the President, he had appointed to the important position of postmaster of Philadelphia Dr. Lieb, a person who had long been openly opposed to Mr. Madison. The President could not but regard this as an act of hostility to himself, and, having long suspected his friendship, he dismissed him. As he had not been removed for delinquency, his friends protested, and a resolution was introduced in the Senate asking the reason for his dismissal. It was rejected on the ground that the Senate had not the right to make such an inquiry. It is the only instance in the early history of the Government of an attempt to question the motives of the President in regard to removal."

The next is an official opinion by Daniel Webster, Secretary of State in the reign of Tyler:

"But applications for office or letters respecting appointments or conversations held with individuals on such subjects are not official proceedings, and can not by any means be made to partake of the character of official proceedings, unless, after the nomination of such person so writing or conversing, the President shall think proper to lay such correspondence or such conversations before the Senate."—Niles Register, vol. 62, p. 63.

The next is from a speech by Daniel Webster in the Senate, and, compared with the official opinion of the same eminent statesman as a member of the Government, fails to reveal that variation of ideas to suit circumstances and motives which is so marked a characteristic of his Lordship from Vermont:

"Since the practice has become a settled practice, since every Administration has indulged in it, and since it must now be considered as the legal construction of the constitution that it is one of the powers of the President to remove incumbents from offices which they hold, it follows as a necessary and as an inevitable consequence that this power thus legally vested in the President must be exercised by him as independently of our control as any other power that is to be exercised by him under the constitution. * * * And I see no ground upon which we can call upon him to give us reasons for the manner in which he exercises that power, any more than we can call upon him to give reasons for the manner in which he exercises any other power under the constitution. * * * The powers of the departments are not all mixed up in a jumble."—Congressional Globe, vol. 22, p. 1,125.

The deliberate opinion of such a character, officially delivered, on a state of facts exactly analogous to that upon which the arrogant Senator from Vermont has turned the powerful headlight of his genius for quibbling, is of more worth as a guide to truth than all the arrogant dogmatism of the latter joined to the so-called precedents that even do not go to support his assertions.

Edmunds says: "All papers addressed by anybody to an executive officer on the topic of suspension are official papers."

Webster: "Applications for office, letters, or conversations of individuals respecting [even] appointments, are not official proceedings and can not be made to partake of the character of official proceedings."

Edmunds: The suspension of an officer "simply withholds from the duties and emoluments of the office pending a decision of the matter by the Senate."

Webster: "As it is one of the powers of the President to remove incumbents from offices, it follows as an inevitable consequence that this power, legally vested in the President, must be exercised by him as independently of the Senate as any other power that is to be exercised by him under the constitution."

Edmunds: Having, "in the exercise of its jurisdiction, to judge of the conduct" of the suspended official, the Senate had the right to see the papers because "they disclose the grounds," or reasons, "on which the President acted."

Webster: "We [the Senate] can not call upon him to give us reasons for his exercise of that power any more than we can call upon him to give reasons for his exercise of any other power under the constitution."

Edmunds: "All the operations of the Government are executive." The legislative chambers have "universal power of knowledge in respect to every operation of the Government and every one of its officers."

Webster: "The powers of the departments [meaning the several branches of the constitution] are not all mixed up in a jumble."

The assertions of his Lordship of Vermont relate particularly to an act called "suspension;" the views of Webster to an act of removal, and also to a proposition of appointment. It has been very well said that the attempt of the Green mountain intellect to draw a distinction between removal and suspension "is mere cobweb-spinning." Removal is an exercise of the Presidential discretion, over which the star-chamber has no control. Suspension, even by the express words of the statute, is the same. A suspension is in law and in effect a removal. The suspended officer goes out, is removed from his trust, and a new officer takes his place. The commission of the former is killed by the issue of a commission to his successor, and the fact is the same whether the star-chamber afterward dissent or consent to the new appointment. The President does not ask the consent of the Senate to a removal, nor to a "suspension;" the act, whether called by one name or the other, is complete when the officer steps down and out; and this often happens when the lordly Senators are not holding sessions. All that the President ever asks of that body of self-assumed omnipotence is consent to the appointment of a designated person to fill a vacancy that has been created; whether by removal, by "suspension," or by expiration of commission, is wholly immaterial, and none of the business of their noble Lordships of the star-chamber.—Chicago Times.

——There is a growing suspicion that Mr. Edmunds would like to be President and that John A. Logan had better look out for him.—N. Y. Graphic.

HE DON'T WEAKEN.

They wanted fight—they've got enough—
  The good Repubs are dazed;
They almost doubt if they're alive—
  The Senators are crazed.
They've got it square, right in the eye,
  Straight from the shoulder sent—
The "No!" of Grover Cleveland, who
  Don't weaken for a cent.

The great and glacial Edmunds melts
  With rage to see such "cheek,"
And in his righteous wrath declares
  The President's unique;
Correct—the man to-day's unique
  Who can't be broke or bent,
Or bribed or bullied; who, in short,
  Don't weaken for a cent.

At last they find they've struck a man
  Who doesn't mean to swerve;
A man who's got the Jackson eye,
  And got the Jackson nerve;
No matter though the gale may blow
  Till all the sails be rent,
There's one thing sure—the President
  Won't weaken for a cent.
—Boston Post.

WHAT IT MEANS.

A Republican Paper Ably Defends an Expression Used by President Cleveland Which the Careless Can Not Appreciate.

Newspaper and political wits have busily, but without much effect, been poking fun at President Cleveland for using the phrase "innocuous desuetude" in his late message to the United States Senate. The words are certainly not the most common in our language, and they may never have been before used in such close connection. But they are very good words. They possess shades of meaning which no other words possess, and no other words would have expressed the exact logical and legal idea at the time occupying the Presidential mind. In reference to the Tenure-of-Office act of 1867, and to the present act on the same subject—which had never since its enactment in its present form in 1869 been applied to restrict the President's power of removal or suspension from office—he said:

And so it happens that, after a period of nearly twenty years of almost innocuous desuetude, these laws are brought forth, apparently the repealed as well as the unrepealed, and put in the way of an Executive who is willing, if permitted, to attempt an improvement in the methods of administration.

A critical examination of the phrase shows the fitness of its use. To commence at the last word first, it may be said that the word "desuetude," while regarded as a synonym for "disuse," implies considerably more. It carries with it the idea not only of disuse, but a hint of neglect and abandonment. It has a legal significance as quoted in Webster's Dictionary from the writings of Bishop Taylor, who, in speaking of an obsolete church regulation, said: "The desuetude abrogated the law which before custom had established." Used in regard to a law, it means something more than that the law had become a dead letter. Under the common law desuetude absolutely repealed and abolished a legal rule or custom. Property may also be lost by desuetude. A man who "sleeps on his rights," in legal phraseology, is regarded as having lost them by not claiming them. Atrophy of a limb is caused by its disuse. Chartered rights and franchises may be lost by what the law calls "nonuser." A law is paralyzed and loses its power by desuetude. This was the exact word to express President Cleveland's meaning in regard to the Tenure-of-Office act, and he put it in the right place.

Why the President used the adjective "innocuous" as qualifying or describing the condition of the act in question is more open to conjecture and criticism. Yet it seems to have a meaning in this case. Radically, it means not hurtful. It is rather a medical than a legal word. It properly is more applicable to a thing than to a condition. Its best use is in describing a medicine or a doctrine, not in describing the qualities of a man, or of an agency or a law. Still, there is a hint, or the shadow of a meaning which it adds to the other word in the phrase, showing that it was not idly and uselessly applied. It adds to the force of the intimation that the law in question, through desuetude, had become something more than a dead letter. It intimates that the law could not be restored to vitality, either for a harmful or an aggressive purpose. It was saying in substance that the law had become absolutely atrophied from disuse, had been struck by hopeless paralysis, and was dead beyond the possibility of restoration or re-enactment. In this light and intelligently interpreted the phrase "innocuous desuetude," as used by the President, appears to possess peculiar vigor, propriety and significance. Byron says that "words are things," and President Cleveland evidently used them as such when he put these two words together in his Senate message.—Chicago Journal.

Proceed Slowly.

Certain California Congressmen lately waited upon Mr. Belmont, chairman of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, and told him that "unless some supplementary Chinese legislation is reported, they were afraid that serious results may follow." Mr. Belmont very properly replied that he saw no necessity for haste, but, on the contrary, intended to proceed very slowly. With China already making a just claim for indemnity for the outrages upon the Chinese in the Northwest, the prospect of a renewal of the trouble in California is not agreeable, but continual concessions will not help matters. The number of the Chinese in America has been decreasing since the restrictive measures were adopted, and there is no probability of their increasing in view of the insecurity of the Chinese in the Northwest. If any further measures are to be applied to them, they should be adopted deliberately, and meanwhile, any attempt at a repetition of the disgraceful outbreak in the Northwest should be summarily put down.

If a Nation supposed to be Christian and civilized does not care to protect for their own sakes the lives of foreigners living peaceably within its limits, it should at least protect them for the sake of the lives and property of its own citizens residing or doing business in the countries to which those foreigners belong. The United States Government can not protect its citizens in China, and it will have to pay for whatever ruffianism against the Chinese it permits.

It is about time for the Congress of the United States to consider this fact carefully. The question of the exclusion of Chinese immigrants is purely economic. The question of protecting such of them as are now in this country is at once one of humanity and of self-interest. Before proceeding further against the Chinese, Congress should reflect how far it wishes to proceed against American citizens in China.—N. Y. Sun.

THE RECORDER.

WEDNESD'Y, MARCH 31, 1886.

RIDDELL & HALL,
Proprietors.

Rates of Subscription.

One year	$1 50
Six months	75
Three months	40

☞Payment invariably in advance.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1 Column	1 year	$80
1 "	½ "	40
1 "	¼ "	20
½ "	1 "	20
¼ "	½ "	10
¼ "	¼ "	8

We are authorized to announce Col. WARREN MONTFORT, of Owen Co., as a candidate for Circuit Judge in this Judicial District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce P. U. MAJOR as a candidate for reelection to the office of Circuit Judge, in this district, subject to the action of the Democratic party

We are authorized to announce GEO C. DRANE as a candidate for the office of Circuit Judge in this district, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorize to announce THOS. R. GORDEN, of Owen county, as a candidate for Commonwealths Attorney in this 11th Judicial District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce JNO. S. GAUNT, of Carroll county, as a candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney in this, 11th Judicial District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce H. J. FOSTER as a caddidate for reelection to the office of County Superintendent, subject to the primary election, first Saturday in April 1886.

We are authorized to announce JOHN P. RYLE, of Carlton Precinct, as a candidate for County Superintendent, subject to the action of the primary election, April 3, 1886.

We are authorized to announce M. C. NORMAN, of Union, as a candidate for County Judge, subject to the primary election, Saturday April 3, 1886.

We are authorized to announce EDWIN H. BAKER as a candidate for County Judge, subject to the Primary election, Saturday, April 3, '886.

W. L. Riddell is a candidate for reelection to the office of Circuit Clerk, subject to the action of the primary election, April 3d 1886.

We are authorized to announce M. T. GARNETT as a candidate for re-election to the office of County Clerk, subject to the action of the primary election April 3, '86.

We are authorized to announce J. B. CLUTTERBUCK as a candidate for reelection to the office of Sheriff, subject to the action of the primary election April 3.

We are authorized to announce S. W. TOLIN as a candidate for re-election to the office of County Attorney, subject to the action of the primary election April 3. '86.

We are authorized to announce L. C. YAGER, jr., of Florence as a candidate for County Attorney, subject to the action of the primary election April 3, 1886.

We are authorized to announce G. M. RILEY as a candidate for re-election to the office of Assessor, subject to the action of the primary election, Saturday, April 3, 1886.

We are authorized to announce W. E. VEST as a candidate for reelection to the office of Survey, subject to the action of the primary election April 3, 1886.

THE gambling bill is now a law, having been signed by the Governor.

A STOCK company will be formed at Elizabethtown to bore for natural gas.

Most every farmer has sown his tobacco bed, and many have plants up.—Owen News.

IN Ashland the saloon license has been raised from $100 to $300. No saloon can be located within three hundred feet of a church.

THERE are at present 265,000 Indians in the United States, and the landed estate of these red skin aristocrats amounts to 132,000,000 acres.

MR. CLEVELAND is a fine subject for appoplexy, and since mortality among the prominent men in this country is becoming an every day occurrenc his friends should experience some concern for fear the excessive mental labor to which he is subjected may produce that fatal disease now so common.

NEXT month two comets will be visable to the naked eye in our northern heavens. Barnard's comet has for some weeks been visible with a good telescope, and is rapidly increasing in brightness. The second comet, discovered by Fabry at the Paris Observatory, December first, promises to exceed Barnard's in brilliancy. It will become visible to the naked eye about April 15, and will reach its greatest brightness about May 1. There will then be no moon to detract from its splendor. About April 26 and 27th the comet may, perhaps, be between us and the sun; and consequently be projected on the sun's disc.

THE Court of Appeals sustained Judge Jackson in his decision declaring the Registration law of Louisville unconstitutional. The Court holds that the Legislature has the right to pass a general Registration law in conformity to the Constitution of the State. It was section 6 of the Louisville law that the courts say made it unconstitutional, which reads as follows: "Every person shall be entitled to be registered who would be entitled to vote at the next August election. That is to say every male citizen who on that day shall have attained the age of twenty-one years, and shall have resided in the State two years, or in the city one year, and in the precinct in which he offers to register sixty days.

Advice as to the 1886 Crop.

We think it is wisdom for all determined to plant tobacco this season to well consider the question of acreage to be set out, and we think the great majority will find it profitable in every way to plant a less acreage, and pay particular attention to the culture and cure of their product, as well as its handling and prizing. The practice of growing wholly for quantity prevails commonly, especially among those growing White burley, heavy import and Cigar Leaf, and the pernicious result is too apparent in the low prices and general demoralization in the Leaf trade and among growers.

A surplus of inferior tobacco not only affects the low grades, but its demoralizing influence is felt on the higher grades as well, and all alike suffer. The most successful men, in every branch of trade or industry, are those who thoroughly master its details, and who take pride in excelling, and the tobacco trade can be no exception to this rule. Merit is bound to win in all cases, and tobacco that has merit is bound to find a better market, and more willing purchasers, than stuffy only tobacco in appearance and name. Anything made common is bound to be classed as common, and so valued, and that is the reason why so many planters are complaining of low prices. The sensible plan, under these conditions is to only grow the acreage that you are sure can be handled intelligently and carefully by the labor at your command.

It is true, when tobacco culture was restricted to a very limited section, and the use of the "weed" was increasing with rapid strides, under the stimulus of the flush, active times consequent on the enormous destruction of property by the late civil war, and a very large emmigration, there was some hope to find a ready market and apparently high prices for even indifferent tobacco, but now that trade has not any such stimulus and all values have descended to what might be aptly termed "rock bottom" and it has been practically demonstrated that tobacco can be and is grown in most sections of this country, there is no hope for profit except where knowledge, perseverance and energy are employed.

Grow a less acreage, set yourself to learn, if you do not know, and practice, if you do not know, only the best and most thorough methods of cultivation, handling, assorting and packing. Assort into a number of grades, and pack as often as it is possible, all one grade in a package, even small packages have to be resorted to at times. There is more neglect (and at times dishonesty) practiced in the assorting and prizing, especially in the West, than in the cultivation, and that is just where the most thorough and intelligent work should be exercised, for if you grow a crop, assort only a few grades and pack regardless of character, you can only obtain at the most a compromise between the value of the medium and worst of your whole crop, and a well grown crop, properly handled, will contain the greatest proportion of medium to good leaf, and only a very small proportion of grades, and it is evident that each grade sold distinct will bring the highest price prevailing for such grade, and when the average is struck it will be found that the low priced goods had little influence in fixing such average value.—Western Tobacco Journal.

WHO will be appointed postmaster at Louisville is just now causing a considerable breeze in that city. There are several applicant and each one is the choice (?) of the people down there, but just which one will be the choice of the appointing power is what they pretend to earnestly desire to know.

Some engagements for early lambs are being made in Boyle county at 5@5¼ cents.

Guthrie, Ky., carries off the horns on raising big hogs. One was killed which tipped the beam at 1,329½ lbs. net. One of its hams weighed 125 pounds when trimmed and ready for hanging.

Marcus Bean, of Clark county, has a two-year-old heifer with a young calf that gives four gallons of milk after the calf has had as much as it wants. What is stranger still, this young cow gives milk from six teats.

E. W. Lee, who has been in Atlanta almost constantly since December returned home Wednesday. While south he disposed of 600 mules and informs us that business was brisk and that the entire lot was disposed of at prices ranging from $65 to $200. —Danville Advocate.

Bennett H. Young, who went into Eastern Kentucky ten days ago with the agent of an English syndicate sent here to look into the resources of that region returned Wednesday. He reports the agent astonished and delighted with the wonderful wealth of our mountain counties. His visit will doubtless be followed by a large investment of English capital.—Kentuckian.

THE railroad strikes which have been giving the traveling public so much annoyance has not been satisfactorily settled.

COURT-ROOM APPLAUSE.

Interesting Decision Upon a Rather General Abuse.

Many persons who frequent courts in this city seem to regard the proceedings, however important, as a sort of entertainment, and feel at liberty to greet any odd or humorous saying of a witness with laughter, or the expression of any sentiment that pleases them with applause, more or less pronounced. But of late, demonstrations of applause, owing to the stern exercise of the judicial power of punishment for contempt in a number of instances, are rare, and are confined as a rule to the moment when the verdict in a case that has excited much attention is rendered. They are quickly cut short with sharp raps of the judicial gavel and an impressive admonition. Laughter, however, is harder to guard against or suppress, especially when a characteristically humorous witness, who says no end of bright things in rapid succession, is on the witness stand. When the Judge's gavel falls, some unthinking spectators look as though they thought that the Judge was a "Dry-as-dust," with no appreciation of humor. They do not apparently bear in mind that their expression of feeling may have an undefinable influence upon the minds of the jury, who, after all, are men, with sympathies that may be affected by the atmosphere of the prevailing sentiment in the court room. To the credit of the Judges of the courts in this city, almost without exception, it may be said that they are very watchful of the tempers of their audience, and promptly reprove or check unseemly demonstrations of feeling. A recent decision of the Supreme Court of the State of Texas has an interesting bearing upon this subject. In the case of Owen against the State, an election case recently decided, the highest court of the Lone Star State delivered itself as follows:

It was shown that a large number of persons attended the trial during the whole time that it was in progress. Whenever anything favorable to the relator occurred they greeted it with bursts of applause. The court checked these demonstrations from time to time, but they were renewed as often as similar occasions called them forth, and they do not seem to have been effectually and finally quelled until the trial was over. It is a sad if not a humiliating thought that such unbecoming conduct in a court of justice could not have been effectually and permanently stopped upon its first demonstration. The District Courts are armed with full power to punish contempts. This was a contempt of court of a most serious character—calculated as it was to control the verdict of the jury by outside influences. The court would have been justified in using the strong arm of the law to suppress this conduct, or, if that failed, in stopping the trial on the case until it was finally assured there would be no further demonstration.

As this was not done there was nothing left for us but to apply the rule universally enforced by this court when the jury may have been influenced in giving an incorrect verdict by passion or prejudice, caused by the misconduct of others. We have, in such cases, constantly reversed the judgment and ordered a new trial. This is a proper case for the enforcement of that rule.

The applause may not have influenced the jury, and perhaps did not, but as it had tendency so to do, and the jury had admitted one ballot-box and excluded others upon substantially the same testimony, there is a probability that their finding may have been affected, in some measure, by the applause, however conscientiously they have may attempted to to act in making up their verdict.

A new trial was granted.—N. Y. Sun.

AUBER'S MODESTY.

A Great Composer Who Would Not Listen to His Own Music.

Everybody has heard the story of Mozart writing the overture to "Don Juan" at the very last moment, and rehearsing it while the ink was not dry with which it was written. When Auber wrote "La Sirene," he rehearsed everything except the overture, which he left for the dress rehearsal the night before the performance. It was played, and displeased not only the performers, but, more than any one, Auber himself. It was nine o'clock in the evening. He said: "Go on rehearsing; I have something to do, but I will be back as soon as I can." At midnight he returned and brought back the full manuscript of a new overture. He gave it at once to the copyist and said to him: "It would be fine fun if this should be worse than the other one." "Impossible," said the copyist, who meant to be very courteous. The next evening the parts were all written out on the desks, and the overture was uproariously encored. Auber would never attend a performance of any of his operas. "If I did," he said, "I could never write another note." The delight he took in Rossini's music made him one evening go to hear "William Tell," and he sat quietly waiting for the charming violoncello trio, which begins the overture. The conductor arrived and gave the sign. Oh, horror! Instead of the low E on two 'cello a smashing diminished seventh. * * * Through a prima donna's indisposition "William Tell" could not be given, and unknown to Auber the spectacle had been changed and his "Masaniello" was put in the place of "Tell." So he jumped up as quickly as his green eighty-seven years would allow and ran away from his own work.—Temple Bar.

—A New York merchant advertised for a cashier. A well-dressed gentleman applied for the position. The merchant looked over his references and said: "Your credentials are excellent, but I would like to ask you a question." "Certainly, sir." "Have you been vaccinated?" "Yes, sir." "That will do. We have no use for your services. The only cashier who can be relied on to any extent whatever is the one who is afraid of the Canadian small-pox."—N. Y. Sun.

—Cross-ties are estimated to cost the railroads of this country six million dollars a year.

Exposition Medal Awarded for 1884.

$5.00 and Upwards

For a Beautiful Single Set of Teeth, Extracting without pain included.

DR. DeJOHNS,

In attendance at the office. Gold fillings $1 and upwards. Amalgon 50c. Gas and Spray used. All work warranted.

Will be in Burlington the first Monday in each month, County Court.

J. C. ALLEN, 327 Vine Str., Cor. 9th, Cincinnati, Ohio.

LUMBER.

Goe. M. Bedinger & Co.,

Erlanger, - - Ky.

We keep constantly on hand all kinds of Lumber, Laths and Shingles. Also Builder's supplies of all kinds.

—Come and see Us—

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

Thos Marshall, Plffs.
vs | Notice of sale in Equity
John A Black, &c. Defts.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the April term thereof, 1885, in the above cause, the undersigned will, on Monday, the 5 day of April, 1886, at 1 o'clock p. m. or thereabout being County court day, proceed to offer for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder, on a credit of 6, & 12 months at the Courthouse door, in the town of Burlington, the property mentioned in the judgment, to wit:

10 acres of land on Gunpowder Creek, being lot No. 8 in division of Sebastian Marshall's land.

The purchaser will be required to give bonds with approved security for the payment of the purchase money, to have the force and effect of a judgment, bearing legal interest from the day of sale, according to law. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms. Bonds payable to

W. L. RIDDELL, M C B C C.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

John Richeys' adm'r. Pltff
vs } In Equity.
John Richey's heirs Defts.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the October term thereof, 1885, in the above cause, the undersigned will, on Monday, April 5th, 1886, at 1 o'clock p. m or thereabout, being County Court day, proceed to offer for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder on a credit of 6 and 12 months equal installments, at the Courthouse door, in the town of Burlington, the property mentioned in the judgment to wit:

200 acres of land bounded by the town of Walton, the lands of W. L. Norman, &c

Or sufficient thereof to produce the sum of money so ordered to be made. The purchaser will be required to give bond with approved security, for the payment of the purchase money, to have the force and effect of a judgment, bearing legal interest from the day of sale. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

Amount to be raised by sale $839 00

Bonds payable to the undersigned.

W. L. RIDDELL, M C B C C.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

Paxton Bros. & Co. Plffs. vs
Elizabeth C. Kenner, Defts
and | Notice of sale in Equity.
Levy Bros. Plffs. vs
Elizabeth C. Kenner, &c. Defts

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the Oct. term thereof, 1885, in the above cause, the undersigned will, on Monday, the 5th day of April, 1886, at 1 o'clock, p. m., or thereabout, (being County Court day) proceed to offer for sale, at public auction, to the highest bidder, on a credit of 6 & 12 months, at the Court-house door, in the town of Burlington, the property mentioned in the judgment, to-wit:

The undivided 1-2 interest of the defendant Eliza'h C. Kenner in the following two parcels of land, being same allotted to Mrs Carlisle Ware as and for her dower in the lands of her deceased husband, Maltby Smith, said lands are in Boone County, Ky., in the East Bend bottoms. The first parcel is bounded thus: Beginning on the bank of the Ohio river where the Burlington and East Bend road strikes the river upper corner of the tract formerly owned by B. F. Crisler field, thence n 11¼ w 07½ poles to a stone, thence with a line of [illegible] poles to a stake in J H O Neal's line, thence s 12¾ w 34½ poles to a stone in the bank of the river corner with O'Neal, thence down the river binding thereon s 48 e 28 poles [illegible] to the beginning containing 25 1-2 acres. The second is bounded thus: Beginning at a stone corner with [illegible] and formerly belonging to Daniel Platt in J H O'Neal's line, thence with his line s 14¼ w 44 3-4 poles to a stone, thence s 7° e 58 1-4 poles to a stone in line of the Thos Jones tract in the center of the said Burlington and East Bend road, then with the center of said road n [illegible] e 40 poles to the corner of said Platt land, thence with a line thereof n [illegible] w 57¾ poles to the beginning, containing 17 acres.

Or sufficient thereof to make the sume of money so ordered to be made.

The purchaser will be required to give bond with approved security for the payment of purchase money, to have the force and effect of a judgment, bearing legal interest from the day of sale according to law. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

Amount to be raised by sale $307 50.

Bonds payable to the undersigned.

W. L. RIDDELL, M. C. B. C. C.

NOTICE.

The stockholders of the Petersburg & Burlington turnpike company are hereby notified that an election will be held in the towns of Petersburg and Burlington on the 1st Monday in April 1886, for the purpose of electing a president and five directors for the ensuing year. N. S. WALTON, Secty.

FOR SALE!

Henry County Farm of 120 acres, situated on pike 1 mile from Smithfield, on Louisville & Lexington Railroad, 3 miles from Louisville. Said farm has on it a good frame house, of 8 rooms, good barn and all other outbuildings, and never failing water, convenient to good schools and churches. The land is first-class, all in grass but 25 acres, which is in wheat, 2[illegible] acres of fine tobacco land which has never been cultivated. Terms reasonable. For further information apply to

B. D. SPURGIN, Smithfield, Ky.

Henry county. 52-3m

LAND FOR SALE.

50 acres good land near Constance, this county. All in grass and well watered. Terms easy—apply to this OFFICE.

INSURE AT HOME

The Farmers' Mutual Fire

INSURANCE COMPANY

Of Boone County

Is now completely organised and receiving applications for insurance.

Its Rates are Lower

Than those of any other Company, and it gives the farmers of Boone County a

HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE

In keeping their property insured.

EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY

should take a policy at once.

J. A. GAINES, President, Burlington, Ky.
J. H. WALTON, Secretary. Constance, Ky.
R. RANDALL, Treasurer.

DIRECTORS.

LEORAN GAINES, B. L. RICE.
JNO. STEPHENS.
OSCAR GAINES, Agent.
R. S. COWEN, Assessor

ATTENTION!

TOBACCO

Shippers and Raisers, you can buy

Tobacco Hogheads,

Set up or Knock Downs,

AT THE COMPANY'S MILLS

At Lawrenceburg or Aurora, Ind.

Orders by mail will meet our prompt attention.

J. J. Landram. G. G. Hughes.

LANDRAM & HUGHES,
ATTORNEYS at LAW.

Will practice in the Boone Circuit Cour and the Court of Appeals. Prompt attention given to Collections, on application t G. G. Hughes, Burlington, Ky.

Take the Recorder.

R E A D!

Feeling the urgent necessity of a first-class Drug Store in Bellevue, and ever willing to cater to the wishes of a generous public, I have just opened a fresh stock of Drugs & Patent Medicines.

DON'T YOU FORGET IT!

—Terry & Co's Brands of Tea.—

[illegible]bold's Brand of Cigars & Tobacco.

—Perfumery and Fancy Toilet Articles.—

Paints Ready For Use.

From a gallon can down to the smallest.

WHITE LEAD, OILS, VARNISHES, DYE-Stuffs, Brushes, Etc., Etc.

I will furnish to any one wishing to paint their house or barn, any kind of paint at two days notice, at the lowest cash prices. Give me a call.

A good barber shop attached and work satisfactory.

W. M. BALSLY.

1886 THE COURIER-JOURNAL. 1886

AN ORGAN OF

LIVING IDEAS AND LIVE ISSUES.

AN ENEMY OF

Monopolies, Oligarchism, and the Spirit of Sectional Strife.

The Courier-Journal (HENRY WATTERSON Editor-in-Chief), is the acknowledged Representative Newspaper of the South, is Democratic in politics, and first, last, and all the time is for a reduction of the War Taxes as levied on the people by the tariff now in force.

The Weekly Courier-Journal

is the best weekly newspaper published in the United States, and for the quantity and quality of matter that appears in each issue of it, it is the CHEAPEST. Its telegraphic news facilities outclass any other paper, and it has the services of the ablest writers and correspondents in the country. It presents the news of the week from every section of the World. It gives to its readers throughout the year a greater number of Serial and Short Stories by prominent and popular writers than any of the high-priced magazines. It is in every respect a Model Political and Family Paper.

The Weekly Courier-Journal has by far the Largest Circulation of any Democratic Newspaper in America.

It is acknowledged by press and people throughout the United States to be a great paper; great in size; great in enterprise; great in ability; great in its correctness of information; great in variety; great in every sense of the word. It is the paper that everybody should have. To be without it is a great opportunity lost. Those who once take it are not willing to be without it in their homes.

FREE PREMIUMS.

A list of handsome and useful premiums of great variety are offered free to yearly subscribers. On receipt of a request for them, we send free of charge a sample copy of Weekly Courier-Journal and our Premium Supplement, giving our full list of premiums, to any address.

SUBSCRIPTION TERMS.

Weekly, one year, including a free premium	$1.50
Weekly, to clubs of five and over, without premium, each	1.10

For every club of five names sent us at one time, the sender of club will be sent as a present any one of our free premiums selected by him.

Daily, (except Sunday), one year	$10.00
Daily, (except Sunday), six months	5.00
Daily, (except Sunday), one month	1.00
Sunday, one year	2.00
Sunday, six months	1.00

No traveling agents are employed by the Courier-Journal, but a good local agent is wanted for it in every community, to whom a liberal cash commission is allowed. If the Courier-Journal has no local agent in your neighborhood, send to us for our Agent's Canvassing Outfit, which we send free of charge. All subscription orders, requests for outfits, sample copies, etc., should be addressed to

W. N. HALDEMAN,
President Courier-Journal Co.,
LOUISVILLE, KY.

REPORT OF THE CONDITION
OF THE
Farmers & Traders National Bank
AT COVINGTON.

In the State of Kentucky, at the close of business, March 1, 1886.

RESOURCES.

Loans and discounts		$577,931 88
Overdrafts		2,283 04
U. S. Bonds to secure circulation		50,000 00
U. S. Bonds on hand		100,000
Due from approved reserved agents		55,898 76
Due from other Nat'l Banks		7,401 52
Due from banks and bankers		4,741 33
Real est., furniture & fixtures		1,668 91
Current expenses and taxes		2,179 22
Premiums paid		31,512 50
Checks and other cash items	812 34
Bills of other Banks	3,000 00
Frac. paper currency, nickels and pennies	130 27
Specie	10,600 00
Legal tender notes	25,000 00	39,572 61
Redemption fund with U. S. Treas., (5 per cent. circulation)		2,250 00
Total		$878,153 67

LIABILITIES.

Capital stock pd in		$300,000 00
Surplus fund	$30,000 00
Undivided profits	13,408 05	43,408 05
Nat'l Bank notes outstanding		45,000 10
Individual dep'ts subject to check	363,452 09
U. S. Deposits	75,000
Due to other Nat'l Banks	25,240 29
Due to State B'ks and bankers	26,053 21	489,745 67
Total		$878,153 67

State of Kentucky, County of Kenton ss
I, John L. Sandford, Cashier of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

JOHN L. SANDFORD, Cashier.

James S. Wayne, Pres't.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 6th day of March, 1886.

A. KLOENTRUP, Notary Public.

Correct—Attest:
M. C. Motch, }
J. H. Mersman, } Directors.
E. J. Hickey, }

FARM IMPLEMENTS.

Buy your Farming Implements, Fence Wire, Cutting Boxes, Feed Grinders, Corn Shellers, Road Scrapers, Excavating Carts, Sewing Machines, Mowers and Reapers and

Deering TWINE Binders,

GROCERIES, &c.

READY MIXED PAINT.

—of—

J. C. Smith,

Successor to W. H. HILL & Co.

22 and 24 EAST THIRD STREET,

Cincinnati, Ohio.

Or of our local Agent C. W. RILEY, North Bend, Ohio, (Ky. Box). All goods sold strictly on their merits.

OPIUM and WHISKY HABITS cured at home without pain. BOOK of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.

County Directory.

OFFICERS.

Assessor—G. M. Riley.
Jailer—Samuel Cowen.
County Surveyor—W. E. Vest.
Coroner.—Dr. A. A. Murat, Constance.
Superintendent of Schools—H. J. Foster

COURTS.

CIRCUIT COURT meets the 2d Monday in April and first Monday in October, P. U Major, Judge; W. L. Riddell, Clerk A. G. DeJarnette, Commonwealths Attorney; W. L. Riddell, Trustee Jury Fund.

COUNTY COURT meets the first Monday in every month. L. H. Dills, Judge; S. W. Tolin, County Attorney. M. T. Garnett, Clerk; J. B. Clutterbuck, Sheriff, T. W. Finch and W. T. German, Deputy Sheriffs.

QUARTERLY COURT meets the first Monday in March, June, September and December. The officers of the County Court preside.

COURT OF CLAIMS meets the first Monday in November.

MAGISTRATES' COURTS are held in March, June, September and December, as follows:

Bellevue—M. B. Green, first Saturday, and T. H. Sutton, third Monday. J. M. Moody, Constable.

Burlington—E. H. Baker, Thursday after first Monday, and Oscar Gaines, fourth Monday. C. W. Saxton, Constable.

Carlton A. G. McConnell, Wednesday after second Monday, and B. H. Ryle, Saturday after third Monday. Charles H. Acra, Constable.

Petersburg—Jos. Hensley, Wednesday after first Monday, and L. A. Loder fourth Saturday. Geo. Comer, Constable.

Beever—W. M. Rouse, Friday after the third Monday, and Andrew Ellis, Friday at er 1st Monday—T. J. Coyle, Constable.

Union—M. C. Norman, Thursday after third Monday, and H. Bannister, Thursday after second Monday. H. G. Blanton, Constable.

Hamilton—F. M. Howlett, Tuesday after second Monday; W. W. Garnett, Wednesday after third Monday. R. L. Roberts Constable.

Walton—T. F. Carley, second Friday. S. T. Johnson, Tuesday after second Friday Al Arnold, Constable.

Verona—L. P. Vest, Tuesday after first Monday. J. J. Brumback, Tuesday after third Monday, J. H. Callahan, constable.

Florence—T. K. Dixon, third Saturday. Joe Wagstaff, second Saturday. Craig Pettit, Constable.

Taylorsport—A. B. Whitlock, fourth Monday, W. A Goodridge, third Saturday Thos. Walls, constable.

ROBERT B. REED
Attorney at Law.
OFFICE AT - - UNION, KY

F. RIDDELL. H. P. STEPHENS.
RIDDELL and STEPHENS.
ATTORNEYS at LAW
BURLINGTON, KY.
☞ Office over Dudley Rouse's Store. ☜

W. E. VEST,
COUNTY SURVEYOR
WALTON, KY.

Is prepared to do all kinds of surveying. All orders sent him through the mail to Walton, will receive his prompt attention

DR. A. B. HARRYMAN,

Resident Dentist.

Office over Post-Office.

AURORA, INDIANA

E. E. IGOE,

Resident Dentist
Rising Sun, Ind.
WITH
J. P. Ulrey.

Monday and Tuesday at Rising Sun. 2nd Wednesday and Saturday at Aurora, Ind. Thursday and Friday at Lawrenceburg.

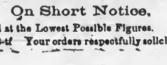
S. W. TOLIN,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
BURLINGTON, KY
Office in Court-house on 2d floor.

Will manage litigation in any of the Courts of the State, contracts and other legal instruments drawn up at reasonable rates. A prompt and studious attention given to business intrusted to my care A trial solicited. 12-1y

W. J. RICE,
CARPENTER & BUILDER.
BULLITSVILLE, KY.

Is prepared Raise or Move
EITHER LOG or FRAME BUILDINGS
On Short Notice,
And at the Lowest Possible Figures.
38-tf Your orders respectfully solicited

JENKINS'



ALMONT,

This renowned trotting stallion and sire of trotters will make the season of 1886, at the stable of John D. Norris, 1 mile from Petersburg, Boone county, Ky., at $30 the season, with the privilege of returning in 1887 should the mare fail to get with foal, money due July 1st, 1886.

Jenkins' Almont was sired by Wither's Almont, the sire of 26 horses with records of 2:30 or better. 1st dam by Toledo; 2nd dam Sonsby Grays Highlander; 3d dam by Coner de Leon, a noted pacer.

Jenkins' Almont is the sire of Bessie G. 2:25¼; Grafton, 2:28¼; Will Heath, trial, 2:21, and others gifted with great trotting speed.

Pasture furnished at $3 per month. Care will be exercised to prevent accidents or escapes, but will not be responsible should any occur. We are endeavoring to give the people of Boone Co., a chance to get a fine colt at a low price. J. D. NORRIS & Co.

SAM'L T. HARRIS,

Will make the season of 1886, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at Bullittsville and the rest of the week at my stable 1 mile from Constance, $25 at the pole.

He is a blood bay, with black points, 16 hands high. Trotting action steady and well balanced. He is a full brother to Royal Mont, (1 year younger), who has a record of 2:32, and has trotted in 2:22 at a private trial.

Sam'l T. Harris is by Bidwell's Almont, dam Royal George.

JACK STEPHENS,

Will make the season at the same time and places, and will serve mares at $10 to insure a mare with foal, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with. Not responsible for accidents.

He is a dark iron gray, 16 hands high, was sired by Bidwell's Almont; dam Volunteer; 2d-dam Gray Eagle; 3d-dam Copper Bottom. Good pasture furnished at $3 a month.

JAS. L. RILEY,

City Flouring Mills,
—RISING SUN, INDIANA.—

FLOUR EXCHANGED FOR WHEAT OR CASH. THE HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR GOOD WHEAT.

J. W. TALBOTT.

OHIO STEAM DENTAL CO.

ESTABLISHED 1865.

47 WEST SEVENTH STREET,
CINCINNATI, O.

TEETH EXTRACTED WITHOUT PAIN by using Fresh Nitrous Oxide Gas.
ARTIFICIAL TEETH made of the best quality and workmanship finish, with guaranteed fit.
OPERATIVE DEPARTMENT handsomely finished and well lighted—the principal having had a life-long experience in the treatment and filling of the natural teeth.

L. ROBERTSON, D.D.S., Principal.

Office and Residence, 47 W. 7th St., two blocks north of Fountain Square, (formerly 271 Walnut and 6th & Vine). Office open at all hours.

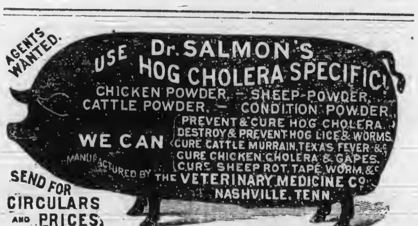
THE COMBINATION FENCE

A fence that is wanted, and in time will be used by every one that wants a fence, either around the House, Garden or Farm, as it is cheap, durable and serviceable, to keep in check horses, cattle, sheep, hogs, chickens, etc., and restrain wolves, dogs, and rabbits, etc.

Having all the advantages of a picket fence in restraining animals from jumping, and not so liable to decay, and at much less cost, and no barbs to injure valuable stock, thus placing it far in advance of any other fence now in use, hence it must be the fence of the future; all who have it want more.

It is portable and can be removed from field to field by drawing staples from posts, taking out the splice lath and rebundling it. We offer this fence for sale in bundles of five and six rod at Burlington.

DILLS & CRISLER,
Burlington, Ky.



AGENTS WANTED.
USE Dr. SALMON'S
HOG CHOLERA SPECIFIC
CHICKEN POWDER, — SHEEP POWDER,
CATTLE POWDER. — CONDITION POWDER.
WE CAN
PREVENT & CURE HOG CHOLERA.
DESTROY & PREVENT HOG LICE & WORMS.
CURE CATTLE MURRAIN, TEXAS FEVER & C
CURE CHICKEN CHOLERA & GAPES.
CURE SHEEP ROT, TAPE WORM, & C
MANUFACTURED BY THE VETERINARY MEDICINE CO.
NASHVILLE, TENN.
SEND FOR CIRCULARS AND PRICES.

For Sale by W. F. McKim, Burlington, Ky.

UNDERTAKING.

Branch House of Chas. Donnelly & Co., of Covington, Ky.

AT BURLINGTON, KENTUCY.

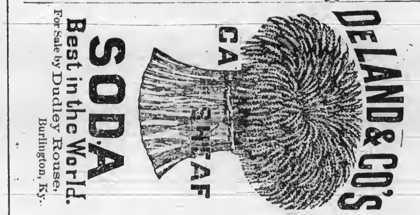
Where a Hearse and all Styles of Burial Cases and Robes can be secured at as low Figures as at Covington, or elsewhere.

Bodies Embalmed or preserved in a

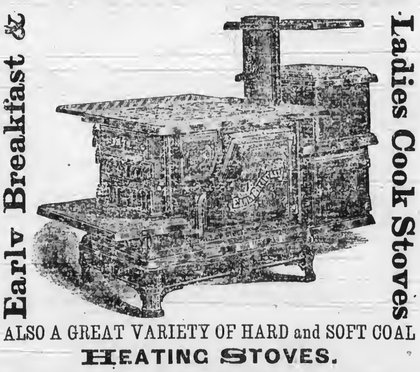
REFRIGERATOR

When desired. All orders left with our Branch House in Burlington will be promptly attended, and funerals conducted in the best style. The business is in charge of Jas. Westbay, with whom leave orders.

CHAS. DONNELLY & CO.



W. H. & J. M. McCLUNG



ALSO A GREAT VARIETY OF HARD and SOFT COAL
HEATING STOVES.
ALL KINDS OF STOVES REPAIRED.
Tin Roofing, Spouting, Guttering, etc., Done to Order.

535 & 537 Madison Ave. - Covington, Ky.

☞ Second Door Below Sixth Street. ☜

Subscribe for the Boone

County Rcorder.

Local News.

To-morrow is fools day.

Henry Clore has a fine flock of sheep for sale.

The small grain and young clover looks fine.

Esquire Oscar Gaines is yet a very sick man.

The Milton Press has a thousand dollar libel suit on hand.

BOARD—By the meal, day or week.
MRS. CY RIDDELL.

Miss Mary Thompson spent last Saturday in Burlington.

Demoisey, the Florence barber is quite sick with pneumonia.

Geo. Hoover, of Florence, is very sick with spinal meningitis.

Buy best quality of perfection coal, at 9 cents per bushel in yard at
STOTT BROS., Petersburg, Ky.

The boys of the town have begun their night fox hunts rather early this season.

We are glad to report Mr. S. P. Brady as recovering from an attack of pneumonia.

Next week the RECORDER will tell you who the nominees for county offices are.

The marble season is most over and ball playing is the next thing on the programme.

Death caused two vacancies in the office of Justice of the Peace in this county last week.

John P. Ryle, candidate for County Superintendent of Schools, was in town one day last week.

Mr. Samuel Rich and daughter, Miss Dora, spent Saturday and Sunday with their relatives at this place.

Mr. Jonas Clore, of Bellevue, who has been very sick for sometime, we are glad to report much better.

FOR SALE—Wm. Fritz's best Corn Beef at 8 cents per pound at B. F. ZIMMER'S, Constance, Boone County, Ky.

March was not such a desperately bad month, and it may be that April exchanged places with it. Wait developments,

Hon. Reuben Conner was selected and served as one of the judges of the annual State Corn Show at Frankfort on the 24th.

Persons desiring a good dinner the first Monday in April at reasonable rates can be accommodated by calling at Cy Riddell's

Miss Mamie Ingram, daughter of R. H. Ingram, of Florence, is boarding at J. M. Conners, and attending school at Mr. Whitehead.

If you want a pound of Liggett and Myer's best Star Tobacco for 40 cents call at B. F. ZIMMERS, Constance, Boone County, Ky, 14-tf-

Our genial fellow-citizen Lynn Frazier, of the Union "deestrict," chaproned by A. D. Riley, of Union, made Burlington a brief visit the other day.

WANTED—1,000 men with 40 cents each to buy a pound of Liggett & Myer's, best Star Tobacco, at B. F. ZIMMERS, Constance, Boone County, Ky.

The Latonia Agricultural Association, of Covington, will open August 24th and continue until the 28th. It will be an Agricultural, live stock and mechanical exhibition.

J. B. McCreary, of Nebraska, and Miss Kate Leathers, of Kenton county, were married in the Dry Creek Baptist church last Thursday at 4 o'clock p. m., Rev. Mr. Wren officiating.

Next Monday the annual Boone county horse show will take place on the streets in Burlington. If the day is favorable there will be several very fine and valuable animals exhibited.

The rehearsals for the Presbyterian church entertainment have commenced, and with a month's practice no doubt the programme presented to the public will be highly entertaining.

Judge Drane and Judge Major, candidates for Circuit Judge, and John S. Gaunt, candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney, made their appearance in Boone last week, enforcing the local forces of candidates.

Mr. Joe Brown has the sympathy of his acquaintances in the death of one of his children, which died last Tuesday after a short illness. The child was in its 6th year, and died of brain fever after about 48 hours sickness.

Remember that Geo. Huschart & Co. of Lawrenceburg, Indiana, can always give satisfaction both as to price and style of work, so when you want to buy a tombstone or a monument go to their yard or call on John Beall, of Hebron, Ky., their agent.

NOTICE—On the first Saturday in April, 1886, the stockholders of the Burlington & Florence pike will elect a president and four directors. Election held at Rouse's store at Burlington.
FEELDEN ROUSE, President.

I wish to notify the people of Boone and Kenton counties that I have bought the right to use the Wescott & Gurley Fence, and that the trouble between the Wescott & Gurley fence and the Lenox fence, has been satisfactorily settled. L. O. BRISTOW.

Miss Sophia Finch arrived here last Thursday accompanied by her little nephew Charlie, son of T. W. Finch, who has been with her on a visit to Missouri for a year. After a day's sojourn in Burlington she continued on her way to Frankfort where she expects to study for the Pharmacy.

We received through the Mail Tuesday, a letter from Petersburg, addressed with green ink, and an advertisement of the "Favorite" Stove, while on the inside were several mosquito bar samples. We don't know that we will go into the mosquito business, this spring, but, if we do, you shall have our order for a stove, any way.

While plowing in a field down on Mud Lick a few days since, Geo. Ossman exhumed a considerable portion of the skeleton of an ancient inhabitant of this mundane sphere. The teeth and a portion of the spinal column were well preserved. A few years ago Mr. Ossman found, in the same field, the lower jaw bone of a person, and it was so large that he could slip it over his lower jaw. The field where the bones were found is a creek bottom and is evidently an old grave yard or battle field.

A house containing 10,000 pounds of tobacco raised by Tom Phipps on the lands of G. W. Huey, near Hamilton, was destroyed by fire last Saturday. Phipps had lived in the house, but had moved away, and was occupied by Jas. Briggs at the time of the fire. The fire was caused by a defective flue, and had gained such headway that only 2,000 pounds of the best tobacco was saved. Loss about $1,000; no insurance. The accident is an unfortunate one, as Phipps is a poor man, he owning most of the tobacco.

Married—On last Thursday evening at half past 5 o'clock, in the presence of a few friends and relatives, by H. J. Foster, Mr. Ira Marshall and Miss Laura Pope, daughter of G. T. Pope, who resides about three miles from town on East Bend road. After the ceremony and congratulations, a splendid supper which had been prepared by Mrs. Pope was partaken of and greatly enjoyed by all those present. Friday the bride and groom accompanied by a few relatives took dinner with the groom's sister, Mrs. R. C. Rice, at this place. The newly married couple have the best wishes of the RECORDER, and we hope that their future life will ever be as good as the delicious cake sent to this office.

Esquire Joseph C. Hensley, of the Petersburg district, died at his residence on Ashby Fork on the 23d inst. Mr. Hensley had been a sufferer from Asthma for many years, but notwithstanding his continuous suffering, he was always in good spirits and a pleasant man to meet or associate with Having served many years as a Justice of the Peace and was always, unless prevented by illness, present at the sessions of the County Court of Levy and Claims, Mr. Hensley had formed quite an extensive acquaintance in the county. He was a man in the sixties, we would judge, and it was only necessary to form his acquaintance to like him. In their sad bereavement his family have the tender sympathies of all who knew the Squire

J. M. Conner has bought of Mr. Alvin Kendall, of Harrison county, the fine saddle horse, King William, which he will keep at this place this season. He is a beautiful black, 16 hands high, 8 years old and a fine saddler. We clip the following item from the Paris True Kentuckian of the 20th inst.

"Alvin Kendall, of Berry's, sold the King William stallion, advertised in the Kentuckian, to J. M Conner, of Burlington, Boone county, for $800. He is said to be one of the best saddle stallions in Kentucky, and highly recommended as a saddler and breeder. Mr. John Musselman, of Cynthiana, was offered $165 for one of his colts, 4 months old. He breeds fine sized, stylish colts, good colors. His colts look very much like him. We congratulate Mr. Conner on the prize he has secured."

On Saturday last an Owenton gentleman went to his stable, and hearing voices in the loft went up stairs where he found four youths seated on the floor engaged in the fascinating game of draw poker. The gentleman never plays, but on this occasion secured a "full hand"—of "clubs," which he did not draw from the "deck." He "stood" and the other, four "passed."—out of the loft window—on a "straight flush," leaving the pot for the new "hand," who now has his "heart" set on "seeing" the players to "ante up" to them their "diamonds" and their names to the grand jury. The new player is no "joker" when "called" to such scenes. —Owenton News.

The gentleman may never play, but, we will bet our last dollar that the writer of the item is a good hand at the business.

Esquire J. P. Vest an old and prominent citizen of the Verona district died at his residence in the town of Verona on the 23d inst., in the 73d year of his age. The funeral was preached by Rev. L. Johnson at New Bethel church on the 24th inst., after which the remains were interred in the New Bethel cemetery. Mr. Vest was born and raised near the town of Verona and served the people many years in the capacity of Justice of the Peace, which office he held at the time of his death. He resided on his farm until about 23 years ago when he moved to the town of Verona. His wife who survives him was Miss Sallie Hamilton and is now in the 70th year of her age, and she and her children have the sympathy of an extensive circle of acquaintances and relatives in their bereavement.

A telegram from North's Landing on the Ohio river in Indiana was received in Florence Monday stating that the body of Felix Moses was found in the river at that place the day before. This unexpected announcement was a shock to the entire community, and George Goodridge and Felix Meyers started at once to North's Landing to take charge of the remains. At this writing the cause of the body being in the river is shrouded in mystery. It is only known that he had been to Louisville and was seen on the boat by C. G. Riddell, of Rabbit Hash, who was returning from that city, which, at present is the last account of his being seen by an acquaintance. The deceased being a trader in furs, &c., was extensively acquainted in this and adjoining counties, and will be greatly missed. Mose was a Jew, and was a member of Good Faith Lodge No. 95, F. & A. M.

LATER—Since the above was put in type we learn that John Cox and Jno. Henderson were also on the boat that night and got off at Bellevue, leaving Mose on the boat. The body bears marks of violence, and the belief now is that he was killed and robbed.

There are a great many fine lambs in this county, that will be ready for an early market.

At a meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee the following named officers were selected to serve at the Primary election to be held Saturday, April 3rd, 1886, They will please serve or see that some other good Democrat serves in their place.

N. S. WALTON,
T. F. CURLY.
J. A WILSON,
J. W. KENNEDY,
J G. FURNISH.

Florence—Charles Bradford, clerk; Wood Carpenter and S.S. Scott, judges.

Bellevue—D. M. Snydor, clerk; J. S. Huey and A. Corbin, judges.

Walton—W. L. Norman, clerk; Jno. Snow and W. G. Stansifer, judges.

Verona—C. C. Roberts, clerk, J. R. Johnson and J. T. Roberts, judges.

Rabbit Hash—Walter S. Ryle clerk; J. J. Stephens and J. H. Walton, judges.

Petersburg—Elijah Parker, clerk; L. A. Loder and Stephen McWethy, sr., judges.

Bullittsville—Owen Watts, clerk; Jno Stephens Chas. Helm, judges.

Taylorport—Morgan Helm, clerk; W. B. Grubbs and Henry McGlasson, judges.

Union—H. G. Blanton, clerk; J. W. Conner and B. W. Adams, judges.

Beaver—J. O. Griffith, clerk; G. W. Sleet and J. C. Hughes, judges.

Hamilton—G. M. Allen, clerk; F. M. Howlett, and O. M. Huey, judges.

Burlington—T. W. Finch, clerk; J. A. Gaines and S. P. Brady, judges.

Notice to the candidates—In order to avoid confusion, and to have everything arranged systematically at the coming primary election, the committee had poll books prepared and incurred some other necessary expense. To meet that expense, every Democratic candidate, who desires his name placed on the poll books will be taxed 50 cents and can make it known by paying said amount in person or by letter to the undersigned. J. G. FURNISH,
Chrm'n. Dem. Ex. Com.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

VERONA.

The post-office at this place which has been in charge of Newt Dickerson for sometime, has been given to W. E. Sleet.

Hundreds of yards of canvass decorate the hill sides at present. It appears that the farmers are preparing to cheat the bugs.

J. H. Craven, who has been attending school at Glasgow, for the past five months, and graduates at the close of this term, is expected home in a few days. His brother Simeon went down to hear his closing address.

RABBIT HASH.

Ira Pope, of Waterloo, was in town Friday.

C. G. Riddell returned from the tobacco market at Louisville last Thursday.

Mrs. Hastings and Mrs. Merrick, who have been on the sick list, are some better.

Winfield Records is talking of starting to Michigan in a few weeks, to make that his future home.

John P. Ryle spent several days last week among the voters of Bellevue, Petersburg, and Francesville precincts.

Prof. Cole, of Indiana, passed through here Friday, on his way home, after spending several months at Limaburg teaching school.

We were sorry to hear of the death of our most estimable citizen, J. C. Hensley. His family has the sympathy of all his acquaintances here.

We appreciated the visit of E. H. Baker and S. W. Tolin last Friday to our little village. They are honored very highly by the voters of this precinct.

BELLEVUE.

Born—On the 22d inst., to Mr and Mrs. J. T. Selmes, a daughter.

Sebern Berkshire is building an addition to his dwelling on his farm.

Mrs. James Pope and mother, of Ghent, are visiting Cyrus Kelley and family.

A large number of persons here are suffering with soar throat, it seems to be epidemic.

Farmers are advancing their spring work very rapidly, several gardens in town have been planted.

Small grain and grass are making fine growth, and in many fields the ground is covered with green.

Mrs. S. D. Rice has been quite sick for a couple of weeks with typhoid fever, but is now some better.

William Stamper and family have moved to McVille, where Mr. Stamper has set up a dry goods store.

Mrs. Sue Ten and little son, of Jamestown, and Dr. Wm. Flandran, of New York, are visiting Miss J. S. Dinsmore.

Spring is here with its birds and bees but we only now and then get a glimps at its sunny smiles. We think it is altogether too ground-hogish.

The dry, cold and blustering weather is interfering very much in the handling of the tobacco crop here. The prisers of the weed need some warm, damp weather at present.

Jonas Clore, who was stricken with paralysis on the 2d of this month is slowly improving. He is now able to sit up in his chair, and walk across the room with assistance.

Col. Montfort is in the county this week looking after his canvas for Circuit Judge.

Persons needing first-class hand made saddles and harness, will save money by buying of A. M. Acra, Burlington, Ky.

Dr. Jas. Gaines, son of Owen Gaines, of Bullittsburg, has located at Keene, Jessamine county, for the practice of his profession.

Dr. Harl H. Sutton has been suffering from blood poison during the past week. He contracted the poison while dressing the gun-shot wound of Miss Louisa Nolte.—Aurora Independent.

There will be a meeting of the Woolper turnpike company in Burlington, Monday, April 5th, for the purpose of electing five directors for the ensuing year. G. W. Terrill.

A number of the candidates to be voted for at our primary election, called upon the voters of Bellevue last week, and had a general hand shaking. Quite an interest in the candidacy of some of the offices has been aroused.

The wind last Saturday evening blew down Sanders Craig's barn, in White's Run. It was a frame, 36x48, well built and cost over $500 Four of the 24 foot posts were broken in two, and the whole structure was completely wrecked. There were in the barn about 7,000 pounds of tobacco, which was badly damaged. The wind was very heavy in that section, blowing down considerable fencing, green trees, &c. It careened Thos. E. Searcy's barn, which stood in the edge of the storm current. —Carrollton Democrat.

County court next Monday.

L. B. Stephens' fine farm near Richwood is advertised for sale in this issue

WANTED—Music pupils, by an experienced teacher. Terms, 50 cents a lesson. Miss Lillie Willis,
Bullittsville, Ky.

A FINE BULL—Our fine, red bull will make this season at $5, money due when service rendered.
T. D. Goodridge.
J. J. Berkshire.

S. A. Palmer is building a lot of harrows and double shovel plows for the spring trade. Give him a call.

Those who have not paid their taxes for 1885, will confer a favor by paying them before the first day of April; thereby saving themselves the per cent and cost, and myself the unpleasant duty of advertising their property for sale. J. R. CLUTTERBUCK,
Sheriff of Boone County.

SHE TAKES THEM IN.

New York City Absorbing the Big Rich Men of the Country.

New York goes on swallowing up millionaires in its capacious maw year after year. The same great stretch of territory from which the millionaires already here draw supplies of the luxuries of living furnishes an annual new supply of millionaires themselves. New York gets salmon and fruit from the Golden Gate, and the tables of her rich men team with articles of food from every State and Territory in the intervening space. So, too, she has millionaires for all these States. I was reminded of this by a recent chat with Ithiel Stone, of Cleveland, a large carpet dealer and wealthy citizen of the Forest City. "As soon as one of our citizens becomes wealthy he comes to New York to live," said Mr. Stone. "Quite recently Colonel Oliver H. Payne decided to make this city his home, and only a short time ago John Rockafeller came on here and bought himself a mansion. They are both of the Standard Oil Company, which has already contributed one of the Rockafellers and John M. Flagler to the list of your millionaires. Colonel Payne is the wealthiest man of the lot, though he has the least reputation for wealth. He had a large fortune left him by his grandfather. John Rockafellow was President of the Standard. He had the reputation of being rich. But I can understand how it came about that he had this reputation while Colonel Payne did not. He would go out driving on the Lake roads. When he drove up to a tavern the hostler was called for to take his horses and was tipped well for it. The word was passed around that the elegant gentleman was Mr. Rockafeller, President of the Standard Oil Company, and very wealthy. Colonel Payne, with twice as much wealth, driving out to the same place, would put his own horses out and see himself that they were cared for before he went in to his own dinner. It wasn't meanness in the matter of tips, for he spent just as much money that way as the other man, but pure love of his animals. Yet he got none of that reputation which the other man's ways carried with him. It was only when he bought a half million property in New York and presented it to his sister that Cleveland woke up to the fact that he must be enormously wealthy. His property in Cleveland alone is valued at about eight or ten million dollars." —Gath, in Cincinnati Enquirer.

FOR SALE.

My farm of 250 acres one mile from Richwood Station, near the Cin. Southern Railroad. This farm has 50 acres of timber and is all strong land, and under good fence, has three never failing ponds, good stable and a large tobacco barn. The improvements consist of a two story frame dwelling of 8 rooms, in first-class order, and all necessary out buildings. The premises front on the Hamilton & Richwood pike which intersects the Richwood & Beaver pike, also on the premises. Taking into consideration the quality of improvements and land, and convenience of pikes and railroads, schools and neighborhood, there is not a more desirable farm in Kentucky. Will sell on reasonable terms, ⅓ cash and the balance on time, or will trade for desirable city property. For particulars address
L. B. STEPHENS, Richwood, Ky.
Or H. P. Stephens, Burlington, Ky.

COMMISSIONER'S NOTICE.

Boone Circuit Court.

Lewis Rice, &c., Plffs.
vs In equity.
E. L. Northcutt, &c. Dfts.

The parties to this action are hereby notified that the undersigned, as Master Commissioner of said court, will, on the 4th day of Feb'y. 1886, at the Circuit Clerk's office in Burlington begin his sittings in this case, and take and hear such proof as may be offered by the parties, and that he will adjourn from Thursday to Thursday until his sittings shall be completed.

Given under my hand as Master Commissioner aforesaid, this 12th day of January, 1886.
W L RIDDELL, M C B C C

COMMISSIONER'S NOTICE.

R. D. Hedges, &c. Plffs.
vs In equity.
James Marshall's heirs, &c. Dfts.

The parties to this action are hereby notified that the undersigned Master Commissioner of said court, will, on the 4th day of March 1886 at the Circuit Clerk's office in Burlington, Ky., begin his sittings in this case, and take and hear such proof as may be offered by the parties, and will adjourn from Thursday to Thursday until his sittings shall be completed. All claims against the estate of Jas Marshall must be presented properly proven. Given under my hand, as Master Commissioner aforesaid, this 23 day of Feb'y. 1886.
W. L. RIDDELL, M C B C C

NOTICE.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

J. H. Walton, assignee of Davis Bros, &c. Piff
vs
J. W. Davis, &c. Defts

Pursuant to an order made and entered in the above styled action at its October term, 1885, I will, on Monday, the 5th day of April, 1886, at the Court House door, at or about 1 o'clock p. m. in Burlington, Ky., sell to the highest bidders all of the uncollected judgments, notes, accounts and other choses in action now in my hands, belonging to said assigned estate.
J. H. WALTON, Assignee.
March 16, 1886.

CLORE'S SONS,

Manufacturers of Agricultural Implements.

SUCH AS

Steel Turning & Side Hill Plows

Road Plows, Double Shovels, Single Shovlse, Bar Shovel Gophers, Harrows, Jumping Shovels and Rolling Colters.

RISING SUN, - - IND.

☞Send for Illustrated Price List. 13-3m

FRYE'S COMBINATION
FARM, GARDEN & ORNAMENTAL FENCE

It combines the advantages of every fence, and is free from any objections. Our combination fence is composed of fine two-strand cables of the best anealed bessemer steel wire firmly interwoven with pickets at a uniform distance of 2 to 5 inches apart, and the diagonal supporting wire which is interwoven as represented, enables us to hold each and every picket up off the ground with perfect ease, keeping them even on top and the entire fence always in the open air, making the lower ends of the pickets just durable as the upper ends. Sagging is utterly impossible, as we have a direct vertibal tensil strength of 1700 lbs. to each pannel which alone is three times as strong as an ordinary pine board fence. Our fine cables, which gives a combined strength of more than fifteen times that of a pine board 1x6, all interwoven in such a manner with the pickets that one wire cannot be broken without breaking 11. Thus giving us a fence 18 times stronger than a barb wire. The pickets are oak of first quality. and soaked in hot Alkalies, making them last many years. The pickets are supported every 10½ inches by the cables so that breakage is impossible, giving us a fence that will turn all kinds of stock, from the smallest pig to the meanest mule, without endangering the life of any. It is a portable fence, can be removed by drawing the staples and the fence rolled up and removed without the slightest injury. It is dog proof, keeps sheep in and hogs out. It will protect your orchards from the ravages of rabbits, and your gardens from chickens. It is endorsed by over 200,000 of our farmers, as filling every claim we make for it. No farmer can afford to do without this fence that has means to buy it. Any party wishing fence or any information in regard to this fence will address.

T. H. SUTTON, Grant, Boone county, Ky.

N. B.—This fence can be sold and delivered at any landing on the river in Boone county, at the following reduced prices: Pickets 5 in. a part 55c 4½ in. apart 60c; 4 in. apart 65c, 3½ in. a part 70c; 3 in. a part 75c; 2½ in apart 80c; 2 in. a part 85c. We have strechers expressly for our fence which we will furnish to any parties ordering fifty rods or more, and will furnish one hand to assist in putting it up, after the posts have been set.

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that Mrs. C. Fanny Latham, of Florence, Ky., wife of Robt. E. Latham, who is made defendant to the cause, has filed her petition in equity in the Boone Circuit Court, asking to be made a feme sole; and to be empowered to trade, and make conveyances in her own rights, as if she were a single woman.
C. FANNY LATHAM.
By R. Richardson, atty.
Feby. 6, 1886.

COMMISSIONER'S NOTICE.

Boone Circuit Court.

John T. Conner's assignee, Piff.
vs in equity.
John T. Conner, &c. Dfts.

The parties to this action are hereby notified that the undersigned, as Master Commissioner of said court, will, on the 3d day of Feb'y. 1886, at the Circuit Clerk's office in Burlington begin his sittings in this case, and take and hear such proof as may be offered by the parties, and that he will adjourn from Wednesday until Wednesday until his sittings shall be completed. Claims against Jno. T. Northcutt and Conner & Northcutt must be presented properly proven.

Given under my hand, as Master Commissioner aforesaid, this 12th day of January, 1886.
W. L. RIDDELL, M C B C C.

THE STAR

A Newspaper supporting the Principles of a Democratic Administration,

Published in the City of New York.

WILLIAM DORSHEIMER,

Editor and Proprietor.

Daily, Sunday, and Weekly Editions.

THE WEEKLY STAR,

A Sixteen-page Newspaper, issued every Wednesday.

A clean, pure, bright and interesting FAMILY PAPER.

It contains the latest news, down to the hour of going to press:
Agricultural,
Market,
Fashion,
Household,
Political,
Financial and Commercial,
Poetical, Humorous and Editorial

Departments, all under the direction of trained journalists of the highest ability. Its sixteen pages will be found crowded with good things from beginning to end.

Original stories by distinguished American and foreign writers of fiction.

THE DAILY STAR,

The DAILY STAR contains all the news of the day in an attractive form. Its special correspondence by cable from London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna and Dublin is a commendable feature.

At Washington, Albany, and other news centers, the ablest correspondents, specially retained by the THE STAR, furnish the latest news by telegraph.

Its literary features are unsurpassed.

The Financial and Market Reviews are unusually full and complete.

Special terms and extraordinary inducements to agents and canvassers.

Send for circulars.

TERMS OF THE WEEKLY STAR to SUBSCRIBERS, FREE OF POSTAGE in the United States and Canada, outside the limits of New York City:

Per year	$1 25
Clubs of Ten	10 00
Clubs of Fifteen (and one extra to organizer)	15 00

TERMS OF THE DAILY STAR to SUBSCRIBERS:

Every day for one year (including Sunday)	$7 00
Daily, without Sunday, one year	6 00
Every day, six months	3 50
Daily, without Sunday, six months	3 00

Address, THE STAR,
26 and 28 North William St., New York

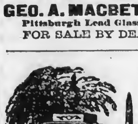
Subscribe for the Recorder.
Subscribe for the Recorder.

IMMUNITY from ANNOYANCE

Made only of the finest and best quality of Glass for withstanding heat.

Every good thing is Counterfeited, and consumers are CAUTIONED against IMITATIONS of these Chimneys made of VERY POOR GLASS. See that the exact label is on each chimney as above. The Pearl Top is always clear and bright Glass.

Manufactured ONLY by
GEO. A. MACBETH & CO.
Pittsburgh Lead Glass Works.
FOR SALE BY DEALERS.



AURORA MARBLE AND GRANITE WORKS,
Aurora. Ind

Will have constantly on hand
Marble and Granite Monuments,
Italian & American Headstones, &c.

I am ready to do all kinds of Stone Work on short notice and at low prices Hoping to receive the patronage of Boone County, I am respectfully,
F. W. KASSEBAUM.

PIANOS-ORGANS

The demand for the improved MASON & HAMLIN PIANOS is now so large that a second addition to the factory has become imperative. Do not require one-quarter as much tuning as Pianos on the prevailing wrest-pin system. Consult Catalogue, free. 100 Styles of Organs, $22 to $900. For Cash, Easy Payments, or Rented.
Mason & Hamlin Organ and Piano Co.,
NEW YORK : BOSTON : CHICAGO.

AGENTS WANTED

FOR
THE PEOPLES CYCLOPEDIA.
FARM & STOCK CYCLOPEDIA.
THOMPSONS' MEDICAL ADVISER.
PIONEER HISTORY.
Address
THE CAPITOL PUBLISHING CO.,
P.O. Box 459, Cincinnati, O.

Subscribe for the RECORDER.

TAKE THE RECORDER,

H. F. BLASE

540 MADISON AVE.
Covington. - Ky.

FALL GOODS ARE ALL IN.
5,000 NEW ELEGANT DESIGNS TO SELECT FROM.
SUITS AND OVERCOATS MADE TO ORDER ON SHORT NOTICE.
We Guarantee Goods, Fit and Workmanship.

We have also manufactured over 1,000 Suits and Overcoats during the dull season, made out of good material and by good workmen, which we can sell as low as any house in the country.

CALL AND SEE US.
H. F. BLASE,
540 MADISON AVE. COVINGTON. KY.

STOTT BROS,

PETERSBURG, KY.

We are still in the trade with a better class of Fall & Winter Goods and Lower Prices than was ever known in this county. We can sell you direct from one of the leading factories of the country, at from 15 to 20 per cent. less than last years prices, and warranted to be No. 1 goods as they will show for themselves.

FLANNELS

OUR YARNS,

are first-class and cheaper than ever before offered. We are agents for the Shaker Yarn, old fashioned or long reel, double cut, 120 threads to the cut, best in the market.

BLANKETS,

Very cheap. We keep a general assortment of Dry Goods Notions, Boots and Shoes, Hats and Caps, Glassware, Queensware, Hardware, Tinware, and a full line of

GROCERIES.

Coal from the Perfection Mines, in quality is "Love Among the Roses."

As our trade is gradually increasing, shows that we give you First-class Goods at Bottom Prices, and warrant all goods as represented.

Thanking the people for their liberal patronage in the past, we kindly ask a continuance of the same. Yours &c.

STOTT BROS, Petersburg, Ky.

JAMES S. WAYNE, President. JNO. L. SANDFORD, Cashier

CAPITAL $300,000.

FARMERS AND TRADERS
NATIONAL BANK.
Covington, Kentucky.

DIRECTORS.

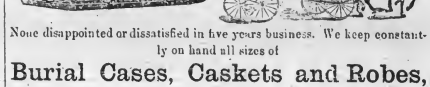
James S. Wayne,	M. C. Motch,	Sam Hind,	E. J. Hickey,	E. J. Green.
I. S. Matson,	J. H. Mersman,	J. L. Sandford,	L. H Dills,	F. P. Helm
		L. C. Stephens.

The general operations of banking transacted upon the most favorable term Collections made on all points in the United States.

The Business and Accounts of Farmers are Especially Solicited by this Bank.
dec. 20-6m

COME AND SEE FOR YOURSELF.

—(o)— We've got them from the lowest price to the finest. —(o)—



None disappointed or dissatisfied in five years business. We keep constantly on hand all sizes of

Burial Cases, Caskets and Robes,

— ALSO A SPLENDID —

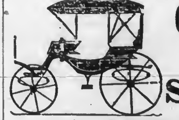
HEARSE AND TEAM.

You can always come to us with the assurance of getting what you want in this line. We guarantee our prices 20 per cent. less than city prices. J. W. DAVIS has charge of this business at Hebron, and T. W. FINCH is our agent at Burlington.

J. J. RUCKER & CO, Hebron, Ky.

BUGGIES! BUGGIES!!

Pfalzgraf & Wingate,
—DEALERS IN—



Carriages, Buggies
— AND —
Spring Wagons.

—(o)— GAINESVILLE, KENTUCKY. —(o)—

A Large Assortment of Buggies and Carriages constantly on hand.

ANY STYLE TO ORDER ON
— SHORT NOTICE —

We call the attention of the People of Boone County to our stock on hand, made in the latest styles and of the best material. All work warranted to give satisfaction. Special attention given to

REPAIRING WITH NEATNESS & DISPATCH,

At the Lowest possible prices.

Old work taken in exchange for new
Pfalzgraf & Wingate,
GAINSVILLE, KENTUCKY.

KENTUCKY MILITARY INSTITUTE. Advantages. 1. Exemption from temptations of city. One family—living, eating and working together. 3. Classes divided into small sections so that each cadet recites every day. 4. Expenditures under control of Superintendent. 5. Government adapted to the character of each individual cadet. 6. A faculty who associate with the cadets. 7. A system of military discipline which develops the body and imparts lessons of authority and prompt obedience. Address Col. R. D. ALLEN, Farmdale, Ky.

THE RECORDER.

RIDDELL & HALL, Publishers.

BURLINGTON, : : KENTUCKY

WHAT HE SAW IN HER?

Whatever could he have seen in her?
She isn't the least bit pretty;
She isn't stylish, she isn't rich,
She is neither wise nor witty.

Whatever could he have seen in her?
She is only a farmer's daughter,
Yet you would have thought her a princess
From the letters that he wrote her.

Whatever could he have seen in her?
A plain, little, homespun creature,
Without a single accomplishment,
And scarcely a decent feature.

Whatever could he have seen in her?
Something far better than beauty;
An innocent soul, a loving heart,
And a life all set to duty.

He saw a woman whose pleasure lay
In the peace of her household ways,
Who was happy to win her father's smile,
And proud of her mother's praise.

The best little sister in all the world;
As helpful in deed as in word,
As cheerful and gay as the sunshine;
As busy and bright as a bird.

So he passed by the belles of the season,
The maidens both stylish and pretty;
He passed by the highly accomplished,
The clever, the wise and the witty;

And chose for the wife of his heart
The dear little homespun creature;
Whose worth was far better than gold,
Than beauty of form or of feature.

Whatever the world may see in her
Is beyond his worry or care;
To him she is rich and good and true,
To him she is sweet and fair.

—Lillie E. Barr, in N. Y. Ledger.

THE "EVEN FINGERS."

How a Daughter Captured Her Father's Murderer.

The Brigadier, astride a cane chair, smoked his pipe before the door. Slowly the smoke arose, regularly, like a blue cloud, forming a circle which enlarged, trembled and disappeared in the cool air of the evening. Martial Tharaud had seen like circles dance about and disappear from the cannon's mouth. But now father of a family, with lace upon his sleeves, he rested in his limosin garden, asking nothing of the world, not even the position of paymaster, which might necessitate a journey to Egmontiers, to St. Leonard or to Limoges, and he loved the little place at Pierrebuffiere, the roses he had grafted, and the vines which ran over the white walls of his lodge framing in festoons the tri-colored flag over the door. The Brigadier smoked his pipe, his eyes following the movements of some children playing upon a little heap of earth near; then, turning to regard over his epaulet, by the open window, a woman, still young, dark and pretty, who came and went in the kitchen where the copperware shone like red gold, he smiled at her, calling her attention to the children. The wife then, with her beautiful arms bare and half-covered with flour, advanced and, leaning upon the window-sill, watched the boys, her face energetic and pleasant, and by the heat of the stove rendered rose colored, she too watched the throwing of the children's iron pikes, saying: "Bah! there is no danger; it will render them adroit and brave."

"And give them a good appetite for your dumplings, Catisson?"

The dumplings, a limosin dish, as substantial as the vegetable soup of the country, were already on the stove, with their black cherries incased in sifted flour, like the cricks in the plaster.

"Are the dumplings doing well?" asked the Brigadier.

And Catisson shrugged her shoulders, as if to say: "Is your housekeeper in the habit of failing in her pastries? What a question!"

"A good wife," said Martial Tharaud to us a moment later, as we passed. He was in the mood for chatting: "Yes, yes, my wife is a good woman! and one would not believe, seeing her care for the little ones, that she was once an actress; 'tis true, however, and here is the story:

"Ten years ago I left the chasseurs, and entered the guard at Limoges, where the Adjutant one morning informed us we had an important undertaking on hand. An honest, poor man, a master mason, had been assassinated at his own home, Faubourg Montmailler, no one knowing who had committed the crime. It was in September, and we had an agreement to clear the roads for the unarmed chasseurs. The Adjutant, M. Boudet, now promoted to the rank of Captain, recommended to the quartermaster that the men redouble their vigilance, and if they found under the chestnut tree or along the road doubtful or suspicious characters, to arrest them. The entire round was guarded, for the order had been dispatched to Chateau-neuf, to Ambayac, to Saint Sulpice and Lauriere, Bellac and Rochechouart. Such orders are somewhat perplexing. It will not do to depend too much upon the appearance. There are those of unfavorable mien who are most worthy. I once knew a person whom they might have guillotined, or at least sent to the galleys, for his looks. Ah, well, he was a man to whom in every other respect they would have given the Montyou value. He supported a number of people, and gave to the poor all he had; a saint, upon my honor, yet with the head of a galley slave; while others who would be granted absolution without confession suddenly came to manacles. But they told us to arrest, and we arrested peddlers, beggars, as yellow as their wallets, even idiots, who roamed unknowingly over the country. Not one seemed capable of making way with Father Coussac. Time passed, and the assassin of Faubourg Montmailler was not easy; we had so few indications to guide us, and the affair was one of mystery.

"One day when I was at the guard-house a beautiful girl, with black eyes like mulberries, and red lips like strawberries, came toward me, saying:

"'Have you any news of the assassin? I am the daughter of Leonard Coussac.'

"That was something worth hearing, she spoke with so much energy and feeling that I felt ashamed of not having put into custody the wretch who had killed her father. Then I tried to excuse myself, saying how meager was our information regarding the assassin, and this and that, but she looked at me so steadily I became embarrassed and said suddenly.

"'Well, Miss, I would risk an arm or a limb to catch the rogue for you.'

"And I spoke the truth; yet it was not perhaps professional duty that made me say it, but those velvety black eyes.

"'Only,' I said, 'we must have a clew.'

"'A clew?' And then she shrugged her shoulders. 'Is not the hand one?'

"'The hand! What hand?'

"Then Catisson Coussac related to me the story of the crime, which I confess chilled me.

"It was one evening in September. Poor, honest Coussac had at his house in Faubourg Montmailler some money which had been intrusted to him by his patron, M. Gabourdy, the contractor; about ten thousand francs, with which he was to settle two bills—one with a plasterer, the other with a lumber merchant. Having, upon this particular evening, finished his repast, Father Coussac and his daughter remained downstairs after Mother Coussac had retired, he reading his almanac as he sat near the closet containing the silver, and she knitting a wool stocking. It is necessary to explain that there was a garden back of the house, and, facing this, a window, the height of a man, the shutters of which were generally closed, but which on this particular evening the worthy man, being a trifle warm, left open. He read there, under the skylight by a small lamp, and Catisson heard him turn over and over the pages of his almanac. She has often told me that she felt, while working mechanically, a little drowsy, by this noise of the paper, so regular, and by the tick, tick of the pendulum, and that, suddenly raising her head from her work to yawn, and see if it was not time to go to sleep, she saw, believing at first that she was mistaken, that she dreamed that she had the nightmare—she saw between the folds of the shutter, passing, moving softly, softly, a hand, a large hand, but with something frightful about it that Catisson remarked at once, the four fingers, almost as large as the thumb, being all of the same size, as though cut by line, yet they were not cut, only terminated in this frightful way; and this hideous hand glided along the shutters, evidently seeking to open the blind noiselessly. Then it remained motionless, as though its owner knew that Catisson had discovered him. For a moment she believed she had not seen aright, that the light of the lamp had dazzled her sight. But when she opened her eyes, very much frightened, there was the moving hand, with its enormous even fingers. Catisson wished to scream, but seemed strangled by that terrible hand. Then she suddenly arose, and, seizing her father by the sleeve, pointed to the hand on the blind. But at the same moment that old Coussac turned, the robber quickly pushed open the blind, and a current of air extinguished the lamp in a cloud of flame and smoke, leaving Catisson and her father in darkness. Coussac, hearing the sound of a heavy body leaping into the room, tried to find a knife with which to defend himself, and more especially the money, but before he could open the cupboard he was seized by the throat, and felt a stroke against his neck, then down near his heart. Catisson screamed, divining all, though seeing nothing, but a heavy blow rendered her powerless. The poor girl was in a faint, she could not say how long, and when she recovered found herself in the lower hall, where Mother Coussac, whiter than her robe, sought to rouse poor Leonard, who pointed to his breast as if to say: 'Wound in here—no remedy.'

"Of course the closet where Coussac had placed the money was broken open and the bills were stolen. Such a night! The Faubourg Montmailler will long remember it. They aroused the neighbors and searched the garden, where they found foot-prints, which they measured. They searched everywhere. In the meantime Coussac died, and the old mother was beside herself. Catisson, half out of her senses, saw ever that frightful hand, with the four even fingers gliding over the oak shutter, like a spider or a crab.

"As you can imagine, we made every effort to find the dog who had sent that worthy to Louvat (the cemetery at Limoges). Yes, we did all we could, but there was no clew. We had the hand as Catisson had described it to me, but knew of no one possessing such a hand. We questioned all the masons who had worked with Father Coussac, but no suspicion rested upon them; all were worthy people, well-known, with a little fondness for chestnut wine, but not crime. Who, then, was the criminal?

"One day a butcher-boy from la rue Aigueperse came to tell us that he remembered once having a quarrel with a great fellow who, in drawing his Nontron knife, had displayed a very peculiar hand with four even fingers. Now the knife with which he had killed Coussac was a Nontron knife, but the butcher could give no further information, and many thought his story a fabrication. And our men still searched, finding nothing, which annoyed me, as I had said to Catisson: 'Tell us, demoiselle, what you will give for the man who captures your father's assassin?'

"She did not answer, but turned pale while her beautiful black eyes wept and promised, but all that did not enable me to find the criminal. Finally Catisson said:

"'If you can not find him, I will.'

"She had still her grandmother, a true woman, living, who since the assassination had been silent as a stone, yet fierce as a dog ready for attack, and the poor old woman kept repeating: 'Will they not, then, conduct to the Monte-a-Regret the villain who killed my son?'

"Catisson left her position as seamstress, and applied to the Prefect of Police for permission to take a place at the fair. This astonished every one, especially when we saw at the fair-grounds at St. Loup or St. Martial or Limoges a great bill posted, with a portrait of Catisson in rose-colored robes, and beneath in large letters: 'The Electric Girl.' How odd for Catisson to so designate herself. So Catisson Coussac was electric, and you received a shock when she touched you. But I needed not to touch her to be electrified; I had only to look at her. You see her at twenty-eight, but ten years ago, those who saw her and did not turn to look the second time were great imbeciles. Well, the 'electric girl' brought spectators. An orchestra was not necessary, or other attractions. They saw her and exclaimed: 'What a beautiful girl!' then entered. One day I entered the fair. She was there upon a little platform, with Mother Coussac, who, as a fortune-teller, watched every one closely. Catisson encouraged me, and, while I stood before her thinking how becoming her costume, she smiled, and said in a droll tone:

"'Oh, it is you! I do not need to see your hand!'

"Then I knew what the brave girl wished: why she went about the country in such disguise. She had ever in mind that frightful hand, and extended her own white little hand, soft as satin, but nervous to every one who came, hoping it might meet that other hand stained with blood. It was her own idea; she had only the one clew; it would suffice, she thought; yet to find the rascal was like looking for a needle in a hay-stack. But there are chances that a murderer will wander in the direction of his crime. The murderer might then be far from Limoges, but would in all probability return, and there was a chance that she might again see the hand which haunted her like a nightmare.

"Everywhere Catisson, with Mother Coussac, traveled over the country, yet it was always toward Vienna that they turned with the most confidence—women often divine things.

"One day—I remember it as though it were yesterday—the 22d of May, a Monday, there was a show at the Place Royale, and Catisson and Mother Coussac were there, distributing the hand-bills and saying: 'Enter ladies and gentlemen.' It was not necessary to invite me; I entered as the others; only saying: 'Good-day, mademoiselle;' and she replied: 'Good-day, gendarme,' well knowing my name, but giving only my title. I see it all now—Catisson in her red robe, her pretty brown hair, a rose in her corsage, white arms, pretty shoulders, and a head to turn all others. And she explained to the spectators, as was her custom, about the electric fluid; then extended her hand, saying:

"'Give me your hand and you will feel the current. Do not fear; it will not hurt you.'

"'Then some laughed, others were almost afraid, but all extended their hands for the touch of Catisson. I was there, and was almost jealous of those people who pressed her soft hand, when suddenly, like a thunder-clap, I saw the electric girl, as pale as death, extending her hand to one who seized it as a dog does a piece of meat. Before her was a great fellow, with curly red hair showing beneath a felt hat; he wore a blue blouse over a vest, and epaulets; a giant I saw, as I regarded his profile; his inferior jaw resembled that of a pike, and his temples almost concealed his eyes, with no beard, some hairs in the pale skin; bad figure. Catisson looked him well in the face, and he extended a hand which seemed enormous beside her small one. She clung to him, seemingly, as if everything depended upon that arm in the blue sleeve. A shudder passed over me, and I said: 'It is the individual, she holds him.'

"Yes, yes, she held him, and, pale as death, said to the gross fellow, suddenly turned as white as herself:

"'Tell me, do you know the assassin of Leonard Coussac?'

"He recoiled, seeking to withdraw his fingers from the electric woman. Ah, she needed not to be electric to cause a shock to that man. He was unable to move his arm; he wished to repulse her, and said:

"'Are you a fool? Will you unhand me?'

"As he turned his head I saw his light eyes, fierce and eager, seeking means of escape.

"'Miserable villain!' cried Catisson, forcing him into a chair. 'It was you who dealt the blow. It was you!'

"And she held that giant, stunned by the suddenness of the affair; but he quickly recovered himself; he disengaged his hand from Catisson, and I saw it, frightful, with the even fingers; he struck her; then turned like a wild animal to the place of egress.

Everybody sought to escape; the crowd were afraid. The man leaped, pushing the people before him, when I planted myself in front of him. He had an ugly look, seeing my kepi and white breeches. He perceived in them the evidence of my position. He had his face toward me. I raised my arm and seized him by the blouse.

"'In the name of the law, I arrest you.'

"The villain's only reply was a blow, which would, I believe, have sent me ten feet if I had not had the presence of Catisson to increase my strength. I ridiculed the blow. I held the man; I dragged him; I would not let him go. They would have had to break my wrist in order to make me. And he gave me blows on the head, trying to stun me, or break my skull. Suddenly (I still hold the scar) he attempted to plunge a knife into my neck, in the same way he had struck Father Coussac—a habit of his, I believe. He counted upon killing me; but the collar of my uniform turned aside the blade of the knife—a Nontron knife, with yellow handle. It cut through the collar and gave me only a scratch. Then my hand seized the wrist which held the weapon, which, if it descended a second time, he told me, would do its work. I saw the knife raised like the sword of Damocles, and grasping its handle were those gross even fingers by which Catisson had recognized the assassin of her father. How long it might have lasted—that batttle in which my blood flowed, though I had wounded him—I can not say; but I felt that I was losing strength, that I should release the hand which held the knife. Suddenly he uttered a cry, a savage one, like that of an animal being killed. He jumped, but I held him still; then he turned so rapidly that he fell, dragging me after him, he underneath and I above. We fell to the ground. Then something moved him, or, rather, clung to him. It was Mother Coussac, who gnawed and pecked at his limbs to make him release his hold. And we rolled on the ground like worms, but this time it was not for long. Catisson recovered and aided me to regain the armed arm, or, rather, she took the knife away from him while I held the man by the throat with my right hand, and then would have stifled him. Then people came at the noise, and the paymaster, Bugead, arrived with a comrade. They assisted me to bind the criminal, raised him up, put on the handcuffs and led him through the crowd, who, seeing him taken, wished to prevent his escape. That brave crowd who a short time ago were afraid. It was well they came. I could not hold out longer. I was going, going. It was foolish for a gendarme. I fainted from loss of blood. But I had the sensation of white arms sustaining me, and, instead of the Nontron blade near my head, I perceived, as in a dream, the large, beautiful eyes of Catisson, who smiled upon me.

"Thus the stroke of a knife was the cause of my good marriage. That my wound healed, I need not tell you, since you see me here; but it healed more rapidly because it was Catisson who cared for it. She became a Sister of Charity, that electric girl, and when I was on my feet, think what she said to me: 'You please me, and I you, and I promise to be a worthy wife.'

"Mother Coussac, who sleeps now at Louvat, lived then, the marriage of Catisson being her last joy—poor, good old lady. I am mistaken; her last joy was the sentence passed upon the villain who killed the master mason.

"He was a mixer of plaster, named Massaloux, of Souterraine in La Creuse—so a deputy of La Creuse told us—and who, presenting himself to M. Gabourdy for work, had overheard him speak of the money confided to Leonard Coussac by his patron. Then he exclaimed: 'There is a chance,' and he took it alone, with no accomplice; an idler, but energetic. After the murder he reached Paris, then returned to Queret, then to Limoges, the money gone, seeking work. When before the Court d' Assizes, he scarcely defended himself, as though saying: 'You have taken me, so much the worse for me.' They condemned him to death. The famous hand is preserved in alcohol at the Ecole de Medicine.

"It is not for me to boast that the President commended me, but I did not need congratulations. I no longer needed anything. I had Catisson. On my wedding day, however, I received the Brigadier ornaments, and if you wish to see a happy man look at me.

"Catisson received many offers from the stage. The journals everywhere spoke of her. But she had other duties then. The children to care for, my epaulets to clean, to take care of the house, the chickens, the ducks and the Brigadier. No! No! Catisson is no longer an artist, but if ever a crime were committed, I would depend upon her rather than all the bloodhounds of the police. Catisson has fine eyes, and they never look coldly into these."

The Brigadier let fall a cinder from his pipe as, beautiful and happy in the setting sun, came Catisson to the window, saying, with a pretty laugh: "Come, Martial, the pudding is out of the oven, call the children."

And Tharaud arose, and, making a cornet of his two hands, called: "Ohe, there, little ones, come to supper."

And as the children ran, inhaling the odor of the soup and the cooked cherries, the Brigadier, taking his eldest and pushing him before the others, took off his kepi, blue, trimmed with white, saluted them gayly, while going to taste at the same time the kiss and soup of Catisson.

At the end of the street a sobatier was singing an old song and the setting sun cast its last rays upon the flag of the good gendarme.—From the French, in Chicago Journal.

* * *

—A man at Waco, Neb., hitched his horse to a rocking-chair and took a sleigh ride.

HOME AND FARM.

—From the best information available Farm and Fireside concludes that any of the incubators will hatch eggs—"if you sit by them day and night and don't sleep too long at a time."

—Poached Eggs: Put in a flat saucepan three pints of water, a tablespoonful of vinegar and two pinches of salt. When the water boils break your eggs into it and let them poach two or three minutes. Lift them out with a skimmer and serve each egg on toast.—Exchange.

—The mule is useful on the farm, and more use could be made of these hardy animals to advantage. Especially are they well adapted to the plow, and for use in clearings and for use in new ground, where it is dangerous to us the more delicate horse.—San Francisco Chronicle.

—A danger to be avoided in keeping fowls is overcrowding. Too many, after building a house of proper dimensions for the first lot, neglect to enlarge the quarters as they enlarge the flock. Where the extensive business is carried on the fowls should be separated in small flocks, they will not do their best until this is done.—Chicago Tribune.

—Pickled Ham: This is a country delicacy. It should be small, a pig's ham and sugar-cured, but not smoked. Simmer for three hours, then take off the skin, stick in a few cloves and bake for half an hour, basting it frequently with brown sugar dissolved in cider. It will be found delicious, something between ham and roast pork.—Good Housekeeping.

—Fried Onions: Having peeled the onions, cut them in rings and throw them into enough very hot fat in the frying-pan to float them. If the fat is kept at the right heat the onions will not require much attention while cooking. As soon as they are golden brown take them out of the pan with a skimmer and throw them on to paper to absorb the grease.—Boston Budget.

—Hashed Beef: Take two pounds of cold beef, free from sinew, and bone and chop it up well. Peel and cut in pieces two onions and put them in a frying-pan with two ounces of butter. When beginning to color very lightly add your beef, a little salt, pepper and nutmeg and a pinch of thyme. Toss altogether on the fire ten minutes. Just before serving sprinkle a little chopped parsley over the top of your hash.—The Household.

—It frequently happens that, from long neglect, plate becomes so stained and spotted that it can not be immediately restored by any of the plate-powders. Whenever this occurs, mix one part of sal ammoniac with sixteen parts of vinegar. Rub the stains or spots gently with the mixture; they will soon disappear. The plate should then be well washed in soap and water.—Farm and Home.

CATTLE AND CLIMATE.

The Latter Has No Influence Upon the Well-Being of Improved Breeds.

It has been said of men, that to become great they must be born great, must grow up in just the right locality, and be environed by circumstances in every way well calculated to favor the attainment of greatness. Regarding our improved breeds of cattle, it was for a long time supposed by many that in this country the true habit of our best cattle was within a very limited range; and Kentuckians were confident that the little circle known as the blue-grass region was the only place in the country where the beef breeds could be bred and grown in the highest state of perfection. But the fact is simply this—the improved breeds are found, through careful tests, not to be indigenous to any State or district; and even Kentucky can improve her cattle by sending to Canada or Minnesota for fresh blood. The question is not as with a tender plant, or with the orange tree, which can not be changed in their characteristics, but the whole matter of success hinges upon breeding to a purpose, as specimens of poultry are bred to a feather.

If any man is raising any particular breed of cattle, thinking that one will succeed in this or that climate and no other breed will, he may as well disabuse his mind of this erroneous idea, because no breed has a right to an especial degree of hardiness that another breed—where selections are judiciously made—may not very readily attain to. As a rule, the cow that has the vitality and form to give her success in the show-ring, has, for the very best of reasons, vitality to fit her for any climate where any improved cattle beast can be grown with profit. It is not difficult to conceive that the breeder and feeder who had, from year to year, bred prize-winning cattle could remove his herd to a locality several degrees north, without losing the good points and size he had secured in the herd. It is not the climate so much as it is the man that makes the cattle, and while the winters might begin a little earlier, and the springs a little later than the herd had been accustomed to, and the mercury fall a little lower, still it should be born in mind that the vitality of animals that have been wisely bred is fully equal to meeting a somewhat advancing degree of cold. Plants, to quite a degree, take on the temperature of the surrounding atmosphere, while the wild beast has a laboratory within it, which, in both warm and cold weather, keeps the temperature of the body at about ninety-eight degrees. This gives our domestic animals such a wide range of adaptability that a farmer or breeder may change his locality, emigrating to a country far distant, taking his live stock with him, while perhaps he may not be able to transport and cultivate a single variety of fruit to which he has been accustomed. The laboratory within the living beast is equal to meeting extraordinary changes, and wherever the farmer can remove with his family, enjoying health, to that locality he can remove his herd and there maintain it. Of course, it is not difficult to determine where cattle will grow largest and best, if it is proposed to make it a condition that they remain out-of-doors during the entire year, but while an unquestionable advantage is gained from the anti-malarial, crisp, bracing atmosphere of a far north locality, size and fair proportions can the better be maintained by taking off the sharp edge of a temperature twenty or thirty degrees below zero, through shelter.

It is not usually sufficiently considered that farm animals, like the human family, take many downward steps, and have life materially shortened through disturbances of digestion, often repeated, this condition arising quite often from malarial influences which primarily disturb the liver. Hence, what is lost in a northern locality, through the greater consumption of fuel, is made up in physical vigor—that peculiar something through which men women and children alike are made to feel that their hold on life is made stronger. The homely saying that "what is good for man is good for beast," has a thoroughly close application here, and if, on the one hand, there are exactions made upon the vital forces of the cattle beast, by reason of being placed in a climate where the mercury falls low, there is found a compensating influence which comes of added vigor—the natural result of a bracing climate.—National Live Stock Journal.

* * *

—In Santa Barbara, Cal., they fine young men who practice on the clarionet.

MORAL COWARDICE.

An Offense of Which Every Writer of Untruthful References is Guilty.

It would hardly seem possible that an educated, refined woman would deliberately tell a lie in giving character to a discharged servant. Yet nothing else can account for the army of inefficient servants that make life miserable in so many households. Not long since a house-keeper advertised for a cook. Among the applicants was a coarse, clumsy, stupid-looking woman, with the very best of references. There was something so incongruous set between the woman's appearance and the qualifications set forth in the references presented, that the lady took the name and address of the writer, and told the servant to call the next day. When the writer of the reference was seen, she expressed annoyance at being troubled about the matter in a well-bred way, but finally said: "I'm exceedingly sorry that you investigated the matter. I wrote as I did to get the girl out of the house without difficulty. I was afraid of her. She can work, but she is impudent, dirty, extravagant and has the worst of tempers." It is unnecessary to say the cook was not engaged. Moral cowardice allowed a responsible woman to let loose on the community an untrustworthy woman, to make wretched lives dependent on her abilities for a certain amount of health and happiness.

Moral cowardice and unsound sentiment are at the bottom of a good deal of the trouble with domestic help. "I don't want to spoil a girl's chances. She must have work. Let some one else refuse to give her references." And the ball of evil rolls on, crushing nerves and tempers as it goes. An organization should be formed among the house-keepers of every section of the country, having a committee of investigation whose duties would be to examine into the real capabilities of every servant presenting a certificate of character from an unknown person; each member of the organization to agree not to employ any servant whose certificate is not indorsed by the investigating committee. Inefficient and untrustworthy servants would have to find unprotected parishes in which to flourish.

It certainly would be a restraining force for a girl to know that unless she did her duties properly she could not obtain a reference from her employer, and that she could not obtain another place without such references. A girl can not help having a feeling of contempt for a woman who will employ her without knowing something of her character and abilities, and she must treasure feelings of utter contempt for the woman who lies about either, no matter what motives prompts her.—Christian Union.

THE ARMY.

Composition of the Standing Land Force of the United States.

Many persons are unacquainted with the composition of the United States army, and a slight enumeration of its formation will not be amiss. The army consists of five regiments of artillery, 10 regiments of cavalry and 25 regiments of infantry; in all, 40 regiments of arms, exclusive of the battalion of engineers and the signal corps. The Ninth and Tenth cavalry and the Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth infantry are colored. All of the cavalry are infantry regiments, and the regiments in the First artillery are stationed west of the Mississippi, with the exception of the Twelfth and Twenty-third infantries, which are stationed in New York and Michigan. The remainder of the artillery, with the exception of a few light batteries, together with the engineer battalion, are stationed in the East. The maximum number in the army, allowed by law, is 25,000 men. The average number of recruits required to hold the army up to the standard is about 7,500. The number enlisted during the past year was 27,426. The accepted were 8,367; rejected, 19,059. Of this number 4,222 were native born; 2,942 foreign; 6,587 white and 577 colored.—Albany (N. Y.) Journal.

* * *

—The unsuccessful men are for the most part men who have not learned any business. If you find in a shop a mechanic—not a man who knows how to turn a stop-cock under his charge, but a man who knows the whole mill—you will find a man who, as a rule, has never lacked employment and good wages.—Christian at Work.

THE MARKETS.

CINCINNATI, March 30.

LIVE STOCK—Cattle—Common	$2 00	@ 2 75
Choice Butchers	3 90	@ 4 60
HOGS—Common	3 50	@ 4 00
Good Packers	4 10	@ 4 40
SHEEP—Good to choice	4 50	@ 5 25
FLOUR—Family	3 90	@ 4 20
GRAIN—Wheat—Longberry red	90	@ 91
No. 2 red	88	@ 90
Corn—No. 2 mixed	36½	@ 37
Oats—No. 2 mixed	31	@ 31½
Rye—No. 2	66	@ 67
HAY—Timothy No. 1	12 00	@12 50
TOBACCO—Common Lugs	8 00	@ 8 10
Good Mediums	10 00	@13 00
PROVISIONS—Pork—Mess	10 25	@10 37½
Lard—Prime steam	6⅝	@ 6⅞
BUTTER—Choice Dairy	12	@ 15
Ohio Creamery	22	@ 30
APPLES—Prime	1 50	@ 1 65
POTATOES—per bushel	65	@ 68
NEW YORK.
FLOUR—State and Western	$2 90	@ 3 40
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 Chicago		@ 96
No. 2 red	94½	@ 94¾
Corn—No. 2 mixed	45¾	@ 46
Oats—mixed	36	@ 39
PORK—Mess	9 75	@10 25
LARD—Western steam		@ 6 82½
CHICAGO.
FLOUR—State and Western	$4 50	@ 4 85
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red	80½	@ 81½
No. 2 Chicago Spring	75½	@ 76½
Corn—No. 2	35⅝	@ 36⅞
Oats—No. 2		@ 29
Rye		@ 56½
PORK—Mess	9 47½	@ 9 50
LARD—Steam		@ 5 92½
BALTIMORE.
FLOUR—Family	$4 50	@ 5 00
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2	92	@ 92¾
Corn—Mixed	45⅜	@ 46
Oats—Mixed	37	@ 38
PROVISIONS—Pork—Mess	10 25	@11 75
Lard—Refined	7¼	@ 7½
CATTLE—First quality	4 87½	@ 5 00
HOGS	5 50	@ 6 87½
INDIANAPOLIS.
Wheat—No. 2 red	$	@ 85
Corn—mixed		@ 34¼
Oats—mixed		@ 30
LOUISVILLE.
Flour—A No. 1	$4 00	@ 4 50
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 92
Corn—mixed		@ 37
Oats—mixed		@ 32¼
PORK—mess	10 75	@11 00
LARD—steam	7⅛	@ 8

—The secret society is always very charitable, but it does not permit any sentimental considerations to interfere when it comes to voting on new members. If the candidate is a "good fellow"—and a "good fellow" is too often a fellow who is good for nothing at all—he goes through with a whoop; but if he be a man who attends to his own business and his own family so faithfully that he has no time to make himself solid with the boys, blackballs are at a premium.—Chicago Journal.

* * *

—It is a striking illustration of the absurdity of many of the notions of so-called society people, that Chalmers, the great Scotch preacher, when a tutor, was not allowed to sit at the table with the parents of children he taught. When he became famous, and the multitude were wild to hear him, those aristocrats proudly boasted, "He was our tutor!"—The Baptist.

* * *

PROF. JNO. J. CALDWELL, M. D., Baltimore, says: No narcotics in Red Star Cough Cure. Price, 25 cents a bottle.

Dr. Richard Oberlaender, Leipzig, Germany: St. Jacobs Oil cured me of neuralgia.

"How did the bull look on emerging from the china show?" "A little the worse for the ware."

"HELLO!" we heard one man say to another the other day. "I didn't know you at first, why! you look ten years younger than you did when I saw you last." "I feel ten years younger," was the reply. "You know I used to be under the weather all the time and gave up expecting to be any better. The doctor said I had consumption. I was terribly weak, had night-sweats, cough, no appetite, and lost flesh. I saw Dr. Pierce's 'Golden Medical Discovery' advertised, and thought it would do no harm if it did no good. It has cured me. I am a new man because I am a well one."

WHEN is a bankrupt concern like an eight-day clock? When it is run down. No; when it is wound up.

"No Physic, Sir, in Mine!"

A good story comes from a boys' boarding-school in "Jersey." The diet was monotonous and constipating, and the learned Principal decided to introduce some old-style physic in the apple-sauce, and await the happy results. One bright lad, the smartest in school, discovered the secret mine in his sauce, and pushing back his plate, shouted to the pedagogue, "No physic, sir, in mine. My dad told me to use nuthin' but Dr. Pierce's 'Pleasant Purgative Pellets,' and they are a doing their duty like a charm!" They are anti-bilious, and purely vegetable.

WHEN the car-drivers strike they do not brake any thing.—Boston Commercial Bulletin.

Young Men, Read This.

THE VOLTAIC BELT CO., of Marshall, Mich., offer to send their celebrated ELECTRO-VOLTAIC BELT and other ELECTRIC APPLIANCES on trial for 30 days, to men (young or old) afflicted with nervous debility, loss of vitality and all kindred troubles. Also for rheumatism, neuralgia, paralysis, and many other diseases. Complete restoration to health, vigor, and manhood guaranteed. No risk incurred, as 30 days' trial is allowed. Write them at once for illustrated pamphlet, free.

IN gambling, so long as a man wins he never finds fault with his betters.—Pacific Jester.

A Throat to Sing With.

What throat is the best for a singer to teach high notes with? A SOAR throat. If it becomes too sore, use Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullein, which cures hoarseness and a husky voice. Walter A. Taylor, Proprietor, Atlanta, Ga.

"HAM"-and-eggs—The bad actor and his reception.—Rambler.

How Women Would Vote.

Were women allowed to vote, every one in the land who has used Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" would vote it to be an unfailing remedy for the diseases peculiar to her sex. By druggists.

SOMETHING that will stand a loan—a heavy gold watch.—N. Y. Journal.

THE color produced by Buckingham's Dye for the Whiskers always gives satisfaction.

The dangers of Whooping Cough are averted by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

CIRCUS men will soon be along to canvass the situation.—The Rambler.

PIKE'S TOOTHACHE DROPS cure in 1 minute, 25c.
Glenn's Sulphur Soap heals and beautifies. 25c.
GERMAN CORN REMOVER kills Corns & Bunions.

THE law has many members. Who has not heard of the limbs of the law?

RELIEF is immediate, and a cure sure. Piso's Remedy for Catarrh. 50 cents.

WHEN is a man's doom like a letter? When it is sealed.—Lowell Courier.

TIRED OUT!

At this season nearly every one needs to use some sort of tonic. IRON enters into almost every physician's prescription for those who need building up.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS —THE BEST TONIC

Trade Mark QUALITY P PURITY NOT QUANTITY. On Every Bottle.

For Weakness, Lassitude, Lack of Energy, etc., it HAS NO EQUAL, and is the only Iron medicine that is not injurious. It Enriches the Blood, Invigorates the System, Restores Appetite, Aids Digestion

It does not blacken or injure the teeth, cause headache or produce constipation—other Iron medicines do.

JAY VAN VECHTEN, M. D., New London, Ohio, says: "I have prescribed Brown's Iron Bitters with most satisfactory results in cases of Debility where a tonic is needed, and I know of no preparation of iron that does better."

MRS. MARY SWEENEY, 1022 W. Broadway, Louisville, Ky., says: "I had lost all appetite and was entirely broken down in health. I was greatly benefited by Brown's Iron Bitters and gladly recommend it."

MRS. NANCY OUSICK, Jeffersonville, Ind., says: "I was troubled with weakness and a general breaking down of the system. I used Brown's Iron Bitters with the most satisfactory results."

Genuine has above Trade Mark and crossed red lines on wrapper. Take no other. Made only by BROWN CHEMICAL CO., BALTIMORE, MD.

Sense of Smell.

For 15 years I was annoyed with severe pain in my head and discharges into my throat from catarrh. My sense of smell was much impaired. By the use of Ely's Cream Balm I have overcome these troubles.—J. B. CASE, St. Denis Hotel, N. Y.

My son, aged nine years, was afflicted with catarrh, the use of Ely's Cream Balm effected a complete cure.—W. E. HAMMAN, Druggist, Easton, Pa.

A particle is applied into each nostril; is agreeable to use. Price 50 cents by mail or at Druggists. Send for circular. ELY BROTHERS, Druggists, Owego, N. Y.

That Tired Feeling

The mild weather, following our long and severe winter, has such a depressing effect upon the body that one feels all tired out, almost completely prostrated, the appetite is lost, and there is no ambition to do anything. The whole tendency of the system is downward. Hood's Sarsaparilla is just the medicine needed. It purifies the blood, sharpens the appetite, overcomes the tired feeling, and invigorates every function of the body.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla in four weeks made me a new man. My head ceased to ache, and my whole system is built up anew, enjoying perfect health." I. BARRINGTON, 130 Bank St., N. Y. City.

"We all like Hood's Sarsaparilla, it is so strengthening." LIZZIE BALFOUR, Auburn, R. I.

Cured and Built Up

"My daughter had been ailing some time with general debility, and Hood's Sarsaparilla was recommended to us. After she had taken three bottles she was completely cured and built up. It is with great pleasure that I recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla." BEN M. MIDDLETON, Supt. Cincinnati & Louisville Mail Line Co., Cincinnati.

"For the past two years I have been afflicted with severe headache and dyspepsia. I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and found great relief." MRS. E. F. ANNABLE, New Haven, Ct.

No words of ours can tell the benefit to be derived from Hood's Sarsaparilla, if you need a good spring medicine. It will strain all impurities from the blood rouse the torpid liver, invigorate the digestive organs, and impart new life to every function of the body. We only ask you to try a single bottle to prove the positive merits of Hood's Sarsaparilla, as an honest and reliable medicine.

"I think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best medicine for general debility there is, and for the good it has done me I cheerfully recommend it." J. SULLIVAN, 39 Brown St., Rochester, N. Y.

"I have used Hood's Sarsaparilla for a blood purifier in my family several years, and can not speak too highly of it." J. E. COLLINS, Piqua, O.

An Excellent Tonic

"My daughter received much benefit from the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla as an excellent tonic after a protracted attack of bronchial pneumonia." F. H. Adams, New Hartford, Conn.

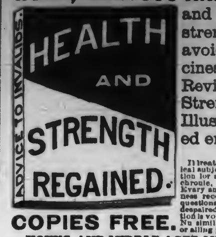
"Hood's Sarsaparilla has done me an immense amount of good. My whole system has been built up and strengthened, my digestion improved, my head relieved of the bad feeling, and my throat relieved of the severe irritation. I consider it the best medicine I have ever used." MARY L. PEELE, 25 Turner St., Salem, Mass.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Made only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.
100 Doses One Dollar

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Made only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.
100 Doses One Dollar

WEAK, NERVOUS AND DEBILITATED MEN



ADVICE TO INVALIDS.
HEALTH AND STRENGTH REGAINED.

and Women seeking health, strength and energy, should avoid Drugs, Secret Medicines, etc., and send for "The Review," or "Health and Strength Regained," a large Illustrated Journal, published entirely for their benefit.

It treats on health, hygiene, physical culture, and medical subjects, and is a complete encyclopædia of information for suffering humanity afflicted with long-standing, chronic, nervous, exhausting and painful diseases. Every subject that bears on health and human happiness receives attention in its pages; and the many questions asked by ailing persons and invalids who have despaired of a cure are answered, and valuable information is volunteered to all who are in need of medical advice. No similar work has ever been published. Every sick or ailing person should have it.

COPIES FREE.

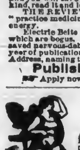
YOUNG AND MIDDLE AGED MEN, and others who suffer from nervous and physical debility, exhausted vitality, premature decline, etc., are especially benefited by consulting its contents. Everything such sufferers wish to know is fully given in its pages. If in need of medical aid or counsel, read it before "doctoring" or investing in medicines or appliances of any description, and you will save time, money and disappointment. If using medicine or medical treatment of any kind, read it and learn the better way.

THE REVIEW exposes the frauds practiced by quacks and medical impostors who profess to "practice medicine," and points out the only safe, simple and effective road to health, vigor and bodily energy.

Electric Belts and all curative appliances are treated upon; all about them—which are genuine, which are bogus. Belts on thirty days trial (?) and other fallacies reviewed. Thousands of dollars saved nervous-debility sufferers and others by the advice given. THE REVIEW is now in its ninth year of publication. Complete specimen copies mailed FREE. Address, naming this paper,

Publishers REVIEW, 1164 Broadway, New York.

☞ Apply now or preserve our address, as you may not see this notice again.



MARCH, APRIL, MAY

Are the three arches of a bridge which bind the season of ice to that of roses. SPRING IS A TRYING TIME for invalids. At this time you should seek to cleanse and purify your system from humors. If you are vexed with indigestion, headache, want of appetite, disordered liver and kidneys, constipation, or feverish skin, take DR. D. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY to

PURIFY THE BLOOD

Without an hour's delay. It is mild, quick and positive in action. Keep it in the house when you are at home, for the blood, and take it with you on journeys. You will find it cheaper than sickness, and as pleasant to take as the hand of a friend. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to the sex, FAVORITE REMEDY proves a real blessing.

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S "FAVORITE REMEDY." SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS. $1 per Bottle; 6 for $5.00.

MADE BY DR. DAVID KENNEDY, RONDOUT, N. Y.

FOR COUGHS, CROUP AND CONSUMPTION USE

TAYLOR'S CHEROKEE REMEDY OF SWEET GUM AND MULLEIN.

The Sweet Gum from a tree of the same name growing in the South, Combined with a tea made from the Mullein plant of the old fields. For sale by all druggists at 25 cents and $1.00 per bottle. WALTER A. TAYLOR, Atlanta, Ga.

EPITHELIOMA!

OR SKIN CANCER

For seven years I suffered with a cancer on my face. Eight months ago a friend recommended the use of Swift's Specific, and I determined to make an effort to procure it. In this I was successful, and began its use. The influence of the medicine at first was to somewhat aggravate the sore; but soon the inflammation was allayed, and I began to improve in the first few bottles. My general health has greatly improved. I am stronger, and am able to do any kind of work. The cancer on my face began to decrease and the ulcer to heal, until there is not a vestige of it left—only a little scar marks the place.

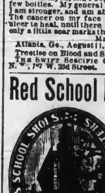
MRS. JOSIE A. McDONALD.

Atlanta, Ga., August 11, 1885.

Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed free.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Drawer 3, Atlanta, Ga. N. Y., 157 W. 23d Street.

Red School House Shoes.



HENDERSON'S School Shoes for Boys and Girls are solid and attractive. They will not disappoint you.

☞ BEWARE of IMITATIONS! They are shoddy frauds. Any manufacturer, jobber or retail dealer, who offers for sale a Shoe with a picture of a school house placed upon the sole thereof (which is not made by C. M. Henderson & Co., Chicago) is liable to prosecution.

☞ Look for the Little "Red School House" and see that Henderson's name is on the label before you buy. Send for a set of our fancy School Cards.

BEST ORGANS ON the EASY PAYMENT PLAN.

MASON & HAMLIN

Now sell their unrivaled Organs on the easy hire system, payments at the rate of $3.25 per month, up. 100 styles, $22 to $900. Send for Catalogue with full particulars, mailed free.

Also the Mason & Hamlin Improved Upright Pianos, new method of stringing.

MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN AND PIANO CO., BOSTON, NEW YORK, CHICAGO.

GEN. LOGAN'S Book. A BONANZA For good Agents. Write AT ONCE for territory. A. R. HART & CO., Publishers, 16 Murray Street, New York City.

FREE FARMS IN SUNNY SAN LUIS.

The most Wonderful Agricultural Park in America. Surrounded by prosperous mining and manufacturing towns. FARMER'S PARADISE! Magnificent crops raised in 1885. THOUSANDS OF ACRES OF GOVERNMENT LAND, subject to pre-emption & homestead. Lands for sale to actual settlers at $3.00 per Acre. Long Time. Park irrigated by immense canals. Cheap railroad rates. Every attention shown settlers. For maps, pamphlets, etc., address COLORADO LAND & LOAN CO., Opera House Block, Denver, Colo. Box, 2890.

Petroleum V. Nasby's Latest!

D. R. Locke (Petroleum V. Nasby), editor Toledo Blade, telegraphs, "I had on a forefinger of my right hand one of those pleasant pets, a 'run-round.' The finger became inflamed to a degree unbearable and swollen to nearly twice its natural size. A friend gave me HENRY'S CARBOLIC SALVE. The inflammation left the finger in a day. I consider it a most valuable article." Ask for Henry's.

No Rope to Cut Off Horses' Manes.

Celebrated "ECLIPSE" HALTER and BRIDLE Combined, can not be slipped by any horse. Sample Halter to any part of the U. S. free, on receipt of $1. Sold by all Saddlery, Hardware and Harness Dealers. Special discount to the Trade. ☞ Send for Price-List. J. C. LIGHTHOUSE, Rochester, N. Y.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is the Best, Easiest to Use, and Cheapest.

CATARRH

Also good for Cold in the Head, Headache, Hay Fever, &c. 50 cents.

FIG CULTURE, NORTH.

Send 10c. for 20 p. Guide giving an Easy and Practical plan for the successful cultivation of this most delicious and profitable of all fruits for the North. Yields from 250 to 400 bu per acre, 4 years from planting. Also the Melon Shrub, most wonderful fruit, and large collection of Rare Tropical Fruits, Plants, Flowers and Seeds. MARTIN BENSON, Swanwick, Perry County, Ill.

MUSTANG

Survival of the Fittest.

A FAMILY MEDICINE THAT HAS HEALED MILLIONS DURING 35 YEARS!

MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT.

A BALM FOR EVERY WOUND OF MAN AND BEAST!

The Oldest & Best Liniment EVER MADE IN AMERICA.

SALES LARGER THAN EVER.

The Mexican Mustang Liniment has been known for more than thirty-five years as the best of all Liniments, for Man and Beast. Its sales to-day are larger than ever. It cures when all others fail, and penetrates skin, tendon and muscle, to the very bone. Sold everywhere.

Superior Nutrition the Life.

IMPERIAL GRANUM

THE GREAT MEDICINAL FOOD.

THE WORLD RENOWNED SALVATOR FOR INVALIDS AND THE AGED, AN INCOMPARABLE ALIMENT FOR THE GROWTH AND PROTECTION OF INFANTS AND CHILDREN, A SUPERIOR NUTRITIVE IN CONTINUED FEVERS AND A RELIABLE REMEDIAL AGENT IN ALL DISEASES OF THE STOMACH AND INTESTINES

SOLD BY DRUGGISTS. SHIPPING DEPOT, JOHN CARLE & SONS, NEW YORK.

UT PROSIM

RADWAY'S PILLS! The GREAT LIVER and Stomach Remedy

For the cure of all disorders of the Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Kidneys, Bladder, Nervous Diseases, Loss of Appetite, Headache, Costiveness, Indigestion, Biliousness, Fever, Inflammation of the Bowels, Piles, and all derangements of the Internal viscera. Purely vegetable, containing no mercury, minerals or deleterious drugs.

Price, 25 cents per box. Sold by all druggists.

DYSPEPSIA!

DR. RADWAY'S PILLS are a cure for this complaint. They restore strength to the stomach and enable it to perform its functions. The symptoms of Dyspepsia disappear, and with them the liability of the system to contract diseases. Take the medicine according to directions, and observe what we say in "False and True" respecting diet.

☞ Send a letter stamp to DR. RADWAY & CO., No. 32 Warren Street, New York, for "False and True."

 Be sure to get RADWAY'S.

DR. RADWAY'S Sarsaparillian Resolvent,

Builds up the broken-down constitution, purifies the blood, restoring health and vigor. Sold by druggists. $1 a bottle.

RADWAY'S READY RELIEF.

For the relief and cure of all Pains, Congestions and Inflammations.

DR. RADWAY & CO., 32 Warren Street, N. Y.

DROPSY TREATED FREE.

DR. H. H. GREEN & SONS, Specialists for Eleven Years Past,

Have treated Dropsy and its complications with the most wonderful success; use vegetable remedies, entirely harmless. Remove all symptoms of dropsy in eight to twenty days.

Cure patients pronounced hopeless by the best of physicians.

From the first dose the symptoms rapidly disappear, and in ten days at least two-thirds of all symptoms are removed.

Some may cry humbug without knowing anything about it. Remember, it does not cost you anything to realize the merits of our treatment for yourself. In ten days the difficulty of breathing is relieved, the pulse regular, the urinary organs made to discharge their full duty, sleep is restored, the swelling all or nearly gone, the strength increased, and appetite made good. We are constantly curing cases of long standing, cases that have been tapped a number of times, and the patient declared unable to live a week. Give full history of case. Name sex, how long afflicted, how badly swollen and where, are bowels costive, have legs bursted and dripped water. Send for free pamphlet, containing testimonials, questions, etc.

Ten days' treatment furnished free by mail.

Epilepsy (fits) positively cured.

If you order trial, send 10 cents in stamps to pay postage. H. H. GREEN & SONS, M. Ds., 55 Jones Avenue, Atlanta, Ga.

I CURE FITS!

When I say cure I do not mean merely to stop them for a time and then have them return again, I mean a radical cure. I have made the disease of FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS a life-long study. I warrant my remedy to cure the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a Free Bottle of my infallible remedy. Give Express and Post Office. It costs you nothing for a trial, and I will cure you.

Address Dr. H. G. ROOT, 183 Pearl St., New York.

SEND YOUR ADDRESS ☞ The Programme of the SARATOGA SUMMER SCHOOL will be mailed to you free. Stern's School of Languages of New York City, 27 East 44th Street, New York.

CHEAPEST and BEST. Prices REDUCED.

Holman's New PARALLEL BIBLES!

Over 2 000 pages. Fully Illustrated. Agents Wanted. Circulars free. A. J. HOLMAN & CO., Phila.

FRENCH DECORATIVE ART DESIGNS.

New method of decorating Silks, Satins, Vases, Plaques, Lamp shades, etc. Can not be detected from hand painting. Easily applied. Send for price-list and full directions. HOFFMANN BROS., 185 Main Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

DYKE'S BEARD ELIXIR

Forces luxuriant Mustache, Whiskers, or hair on bald heads in 20 to 30 days. Extra Strength, Quick, Safe, Sure. No other remedy. 3 or 3 Pkgs. does the work. Will prove it or forfeit $100.00. Price per Pkg. with directions sealed and postpaid 25 cts. 3 for 50 cts. stamps or silver. Smith Mfg. Co., Palatine, Ills.

SOLDIERS NEW LAWS; Officers' pay from commissions; Deserters relieved; Pensions and Increase; experience 20 years; success or no fee. Write for circulars and laws. A. W. McCORMICK & SON, Cincinnati, Ohio.

OPIUM Habit, Quickly and Painlessly cured at home. Correspondence solicited and free trial of cure sent honest investigators. THE HUMANE REMEDY COMPANY, Lafayette, Ind.

FREE A book worth $10, on & Courtship, sent free by the Union Pub Co., Newark, N.J. Send stamps for post'g. LOVE

CANCER Treated and cured without the knife. Book on treatment sent free. Address F. L. POND, M.D., Aurora, Kane Co., Ill.

FINE Blooded Cattle, Sheep, Hogs, Poultry, dogs for sale. Catalogues with 150 engravings free. N. P. Boyer & Co., Coatesville, Pa.

TELEGRAPHY Learn here and earn good pay. Situations furnished. Write VALENTINE BROS., Janesville, Wis.

$250 A MONTH. Agents Wanted. 90 best selling articles in the world. 1 sample FREE. Address JAY BRONSON, DETROIT, MICH.

A.N.K.—E. 1076

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOLUME XI. BURLINGTON, KY., WEDNESDAY, APRIL 7, 1886. NUMBER 22.

SPRING FLOODS.

Chattanooga in Darkness and 5,000 People Driven from Home.

Heavy Washouts on the Railroads—Charleston, W. Va., Half Submerged.

CHATTANOOGA, TENN., April 2.—The flooded territory has been largely increased today, and at 8 p. m. the river reached fifty-two feet, and is rising an inch an hour. The river has been falling all day at Loudon, Rockwood, Dayton and Charleston, and it is expected to reach its maximum at this point before morning. No gas and no electric lights, no water in the reservoirs, and the river still raising, is the situation to-night. It is estimated that five thousand people are homeless in this city, though they all have comfortable temporary quarters, and relief committees are supplying the necessities of life. The Fifth Ward is completely under water, and hundreds of crafts of every description are passing to and fro from Market street railroad crossing to Lookout Mountain and Missionary Ridge. The water now stands a foot deep in the Union Passenger Depot, and has entered the lower floors of the Reed House and some stores on Market street. The express companies have moved to higher quarters, and at this writing the water lacks eleven inches of entering the Times counting-room, which is about the average height of all the stores on Market street. A colored man and a white child were drowned today. The city is policed to-night by the military. All the railroads on the Chattanooga side of the river are under water, in some places ten feet. Heavy washouts have occurred on the Cincinnati Southern and Western and Atlantic roads. All roads report that their lines are open except about Chattanooga; and in consequence, no connections can be made.

CHARLESTON, W. VA., April 2.—The flood in the Kanawha and Elk rivers, which resulted in submerging half the city, began receding early this morning. It is hard to tell what damage has been done to property by the high water.

LIGHTNING JUSTICE.

An Embezzler Gets Into the Penitentiary in Forty-Eight Hours From Canada.

CHICAGO, April 2.—Speedy justice was meted out to Charles Stephens in Judge Collins' Court this morning. Stephens is an old man, who for fifteen years was in the employ of the Wilmington & Vermilion Coal Company, of this city. Fifteen months ago he absconded, and investigation showed that he had embezzled $21,000 from the company. All efforts to capture the fugitive were fruitless, and it was believed he had gone to Canada. This theory proved correct, for last Tuesday the company he had robbed received a letter from him dated in Canada, saying that he was penniless and alone, and rather than remain another year in Canada he desired to return, plead guilty to his crime and receive his punishment. He announced his intention of starting at once for the United States. The company sent two Pinkerton detectives to Detroit to meet him. On Wednesday they arrested him; on Thursday he was brought to this city and indicted by the grand jury; this morning he pleaded guilty before Judge Collins and was sentenced to three years' imprisonment in Joliet, and this afternoon he was taken to the penitentiary.

A PARALLEL TO THE OREGON.

Strange Accident With Loss of Life On the Pacific Coast.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—The schooner J. H. Congdon was wrecked off Point Reyes, forty miles north of here, Wednesday. Her crew was lost. The coast there is of a dangerous character. The supposition was that the vessel had struck a hidden rock. An examination of the wreck showed that the schooner had been struck amidships and cut almost in two, evidently by a steamer or other craft going at a high rate of speed. The discovery has caused much excitement in marine circles, as it is feared the unknown vessel which sunk the schooner has gone to the bottom with all on board. The wreck occurred before daylight. The case furnishes a strange parallel to the loss of the Oregon. The Aquina is supposed to have been the vessel in collision.

Double Murder and Lynching.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—A double murder followed by the lynching of two men is reported from Southern California. Wednesday evening Peter Hermlae and his son, armed with rifles, approached the premises of Eugene Walker, in Arroyo Grande Valley, San Luis Obispo County, and without a word opened fire upon Walker, who, with his wife and child, was in the garden. Walker fell dead. Mrs. Walker, though shot through the arm and breast, picked up her child and ran to a neighbor's, where she died. The murderers were captured and jailed. Soon after midnight a gang of masked men took the prisoners out and hanged them to a railroad bridge near by, where the bodies were found yesterday. A dispute about land was the cause of the crime.

Disastrous Explosion.

CHICAGO, April 2.—An explosion occurred at an early hour this morning in the new tank house of Swift & Co., the packing firm. The house was a new three-story brick building located on Center avenue, near Forty-fifth street. One of the immense tanks containing putty oils mysteriously blew up, completely wrecking the building. The night watchman, David Morefield, was on the third floor at the time, and he was buried in the ruins. He was rescued in about half an hour, and was in an almost unconscious condition. He was taken to the county hospital, and may die. The loss on the building will be in the neighborhood of $12,000.

A Great Feat in Submarine Navigation.

ATHENS, April 2.—The naval officials continue to make private trials of the Nordenfelt submarine torpedo boat. Yesterday a torpedo boat, with four men on board, was submerged for six hours, and to-day it descended to a depth of thirty-five feet.

Preacher Robs His Bride.

CONCORD, N. H., April 2.—Rev. Wm. Hammond, of the Free-will Baptist Church, of Franklin, decamped Thursday morning with $3,000 belonging to a newly wedded bride. He was arrested in a Boston bank as he was cashing the check.

Banquet Disaster.

PHILADELPHIA, April 2.—At the annual commencement of Jefferson College to-day the degree of M. D. was conferred on 223 graduates. While the graduates were gathering in Natatorium Hall, on Broad street, this evening to enjoy a banquet tendered by the Alumni Association, a temporary floor in the main body of the hall gave away, precipitating several of them into the basement, a distance of nine feet. John G. Goe, of Ohio, was seriously injured internally by a heavy piano falling across his breast. Bartholomew Zalls, of Texas, was badly injured.

Incorporation of Trades Unions.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Senator Call, from the Committee on Education and Labor, reported favorably Senator Blair's bill legalise the Incorporation of National Trades Unions, with amendments by the committee striking out the section making it a misdemeanor punishable by fine or imprisonment to prevent or endeavor to prevent any National or sub-Union from carrying out its lawful objects, and requiring that the headquarters of an incorported National Trade Union shall be in the District of Columbia.

On the Gallows.

LEXINGTON, MO., April 2.—Jeff Wilson, colored, was hanged to-day for the murder of Jennie Sanford, his mistress, in July, 1884. Five thousand people saw him die.

IS A CONFLICT IMPENDING?

Troops and Strikers Concentrating at Fort Worth, Tex.

FORT WORTH, TEX., April 4.—Saturday about noon an engine from Hodge, in charge of officers came steaming into the yards here. The officers were fired upon by strikers and two officers were fatally wounded and a third shot through the hip. The fire was returned and the conflict became general for a few minutes. Of the strikers so far as can be ascertained, only two or three were wounded. The strikers were driven off. Adjutant General King left Austin last night with two companies of State rangers. The mayor has at his command one company of militia at Cleburne and one at Dallas. Captain McMurry's company of rangers has left Barrold for Fort Worth, and thirty-five volunteers at Kaufman are holding themselves in readiness for instant service at the call of Sheriff Tarrant. Lieutenant Gibbs, who resides at Dallas, has been authorized by Governor Ireland to call out the three companies of State troops at Dallas, and two of them, the Hibernian Rifles and the Dallas Light Guards, left after midnight for Fort Worth; also a number of deputy sheriffs. These troops are in command of Lieutenant Colonel Turner, an officer who won distinction in the union army. The depot and yards at Fort Worth were guarded last night by over two hundred citizens, called into service by the mayor's proclamation, and the streets were patrolled by armed men. There was great fear of fire during the night and extra precautions were taken on that account. One hundred firemen were in waiting at the fire engine houses for any emergency, and the fires at the pumping stations were kept up to a high point all night. Offers of aid were sent from all surrounding points and engines were kept in readiness to be forwarded at a moment's notice. Strikers are arriving at Fort Worth from various outside points, and the statement is made that the Knights of Labor have determined that Fort Worth shall be the point where trains shall be stopped at all hazards, and that there they will win their battle. On the other hand it is said that the citizens of this city declare that the Missouri Pacific trains shall move, even though it costs scores of lives to accomplish it.

BIG RASCALITY DISCLOSED.

Indictment of Wealthy Californians for Timber Land Frauds on the Government.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 4.—The United States grand jury yesterday found indictments against eight prominent citizens of this State for subornation of perjury in the case of fraudulent entries of redwood timber land in Humboldt County, Cal. The names of three are Jos. Russ, David Evans and Charles H. King, who collectively represent $5,000,000 capital. The names of the other five are not yet known, but they are said to be all wealthy men. The Land Department at Washington had reason to suspect irregularities in the entry of these lands, and sent out Special Agent B. F. Bergen, of the Interior Department, to investigate the matter. The result of Mr. Bergen's investigation shows that the parties indicted are all members of the California Redwood Company, capital for which was mainly subscribed in Scotland. The indicted parties procured about six hundred American citizens to take up 160 acres of land each, for which each received fifty dollars. The entries were, in all cases, immediately conveyed to David Evans, one of the indicted parties. The California Redwood Company afterwards sent an agent to Scotland to form a syndicate and sell the lands. The syndicate paid the California Redwood Company $20 an acre for the land which, as shown, the latter had fraudulently purchased from the Government for $2 50 an acre. Mr. Bergen has passed three months in Humboldt County working up the case, and notwithstanding the numerous difficulties thrown in his way, has secured testimony from over one hundred persons who accepted the bribe. Suit will be instituted by the Government to set aside all these entries as well as the patents, which have already been issued. The land embraces 96,000 acres of the best redwood timber land on the coast.

Gladstone's Cabinet Strained.

LONDON, April 4.—A breaking up of the Cabinet is imminent. Lord Kimberley, Sir Wm. Harcourt, Mr. Childers and Mr. Mundella refuses to assent to any home rule measure giving Ireland control of the customs, and they threaten to resign if such a measure be insisted upon by Mr. Gladstone. Mr. Morley demands a modification of the plans for the buying out of the landlords. Mr. Gladstone, however, remains inflexible and will maintain his full scheme intact. Cabinet councils are to be held on Monday and Tuesday, and the climax will be reached on Tuesday. The Ministers themselves admit that an agreement seems improbable. Mr. Gladstone may make his statement Thursday without the approval of the Ministry.

Servant Girls in a Fire-Trap.

ST LOUIS, MO., April 4.—An inquest was held to-day on the bodies of the four servant girls who lost their lives at the Planters' House fire yesterday. The jury visited the scene of the fire, and in their verdict stated that the quarters for the servants were so arranged as to be virtually a fire-trap in case of a fire when the employes were asleep. The hotel is nearly half a century old, but on account of its favorable location and the reputation of its table has always had a large patronage from people who generally patronize only the best hotels.

Sam Jones Done With Chicago.

CHICAGO, April 4.—Sam Jones concluded his religious exhortations in Chicago today. In the morning he drew a large audience to Dr. Goodwin's church, and in the afternoon and evening the Casino Rink was filled an hour before the services began. Nearly ten thousand people were present at each of the services in the rink. The collections at both services were given to Messrs. Jones and Small, and with the salary guaranteed them in advance netted them $3,000 apiece for their four weeks' work.

The Ohio River.

CINCINNATI, April 4.—The Ohio river rose three and a half inches between 6 o'clock in the morning and 6 o'clock p. m. to-day, and came to a stand at a stage of 53 feet 8 inches. Below, the Miami and Kentucky rivers were rapidly rising, and there are swells above, but it is believed the Ohio will not go much, if any, higher at this point.

Journeymen Bakers Will Strike.

NEW YORK, April 4.—Five hundred journeymen bakers last night determined to strike on May 1 for twelve hours' work five days of the week, fourteen on Saturday, and to board where they choose.

Legatee of Mrs. Gaines Arrested.

NEW ORLEANS, April 4.—Mrs. Maria P. Evans, who figured conspicuously before the Courts as legatee of the estate of Mrs. Gaines, was arrested last night, charged with uttering a forged will, and lodged in jail, in default of $20,000 bail.

Counterfeiter Caught at Work.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH., April 4.—The sheriff, yesterday morning, arrested Nicholas Hall for counterfeiting, catching him at work. Hall wore a badge of the "Northwestern Detective Association," and claimed that he was after counterfeiters himself.

A Pot of Gold Plowed Up.

NASHVILLE, TENN., April 4.—A Union's Batesburg (S. C.) special says: Newberry County is greatly excited over the singular good fortune of Mr. Joe Coughman, a well-known farmer. While Mr. Coughman was plowing in his field, across the Saluda river, the plow turned up a quaint-looking old earthen pot. Upon examination, it was found to contain gold coin of some kind. Gathering up his new-found treasure, he wended his way to a Batesburg bank, and after the money had been carefully examined, the "find" was pronounced to be worth $12,000. The coin is old and quaint, and bears evidence of having come from different nations. How it found its way into the field or when it was deposited is not conjectured.

GREECE WILL FIGHT.

Expressions from Her War Minister Admit of No Other Expectation.

All the Powers Expect It and the Grecians Jubilant Over the Prospects.

ATHENS, April 5.—The Minister of War has returned from a tour of inspection of the frontier defenses. He expressed his delight to the various commanders at the efficiency of the works. Before leaving Arta he requested the officers to inform their men that they were destined to uphold the honor of Greece on the field of battle and would not return to their homes until that honor was satisfied. Great preparations are being made to celebrate the anniversary of Greek independence to-morrow. The trip of the War Minister and the expressions used by him are taken to indicate a speedy declaration of war.

LONDON, April 5.—Mr. Bryce, Under Foreign Secretary, replying to a question in the House of Commons this afternoon, said that Greece had not accepted the advice of the Powers as to the course she should pursue in her troubles with Turkey. He also said that the Government had no information which would enable them to say that Greece would refrain from war.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 5.—It is learned from official sources that the Powers are awaiting probable changes in the Greek Ministry before finally deciding to institute naval operations against Greece.

STRANGE DOUBLE TRAGEDY.

A Young Man of Eighteen Slays a Girl of Fifteen, Then Kills Himself.

MILWAUKEE, April 5.—In a two-story brick house, at the corner of Vliet and Sixth streets, was enacted, at an early hour this morning, the most unaccountable murder and suicide that probably ever occured in this city. Annie Rosenstein, a beautiful girl of fifteen years, while sleeping by the side of her little sisters, was shot and instantly killed by Isadore Seidenbaum, an eighteen-year-old friend of the family, who was enjoying their hospitality. The family occupies the lower floor of the house. About 1:30 o'clock Morris Rosenstein and his wife were awakened by the report of a revolver, followed quickly by a second shot. Mr. Rosenstein jumped from his bed and went into the kitchen for a light. Then he noticed that the door of the children's room was open. On entering, his eyes met a horrible spectacle. With the dead body of their sister beside them the four other children in the bed sat up and rubbed their eyes, ignorant of the terrible deed. Seidenbaum was in his night clothes and lay in a fallen position partially over the body of the murdered girl. Both were dead. Blood flowed from a wound in the side of the girl's head above the left ear, and from a hole in the breast of the young man. None of the relatives of the deceased could advance any theory as to the cause of the double tragedy.

WE WILL RETALIATE

If Canada Persists in Interfering with Our Fishing Vessels.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Secretary Bayard is to address a note to the British Government saying in diplomatic language that the United States will not allow interference with our fishing vessels by Canadian cruisers without retaliation. If our vessels are not allowed to enter Canadian ports to trade, our ports will be closed against the shipping of Canada. Recently one of our fishermen arrived at Halifax and tried to ship its cargo in bond to the United States and was refused. As Canada receives most of her imports during the winter through our ports it will be a very easy thing to even this matter up with the Dominion.

Quiet at Fort Worth.

NEW YORK, April 5.—The following dispatches were received this morning at the office of the Missouri Pacific Railway Company in this city:

"FORT WORTH, TEX., April 5.—Quiet prevails here this morning. Seven companies of State troops and one company of artillery have arrived from Galveston. They moved yesterday three trains south on the Missouri Pacific and two trains on the Texas Pacific. No resistance was offered either in the city or county. A good many strikers are arriving at Fort Worth from other places. The adjutant general is in charge of the troops, which consist of 326 men and two pieces of artillery."

The Ohio Flood.

CINCINNATI, April 5.—The Ohio river continued rising at Cincinnati, to-day, reaching 54 feet at 9 p. m., when it again came to a stand until 11 p. m., when it commenced rising at the rate of one-half inch an hour. It was snowing hard from Parkersburg to Cincinnati, with rain at Pittsburgh and other points. With all the upper tributaries full and many of them rising, indications point to another foot or two rise here before the flood disappears.

Kansas Wheat Much Damaged.

TOPEKA, KAS., April 5.—Secretary Sims, of the State Board of Agriculture, in his report for March, estimates the winter wheat area of Kansas at sixteen per cent. below that of the preceding year. The late snow and cold weather had a telling effect, and quite full reports clearly indicate that at least forty per cent. of the sowing has been killed. This loss will be heaviest in middle counties. The probable yield is estimated at eighty per cent.

The Mexican Pension Bill.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The Mexican Pension Bill passed by the House to-day provides for pensioning all surviving officers, soldiers and sailors who enlisted and served in the war with Mexico for any period during the years 1845, '46, '47 and 48 and who were honorably discharged, and their surviving widows, at the rate of eight dollars per month.

To Demand Eight Hours.

PITTSBURGH, PA., April 5.—At a meeting of the Cabinet-makers' Union last night, it was decided to demand a reduction in working hours on May 1, from ten to eight hours. The men who do piece work will demand an increase of twenty per cent. in wages.

Mrs. Coolidge Sentenced to Prison.

BOSTON, MASS., April 5.—In the Supreme Criminal Court, this afternoon, Mrs. Emma A. Coolidge, who recently pleaded guilty to conspiracy to murder young Mrs. Millen, was sentenced to three years in the Woman's Prison.

—To feel with and for others—what a glorious widening out and enriching of one's life that is! How it increases our joys because of the pleasure that we take in the joys of others! How it renders selfish brooding over our own woes impossible because of the sympathy we must give to the sorrows of others! Not generosity only, not kind-heartedness only, nor courtesy, nor unselfishness, nor keen perception, nor quick understanding—it is all these, and more than these.—N. Y. Ledger.

—There has lately been much newspaper discussion as to whether woodwork can be set on fire by steam-pipes. The possibility has been affirmed and denied; but several indisputable instances of fires originating in that way have been reported, and the question may be regarded as settled.—N. Y. Times.

—A Los Angeles paper claims that the three southernmost counties of this State are destined to become the future great rural hotel country of the United States, surpassing Florida. It certainly looks that way—only the hotel boom will not be confined to the limits assigned.—San Francisco Alta.

ANOTHER HITCH.

Striking Railroad Employes Refused Re-Employment.

ST. LOUIS, MO., April 1.—Under instructions from the Executive Board of Districts 101, 93 and 17, a committee from local Assembly 3,650 waited upon Master Mechanic Bartlett last evening at the Missouri shops, and tendered the services of the old shop employes. The men, they said, were ready to go to work this morning, and they desired to find out if they all would be taken back, and a list of fifty-two names was handed Mr. Bartlett, who, after scanning it, checked off seventeen of them as the names of the men whom he would employ. The others, he said, he would not take back. Attempts of a similar nature were made by committees of the strikers at prominent points all over the Gould system. In every instance the Executive Board claim that the committee received the same reply to their offers on the part of the strikers to return to work. The railroad officials stated, it is claimed, that they did not require the services of all their old employes; that they would not take them all back, and would use their own discretion in selecting. The ratio of the men that the road were willing to take back to the number who are on strike was, the Executive Board say, about the same all over the system—seventeen out of fifty, or thereabouts. Reports of these committees, received by telegraph, determined the Executive Board to issue their address this afternoon, and to continue the strike until the roads consent to take back all the strikers. The members of the boards want it distinctly understood that the Knights of Labor will all hang together; that one will not return to work without the others, and that the men who came out through sympathy with the members of District Assembly 101 must be supported before the strikers, in whose interest they went out, will consent to a settlement.

MOURNED AS DEAD.

A Man Returns to Claim an Inheritance After Forty-two Years' Absence.

WOOSTER, O., April 1.—James Henderson Hindman left his home in this county in 1844. Since that time he had been heard of in Indiana, Iowa and Wisconsin, until twenty years ago, when a report was received by friends here that himself and family had been murdered by Indians. The last time he was heard from he was a United Brethren minister, and it was supposed that he had gone among the Indians as a missionary. Several years ago an uncle of Henderson's, and a wealthy bachelor, died and bequeathed his nephew $400, as he supposed he was still alive. In settling up the estate the Court ordered the administrator to place the money bequeathed to Henderson in the county treasury, in case the heir should turn up. The other day it was ascertained that a Rev. Henderson resided in Minnetonka, Minn. He proved to be the missing heir, and has come to Wooster and received his inheritance. He is now seventy years old, and is pastor of the United Brethren Church at Minnetonka.

Public Debt Statement.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 1.—The following is a recapitulation of the debt statement issued to-day for the month of March:

Interest-bearing debt—
Bonds at 4½ per cent	$ 250,000,000 00
Bonds at 4 per cent	737,750,800 00
Bonds at 3 per cent	174,092,100 00
Refunding certificates at 4 per c	215,050 00
Navy Pension Fund at 3 per ct.	14,000,000 00
Pacific R. R. bonds at 6 per ct.	64,623,512 00
Principal	$1,240,681,462 00
Interest	11,832,323 00
Total	$1,252,513,785 00
Debt on which interest has ceased since maturity—
Principal	$5,367,865 00
Interest	204,095 00
Total	$ 5,571,960 00
Debt bearing no interest—
Gold dem'd & legal-tender notes	346,738,641 00
Certificates of deposit	11,925,000 00
Gold certificates	90,122,421 00
Silver certificates	90,775,643 00
Frac'al currency, less $8,375,934 estimated lost or destroyed	6,956,012 00
Principal	$ 546,517,717 00
Total debt, principal	1,792,567,044 00
Interest	12,036,418 00
Total	$1,804,603,463 00
Less cash items available for reduction of the debt	210,230,128 00
Less reserve held for redemption of United States notes	100,000,000 00
Total	$ 310,230,128 00
Total debt, less available cash items	$1,494,373,335 00
Net cash in Treasury	76,381,099 00
Debt, less cash in Treasury, April 1, 1886	$1,417,992,235 00
Debt less cash in Treasury March 1, 1886	$1,432,080,119 00
Decrease of debt during the month	$14,087,884 00
Cash in Treasury available for reduction of the debt—
Gold held for gold certificates actually outstanding	$90,775,643 00
Silver held for silver certificates actually outstanding	90,122,421 00
United States notes held for certificates of deposit actually outstanding	11,925,000 00
Cash held for matured debt and interest unpaid	17,404,284 00
Fractional currency	2,780 00
Total available for reduction of the debt	$ 210,230,128 00
Reserve fund—
Held for redemption of United States notes, acts of January 14, 1875, July 12, 1882	$100,000,000 00
Unavailable for reduction of the debt:
Fractional silver coin	$28,822,637 00
Minor coin	515,343 00
Total	$29,337,981 00
Certificates held as cash	$80,048,502 00
Net cash balance on hand	76,381,099 00
Total cash in Treasury as shown by Treasurer's general account	$ 495,997,711 00

Importation of Ostriches for Breeding.

GALVESTON, April 1.—The bark Praecis, which arrived here to-day from Port Natal, Africa, brought thirty-six ostriches, imported by C. J. Sketchly, of Los Angeles, Cal., for breeding purposes, and they are very large specimens, ranging to ten feet high.

Poisoned by Colored Stockings.

PETERSBURG, N. J., April 1.—Two weeks ago a young daughter of Jacob Niper walked a distance of two miles, wearing new shoes and red stockings. The shoes were tight and greatly irritated her feet. Three days afterwards her feet began to swell, and three days afterward still both legs were swollen to nearly twice their natural size, and the girl's mind became affected. Yesterday she was attacked with spasms, which continued for some time at intervals of from five to ten minutes. She died in great agony. Blood poisoning, induced by the coloring matter in the stockings is supposed to have caused death.

Flooded Tunnels.

TROY, N. Y., April 1.—Floods in the vicinity of Pownal, Vt., have raised the Hoosac river to such a height that the Troy and Boston track is to-day covered with five or six feet of water and debris. No trains can get through and the company's wires are all down. Landslides along the east bank of the Hudson have considerably retarded travel between Troy and Albany.

The Flood at Chattanooga.

CHATTANOOGA, TENN., April 1.—One-third of this city is under water from the Tennessee river flood. Four hundred families have been driven from their homes. No trains running.

A Foot of Snow on April 1.

DETROIT, MICH., April 1.—The Evening Journal's Ishpeming special gives particulars of the snow blockade in the Upper Peninsula: In addition to the heavy snow already on the ground, twelve inches fell last night, and every thing is at a standstill. Trains are unable to move, and work in the lumber woods has been abandoned.

One Life Protected by 100,000 Men.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 1.—The Czar and the members of his court started for the Crimea to-day. The utmost precautions have been taken for their protection. The railway route over which the party will pass will be guarded by 100,000 men.

XLIXTH CONGRESS.

First Session.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—SENATE.—A resolution was agreed to calling for certain information from the Interior Department in reference to the proposed removal of the Spokane Indians from their reservation. The Army bill was taken up and discussed by Messrs. Logan and Teller. Mr. Platt addressed the Senate on the Washington Territory bill. Mr. Voorhees introduced a bill for the admission of Montana as a substitute for his former bill, the new measure being an enabling act.

HOUSE.—Mr. Guenther rose to a question of privilege, and denied he had any understanding with the Postmaster General or the Speaker in regard to his appointment on the Committee on Post-offices and Post-roads. Several committee reports were received. Consideration of the bill to regulate the compensation and duties of U. S. Attorney, Marshals and Commissioners was resumed. Pending action the morning hour expired. The Post-office appropriation bill was discussed. During the debate there was an exchange of compliments between McMillin and Houk, of Tennessee, the former expressing the opinion that there were better men than the latter in the penitentiary, while the latter had no doubt that his colleague's superiors had been hanged in prison.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—SENATE—A petition was presented praying for a pension for an ex-soldier discharged from the revenue service in Georgia on account of politics. Mr. Logan's bill to increase the efficiency of the army was taken up and considered. Speeches were made by Messrs. Logan and Plumb. At 2 o'clock Mr. Vance began his speech against civil service reform. The bill for the admission of Washington Territory was taken up and supported by Mr. Dolph.

HOUSE—The arbitration bill was reported from the Committee on Labor. Speeches were made by O'Neill, (Mo.) Kelley, (Pa.) Buchanan, (N. J.) Foran, (O.) Hammond, (Ga.) Weaver, (Ia.) Reed, (Me.) Brumm, (Pa.) Daniels, (Va.) Glover, (Mo.) Reagan, (Tex.) McAdoo and Dingley. (Mo.) Notice was given that a vote would be taken to-morrow at 3 o'clock. The river and harbor bill was reported. The Hurd-Romeis case was reported adversely by Mr. Turner (Ga.) who gave notice that action would be tried for next week. Randall submitted the ordinance report from the special commission considering the subject. At 5:10 p. m. the House adjourned.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—SENATE.—A bill was favorably reported to erect a monument to Abraham Lincoln at Washington, and passed. A discussion of Logan's army bill was set for Monday next. The Washington Territory bill was debated by Senators Dolph, Morgan and Frye, and the Senate adjourned after executive session until Monday.

HOUSE.—In committee of the whole, with Mr. Springer (Ill.), in the chair, a general debate was had on the labor arbitration bill. Gibson (W. Va.), Crain (Tex.), Worthington and Cannon (Ill.), Tarsney (Mich.), Anderson (Kan.), Warner and O'Neill (Mo.), Osborn and Kelley (Pa.), Long (Mass.), Hammond (Ga.), and Lowry (Ind.), participated. Pending a vote on the measure the House adjourned.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—SENATE.—No session.

HOUSE.—On motion of Mr O'Neill (Mo.) private business was dispensed with—yeas, 115; nays, 71—and the House went into committee of the whole (Mr. Springer (Ill.) in the chair) on the Labor Arbitration bill, all debate on the first section being limited to thirty minutes. Mr. Foran (O.) offered an amendment providing that if, on the written proposition of either party to the controversy to submit the differences to arbitration, the other party shall refuse, the party submitting the proposition may request a Judge of a United States District Court to appoint an arbiter. He regarded the bill in its present shape as an entering wedge for the enactment of such legislation in future as would crush out organized labor. Thorough organization, and organization alone, the laboring men of this country could work out their salvation, and he was willing to leave this question and all questions of this character of organized labor. Mr. Dibble (S. C.) offered an amendment providing that the Commissioner of Labor on the request of either party to a controversy, shall order an investigation to be made. The Bureau of Labor, he said, had been ignored in the great emergency. The purport of his amendment was to make the Commissioner of Labor a factor in gathering information. Mr. Negley (Pa.) offered an amendment providing that the Board of Arbitration shall inquire into the practices of certain railroad companies of maintaining a company system of life insurance to evade the payment of damages for loss of life through negligence or otherwise. The amendments were all voted down. First and second sections of the bill were modified and agreed to. They provide for a Board of Arbitration which shall possess the power belonging to United States Commissioners appointed by the Circuit Court of the United States, but in no case shall any witness be compelled to disclose the secrets or produce the records or proceedings of any labor organization of which he may be an officer or member; and any order finding, conclusion or award made by a majority of the arbitrators shall be of the same force and effect as if all the arbitrators concurred therein or united in making the same. The House, at its evening session, passed thirty-five pension bills and adjourned.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—SENATE—No session.

HOUSE.—Mr. Robertson, of Kentucky, submitted the minority report of the Committee on Elections in the contested election case of Hurd vs. Romeis. Mr. James, of New York, called up the adverse report on the free silver coinage bill, but Mr. O'Neil raised the question of consideration and called up the labor arbitration bill. By a vote of 89 to 125 the silver bill was laid aside. All amendments and substitutes proposed for the arbitration bill were rejected, except one by Mr. Warner, of Missouri, fixing the rate of compensation of the members of the arbitration tribunal at ten dollars per day, and prescribing the allowance for employes and witnesses. The bill was finally reported and passed—Yeas 195, nays 30. The Bland silver bill was then taken up for debate and continued throughout the evening session.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—SENATE.—A resolution was agreed to appointing Mr. Sherman and Mr. Harrison to fill vacancies in the Committee on Foreign Relations. Mr. Platt submitted certain amendments to his resolution relating to executive sessions, which he proposes to call up Wednesday or Thursday. A resolution was agreed to calling for information as to the names of persons employed by the Interior Department in folding and distributing public documents. A joint resolution was submitted for the appointment of a joint committee, to consist of three Senators and five members, to consider the subject of a celebration in 1889, at Washington, of the centennial anniversary of the formation of the Government under the Constitution, and also of the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America in 1892. It went over. The army bill was debated. Mr. Plumb speaking in opposition. Mr. Frye took the floor and injected a speech on the fishery question. Mr. Cockrell followed against the bill. Mr Logan supported the measure. At 4:40 p. m. the Senate went into executive session, and at 5:30 p. m. adjourned. Notice was given before adjournment that the Fitz John Porter bill would be called up Monday, April 18.

HOUSE.—Bills and resolutions were introduced until the call of States. Among these was one for the appointment of a joint committee to consider the subject of a centennial celebration at Washington in 1889, extending the free delivery system, reducing letter postage to one and a half cent and postal cards to half a cent, resolutions on the fisheries question, for the appointment of a committee to investigate the Carrollton massacre. At the conclusion of the call of States, Mr. Morrison reported amendments to certain rules. The House by a vote of 158 to 68, passed the Mexican pension bill under a suspension of the rules. By a similar motion the Senate bill for the relief of settlers in Nebraska and Kansas was passed. The following bills were also passed under suspension of the rules: For the erection of a public building at Duluth, Minn.; for the purchase of addition ground at Ft. Wayne, Ind.; for the erection of a Congressional library building on the site east of the Capitol, $1,650,000; a Senate bill for public building at San Antonio, Tex.

—Our horse-cars furnish fruitful matter for the observing mind. A lady got into one of the vehicles mentioned with a little girl about four years old, and said to the child after they were seated: "Will you remember to say after we get home: 'I was regaled with a slight repast and given a souvenir of my visit?'" "Yes, ma'am," answered the little one, as she repeated the words after her mentor. Think of the little "tot" giving utterance to such a speech and astonishing the household with her precocity!—Boston Budget.

—Alexander G. Drake, a colored carpenter, of Louisville, is very successful in his temperance work among the colored people of Kentucky. The pledge by which he binds his converts for three months, a year, or for life is very effective. It reads: "I do sincerely hope, if I drink beer or whisky until [date named here], without being considered sick, that bad luck may be mine the remainder of my life, so help me God." Drake was once a slave.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

—During last winter no less than one hundred children were burned to death in Georgia.

THE COMMONWEALTH.

Louisville Leaf Tobacco Market.

Dark and heavy styles have been dull and depressed for common to medium lugs and low leaf, with medium leaf steady, and the grades above firm. Tobaccos of substance when in sound order have been in sellers' favor, while wrapping and long leaf has been irregularly higher.

We quote 1885 tobaccos as follows for full weights and sound packages:

	Dark and Heavy.	Burley.
Trash	$2 00@ 3 00	$3 25@ 4 00
Common lugs	3 00@ 3 75	4 00@ 5 00
Medium lugs	3 75@ 4 25	5 25@ 5 75
Good lugs	4 25@ 4 50	6 00@ 7 00
Common leaf	4 50@ 5 00	6 25@ 7 00
Medium leaf	5 00@ 6 00	7 50@ 9 25
Good leaf	7 00@ 8 00	9 50@12 25
Selections	9 00@10 50	13 00@15 00
Burley wrappers	[illegible]	15 00@18 00

Proceedings of the Legislature.

FRANKFORT, March 29.—SENATE.—A number of bills were passed, among them: House bill providing for and regulating the holding of Examining Courts, and fixing the fees and jurisdiction of same. Jefferson County excepted. House bill to make the game law of 1876 apply to McCracken County. House bill amending Sections 6 and 8, of Chapter 70, of General Statutes, as far as McCracken County is concerned. House bill fixing the pay of magistrates in Pulaski County sitting as Court of Claims. House bill regulating the license tax on theaters, circuses, etc., in the State. Bill regulating the fees of pro tem. Circuit Judges and Commonwealth attorneys, providing that such pro tem. officers shall receive $7 per day for such services, to be paid out of the salary of the regular officers. A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

HOUSE.—In the House this morning a resolution requesting the Governor to withdraw the troops from Greenwood was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, which virtually kills the resolution. The Revenue bill was then taken up, and discussed to the end of the session.

FRANKFORT, March 29.—SENATE.—Bills passed of general interest: House bill ceding Salt river to the Federal Government; bill amending the school law of this State, requiring teachers to teach the deleterious physiological effects of alcohol and opiates; House bill providing for public school in Pikeville, in Pike County; House bill authorizing Harlan County to raise money to build a court-house. Resolution establishing a State Arbor Day. A resolution was offered and made a special order for Friday to appropriate $5,000 to remove the remains of Humphrey Marshall to Frankfort and erect a monument to his memory.

HOUSE.—Bills passed: To authorize county courts to appoint special administrators for the collection and distribution of French and Spanish spoliation claims; regulating the sale of lightning rods in this commonwealth; for the benefit of the Kentucky Institution for the education of deaf mutes at Danville. The bill appropriates $2,000 to furnish the school rooms, and $1,000 annually for tools, machinery, etc., and a competent engineer and foreman. A bill to permit defendants in all criminal and penal cases to testify; incorporating the West Kentucky and Tennessee Railroad Company; incorporating the Young Men's Mutual Life Association of Kentucky; authorizing Louisville city council to pay judges of their chancery, equity and common pleas court $2,000 each annually in addition to the salary now paid by the State; amending the charter of the city of Dayton, in Campbell County. It increases the jurisdiction of the mayor, creates the office of chief of police, establishes a board of education, and empowers said board to issue bonds to the amount of $13,000.

FRANKFORT, March 30.—SENATE.—Bills passed: House bill amending city charter of Louisville; House bill for benefit of the sheriff of Elliott County; House bill incorporating the Grand Lodge of the United Order of Friendship. The House bill repealing the bill establishing the State Board of Equalization was then called up and discussed till the end of the session. Senator Bell's Telephone bill is meeting with much opposition from the telephone companies. The bill is modeled after the Indiana bill, and if passed the telephone companies say they will withdraw all their instruments in this State, as they expect to do in Indiana. This bill may be reported favorably by the committee and will probably pass.

HOUSE.—In the House to-day the bill appropriating $120,000 to complete the branch penitentiary at Eddyville was passed.

FRANKFORT, March 31.—SENATE.—The special committee on the Greenwood Mine trouble made their report without the assistance of the short-hand testimony, and Mr. Allen can now sell his papers to the highest bidder if he so chooses. The bill abolishing the State Board of Equalization was again discussed and finally referred to the Judiciary Committee, which is considered favorable to the retention of the board.

HOUSE.—Mr. Winn's resolution to adjourn April 26 was indefinitely postponed by a large majority, which means that May 10 will find the Legislature still in session. The revenue bill occupied the rest of the session.

FRANKFORT, April 1.—SENATE.—A resolution providing that the pay of members shall cease when they are not on duty was passed. The committee appointed to investigate the Eastern Lunatic Asylum, and the charges against the superintendent, presented a report sustaining the superintendent and approving the management of the institution. The report was ordered printed. The resolution passed several days ago fixing April 8 as the day for final adjournment was reconsidered, and the resolution was laid on the table. Senator Alford offered a joint resolution to adjourn April 15 and reassemble next November for a thirty days' session. It will come up to-morrow.

HOUSE.—Consideration of the Revenue Bill was resumed. The chapter under consideration was the one devoted to the collection of the revenue. In it, it is stipulated that the sheriff shall execute bond to collect the taxes, and if he fail to do so he shall forfeit his office and be fined $500. His bond to be executed on or before the first Monday in January succeeding his election, and annually thereafter. He shall on the first day of May and every sixty days thereafter report to the Auditor the amount of taxes he has collected and pay over the same. The sheriff shall be allowed by the Auditor the following commission upon sums collected: Upon the first $5,000, 10 per cent.; on the second $5,000, 8 per cent.; on the third $5,000, 6 per cent.; on the fourth $5,000, 5 per cent., and all above $20,000, 4 per cent. The chapter is very lengthy, and adjournment left it in an unfinished condition

FRANKFORT, April 2.—SENATE.—Several local bills were passed. The House bill appropriating $122,500 to complete the branch penitentiary at Eddyville, and providing for a special tax of three and a half cents on the $100 to raise said amount was passed. Bills vetoed by the Governor: Incorporating the Ohio, Kentucky and Virginia Railroad; Incorporating the Hopkinsville Branch Railroad; Incorporating the Madison and Southeastern Railroad Company. The reason given is that they are exempted from taxation for a certain period, and therefore not in accord with the Constitution.

HOUSE—The Thompson bill to define the law under which the Governor is authorized to call out the militia was reported by Mr Shacklett, from the Committee on Military Affairs. It was discussed for a while, and pending a motion to table, further consideration was cut off by the revenue bill, which was reported and considered until adjournment.

Miscellaneous Items.

GEO. PRITCHETT, a prominent citizen of Corydon, while arranging the bridle on his horse slipped and fell, the animal became frightened, and before Mr. Pritchett could regain his feet the horse stepped upon his abdomen and breast, inflicting several ugly-looking wounds. Mr. Pritchett was out on the street again a day or two after, and after walking several blocks he fainted and was carried to a store near by, where medical attention was called. He was found to be in a dying condition from the effects of his injuries.

THE President has nominated Mrs. Jamesetta H. Dixson as postmistress at Harrodsburg.

GOVERNOR KNOTT has pardoned O. D. Brown, sentenced to the penitentiary for fourteen years by the Woodford Circuit Court for killing George Freeman, Town marshal of Versailles, in June, 1883. The jury which convicted Brown reached a conclusion by casting lots, on which grounds it is said the pardon was granted.

J. CABELL BRECKINRIDGE, son of the late General John C. Breckinridge, has been nominated for Surveyor General of Washington Territory.

A POST-OFFICE has been established at Mortimer, Logan County, and M. T. Morgan appointed postmaster.

HON. JOHN HARGIS, father of Judge Tho. F. Hargis, died at Morehead, aged eighty eight years. He had been failing for months past, and death was the result of old age and debility. Mr. Hargis was one of the framers of the present State Constitution, and was at one time a prominent figure in the State Government.

An important meeting was held in Newport, relative to right of way for the Maysville and Big Sandy railroad, from Ashland to Cincinnati, about 140 miles. Every thing is favorable to the enterprise, which is by the Chesapeake and Ohio system

HE DEALT WITH FACTS.

The Dignified Senator from Vermont Laid on His Back by the Energetic Gentleman from Kentucky.

Senator Edmunds has never appeared to more disadvantage since the organization of the spoils-mongers' crusade against the Administration than he did in his little bout with Senator Beck, of Kentucky. Senator Beck has the habit of calling a spade a spade, and in a scrimmage his favorite weapon is the club. He has very little respect for Senatorial tradition, of which the Green mountain statesman is the self-constituted guardian, and none at all for the absurd notions of Senatorial dignity and consequence with which that eminent person is so tremendously inflated. The stalwart Kentuckian laid about him right and left with his bludgeon, knocking Senatorial dignity and Senatorial tradition into smithereens, exploding the gauzy fiction of Senatorial secrecy, and filling the proud Senatorial soul of the Vermont oracle with profound disgust. Senator Beck showed, by a plain statement of facts, the utter humbug and hypocrisy of the pretensions put forward by Senator Edmunds and his colleagues in support of their demand for the papers in the Duskin case. He declared that Duskin was notoriously an unfit man for the office from which he had been suspended by the President, and that the fact of his unfitness was known to no person better than to Senator Edmunds himself; that Duskin had been rejected by the Senate when originally nominated in March 1881, and that when again nominated in October of the same year Senator Edmunds, as chairman of the Judiciary Committee, had refused to report his name back for confirmation; that he had been nominated in all three times, and that there were papers now in the hands of the Judiciary Committee which abundantly justified Duskin's dismissal from the public service.

Senator Edmunds winced under this exposure of disagreeable facts, and made several unsuccessful attempts to choke off Senator Beck on the plea that he was violating the rules by betraying the "secrets" of the executive session. A pretty plea, indeed, to come from the man who has contended, in fine set phrase, that "there is no room for secrecy in the operations of a free Government!" But it had no effect upon the Kentuckian, who proceeded to demonstrate the absurdity of the theory of Senatorial secrecy by showing that all the facts as to the action of the Senate upon the Duskin case in executive session had been published in the newspapers of the country at the time of its occurrence. He concluded his onslaught upon the Edmunds cabal with the remark that "forty-parson power would not do justice to much of the hypocrisy that is now presented to the Senate in the pretenses of a desire to establish public justice." Subsequently in "secret session" the Senator moved that all the proceedings of the Senate (relative to the Duskin appointment) in March, 1881, October, 1881 and December, 1881, all papers before the Judiciary Committee, and all the proceedings of that committee be made public.

In the meantime it would be interesting to know what Senator Edmunds really and honestly supposes the country thinks of his performances regarding the Duskin matter, in the light of Senator Beck's astonishing revelations on the subject.—Chicago Times.

A WEAK NAVAL POWER.

The Work to Be Accomplished by the Present Democratic Congress.

The House Committee on Naval Affairs strongly approve and support the late very patriotic letter of Mr. Tilden on the subject of the necessity for the improvement of our coast defenses. Mr. Tilden declared that our coast towns were absolutely without defenses against a naval enemy, and that a third or fourth class naval power could, in the event of war, hold this country entirely within its power, or destroy millions of dollars of property without our being able to prevent it or to do any thing but look on.

The House Committee agree thoroughly with this view of the matter and particularize and point out just what minor power could step in, overthrow the American navy, inflict incalculable damage on our shipping and cast disgrace upon the Nation.

The Brazilian armed cruisers could run from Brazil to New York, pass its forts, or, if necessary, lie off Coney Island, far from the reach of any of our guns, and lay the metropolis in ashes. The little Republic of Chili, with less than one-twentieth the population of the United States, has no less than three vessels any one of which could bombard and reduce to ashes San Francisco or New York, and yet keep out of range of our guns.

There is no security here as long as this condition of affairs prevails. We are simply trusting that no trouble will ever arise with any other country, a Utopian trust that history should have cured us of. We are constantly threatened with National disgrace; indeed, our present relations with foreign powers is more or less affected by our defenseless condition. In our diplomatic relations with them there is always a lack of confidence, a fear of bringing about trouble, and these smaller powers have discovered our diplomatic timidity, appreciate the fact that this country is ill-prepared for a naval war, offensive or defensive, and are saucy and impertinent in consequence.

The Naval Committee wisely advise that work be begun at once on our coast defenses. It will render this country more independent and confident and restore its prestige and political influence abroad.—N. O. Times-Democrat.

——Congressman Henderson's attack upon the Southern members of Congress for their course in regard to pension bills was not justified by the facts. Many Northern votes are given for pension bills, not because they are just and reasonable, but for the purpose of securing the soldiers' votes. It is not uncommon for a Northern member to say in private company that the pension business has been overdone, but he may always be depended upon to vote for the next extension.—Boston Herald.

——Senator Edmunds is acknowledged to be an able lawyer. He has great strength as an advocate, and weak causes are frequently able to borrow a temporary vigor from his espousal. That is the whole measure of his success in his attempted defence of the indefensible attitute the Senate has taken with respect to executive prerogative. He has made his case strong enough for immediate partisan purposes.—Boston Statesman.

NO SLIPSHOD METHODS.

Does Not Believe in Disturbing Land Titles Already Acknowledged.

President Cleveland has given Congress two specimens of his ability in a field in which he distinguished himself particularly as mayor and Governor. His first two vetoes have been transmitted to Congress, and give evidence of the unwearying industry and painstaking care he bestows upon every subject that falls within the line of his duty. He explains, in a clear, exhaustive manner his objections to the bill to quiet settlers' titles on certain lands in Iowa, taking the position that the Government can not litigate private rights, and that the lands in question were remitted by the Government to the State of Iowa, and could not, therefore, be regarded as a portion of the public domain. The point at issue was fully settled years ago, and to reopen it now would only lead to endless strife and exhaustive law suits, in which the Government should not be made a party. The bill sought to destroy vested rights and to disturb interests which have long since become fixed.

The President says that it would be better to compensate the parties incurring losses caused by an invitation on the part of the Government to settle upon lands apparently public, than to attempt a disturbance of titles already acknowledged. He warns Congress against interfering with matters which should be left to judicial cognizance, and he expresses himself as unwilling to concur in legislation which touches too closely upon judicial power. In this he gives a proof of his attachment to constitutional principles, and reminds Congress that no ill-considered measures of legislation, however popular they may be in their application in certain cases, will receive favor at his hands. There has been a good deal of this legislation going on for some time past, especially in regard to land titles. It was by such means that the most notorious schemes of land-grabbers were carried through and honest settlers disturbed in their rights and deprived of their homes. President Cleveland's vetoes will be an intimation to Congress that every bill will be subjected to careful scrutiny and examination by the Executive, and that the slipshod methods hitherto in vogue have no place under the present Administration.—Albany Argus.

An Unpopular Body.

Outside of the Republican majority in the Senate no one saw sense or reason in the claim to ascertain the causes of suspension. From the first the people took the common-sense view that the President, intrusted with the administration of the Government, should have full control of his subordinate officials, and should be able in his discretion and in the interest of effective administration to remove them at pleasure. The position taken by Mr. Edmunds has all along seemed to them strained, far-fetched, illogical, unpractical and unconstitutional.

Now, they have seen the figment of a principle, for the sake of which Republican Senators were willing to make war on the President, disappear like a cob-web at the mere mention of that other figment known neither to the constitution nor the laws—the "courtesy of the Senate." They have seen the public business paralyzed and blocked by a debate which its promoters have covered with a taint of insincerity and bad faith. And in consideration of the Senate's easy neglect of the public interests and its readiness to enter on partisan projects, it is not to be wondered at that their feeling toward it should be one of distrust.

The Senate is not a popular body, either in its formation or its constitution. It has not in later years grown remarkably into public confidence. But this last episode is likely to attract attention to its peculiar methods. Indications are not wanting that reform might be useful within its sacred and secret conclaves. If Mr. Edmunds' keen and microscopic vision has not been wearied into dullness with its recent strain he might find scope for minute inspection nearer home.—Washington Post.

Jay Gould's Man.

The suggestion has been made, tentatively yet seriously, that Judge Stanley Matthews of the United States Supreme Court should be invited or assigned to sit with the circuit judge before whom the Government suit against the Bell Telephone Company is to be tried. This is in several respects a remarkable, and astounding proposition.

Why should Stanley Matthews be selected for any such special service? What are his antecedents? He bears imprinted on his forehead the brand of being Jay Gould's man. So notorious and offensive was the influence by which his nomination was originally procured that a Republican Senate refused to confirm it. It has never been disputed that his ultimate elevation to the bench was the equivalent for Mr. Gould's very liberal contribution to the Republican campaign fund. So much indignation did the fulfilment of the bargain provoke that Mr. Matthews himself deemed it advisable to publish a statement denying that he would be the pliant tool of Gould or Gould's corporations. Could any thing be more humiliating than the consciousness that such a denial was necessary, except the implication conveyed in the proposal that he should now assist at the trial of the Bell patents? Mr. Gould and Western Union are behind the Bell monopoly and they shamelessly essay to enforce their lien upon Stanley Matthews if they can do so. The project is monstrous in its unblushing audacity.—N. Y. Graphic.

"What Did Mary Say?"

The discovery that there were no papers filed in the Duskin case during the period covered by the Senate resolution calling for such papers recalls a legal "chestnut," which is old enough to be resurrected. It was in Judge Shaw's court in Boston. A witness on the stand was asked: "What did Mary say?" The question was objected to and the objection argued for four long hours. Counsel on the other side took four hours more in support of his right to ask the question. Then the objecting counsel took two hours to close. The judge, in a learned opinion of one hour's length—for the preparation of which he adjourned the court an entire day—decided that the question was a proper one, and that the witness might answer it. The witness did answer it, as follows: "Mary did not say any thing."—Detroit Free Press.

THE RECORDER.

WEDNESD'Y, APRIL 7, 1886.

RIDDELL & HALL,
Proprietors.

Rates of Subscription.

One year	$1 50
Six months	75
Three months	40

☞ Payment invariably in advance.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1 Column	1 year	$80
1	½ ''	40
1	¼ ''	20
½ ''	1 ''	20
¼ ''	½ ''	10
⅛ ''	¼ ''	6

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

Augest Election 1886.

For Circuit Judge

For Commonwealths Attorney

For Circuit Clerk
W. L. RIDDELL.

For County Judge
E. H. BAKER.

For County Attorney
S. W. TOLIN.

For County Clerk
M. T. GARNETT.

For Sheriff
J. R. CLUTTERBUCK.

For County Superintendent
J. P. RYLE.

For Surveyor
W. E. VEST.

For Jailer
SAMUEL COWEN.

For Assessor
G. M. RILEY.

For Coroner
Dr. A. A. MURAT.

THE past month was the coldest March in England for seventy years.

THE President has nominated J. C. Breckinridge, of Louisville, to be Surveyor General of Washington Territory.

CONGRESS has passed the bill to pension the Mexican soldiers, something which should have been done long since.

REPORTS from the winter wheat sections of the country are encouraging. The prospects at present are good for a fine crop in Tennessee, Kentucky, Missouri, Illinois and Kansas.

THE weather the past ten days has called a halt in farm work which was progressing so rapidly and satisfactorily, and many of the farmers becoming restless under the pressure of a suspension.

MR. B. T. Smith was elected Secretary of the Kentucky Trotting Breeders' Association at Lexington vice. Col. R. S. Strader, who resigned to accept a position as manager of Glenview Stock Farm.

THIS issue was delayed in order to obtain some official news in regard to the district candidates, but were unable to do so. From what has been heard Montfort and Gaunt are conceded to be the winning men.

A dispatch from Washington this week says that Revenue Collector Davison has sent in his resignation. Be this so we would like to see our countyman, Dr. E. L. Grant, renew his efforts to secure the position.

IT is said that with the exception of fourth-class postmasters, there are ten Republicans in office to one Democrat. If Mr. Blaine was President there would be eleven Republicans in office to "narry" Democrat.—Georgetown Times.

THE wheat and flour now on hand in this country is estimated as equal to 212,000,000 bushels of that grain. According to same estimates this will leave a surplus of 75,000,000 bushels on hand at the beginning of the next crop.

THE indications now are that the country lying along the Ohio river is to be inundated. Much of the bottoms is now under water and the river still rising. Lawrenceburg is in close quarters and some of the inhabitants are leaving the town.

IT is said that the people through the county are getting lonesome since they have been deprived of the affable smiles and hearty shakes of the corps of very agreeable gentlemen who have been meandering up and down the county for the last 3 months.

THE resolution passed by the House requesting the Governor to appoint an "Arbor Day," when every person will be reminded of his duty to plant a tree, is a wise and timely measure. The rapid destruction of our forests may be, in a great measure arrested, or least compensated for, by a proper observance of this day, and its practical suggestion.—Capital.

GOV. Knott has pardoned O. D. Brown, sentenced for fourteen years by the Woodford Circuit Court for killing George Freeman, Town Marshal of Versailles, in June, '83. The jury which convicted Brown reached a conclusion by casting lots, on which grounds it is said the pardon was granted.

SENATOR COOPER, of Wisconsin, who is a Republican, is opposed to the Civil Service law, and stated on the floor of the United States Senate that if President Cleveland had simply turned Republicans out of office because they were Republicans and put Democrats in their places simply because they were Democrats that no Republican Senator would have made war on his nominations. Senator Cooper seems to have a very correct notion as to how matters of this kind should be managed.—Georgetown Times.

THE Legislature has passed an act giving county judges exclusive jurisdiction as examining courts in all cases of homicide, and all such examining courts are to be held at county seats. In the absence of the judge the nearest justice of the peace to the county seat takes his place. The county judge shall not receive any fee for services rendered as an examining court. If a justice of the peace presides his fees are fixed at $2 for the first day and $1 for each day thereafter, but in no case can his fees exceed $4.

THE following sums have been agreed upon by the River and Harbor Committee for the improvement of Kentucky rivers: "Kentucky improvements of the southfork of Cumberland river, $5000; Kentucky river, $250,000; Trade Water river, $2,000; Ohio river, $500,000; harbor at Louisville, $200,000; Licking river, $25,000. The Secretary of War is authorized to institute proceeding to condemn, by process of law, the improvements on Green and Barren rivers if a satisfactory agreement as to price can not be made; Grand Chain, near Paducah, $50.000 Upper Cumberland, $100,000; Big Sandy, $40,000.

THERE is much comment and conjecture just now as to Mr. Cleveland's condition. That he is overworking himself is universally conceded. He brought to the labors of his office a much more robust vitality than Secretary Manning did, and there are no present indications that it has been seriously impaired. He remains a picture of health and energy, and goes about his daily labors with unflagging zeal. But the fact is that the President has gained more than forty pounds of flesh during the past year, and that little by little he has abandoned his habits of physical exercise, until now he rarely leaves the Executive Mansion. His mornings are given up to that most tiresome and monotonous of all work—receiving visitors. These people mob the Executive Mansion at all hours, go for every variety of reason, and occupy the President's time on every conceiable question.

As many people want to read the gambling bill, is it published:

Sec. 1. Be it enacted, etc., That whoever, with or without compensation, shall set up, carry on or conduct, or shall aid and assist in setting up, carrying on or conducting a keno bank, faro bank or other machine or contrivance used in betting whereby money or other things may be won or lost; or whoever for compensation, percentage or commission set up, conduct or carry on a game of cards, whereby money or other thing may be won or lost, or shall, with or without compensation, percentage or commission, aid and abet in setting up, conducting or carrying on a game so set up, carried on or conducted for compensation, percentage or commission, shall be fined $500 and costs and confined in the penitentiary not less than one nor more than three years; shall be deemed infamous after conviction and be forever thereafter disqualified from exercising the right of suffrage and from holding any office of honor trust or profit, whether it be state, county, city or municipal. The judgment of conviction in every case shall recite such infamy and disqualification, and shall not be valid without such recital. The provision of this section shall not include or be applicable to persons who play at such games, unless they take other part in setting up, conducting or carrying on such games. This act shall not apply to persons who may sell combinations or French pools on any regular race track during the races thereon.

Sec. 2. The change of the names of any of the games, tables, machines or contrivances included in this act shall not prevent the conviction of any person violating the provisions thereof.

Sec. 3. An indictment for violating the provisions of section 1 and 2 may charge the accused in one count with the commission of any or all of the offenses set forth in this act.

Sec. 4. Prosecutions for violations of this act may be had within five years after the commission of the offenses, but not later.

THE Republicans elected their entire ticket for city officers in Cincinnati, Monday.

OF GENERAL INTEREST.

—Navy blue and olive green are announced as the ruling colors of the day.

—A Washington dentist claims to have pulled an average of fifteen teeth every day for the last twenty years.

—"Marriages a specialty; acceptable at all hours; strangers particularly invited," is the unique advertisement of a clergyman at York, Pa.

—The Gambling Age is rapidly nearing its limits. Directly or indirectly all have suffered from its malign influences.—Jewish Messenger.

—A Memphis negro, after serving ten years in the Penitentiary for murder, called at the police station as soon as he was released and demanded the gun used by him in committing the crime.

—The deaths of three persons each more than one hundred years old, and the doings of five more who have also passed that age, were chronicled in a single issue of a New York paper the other day.

—The steamer Beaver, which was launched in 1835, is said to be the first steam vessel ever on the Pacific Ocean. The Beaver was recently inspected at Victoria, B. C., and pronounced perfectly sound.—San Francisco Call.

—Citizens of Washington can't vote for President, but when it comes to inaugurating one they can rent their front windows at fifty dollars apiece, and this goes a long way towards reconciling them to disenfranchisement.—Pittsburgh Commercial Gazette.

—Some people are born exceedingly lucky, as is shown in the case of a man from Hartford, Conn., who about five years ago, with a few hundred dollars, went to Kansas City and bought a small strip of land which afterward proved to be a sand bed. He bought a horse and cart and hired some shovelers; to-day his fortune is over a quarter of a million dollars.

—A Boston young man, while searching for his handkerchief at the theater, put his hand by mistake into the pocket of a young lady who was seated beside him, and whose best young man he was. This is the first instance on record where a man found a lady's pocket, and it must be borne in mind that this time he found it by mistake. There can be no one to suspect him of dishonesty, for had he wanted to find the pocket he would have failed.—Boston Herald.

—The cards for the wedding of Miss Gertrude Kingsland and Mr. E. O. Prescott at Baltimore have been withdrawn for cause. While Mr. Prescott was attending the inauguration ceremonies at Washington, Wallace Oliver, an old sweetheart of Miss Kingsland, called on her, and persuaded her to visit a minister's residence, where they were united in marriage. The woman has $20,000 in her right, and her husband, Oliver, is a dude of pronounced type, while Mr. Prescott is a wealthy dry goods merchant.—Baltimore Sun.

—Nottoway County, in Virginia, the region inhabited by the first settlers, is an old country made interesting by reminiscences of Captain John Smith and Pocahontas, but, deprived of all modern energy and industry, it is fast turning back to its primeval condition. "In twenty years it will be a wilderness," prophesies a visitor. The residents are old and sad. The young have gone to more promising regions. Deer browse where cattle fed, and the oak and pine cover great plantations where the negro once cultivated corn and tobacco.—Chicago Times.

—Several years ago a machinist in a railroad shop at Wellsville, O., invented a nut lock, for which, at that time, there was a great demand. It was an excellent device, and he saw in it a great fortune. He had no confidence in corporations and refused to sell his patent to one of the leading companies for fifty thousand dollars cash. He looked upon every man who spoke to him about it as an enemy, and cut the acquaintance of his friends who had advised him to sell. He has the patent yet and will cheerfully take three dollars for it.—Cleveland Leader.

—An old Georgia lady recalls to her mind a girl whom she knew when young, and whose powers were somewhat like Lulu Hurst's. The strange power came to this Lulu in fits, and when possessed she would leap so high as to make her head touch the ceiling of an ordinary room. When she became quiet and seated the chairs, tables and such things in the room would begin to dance around until they would get up against the chair in which the girl was seated. She had no control over the power, and it only exerted itself at times. Her friends thought her bewitched and were afraid of her. Whatever the agency may have been, the girl dwindled from a robust, healthy person to a wreck, when she died.—Chicago Herald.

Outside Pursuits of English Judges.

Being free from all anxiety—for no servant of the State has so secure a position as a Judge, who can only be removed from his office by a joint address of both Houses—with congenial work, with regular hours, and regular holidays, a Judge ought to live to a great age. Most of them do so. Several among them have intellectual pursuits other than the law, and enjoy ample time in which to gratify them. One of our Judges is devoted to physical science, and is said to know even more of it than of law; another is a skillful painter and has been hung on the line. Another is a considerable Greek and Latin scholar, and would probably edit classical books sooner than do anything else, if he thought that a Judge might decorously do so. Another is an ardent essayist. Another is a learned and widely known musician and a skillful performer on the violin. Another is understood to legislate unofficially for what is commonly called our greatest of National sports, and, if so, must have enough to do.—St. James Gazette.

—Miss Emma Johnson, of Kentucky, went to Africa a few years ago to convert the natives, and is now First Lord of the Treasury and Grand Vizier of His Majesty, Ja-Ja, in the Cameroons country.

THE largest vote polled for any one office, was for Circuit Clerk.

Secretary Manning continues to improve, and his physicians are greatly encouraged, and expect the patient will soon be able to be moved for a change of climate that will help along his convalescence.

Exposition Medal Awarded for 1884.

$5.00 and Upwards

For a Beautiful Single Set of Teeth. Extracting without pain included.

DR. DeJOHNS,

In attendance at the office. Gold fillings $1 and upwards. Amalgon 50c. Gas and Spray used. All work warranted.

Will be in Burlington the first Monday in each month, County Court.

J. C. ALLEN, 327 Vine Str., Cor. 9th, Cincinnati, Ohio.

LAND FOR SALE.

50 acres good land near Constance, this county. All in grass and well watered. Terms easy—apply to this OFFICE.

County Directory.

OFFICERS.

Assessor—G. M. Riley.
Jailer—Samuel Cowen.
County Surveyor—W. E. Vest.
Coroner—Dr. A. A. Murat, Constance.
Superintendent of Schools—H. J. Foster

COURTS.

CIRCUIT COURT meets the 2d Monday in April and first Monday in October, P. P. Major, Judge; W. L. Riddell, Clerk A. G. DeJarnette, Commonwealths Attorney; W. L. Riddell, Trustee Jury Fund.

COUNTY COURT meets the first Monday in every month. L. H. Dills, Judge; S. W. Tolin, County Attorney. M. T. Garnett, Clerk; J. R. Clutterbuck, Sheriff. T. W. Finch and W. T. German, Deputy Sheriffs.

QUARTERLY COURT meets the first Monday in March, June, September and December. The officers of the County Court preside.

COURT OF CLAIMS meets the first Monday in November.

MAGISTRATES' COURTS are held in March, June, September and December, as follows:

Bellevue—M. B. Green, first Saturday, and T. H. Sutton, third Monday. J. M. Moody, Constable.

Burlington—E. H. Baker, Thursday after first Monday, and Oscar Gaines, fourth Monday. C. W. Saxton, Constable.

Carlton A. G. McConnell, Wednesday after second Monday, and R. H. Ryle, Saturday after third Monday Charles H. Aera, Constable.

Petersburg—Jos. Hensley, Wednesday after first Monday, and L. A. Loder fourth Saturday. Geo. Comer, Constable.

Beever—W. M. Rouse, Friday after the third Monday, and Andrew Ellis, Fiday after 1st Mmonday—T. J. Coyle, Constable.

Union—M. C. Norman, Thursday after third Monday, and H. Bannister, Thursday after second Monday. H. G. Blanton, Constable.

Hamilton—F. M. Howlett, Tuesday after second Monday; W. W. Garnell, Wednesday after third Monday. R. L. Roberts Constable.

Walton—T. F. Carley, second Friday, S. T. Johnson, Tuesday after second Friday. Al Arnold, Constable.

Veron—J. P. Vest, Tuesday after first Monday. J. J. Brumback, Tuesday after third Monday. J. H. Callahan, constable.

Florence—T. K. Dixon, third Saturday, Joe Wagstaff, second Saturday. Craig Pettit, Constable.

Taylorsport—A. B. Whitlock, fourth Monday, W. A. Goodridge, third Saturday Thos. Watts, constable.

ROBERT B. REED
Attorney at Law.
OFFICE AT - - - UNION, KY

F. RIDDELL. H. P. STEPHENS.
RIDDELL and STEPHENS,
ATTORNEYS at LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
☞ Office over Dudley Rouse's Store. ☜

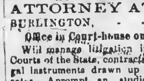
W. E. VEST,
COUNTY SURVEYOR
WALTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of surveying. All orders sent him through the mail to Walton, will receive his prompt attention.

DR. A. B. HARRYMAN,

Resident Dentist.
Office over Post-Office.
AURORA, INDIANA.

J. J. Landram. G. G. Hughes.
LANDRAM & HUGHES.
ATTORNEYS at LAW.
Will practice in the Boone Circuit Court and the Court of Appeals. Prompt attention given to Collections, on application to G. G. Hughes, Burlington, Ky.

E. E. IGOE,



Resident Dentist.
Rising Sun, Ind.
WITH
J. P. Ulrey.
Monday and Tuesday at Rising Sun, Ind Wednesday and Saturday at Aurora, Ind Thursday and Friday at Lawrenceburg.

S. W. TOLIN.
ATTORNEY AT LAW
BURLINGTON, - - - KY
Office in Court-house on 2d floor.
Will manage litigation in any of the Courts of the State, contracts and other legal instruments drawn up at reasonable rates. Aprompt an studious attention given to business intrusted to my care A trial solicited. 12-1y

W. J. RICE,
CARPENTER & BUILDER.
BULLITSVILLE, KY.
Is prepared Raise or Move
EITHER LOG or FRAME BUILDINGS
On Short Notice.
And at the Lowest Possible Figures.
33-tf Your orders respectfully solicited

INSURE AT HOME
The Farmers' Mutual Fire
INSURANCE COMPANY
Of Boone County
Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.
Its Rates are Lower
Than those of any other Company, and it gives the farmers of Boone County a
HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE
In keeping their property insured.
EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY
should take a policy at once.

J. A. GAINES, President, Burlington, Ky.
J. H. WALTON, Secretary, Constance, Ky.
R. RANDALL, Treasurer.

DIRECTORS.
LEGRAN GAINES, B. L. RICE.
JNO. STEPHENS.
OSCAR GAINES, Agent. R. S. COWEN, Assessor

LUMBER.
Goe. M. Bedinger & Co.,
Erlanger, - - Ky.
We keep constantly on hand all kinds of Lumber, Laths and Shingles. Also Builder's supplies of all kinds.
—Come and see Us—

Take the Reccorder.

READ!

Feeling the necessity of a first-class Drug Store in this place, and ever willing to cater to the wishes of my generous patrons, I have just opened a fresh stock of Drugs & Patent Medicines.

— Terry & Co's Brands of Tea. —

Ibold's Brand of Cigars & Tobacco.

—Perfumery and Fancy Toilet Articles.—

Paints Ready For Use.

From a gallon can down to the smallest.

WHITE LEAD, OILS, VARNISHES, DYE-Stuffs, Brushes, Etc., Etc.

I will furnish to any one wishing to paint their house or barn, any kind of paint at two days notice, at the lowest cash prices. Give me a call.

A good barber shop attached and work satisfactory.

W. M. BAISLY.

1886 THE COURIER-JOURNAL. 1886

AN ORGAN OF

LIVING IDEAS AND LIVE ISSUES.

AN ENEMY OF

Monopolies, Oligarchism, and the Spirit of Sectional Strife.

The Courier-Journal (HENRY WATTERSON Editor-in-Chief), is the acknowledged Representative Newspaper of the South, is Democratic in politics, and first, last, and all the time is for a reduction of the War Taxes as levied on the people by the tariff now in force.

The Weekly Courier-Journal

is the best weekly newspaper published in the United States, and for the quantity and quality of matter that appears in each issue of it, it is the CHEAPEST. Its telegraphic news facilities outclass any other paper, and it has the services of the ablest writers and correspondents in the country. It presents the news of the week from every section of the World. It gives to its readers throughout the year a greater number of Serial and Short Stories by prominent and popular writers than any of the high-priced magazines. It is in every respect a Model Political and Family Paper.

The Weekly Courier-Journal has by far the Largest Circulation of any Democratic Newspaper in America.

It is acknowledged by press and people throughout the United States to be a great paper; great in size; great in enterprise; great in ability; great in its correctness of information; great in variety; great in every sense of the word. It is the paper that everybody should have. To be without it is a great opportunity lost. Those who once take it are not willing to be without it in their homes.

FREE PREMIUMS.

A list of handsome and useful premiums of great variety are offered free to yearly subscribers. On receipt of a request for them, we send free of charge a sample copy of Weekly Courier-Journal and one Premium Supplement, giving our full list of premiums, to any address.

SUBSCRIPTION TERMS.

Weekly, one year, including a free premium	$1.50
Weekly, in clubs of five and over, without premium, each	1.10

For every club of five names sent us at one time, the sender of club will be sent as a present any one of our free premiums selected by him.

Daily, (except Sunday), one year	$10.00
Daily, (except Sunday), six months	5.00
Daily, (except Sunday), one month	1.00
Sunday, one year	2.00
Sunday, six months	1.00

No traveling agents are employed by the Courier-Journal, but a good local agent is wanted for it in every community, to whom a liberal cash commission is allowed. If the Courier-Journal has no local agent in your neighborhood, send to us for our Agent's Canvassing Outfit, which we send free of charge. All subscription orders, requests for outfits, sample copies, etc., should be addressed to

W. N. HALDEMAN,
President Courier-Journal Co.,
LOUISVILLE, KY.

REPORT OF THE CONDITION
OF THE
Farmers & Traders National Bank
AT COVINGTON.

In the State of Kentucky, at the close of business, March 1. 1886.

RESOURCES.

Loans and discounts		$577 951 88
Overdrafts		2,283 94
U.S. Bonds to secure circulation		50,000 00
U. S. Bonds on hand		100,000
Due from approved reserve agents		55,808 76
Due from other Nat'l Banks		7,104 52
Due from banks and bankers		1,341 33
Real est, furniture & fixtures		[illegible] 91
Current expenses and taxes		2,159 22
Premiums paid		31,513 50
Checks and other cash items	842 31
Bills of other Banks	3,060 00
Frac. paper currency, nickles and pennies	130 27
Specie	10,660 00
Legal tender notes	25,000 00	[illegible]
Redemption fund with U. S. Treas., (5 per cent. circulation)		2,250 00
Total		$878,153 67

LIABILITIES.

Capital stock pd in		$300,000 00
Surplus fund	$30,000 00
Undivided profits	13,408 05	43,408 05
Nat'l Bank notes outstanding		45,000 00
Individual dep'ts subject to check	363,452 09
U. S. Deposits	75,000
Due to other N'tl Banks	25,240 29
Due to State B'ks and bankers	20,054 24	489,715 67
Total		$878,153 67

State of Kentucky, County of Kenton ss I, John L. Sandford, Cashier of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

JOHN L. SANDFORD, Cashier.

James S. Wayne, Pres't.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 6th day of March, 1886.

A. KLOENTRUP, Notary Public.

Correct—Attest:
M. C. Mutch,
J. H. Mersmann,
E. J. Hickey,
} Directors.

FARM IMPLEMENTS.

Buy your Farming Implements, Fence Wire, Cutting Boxes, Feed Grinders, Corn Shellers, Road Scrapers, Excavating Carts, Sewing Machines, Mowers and Reapers and

Deering TWINE Binders,
GROCERIES, &c.
READY MIXED PAINT.
—of—
J. C. Smith,
Successor to W. H. HILL & Co.
22 and 24 EAST THIRD STREET,
Cincinnati, Ohio.

Or of our local Agent C. W. RILEY, North Bend, Ohio, (Ky. Box). All goods sold strictly on their merits.

OPIUM and WHISKY HABITS cured at home without pain. BOOK of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.

JENKINS'

ALMONT,

This renowned trotting stallion and sire of trotters will make the season of 1886, at the stable of John D. Norris, ½ mile from Petersburg, Boone county, Ky., at $30 the season, with the privilege of returning in 1887 should the mare fail to get with foal, money due July 1st, 1886.

Jenkins' Almont was sired by Withers's Almont, the sire of 26 horses with records of 2:30 or better, 1st dam by Toledo; 2nd dam Sousby Grays Highlander; 3d dam by Coeur de Leon, a noted pacer.

Jenkins' Almont is the sire of Bessie G. 2:25½; Grafton, 2:28½; Will Heath, trial, 2:21, and others gifted with great trotting speed.

Pasture furnished at $3 per month. Care will be exercised to prevent accidents or escapes, but will not be responsible should any occur. We are endeavoring to give the people of Boone Co., a chance to get a fine colt at a low price.

J. D. NORRIS & Co.

SAM'L. T. HARRIS,

Will make the season of 1886, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at Bullittsville and the rest of the week at my stable 1 mile from Constance, $25 at the pole.

He is a blood bay, with black points, 16 hands high. Trotting action steady and well balanced. He is a full brother to Royal Mont, (1 year younger) who has a record of 2:32, and has trotted in 2:22 at a private trial.

Sam'l T. Harris is by Bidwell's Almont, dam Royal George.

JACK STEPHENS,

Will make the season at the same time and places, and will serve mares at $10 to insure a mare with foal, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with. Not responsible for accidents.

He is a dark iron gray, 16 hands high, was sired by Bidwell's Almont; dam Vidunteer; 2d dam Gray Eagle; 3d dam Copper Bottom. Good pasture furnished at $3 a month.

JAS. L. RILEY,

The Combined Stallion,

RECTOR

Will make the season of 1886, Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays at Harry Marshalls at Waterloo, and the rest of the week at my stable at Bellevue, at $10 to insure a mare with foal, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Rector is a beautiful black, 7 years old, 15½ hands high, and a good all purpose horse. He was sired by Criss, dam Morgan.

Not responsible for accidents should any occur. ROBT. CLORE, Bellevue, Ky.

The fine stallion, Conner's

ALMONT

Will make the present season at my stable at Bullittsville, Ky., and will serve mares at $10 to insure, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Care will be taken to prevent accidents, but will not be responsible should any occur.

ALMONT is 6 years old, a beautiful rich mahogany bay, black mane and tail, with two white ankles behind, stands 16 hands high, and shows much style and speed.

ALMONT was by Bidwell's Almont, jr, sired by Col. West; got by Almont, son of Alexander's Abdallah; dam Belle Forrest, by Edwin Forrest, Almont is a half brother to Sensation; 1st dam Topsy, the fine premium mare, by Topgallant; g.d. a Bell Founder mare, g. g. d. a Copperbottom mare that possessed all the fine saddle qualities.

J. D. CONNER.

CRIGLER'S ALMONT,

Will make the season of 1886 at my stable on Gunpowder Creek 1½ mile above Limaburg and at Florence, Ky., at $20, to insure a mare with foal, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Will be at Florence the first three days of each week, and the rest of the time at my stable. Not responsible for accidents.

ALMONT is a dark chestnut sorrel, 15½ hands high, with fine style, and has trotted his mile in less than 2:30, he is by Almont Jr., he by Withers's Almont; he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian; Almont's 1st dam Goodwood; 2d dam Daniel Boone; 3 dam Blacknese,

REX DENMARK.

Will make the season at the same time and places, at $10 to insure a mare in foal.

He is a beautiful brown with fine mane and tail, style that cannot be beaten, is 16 hands high. He has been shown 11 times and taken 10 tie, in Missouri.

He is by Crigler's Denmark; he by Denmark Chief; he by Black Denmark; Old Denmark by Imported Messenger. Rex Denmark's 1st dam Woodpecker Star of the West; 2. dam Mohawk; 3d dam Tom Crowder.

W. A. CRIGLER.

The fine harness and saddle stallion

Young WOODPECKER

Will make the season of 1886, Saturdays and Mondays at J. W. Gaines' stable at Burlington, Tuesdays and Wednesdays at Gainesville, Thursdays and Fridays at J. W. Gaines' farm near Plattburg, at $10 to insure colt to stand up and suck, any person parting with a mare after being bred forfeits the insurance money.

Young Woodpecker was sired by Nat Carpenter's Star of the West; he by Woodpecker; he by Bertrand; dam imported Buzzard, Young Woodpecker's dam was a 3 minute mare, by Jeff Davis; g. d. by Russell's Pilot; he by old Sir William.

Not responsible for accidents.

TEN BROCK, This fine young jack will make the season at the same time and places and on the same terms.

He is black with mealy nose, 15 hands high. He was sired by Espartero; he by a large Spanish jack; dam of Ten Brock, Mollie McCarty, was sired by Longfellow, Perry Tucker's jack; g. d. by A. S. Platt's jack, the best breeder ever in this county.

F. C. Wingate, J. W. Gaines,
J. J. Lillard, C. A. Gaines.

FOR SALE!

Henry County Farm of 120 acres, situated on pike 1 mile from Smithfield, on Louisville & Lexington Railroad, 3 miles from Louisville. Said farm has on it a good frame house, of 8 rooms, good barn and all other outbuildings, and never failing water, convenient to good schools and churches. The land is first-class, all in grass but 25 acres, which is in wheat, 25 acres of fine tobacco land which has never been cultivated. Terms reasonable. For further information apply to

B. D. SPURLIN, Smithfield, Ky.
Henry county. 52-8m

ATTENTION!
TOBACCO
Shippers and Raisers, you can buy
Tobacco
Hogheads,
Set up or Knock Downs,
AT THE COMPANY'S MILLS
At Lawrenceburg or Aurora, Ind.
Orders by mail will meet our prompt attention.

Subscribe for the Recorder.

City Flouring Mills,
—RISING SUN, INDIANA.—

FLOUR EXCHANGED FOR WHEAT OR CASH. THE HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR GOOD WHEAT.

J. W. TALBOTT.

OHIO STEAM DENTAL CO.

ESTABLISHED 185.

47 WEST SEVENTH STREET,
CINCINNATI, O.

TEETH EXTRACTED WITHOUT PAIN by use Fresh Nitrous Oxide Gas.
ARTIFICIAL TEETH made of the best quality and work in the best finish, with guaranteed fit.
OPERATIVE DEPARTMENT handsomely finished and well lighted—the principal having had a lifelong experience in the treatment and filling of the natural teeth.

L. ROBERTSON, D.D.S., Principal.

Office and Residence, 47 W. 7th St., two blocks north of Fountain Square, (formerly 271 Walnut and 6th & Vine). Office open at all hours.

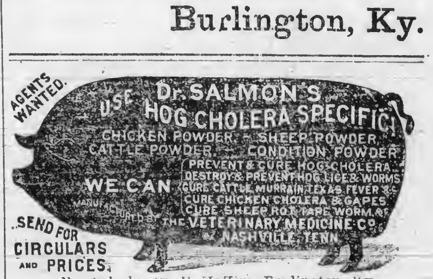
THE
COMBINATION FENCE

A fence that is wanted, and in time will be used by every one that wants a fence, either around the House, Garden or Farm, as it is cheap, durable and servicable, to keep in check horses, cattle, sheep, hogs, chickens, etc., and restrain wolves, dogs, and rabbits, etc.

Having all the advantages of a picket fence in restraining animals from jumping, and not so liable to decay, and at much less cost, and no barbs to injure valuable stock, thus placing it far in advance of any other fence now in use, hence it must be the fence of the future; all who have it want more.

It is portable and can be removed from field to field by drawing staples from posts, taking out the splice lath and rebundling it. We offer this fence for sale in bundles of five and six rod at Burlington.

DILLS & CRISLER,
Burlington, Ky.



AGENTS WANTED.
USE Dr. SALMON'S HOG CHOLERA SPECIFIC!
CHICKEN POWDER. SHEEP POWDER.
CATTLE POWDER. CONDITION POWDER.
WE CAN PREVENT & CURE HOG CHOLERA.
DESTROY & PREVENT HOG LICE & WORMS.
CURE CATTLE MURRAIN TEXAS FEVER &c.
CURE CHICKEN CHOLERA & GAPES.
CURE SHEEP ROT TAPE WORM &c.
MANUFACTURED BY THE VETERINARY MEDICINE CO. NASHVILLE, TENN.
SEND FOR CIRCULARS AND PRICES.

For Sale by W. F. McKim, Burlington, Ky.

UNDERTAKING.

Branch House of Chas. Donnelly & Co., of Covington, Ky.
AT BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY.

Where a Hearse and all Styles of Burial Cases and Robes can be secured at as Low Figures as at Covington, or elsewhere.

Bodies Embalmed or preserved in a

REFRIGERATOR

When desired. All orders left with our Branch House in Burlington will be promptly attended, and funerals conducted in the best style. The business is in charge of Jas. Westlay, with whom leave orders.

CHAS. DONNELLY & CO.

SODA
Best in the World.
For sale by Dudley Rouse, Burlington, Ky.

DeLAND & CO'S
CAP SHEAF

W. H. & J. M. McCLUNG

Early Breakfast &

Ladies Cook Stoves

ALSO A GREAT VARIETY OF HARD and SOFT COAL
HEATING STOVES,
ALL KINDS OF STOVES REPAIRED.
Tin Roofing, Spouting, Guttering, etc., Done to Order.

535 & 537 Madison Ave. - Covington, Ky.
☞ Second Door Below Sixth Street. ☜

Subscribe for the Boone
County Recorder.

Local News.

Kerslush, kerslush.

Much uneasiness along the river.

Mud road is the proper name for it.

Who ever saw it more disagreeable under foot?

Mr. Weeden Beemon has been quite sick for several days.

Judge Major registered at the Boone House Tuesday morning.

The snow disappeared very rapidly, commencing this morning.

The primary election is over, and the smoke of battle has blown away.

BOARD—By the meal, day or week.
MRS. CY RIDDELL.

For Sale—A good yoke of oxen.
S. D. Rice, Bellevue, Ky.

Miss Edith R. Harris, of Montreal, Canada, is visiting Mrs. S. P. Brady at this place.

Owing to the excessive amount of snow and slush, locomotion is exceedingly difficult.

Joe Reed came in from Petersburg last Saturday, and is tarrying with his friends a brief season.

Any one wishing a good, fresh milch cow, can be supplied by Ed Berkshire, who has one for sale.

The candidates are all glad that the primary election "headed-off" this equinoctial storm in April.

Persons wishing board in a private family can find the same at S. A. Palmer's, by the week, day or meal.

Buy best quality of perfection coal, at 9 cents per bushel in yard at
STOTT BROS., Petersburg, Ky.

Judge Major came to town Tuesday, and will remain here until after the approaching term of the Circuit Court.

The little two year old boy of Jas. B. Tolin, of Plattsburg, while playing Tuesday evening, fell and broke its arm.

It is said that no settled weather can be expected until after Easter, which is yet considerably in the future.

FOR SALE—Wm Fritz's best Corn Beef at 8 cents per pound at B. F. ZIMMER'S, Constance, Boone County, Ky.

If you want a pound of Liggett and Myer's best Star Tobacco for 40 cents call at B. F. ZIMMERS, Constance, Boone County, Ky. 14-tf-

Some of the boys will commence checking their baggage now for a temporary absence from the county. Big sixteen organizes Monday.

There will be no preaching at the Universalist church on the second Sunday as announced, preaching on the fourth Sunday at the usual hour.

WANTED—1,000 men with 40 cents each to buy a pound of Liggett & Myer's, best Star Tobacco, at B. F. ZIMMERS, Constance, Boone County, Ky.

E. W. Rouse, of Limaburg, this county, is agent for "The Dutton Mower knife grinder," a long needed want of every farmer who owns a mower or reaper.

At the annual election last Saturday, the Burlington & Florence Turnpike elected Fedden Rouse, president; Eli Rouse, Geo. E. Rouse, Hiram Rouse, Lewis Conner, directors.

Every house in Burlington is occupied and more wanted. Five or six new cottages are needed to supply the demand. Havent we any capitalists that are willing to improve our town?

There is some apprehension as to the fate of the oats sown previous to the last edition of winter, but as the temperature has been above freezing all the time there is not much probability of the crop being damaged in the least.

The monotony of our burg was broken last Thursday by a mule attached to Tim Westbay's wagon, becoming fractious and running away, it ran through town and as far as Mr. Westbay's, where it stopped. No damage.

J. W. Kennedy, S. J. Ewalt and G. L. Miller, of Big Bone, were in town Monday. Their journey here was no pleasure trip we assure you. Ye local has had some recent experience with the dirt roads, snow and water, you bet.

Previous to the recent demoralization of the weather the lamb crop in this county was looking uncommonly well, but such weather as that of the past week works a great injury to the young lambs and entails upon the owners considerable loss.

Quite a number of Boone's fine horses were in Burlington Monday for exhibition, but owing to the very unfavorable weather no great display could be made. Should next Monday be a suitable day the exhibition will be repeated, and greatly improved.

I wish to notify the people of Boone and Kenton counties that I have bought the right to use the Wescott & Gurley Fence, and that the trouble between the Wescott & Gurley fence and the Lenox fence, has been satisfactorily settled. L. O. BRISTOW.

Remember that Geo. Huschart & Co. of Lawrenceburg, Indiana, can always give satisfaction both as to price and style of work, so when you want to buy a tombstone or a monument go to their yard or call on John Beall, of Hebron, Ky., their agent.

Those who have not paid their taxes for 1885, will confer a favor by paying them before the first day of April, thereby saving themselves the per cent and cost, and myself the unpleasant duty of advertising their property for sale.
J. R. CLUTTERBUCK,
Sheriff of Boone County.

Monday the April term of the Boone Circuit Court will begin. At this term the court has eighteen days in which to sit, but there being but little old business on hand from last term and no new suits of any consequence having been brought for the approaching term, there is but little probability that the entire three weeks will be consumed.

The Primary Election.

The votes by districts for the several candidates in the primary election last Saturday is given below. The day was unpleasant, but the election was generally very quiet.

Circuit Judge—	Major	Monf't	Drane
Carlton	10	66	42
Hamilton	24	88	5
Bellevue	48	31	17
Petersburg	75	86	38
Burlington	89	78	47
Bullittsville	22	55	18
Union	15	106	45
Beaver	14	58	12
Walton	53	80	33
Florence	53	122	30
Verona	49	65	8
Taylorport	7	31	12
Total	450	866	307

Monfort's majority, 407.

Comm'th's Atty.—	Gor'n.	Gaunt	McM
Carlton	44	71
Hamilton	58	53	3
Bellevue	49	33	3
Petersburg	77	116	2
Burlington	57	125	10
Bullittsville	21	72
Union	75	80	1
Beaver	22	57	3
Walton	73	79	3
Florence	120	69	1
Verona	60	73	4
Taylorport	15	31
Total	677	873	80

Gaunt's majority, 196.

Circuit Clerk—	Riddell	Duncan
Carlton	112	25
Hamilton	108	11
Bellevue	43	58
Petersburg	94	106
Burlington	131	87
Bullittsville	8	87
Union	104	75
Beaver	62	83
Walton	50	104
Florence	87	131
Verona	70	76
Taylorport	25	20
Total	894	819

Riddell's majority 75.

Sup't. Schools—	Foster	Ryle
Carlton	18	100
Hamilton	43	59
Bellevue	22	78
Petersburg	91	79
Burlington	166	38
Bullittsville	55	36
Union	35	134
Beaver	48	43
Walton	109	25
Florence	75	113
Verona	41	76
Taylorsport	34	12
Total	732	788

Ryle's majority, 56.

County Judge—	Baker	Norman
Carlton	79	58
Hamilton	103	17
Bellevue	71	31
Petersburg	97	97
Burlington	173	40
Bullittsville	87	55
Union	41	145
Beaver	44	53
Walton	69	92
Florence	108	110
Verona	100	50
Taylorport	14	38
Total	938	786

Baker's majority, 152.

County Attorney—	Tolin	Yager
Carlton	98	18
Hamilton	103	15
Bellevue	95	3
Petersburg	92	90
Burlington	199	22
Bullittsville	79	12
Union	125	38
Beaver	62	24
Walton	88	68
Florence	89	111
Verona	114	29
Taylorport	30	13
Total	1180	443

Tolin's majority, 737.

Surveyor—	Vest	Terrill
Carlton	33	45
Hamilton	55	50
Bellevue	12	75
Petersburg	54	128
Burlington	112	78
Bullittsville	41	44
Union	52	194
Beaver	89	3
Walton	146
Florence	51	116
Verona	119
Taylorport	20	24
Total	821	667

Vest's majority, 151.

Coroner—	Murat	Yager	Beall
Carlton	28	5	6
Hamilton	65	31	9
Bellevue	21	1	17
Petersburg	78	14
Burlington	70	54
Bullittsville	37	33
Union	41	63
Beaver	58	19
Walton	11	91
Florence	15	149
Verona	98	9
Taylorport	15	17
Total	543	506	27

Murat's majority, 37.

Assessor—Riley 1459
—McManama 94

Clutterbuck for Sheriff 1551
Cowen for Jailer 1521
Garnett for County Clerk 1652

SCHOOL CENSUS—The School Trustees of each school district must during the month of April, take an exact census of all the children who will be on the first day of July next, between the ages of 6 and 20, even if married; and on or before the first day of May, file said list with the County Superintendent. Children 6 years old on the first day of July, and those 20 years of age on that day can not be reported.

Children enjoying the benefits of education at public cost in any of the State Schools cannot be reported.

These schools are; 1. The Agricultural and Mechanical College. 2. The Institute for the Deaf and Dumb. 3 Institution for the Blind. 4. Institution for Feeble-minded Children.
H. J. FOSTER,
County Superintendent.

Mr. Will Glen, nephew of Miss Jessie Glen, of this place, and Miss Clara S. Gooch were married last Wednesday evening in the presence of a happy assembly of relatives and friends at the home of the bride, on West Court street, Cincinnati, by Rev. T. M. Hopkins. Mr. Glen has the best wishes of his many friends at this place. The Enquirer in speaking of the wedding, says: "A pleasing incident of the wedding was that it occurred upon the sixty-seventh anniversary of the marriage of the bride's grand-mother, Mrs. James Coleman. The groom is a well-known employe of the Adams Express Company, and his associates in the Auditors office of that corporation emphasized their appreciation of his worth in a very elegant silver water-set, pitcher, goblets, bowl and salver, the latter appropriately inscribed. Mr. and Mrs. Glen go at once to housekeeping in their new home at Elmwood, just built and furnished for their occupancy."

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

GUNPOWDER.

Spring chickens have made their appearance.

Ezra Rouse made his uncle, O. E. Rouse a pleasant call last Sunday.

Some of our neighbors have planted their garden, but they will not do much good.

Owing to the bad weather the Sunday school was not organized at Hopeful last Sunday.

HEBRON.

Business very good at present.

Bud Conner has gone West to seek his fortune.

The election passed off very quietly at this place.

Harrison Clore has sold his gold farm to Mr. Winston.

John Conner has sold to A. G. Winston 21½ acres of land for $1,500.

Bert and Maud Henderson are quite sick at this writing with sore throat.

Last Saturday the remains of the infant child of Johnny Cottmyer, and the remains of Barney Jones, of Ludlow, were placed in the Hebron vault for final interment.

UNION.

Miss Anna Anderson is entirely recovered from a severe cold.

Mrs. Chas. Fisher is entertaining her neice, Miss Emma Fisher.

J. D. Norman recently paid a visit to frends on the Southern railroad.

Mrs. Annie Porter is at home after having spent the winter in Covington.

Mrs. Sarah C. Huey has returned from a visit to her parents near Warsaw.

W. E. Bannister, of Elliston, spent last Saturday night with his parents at this place.

C. T. Banaister has rented his house to Edward Stephens and moved to R. T. Clements.

Mrs. Lizzie Huey, J. A. Huey, J. M. Wilson and Robert Chambers are suffering from lung trouble.

J. G. Blanton, of Walton, has sold his trotting horse, Solon, to L. Judge, of this place, having purchased in its place a very fine saddle and harness horse.

Preaching will begin at Sardis church on Friday, April 30th, and continue three days. Eld. Smoot, of Virginia, and several other visiting ministers are expected to assist in the meeting.

BELLEVUE.

Young poultry is a scarce article in this part of the country.

Miss Katie Ryle is teaching the McVille school this spring.

A. Corbin & Son, shipped 45 dozen baskets from here last week.

The primary here last Saturday was the liveliest one we have had for a long time. Local option was no where.

Theodore Roberts, who moved to Missouri, two years ago, has returned, and will make Boone county his home.

Cy Kelly has been running around and raising more disturbance than a young Arizona chief since he discovered that 10 pound clerk which joined his firm last Friday. We congratulate him on the prosperity of his firm.

The sudden change of the weather is having a bad effect on some of our early gardens—some of whom we hear talking about their "truck" and "sass" not coming up to suit them. We hope they will have a little patience and wait till we have a thaw out and see if their garden crop will grow.

The mild damp weather of last week brought out a great deal of tobacco, which livened up business in our little city considerably. About 30 hhds. of the weed were shipped from her. Snyder & Co., are running their cooper shop to its full capacity, to supply the different firms prizing the crop here.

As we predicted, when our fisherman Jas. Smith moved into Willoughby bottom, the flood has come, and last week we saw Jim climbing the hill to escape the usual penalty of living in that bottom, being drowded out. This is the third time he has repeated the same performance in the past 3 years.

Some of the contestants for the offices supplied several gallons of canvassing spirits" which had the effect to raise quite a stir among those who use such arguments, and the result was, that several knock down arguments was resorted to. Several of the candidates can place their heavy vote here to "canvassing spirits."

WALTON.

A wedding is to be solemnized at this place in the near future. The names of the high contracting are withheld until after consumation of their long felt desires.

Allow no words of condemnation to be hurled at our present legislators on account of their sensitiveness. Close your eyes to the facts and bear with patience the awful degradation upon us.

Our popular merchants, Blanton & McHatton, are doing an immense trade since locating at this place. Their gentlemanly and accomodating disposition entitles them to the confidence of the people generally.

Miss Perry, of Covington, daughter of the late Houston Perry, was in this vicinity last week in search of marketable stocks in the Covington and Lexington turnpike company, of which she is at present largely interested.

The annual political Spring song, its melody and sunshine, flowers and balmy breezes, is lulled to sleep by the continued and relentless voice of winter. The forests and orchards and the wildwood songsters were all heralding the opening spring by swelling buds and songs of melody, But now all is stifled, and to-day the mantle of January sleet and sternest winter's coldest winds are thrown around us.

The primary election passed of with the usual results. Some allotment of bug juice as formerly was dished out to applicants, notwithstanding our candidates were high toned, moral and temperate gentlemen, who would shrink with pathetic digust from the bare mention of whisky influence. But by some unaccountable reason the fossets were raised and the amber fluid flowed with its old accustomed precision.

Why is it that Walton is never called upon to furnish public men for official places? Can it be that we are to far removed from the bosses, that run the old machine? In point of intellect we can compare favorably with any district in the State, even our father district Burlington. We expect in the future to claim our own in the march of civilized advancement. Remember the day is not far distant when this place will be designated as the county seat proper.

MISCELLANEOUS.

—Nearly every village church in Russia has a bottle of water from the Jordan.

—A Missouri girl who didn't get a five-dollar album voted to the handsomest girl went at it and scratched the face of the girl who did, and she may never be pretty again.—Detroit Free Press.

—It is said that Chinamen will steal and eat poodles. Before any decided steps are taken towards firing out the heathen let us tempt them to turn their attention to cats for a brief period.—Toledo Blade.

—Mr. T. C. Mendenhall, formerly professor of physics in the Imperial University at Tokio, Japan, says that one never gets used to earthquakes. The more experience a man has the more he dreads the phenomenon.

—The late Walter Weldon was one of the five men, and the only man outside of France, deemed by the French Society d'Encouragement worthy to receive its "grand medal." It was he who invented the process by which bleaching powder is made, thus, as the chemist Dumas said, cheapening every sheet of paper and every yard of calico in the world.

—The evidence of the value of oil to lessen the dangerous effect of heavy seas is reported by the United States Hydrographic Office as continuing to be "of the most satisfactory nature," and with its latest Pilot's Chart it gives instructions for its use, and invites suggestions from mariners as to their practical experience in oiling the waves. The safety of navigation may be much increased by their hearty compliance.—Chicago Journal.

—Our frail humanity is so dependent upon our surroundings—we so need each other's help, that we can not afford to be other than good neighbors. For however independent of our fellows we may imagine ourselves to be, there is sure to come a time when we crave human companionship and aid, and then it will be well for us to have sought "the good folks," who really and truly live "everywhere, if you only find them."—H. Annette Poole, in Good Housekeeping.

—In a recent lecture Prof. Virchow of Berlin stated that the Semitic race more readily adapts itself to a change of climate than the Aryan, and that the South Europeans owe their advantages in this respect to the admixture of Semitic blood, through contact with the Phenicians and Arabs. The want of adaptability shows itself especially in diminished fertility. Creoles die out after the third generation, or become absorbed with the natives.

—In his "Historical Sketches of the town of Swampscott," Mr. Waldo Thompson states that about 1835 Mr John M. Ives, of Salem, received two or three marrow squash seeds from a negress whose husband was a cook upon one of the merchant ships, Captain Lord, from Valparaiso. He also obtained the tomato seed in the same manner as "love apple," and after growing them a year or two back of his store he was told by a sea captain that they were eatable, and from that time they were used as food.—Boston Transcript.

A MICA MINE.

Description of the Famous Ledge at Groton, New Hampshire.

The chief attention at Groton, aside from its mountain scenery, is the mica mine, opened something more than a year ago and now operated by a large force of men. The ledge is really a large hill of solid rock, composed in the regular order, after the covering of schist is removed—quartz, mica, feldspar and quartz, mica, feldspar again and again, down through the hill to an uncertain depth. The work of blasting has been carried forward here until an open drift has been cut three hundred feet long, at least forty feet wide and not much less than fifty feet deep. Branching off from this cut is a tunnel now about seventy feet long and twenty high, drilled horizontally into the ledge. Small iron tramways lead to the "dump," and little cars, pushed by hand, carry the refuse rock out of the way. The mica crystals, of all sizes, from an inch across to more than two feet in their larger axis, protrude from sides and from above and below, with their planes at every conceivable inclination, waiting for some well-placed charge of giant powder to free them from the mass of worthless rock in which they are imbedded. These crystals vary from the size of one's hand to blocks two feet in length and from six inches to a foot in thickness, and are rapidly split into sheets by a group of men seated on low stools. The thin sheets are carried from this group to a long line of men standing at benches, who cut them to the largest possible patterns with tinman's shears. The market value of mica depends on the size of the sheets, and it is here that one first understands the real character of the work that is going on around him, for those sheets of mica, seven or eight by nine or ten inches, bring in the market no less than fifteen dollars a pound. The smaller portions vary in value from five dollars a pound up. Beryls abound, and some valuable specimens have been quarried here. In the roof of the covered drift was one, a perfect hexameter, two feet of which had been laid bare, while each end was still imbedded in the rock. It would be a magnificent specimen if it could be cut out whole, but the mining company is not seeking beryls, and some day, probably, a blast that has been arranged with reference to a mica crystal will throw the beautiful specimen shattered to the floor of the tunnel. Mica mining is not a new thing in Groton. A few years ago the Hartford mine yielded a large product, and doubtless would to-day; but there was no convenient place for disposing of the enormous bulk of refuse rock, and the expense thus incurred drew heavily from the profits. At this time a shaft more than one hundred feet deep is now abandoned and filled with water. Other mines have been opened at various times in the past eight years, but none of them have been found as profitable as the one described.—Boston Transcript.

A spring delivery of fruit trees is being made at this place.

We are glad to report Mr. S. P. Braday and Oscar Gaines as about well.

Dogs invaded L. B. Rouse's flock of sheep yesterday and killed his only lamb.

The grass will be ready to continue its growth as soon as the sun gets in a few days work on it.

There was a very large crowd in attendance at court Monday, and the merchants seemed to be doing a good business.

CLORE'S SONS,

Manufacturers of Agricultural Implements,

SUCH AS

Steel Turning & Side Hill Plows

Road Plows, Double Shovels, Single Shovlse, Bar Shovel Gophers, Harrows, Jumping Shovels and Rolling Colters.

RISING SUN, - - IND.

☞Send for Illustrated Price List. 13 3·n

FRYE'S COMBINATION
FARM, GARDEN & ORNAMENTAL FENCE

It combines the advantages of every fence, and is free from any objections. Our combination fence is composed of fine two-strand cables of the best ancaled bessemer steel wire firmly interwoven with pickets at a uniform distance of 2 to 5 inches apart, and the diagonal supporting wire which is interwoven as represented, enables us to hold each and every picket up off the ground with perfect ease, keeping them even on top and the entire fence always in the open air, making the lower ends of the pickets just durable as the upper ends. Sagging is utterly impossible, as we have a direct vertibal tensil strength of 1700 lbs. to each pannel which alone is three times as strong as an ordinary pine board fence. Our fine cables, which gives a combined strength of more than fifteen times that of a pine board 1x6, al. interwoven in such a manner with the pickets that one wire cannot be broken without breaking 11. Thus giving us a fence 18 times stronger than a barb wire. The pickets are oak of first quality, and soaked in hot Alkalies, making them last many years. The pickets are supported every 10½ inches by the cables so that breakage is impossible, giving us a fence that will turn all kinds of stock, from the smallest pig to the meanest mule, without endangering the life of any. It is a portable fence, can be removed by drawing the staples and the fence rolled up and removed without the slightest injury. It is dog proof, keeps sheep in and dogs out. It will protect your orchards from the ravages of rabbits, and your gardens from chickens. It is endorsed by over 200,000 of our farmers, as filling every claim we make for it. No farmer can afford to do without this fence that has means to buy it. Any party wishing fence or any information in regard to this fence will address.

T. H. SUTTON, Grant, Boone county, Ky.

N. B.—This fence can be sold and delivered at any landing on the river in Boone county, at the following reduced prices: Pickets 5 in. a part 55c 1½ in. apart 60c; 4 in. apart 65c, 3½ in. a part 70c; 3 in. a part 75c; 2½ in apart 80c; 2 in. a part 85c. We have strechers expressly for our fence which we will furnish to any parties ordering fifty rods or more, and will furnish one hand to assist in putting it up, after the posts have been set.

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that Mrs. C. Fanny Latham, of Florence, Ky., wife of Robt. E. Latham, who is made defendant to the cause, has filed her petition in equity in the Boone Circuit Court, asking to be made a feme sole; and to be empowered to trade, and make conveyances in her own rights, as if she were a single woman.

C. FANNY LATHAM.
By R. Richardson, atty.

Feby. 6, 1886.

FOR SALE.

My farm of 230 acres one mile from Richwood Station; near the Cin Southern Railroad. This farm has 50 acres of timber and is all strong land, and in per good fence, has three never failing bonds, good stable and a large tobacco barn. The improvements consist of a two story frame dwelling of 8 rooms, in first-class order, and all necessary out buildings. These premises front on the Hamilton & Richwood pike which intersects the Richwood & Beaver pike, also on the premises. Taking into consideration the quality of improvements and land, and convenience of pikes and railroads, schools and neighborhood, there is not a more desirable farm in Kentucky. Will sell on reasonable terms, ⅓ cash and the balance on three or will trade for desirable city property. For particulars address

L. B. STEPHENS, Richwood, Ky.
Or H. P. Stephens, Burlington, Ky.

THE STAR

A Newspaper supporting the Principles of a Democratic Administration,

Published in the City of New York.

WILLIAM DORSHEIMER,

Editor and Proprietor.

Daily, Sunday, and Weekly Editions.

THE WEEKLY STAR,

A Sixteen-page Newspaper, Issued every Wednesday.

A clean, pure, bright and interesting

FAMILY PAPER.

It contains the latest news, down to the hour of going to press:

Agricultural,
Market,
Fashion,
Household,
Political,
Financial and Commercial,
Poetical, Humorous and Editorial

Departments, all under the direction of trained journalists of the highest ability. Its sixteen pages will be found crowded with good things from beginning to end.

Original stories by distinguished American and foreign writers of fiction.

THE DAILY STAR,

The DAILY STAR contains all the news of the day in an attractive form. Its special correspondence by cable from London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna and Dublin is a commendable feature.

At Washington, Albany, and other news centers, the ablest correspondents, specially retained by THE STAR, furnish the latest news by telegraph.

Its literary features are unsurpassed.

The Financial and Market Reviews are unusually full and complete.

Special terms and extraordinary inducements to agents and canvassers.

Send for circulars.

TERMS OF THE WEEKLY STAR TO SUBSCRIBERS, FREE OF POSTAGE in the United States and Canada, outside the limits of New York City:

Per year $1 25
Clubs of Ten 10 00
Clubs of Fifteen (and one extra to organizer) 15 00

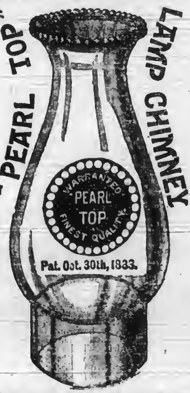
TERMS OF THE DAILY STAR TO SUBSCRIBERS

Every day for one year (including Sunday) $7 00
Daily, without Sunday, one year 6 00
Every day, six months 3 50
Daily, without Sunday, six months 3 00

Address, THE STAR,
26 and 28 North William St., New York

Subscribe for the Recorder.

IMMUNITY from ANNOYANCE



Made only of the finest and best quality of Glass for withstanding heat.

Every good thing is Counterfeited, and consumers are CAUTIONED against IMITATIONS of these Chimneys made of VERY POOR GLASS. See that the exact label is on each chimney as above. The Pearl Top is always clear and bright Glass.

Manufactured ONLY by
GEO. A. MACBETH & CO.
Pittsburgh Lead Glass Works.
FOR SALE BY DEALERS.

AURORA
MARBLE
AND GRANITE
WORKS,
Aurora, Ind

Will have constantly on hand

Marble and Granite Monuments,

Italian & American Headstones, &c.

I am ready to do all kinds of Stone Work on short notice and at low prices Hoping to receive the patronage of Boone County, I am respectfully,

F. W. KASSEBAUM.

PIANOS-ORGANS

The demand for the Improved MASON & HAMLIN PIANOS is now so large that a second addition to the factory has become imperative. Do not require one-quarter as much tuning as Pianos on the prevailing wrest-pin system. Consult Catalogue, free. 100 Styles of Organs, $22 to $900. For Cash, Easy Payments, or Rented.

Mason & Hamlin Organ and Piano Co.,
NEW YORK, BOSTON; CHICAGO.

AGENTS WANTED

FOR

The PEOPLES CYCLOPEDIA,
FARM & STOCK CYCLOPEDIA,
THOMPSONS' MEDICAL ADVISER,
PIONEER HISTORY,

Address

THE CAPITOL PUBLISHING CO.,
P. O. Box 459, Cincinnati, O.

Subscribe for the RECORDER.

TAKE THE RECORDER,

H. F. BLASE

540 MADISON AVE.
Covington. - Ky.

FALL GOODS ARE ALL IN.

5 000 NEW ELEGANT DESIGNS TO SELECT FROM.

SUITS AND OVERCOATS MADE TO ORDER ON SHORT NOTICE.

We Guarantee Goods, Fit and Workmanship.

We have also manufactured over 1,000 Suits and Overcoats during the dull season, made out of good material and by good workmen, which we can sell as low as any house in the country.

CALL AND SEE US.

H. F. BLASE,
540 MADISON AVE. COVINGTON. KY.

STOTT BROS,

PETERSBURG, KY.

We are still in the trade with a better class of Fall & Winter Goods and Lower Prices than was ever known in this county. We can sell you direct from one of the leading factories of the country, at from 15 to 20 per cent. less than last years prices, and warranted to be No. 1 goods as they will show for themselves.

FLANNELS

OUR YARNS,

are first-class and cheaper than ever before offered. We are agents for the Shaker Yarn, old fashioned or long reel, double cut, 120 threads to the cut, best in the market.

BLANKETS,

Very cheap. We keep a general assortment of Dry Goods Notions, Boots and Shoes, Hats and Caps, Glassware, Queensware, Hardware, Tinware, and a full line of

GROCERIES.

Coal from the Perfection Mines, in quality is "Love Among the Roses."

As our trade is gradually increasing, shows that we give you First-class Goods at Bottom Prices, and warrant all goods as represented.

Thanking the people for their liberal patronage in the past, we kindly ask a continuance of the same. Yours &c.

STOTT BROS, Petersburg, Ky.

JAMES S. WAYNE, President. JNO. L. SANDFORD, Cashier

CAPITAL $300,000.

FARMERS AND TRADERS

NATIONAL BANK.

Covington, Kentucky.

DIRECTORS.

James S. Wayne, M. C. Motch, Sam Hind, E. J. Hickey, E. J. Greer,
I. S. Matson, J. H. Mersman, J. L. Sandford, L. H. Dills, F. P. Helm
L. C. Stephens.

The general operations of banking transacted upon the most favorable term Collections made on all points in the United States.

The Business and Accounts of Farmers are Especially Solicited by this Bank. dec. 20-6m

COME AND SEE FOR YOURSELF.

—(o)— We've got them from the lowest price to the finest. —(o)—

None disappointed or dissatisfied in five years business. We keep constantly on hand all sizes of

Burial Cases, Caskets and Robes,

ALSO A SPLENDID

HEARSE AND TEAM.

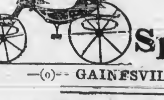
You can always come to us with the assurance of getting what you want in this line. We guarantee our prices 20 per cent. less than city prices. J. W. DAVIS has charge of this business at Hebron, and T. W. FINCH is our agent at Burlington.

J. J. RUCKER & CO, Hebron, Ky.

BUGGIES! BUGGIES!!

Pfalzgraf & Wingate,

DEALERS IN



Carriages, Buggies

AND

Spring Wagons.

—(o)— GAINESVILLE, KENTUCKY. —(o)—

A Large Assortment of Buggies and Carriages constantly on hand.

ANY STYLE TO ORDER ON

SHORT NOTICE

We call the attention of the People of Boone County to our stock on hand, made in the latest styles and of the best material. All work warranted to give satisfaction. Special attention given to

REPAIRING WITH NEATNESS & DISPATCH,

☞At the Lowest possible prices.☜

Old work taken in exchange for new

Pfalzgraf & Wingate,

GAINSVILLE, KENTUCKY.

KENTUCKY MILITARY INSTITUTE.

Advantages. 1. Exemption from temptations of city. 2. One family—living, eating and working together. 3. Classes divided into small sections so that each cadet recites every day. 4. Expenditures under control of Superintendent. 5. Government adapted to the character of each individual cadet. 6. A faculty who associate with the cadets. 7. A system of military discipline which develops the body and imparts lessons of authority and prompt obedience. Address Col. R. D. ALLEN, Farmdale, Ky.

THE RECORDER

RIDDELL & HALL, Publishers.

BURLINGTON, : : KENTUCKY

THE MUSICAL WOOING OF MICHAEL McCRAY.

Sure, Pat, it's the truth
That the happiest youth
Who e'er winked at the mornin' is Michael McCray,
For I've won the complatest,
The swaytest and nattest
Colleen that's adornin' ould Erin to-day.

I said to her "Darlint,
The invious starlint
Is tryin' to practice yer music, me dear!
The nightengale's singin'
Sets all the world ringin'
In praise of its beauty. But faix could he hear

Ye deliver wan note
From yer quiverin' throat
He'd perish wid milody's shweet eclipsy,
And alsen the raven
Would be afther havin'
For fear wid yer music his soul would grow tipsy!"

Then rippled her laughter:
"O, Mike! Are ye daft, or
Is it nothin' ye love but a musical note
Arrah! Cease from yer sportin'!
Was iver sich courtin'?
Do ye think that I carry me heart in me throat?"

I felt me soul sinkin';
But suddenly thinkin'—
I know where yer heart is, me darlint," sez I.
Ses she: "If ye're knowin',
Why can't ye be showin'
Yer knowledge by methods more manly, me b'y!"

"Me b'y!" Ah! the splendor
Of heav'n the tinder
Impression! And, claspin' her delicate waist
I cried "Me life's treasure
I'll show ye wid pleasure
Yer heart's in the ring of me homage embraced!"

—W. W. Fink, in N. Y. Independent.

THE BANK OF ENGLAND.

How It Has Suffered From Many Rascally Tricks.

It is somewhat remarkable, that until 1758—a period of sixty-five years from the foundation of the bank—no attempt was made to imitate its notes; in other words, bank forgery was uninvented. The doubtful honor of having led the way in this particular belongs to one Richard William Vaughan. There is an element of romance about his story. In August, 1757, a gentleman named Bliss, residing in London, advertised for a clerk. Among others, Vaughan, then aged twenty-six, offered himself, and was accepted. He was of good address and education, though he had made but an indifferent use of his advantages. He had started as a linen draper in Stafford, with a branch establishment in Aldersgate street, London; but had failed, and at the time of his engagement by Mr. Bliss, was an uncertificated bankrupt. This, however, his employer was not at first made aware of; and, in the meantime, the young adventurer succeeded in winning the affections of a niece of Mr. Bliss, a young lady of some expectation. Mr. Bliss was induced after some pressure, to consent to their marriage, conditionally upon Vaughan's first clearing himself from his difficulties and showing that he was in a position to marry. Vaughan expressed himself confident of speedily meeting these requirements; and shortly afterward announced that his relatives had agreed to lend him a helping hand; that his discharge from bankruptcy would be forthwith granted, and that immediately afterward he would start afresh in business.

Meanwhile, in support of his assertions, he showed his lady-love, and indeed placed in her keeping, twelve alleged Bank of England notes for twenty pounds each. The wedding day was fixed for Easter Monday (1758), some three weeks later. In the meantime, however, an engraver, whom Vaughan, under an assumed name, had commissioned to engrave part of the plates for the notes, suspecting something wrong, gave the information to the police. Vaughan was arrested, and spent his wedding day in the 'condemned cell,' under sentence of death for forgery. At the trial, it was urged in his defense that the forged notes were not intended to be put in circulation, but merely to be used as a means of deluding Miss Bliss and her family. It was shown, however, that the twelve notes deposited formed only a part of those actually printed, and that Vaughan had endeavored to induce one John Ballinger to cash some of them. The defense therefore failed, and Vaughan was hanged.

The imitation of the bank note at that date was a much easier matter than it is at present, the note itself being a very rough affair and only partly engraved; the amount, the name of the payee and the signature of the cashier being supplied in writing. Vaughan's appears to have been an extremely clumsy imitation, not even an attempt being made to imitate the water mark, which is one of the special signs of a genuine note. Unfortunately, the feasibility of imitation once shown, there were plenty to follow and to improve upon his example. There was, however, no attempt at bank-note forgery on a large scale until the year 1780, when a note was one day presented at the bank and was cashed in ordinary course. The paper, the water mark, the engraving and the signature, all were in perfect order. Indeed, so complete was the deception that it was only when the note was about to be posted to the ledger appropriate to returned notes of that particular date, that it was found to be a duplicate of a note already returned, and consequently a forgery.

It may be here explained that all notes of any given date are always of the same denomination, and that each issue consists of one hundred thousand notes, numbered from one (written 00001) upwards. Thus, before us is a five-pound note bearing date the 30th of June, 1884. Any one conversant with the system on which the notes of the Bank of England are issued, would know at once that no genuine note of any other denomination (that is, of any amount other than five pounds) can bear that particular date, and that of that date there have been one hundred thousand notes printed, each for five pounds. To keep account of these, a ledger lettered on the back to correspond with the particular series (say, "Fives, 30 June 1884") is prepared, ruled with horizontal and vertical lines, so far as to form on each page two hundred rectangular spaces. These are numbered consecutively throughout the book from one to one hundred thousand. As each note is returned to the Bank, the date of its return is entered in the corresponding space in this ledger. A forger, manufacturing, say, five-pound notes, will take care to use a date when a series of five-pound notes was actually issued; and will further take care that the number shall be between one and one hundred thousand, or the imitation would be at once detected by any skilled person. Assuming that the note is so well executed as to pass the cashiers, it is sure to be discovered when it reaches the "Returned Note" department, if the true note bearing the same number has already been presented at the bank, as it would then be seen that there were duplicate notes of that particular number.

Such was the case with the note in question. The attention of the cashiers once called to the matter, it would have been thought that either the presentation of forged notes would cease, or that the detection of the forger would be an easy matter. But it was not so. Similar notes continued to be presented; but the identity of the forger remained a mystery. Lotteries were in vogue at that day, and the notes were generally traced to one or the other of the lottery offices; but there the clue failed.

At last, however, a note being traced to one of these offices, the keepers reported that they had received it from a person named Samuel, living in a street off the Strand. The police went to the address given, and found the young man, who admitted changing the note at the lottery office as alleged, but declared that he had merely done so by the order of his master. He stated that having seen in the Daily Advertiser an advertisement for a servant, he applied for a situation, addressing his reply, as directed, to a certain coffee-house; and that, a day or two later, he was called out from his lodgings to see the advertiser, who was waiting in a coach outside. He found in the coach an aged gentleman, with a patch over one eye, and with one foot swathed in bandages, as if from gout. The old gentleman informed him that his name was Brank; that he required a servant for a ward of his, a young nobleman, just then absent from town; and after a few preliminaries, made an appointment for Samuel to call upon him at his lodgings in Great Titchfield street. He did so; when the sol-disant Brank informed him that his ward had an unfortunate mania for speculating in lotteries, and that one of Samuel's chief occupations would be purchasing tickets for this purpose. By way of beginning, Brank handed him a note for twenty pounds, with instructions to purchase an eight-pound chance in the drawing then commencing, and to meet him with the ticket at the door of the Parliament Street Coffee House. This done, he gave him two more notes to be used in the same way, telling him to meet him afterward at the City Coffee-house, Cheapside. On his way thither, he was hailed from a coach by his venerable employer, and intrusted with four hundred pounds more, to be expended in like manner at different offices; and at the end of the day, notes to the amount of fourteen hundred pounds had been thus placed in circulation. The next day, notes for twelve hundred pounds were got rid of in like manner; and the day following, five hundred more. In negotiating this last parcel of notes, Samuel was asked to write down his name and address, and this led, as we have seen, to his arrest.

The police being satisfied that Samuel spoke the truth, left him in his lodgings, instructing him to report to them when he next heard from his mysterious employer. A day or two later, he received a letter, requesting him to meet Mr. Brank at a certain coffee-house at eleven o'clock the next day. He went to the coffee-house indicated, two officers in disguise closely following him. He was a few minutes late, and was told that a porter had been inquiring for him. He waited at the coffee-house for some time, but in vain. The mysterious Brank had somehow taken the alarm. A raid was made upon the lodgings in Great Titchfield street, but the supposed Brank had not been there for some days. Rewards were offered for his apprehension, and his description—in the "patch" disguise—circulated in the public prints; but in vain.

For five years paper forged by the same hand continued to be presented, and the bank authorities were at their wits' end, when, fortunately for them, the ingenious forger hit on a new form of fraud, which led to his capture. A custom at that time prevailed at the Bank of England, that when a person paid in gold to be exchanged for notes, he did not in the first instance receive the notes themselves, but only a ticket showing the amount, which was exchanged at another counter for the notes.

"On the 17th of December" (1785), it is stated in a newspaper of the day, "ten pounds were paid into the bank, for which the clerk, as usual, gave a ticket to receive a bank note of equal value. This ticket ought to have been carried immediately to the cashier; instead of which the bearer took it home, added a cipher to the original sum, and returning, presented it so altered to the cashier, for which he received a note of one hundred pounds. In the evening the clerks found a deficiency in the accounts; and on examining the tickets of the day, not only that but two others were found to have been altered in the same manner. In one the figure was altered to four and in another to five, by which the artist received on the whole near one thousand pounds."

The numbers of the notes issued had, in usual course, been taken down, and it may be imagined that their return was watched for with interest. At last one of them was presented, and was traced to a highly respectable silversmith. He was interrogated, and stated that he received the note from a gentleman who gave frequent entertainments on a grand scale and was in the habit of hiring plate in large quantities of him for that purpose. A police officer was stationed in the house; and at his next visit the hospitable customer was arrested, and was found to be the forger who had so long baffled all attempts to discover him.

This man, Charles Price, the son of a slopseller in St. Giles, had in his time played many parts. He first appears as a runaway apprentice; then as a gentleman's servant, in which capacity he traveled all over Europe, and doubtless picked up much useful information. He then started as a brewer, became bankrupt; then a distiller and was sent to the King's Bench Prison for defrauding the revenue. He then turned brewer again; then lottery-office keeper; then stockbroker; again became bankrupt; and then opened another lottery office, this, his last public venture, being in King street, Covent Garden. From this date (1780) he disappears from public life, preferring "to blush unseen," and to devote his whole energies to his lucrative warfare against the money-bags of the Bank of England. His only assistants were his wife and a Mrs. Pounteney, a relative of his wife, in whose house he executed the mechanical part of his forgeries, and who acted as a spy to watch the person employed to utter the notes, that Price might be warned in time of any hitch in the proceedings. When Price was taken he made a full confession. It appeared that during the five years, 1780–1785, he had passed under no less than fifty different names, and nearly as many different disguises. Now, however, the game was up, and Price felt that it was so. Before the date at which he should have been brought to trial, he hanged himself in his cell.

Another eminent forger was John Mathison, originally a watchmaker at Gretna Green. Having acquired, as a recreation, the art of engraving, he developed unusual skill therein. He had also an extraordinary facility for imitating handwriting. These accomplishments he employed in imitating, first, the notes of the Darlington Bank, then those of the Royal Bank of Edinburgh, and finally, coming to London, he began upon the notes of the Bank of England. As a proof of his extraordinary energy, we may mention that within ten days of his arrival in London he had begun to utter forged notes, having in the meantime bought the copper, engraved the plate, forged the watermark and printed the notes. He paid frequent visits to the bank, exchanging gold for notes, or notes of one denomination for another, to serve as models for his fraudulent imitations. On one of these occasions a large sum of money was being paid in by the Excise. A question was raised by the teller as to the goodness of one of the notes. Mathison, standing by, pronounced, without hesitation, that it was a good one, which proved to be the case. So remarkable a display of knowledge on the part of an outsider called attention to the volunteer expert. The clerk remembered Mathison as a frequent changer of notes; and this incident led to his apprehension and subsequent conviction. He offered, if his life were spared, to reveal the secret of his process for imitating the watermark; but the offer was not accepted, and he suffered the usual penalty for his offense.

In the year 1797, in consequence of a scarcity of gold, the Bank of England was for the first time authorized to issue one-pound notes, and this led to an enormous increase in the number of forgeries. During six years prior to this date there had been but one capital punishment for forgery. During the four years next following this issue of the one-pound notes there were eighty-five. This was doubtless attributable to the increased number of notes in circulation, the freedom with which they passed from hand to hand, the length of time during which they circulated without presentation, and the fact that, unlike the five-pound notes, their circulation was not confined to the well-to-do and educated classes, but was in a great degree among poor and ignorant persons, who were not likely to detect a spurious imitation. In 1808, the police unearthed, at Birmingham, a regular factory of these notes, whence they were issued wholesale at six shillings in the pound on their nominal value. The forgers, thirteen in number, were arrested, and notes to the amount of ten thousand pounds were seized on the premises.

In the meantime, a fraud of even greater magnitude had been perpetrated within the bank itself, by one of its most trusted servants. In 1803, a Mr. Bish, a stockbroker, was instructed by Mr. Robert Astlett, cashier of the Bank of England, to dispose of some exchequer bills, which, from certain circumstances, Bish knew to be in the official custody of the bank. His suspicions being thus aroused, he communicated with the directors, and it was found that Astlett, who had charge of all exchequer bills brought into the bank, and should have transferred them in parcels properly docketed, to the directors, had succeeded in diverting a large number of them to his own uses, his defalcations amounting to no less than three hundred and twenty thousand pounds. Astlett was tried for his offense, and was sentenced to death; but the sentence was never carried into effect. The prisoner remained in Newgate many years, but whether he died in prison we do not find recorded.

Passing over the great Stock Exchange frauds of 1814, as a matter in which the bank was only indirectly interested, we come to the forgeries of Fauntleroy, which, from their magnitude and the position of the offender, produced an extraordinary sensation. Henry Fauntleroy had succeeded his father as a partner in the banking firm of Marsh, Stracy & Co. The firm was unfortunate, and Fauntleroy speculated largely on the Stock Exchange, in the hope of improving its fortunes, but actually involved himself thereby in still greater difficulties. To meet these, he forged powers of attorney enabling him to deal with funded securities belonging to various clients, from time to time replacing one fund by the proceeds of a later forgery. He began in May, 1815, with a power of attorney empowering Messrs. Marsh & Co. to sell out a sum of three thousand pounds consols. It is an every-day occurrence for clients to give such powers to their bankers, and the one in question appeared to be in perfect order. It appeared to be executed by the fundholder, one Frances Young, of Chichester, and to be attested by two of the clerks of Messrs. Marsh & Co. The power was presented at the Bank of England. There was nothing to excite suspicion, and the document was acted on in ordinary course. From this date up to 1824, the presentation of such powers by Messrs. Marsh & Co. became a matter of frequent occurrence, and very large sums were thus obtained. At last a crash came. Henry Fauntleroy was joint trustee with some other gentlemen of certain moneys invested in the three per cents. One of the trustees, chancing to call at the bank to make some inquiry respecting the trust fund, found, to his horror, that it had been sold out, under an alleged power of attorney, by Mr. Fauntleroy. In consequence of his communication to the bank authorities, the whole of the powers acted upon by Marsh & Co. were investigated; and a great part of them were found to be forged. On the 11th of September, 1824, Fauntleroy was arrested in his own banking-house. He offered the officer who arrested him ten thousand pounds if he would connive at his escape, but in vain. On searching his private office, a box was found containing a long list of forgeries, with a memorandum in the following words:

> In order to keep up the credit of our house, I have forged powers of attorney, and have therefore sold out all these sums, without the knowledge of any of my partners. I have given credit in the accounts for the interest when it became due.
>
> (Signed) HENRY FOUNTLEROY.

It is said that at the moment of his apprehension he had ready a fresh power of attorney, by means of which he would have been enabled to replace the stock whose absence led to the discovery. The amount of loss to the bank of England by Fauntleroy's forgeries is said to have been no less than three hundred and sixty thousand pounds. He was executed at Newgate on November 30, 1824.

For some time after this date, forgery continued to be a capital offense, but there was a growing feeling against the severity of the punishment. In 1832, a bill was passed abolishing the capital penalty in the case of all forgeries save those of wills and powers of attorney, and in 1837 these also ceased to be capital offenses.

In 1844, a very ingenious fraud was perpetrated, with the curious result of restoring to the rightful owner a large sum of money of whose very existence she was not aware. In the year 1815, a Mr. Slack died, leaving a Mr. Hulme his executor. Mr. Hulme, in the course of his duties as such, transferred into the name of Ann Slack, of Smith street, Chelsea, six thousand six hundred pounds consols, and three thousand five hundred pounds three per cent. reduced annuities. During Mr. Hulme's lifetime he received the dividends on both funds, and Miss Slack drew on him for money as she needed it. Upon his death in 1832, Miss Slack resolved thenceforth to receive her dividends herself; but only did so as regarded the six thousand six hundred pounds consols, not being aware, apparently, that she was also entitled to the three thousand five hundred pounds. This state of things continued from 1832 to 1842, when the three thousand five hundred pounds reduced annuities, with the ten years' dividends, were transferred, as unclaimed, to the commissioners for the reduction of the national debt. The fact of the transfer being known to a clerk in the bank, one William Christian, he communicated it to one Joshua Fletcher, who forthwith concocted a scheme for possessing himself of the amount. With the aid of a solicitor named Barber, he ascertained that Ann Slack was still alive, and managed to obtain a specimen of her signature. He then registered Ann Slack as deceased, first, however, forging a will in her name purporting to bequeath the sum in question to a supposed niece, Emma Slack. This will was duly proved, and the probate lodged at the Bank of England. A woman named Sanders personated the supposed Emma Slack. The three thousand five hundred pounds were sold out, and the proceeds paid to her, together with the unclaimed dividends, amounting to about eleven hundred pounds. The conspirators had carried their plan through very cleverly; but they overlooked one point. The will only professed to bequeath the reduced annuities, and consequently these only had been dealt with; but as the bank authorities knew that Ann Slack had also possessed a fund in consols, they, in accordance with their usual practice, placed "deceased" against her name in the title of that account. When an account is "dead"—that is, stands in the name of a deceased person—no addition can be made to it. Ann Slack, shortly afterward, desiring to add more stock to this account, was informed, to her astonishment, that she was dead. To prove that she was not so, she presented herself at the bank with ample proof of her identity. Fletcher and Barber were tried, and found guilty. The money was gone, but Ann Slack, notwithstanding, received her full due, the loss being borne by the Government.

The last great fraud by which the Bank of England has been a sufferer was that of Austin Bidwell and his accomplices. On the 18th of April, 1882, Austin Bidwell called upon a tailor named Green, in Saville Row, and under the assumed name of Warren, gave him a handsome order. On May 4 he paid Mr. Green another visit. He was then professedly on his way to Ireland, and having about him a large sum of money, asked Green to take charge of it during his absence. Green hesitated to take the responsibility, but remarked the branch Bank of England was in Burlington Gardens close by, and offered to introduce Warren there. This was done, and Warren opened an account by a deposit of twelve hundred pounds. He gave his name as Frederick Albert Warren, and his address as Golden Cross Hotel. He paid in and drew out moneys to a considerable amount, and shortly began to offer bills for discount. They bore the best of names, and were discounted without hesitation. On the 17th of June, 1873, a bill of Rothschild's for four thousand five hundred pounds was offered, and was discounted in due course.

Having thus gained, by transactions in genuine bills, the confidence of the bank authorities, the supposed Warren commenced operations of another kind. Bills came in thick and fast for discount, still bearing the first-class names—Rothschild, Blydenstein, Suse and Sibeth, etc.—but they were now cleverly executed forgeries. The bank continued to discount without suspicion. Naturally, however, it paid in its own notes, of which the numbers were recorded, and which, when it was discovered that the bills were forged, would be difficult to realize. Bidwell, in order to dispose of these and to diminish the chances of identification, opened an account in another name (Horton) at the Continental Bank. Here he paid in the notes received from the Bank of England, taking French and German money in exchange, Hills—under the name of Noyes—acting as his clerk. Sometimes, by way of variety, Hills changed notes into gold at Bank of England itself, alleging that the coin was for export; but the gold so obtained was brought back again by Macdonnell, and exchanged for fresh notes, which, thus obtained, would have no obvious connection with the original fraud. George Bidwell undertook what may be called the manufacturing department, namely, the preparation of the plates, and the printing of the bill-forms for the forgerie. By thus dividing their labors, and working each in a distinct department of the fraud, the gang hoped to evade discovery until they had made what they regarded as a sufficient haul, when they would doubtless have retired to foreign climes to enjoy the fruits of their labors. How much further they would have gone it is impossible to say, for they had already forged bills to the amount of £102,217, 9s. 7d., when a happy oversight led to their detection. Two bills for one thousand pounds each, professedly accepted by Messsrs. Blydenstein, and payable three months after "sight," were not "sighted," that is, the date of acceptance was not inserted. A clerk of the bank was sent to Messrs. Blydenstein's to get the omission rectified, and was met by the startling information that the bills were forgeries. With some little trouble, the whole of the gang was arrested, and after a trial lasting eight days, were convicted and sentenced to penal servitude.

The cases we have just described afford an unusually forcible illustration of the good old-fashioned maxim that "Honesty is the best policy." If dishonesty ever were a paying game, it should be in the case of such men as these, with so much ability employed, playing for such heavy stakes, and with schemes so carefully planned. And yet, what must the life of such a schemer be? Fauntleroy, we are told, did for years the work of three clerks, in order to conceal his frauds. Fare as sumptuously, entertain as lavishly as he may, the schemer must live with every nerve strained, in constant dread of detection, ever feeling the thief-takers' hand on his collar, the steel of the hand-cuffs upon his wrists. In most instances, he does not derive even a transient benefit from his crime. Where there is a temporary success, as in the case of Fauntleroy, the proceeds of one forgery are perforce devoted to make good another, or the money gained by fraud is squandered in unprofitable speculations. And sooner or later, the end is sure to come. The most watchful of men can not be always on his guard. Some day, a little slip is made, perhaps the mere omission of a date, as in Bidwell's case, or an incautious remark, as in that of Mathison, and then the dock and a violent death, or, even under the present merciful regime, long years spent in the convict's garb, living on convict's fare, and herding with the very dregs of humanity.—Ballou's Magazine.

When clothes are scorched remove the stain by placing the garment where the sun can shine on it.—Exchange.

INCOMPLETE TRAINING.

Housekeeping Knowledge Which Every Young Wife Should Possess.

A noticeable portion of the discomfort of life to the newly-married arises from a certain defect in education—we regret to say it—on the part of the wives. Other portions may arise (to say nothing of other shortcomings in the wives) from the exactions, tyrannies, tempers and general ill-behavior on the part of the husbands. But one serious flaw in the knowledge and habits of the wives is sufficient to develop many of these tempers and exactions, and sometimes to drive the husbands elsewhere for the comfort that they ought to have at home.

If a woman marries and undertakes the conduct of a home, it is supposed that she knows how to conduct the house, and if she does not know how, she must learn how; for no matter what she thinks is woman's sphere in general, it is certainly her duty to fulfil her obligations, and the obligation that she has here assumed is that of conducting the household affairs as well as it is possible to conduct them.

Yet, in view of this, how many young wives are there who, if the cook should suddenly fail them, can make one single article of daily diet—the article of the morning coffee, for instance—as well as it ought to be made? Some sort of coffee, of course, she could turn out, but, as a general thing, it would be a strong and bitter draught, rather inclined to be muddy, and not the clear, amber, translucent aurum potabile that diffuses a rich and pungent odor through the house. Or, again, take an entirely different branch of housekeeping affairs—the washing of the flannels. Perhaps the husband is sensitive to the weather, rheumatic or phthisicky, cannot wear the ordinary and comparatively inexpensive flannel, and has to have a peculiarly thick and nice flannel that is very costly, or even, if he does not differ from the great majority, but, wearing flannels at all, he can not afford to have them shrunk to nothing, or so that it is an effort to get into them after they have been washed a few times, and dislikes to go about trussed up like a fowl ready for the spit. Ten to one, then, the second time the new flannels come out of the wash they will not only be as stiff as a board, but so shrunken as to be some sizes too small for the owner. In vain the young housekeeper has them washed; she thinks her mother had flannels washed; in vain she asks all her acquaintance in subtle ways how it is that they wash flannels; in vain at last, she makes no ado, but asks the scornful elder housekeepers, perhaps, indeed, her husband's mother among them, what course they have pursued with this troublesome branch of laundry-work: every one has a different way, and few of them a right way, and some of them even tell her there is no way: and it takes a struggle of months, together with infinite unhappiness, crimination, recrimination and tears, in order to make the thing satisfactory, and to do right at last that which should have been done right in the beginning. The whole trouble is due to defective education. For while the young lady has learned to talk French, to play Schumann and Schubert, to understand political economy, and has, it may be, all those accomplishments with which Miss Pinkerton represented Miss Tiffin to Mrs. Bute Crawley, she has not learned the proper way in which to make coffee or wash flannels. It was supposed, perhaps, that she would never have such work to do; perhaps she never will; but all the same it is exceedingly desirable that she shall know how to do it, even if she is never called upon to lift a finger in the actual effort.

In some of our schools of late certain domestic branches have begun to receive attention, whether in the interlude of books or as of equal importance. One of these branches is sewing, in whose various departments the girls are instructed, and proficiency with the needle is required of them as much as with the crayon and blackboard. And although as much as that is assuredly a great gain in public instruction, as the neat placing of a patch or working of a button-hole is something to be learned early, yet it would not be amiss if the matter went still further, and instruction were given in the arts of the kitchen, the laundry, and the buttery as well. Even if this were too much to have intermingled with the regular and usual course of study, it might not be impossible to add it to the course subsequently, and to consider no girl's education complete till she has a diploma in the common sorts of every day cookery, and the simple house-keeping usages which will come into play the moment that she has a home of her own. It is very well for her to know Greek if she will, or to be able to read the Vedas in the original, but she is by so much less a woman if she do not know how also to set her house in order. She is the victim of misplaced confidence, the martyr to her husband, the slave to her work, if she has not this knowledge; and if she has it, she is mistress of the situation, and rules her corner of the world with an absolute sway from which there is not only no appeal, but no wish for power of appeal.—Harper's Bazar.

INDIVIDUALITY.

The Subtle Personal Quality That Should Pervade Your Work.

Every man's work is marked by a quality of its own. A similar work, both in kind and degree, may perhaps be done by others more swiftly, more efficiently, more systematically, than by the one to whom it is entrusted, yet that one person's work will have a subtle personal quality not to be exactly matched in the work of the others. The question, then, is not whether another could do the work which you are doing more quickly and more thoroughly than you are doing it, but whether any one can do your work with just exactly the quality which you personality gives to it. There is room in the world for all kinds of work, done in all kinds of ways, by all kinds of people. You and your work may be only a single special note in the great orchestra of earth and sky; take care that that note be not lacking in the great harmony.—S. S. Times.

Foolscap Paper.

Paper of this kind and size had from the thirteenth to the seventeenth century, a water-mark representing a fool's head, ornamented with a cap and bells, such as the jesters of the old nobility used to wear. It has been intimated that the idea was suggested by a corruption of the Italian name for this size of paper, folio-capo, meaning folio-sized sheet. But this is not probable, as such an error would not have occurred except among those speaking the English language, and this paper was not made in England until nearly the close of the sixteenth century. Up to that time it was manufactured in France, Italy and the Netherlands only. The use of the foolscap water-mark was given up about the beginning of the eighteenth century.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

—A Chautauqua County cheese-maker went to Buffalo the other day and brought home a fine imported Swiss cheese. All praised it but his wife, who, after the praise had ceased, said she had found her husband's private mark on the cheese. He had paid thirty-three cents a pound for the very cheese he had made and sold for six cents.—Buffalo Courier.

HOME AND FARM.

—To tell good eggs, put them in water; if the large end turns up they are not fresh. This is an infallible rule to distinguish a good egg from a bad one.—The Household.

—Where silesia is used for dress lining an authority states that by placing the selvage at the neck, instead of for the front lap it will not stretch nearly so much as when used in the old way.—Boston Globe.

—To prevent blue calico from fading, pour one ounce of sugar of lead into a pail of water, soak the material in the solution for two hours, and let dry before being washed and ironed. This is good for all shades of blue.—Boston Globe.

—Brown Bread: Two cups of graham flour, one cup of wheat flour, one pinch of salt, two cups of sour or buttermilk, one and one-half teaspoonful of soda or saleratus. Bake in a moderate oven for half an hour. Sweeten with sugar or molasses, if liked.—The Caterer.

—The cow, when yielding milk, needs a warmer stable than the ox. If we draw from her twenty pounds of milk daily that is at the temperature of one hundred degrees we must in some way furnish her with the means of restoring the caloric to the system.—Troy Times.

—Pie Crust: Two cups of lard, one cup of water, a pinch of salt. Mix the salt and lard in the flour; then add the water. Do not get it too thick with flour. If that is not rich enough to suit you, mix three-fourths of a cup of water with the same amount of lard.—Western Rural.

—The secret in mashing potatoes is to have all the utensils used as hot as possible, and to beat the mass till light instead of pressing down smooth and solid, adding cream, butter and salt at will. A desirable result is reached by rubbing the mashed potato through a hot colander and leaving it just as it falls into the dish.—Chicago Tribune.

—Graham muffins made in this way are wholesome for breakfast: One quart of graham flour, one tablespoonful of baking powder and half a teaspoonful of salt sifted. To this add two eggs well beaten, two ounces of melted butter and enough milk to form a thin batter, mixing thoroughly. Bake in muffin rings or pans half filled with the batter in a brisk oven.—Cleveland Leader.

—Covered yards possess one advantage in regard to the smaller consumption of food by animals that are covered than by animals that are not. The cold wind, which causes a loss of the heat of the body of an animal, necessitates that animal consuming more food to regain such heat; but the wet which falls upon any animal requires a still much larger amount of heat in order to convert that moisture into vapor. Under a covered yard an animal is protected not only from cold winds, but also from the rain, and an immense amount of food is thus saved.—Albany Journal.

COMING FASHIONS.

Decided Novelties in Silks, Pongees, Mixed Fabrics and Parasols.

Spring parasols show decided novelties, both in shape and material.

The newest shapes are the Japanese, which have the points turned back like the petals of a lily; the French with deeply curved outline, and the reverse of this with the center of each gore cut in a long scallop.

Each of these is adapted to a different style of trimming. Among new and stylish materials are the etamines, with embroidered stripes, lined with fawn and ecru shades; the crapes printed or embroidered, the double-faced silks and satins which give the effect of a lined parasol without the objectionable weight, the broad stripes running round and up and down embroidered silks, and laces in various styles and colors.

Some parasols which roll up very compactly are supplied with a snug case of the same material, an improvement which will be appreciated by users of parasols.

Silk bids fair the coming season to make up for its past eclipse by an unprecedented popularity. The rise in the price of raw material some time since showed the probable course of events, and the variety of styles in silk goods, particularly those of moderate price, is another sure indication.

Surahs, India and China silks and pongees have all appeared in new varieties. Satins of all kinds are in request, and new inventions in velvets and plushes are exhibited.

Elaborate combinations of several weaves in one fabric go to show, as might be expected, that silk fabrics are not to be merely a summer fancy, while for the warm season the supply of silk crapes, crepe de Chines and gauzes includes striking novelties, which increase their range of usefulness.

Mixed fabrics, partly of silk, are also in high favor, and include not only the Bengalines and other well-known goods, but a variety of beautiful new silk warp dress materials.

Meanwhile the smaller articles of silk, on which manufacturers have been obliged to depend during the years of famine, are as good as ever.

The silk ribbons, laces, scarfs, sashes, handkerchiefs, hosiery and materials for fancy work are, generally speaking, in as much demand as when they were the only support of the business.—N. Y. Herald.

WASHING SHEEP.

The Old-Time Practice Which Should Be Abandoned in Our Day.

There are many reasons why the few growers who still persist should abandon the habit of washing their sheep before shearing, and we know of not a single argument in its favor. The practice was inaugurated at an early day, and is a relic of old times, when the wool shorn from the small flocks in the Eastern States was largely used up at home. Then it was necessary to wash either before or after shearing, to prepare it for carding or spinning. Those days are past, and both the sheep and their owners ought to be glad of it.

The yolk in a healthy fleece is nature's preservation of the fiber. It is a soapy matter, with a strong potash base, resembling no other animal secretion; it is, in fact, a soap with more or less free oil. It preserves the elasticity of the fiber and should be left in the wool until it is wanted for manufacturing use. Manufacturers well know that scoured wool, in time, becomes brittle and loses its elasticity while unwashed retains all its good qualities indefinitely. It is doubtful if anybody ever saw a mouth in unwashed wool. It is, as a rule, free from all vermin. The percentage of yolk in healty flocks of even grade is quite uniform, but varying in different breeds from twenty-five per cent. in the Leicester and other coarse breeds to fifty to seventy-five per cent. in the very Finest Saxon, the bucks always carrying more than the ewes. The system of washing in cold water on the sheep's back never results in a washed fleece fit for the manufacturer, but only the eradication of an unknown and uncertain part of the yolk, contained in the fleece, which is thus changed into an unmerchantable commodity to be sold on its uncertain merits as to shrinkage. The name or designation of washed wool has ceased to have any charm, and the sooner the practice of washing is entirely abandoned the better it will be for the sheep and their owners and the trade generally.—Wool Journal.

SHEEP STORIES.

How Little Lambs Are Mystified by Their Shorn Mothers.

James Hogg, the shepherd poet, has related many interesting incidents in his experience. Among these is that the sheep's sense of hearing is so acute that she can distinguish the cry of her own lamb among a thousand others all bleating at the same time; and the lamb is able to recognise its mother's voice, even though it be in the midst of a large flock.

In relation to the mystification of the lambs over their dams after the latter had been shorn, he says while the sheep were being shorn, the lambs would be put into a fold by themselves, and the former be sent to join their little ones as soon as the operation of shearing was over. The moment a lamb heard its mother's voice it would hasten from the crowd to meet her. Instead of finding the "rough, well-clad mamma," which it had left a short time before, it would meet a strange and most deplorable creature. At the sight of this it would wheel about, uttering a most piteous cry of despair. Soon, however, the sheep's voice was heard again; the lamb would thereupon return, then once more bound away, and sometimes repeat this conduct for ten or a dozen times before it fully understood that the shorn ewe was in reality its mother.—Farm, Field and Stockman.

Awful If True.

"We are selling a good many false bangs," said a hair-dresser.

"For ladies?" inquired the reporter.

"No, for young men. Bangs are all the rage now, and every young fellow must have one. Many of them are bald, or their hair is too thin on the forehead, so they call on us to help them. We make a bang that can not be distinguished from the genuine article. It is fastened on with wires, and when neatly combed looks very nice. A bang should come about half an inch short of the eye-brows, and should be evenly cut. It should never be worn with full beard, as it contracts the face too much. It is most effective with a drooping moustache."—N. Y. Sun.

—A young Philadelphia lady whose voice had been much admired at home, went to Paris for a year's study. When she returned the change in her name was noticed to be far beyond that in her voice. From plain Hattie Eddy she had become Henriette Edica.—Philadelphia Press.

In the United States Senate, during a recent debate, Senator Vest, of Missouri, paid a high tribute to the merits of St. Jacobs Oil.

Boards of Health endorse Red Star Cough Cure as free from poison. Prompt and sure, and only twenty-five cents a bottle.

We suppose a firm of proof-readers could be properly called "The house of correction."

"Delays Are Dangerous."

If you are pale, emaciated, have a hacking cough, with night-sweats, spitting of blood and shortness of breath, you have no time to lose. Do not hesitate too long—'till you are past cure; for, taken in its early stages, consumption can be cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," as thousands can testify. By druggists.

A petrified clock has been found in Rome. Another indication of hard times.—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

"Woman and Her Diseases"

is the title of an interesting illustrated treatise (160 pages) sent, post-paid, for 10 cents in stamps. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

A rousing appeal—Time to get up.—New Haven News.

Color the whiskers a handsome brown or black with Buckingham's Dye for the Whiskers.

If the liver is disordered, the whole system suffers. Ayer's Pills correct this trouble.

Sneezes are like misfortunes. They seldom come singly.—Boston Transcript.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute, 25c. Glenn's Sulphur Soap heals and beautifies. 25c. German Corn Remover kills Corns & Bunions.

The most obnoxious form of "light literature" is a gas bill.—Boston Bulletin.

THE MARKETS.

Cincinnati, April 8.
LIVE STOCK—Cattle—Common	$2 00	@ 2 75
Choice Butchers	4 00	@ 4 75
HOGS—Common	3 45	@ 3 90
Good Packers	4 10	@ 4 30
SHEEP—Good to choice	4 25	@ 5 25
FLOUR—Family	3 85	@ 4 15
GRAIN—Wheat—Longberry red	90	@ 91
No. 2 red	88	@ 90
Corn—No. 2 mixed	36	@ 37½
Oats—No. 2 mixed	32	@ 32½
Rye—No. 2	67	@ 68
HAY—Timothy No. 1	12 00	@12 50
TOBACCO—Common Lugs	8 00	@ 9 60
Good Mediums	10 00	@11 25
PROVISIONS—Pork—Mess	10 12½	@10 25
Lard—Prime steam	6½	@ 6¾
BUTTER—Choice Dairy	14	@ 15
Ohio Creamery	22	@ 30
APPLES—Prime	1 50	@ 1 65
POTATOES—per bushel	55	@ 60
NEW YORK.
FLOUR—State and Western	$2 90	@ 3 40
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 Chicago		@ 94½
No. 2 red		@ 92
Corn—No. 2 mixed	44	@ 47
Oats—mixed	37	@ 43
PORK—Mess	9 50	@10 50
LARD—Western steam		@ 6 25
CHICAGO.
FLOUR—State and Western	$4 50	@ 4 85
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red	80½	@ 80¾
No. 2 Chicago Spring	74¾	@ 77½
Corn—No. 2	33½	@ 36½
Oats—No. 2		@ 28¾
Rye	55½	@ 56
PORK—Mess		@ 9 40
LARD—Steam		@ 5 95
BALTIMORE.
FLOUR—Family	$4 50	@ 5 00
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2	90½	@ 90¾
Corn—Mixed	45¾	@ 45¾
Oats—Mixed	37	@ 38¾
PROVISIONS—Pork—Mess	10 25	@11 75
Lard—Refined	7¼	@ 7½
CATTLE—First quality	4 87½	@ 5 10
HOGS	5 50	@ 6 37½
INDIANAPOLIS.
Wheat—No. 2 red	$	@ 85½
Corn—mixed		@ 35
Oats—mixed		@ 30¼
LOUISVILLE.
Flour—A No. 1	$4 00	@ 4 50
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red	89	@ 90
Corn—mixed	36½	@ 37
Oats—mixed		@ 32¼
PORK—mess		@10 50
LARD—steam	7 75	@ 8 00

Don't Get Caught

This Spring, as you may have been before, with your blood full of impurities, your digestion impaired, appetite poor, kidneys and liver torpid, and whole system liable to be prostrated by disease—but get yourself into good condition, and ready for the changing and warmer weather, by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. It stands unequaled for purifying the blood, giving an appetite, and for a regulating and general spring medicine. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"My wife had very poor health for a long time, suffering from indigestion, poor appetite, and constant headache. She tried every thing we could hear of, but found no relief till she tried Hood's Sarsaparilla. She is now taking the third bottle, and never felt better in her life. We feel it our duty to recommend it to every one we know." Geo. Somerville, Moreland, Cook Co., Ill.

"I took Hood's Sarsaparilla for general debility and was wonderfully benefited by it." J. P. Johnson, Martin's Ferry, O.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

FOR COUGHS, CROUP AND CONSUMPTION USE

TAYLOR'S CHEROKEE REMEDY OF SWEET GUM AND MULLEIN.

The Sweet Gum from a tree of the same name growing in the South, Combined with a tea made from the Mullein plant of the old fields. For sale by all druggists at 25 cents and $1.00 per bottle.
WALTER A. TAYLOR, Atlanta, Ga.

"Yes! I shall break the engagement," she said, folding her arms and looking defiant; "it is really too much trouble to converse with him; he's as deaf as a post, and talks like he had a mouthful of mush. Besides, the way he hawks and spits is disgusting." "Don't break the engagement for that; tell him to take Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It will cure him completely." "Well, I'll tell him. I do hate to break it off, for in all other respects he's quite too charming." Of course, it cured his catarrh.

It is not considered necessary in society to return a bill-collector's call.—Chicago Tribune.

A Winter Storm.

Why is a winter storm like a child with a bad cold? It blows, it snows (it blows its nose). Cure it with Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullein. Walter A. Taylor, Propriator, Atlanta, Ga.

It is, as a general thing, far easier to raise a row than to raise a mustache.—Chicago Telegram.

The best cough medicine is Piso's Cure for Consumption. Sold everywhere. 25c.

Always comes out on top—Your hair.—Boston Traveller.

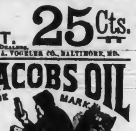
If afflicted with Sore Eyes use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye Water. Druggists sell it. 25c.

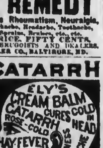
Because a baby is a little yeller it's no sign he is a Chinaman.—Palmer Journal.

RED STAR TRADE MARK COUGH CURE

Absolutely Free from Opiates, Emetics and Poison.
SAFE. SURE. PROMPT. 25 Cts.
AT DRUGGISTS AND DEALERS.
THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO., BALTIMORE, MD.



ST. JACOBS OIL TRADE MARK
THE GREAT GERMAN REMEDY
For Pain
Cures Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Backache, Headache, Toothache, Sprains, Bruises, etc., etc.
PRICE, FIFTY CENTS.
AT DRUGGISTS AND DEALERS.
THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO., BALTIMORE, MD.



Justice.

For 25 years I was afflicted with catarrh. For two months at a time confined to my room. I tried Ely's Cream Balm, from the first I found relief. It is the best remedy I ever tried.—W. C. Mathews, Justice of the Peace, Shenandoah, Ia.

I have improved greatly since using Ely's Cream Balm for catarrh. I feel like a new man. It is a blessing to humanity.—Jonas D. Farrell, Hartford, Conn.

CATARRH HAY-FEVER

A particle is applied into each nostril: is agreeable to use. Price 50 cents by mail or at Druggists. Send for circular. ELY BROTHERS, Druggists, Owego, N.Y.

ASTHMA CURED

German Asthma Cure never fails to give immediate relief in the worst cases, insures comfortable sleep; affects cures where all others fail. A trial convinces the most skeptical. Price 50c. and $1.00, of Druggists or by mail. Sample FREE for stamp. Dr. R. SCHIFFMAN, St. Paul, Minn.

Buckeye Folding Binder.

The lightest running elevator binder is the world. Folds so as to pass through farm gates. Requires less storage room. Never misses a bundle. Mention this paper when you send for our Catalogue.
C. Aultman & Co., Canton, Ohio.

CONSUMPTION

I have a positive remedy for the above disease; by its use thousands of cases of the worst kind and of long standing have been cured. Indeed, so strong is my faith in its efficacy, that I will send TWO BOTTLES FREE, together with a VALUABLE TREATISE on this disease, to any sufferer. Give Express and P. O. address. DR. T. A. SLOCUM, 181 Pearl St., N. Y.

ARTISTS' MATERIALS. Lustra and Kensington Colors. Repousse Work. Wax Flower Supplies. Send for our various catalogues. Mail orders solicited. HOFFMANN BROS., 105 Main Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

HAIR Wigs, Bangs and Waves sent C. O. D. any where. Wholesale and retail price-list free. B. C. Strehl & Co., 173 Wabash-av., Chicago.

OH! MY BACK

Every strain or cold attacks that weak back and nearly prostrates you.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS
THE BEST TONIC
QUALITY NOT QUANTITY. P PURITY. Trade Mark. On Every Bottle.
PHYSICIANS AND DRUGGISTS RECOMMEND IT.

Strengthens the Muscles, Steadies the Nerves, Enriches the Blood, Gives New Vigor.

Mr. A. Pillsbury, Cleveland, Ohio, says: "I was troubled with terrible pains in my back and I could not stoop over. I tried many different remedies without relief. Two bottles of Brown's Iron Bitters entirely cured me."

Mr. Daniel Hodges, 80½ Seventh St., Louisville, Ky., says: "I was troubled with Neuralgia and pains in my back. I have been greatly benefited by using two bottles of Brown's Iron Bitters."

Genuine has above Trade Mark and crossed red lines on wrapper. Take no other. Made only by BROWN CHEMICAL CO., BALTIMORE, MD.

M. EHRET, JR. & CO.
—MANUFACTURERS OF—
FOR FLAT AND STEEP ROOFS.
GUARANTEED
CHEAPEST & BEST IN USE.
ABSOLUTELY
WATER, FIRE & WIND-PROOF.
PUT ON BY ANYBODY.
W. O. BURGESS, Agt.,
8 and 9 Public Landing, CINCINNATI, O.

LE PAGE'S LIQUID GLUE
MENDS EVERYTHING
Wood, Leather, Paper, Ivory, Glass, China, Furniture, Bric-a-Brac, &c. Strong as Iron, Solid as a Rock. The total quantity sold during the past five years amounted to over 32 MILLION
bottles. EVERYBODY WANTS IT. All dealers can sell it. Awarded
TWO GOLD MEDALS.
London, 1883. New Orleans, 1885. Pronounced Strongest Glue known. Send dealer's card and 10c. postage for sample can FREE by mail.
Contains no Acid.
RUSSIA CEMENT CO. Gloucester, Mass.

FREE FARMS IN SUNNY SAN LUIS.

The most Wonderful Agricultural Park in America. Surrounded by prosperous mining and manufacturing towns. FARMER'S PARADISE! Magnificent crops raised in 1885. THOUSANDS OF ACRES OF GOVERNMENT LAND, subject to pre-emption & homestead. Lands for sale to actual settlers at $3.00 per Acre. Long Time. Park irrigated by immense canals. Cheap railroad rates. Every attention shown settlers. For maps, pamphlets, etc., address COLORADO LAND & LOAN CO., Opera House Block, Denver, Colo. Box, 2390.

THE NEW DEPARTURE DRUMS are made with patent double acting rods and folding knee rest. Light, substantial and handsome Used in the best Bands and Orchestras. Unequaled for tone, surpass all other in finish and appearance. If nearest Music dealer does not keep them, write to us for illustrated catalogue.
LYON & HEALY, Chicago, Ill.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
25 CTS.

OPIUM Habit, Quickly and Painlessly cured at home. Correspondence solicited and free trial of cure sent honest investigators. THE HUMANE REMEDY COMPANY, Lafayette, Ind.

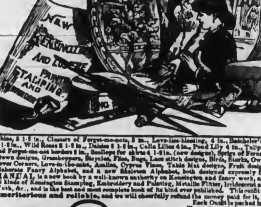
FREE LOVE A book worth $10, on & Courtship, sent free by the Union Pub Co., Newark, N.J. Send stamps for post'g.

CANCER Treated and cured without the knife. Book on treatment sent free. Address F. L. POND, M.D., Aurora, Kane Co., Ill.

FINE Blooded Cattle, Sheep, Hogs, Poultry, dogs for sale. Catalogues with 150 engravings free. N. P. Boyer & Co., Coatesville, Pa.



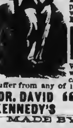
NEW KENSINGTON AND LUSTRE PAINTING STAMPING AND EMBROIDERY

$4.00 WORTH FOR ONLY $1.00.

A NEW OUTFIT FOR KENSINGTON WORK

contains 200 New and Original Perforated Stamping Patterns on finest Bond Parchment Paper, 1 Box Blue Stamping Powder for light fabrics, 1 Box White Stamping Powder for dark fabrics, 2 New Style Pounces, 1 New Manual of Kensington and Fancy Work with 200 Original Illustrations. The patterns in this outfit are made by ourselves by the most improved machinery, and are the finest patterns produced. Among the 200 new and assorted designs are New design for block in Crazy Patchwork, 8x8 in., Bird and Nest in holly sprig, 8x10 in., Swans in water lily lake 8x10 in., Golden Rod and Thistle, 8x8 in., Squirrel eating nuts in branch of tree, 9x8 in., White Daisy and Buttercup combination, 8x8 in., Bunch of Pansies, 8x8 in., Moss Roses for Ribbon Work, Wild Rose, Lily of the Valley, Coxcomb, Golden Rod and other handsome designs for Thermometers, Spider's Web, Pond Lily, Tulip, Owls, and other designs for Banners and Stool Covers, all 8x7 inches in size, Golden Rod, 4 1-2 in., Bunches of Fuchsias, 3 1-2 in., Clusters of Forget-me-nots, 3 in., Love-lies-bleeding, 4 in., Batchelor's Buttons, 3 in., Barberry, 9 in., Strawberry, 3 1-2 in., Wild Roses 3 1-2 in., Daisies 3 1-2 in., Calla Lilies 4 in., Pond Lily 4 in., Tulip 4 in., Moss Roses, 3 in., Cat Tails 3 in., Daisy and Forget-me-not borders 3 in., Scallops for skirts 4 1-2 in. (new designs), Sprigs of Ferns 3 in., 10 assorted Crystal Etchings (new) Hat Crown designs, Grasshoppers, Bicycles, Flies, Bugs, Lace stitch designs, Birds, Storks, Owls, Butterflies, Boy designs, Girl designs, Table Cover Corners, Love-in-the-mist, Azalias, Cyprus Vines, Table Mat designs, Fruit designs, Umbrella Case designs, &c., &c., also an Elaborate Fancy Alphabet, and a new Skeleton Alphabet, both designed expressly for this outfit. THE FANCY WORK MANUAL is a new book by a well-known authority on Kensington and fancy work, and contains full instructions and directions for all kinds of Kensington Stamping, Embroidery and Painting, Metallic Flitter, Irridescent and Lustre Painting, Ribbon Embroidery, Wax Work, &c., and is the best and most complete book of its kind ever published. This outfit is not made up of small worthless designs, but is meritorious and reliable, and we will cheerfully refund the money paid for it, if any lady on receiving it is dissatisfied.

Each Outfit is packed in a nice Satchel, with handle, as shown in this illustration, which serves to carry the patterns in when doing stamping for your neighbors, or as a receptacle for the outfit at home. At regular retail prices the patterns alone would amount to at least $4.00. Ladies can make their own living with this stamping outfit, doing work for their neighbors, besides beautifying the home and ornamenting their and children's clothing. The reason we can sell this outfit for so little money is that we manufacture them all ourselves and pay no second profits to anyone. Many ladies are supporting themselves to-day doing stamping, and the "craze" is becoming more prevalent every day. Our immense factory fronts over 300 feet on the line of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, and is the most extensive of its kind in the world. The Postmaster General having recently located a postoffice in our building expressly for our mail business, we have now complete facilities for filling all orders promptly and to the entire satisfaction of our customers. We shall be pleased to see any of our customers in person, or anyone in this section of the state can tell you of our absolute reliability. THE R. L. SPENCER CO., Wallingford, Conn.



MARCH, APRIL, MAY

Are the three arches of a bridge which bind the season of ice to that of roses. SPRING IS A TRYING TIME for invalids. At this time you should seek to cleanse and purify your system from humors. If you are vexed with indigestion, headache, want of appetite, disordered liver and kidneys, constipation, or feverish skin, take DR. D. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY to

PURIFY THE BLOOD

Without an hour's delay. It is mild, quick and positive in action. Keep it in the house when you are at home, for the blood, and take it with you on journeys. You will find it cheaper than sickness, and as pleasant to take as the hand of a friend. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to the sex, FAVORITE REMEDY proves a real blessing.

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S "FAVORITE REMEDY." SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS. $1 per Bottle; 6 for $5.00.
MADE BY DR. DAVID KENNEDY, RONDOUT, N. Y.

LIST OF DISEASES
ALWAYS CURABLE BY USING
MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT.

OF HUMAN FLESH.	OF ANIMALS.
Rheumatism,	Scratches,
Burns and Scalds,	Sores and Galls,
Stings and Bites,	Spavin, Cracks,
Cuts and Bruises,	Screw Worm, Grub,
Sprains & Stitches,	Foot Rot, Hoof Ail,
Contracted Muscles,	Lameness,
Stiff Joints,	Swinny, Founders,
Backache,	Sprains, Strains,
Eruptions,	Sore Feet,
Frost Bites,	Stiffness,

and all external diseases, and every hurt or accident. For general use in family, stable and stock-yard, it is THE BEST OF ALL LINIMENTS

TRADE S.S.S. MARK

Relieved at Last!

"We know a gentleman in this county who, six months ago, was almost a hopeless cripple from an attack of rheumatism. He could scarcely hobble across the room, used crutches, and said himself that he had little if any hope of ever recovering. We saw him in our town last week, walking about as lively as any other man, and in the finest health and spirits. Upon our inquiry as to what had worked such a wonderful change in his condition, he replied that S. S. S. had cured him. After using a dozen and a half bottles, he has been transformed from a miserable cripple to a happy, healthy man. He is none other than Mr. E. B. Lambert."—Sylvania Telephone.

Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed free.
THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Drawer 3, Atlanta, Ga., or 157 W. 23d Street, N. Y.

No Rope to Cut Off Horses' Manes.

Celebrated "ECLIPSE" HALTER and BRIDLE Combined, can not be slipped by any horse. Sample Halter to any part of the U. S. free, on receipt of $1. Sold by all Saddlery, Hardware and Harness Dealers. Special discount to the Trade. Send for Price-List. J.C. LIGHTHOUSE, Rochester, N.Y.

CHEAPEST and BEST. Prices REDUCED. Holman's New PARALLEL BIBLES! Over 2000 pages. Fully Illustrated. Agents Wanted. Circulars free. A. J. HOLMAN & CO., Phila.

A.N.K.—E. 1077

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOLUME XI. BURLINGTON, KY., WEDNESDAY, APRIL 14, 1886. NUMBER 23.

FLYING BULLETS.

Deputy Sheriffs Fire Into a Crowd of Strikers,

Killing Five Men and Mortally Wounding a Woman—A Deputy Shot and Another Beaten to Death.

ST. LOUIS, April 9.—This afternoon, at East St. Louis, a mob visited the Louisville and Nashville yards, and ordered the men there to quit work. A freight train passed, guarded by eight deputy sheriffs, armed with Winchester rifles. At a street crossing stones were thrown at the officers, who responded with two volleys, four men being killed and a woman fatally wounded. The Deputies then retreated towards the bridge, followed by the maddened mob. At the bridge approach a deputy shot and killed an innocent man. The officers surrendered for protection to the St. Louis police. One of the sheriffs is reported shot and another beaten to death. Illinois militia is being hurried to the scene. A few cars loaded with hay were burned in the Louisville and Nashville yards, but no further damage was done. At midnight quiet had been restored.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK., April 9.—Between midnight and 1 o'clock this morning, Deputy Sheriff Williams, who has had charge of the force of deputies guarding the St. Louis & Iron Mountain round house and machine shops in Argenta, opposite this city, was approached by F. H. Darby, a leading member of the Knights of Labor, and notified to take his force away or they would be put out. Williams said: "I'll take you in tow," and seizing Darby locked him up in one of the rooms. Just then the outlines of twenty or thirty men were seen a short distance away, and Williams ordered them out, saying that he was there to guard the property and would do it if he fell in his tracks. Some one from the crowd replied: "Well, die then," and an irregular shooting between the deputies and assailants began. Probably one hundred shots were fired, and Williams was dangerously wounded by a ball in the right side, and one or two other lesser wounds in other portions of the body. The mob soon after fled. It is reported that several were wounded, but if so, they were taken away by their comrades. Sheriff Worthen was telephoned, and hurriedly collected a posse and went over to Argenta. Near the south end of the Iron Mountain railroad bridge, three men were halted and arrested. One, Charles Stepp, had a doubled barrelled shotgun; another, Cook, a ticket agent, was intoxicated and abusive, and locked up in the bridge ticket office. A strong guard was placed about the round house and shops, and obtaining an engine and car, Williams and the four prisoners were brought to the city. Everything is quiet this morning. Williams' condition is critical.

BASTINADOED.

A Vermont Woman Cripples a Child for Life.

RICHFORD, VT., April 9.—Mrs. N. P. Sweet was arrested Wednesday at the instance of the State for cruelty to a little girl she took from the poor-house to care for as her own. After keeping the child several weeks, she returned her to the poor-house in a disabled condition. Investigation showed that Mrs. Sweet whipped the girl thirty times, and that she stuffed her mouth with rags, then bound her and bastinadoed her feet until the girl was crippled for life. It was one of the most outrageous cases of cruelty ever perpetrated here. The woman was placed under bonds for her appearance at the County Court.

Logan Threatened With Boycott.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—The latest instance of threatened "boycotting" is said to be in an anonymous letter received by Mrs. Logan. Mrs. Logan is one of the ladies interested in the Garfield Memorial Hospital, for the benefit of which it is proposed to give the calico ball at the Chinese Legation building. The writer warns Mrs. Logan that for her to go under the roof of the Chinese Minister will be an indication that she sympathizes with Chinese immigration, and the laboring men of the country will in consequence "boycott" General Logan in his political aspirations. The writer is supposed to be a crank.

Family Poisoned—Three Dying.

ERIE, PA., April 9.—The family of Henry McLaughlin was seized with convulsions to-day after dinner. They were found this evening in a very precarious condition. The symptoms indicated vegetable poisoning. The vomit rejected had been disposed of by some interested persons. No poison can be found anywhere, and great excitement prevails, for the evidences of an attempt at foul murder are unmistakable. Mr. and Mrs. McLaughlin and the eldest daughter can not live till morning, but the other three children may recover. No cause for the crime can be conjectured.

French Riot.

LYONS, April 9.—A fatal riot occurred in this city to-day at Girand's silk mills. A sub-prefect and a number of gendarmes attempted to close up the chapel connected with the mills, and were resisted by the operatives and local residents, and an open fight ensued. The populace, the major portion of whom were women, used stones and sticks, and the soldiers used their arms. One woman was shot dead, and a number were wounded. The sub-prefect and three of his gendarmes were wounded.

Judge Baxter's Probable Successor.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—There is good reason for believing that the President will appoint Senator Jackson, of Tennessee, as U. S. Circuit Judge, in place of Judge Baxter, deceased. The Sixth Circuit includes the States of Michigan, Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee. Senator Jackson's term expires next March. He received a classical education and graduated in the law in 1856. He served twice on the Supreme Bench of the State by appointments.

Largest Printing Contract on Record.

PHILADELPHIA, April 9. — The Feister Press Company, of this city, to-day signed contracts with A. H. Warner, of Rochester, N. Y., for the largest printing contract on record. It is for forty million thirty-two page pamphlets and four hundred million four-page circulars. The amount of money involved in this transaction is $800,000. Part of the work will be done in this city and the remainder on Feister presses in England and Germany.

Boy Guillotined.

PARIS, April 9.—The juvenile vagabond who was convicted of the murder of a workman on Champ de Mars was executed to-day with the guillotine.

Moody to Follow Jones and Small.

CHICAGO, April 9.—A committee has been appointed by the evangelical ministers to proceed immediately to Charleston, S. C., for the purpose of inviting Dwight L. Moody to come to Chicago and continue the work begun here by Sam Jones and Sam Small. The intention is to have Mr. Moody conduct a series of mammoth meetings here, commencing April 18.

Sympathy for Ireland.

DES MOINES, IOWA, April 9.—The Iowa Legislature to-day passed a joint resolution sympathizing with the people of Ireland in their efforts to secure self-government.

Business Failures.

NEW YORK, April 9.—The business failures during the last seven days number for the United States 178, and for Canada 42, against a total of 214 last week, and 221 the week previous. The failures are light in every section of the country except in the Western and Pacific States and in Canada, where the number reported is above the average.

Mackinaw Straits Solid Ice.

MACKINAW, MICH., April 9.—This has been the warmest day of spring, and the ice has melted quite rapidly, but it is still very solid, several teams crossing straight across from St. Helena to this place to-day. The keeper of St. Helena Light says there is no water to be seen from there.

THE KNIGHTS IN EARNEST.

"We Are Going to Win This Strike if It Takes All the Resources of Our Order."

ST. LOUIS, MO., April 11.—Mr. Bailey and other members of the General Executive Board, as well as prominent local Knights of Labor, state quite emphatically that the deputy sheriffs who fired on the people in East St. Louis Friday will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law, that plenty of money will be forthcoming for that purpose, and that the best legal talent obtainable will be employed. Large amounts of money are coming here now to relieve whatever distress may exist among the striking Knights. At a festival given here by the Knights of Labor last night for the benefit of the strikers, Mr. T. B. Brown, of New York, one of the orators of the order, used the following language: "Now, in conclusion, a word about the strike. Let me say that the General Executive Board of the Knights of Labor have entered into this strike, and we are going to win. We are going to win this strike if it takes all the resources of the order to insure success. That is the size of it, and they can make their minds up to that. We know this, that if we are beaten in this strike the men who work for railroads will not be able to call their souls their own. They will be as bad as the coachman of Jay Gould. They dress him up like one of those monkeys on an organ [laughter], and on his hat is a cockade, which shows that he is a slave. That is where he wants to get the men who work on his railroad. We must win this strike, and after this there never will be another strike on any railroad system in the United States. It will be a lesson to Gould, showing him that he can not crush the life out of his employes."

BOY SCOUTS.

Eight Boys Ambitious for Frontier Life—One Shot Fatally in the Head While Rehearsing.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., April 11.—"Buffalo Bill" was accidentally shot in the head on Saturday last and seriously wounded. The personator of the famous scout in this instance was George W. Branson, aged eleven years, and the shot was fired by Adolph Mayer, aged fifteen years. The shooting occurred on the New Jersey side of the Delaware, near the sea-shore. The accident resulted in revealing a scheme upon the part of a number of boys residing in the north-eastern section of the city to take a trip to the famous West and depopulate the buffalos. There were eight boys in the gang. One of them stole $20 from father and they bought some cheap guns and went across the river to try them. They were having a skirmish, Indian fashion, when Branson was shot. The wound is likely to prove fatal.

Cleveland Heedless of a Warning.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Notwithstanding the warnings that he has frequently received from physicians since Secretary Manning was stricken down, President Cleveland takes no more exercise or recreation than he did, but clings to his desk with the tenacity that is his most conspicuous characteristic. The President's habits of labor seem to be so fixed that they can not be changed for any reason, and he tells his friends that there is no use in talking to him—that he knows what he can do and he is going to do it.

Bank Officers Arrested.

PEORIA, ILL., April 11.—Wm. Forbes, the tax-collector of Elmwood Township, who, the day before the collapse of the bank of Tracy & Co., at Elmwood, deposited $7,500 of county funds in that institution, yesterday caused the arrest of Harlan P. Tracy and F. B. Tracy, the bankers, on the charge of embezzlement. Forbes claims that he was ready to deposit the money in Peoria, but was persuaded by Tracy to put it in his institution, the bankers knowing at the time that it was to close the next day. They were released on $5,000 bail.

Surveyors Drowned.

RICHMOND, VA., April 11.—Information has been received here of the drowning of three members of a surveying party while crossing the New river at Sunny Side, W. Va. The party consisted of C. J. and Wm. Hood, P. H. and Sam Quimby, W. A. Haybes and a negro ferryman. C. J. Hood and the Quimby brothers were drowned by the upsetting of the boat. They were in the employ of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Engineers' Department.

Local Option Elections in Virginia.

RICHMOND, VA., April 11.—The first elections under the local option law passed by the last Legislature took place yesterday at Floyd Court House and Wytheville. At the first named place the "dry" movement was defeated, while in the latter the "dry" men were victorious by a small majority, and consequently no license will be issued in that town.

Miss Folsom Should Know.

TROY, N. Y., April 11.—A prominent young lady of this city to-day received a letter from a Buffalo lady, the latter a warm personal friend of Miss Folsom. The letter states that Miss Folsom has informed her intimate friends of her marriage engagement to President Cleveland. The time for the ceremony has not been definitely fixed.

A Woman Goes Gunning.

SEDALIA, MO., April 11.—At two o'clock yesterday afternoon a woman named Martin discharged the contents of a shot-gun at deputy sheriff Hogan, who was doing guard duty near the Missouri Pacific shops. She failed to bring down her game. The woman claims that Hogan visited her house and grossly insulted her, and she resolved to kill him. She was not arrested.

Singular and Fatal Accident.

POTTSTOWN, PA., April 10.—Davis Arnoles, employed on Kleine's farm, near Coventryville, Chester County, in attempting to catch a barn door which had been loosened by the wind and was about to fall, was struck on the head and received fatal injuries. His skull was crushed, and his body was paralyzed from the hips down.

A $100,000 Fire.

LAWRENCE, MASS., April 11.—A portion of Pemberton cotton mills, burned Saturday. Loss, 100,000. Fifteen men were buried by the falling of the roof, one being killed and the others seriously injured. Seven hundred persons are thrown out of employment.

Another Plot to Assassinate the Czar.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 11.—The intended journey of the Czar to Nova Tscherkask, to present his son to the Cossacks as their chief, has been prevented by the discovery of a dynamite plot to assassinate the Imperial party. A Cossack officer and his brother have been arrested in connection with the crime. They are believed to be Nihilist agents.

Italians Arrested.

CINCINNATI, April 11.—Last evening ten Italian street vendors were arrested charged with having in their possession and passing counterfeit coin.

They Bled Him.

WALDAN, MASS., April 10.—Alfred Richardson, jr., a broker, was arrested to-day, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses from Dr. Nathaniel French, a prominent resident. Richardson's father was also arrested for complicity. Within two years the younger Richardson has possessed himself of French's entire wealth, having borrowed of him $80,000 cash and obtained a conveyance to himself and father of property worth nearly $15,000, consisting of a house, stable, 80,000 feet of land, and a number of bonds. French states that Richardson promised repayment out of a great inheritance which was coming to him from an aunt, but it is said that Richardson has had some other hold upon his victim.

THE STRIKE.

Quiet Reigns and Traffic is Partially Resumed.

A Favorable Prospect of a Settlement of the Unfortunate Difficulty.

ST. LOUIS, MO., April 12.—The freight traffic on the East Side was only partially resumed this morning, some of the roads not obtaining a sufficient number of switchmen. At the Cairo Short Line one freight train was sent out this morning and two more this afternoon. At the Louisville and Nashville one train was sent out in the forenoon and another before dark. The roads north of the bridge, with the exception of the Vandalia, are resuming more satisfactorily. At the Ohio and Mississippi the old yard and switchmen returned to work to-day. At the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy all the old men have gone back to work but one. At these two roads the men are working without any guard whatever.

SCRANTON, April 12.—It is asserted here on good authority that prospects are now more favorable for a speedy termination of the South-western strike. It is said that Jay Gould and General Manager Hoxie have been in constant communication for several days endeavoring to arrange a plan of settlement. It is stated that a settlement would have been effected between the companies and the Knights as a result of the New York conference had it not been for the obstinate attitude of Mr. Hoxie, who, it is understood, tendered his resignation rather than consent to submit the case to arbitration. A correspondent called on General Master Workman Powderly to ascertain his views on the matter, but the labor chief said he preferred to say nothing on the subject at present. Mr. Powderly was deeply engrossed in business, and said that he has had to work every Sunday for the past seven years. While he declined to give any definite expression on the situation in the Southwest, Mr. Powderly said he sincerely hoped there would be an early settlement of the difficulty, for the sake of all concerned. He appeared to be deeply touched by the tragic turn of affairs in East St. Louis, but declined to enter on any discussion of the subject in detail.

AFTER TWENTY-FOUR YEARS.

A Daughter Finds Her Mother, Whom She Had Not Seen Since a Babe.

ATTICA, N. Y., April 12.—In 1859 Julius Fillmore, of Batavia, married a Miss Ramsey, of this town. A child was born to them in 1860. Fillmore and his wife did not live happily together. Shortly after the birth of their child Fillmore left his wife and began proceedings for divorce. Pending decision in the case Fillmore enlisted in the army. Mrs. Fillmore agreed to give the child to his parents when it was two years old. Fillmore was killed in the army. When his child was a girl two years old its grandparents demanded possession of it, but the mother refused to give her up. She finally surrendered the child to the grandparents for a money consideration. The child's name was Clara. She grew up in Batavia, received an excellent education, and was popular in the best society. She was kept in ignorance of her mother's existence. James Caswell, a young Baptist preacher, lived in Batavia. He was married to the daughter of a prominent farmer of the town of Alexandre. Three years ago he disappeared. Miss Fillmore was missing at the same time, and it was found that Caswell and the girl had gone away together. They were traced to a town in Ohio, where Caswell was occupying the pulpit of a Baptist church. The couple fled from the place. Caswell subsequently deserted Miss Fillmore. She returned to her grandparents, professing real penitence, but they refused to receive her. Since then she has worked as a servant in Buffalo and adjoining places, under the name of Clara Bell Thompson. Sometime ago, learning that her father had been killed in the army, she applied for a pension. It was then learned that a pension had already been granted to the girl's mother, which was the first intimation she had that her mother was alive. The latter had married, some years before, a man named John Truelove, a well-known builder of Attica. The daughter at once hunted her mother up, and a joyful reunion was the result. The long separated mother and daughter are well pleased with each other. Mrs. Truelove has no other children, and Miss Fillmore has found what promises to be a happy home.

A Romance of the Strike.

ST. LOUIS, April 12.—A curious result of the strike is one of Martin Irons' recent experiences. Said he yesterday: "I last night received a letter from Mrs. M. McLaughlin, of Thirty-seventh street and Eighth avenue, South Brooklyn. She writes that she has read of a man named Martin Irons, who is figuring in the St. Louis strikes, and she wonders if he is her brother, of that name, from whom she has not heard for twenty years. Well, I am the brother. She tells the circumstances of our family history, so that there is no doubt about it. I had not heard from her nor she from me for twenty years. I left our family in New Orleans, and after the war we were scattered. It seems that my mother died possessed of considerable property, and they advertised far and near for me, that I might take my share as heir. But I never saw the advertisement."

Engineer and Fireman Killed.

PITTSBURGH, PA., April 12.—A freight train coming west on the Baltimore & Ohio road last night at 8:30 o'clock, ran into a landslide thirty miles east of Connellsville, Pa. The engine and seven cars were thrown from the track and badly wrecked. John Coffman, the engineer, was killed, and the fireman, whose name could not be learned, was fatally injured.

A Smallpox Scare.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., April 12.—Several cases of smallpox, existing at Carmi, have alarmed the citizens of that place to such an extent that the assistance of the State authorities has been sought to establish a quarantine. Some cases are also reported at Champaign.

Peculiar and Fatal Accident.

ELGIN, ILL., April 12.—At Horton Gillis' creamery, near Harvard, to-day, a cream separator burst, wounding five men. One, Johnson, has since died, and one other is fatally hurt.

Judge Baxter's Successor.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Senator Jackson, of Tennessee, has been nominated and confirmed to succeed the late Judge Baxter.

—A few years ago this town had only one physician, and he not a regular practitioner. Then only a small plot answered for a cemetery. Now there are any number of regular physicians, and the graveyard is full, and the town has purchased fifty acres additional.—San Bernardino (Cal.) Times.

—A new gold country is said to have been discovered by a shipwrecked French sailor in Patagonia, between the Straits of Magellan and the River Gallegos. The man had collected from the sands a little fortune when taken off the coast by a steamer.

—Land in Connecticut upon which pine trees were planted a few years ago, is now worth one hundred dollars an acre for its timber.—Hartford Post.

—A darky preacher in Waco, lining out a hymn from memory, said:

Plunged in a gulf of dark despair,
Ye wretched sinners—come out of dar!

—Captain Cannon, who sued the Baltimore American for twenty thousand dollars damages for libel, was awarded one cent.

XLIXTH CONGRESS.

First Session.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—SENATE.—Executive communications were received and petitions presented, some of the latter protesting against the "free ship" bill. An association of colored citizens of Kansas prayed for assistance to emigrate to Africa. The labor arbitration bill was favorably reported without amendment. Consideration of Mr. Logan's bill to increase the army was resumed. Mr. Logan spoke at length. The Chair laid before the Senate a message from the President on the subject of Chinese immigration. Mr. Hawley obtained the floor on the army bill, but gave way for executive session at 4:45 p. m.

HOUSE.—A communication from the Acting Secretary of the Treasury denied that the payment of silver dollars is refused at the sub-Treasury at Boston. A resolution was adopted, calling on the Secretary of State for copies of all correspondence with representatives of France, Germany, Austria and other European countries in relation to the exclusion of American pork. Bills were reported from committees for the issue of small bills; providing for the construction of a light-house supply steamer for the Atlantic and Gulf coast; for the establishment of a lightship at the entrance to the Chesapeake Bay; to increase the efficiency of the army; to consolidate certain bureaus of the Navy Department; to investigate existing differences between railroads and their employes; to prohibit the passage of local and special laws in the Territories. The post-office appropriation bill was taken up. An amendment to increase the item for postal clerks was lost. An amendment to increase the appropriation for foreign mail service from $375,000 to $425,000, was lost—82 to 106. The bill was finally passed, and the House adjourned.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—SENATE.—Mr. Call spoke in favor of his resolution instructing the Committee on Public Lands to report a bill forfeiting all railroad grants not earned. The roads in Florida were especially alluded to. The resolution was referred. Mr. Hawley supported the army bill, and argued for an increase. A general debate followed, in which Messrs. Teller, Van Wyck, Hawley and Logan participated. At 3 o'clock a vote was taken on the motion of Mr. Hale to strike out the second section, which provided for an increase of five thousand men. The motion was lost by a tie vote—22 to 22. Mr. Gibson, of Louisiana, moved to add an additional section repealing Section 1218 of the Revised Statutes, which now prohibits any person who served the Confederate Government from appointment to the army of the United States—yeas 24, nays 25. On the final vote the bill was beaten 19 to 31.

HOUSE.—The President's message on the Chinese question was referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs. A conference report on the bill appropriating $200,000 for a public building at San Antonio, Tex., was agreed to. The river and harbor bill was reported back, and referred to the Committee of the Whole. The 22d, 25th and 26th of May were set apart for the consideration of the "free ship" bill. The bill providing for a select commission to investigate the condition of the Indians was called up, but went over. The Bland bill for free coinage of silver was debated by Bland, Norwood and Baine. At 5 p. m. the House took a recess until 7 p. m., the evening session being for debate on the silver question. A vote is expected to-morrow.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—SENATE.—The Library bill was passed as it came from the House; also the bill granting to the Kansas and Arkansas Valley Railroad Company right of way through Indian Territory. The Indian Appropriation bill was reported with amendments. At 2 p. m. the bill for the admission of Washington Territory was laid before the Senate. It was agreed the fisheries resolution should be taken up to-morrow. The Voorhees amendment, proposing an enabling act for the Territory's admission, was defeated—yeas 19 to 23 nays. After further debate by Messrs. Hoar, Edmunds, Beck, Platt, Butler, Brown and Call, the bill went over, and the Senate adjourned at 5 p. m.

HOUSE.—The free-coinage silver bill was debated all the afternoon, until the time agreed upon for taking a vote had arrived. An amendment offered by Dibble (S. C.), suspending further coinage of silver under the Bland act after July 1, 1889, was defeated—yeas 84, nays 20. A vote was then taken on the bill, and it was defeated—yeas 126, nays 163.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—SENATE.—The newly-appointed Senator from California, Mr. George Hearst, was sworn in to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Miller. Mr. Riddleberger called up Mr. Platt's resolution relative to open executive sessions. It was proposed to make the subject the special order for Monday next, but no conclusion was arrived at. The House bill providing for free transmission through the mails of weather reports was called up and debated, but no action was taken. Mr. Frye took the floor on the fisheries question and spoke until 3 p. m. The Washington Territory Admission bill was taken up. The Eustis amendment limiting suffrage to male citizens was rejected. Yeas, 12; nays, 25. At 5:15 p. m. the Senate adjourned until to-morrow.

HOUSE.—A night session was ordered for the 13th of May, to deliver eulogies on the late Representative Hahn, of Louisiana. A resolution was adopted calling on the Secretary of the Interior for information relative to discrimination by the land-grant roads against the Denver and New Orleans railroad. The committees were called for reports of a private character, after which the House went into committee of the whole on the private calendar. Several bills were agreed to. The committee rose, and Mr. O'Neill asked unanimous consent for the present consideration of resolutions reciting that the House of Representatives of the United States sympathized with Mr. Gladstone in his efforts to secure a free Parliament for the people of Ireland, and congratulating that country on its prospects for self-government. Mr. Cox, of North Carolina, objected. At 5 o'clock the House took a recess until 7:30 p. m. At the evening session twenty-five pension bills were passed. At 8:15 adjourned until to-morrow.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—SENATE.—Petitions were presented from assemblies of the Knights of Labor, praying for the passage of the Arbitration bill. The bill for the admission of Washington Territory as a State was passed—yeas 30, nays 13. The Senate adjourned until Monday.

HOUSE.—In the House a number of bills for the construction of bridges and the reestablishment of lighthouses were passed, and at 5:15 p. m. the House adjourned.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—SENATE.—Mr. Gibson (La.) was appointed a member of Committee on Commerce in place of Jones (Fla.) during temporary absence of the latter. Mr. Riddleberger moved to take up the resolutions relating to the consideration of nominations in open session and proceed to speak. The Chair declared the motion not debatable. On an appeal from this decision the Chair was sustained. Mr. Platt obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate to-morrow on his resolution relating to open executive sessions. The Indian Appropriation bill was then taken up. At 1:45 p. m. the Senate went into executive session. At 2:50 p. m. the doors were reopened, and a recess of twenty minutes taken to review the parade of District Veterans. After the recess the Indian Appropriation bill was passed, and at 5 p. m. the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—The tariff bill was reported, accompanied by the report of the majority of the Ways and Means Committee. Mr. McKinley presented the views of the minority. The Committee on Rules reported a resolution providing for a committee of seven members to conduct an investigation of the present labor troubles in the West. The committee is to report during the present session. The resolution was adopted without division. Under the call of States bills and resolutions were introduced. The Committee on the District of Columbia then took the floor. A Senate bill, to protect the rights of the United States in the Potomac flats as amended, prohibiting the expenditure of money for the improvements until the title to the lands shall have been settled, was taken up. The bill was passed. The District of Columbia bill was also passed.

Foolscap Paper.

Paper of this kind and size had from the thirteenth to the seventeenth century, a water-mark representing a fool's head, ornamented with a cap and bells, such as the jesters of the old nobility used to wear. It has been intimated that the idea was suggested by a corruption of the Italian name for this size of paper—folio-capo, meaning folio-sized sheet. But this is not probable, as such an error would not have occurred except among those speaking the English language, and this paper was not made in England until nearly the close of the sixteenth century. Up to that time it was manufactured in France, Italy and the Netherlands only. The use of the foolscap water-mark was given up about the beginning of the eighteenth century.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

—A Chautauqua County cheese-maker went to Buffalo the other day and brought home a fine imported Swiss cheese. All praised it but his wife, who, after the praise had ceased, said she had found her husband's private mark on the cheese. He had paid thirty-three cents a pound for the very cheese he had made and sold for six cents.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

A Full Text of the President's Message Respecting Treaty Rights of Chinese Subjects.

Individual Hardships Due to Ambiguous and Defective Acts of Congress—Conditions Physically Impossible to Perform.

THE MESSAGE.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The following is the full text of the President's message sent to the Senate yesterday respecting the treaty rights of Chinese subjects:

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States:

I transmit herewith for the consideration of Congress, with a view to appropriate legislation in the premises, a report of the Secretary of State, with certain correspondence touching the treaty rights of Chinese subjects other than laborers, to go and come of their own free will and accord. In my annual message of the 8th of December last I said: "In the application of the acts lately passed to execute the treaty of 1880, restrictive of the immigration of Chinese laborers in the United States, individual cases of hardship have occurred beyond the power of the Executive to remedy and calling for judicial determination." These cases of individual hardship are due to the ambiguous and defective provisions of the acts of Congress approved respectively on the 6th of May, 1882, and 5th of July, 1884.

The hardship has in some cases been remedied by the action of the courts. In other cases, however, where the phraseology of the statutes has appeared to be conclusive against such discretion on the part of the officers charged with the execution of the law, Chinese persons expressly entitled to free admission under the treaty have been refused a landing and sent back to the country whence they came, without being afforded any opportunity to show their right to their privilege of free ingress and egress which it was the purpose of the treaty to secure. In the language of one of the decisions of the Supreme Court, to which I have referred:

"The supposition should not be indulged that Congress, while professing to faithfully execute the treaty stipulations and recognizing the fact that they secure to a certain class the right to go from and to the United States, intended to make its protection depend upon the performance of conditions which it was physically impossible to perform." (United States reports.)

The act of July 5, 1884, imposes such an impossible condition in not providing for the admission, under proper certificate, of Chinese travelers of the exempted classes in the cases most likely to arise in ordinary commercial intercourse. Article 1 of the treaty provides that the limitation shall apply only to Chinese who may go to the United States as laborers. Article 2 says that Chinese subjects whether proceeding to the United States as teachers, students, merchants, or from curiosity, shall be allowed to go and come of their own free will and accord and be granted all the privileges accorded to citizens of the most favored nation. Section 6 of the Chinese immigration act of 1884 purports to secure this right by means of certificates of their status, which certificates shall be the sole evidence to establish their right of entry into the United States. But it provides for the issuance of certificates in two cases only, namely, Chinese departing from China and Chinese who may at the time be subjects of some government other than China. A statute is certainly most unusual which, purporting to execute a treaty with China in respect of Chinese subjects, enacts formalities as it regards subjects of other governments than China.

I call the attention of Congress to the fact that the statute makes no provisions for the numerous class of Chinese persons, subjects of other countries than China, who desire to come from such countries to the United States. They may not be subjects of the country where they reside and trade, yet if such a Chinese subject, head of a house at Hong Kong, Honolulu, Havana or Colon desires to come here he must produce a prescribed form of certificate in English, issued by the Chinese Government. If there be at his place of residence no representative of China competent to issue such form of certificate, he can obtain none, and is by this law unjustly debarred from entry to the United States. There being, therefore, no provision by which such persons may prove their exemption, the Secretary of the Treasury undertook to remedy the omission by recognizing as lawful certificates those issued by Chinese Consuls or diplomatic officers at the foreign port when advised by the United States Consul. This seems a just application of the spirit of the law. He, however, went beyond the spirit of the act by providing a circular dated January 14, 1885, for original issuance of such certificate by the United States Consul at the port of departure in the absence of a Chinese representative. For it is clear that the intervention of the United States Consul was intended by the act to be supervisory only. It became necessary, therefore, to amend this circular, and this was done on the 13th of June following, by striking out the clause prescribing original certification by United States Consuls.

The complaint of the Chinese Minister in his note of March 24, 1885, is that the Chinese merchant, Luy Sang, of King Lee & Co., San Francisco, having arrived at San Francisco from Hong Kong and exhibited a certificate of the United States Consul at Hong Kong as to his status as a merchant, was refused permission to land and sent back to Hong Kong. While his certificate was insufficient under the present law, it is to be remembered that there is at Hong Kong no representative of China competent to issue the required certificate.

The intent of Congress to execute the treaty is thus defeated, and conditions are exacted by the act which, in the words of the Supreme Court, are "physically impossible to perform." This anomalous feature should be reformed in order that the recurrence of such cases may be avoided and the imputation removed which would otherwise rest upon the good faith of the United States in the execution of their solemn engagements.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

Plantation Philosophy.

De hones' tear is de jewelry ob de soul.

De tongue dat will tell a lie will lick 'lasses dat don't 'long to it.

It ain't de little scrub man dat is de leas' account. Sometimes de biggest stalk in de field ain't got no corn on it.

In de eyes ob de worl' de death ob a po' man is a pity, but de death ob a rich man is a c'lamity.

When a man ain't got de money it is de bery time dat folks wants him ter pay a debt. Ef he's got plenty ob money it doan make so much difference.

Dar neber was a man dat was such a dead beat dat he could stan' off de collector ob death. When natur' presents de bill de man doan dispute de figgers.

I 'spise ter see folks pay mos' 'tention ter de 'oman what is de bes' dressed. De peacock is got finer clothes dan de dominicker hen, but she ain't haf so good ter hab aroun' de house.

Although hope is de suthin' dat hol's a pusson up, yit it ken be 'bused. De lazy man is full ob hope an' sets in de shado, while de 'dustrious man, what ain't got so much, chops de weeds outen de cotton.

—There was no clock in the hotel parlor. The young man had no watch. Neither had the young woman on whom he was making a visitation. They had been talking about bores. "I meet a good many," he said. "I don't," she responded. "That is, I don't before ten o'clock in the evening." "Ah," he said significantly, "it is about nine o'clock now." "O," she said, forgetfully, "is it so early? I thought it was half-past ten at least." Then he got up and went away.—Washington Critic.

—The Stamford Comet, in order to hoax some Norwalk newspapers that are making too free with its news, started that story printed the other day of a Norwalk man who eloped with his wife's sister, killed his mistress, and then shot himself. It now owns up that the story was a lie, pure and simple.—Hartford Post.

—Mexicans have a passion for mirrors, and a traveler says that the interiors of some of the city houses look like steamboat cabins. He remarks also that mirrors are among the commonest articles in the pawnshops there.—Chicago Sun.

THE COMMONWEALTH.

Louisville Leaf Tobacco Market.

	Dark and Heavy.	Burley.
Trash	$1 20@ 2 50	$3 25@ 3 75
Common lugs	2 50@ 3 50	4 00@ 5 00
Medium lugs	3 50@ 4 25	5 25@ 5 75
Good lugs	4 25@ 4 50	6 00@ 7 00
Common leaf	4 50@ 5 00	6 25@ 7 00
Medium leaf	5 00@ 6 00	8 00@ 9 25
Good leaf	7 00@ 8 00	9 50@12 25
Selections	9 00@10 50	13 00@15 00
Wrappers	12 00@18 25	15 00@18 00

Proceedings of the Legislature.

FRANKFORT, April 3.—SENATE.—A number of local bills were passed.

HOUSE.—In the House this morning the Revenue bill was not considered because of the small attendance, and the following bill was passed: amending title 19, chapter 4, of the Code of Practice in civil cases. In response to a resolution asking information, Dr. J. Q. A. Stewart, Superintendent of the Institution for the Education of the Feeble Minded, made a report this morning showing that he had 150 children under his charge, six-tenths of them being orphans, three-tenths one-half orphans, and one-tenth have both parents. The boys and girls whose ages appear too great to be retained are employed on the place and are valuable to the institution, and supply help which otherwise would have to be paid for. The institution is in excellent condition under Dr. Stewart's management, and he seems to be the right man in the right place.

FRANKFORT, April 5.—SENATE.—The following House bills were passed: Incorporating the town of Van Buren, in Anderson County. Authorizing Meade County to issue bonds to pay its indebtedness. Authorizing Bullitt County to issue bonds for turnpike purposes. Ceding certain lands in Owensboro to the Federal Government for the erection of public buildings. Amending the charter of the Chesapeake and Nashville Railroad Company. Authorizing the Chicago, St. Louis and New Orleans Railroad to build a branch road. Changing the boundary lines between the counties of Morgan, Menifee, Wolf and Breathitt. Incorporating the Ohio, Kentucky and Virginia Railroad Company. Authorizing Davis County court to levy a tax for ordinary purposes, prohibiting the sale of liquors in Glasgow; amending and reducing into one all acts in relation to the city of Frankfort; requiring lightning-rod agents to get a license, and pay $250 for same; amending the Knights of Honor Temple Company of Louisville.

HOUSE.—The following bills were passed: An act amending an act for the incorporation and regulation of fire, marine, health, accident, live stock and all others except life insurance companies. Senate bill prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors in Christian County.

FRANKFORT, April 6.—SENATE.—The report of the Advisory Committee on the Greenwood troubles were called up. Mr. Sparks made a motion to go into a committee of the whole and hear Mr. Hallam, who is the attorney of the Mason & Foard Company. After some debate it was agreed to. Mr. Hallam took up the statement in the Commissioners' report that one of the convicts had been whipped severely by Warden Henson, and after he had gone to bed was called up again and whipped by Mr. King, one of the members of the Mason & Foard Company. He said that the man was suspected of knowing of a plot to murder the guards and escape. The warden took him to his room and struck him eight lashes in order to make him confess. He then stopped and the convict threw himself on the bed. Five minutes later Mr. King came in, and, taking the whip out of Henson's hand, said he would make the prisoner confess. He then struck him five lashes and he confessed the entire plot. The speaker, continuing, said that the committee had stated that the convicts were cruelly treated by being whipped, yet no one of them had ever shown another method of controlling these men. Whipping in prison management had been used from time immemorial and there was no reason why the Mason & Foard Company should not apply it.

HOUSE.—In the House this morning the recently-introduced bill providing that convicts shall not be worked in coal mines was called up, it having been made a special order for 10 o'clock. Mr. Bullitt offered an amendment that the bill shall not interfere with any existing contract, but it was defeated by a majority of four. Mr. Ramsey offered an amendment that convicts shall be worked outside the penitentiary under State or Federal control. It was adopted. The remainder of the session was devoted to the revenue bill. The clause taxing banks, of which so much has been said, was discussed. Mr. Straus' speech occupied most of the time.

FRANKFORT, April 7.—SENATE.—It was a field day for objectors in the Senate, and consequently nothing was done. Mr. Gilbert offered a resolution to fix April 18 as the day for final adjournment of the Legislature. It will come up to-morrow. A bill abolishing the writ of ad quod damnum, and providing for a uniform mode of condemning private property for public use, was passed. This bill repeals a very old law that has been in force since the time of Alfred of England.

HOUSE.—The bill to prevent convicts from being employed in coal-mines was passed. The bill makes it unlawful to work convicts in or about any coal-mine or other mine in this State, either in mining or at any other work. No contract shall be made for the employment of such labor, but this bill shall not affect any contract for that purpose now in force. For employing convicts for such purposes the offender may be fined $1,000 per day for each day any such prisoner is employed in contravention to the bill. The revenue bill was then taken up, and occupied the remainder of the session, the clause taxing banks being the subject of discussion.

FRANKFORT, April 8.—SENATE.—Two hours were consumed in discussing the claim of Newton Craig against the State. The matter was finally got rid of by appointing another commission to look into it. Mr. Martin obtained leave until next Thursday for the Judiciary Committee to report on the bill to repeal the State Board of Equalization. Mr Clay offered a substitute providing for the continuance of the Board, but in a modified form. The substitute was ordered printed. Mr. Burnett made a long speech on the subject of working convicts in the mines. He declared that it was a violation of the spirit if not the letter of the law. The discussion continued till adjournment.

HOUSE.—An act to create a Common Pleas Court in Bourbon, Madison, Clark, Bath and Montgomery Counties was passed. An act to regulate the sale of fertilizers and to protect agriculturists in the use of same was discussed at some length and passed. Renaker's resolution to loan one or more cannon to the Confederate reunion at Cynthiana next August was adopted. The Revenue bill was reported, and the debate on the clause taxing banks consumed the entire session.

FRANKFORT, April 9.—SENATE.—Bills passed: House bill incorporating the Kentucky Horticultural Society; amending the charter of the John C. Breckinridge Monumental Association. Mr. Alford reported a bill to protect hotel-keepers against dead beats. On motion of Mr. Caudill it was ordered printed and made a special order for next Tuesday. Mr. Berry, for the Committee on Education, reported a bill authorizing the Superintendent of Public Instruction to employ an additional clerk, at a salary of $1,000 per annum. After passing a few local bills the Senate struck the lightning-rod bill and soon went to pieces.

HOUSE.—A resolution was adopted calling on the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund to investigate the reported violation of the State's contract with the Mason & Foard Company, and if they are true, to cancel said contract and order a return of the convicts to the prison at Frankfort. Mr. Moss' amendment to the resolution to strike out that part looking to an investigation, and ordering the contract canceled at once, was defeated. The resolution providing for a sine die adjournment May 3, was referred to the Committee on Rules. The revenue bill was reported. Article 2, relating to the tax on banks, being under consideration. The previous question was ordered, and the session was ordered extended until the matter could be disposed of. Voting began at 12 o'clock. All amendments were voted down as fast as reported until the substitute offered by Mr. Straus was reached. That substitute was one which proposed to tax banks like other property. The vote as announced was—yeas 44, nays 46.

Miscellaneous Items.

A POST-OFFICE has been established at Horace, Anderson County, and E. H. Rice commissioned postmaster.

MR. JOHN WILL BUCKMAN, a wealthy farmer and tobacco-grower of Henderson County, was found dead in bed here, supposedly from heart disease.

A JOURNEYMAN tailor named Sullivan, who lives opposite Frankfort, started across the river to his home the other evening in an intoxicated condition. He has not been seen or heard of since. It is believed he was drowned.

AN infant son of Mr. Bolton, of Covington, fell from a second-story porch and received what is believed to be fatal injuries.

FOLLOWING Internal Revenue appointments were made for Kentucky a few days ago: James L. Owen, of Ohio County; Charles H. Poor, of Williamstown, and E. P. Campbell, of Iron Post-office, storekeepers and gaugers, and Frank Hasemeiar, of Covington, a storekeeper.

THE M. E. Church South Board was in session at Louisville, a few days ago. It collected $145,242 for poor churches in four years.

JAS. H. KENNY, old and respected citizen of Georgetown, is dead from an overdose of morphine.

NIGGARDLY POLICY.

The Heads of the Government Departments Are Shockingly Overworked—Secretary Manning's Case.

The illness of Secretary Manning and the effects of overwork on Secretary Lamar, taken in connection with the rapidly accumulating business of the Treasury, Interior and Postal Departments of the Government, suggest that sooner or later there must be found some relief for the executive officers of the Government.

Since 1829, when Mr. Jackson invited Mr. Barry, who was chief clerk in charge of the Postal Department, to a seat in his Cabinet as Postmaster-General, there has been no change in the methods of conducting the executive branches of the Government, except by assistants, each Cabinet officer being responsible for the whole conduct of his own Department. Since then the population of the country has increased from 12,866,000 to 60,000,000, its resources have been correspondingly developed, while the duties of the Cabinet officers of the Government have fully kept pace with the material growth of the country. The time has come when an efficient officer is soon made a physical wreck in the discharge of his multifarious duties. It is simply an intellectual and physical impossibility for the Secretary of the Treasury to administer the finances of the Government, to look after the collection of its customs and internal revenues, to run the mints, take in charge steamboat inspection and the life-saving service, look after the engraving and printing and watch the National banks, have charge of the coast survey, control the currency, assume responsibility of the Government architect, and disburse the funds of the Government. While some of these duties are delegated to others, the Secretary is the responsible head, and must be more or less acquainted with all, according to the measure of his efficiency.

The same may be said of several departments of the Government. The Cabinet of the United States is composed of seven men; that of Great Britain of fourteen, that of France of eleven, that of Prussia of ten and that of Russia of eleven. Even Belgium and Switzerland have seven each, and Italy eight. But there has always been a very niggardly spirit shown by our people in the number of officials and the pay they receive, the idea being that there was some merit in Democratic simplicity. This may be true provided that simplicity is not directed by men who drive ten-dollar mules in carts. We offer the very highest possible premiums for dishonesty in the public service by imposing upon Cabinet officers duties it is not possible to perform, and as a result we have star-route frauds and naval irregularities that are invited and made possible by our methods. Instead of seven we should have twelve Cabinet officers, and the day is not far distant when it will be recognized.—Chicago News.

A BRAVE PAPER.

Governor Hill's Brand Upon the Broadway Franchise—Ex-Governor Cleveland's Warning.

The people of New York have fresh cause to be proud of the faithful and vigilant guardian of their interests in the executive chamber. Corporation agents and the lobby may infest both houses of the Legislature and swarm around the hotels, but across the threshold of the executive chamber the polluting foot of the lobbyist can not pass. There are no fine spun theories or equivocal phrases in his admirable message, but incisive, vigorous, plain talk. It is the expression of the righteous indignation of an honest man and fearless official against bribery and corruption. He denounces the thieves who stole the most valuable franchises in the gift of the city of New York, and the shameless officials who permitted themselves to be purchased "in the broad light of day and with a brazenness and boldness unparalleled in the history of a municipality."

He alludes to the warning of Governor Cleveland, when he signed the General Street Surface Railway act, in 1884, that the bill should have made it obligatory on local authorities to put those franchises up at auction, instead of leaving it to their option. The words of Governor Cleveland, in view of the action of the New York aldermen on the Broadway and cable railroad steals, have an additional interest now. "If the local authorities are determined to cheat and defraud their constituents by refusing to put up a valuable franchise at auction, they must, under this bill, do it in the broad light of day and with a brazenness and boldness that would find a way to evade the most carefully framed law." This did not, in the least, discommode the disreputable officials to whom Jacob Sharp and the cable company applied. They cared more for "boodle" than for character and were content to be branded as false to every instinct of honor and manhood, as long as they were well paid for it.—Albany Argus.

A SOCIAL LEADER.

The Young Lady of Albany to Whom the President Is Said to Be Engaged.

The story comes from Albany that President Cleveland is engaged to marry Miss Van Vechten, a young lady who may justly lay claim to being the social leader of the capital of New York. The lady is tall and most beautiful in face and figure and she has many charms and graces of manner. The circle in which she moves is one of the most exclusive in the United States. The high society of Albany is unquestionably the most difficult to penetrate of any in the country and Miss Van Vechten is its central star. She lives in a splendid house that is situated directly across the street from the Executive Mansion, where Mr. Cleveland, when he was in office, could without difficulty have looked into Miss Van Vechten's window. The lady has a rich complexion, dark eyes and a wealth of waving brown hair. There is a quite striking resemblance between her and Miss Jennie Chamberlain, the beautiful Cleveland girl, whose personal attractiveness has been the talk of Europe for a year or two back. When Mr. Cleveland was Governor of New York State, he frequently met Miss Van Vechten at the various receptions which occurred at the Executive Mansion and elsewhere in Albany, and he exhibited a marked preference for her society. It is, indeed, said that he took every possible occasion to be at her side, and it is now noticed that she is spending a great deal of her time in Washington, where few, if any, of the social gatherings of which the President is a feature are allowed to go by without her presence.—Boston Herald.

ITS NEXT EXECUTIVE.

The Difficulties in the Way of Establishing Justice in the Territory of Utah.

It seems to be taken for granted that President Cleveland is going to select as successor to Governor Murray, of Utah, some citizen of the Territory itself. This expectation is based not only on the declarations of the platform of 1884, but on the belief that no outsider could be found who would have the courage to stand up against the stream of abuse and misrepresentation which the Mormon leaders are wont to heap upon the Gentile Governors who endeavor to enforce the United States laws among them. It is for this reason no doubt that many would be unwilling to accept an executive position involving so much bitter opposition from the great majority of the community in which authority was to be exercised. On the other hand, much may be urged in favor of the appointment of an outsider in this instance, for it is evident that if the President is to be thus limited in his choice he may be unable to find a person who will administer the affairs of the Territory in a just and impartial spirit. The lines of antagonism are very sharply defined, and every Gentile who is not a bitter and uncompromising foe of Mormonism is in some degree susceptible to its influences. Should the selection be made from either of these classes, the interests of good government might not be subserved. There would either be indiscriminate oppression or a government that would find favor with the Polygamists.

It is almost needless to say that the evil against which the laws of the United States are directed is not Mormonism itself as a religious creed, but polygamy, which is a crime. A man is not to be oppressed because of his religious belief in a country which proclaims absolute freedom to all creeds and sects. But if he commits a crime he must certainly be held amenable to the law. This is a distinction not always kept clearly in mind. Territorial officers imbued with an indiscriminating prejudice are certainly not qualified to administer the law properly, and the result must be that the present disturbances would only be augmented. On the other hand, a lax administration would only foster the evil which it is the duty of the Government to root out. Under these circumstances the President may find it necessary to nominate some non-resident who is known to be a man at once firm, fearless and dispassionate.—N. Y. Graphic.

MR. EDMUNDS' DEFEAT.

His Campaign Ended and He Has Failed to Convince Even the Senate That He Is Right.

Senator Edmunds has finished his campaign on the Duskin resolutions, and has won a doubtful victory. He has succeeded in securing their adoption by one majority in the absence of a Democratic successor to the late Mr. Miller, of California. The substantial results of the long discussion, which, on the Republican side depended almost wholly for its force and dignity upon Mr. Edmunds himself, are about as doubtfully balanced as was the vote on the resolutions. Mr. Edmunds has not succeeded in convincing the country that the President should share the power of removal with the Senate, or that the Senate had a just claim to the papers bearing on suspensions simply because they were "filed" in the departments, but attention has undoubtedly been drawn, in a very marked degree, to the great advantage the civil service would gain by having all proceedings in connections with nominations, except to places of a peculiarly confidential character, made a matter of accessible record. On the other hand, without meaning to do so, Mr. Edmunds has made it very plain to the country that the methods of the Senate are more in need of reform in this regard than any others. A blow that bids fair to be fatal has been dealt to the secret sessions of the Senate.—N. Y. Times.

Right Ahead.

Grover Cleveland, as mayor of Buffalo, Governor of New York and President of the United States, has in all matters pertaining to the public welfare, given an exhibition of unimpeachable integrity. It is a singular fact that in several of his public acts the disapprobation of the populace stared him in the face, but when the sober second thought and restored reason gained supremacy, the decision was almost universal that he had done the right thing in the right place. His rule of action may be said to be embraced in the mathematical verity: "the nearest line between two points is a straight one." With him the public welfare is paramount to party interests, and a public office a public trust. He has never sought office, nor has he ever been a scheming politician. The office in his case has in every instance sought the man.—Des Moines Leader.

DEMOCRATIC ITEMS.

—The President's simple adhesion to sound policy, good precedents and his constitutional right and duty in the premises foiled Mr. Edmunds' adroit scheme. Mr. Edmunds has not only failed—that was always inevitable—but he has failed ignominiously.—Washington Post.

—It doesn't please the Blaine organs that the return of Roscoe Conkling to power should be even disinterestedly suggested, yet somehow the suggestion keeps going the rounds in a number of Republican papers and is generally approved by the Independent press.—Philadelphia Times.

—Fully one-eighth of the President's nominations in place of suspended officials were those of Internal Revenue Collectors. The Republican Senators propose to confirm these without a look at the private papers upon which the changes may or may not have been based. Backing down by degrees may be more agreeable than a straight and square retreat from an untenable position, but it does not change its character. It is a backdown all the same.—Boston Herald.

—The pole of the greatest cold has finally been discovered. It is at Werkhojansk, Siberia, the mean temperature in January being sixty-three degrees below zero, and the lowest reading of the thermometer being 90.4 below zero, Fahrenheit. The next coolest place is the Albany Journal office, where an attempt to rob the city of New York is called a "mistake," and the apology of the Senate after being lashed into submission by the stinging whip of the press is termed "correcting the mistake."—Albany Argus.

THE RECORDER.

WEDNESD'Y, APRIL 1, 1886.

RIDDELL & HALL,
Proprietors.

Rates of Subscription.

One year	$1 50
Six months	75
Three months	40

☞Payment invariably in advance.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1 Column	1 year	$80
1	½ "	40
1	¼ "	20
½ "	1 "	20
½ "	½ "	10
½ "	¼ "	8

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

Augest Election 1886.

For Circuit Judge
WARREN MONFORT.
For Commonwealths Attorney
JOHN S. GAUNT.

For Circuit Clerk
W. L. RIDDELL.
For County Judge
E. H. BAKER.
For County Attorney
S. W. TOLIN.
For County Clerk
M. T. GARNETT.
For Sheriff
J. R. CLUTTERBUCK.
For County Superintendent
J. P. RYLE.
For Surveyor
W. E. VEST.
For Jailer
SAMUEL COWEN.
For Assessor
G. M. RILEY.
For Coroner
Dr. A. A. MURAT.

Subscribe for the Recorder.

THE President has appointed E. T Jackson, of Tennessee, to fill Judge Baxter's place.

THE Senate has passed a bill appropriating $1,000 for the benefit of the office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, to pay for extra clerk's.

THE race for postmaster in Covington is growing quite interesting. There are several applicants, and it is generally believed that ex-Sheriff Leathers has rather the advantage of the other applicants.

Miss Mollie Crumbaugh was defeated for the position of County Superintendent at the primary election in Lyon, last Saturday. A woman can't be elected to office in Kentucky because she don't carry a hip-pocket to hide a bottle in.—Capital.

A Franklin sow has just been found at the bottom of a straw stack having taken refuge there from the big snow of January last, and was caught by the fall of the stack. She was very well, considering her stay of two and a half months without food or water.

Rushville, Indiana, claims the oldest woman in the United States, if not in the world. Her name is Mrs. Mary Breneman, and she will be 116 years old April 27th. Her oldest son will be 81 the same day. She reads and sews well, and has been a Methodist for 80 years.

THE continued damp weather has a tendency to make the industrious farmer grow nervous, after having been favored with such fine weather in March. The spring has never been so late in this country as to cause a failure in crops, and there is now no cause for any apprehension.

SEVEN feet, 8½ inches is the height of the tallest native born American in the United States. Capt. Smith Cook, who was born in Shelby county, this State, 27 years ago, and came home the other day to visit his mother near near Bagdad, from Barnum's great show in New York, where the Capt. is engaged as one of the curiosities.

TAKING the country at large, the wheat prospect is that not to exceed 5 per cent. of the acreage sown in the fall, but will show that it has passed through the winter safely, with the additional prospect of a full average yield. There has been a little spring seeding in Iowa, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Dakota.

JUDGE MAJOR stands lowest on the Owen list for Circuit Judge for what reason we do not now care to inquire. No one can assert that he has failed to attend to the duties of his office during the term about to expire. No one can deny his ability, his knowledge of law or his justice. But he is not a good post-and-railer, his fences were sadly out of repair, and now they are clean gone. Fate was against him.—Owen Democrat.

CAPT. WARREN MONFORT, the successful candidate for Circuit Judge was backed by the soldiers-in-gray element in the district "the fine Italian hand" of the Old Fourth being somewhat apparent, in the primary. On several occasions heretofore its influence has made itself felt in conventions and elections, and several slates have been broken that had been arranged with a great deal of care and confidence. So far as we know, however, it has at no time excited any animosities or jealousies in the party. The force of discipline and orderly conduct seems to have stayed with the regiment. It makes no noise at the wrong time and indulges in no bluster, but when the bugle sounds it is there all the same.

The next "boom" will probably be for Gen. Simon Bolivar.—Owenton Democrat.

Thos. J. Henry, clerk of the Court of Appeals, was in town Monday as drunk as the proverbial boild owl. As a good Democrat we hung our head in shame of the thought that this man holds the most lucrative position in the State, and that our vote helped to place him there. How much better for Kentucky, and the Democratic party it would have been had the famous "whitewashing committee" kicked him off the ticket instead of sugar-couting the pill that was destined to wrench the vitals of the party almost beyond endurance. Let not the party flatter itself with the thought that because its majority in the State reached into the thousands that it cannot be overthrown, for if it persists, in electing such men to office it will certainly find itself mistaken. The only way to insure success is to deserve success, and that can not be done by selecting drunken standard-bearers.—Winchester Democrat.

WE give the vote of the counties in this the 11th Judicial district, composed of the counties of Owen, Boone, Grant, Gallatin, Carroll and Franklin. Capt. Warren Monfort, of Owen county, is nominated for Judge by a plurality which will vary but little from 1,000 votes—John S. Gaunt, of Carroll county, for Commonwealths Attorney by 800 plurality as by the official returns:

GALLATIN.
Monfort	438
Major	225
Drane	71
Gordon	336
Gaunt	376
McMnunma	12

CARROLL
Monfort	866
Major	425
Drane	297
Gordon	345
Gaunt	1,003
McMannna	16

BOONE
Monfort	866
Major	459
Drane	297
Gorton	677
Gaunt	873
McManama	30

FRANKLIN
Major	1,435
Drane	854
Montfort	324
Gaunt	1255
Gordon	1080
McMunamn	135

GRANT.
Major	395
Monfort	998
Drane	152
McManamn	102
Gaunt	804
Gordon	523

OWEN
Monfort	803
Major	375
Drane	399
Gordon	1070
Gaunt	695
McMananna	11

The Eastern Lunatic Asylum.

Mr. Conner, from special joint committee to investigate the Eastern Lunatic Asylum, and also charges against the Medical Superintendent, presented the following report, which was ordered printed:

To the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

Your joint committee, appointed to visit Eastern Kentucky Lunatic Asylum, at Lexington, Ky. and investigate the management thereof and the charges against Dr. R. C. Chenault, the Superintendent, would report that we have discharged that duty, and offer the following:

We visited said asylum and made a thorough examination of all its departments, and found every thing in most excellent order.

A thorough cleanliness, and perfect system pervades the whole establishment. The patients show that they are well fed, well clothed and well treated, and many of them expressed to us their kind feelings and high appreciation of the good treatment received at the hands of the officers and employes of the institution. We questioned many of the more rational and intelligent of the patients and found that they regarded the Superintendent with esteem and affection, which could only be inspired by the most abiding confidence in his worth and integrity. We examined many of the employes, and without a single exception found that while they regarded the Superintendent as a strict disciplinarian, yet all spoke of his kindness and courtesy to parties connected with the asylum.

The Board of Commissioners we found to be gentlemen of integrity and high standing, men whom we are satisfied would not condan the faults of any one, and who, if there were any grounds for the malicious auonymous charges affecting the character of the Superintennent, would be the first to expose him and urge his removal

We have also thoroughly examinen the testimony taken by the Board in the late investigation of the charges against the Superintendent, requested by him and directed by the Governor, and can find nothing whatever in the whole matter on which to base the slightest foundation for any thing detrimental to the capacity, integrity or moral character of the Superintennent.

The Board, in the investigation, opened the doors and gave everybody an opportunity to come or bring before them any thing and every thing known or heard of against the Superinteudent. With this opportunity before them, it was impossible to show that there was anything against Dr. Chenault, except a factious opposition, which, we believe, would sooner die out by silent contempt, than by giving notice to it.

Your committee most heartily indorse the report of the Board of Commissioners made to the Governor, as a result of their recent investigation.

All of which is most respectfully submitted.

Reuben Conner,
John D. Haris,
E. L. Worthington,
George W. Samuel,
W. J. Worthington.

THE "SWAP."

How the Delight of Youth Becomes the Passion of Age.

One of the dear delights of youth is that interesting exercise of trade instincts kuown as "swapping." The exchange is effected wholly without reference to the necessities of the parties to the transaction, the object being not so much to benefit by the new possession as to indulge a spirit of enterprise. Any one who has witnessed barters between juveniles must have noticed instances where an object of considerable value has been given up for one of no corresponding worth without the "boot" that shrewd managers exact, not because the youthful traders were ignorant of the inequality of values, but because actual values seem to figure very little in the negotiations for a swap. The prime consideration is that each has what the other most desires, and the wish to possess the one article balances the disposition to release the other—hence there is no robbery in exchange. A battered jack-knife, with one fairly serviceable blade, has been deemed a suitable equivalent for a well-conditioned bull pup, and a balance has been struck between a rheumatic watch and a middle-aged billy-goat, with no grumbling on the part of the swappers, and no thought that either had the better of the bargain.

That there is a fascination in this sort of redistribution of capital and stock may be inferred from the fact that its practice is not confined to youth, the early habit growing apace with accumulating years, until the desire to swap becomes a passion of age. In the activities of daily life the commercial American learns little of the survival of the swap, though it is more extensive among adults than may be believed. We know, of course, that trading is a business condition of frontier settlements, and that a plug of tobacco will purchase a goodly number of small furs from a weed-loving Indian; but in the very midst and center of staid civilization the enjoyments of swapping are sought with avidity by a very large and respectable class. True, the proceeding is more feminine than masculine, but a very liberal percentage of men have a hankering to supply need or gratify fancy by dicker.

In this country, however, all such exchanges are privately effected, the transfers being the result of acquaintance, rather than acquaintance the outcome of a desire to swap. It is otherwise in England. There, we are somewhat surprised to learn, swapping is a regular institution, with its representative organs for advertising purposes, and is entered into with a close commercial spirit that takes no note of any other means of process of satisfying wants. There is in London a tri-weekly journal that has been published for the past ten years, the purpose of which is to announce the exchange of new lamps for old, though there are several other papers with especial columns allotted to the use of swappers, no transactions in money being allowed. It is rather amusing to note the character and variety of these quotations, and the disinterested student will find it a matter of the utmost difficulty to decide by what standard the equivalents are determined.

There may be some near relation between a talking green parrot and a good sewing machine, as both can be made most infernal nuisances to nonowners; but the exact harmony between a pair of canaries and a pair of lady's boots is not quite obvious. Among these occult values we find such offers as these: "Jackal for canaries and chickens," "fox terrier pup for collection of foreign stamps," "new bicycle far rare foreign stamps," "a few good pugs for a sewing machine," "a melodeon for a garden roller," "eight pairs of owls for a breech-loader," "old china and wine for a good sound horse," etc.

Occasionally there is an uncertainty in the mind of the would-be swapper as to the exact value of property held or the precise equivalent desired. Then such advertisements appear as this: "Duck punt, new; exchange for anything useful." This is decidedly a liberal offer, but it is much to be doubted if a pair of second-hand trousers, however useful to the owner, would be considered as coming precisely within the meaning of the advertiser. A lady who wanted half-loop rings, a silver teapot and a skunk cape, announced the fact with the assurance that she had good exchange to offer; while another, wishing to get a pea-hen, asks what exchange will be required. These instances tend to show that this elder-day swapping is but the outcropping of the youthful penchant, and is really a game, a sport, rather than a business relation, by which the excitements of adolescent years are revived. It can easily be conceived that an industrious, able-bodied swapper might, in a comparatively short time, entirely transform the character of a household and thoroughly revolutionize her possessions.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

No applicant from Kentucky got Judge Baxter's shoes.

Take the Reccorcer.

LOST HIS RAILROAD NERVE.

A Traveling Man Who Has Become Morbidly Fearful of an Accident.

A roving theatrical manager and a newspaper man were breakfasting at the Morton House one day last week when the former remarked: "I am trying to get control of a house of my own, so that I can locate permanently. In fact, I have lost my railroad nerve."

"Your railroad nerve; what do you mean?"

"Just what I say. I have lost my railroad nerve. Up to about a year ago I felt almost as safe on a railway train as I did in a hotel, but since that time, for some cause or other, I have become morbidly apprehensive of railroad accidents, and now, when traveling, I fret and worry all the time. I can't rest in a sleeper any more. Many a time I have lain awake all night, and even if I do doze, the slightest out of the way jar will startle and arouse me in the most unpleasant manner. If the train slackens its speed I dread that we are too close to another, and I sometimes become so agitated that I leave my berth and walk the aisle for an hour at a time."

"You should conquer your fears," said the newspaper man. "When I step on a train I consider that my fate is in the hands of others—that worry or fret will not avail one particle to help me in case of trouble—and I sleep almost as well in a Pullman or a Wagner as I do in my own bed."

"I have tried to reason myself out of my fears," was the response, "but I can't. I know I have only got to die once, and that I must die some time. Honestly, though I am not at all disposed to go off the books just yet, the fear of instant death is not so much what haunts me as the dread of accident that would deprive me of a limb or otherwise cripple me permanently. Did you ever see a one-armed or one-legged theatrical manager or agent? We have hard enough times to get along with all our limbs and faculties. To deprive me of a leg or an arm would be to take away my means of living and cause me to resort to some other that would perhaps make me a semi-mendicant. That is what I fear, and it is that which has deprived me of my railroad nerve. I will make almost any sacrifice that will enable me to locate and regain my former buoyancy of spirits. Even as I talk with you now I fret because I have to take the train for Boston to-day, and I won't feel easy in my mind till I get to the end of my journey, and not then, for I know I have to come back again."

"Are your fears shared by many other managers or actors?"

"Indeed they are, but few of them care to acknowledge it. I know lots of drummers, too, who feel just as I do. Stand in front of a ticket office before the departure of a through train especially at night, and watch the men buy accident insurance tickets, and you will be surprised to find how many there are who, like me, have lost their railroad nerve. A year ago I hadn't a gray hair in my head. Now there are plenty of them. Still, if circumstances compel I will be on the road next season, with only one consoling thought, and that is that perhaps after all I may never get a scratch, while some one who never gave the matter a thought, or who would laugh at it if he did, may be killed by a derailment or a collision within a year. It is strange though considering how much they travel, how few actors get hurt, and I don't believe one in a thousand ever buys an accident ticket. They are too superstitious, and feel that if they were to insure they would be certain to 'beat the game', and have to die to do it."—N. Y. Sun.

WE hear it stated that this fall Mr Whitehead and Mr. Mack will unite their ability as teachers, and teach a fall and winter term in Morgan Academy. Success to them.

REPORT OF THE CONDITION

OF THE

Farmers & Traders National Bank

AT COVINGTON.

In the State of Kentucky, at the close of business, March 1, 1886.

RESOURCES.
Loans and discounts		$577 951 88
Overdrafts		2,283 91
U.S. Bonds to secure circulation		60,000 00
U. S. Bonds on hand		100,000
Due from approved reserved agents		55,808 7
Due from other Nat'l Banks		7,404 5
Due from banks and bankers		4,741 3
Real est., furniture & fixtures		1,668 91
Current expenses and taxes		2,159 2
Premiums paid		31,512 50
Checks and other cash items	843 34
Bills of other Banks	3,100 00
Frac. paper currency, nickles and pennies	180 27
Specie	10,000 00
Legal tender notes	25,000 00	39,572 61
Redemption fund with U. S. Treas., (5 per cent. circulation)		2,250 00
Total		$878,153 67

LIABILITIES.
Capital stock pd in		$300,000 00
Surplus fund	30,000 00
Undivided profits	13,408 05	43,408 05
Nat'l Bank notes outstanding		45,000 00
Individual dep'ts subject to check	363.452 09
U. S. Deposits	75,000
Due to other N'tl Banks	25,240 29
Due to State B'ks and bankers	26,053 2	489,745 67
Total		$878,153 67

State of Kentucky, County of Kenton ss

I, John L. Sandford, Cashier of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

JOHN L. SANDFORD, Cashier.

James S. Wayne, Pres't.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 6th day of March, 1886.

A. KLOENTRUP, Notary Public.

Correct—Attest:

M. C. Motch,
J. H. Mersman,
E. J. Hickey,
} Directors.

ATTENTION!

TOBACCO

Shippers and Raisers, you can buy

Tobacco Hogheads,

Set up or Knock Downs,

AT THE COMPANY'S MILLS

At Lawrenceburg or Aurora, Ind.

Orders by mail will meet our prompt attention.

WANTED—LADY Active and intelligent, to represent in her own locality an old firm. References required. Permanent position and good salary. GAY & BROS., 12 Barclay St., N. Y.

LAND FOR SALE.

50 acres good land near Constance, this county. All in grass and well watered. Terms easy—apply to this OFFICE.

R E A D!

Feeling the urgent necessity of a first class Drug Store in Bellevue, and your wants are to the wants of [illegible], I have just opened a fresh stock of Drugs & Patent Medicines.

—Terry & Co's Brands of Tea.—

Ibold's Brand of Cigars & Tobacco.

—Perfumery and Fancy Toilet Articles.—

Paints Ready For Use,

From a gallon can down to the smallest.

WHITE LEAD, OILS, VARNISHES, DYE-Stuffs, Brushes, Etc., Etc.

I will furnish to any one wishing to paint their house or barn, any kind of paint at two days notice, at the lowest cash prices. Give me a call.

A good barber shop attached and work satisfactory.

W. M. BALSLY.

1886 THE COURIER-JOURNAL. 1886

AN ORGAN OF

LIVING IDEAS AND LIVE ISSUES.

AN ENEMY OF

Monopolies, Oligarchism, and the Spirit of Sectional Strife.

The Courier-Journal (HENRY WATTERSON Editor-in-Chief), is the acknowledged Representative Newspaper of the South, is Democratic in politics, and first, last, and all the time is for a reduction of the War Taxes as levied on the people by the tariff now in force.

The Weekly Courier-Journal

is the best weekly newspaper published in the United States, and for the quantity and quality of matter that appears in each issue of it, it is the CHEAPEST. Its telegraphic news facilities outclass any other paper, and it has the services of the ablest writers and correspondents in the country. It presents the news of the week from every section of the World. It gives to its readers throughout the year a greater number of Serial and Short Stories by prominent and popular writers than any of the high-priced magazines. It is in every respect a Model Political and Family Paper.

The Weekly Courier-Journal has by far the Largest Circulation of any Democratic Newspaper in America.

It is acknowledged by press and people throughout the United States to be a great paper; great in size; great in enterprise; great in ability; great in its correctness of information; great in variety; great in every sense of the word. It is the paper that everybody should have. To be without it is a great opportunity lost. Those who once take it are not willing to be without it in their homes.

FREE PREMIUMS.

A list of handsome and useful premiums of great variety are offered free to yearly subscribers. On receipt of a request for them, we send free of charge a sample copy of Weekly Courier-Journal and our Premium Supplement, giving our full list of premiums, to any address.

SUBSCRIPTION TERMS.

Weekly, one year, including a free premium	$1.50
Weekly, in clubs of five and over, without premium, each	1.10

For every club of five names sent us at one time, the sender of club will be sent as a present any one of our free premiums selected by him.

Daily, (except Sunday), one year	$10.00
Daily, (except Sunday), six months	5.00
Daily, (except Sunday), one month	1.00
Sunday, one year	2.00
Sunday, six months	1.00

No traveling agents are employed by the Courier-Journal, but a good local agent is wanted just in every community, to whom a liberal cash commission is allowed. If the Courier-Journal has no local agent in your neighborhood, send to us for our Agent's Canvassing Outfit, which we send free of charge. All subscription orders, requests for outfits, sample copies, etc., should be addressed to

W. N. HALDEMAN,
President Courier-Journal Co.,
LOUISVILLE, KY.

FARM IMPLEMENTS.

Buy your Farming Implements, Fence Wire, Cutting Boxes, Feed Grinders, Corn Shellers, Road Scrapers, Excavating Carts, Sewing Machines, Mowers and Reapers and

Deering TWINE Binders,

GROCERIES, &c.

READY MIXED PAINT,

—of—

J. C. Smith,

Successor to W. H. HILL & Co.

22 and 24 EAST THIRD STREET,

Cincinnati, Ohio.

Or of our local Agent C, W. RILEY, North Bend, Ohio, (Ky. Box). All goods sold strictly on their merits.

Exposition Medal Awarded for 1884.

$5.00 and Upwards

For a Beautiful Single Set of Teeth. Extracting without pain included.

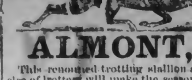
DR. DeJOHNS.

In attendance at the office. Gold fillings $1 and upwards, Amalgon 50c, Gas and Spray used. All work warranted.

Will be in Burlington the first Monday in each month, County Court.

J, C. ALLEN, 327 Vine Str., Cor. 9th. Cincinnati, Ohio.

OPIUM and WHISKY HABITS cured at home without pain. BOOK of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.



JENKINS'

ALMONT,

This renowned trotting stallion and sire of trotters will make the season of 1886, at the stable of John D. Norris, ½ mile from Petersburg, Boone county, Ky., at $30 the season, with the privilege of returning in 1887 should the mare fail to get with foal, money due July 1st, 1886.

Jenkins' Almont was sired by Wither's Almont, the sire of 26 horses with records of 2:30 or better. 1st dam by Toledo; 2nd dam Sonshy Grays Highlander; 3d dam by Coner de Leon, a noted pacer.

Jenkins' Almont is the sire of Bessie G. 2:25½; Grafton, 2:28¼; Will Heath, trial, 2:21, and others gifted with great trotting speed.

Pasture furnished at $3 per month. Care will be exercised to prevent accidents or escapes, but will not be responsible should any occur. We are endeavoring to give the people of Boone Co., a chance to get a fine colt at a low price. J. D. NORRIS & Co.

The Combined Stallion,

RECTOR

Will make the season of 1886, Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays at Harvy Marshall's at Waterloo, and the rest of the week at my stable at Bellevue, at $10 to insure a mare with foal, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Rector is a beautiful black, 7 years old, 5½ hands high, and a good all purpose horse. He was sired by Criss, dam Morgan.

Not responsible for accidents should any occur. ROBT. CLORE, Bellevue, Ky.

The fine stallion, Conner's

ALMONT

Will make the present season at my stable at Bullittsville, Ky., and will serve mares at $10 to insure, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Care will be taken to prevent accidents, but will not be responsible should any occur.

ALMONT is 6 years old, a beautiful rich mahogany bay, black mane and tail, with two white ankles behind, stands 16 hands high, and shows much style and speed.

ALMONT was by Bidwell's Almont, jr., bred by Col. West; got by Almont, son of Alexander's Abdallah; dam Belle Forrest, by Edwin Forrest, Almont is a half brother to Sensation; 1st dam Topsy, the fine premium mare, by Topgallant; g. d. a Belle Founder mare; g. g. d. a Copperbottom mare that possessed all the fine saddle qualities. J. D. CONNER.

CRIGLER'S ALMONT,

Will make the season of 1886 at my stable on Gunpowder Creek 1½ miles above Limaburg and at Florence, Ky., at $20, to insure a mare with foal, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Will be at Florence the first three days of each week, and the rest of the time at my stable. Not responsible for accidents.

ALMONT is a dark chestnut sorrel, 15¾ hands high, with fine style, and has trotted his mile in less than 2:30; he is by Almont jr., he by Wither's Almont; he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian; Almonts 1st dam Goodwood; 2d dam Daniel Boone; 3 dam Blacknose.

REX DENMARK.

Will make the season at the same time and places, at $10 to insure a mare in foal.

He is a beautiful brown with fine mane and tail, style that cannot be beaten, is 16 hands high. He has been shown 11 times and taken 10 ties, in Missouri.

He is by Crigler's Denmark; he by Denmark Chief; he by Black Denmark; Old Denmark by Imported Messenger. Rex Denmark's 1st dam Woodpecker Star of the West; 2d dam Mohawk; 3d dam Tom Crowder. W. A. CRIGLER.

The fine harness and saddle stallion

Young WOODPECKER

Will make the season of 1886, Saturdays and Mondays at J. W. Gaines' stable at Burlington, Tuesdays and Wednesdays at Gainesville, Thursdays and Fridays at J. W. Gaines' farm near Plattsburg, at $10 to insure a colt to stand up and suck, any person parting with a mare after being bred forfeits the insurance money.

Young Woodpecker was sired by Nat Carpenter's Star of the West; he by Woodpecker; he by Bertrand; dam imported Buzzard, Young Woodpecker's dam was a 3 minute mare, by Jeff Davis, g. d. by Russell's Pilot; he by old Sir William.

Not responsible for accidents.

TEN BROCK, This fine young jack will make the season at the same time and places and on the same terms.

He is black with mealy nose, 15 hands high. He was sired by Esparters; he by a large Spanish jack; dam of Ten Brock, Mollie McCarty, was sired by Longfellow, Perry Tucker's jack; g. d. by A. S. Piatt's jack, the best breeder ever in this county.

F. C. Wingate, J. W. Gaines,
J. J. Littard, C. A. Gaines.

FOR SALE!

Henry County Farm of 120 acres, situated on pike 1 mile from Smithfield, on Louisville & Lexington Railroad, 35 miles from Louisville. Said farm has on it a good frame house, of 8 rooms, good barn and all other outbuildings, and never failing water, convenient to good schools and churches. The land is first-class, all in grass but 25 acres, which is in wheat, 25 acres of fine tobacco land which has never been cultivated. Terms reasonable. For further information apply to

B. D. SPURGIN, Smithfield, Ky.
Henry county. 52-3m

AGENTS WANTED for DR. SCOTT'S beautiful Electric Corsets. Sample free to those becoming agents. No risk, quick sales. Territory given. Satisfaction guaranteed. Address DR. SCOTT, 842 Broadway, NEW YORK.

1886. STALLIONS FOR 1886,

SAM HARRIS.

DESCRIPTION—Bay, no white, 16¼ hands, fine style, good trotting action, 5 years old, with six weeks breaking and handling trotted a full mile over Chester Park in 2:58, full brother to Royalmont, who has a record 2:32 with a private trial 2:22 in his 5 year old form.

PEDIGREE—By Bidwell's Almont, dam Louisiana by Tornado; he by Tempest; he by Royal-George; her dam by Old Mazeppa; she was sold in 1874 and delivered in Buffalo for $1,500, and afterwards shipped south. She trotted the Buffalo track in 2:35 the day of sale.

SAM HARRIS will make the season of 1886 for $25, payable when the service is rendered, with the privilege of breeding till a colt is obtained.

JOHN S.

DESCRIPTION—Dark iron gray, 5 yrs, old, very stylish, good action, 16 hands high.

PEDIGREE—By Bidwell's Almont; 1st dam by Ohio Volunteer; he by Goldsmith's Volunteer; he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian; 2d dam White Eagle. John S. will make the season of 1886 for $10 to insure, due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Bidwell's Almont by Wither's Almont; he by Alexander's Abdallah; he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian; 1st dam by Edwin Forrest; Bidwell's Almant sired Judge Lindsay with a 5 yr. old record 2:21¼, Annie W 2:22½, and two others with public record below 2:30; also Royalmont with a public record 2:32 and private trial 2:22 Pasture furnished at $3 per month, but not responsible for accidents.

These two stallions will make the season of 1886, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at Bullittsville and the rest of the week at my stable 1½ mile west of Anderson's Ferry.

JAS. L. RILEY, Bullittsville, Ky.

City Flouring Mills,

RISING SUN, INDIANA.

FLOUR EXCHANGED FOR WHEAT OR CASH. THE HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR GOOD WHEAT.

J. W. TALBOTT.

OHIO STEAM DENTAL CO.

ESTABLISHED 185.

47 WEST SEVENTH STREET,

CINCINNATI, O.

TEETH EXTRACTED WITHOUT PAIN by using Fresh Nitrous Oxide Gas.

ARTIFICIAL TEETH made of the best quality and workmanship finish, with guaranteed fit.

OPERATIVE DEPARTMENT handsomely finished and well lighted the principal having had a life-long experience in the treatment and filling of the natural teeth.

L. ROBERTSON, D.D. S., Principal.

Office and Residence, 47 W. 7th St., two blocks north of Fountain Square, (formerly 270 Walnut and 6th & Vine). Office open at all hours.

THE

COMBINATION FENCE

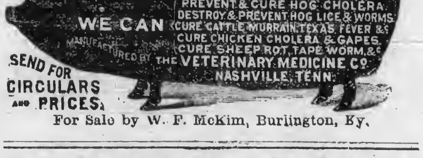
A fence that is wanted, and in time will be used by every one that wants a fence, either around the House, Garden or Farm, as it is cheap, durable and serviceable, to keep in check horses, cattle, sheep, hogs, chickens, etc., and restrain wolves, dogs, and rabbits, etc.

Having all the advantages of a picket fence in restraining animals from jumping, and not so liable to decay, and at much less cost, and no barbs to injure valuable stock, thus placing it far in advance of any other fence now in use, hence it must be the fence of the future; all who have it want more.

It is portable and can be removed from field to field by drawing staples from posts, taking out the splice lath and rebundling it. We offer this fence for sale in bundles of five and six rod at Burlington.

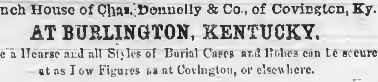
DILLS & CRISLER,

Burlington, Ky.



AGENTS WANTED.
USE Dr. SALMON'S HOG CHOLERA SPECIFIC!
CHICKEN POWDER. — SHEEP POWDER.
CATTLE POWDER. — CONDITION POWDER.
WE CAN
PREVENT & CURE HOG CHOLERA.
DESTROY & PREVENT HOG LICE & WORMS.
CURE CATTLE MURRAIN, TEXAS FEVER &c
CURE CHICKEN CHOLERA & GAPES.
CURE SHEEP ROT, TAPE WORM, &c
MANUFACTURED BY THE VETERINARY MEDICINE CO. NASHVILLE, TENN.
SEND FOR CIRCULARS AND PRICES.

For Sale by W. F. McKim, Burlington, Ky.



UNDERTAKING.

Branch House of Chas. Donnelly & Co., of Covington, Ky.

AT BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY.

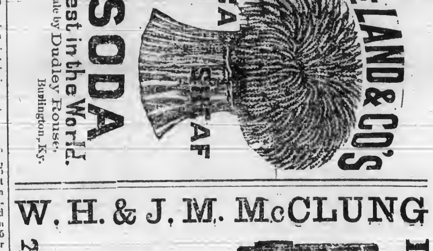
Where a Hearse and all Styles of Burial Cases and Robes can be secured at as Low Figures as at Covington, or elsewhere.

Bodies Embalmed or preserved in a

REFRIGERATOR

When desired. All orders left with our Branch House in Burlington will be promptly attended, and funerals conducted in the best style. The business is in charge of Jas. Westbay, with whom leave orders.

CHAS. DONNELLY & CO.



W. H. & J. M. McCLUNG

ALSO A GREAT VARIETY OF HARD and SOFT COAL

HEATING STOVES.

ALL KINDS OF STOVES REPAIRED,

Tin Roofing, Spouting, Guttering, etc., Done to Order,

535 & 537 Madison Ave. - Covington, Ky.

☞ Second Door Below Sixth Street. ☜

Subscribe for the Boone

County Rcorder.

Local News.

Mud plentiful.

The grass groweth.

The river has commenced falling.

The sassafras tea season has arrived.

H. M. Piper is visiting his brother at this place.

Our pencil shover from Rabbit Hash was in town Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bango spent Sunday in Newport, with relatives.

Esquire Oscar Gaines is improving and will be out again soon.

Mrs. Josie Platt is spending sometime at Hanover, Indiana.

Miss Orie Conner is teaching the spring school at Limaburg.

The Good Templars received two new members last Friday night.

Mrs. Thos. Cowen's fine Alderney cow died of dry murane one day last week.

E. E. Foster, who has been in Florida, for the last year returned home yesterday.

Bright, pleasant weather is the greatest stimulant a farmer can get at this season of the year.

This office turned out this season a large number of horsegraphs followed by breed biographies.

Everything on the jump at the Boone House this week, where business is exceedingly good.

Two street fakirs, a patent medicine man, and notion store man entertained the people in town Monday.

John P. Ryle, the Democratic nominee for County Superintendent of schools was in town last Saturday.

Some tobacco plants have come up, and should they not be molested there will be some early planting this season.

I. Baley has been unanimously elected keeper of the toll gate on the Burlington and Florence pike near Florence.

The patent right peddlers struck the town last Friday evening. By the way, the same men drive "spanking" fine teams.

We are glad to hear that Jonas Clore and Mrs. S. D. Rice of Bellevue, are convalescing. Dr. Gill Rice is yet very poorly.

The bill to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors in Boone county has been passed, and will be voted on at the August election.

FOR RENT—To a responsible person, a well located blacksmith shop, in the town of Florence, Ky. Apply to

A. C. GRAVES, Florence.

Another installment of agents struck the town last week. They manipulate a churn power which is certainly a meritorious invention.

Sheriff Clutterbuck brought Jno. W. Grubbs and John Drinkard from Covington jail Tuesday night and lodged them in jail here. They will be tried this week.

One day last week a little son of Jno O. Roberts, who lives near town, had its arm severely burned by falling in a kettle of boiling soap. The child was about six years old.

During the past week we have noticed some tobacco wending its way to Judge Baker's warehouse, evidently being some of the weed which he bought during the late campaign.

Col. Monfort, Col. Landram, Judge O'Hara, and Chas. Fisk were the visiting attorneys Monday. It has been democratically decreed recently that the first named should don the Judicial ermine in the fall.

A large crow in town Monday, and business on the staeet was lively. The horse show was not quite as large, as Monday week, but the speed of some the trotting horses was tested, as well as that of the fine saddlers.

Mr. Jasper Maguire and Miss Martha Louaker, both of the Bellevue neighborhood, were married in the parlor at Judge Dill's residence last Sunday morning. The Judge officiated in his usual short and pleasing manner.

It will be but a few days until Brother Berkshire will commence interviewing the finny inhabitants of Gunpowder and Woolper. He has been grinding his hooks and testing the strength of his lines.

Remember that Geo. Huschart & Co. of Lawrenceburg, Indiana, can always give satisfaction both as to price and style of work, so when you want to buy a tombstone or a monument go to their yard or call on John Beall, of Hebron, Ky., their agent.

For two Sundays the daily papers have not reached this place as usual, thus entirely cutting us off from the outside world, but at the same time giving a clear field for a perusal of the Bible, a duty in which we fear many of our citizens are sadly derelict.

The garden planting which was brought to such a sudden conclusion not long since will be renewed with vigor at the first opportunity. Planting garden and attending Circuit Court both this month will furnish H. P. Stephens all the amusement he is capable of appreciating.

In a letter received from Hon. Reuben Conner last week he writes:

"We are getting along very slow. We are on the Revenue Bill, and have been for three or four weeks, and not through yet. We are on Banks, and I can not say when we will get through. I am getting very tired."

After the masonic ceremonies the remains of Felix Moses were turned over to his friends in Cincinnati, who placed them in a vault at Walnut Hills to await final interment in the Jews' cemetery at that place. The grave had been prepared at Florence before it was known that the Jews desired to take charge of the corpse and have the funeral ceremonies at Walnut Hills.

J. Frank Grant, of Petersburg, was in town Monday, all smiles over the fact that he has at last moved into his new residence. He says it is a beauty, and pronounces the painting the finest piece of work he has ever seen. He is most enthusiastic in his expression of thanks to the artist, our fellow townsman Joe Reed for the elegant and tasteful decoration of the inside of his new home.

The steamer U. P. Schenck brought up an immense lot of cane of poles for John P. Brown. They are are to be used as pickets for fence, made by Brown's fence builder, and will demonstrate how cheaply the southern people can have fence, as the pickets or cane will cost them nothing but the expense of cutting the canepoles.—Rising Sun Recorder.

Some of our readers desire to be informed why Easter comes so late this year. The rule is that Easter shall be celebrated on the first Sunday after the full moon which falls upon or next after March 21, and if the full moon falls on Sunday the next Sunday shall be Easter. The first full moon after March 21 this year falls on Sunday, April 18, which puts Easter on the following Sunday, April 25. The reasons, therefore, that Easter is so late this year are that we had a full moon just before March 21, that is, eight minutes before midnight on the 19th, and that the next full moon will be on Sunday

We clip the following from Richmond, Va., Whig. Mr. Casey is a son-in-law of Mr. Joel D. Conner, of the Bullittsville neighborhood.

"One of the finest turnouts seen on our fashionable drives is that of Mr. James Casey, manager of the P. H. Mayo tobacco works. Richmond is celebrated for its fine horses and vehicles, and we have at the present time some splendid drivers. As the spring opens they will become more beautiful and it really will be harder to find in any city scenery and roads superior to those seen in the west end and around reservoir grounds. Mr. Casey's horse, Van, is one of the fastest in the city, and his new brewster side-bar buggy, made in this city, is a model vehicle of its kind. Seated behind Van distance is easily annihilated."

Circuit Court.

Only the grand jury organized Monday. The jury is a body of the best men in the county, and from the number of witnesses before it Monday it took off its coat and went to work so soon as in its room. The jury is composed of the following named gentlemen:

J. A. Wilson, Foreman, J G Green, Wm Craven, J. H. Walton, J H Hastings, Milton Wilhoit, Edward Gaines, R A Brady, B W Adams, F L Gordon, Henry Terrill, Sam Hind, jr., J S Huey, O P Conner, Fred Utz and T B Aylor.

The petit juries were impaneled Tuesday morning, and are composed of the following gentlemen:

Jury No. 1—Joe Weaver, B H Stephens, Marion Stephens, J C Mitchell, J H Aylor, J D Cloud, W H Grant, Robt Clore, B C Tanner, S H Stephens, Jno Smith and I P Arnold.

Jury No. 2.—Geo C Voshell. W E Clutterbuck, O P Winters, M S Rice, Harvey Hughes, Justice Hudson, Sam Pope, E T Krutz, Jno J Huey, M S Rouse, Jno S Mason and H P Marshall.

The next meeting of the County Teacher's Association will take place at Florence on Saturday, April 24, 1886 The following is the programme:

Essay, Literature in the Public-schools—Miss Nannie Bristow.

Grading the country schools—Miss Lizzie Conner, Miss Katie Riggs.

Geography—L. M. Whitehead.

Object Lesson—Miss Lillie Rouse.

Licensing Teachers—W. E. Clutterbuck, J. C. Mack.

Elementary Science in the Common Schools—J. M. Lassing, Miss Anna Young.

Recitation—Robbie Foster.

Deleterious effects of Alcoholic Stimulants and Narcotics—J. G. Tomlin.

The teachers and friends of education are earnestly requested to attend and take part in all discussions. Let the teachers arouse to their duty, and take more interest in the Association. The meeting will be one of unusual interest, and demands the attendance of every member of the association.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

RABBIT HASH.

Health of the neighborhood good.

A. J. Holmes is in Texas and well pleased with that country.

Mrs. Hastings has about recovered from her attack of pneumonia.

The river has done considerable damage in the East Bend bottoms, especially to the wheat fields.

Mr. Turly and daughter, of Gallatin spent several days with Tom and Waller Marshall last week.

The river is receding at last, no damage done to amount to much, except destroying some of the gardens.

Jim Fairchild has moved to Aurora, and Sam Burris will move into the house vacated by him on Jas. Hastings farm.

John Huey, of Burlington, has purchased the house and lot of Harvey Akin's heirs, which he will take possession of in the fall.

Mrs. Kate Pope and her mother returned to their home in Ghent, last Sunday after several week's visit with Mrs. Cy Kelley at Bellevue.

PLATTSBURG.

Wheat is looking fine in this vicinity.

Sore eyes are epidemic in this neighborhood.

Judge Warren Monfort. How does that strike you?

Boys trying to smoke a ground hog out of his den caused the volcano.

W. A. Black will move to E. H. Bakers farm near Big Bone next week.

Mrs. Allen, wife of George Allen, of near here, is very low with consumption.

Born to Owen Allen and wife, a boy; also to Wm. Hensley and wife, a boy.

Marion Moble, who was so badly burned sometime ago, is able to sit up in a chair.

W. L. Gaines is teaching school at the Woolper school house, with a good attendance.

John Jackson, who went to West Plains, Mo. last fall has returned home He has been sick ever since he left.

We hear that Joseph A. Donaldson, an old Plattsburg boy, is re-elected judge of the Carroll County Court.

The primary election is over, and we hoist to the breeze our banner with the names of the nominees inscribed thereon.

The writer's little boy is getting along nicely under the care of the big medicine man, Dr. Grant, of Burlington.

The remains of Joe C. Hensley were taken from the vault the other day and buried in the cemetery at this place.

John D. Baldon and bride, nee Miss Sallie Craig, of Carroll county, are at John's fathers, where they will make their future home.

Dr. W. E. Grant, of Louisville, made tracks with his No. 11 shoes in Plattsburg, several days last week, the guest of his brother, J. Frank.

Richard Gore will start a paint shop on Pike Street near Main in the near future. Dick is a fine carriage painter and is worthy of patronage.

Scott Johnson, of Jeffersonville, Ind. is now a resident of our burg; also Alfred Wingate, of near Gainesville, both occupying Mr. Voshell's house.

The department at Washington has raised Capt. A. B. Parker's salary $25 on the month. The Capt. is deputy collector in this Revenue district.

The many friends of J. A. Botts will be glad to hear that he is able to drive out when the weather is good, and he is much improved in health generally.

S. S. McWethy, jr's. little boy, while playing the other day, fell down on a stick, cutting the palate of his mouth loose and making a very painful wound

It has been sometime since we communicated to the RECORDER, but from now on will try and come to time often and regular, unless the attack of spring fever we have chronics on us.

A successor to Squire E. H. Baker will have to be elected, and we would suggest the name of our friend, Lewis Beemon, of Limaburg, as a suitable person for the place, lets hear from you Lewis.

The citizens of our town were startled last Sunday morning by seeing immense quantities of smoke issuing from a hole in the ground on the hill near Nick Oberding's. On close examination it was found to be a large mound from which smoke and fire issues in large quantities at times and is supposed to be a small volcano, similar to those on the Pacific coast.

As the backwater is high up in the creek and navigation is good, those fellows going on the Salt river trip should as well start from this point as any. The Str. PRIMARY is advertised to leave this wharf between now and the first Monday in August. For information as to rates and so on, inquire on board the Steamer.

SCHOOL AND CHURCH.

—A young lady school teacher at Swiss Station, Sacramento County, Cal., threw an unruly boy of thirteen to the floor with such force as to break his leg.

—An old regulation at Yale is that a student shall lift his hat at a distance of ten rods from the president, eight from a professor and five from a tutor. —Hartford Post.

—Andover Theological Seminary will receive $25,000 from the estate of the late Mrs. William Richardson, of Manchester, N. H. The American Bible Society receives about the same amount, according to the lady's will.

—Writing to a young collegian many years ago, Ruskin said: "To do as much as you can healthily and happily do each day in a well-determined direction, with a view to far-off results, and with present enjoyment of one's work, is the only proper, the only essentially profitable way."

—The American Medical Missionary Association held its first annual meeting recently. It was voted that young men wishing to be medical missionaries will have to be earnest Christians, sound physically, of liberal education, and take a full course of lectures in an approved college of medicine.—N. Y. Examiner.

—Methodist girls are assured by the official journal of their church that they can not dance without breaking that solemn vow which they made at the altar, "in the presence of God and His angels, to renounce the devil and all his works." The assertion is further made that truly good Christians are never dancers.—Chicago Times.

—Some statistican asserts that among the 'verts to Romanism—a "'vert" may mean a "convert" or a "pervert," and is adopted as an ambiguous and satisfying term for general use by British conversationalists—that have gone over since the beginning of the Oxford movement are enumerated 36 lords, 25 baronets, 302 graduates of Oxford, 149 graduates of Cambridge, 142 army officers, 92 lawyers, 48 doctors and 1,010 ladies of aristocratic stations.—Christian Union.

—The Church Missionary Society represents the evangelical element in the Church of England. Its income was $1,162,248, and it supports 228 ordained missionaries, 34 lay missionaries, 15 women, 11 ordained Eurasians, 246 ordained natives, 10 Eurasian teachers, 3,511 native teachers and helpers, and has 40,757 communicants in its mission churches. The work of this society reaches nearly all parts of the world, and its missions in Pagan lands are among the most beneficent and successful,

—Mr. Andrew D. White, in his farewell address to the faculty and students of Cornell University, said: "This university is designed to make men and women of the students coming here. This country can afford to lose all that it has yet attained if by so doing its inhabitants become true, noble, faithful men and women. The founders of this university were patriotic men, and it was for this purpose that they conceived the idea of bettering the nation. Many come here thinking that by so doing they are patronising the university. That is a mistake. The university patronizes you."—N. Y. Tribune.

The encampment had a lively time at Florence last night.

The Drinkard and Rogers cases are set for trial to-day.

Judge Major is dispatching business with his usual alacrity.

The grand jury is interviewing witnesses from all sections of the county. No indictments have been reported yet.

County Directory

OFFICERS.

Assessor—G. M. Riley.
Jailer—Samuel Cowen.
County Surveyor—W. E. Vest.
Coroner.—Dr. A. A. Murat, Constance.
Superintendent of Schools—H. J. Foster

COURTS.

CIRCUIT COURT meets the 2d Monday in April and first Monday in October, P. U. Major, Judge; W. L. Riddell, Clerk A. G. DeJarnatte, Commonwealths Attorney; W. L. Riddell, Trustee Jury Fund.

COUNTY COURT meets the first Monday in every month. L. H. Dills, Judge; S. W. Tolin, County Attorney. M. T. Garnett, Clerk; J. R. Clutterbuck, Sheriff, T. W. Finch and W. T. German, Deputy Sheriffs.

QUARTERLY COURT meets the first Monday in March, June, September and December. The officers of the County Court preside.

COURT OF CLAIMS meets the first Monday in November.

MAGISTRATES' COURTS are held in March, June, September and December, as follows:

Bellevue—M. B. Green, first Saturday, and T. H. Sutton, third Monday. J. M. Moody, Constable.

Burlington—E. H. Baker, Thursday after first Monday, and Oscar Gaines, fourth Monday. C. W. Saxton, Constable.

Carlton A. G. McConnell, Wednesday after second Monday, and B. H. Ryle, Saturdny after third Monday Charles H. Acra. Constable.

Petersburg—Jos. Hensley, Wednesday after first Monday, and L. A. Loder fourth Saturday. Geo. Comer, Constable.

Beever—W. M. Rouse, Friday after the third Monday, and Andrew Ellis, Fiday af ter 1st Mmonday— T.J. Coyle, Constable.

Union—M. C. Norman, Thursday after third Monday, and H. Bannister, Thursday after second Monday. H. G. Blanton, Constable.

Hamilton—F. M. Howlett, Tuesday after second Monday; W. W. Garnett, Wednesday alter third Monday. R. L. Roberts Constable.

Walton—T. F. Carley, second Friday. S. T. Johnson, Tuesday after second Friday Al Arnold, Constable.

Verona—J. P. Vest, Tuesday after first Monday. J. J. Brumback, Tuesday after third Monday, J. H. Callahan, constable.

Florence—T. K. Dixon, third Saturday, Joe Wagstaff, second Saturday. Craig Pettit, Constable.

Taylorsport—A. B. Whitlock, fourth Moncay, W. A. Goodridge, third Saturday Thos. Watts, constable.

ROBERT B. REED
Attorney at Law.
OFFICE AT - UNION, KY.

F. RIDDELL. H. P. STEPHENS.
RIDDELL and STEPHENS,
ATTORNEYS at LAW
BURLINGTON, KY.
Office over Dudley Rouse's Store.

W. E. VEST,
COUNTY SURVEYOR
WALTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of surveying. All orders sent him through the mail to Walton, will receive his prompt attention.

DR. A. B. HARRYMAN,
Resident Dentist.
Office over Post-Office.
AURORA, INDIANA.

J. J. Landram. G. G. Hughes.
LANDRAM & HUGHES.
ATTORNEYS at LAW.
Will practice in the Boone Circuit Cour and the Court of Appeals. Prompt attention given to Collections, on application t G. G. Hughes, Burlington, Ky.

E. E. IGOE,
Resident Dentist,
Rising Sun, Ind.
WITH
J. P. Ulrey.
Monday and Tuesday at Rising Sun. Ind Wednesday and Saturday at Aurora, Ind. Thursday and Friday at Lawrenceburg.

S. W. TOLIN.
ATTORNEY AT LAW
BURLINGTON, Y
Office in Court-house on 2d floor.
Will manage litigation in any of the Courts of the State, contracts and other legal instruments drawn up at reasonable rates. A prompt an studious attention given to business intrusted to my care. A trial solicited. 12-1y

W. J. RICE,
CARPENTER & BUILDER
BULLITSVILLE, KY.
Is prepared Raise or Move
EITHER LOG or FRAME BUILDINGS
On Short Notice,
And at the Lowest Possible Figures.
38-tf Your orders respectfully solicited

LUMBER.
Goe. M. Bedinger & Co.,
Erlanger, - - Ky.
We keep constantly on hand all kinds of Lumber, Laths and Shingles. Also Builder's supplies of all kinds.
—Come and see Us—

INSURE AT HOME
The Farmers' Mutual Fire
INSURANCE COMPANY
Of Boone County
Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.
Its Rates are Lower
Than those of any other Company, and it gives the farmers of Boone County a
HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE
In keeping their property insured.
EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY
should take a policy at once.
J. A. GAINES, President, Burlington, Ky.
J. H. WALTON, Secretary, Constance, Ky.
R. RANDALL, Treasurer.
DIRECTORS.
LEORAN GAINES, B. L. RICE.
JNO. STEPHENS.
OSCAR GAINES, Agent.
R. S. COWEN, Assessor

CLORE'S SONS.
—o— Manufacturers of —o—
Agricultural Implements.
—(—SUCH AS—)—
Steel Turning & Side Hill Plows

Road Plows, Double Shovels, Single Shovlse, Bar Shovel Gophers, Harrows, Jumping Shovels and Rolling Colters.
RISING SUN, - - IND.
Send for Illustrated Price List. 13-3m

FRYE'S COMBINATION
FARM, GARDEN & ORNAMENTAL FENCE
It combines the advantages of every fence, and is free from any objections. Our combination fence is composed of five two-strand cables of the best annealed bessemer steel wire firmly interwoven with pickets at a uniform distance of 2 to 5 inches apart, and the diagonal supporting wire which is interwoven as represented, enables us to hold each and every picket up off the ground with perfect ease, keeping them even on top and the entire fence always in the open air, making the lower ends of the pickets just durable as the upper ends. Sagging is utterly impossible, as we have a direct vertibal tensil strength of 1700 lbs. to each pannel which alone is three times as strong as an ordinary pine board fence. Our five cables, which gives a combined strength of more than fifteen times that of a pine board 1x6, all interwoven in such a manner with the pickets that one wire cannot be broken without breaking 11. Thus giving us a fence 18 times stronger than a barb wire. The pickets are oak of first quality, and soaked in hot Alkalies, making them last many years. The pickets are supported every 10½ inches by the cables so that breakage is impossible, giving us a fence that will turn all kinds of stock, from the smallest pig to the meanest mule, without endangering the life of any. It is a portable fence, can be removed by drawing the staples and the fence rolled up and removed without the slightest injury. It is dog proof, keeps sheep in and dogs out. It will protect your orchards from the ravages of rabbits, and your gardens from chickens. It is endorsed by over 200,000 of our farmers, as filling every claim we make for it. No farmer can afford to do without this fence that has means to buy it. Any party wishing fence or any information in regard to this fence will address.
T. H. SUTTON, Grant, Boone county, Ky.
N. B.—This fence can be sold and delivered at any landing on the river in Boone county, at the following reduced prices: Pickets 5 in. a part 55c 4½ in. apart 60c; 4 in. apart 65c, 3½ in. a part 70c; 3 in. a part 75c: 2½ in apart 80c; 2 in. a part 85c. We have strechers expressly for our fence which we will furnish to any parties ordering fifty rods or more, and will furnish one hand to assist in putting it up, after the posts have been set.

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that Mrs. C. Fanny Latham, of Florence, Ky., wife of Robt. E. Latham, who is made defendant to the cause, has filed her petition in equity in the Boone Circuit Court, asking to be made a feme sole; and to be empowered to trade, and make conveyances in her own rights, as if she were a single woman.

C. FANNY LATHAM.
By R. Richardson, atty.

Feby. 6, 1886.

FOR SALE.
My farm of 250 acres one mile from Richwood Station, near the Cin Southern Railroad. This farm has 50 acres of timber and is all strong land, and under good fence, has three never failing ponds, good stable and a large tobacco barn. The improvements consist of a two story frame dwelling of 8 rooms, in first-class order, and all necessary out buildings. These premises front on the Hamilton & Richwood pike which intersects the Richwood & Beaver pike, also on the premises. Taking into consideration the quality of improvements and land, and convenience of pikes and railroads, schools and neighborhood, there is not a more desirable farm in Kentucky. Will sell on reasonable terms, ¼ cash and the balance on time, or will trade for desirable city property. For particulars address
L. B. STEPHENS, Richwood, Ky.
Or H. P. Stephens, Burlington, Ky.

THE STAR
A Newspaper supporting the Principles of a Democratic Administration,
Published in the City of New York.
WILLIAM DORSHEIMER,
Editor and Proprietor.
Daily, Sunday, and Weekly Editions.
THE WEEKLY STAR,
A Sixteen-page Newspaper, issued every Wednesday.
A clean, pure, bright and interesting
FAMILY PAPER.
It contains the latest news, down to the hour of going to press:
Agricultural,
Market,
Fashion,
Household,
Political,
Financial and Commercial,
Poetical, Humorous and Editorial
Departments, all under the direction of trained journalists of the highest ability. Its sixteen pages will be found crowded with good things from beginning to end.
Original stories by distinguished American and foreign writers of fiction.
THE DAILY STAR,
The DAILY STAR contains all the news of the day in an attractive form. Its special correspondence by cable from London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna and Dublin is a commendable feature.
At Washington, Albany, and other news centers, the ablest correspondents, specially retained by the THE STAR, furnish the latest news by telegraph.
Its literary features are unsurpassed.
The Financial and Market Reviews are unusually full and complete.
Special terms and extraordinary inducements to agents and canvassers.
Send for circulars.
TERMS OF THE WEEKLY STAR to Subscribers, FREE OF POSTAGE in the United States and Canada, outside the limits of New York City:
Per year........$1 25
Clubs of Ten........10 00
Clubs of Fifteen (and one extra to organizer)..15 00
TERMS OF THE DAILY STAR to Subscribers:
Every day for one year (including Sunday)....$7 00
Daily, without Sunday, one year........6 00
Every day, six months........3 50
Daily, without Sunday, six months........3 00
Address, THE STAR,
26 and 28 North William St., New York

Subscribe for the Recorder.

IMMUNITY from ANNOYANCE

Made only of the finest and best quality of Glass for withstanding heat.
Every good thing is Counterfeited, and consumers are CAUTIONED against IMITATIONS of these Chimneys made of VERY POOR GLASS. See that the exact label is on each chimney as above. The Pearl Top is always clear and bright Glass.
Manufactured ONLY by
GEO. A. MACBETH & CO.
Pittsburgh Lead Glass Works.
FOR SALE BY DEALERS.

AURORA
MARBLE
AND GRANITE
WORKS,
Aurora. Ind
Will have constantly on hand
Marble and Granite Monuments,
Italian & American Headstones, &c
I am ready to do all kinds of Stone Work on short notice and at low prices Hoping to receive the patronage of Boone County, I am respectfully,
F. W. KASSEBAUM.

PIANOS–ORGANS
The demand for the Improved MASON & HAMLIN PIANOS is now so large that a second addition to the factory has become imperative. Do not require one-quarter as much tuning as Pianos on the prevailing wrest-pin system. Consult Catalogue, free. 100 Styles of ORGANS, $22 to $900. For Cash, Easy Payments, or Rented.
Mason & Hamlin Organ and Piano Co.,
NEW YORK; BOSTON; CHICAGO.

AGENTS WANTED
FOR
The PEOPLES CYCLOPEDIA,
FARM & STOCK CYCLOPEDIA,
THOMPSONS' MEDICAL ADVISER,
PIONEER HISTORY.
Address
THE CAPITOL PUBLISHING CO.,
P. O. Box 450, Cincinnati, O.

Subscribe for the RECORDER.

TAKE THE RECORDER,

H. F. BLASE
540 MADISON AVE.
Covington. - Ky.
FALL GOODS ARE ALL IN.
5,000 NEW ELEGANT DESIGNS TO SELECT FROM.
SUITS AND OVERCOATS MADE TO ORDER ON SHORT NOTICE.
We Guarantee Goods, Fit and Workmanship.
We have also manufactured over 1,000 Suits and Overcoats during the fall season, made out of good material and by good workmen, which we can sell as low as any house in the country.
CALL AND SEE US.
H. F. BLASE,
540 MADISON AVE. COVINGTON. KY.

STOTT BROS,
PETERSBURG, KY.
We are still in the trade with a better class of Fall & Winter Goods and Lower Prices than was ever known in this county. We can sell you direct from one of the leading factories of the country, at from 15 to 20 per cent. less than last years prices, and warranted to be No. 1 goods as they will show for themselves.
FLANNELS
OUR YARNS,
are first-class and cheaper than ever before offered. We are agents for the Shaker Yarn, old fashioned or long reel, double cut, 120 threads to the cut, best in the market.
BLANKETS,
Very cheap. We keep a general assortment of Dry Goods Notions, Boots and Shoes, Hats and Caps, Glassware, Queensware, Hardware, Tinware, and a full line of GROCERIES.
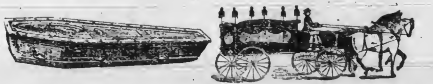
Coal from the Perfection Mines, in quality is "Love Among the Roses."
As our trade is gradually increasing, shows that we give you First-class Goods at Bottom Prices, and warrant all goods as represented.
Thanking the people for their liberal patronage in the past, we kindly ask a continuance of the same. Yours &c.
STOTT BROS, Petersburg, Ky.

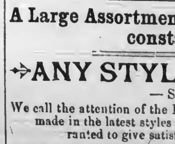
JAMES S. WAYNE, President. JNO. L. SANDFORD, Cashier
CAPITAL $300,000.
FARMERS AND TRADERS
NATIONAL BANK.
Covington, Kentucky.
DIRECTORS.
James S. Wayne, M. C. Mutch, Sam Hiad, E. J. Hickey, E. J. Green
I. S. Matson, J. H. Mersman, J. L. Sandford, L. H Dills, F. P. Helm
L. C. Stephens.
The general operations of banking transacted upon the most favorable term Collections made on all points in the United States.
The Business and Accounts of Farmers are Especially Solicited by this Bank.
dec. 20-6m

COME AND SEE FOR YOURSELF.
—(o)— We've got them from the lowest price to the finest. —(o)—



None disappointed or dissatisfied in five years business. We keep constantly on hand all sizes of
Burial Cases, Caskets and Robes,
ALSO A SPLENDID
HEARSE AND TEAM.
You can always come to us with the assurance of getting what you want in this line. We guarantee our prices 20 per cent. less than city prices. J. W. DAVIS has charge of this business at Hebron, and T. W. FINCH is our agent at Burlington.
J. J. RUCKER & CO, Hebron, Ky.

BUGGIES! BUGGIES!!
Pfalzgraf & Wingate,
—DEALERS IN—



Carriages, Buggies
—AND—
Spring Wagons.
—(o)— GAINESVILLE, KENTUCKY. —(o)—
A Large Assortment of Buggies and Carriages constantly on hand.
ANY STYLE TO ORDER ON
—SHORT NOTICE—
We call the attention of the People of Boone County to our stock on hand, made in the latest styles and of the best material. All work warranted to give satisfaction. Special attention given to
REPAIRING WITH NEATNESS & DISPATCH,
At the Lowest possible prices.
Old work taken in exchange for new
Pfalzgraf & Wingate,
GAINSVILLE, KENTUCKY.

KENTUCKY MILITARY INSTITUTE.
Advantages. 1. Exemption from temptations of city. One family—living, eating and working together. 3. Classes divided into small sections so that each cadet recites every day. 4. Expenditures under control of Superintendent. 5. Government adapted to the character of each individual cadet. 6. A faculty who associate with the cadets. 7. A system of military discipline which develops the body and imparts lessons of authority and prompt obedience. Address Col. R. D. ALLEN, Farmdale, Ky.

THE RECORDER.

WEDNESD'Y, APRIL 1, 1886.

RIDDELL & HALL,
Proprietors.

Rates of Subscription.

One year	$1 50
Six months	75
Three months	40

☞ Payment invariably in advance.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1 Column	1 year	$80
1	½ "	40
1	¼ "	20
½ "	1 "	20
½ "	½ "	10
½ "	¼ "	6

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

Augest Election 1886.

For Circuit Judge
WARREN MONFORT.
For Commonwealths Attorney
JOHN S. GAUNT.

For Circuit Clerk
W. L. RIDDELL.
For County Judge
E. H. BAKER.
For County Attorney
S. W. TOLIN.
For County Clerk
M. T. GARNETT.
For Sheriff
J. R. CLUTTERBUCK.
For County Superintendent
J. P. RYLE.
For Surveyor
W. E. VEST.
For Jailer
SAMUEL COWEN.
For Assessor
G. M. RILEY.
For Coroner
Dr. A. A. MURAT.

Subscribe for the Recorder.

THE President has appointed E. T Jackson, of Tennessee, to fill Judge Baxter's place.

THE Senate has passed a bill appropriating $1,000 for the benefit of the office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, to pay for extra clerk's.

THE race for postmaster in Covington is growing quite interesting. There are several applicants, and it is generally believed that ex-Sheriff Leathers has rather the advantage of the other applicants.

Miss Mollie Crumbaugh was defeated for the position of County Superintendent at the primary election in Lyon, last Saturday. A woman can't be elected to office in Kentucky because she don't carry a hip-pocket to hide a bottle in.—Capital.

A Franklin sow, has just been found at the bottom of a straw stack having taken refuge there from the big snow of January last, and was caught by the fall of the stack. She was very well, considering her stay of two and a half months without food or water.

Rushville, Indiana, claims the oldest woman in the United States, if not in the world. Her name is Mrs. Mary Breneman, and she will be 116 years old April 27th. Her oldest son will be 81 the same day. She reads and sews well, and has been a Methodist for 80 years.

THE continued damp weather has a tendency to make the industrious farmer grow nervous, after having been favored with such fine weather in March. The spring has never been so late in this country as to cause a failure in crops, and there is now no cause for any apprehension.

SEVEN feet, 8½ inches is the height of the tallest native born American in the United States. Capt. Smith Cook, who was born in Shelby county, this State, 27 years ago, and came home the other day to visit his mother near near Bagdad, from Barnum's great show in New York, where the Capt. is engaged as one of the curiosities.

TAKING the country at large, the wheat prospect is that not to exceed 5 per cent. of the acreage sown in the fall, but will show that it has passed through the winter safely, with the additional prospect of a full average yield. There has been a little spring seeding in Iowa, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Dakota.

JUDGE MAJOR stands lowest on the Owen list for Circuit Judge for what reason we do not now care to inquire. No one can assert that he has failed to attend to the duties of his office during the term about to expire. No one can deny his ability, his knowledge of law or his justice. But he is not a good post-and-railer, his fences were sadly out of repair, and now they are clean gone. Fate was against him.—Owen Democrat.

CAPT. WARREN MONFORT, the successful candidate for Circuit Judge was backed by the soldiers-in-gray element in the district "the fine Italian hand" of the Old Fourth being somewhat apparent, in the primary. On several occasions heretofore its influence has made itself felt in conventions and elections, and several slates have been broken that had been arranged with a great deal of care and confidence. So far as we know, however, it has at no time excited any animosities or jealousies in the party. The force of discipline and orderly conduct seems to have stayed with the regiment. It makes no noise at the wrong time and indulges in no bluster, but when the bugle sounds it is there all the same.

The next "boom" will probably be for Gen. Simon Bolivar.—Owenton Democrat.

Thos. J. Henry, clerk of the Court of Appeals, was in town Monday as drunk as the proverbial boild owl. As a good Democrat we hung our head in shame of the thought that this man holds the most lucrative position in the State, and that our vote helped to place him there. How much better for Kentucky, and the Democratic party it would have been had the famous "whitewashing committee" kicked him off the ticket instead of sugar-coating the pill that was destined to wrench the vitals of the party almost beyond endurance. Let not the party flatter itself with the thought that because its majority in the State reached into the thousands that it cannot be overthrown, for if it persists, in electing such men to office it will certainly find itself mistaken. The only way to insure success is to deserve success, and that can not be done by selecting drunken standard bearers. —Winchester Democrat.

WE give the vote of the counties in this the 11th Judicial district, composed of the counties of Owen, Boone, Grant, Gallatin, Carroll and Franklin. Capt. Warren Monfort, of Owen county, is nominated for Judge by a plurality which will vary but little from 1,000 votes—John S. Gaunt, of Carroll county, for Commonwealths Attorney by 800 plurality as by the official returns:

GALLATIN.
Monfort	438
Major	225
Drane	71
Gordon	336
Gaunt	376
McManama	12

CARROLL
Monfort	866
Major	415
Drane	297
Gordon	345
Gaunt	1,003
McManama	16

BOONE
Monfort	866
Major	459
Drane	297
Gordon	677
Gaunt	873
McManama	30

FRANKLIN
Major	1,435
Drane	854
Montfort	321
Gaunt	1255
Gordon	1080
McManama	135

GRANT.
Major	395
Monfort	998
Drane	152
McManama	102
Gaunt	804
Gordon	523

OWEN
Monfort	803
Major	375
Drane	399
Gordon	1070
Gaunt	595
McManama	11

The Eastern Lunatic Asylum.

Mr. Conner, from special joint committee to investigate the Eastern Lunatic Asylum, and also charges against the Medical Superintendent, presented the following report, which was ordered printed:

To the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

Your joint committee, appointed to visit Eastern Kentucky Lunatic Asylum, at Lexington, Ky. and investigate the management thereof and the charges against Dr. R. C. Chenault, the Superintendent, would report that we have discharged that duty, and offer the following:

We visited said asylum and made a thorough examination of all its departments, and found every thing in most excellent order.

A thorough cleanliness, and perfect system pervades the whole establishment. The patients show that they are well fed, well clothed and well treated, and many of them expressed to us their kind feelings and high appreciation of the good treatment received at the hands of the officers and employes of the institution. We questioned many of the more rational and intelligent of the patients and found that they regarded the Superintendent with esteem and affection, which could only be inspired by the most abiding confidence in his worth and integrity. We examined many of the employes, and without a single exception found that while they regarded the Superintendent as a strict disciplinarian, yet all spoke of his kindness and courtesy to parties connected with the asylum.

The Board of Commissioners we found to be gentlemen of integrity and high standing, men whom we are satisfied would not condon the faults of any one, and who, if there were any grounds for the malicious anonymous charges affecting the character of the Superintennent, would be the first to expose him and urge his removal

We have also thoroughly examined the testimony taken by the Board in the late investigation of the charges against the Superintendent, requested by him and directed by the Governor, and can find nothing whatever in the whole matter on which to base the slightest foundation for any thing detrimental to the capacity, integrity or moral character of the Superintennent.

The Board, in the investigation, opened the doors and gave everybody an opportunity to come or bring before them any thing and every thing known or heard of against the Superintendent. With this opportunity before them, it was impossible to show that there was anything against Dr. Chenault, except a factious opposition, which, we believe, would sooner die out by silent contempt, than by giving notice to it.

Your committee most heartily indorse the report of the Board of Commissioners made to the Governor, as a result of their recent investigation.

All of which is most respectfully submitted.

Reuben Conner,
John D. Haris,
E. L. Worthington,
George W. Samuel,
W. J. Worthington.

THE "SWAP."

How the Delight of Youth Becomes the Passion of Age.

One of the dear delights of youth is that interesting exercise of trade instincts known as "swapping." The exchange is effected wholly without reference to the necessities of the parties to the transaction, the object being not so much to benefit by the new possession as to indulge a spirit of enterprise. Any one who has witnessed barters between juveniles must have noticed instances where an object of considerable value has been given up for one of no corresponding worth without the "boot" that shrewd managers exact, not because the youthful traders were ignorant of the inequality of values, but because actual values seem to figure very little in the negotiations for a swap. The prime consideration is that each has what the other most desires, and the wish to possess the one article balances the disposition to release the other—hence there is no robbery in exchange. A battered jack-knife, with one fairly serviceable blade, has been deemed a suitable equivalent for a well-conditioned bull pup, and a balance has been struck between a rheumatic watch and a middle-aged billy-goat, with no grumbling on the part of the swappers, and no thought that either had the better of the bargain.

That there is a fascination in this sort of redistribution of capital and stock may be inferred from the fact that its practice is not confined to youth, the early habit growing apace with accumulating years, until the desire to swap becomes a passion of age. In the activities of daily life the commercial American learns little of the survival of the swap, though it is more extensive among adults than may be believed. We know, of course, that trading is a business condition of frontier settlements, and that a plug of tobacco will purchase a goodly number of small furs from a weed-loving Indian; but in the very midst and center of staid civilization the enjoyments of swapping are sought with avidity by a very large and respectable class. True, the proceeding is more feminine than masculine, but a very liberal percentage of men have a hankering to supply need or gratify fancy by dicker,

In this country, however, all such exchanges are privately effected, the transfers being the result of acquaintance, rather than acquaintance the outcome of a desire to swap. It is otherwise in England. There, we are somewhat surprised to learn, swapping is a regular institution, with its representative organs for advertising purposes, and is entered into with a close commercial spirit that takes no note of any other means of process of satisfying wants. There is in London a tri-weekly journal that has been published for the past ten years, the purpose of which is to announce the exchange of new lamps for old, though there are several other papers with especial columns allotted to the use of swappers, no transactions in money being allowed. It is rather amusing to note the character and variety of these quotations, and the disinterested student will find it a matter of the utmost difficulty to decide by what standard the equivalents are determined,

There may be some near relation between a talking green parrot and a good sewing machine, as both can be made most infernal nuisances to non-owners; but the exact harmony between a pair of canaries and a pair of lady's boots is not quite obvious. Among those occult values we find such offers as these: "Jackal for canaries and chickens." "fox terrier pup for collection of foreign stamps," "new bicycle far rare foreign stamps," "a few good pugs for a sewing machine," "a melodeon for a garden roller," "eight pairs of owls for a breech-loader," "old china and wine for a good sound horse," etc.

Occasionally there is an uncertainty in the mind of the would-be swapper as to the exact value of property held or the precise equivalent desired, Then such advertisements appear as this: "Duck punt, new; exchange for anything useful." This is decidedly a liberal offer, but it is much to be doubted if a pair of second-hand trousers, however useful to the owner, would be considered as coming precisely within the meaning of the advertiser. A lady who wanted half-loop rings, a silver teapot and a skunk cape, announced the fact with the assurance that she had good exchange to offer; while another, wishing to get a pea-hen, asks what exchange will be required. These instances tend to show that this elder-day swapping is but the outcropping of the youthful penchant, and is really a game, a sport, rather than a business relation, by which the excitements of adolescent years are revived. It can easily be conceived that an industrious, able-bodied swapper might, in a comparatively short time, entirely transform the character of a household and thoroughly revolutionize her possessions.—Chicago Inter Ocean,

No applicant from Kentucky get Judge Baxter's shoes.

Take the Reccorcer.

LOST HIS RAILROAD NERVE.

A Traveling Man Who Has Become Morbidly Fearful of an Accident.

A roving theatrical manager and a newspaper man were breakfasting at the Morton House one day last week when the former remarked: "I am trying to get control of a house of my own, so that I can locate permanently. In fact, I have lost my railroad nerve."

"Your railroad nerve; what do you mean?"

"Just what I say. I have lost my railroad nerve. Up to about a year ago I felt almost as safe on a railway train as I did in a hotel, but since that time, for some cause or other, I have become morbidly apprehensive of railroad accidents, and now, when traveling, I fret and worry all the time. I can't rest in a sleeper any more. Many a time I have lain awake all night, and even if I do doze, the slightest out-of-the-way jar will startle and arouse me in the most unpleasant manner. If the train slackens its speed, I dread that we are too close to another, and I sometimes become so agitated that I leave my berth and walk the aisle for an hour at a time."

"You should conquer your fears," said the newspaper man. "When I step on a train I consider that my fate is in the hands of others—that worry or fret will not avail one particle to help me in case of trouble—and I sleep almost as well in a Pullman or a Wagner as I do in my own bed."

"I have tried to reason myself out of my fears," was the response, "but I can't. I know I have only got to die once, and that I must die some time. Honestly, though I am not at all disposed to go off the hooks just yet, the fear of instant death is not so much what haunts me as the dread of accident that would deprive me of a limb or otherwise cripple me permanently. Did you ever see a one-armed or one-legged theatrical manager or agent? We have hard enough times to get along with all our limbs and faculties. To deprive me of a leg or an arm would be to take away my means of living and cause me to resort to some other that would perhaps make me a semi-mendicant. That is what I fear, and it is that which has deprived me of my railroad nerve. I will make almost any sacrifice that will enable me to locate and regain my former buoyancy of spirits. Even as I talk with you now I fret because I have to take the train for Boston to-day, and I won't feel easy in my mind till I get to the end of my journey, and not then, for I know I have to come back again."

"Are your fears shared by many other managers or actors?"

"Indeed they are, but few of them care to acknowledge it. I know lots of drummers, too, who feel just as I do. Stand in front of a ticket office before the departure of a through train, especially at night, and watch the men buy accident insurance tickets, and you will be surprised to find how many there are who, like me, have lost their railroad nerve. A year ago I hadn't a gray hair in my head. Now there are plenty of them. Still, if circumstances compel, I will be on the road next season, with only one consoling thought, and that is that perhaps after all I may never get a scratch, while some one who never gave the matter a thought, or who would laugh at it if he did, may be killed by a derailment or a collision within a year. It is strange though, considering how much they travel, how few actors get hurt, and I don't believe one in a thousand ever buys an accident ticket. They are too superstitious, and feel that if they were to insure they would be certain to 'beat the game', and have to die to do it."—N. Y. Sun.

WE hear it stated that this fall Mr Whitehead and Mr. Mack will unite their ability as teachers, and teach a fall and winter term in Morgan Academy. Success to them.

REPORT OF THE CONDITION
OF THE
Farmers & Traders National Bank
AT COVINGTON.

In the State of Kentucky, at the close of business, March 1, 1886.

RESOURCES.
Loans and discounts		$577,951 88
Overdrafts		2,283 94
U.S. Bonds to secure circulation		50,000 00
U. S. Bonds on hand		100,000
Due from approved reserve agents		55,808 76
Due from other Nat'l Banks		7,404 5[illegible]
Due from banks and bankers		4,741 3[illegible]
Real est., furniture & fixtures		1,568 91
Current expenses and taxes		2,159 2[illegible]
Premiums paid		31,312 50
Checks and other cash items	842 34
Bills of other Banks	3,100 00
Frac. paper currency, nickles and pennies	110 27
Specie	10,610 00
Legal tender notes	25,000 00	39,572 61
Redemption fund with U. S. Treas., (5 per cent. circulation)		2,250 00
Total		$878,153 67
LIABILITIES.
Capital stock pd in		$300,000 00
Surplus fund	30,000 00
Undivided profits	13,408 65	43,408 65
Nat'l Bank notes outstanding		45,000 00
Individual dep'ts subject to check	363,452 09
U. S. Deposits	75,000
Due to other N'tl Banks	25,240 29
Due to State B'ks and bankers	26,053 24	489,745 67
Total		$878,153 67

State of Kentucky, County of Kenton ss
I, John L. Sandford, Cashier of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

JOHN L. SANDFORD, Cashier.

James S. Wayne, Pres't.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 6th day of March, 1886.

A. KLOENTRUP, Notary Public,

Correct—Attest:
M. C. Motch,
J. H. Mersman,
E. J. Hickey,
} Directors.

ATTENTION!
TOBACCO
Shippers and Raisers, you can buy
Tobacco
Hogheads,
Set up or Knock Downs,
AT THE COMPANY'S MILLS
At Lawrenceburg or Aurora, Ind.
Orders by mail will meet our prompt attention.

WANTED—LADY Active and intelligent, to represent in her own locality an old firm. References required. Permanent position and good salary. GAY & BROS., 12 Barclay St., N. Y.

LAND FOR SALE.
50 acres good land near Constance, this county. All in grass and well watered, Terms easy—apply to this OFFICE.

R E A D!
Feeling the urgent necessity of a first-class Drug Store in [illegible] just opened a fresh stock of Drugs & Patent Medicines.

— Terry & Co's Brands of Tea. —
Ibold's Brand of Cigars & Tobacco.
—Perfumery and Fancy Toilet Articles.—
Paints Ready For Use,
From a gallon can down to the smallest.
WHITE LEAD, OILS, VARNISHES, DYE-Stuffs, Brushes, Etc., Etc.

I will furnish to any one wishing to paint their house or barn, any kind of paint at two days notice, at the lowest cash prices. Give me a call.

A good barber shop attached and work satisfactory.

W. M. BALSLY.

1886 THE COURIER-JOURNAL. 1886
AN ORGAN OF
LIVING IDEAS AND LIVE ISSUES.
AN ENEMY OF
Monopolies, Oligarchism, and the Spirit of Sectional Strife,

The Courier-Journal (HENRY WATTERSON Editor-in-Chief), is the acknowledged Representative Newspaper of the South, is Democratic in politics, and first, last, and all the time is for a reduction of the War Taxes as levied on the people by the tariff now in force,

The Weekly Courier-Journal

is the best weekly newspaper published in the United States, and for the quantity and quality of matter that appears in each issue of it, it is the CHEAPEST. Its telegraphic news facilities outrank any other paper, and it has the services of the ablest writers and correspondents in the country. It presents the news of the week from every section of the World. It gives to its readers throughout the year a greater number of Serial and Short Stories by prominent and popular writers than any of the high-priced magazines. It is in every respect a Model Political and Family Paper.

The Weekly Courier-Journal has by far the Largest Circulation of any Democratic Newspaper in America.

It is acknowledged by press and people throughout the United States to be a great paper; great in size; great in enterprise; great in ability; great in its correctness of information; great in variety; great in every sense of the word. It is the paper that everybody should have. To be without it is a great opportunity lost. Those who once take it are not willing to be without it in their homes.

FREE PREMIUMS.

A list of handsome and useful premiums of great variety are offered free to yearly subscribers. On receipt of a request for them, we send free of charge a sample copy of Weekly Courier-Journal and our Premium Supplement, giving our full list of premiums, to any address.

SUBSCRIPTION TERMS.

Weekly, one year, including a free premium	$1.50
Weekly, in clubs of five and over, without premium, each	1.10
For every club of five names sent us at one time, the sender of club will be sent as a present any one of our free premiums selected by him.
Daily, (except Sunday), one year	$10.00
Daily, (except Sunday), six months	5.00
Daily, (except Sunday), one month	1.00
Sunday, one year	2.00
Sunday, six months	1.00

No traveling agents are employed by the Courier-Journal, but a good local agent is wanted in every community, to whom a liberal cash commission is allowed. If the Courier-Journal has no local agent in your neighborhood, send to us for our Agent's Canvassing Outfit, which we send free of charge. All subscription orders, requests for outfits, sample copies, etc., should be addressed to

W. N. HALDEMAN,
President Courier-Journal Co.,
LOUISVILLE, KY.

FARM IMPLEMENTS.

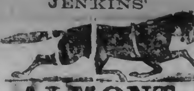
Buy your Farming Implements, Fence Wire, Cutting Boxes, Feed Grinders, Corn Shellers, Road Scrapers, Excavating Carts, Sewing Machines, Mowers and Reapers and

Deering TWINE Binders,
GROCERIES, &c.
READY MIXED PAINT,
—of—
J. C. Smith,
Successor to W. H. Hill & Co.
22 and 24 EAST THIRD STREET,
Cincinnati, Ohio.

Or of our local Agent C. W. RILEY, North Bend, Ohio, (Ky. Box). All goods sold strictly on their merits.

Exposition Medal Awarded for 1884.
$5.00 and Upwards
For a Beautiful Single Set of Teeth. Extracting without pain included.
DR. DeJOHNS,
In attendance at the office. Gold fillings $1 and upwards, Amalgon 50c, Gas and Spray used. All work warranted.
Will be in Burlington the first Monday in each month, County Court.
J, C. ALLEN, 327 Vine Str., Cor. 9th, Cincinnati, Ohio.

OPIUM and WHISKY HABITS cured at home without pain. BOOK of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.



JENKINS'
ALMONT,

This renowned trotting stallion and sire of trotters will make the season of 1886, at the stable of John D. Norris, ½ mile from Petersburg, Boone county, Ky., at $30 the season, with the privilege of returning in 1887 should the mare fail to get with foal, money due July 1st, 1886.

Jenkins' Almont was sired by Wither's Almont, the sire of 20 horses with records of 2:30 or better. 1st dam by Toledo; 2nd dam Sousby Grays Highlander; 3d dam by Coner de Leon, a noted pacer.

Jenkins' Almont is the sire of Bessie G. 2:25½; Grafton, 2:28½; Will Heath, trial, 2:21, and others gifted with great trotting speed.

Pasture furnished at $3 per month. Care will be exercised to prevent accidents or escapes, but will not be responsible should any occur. We are endeavoring to give the people of Boone Co., a chance to get a fine colt at a low price. J. D. NORRIS & Co.

The Combined Stallion,
RECTOR

Will make the season of 1886, Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays at Harvy Marshall's at Waterloo, and the rest of the week at my stable at Bellevue, at $10 to insure a mare with foal, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Rector is a beautiful black, 7 years old, 15½ hands high, and a good all purpose horse. He was sired by Criss, dam Morgan.

Not responsible for accidents should any occur. ROBT. CLORE, Bellevue, Ky.

The fine stallion, Conner's
ALMONT

Will make the present season at my stable at Bullittsville, Ky., and will serve mares at $10 to insure, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Care will be taken to prevent accidents, but will not be responsible should any occur.

ALMONT is 6 years old, a beautiful rich mahogany bay, black mane and tail, with two white ankles behind, stands 16 hands high, and shows much style and speed.

ALMONT was by Bidwell's Almont, jr., bred by Col, West; got by Almont, son of Alexander's Abdallah; dam Belle Forrest, by Edwin Forrest, Almont is a half brother to Sensation; 1st dam Topsy, the fine premium mare, by Topgallant; g.d. a Belle Founder mare, g. g. d. a Copperbottom mare that possessed all the fine saddle qualities. J. D. CONNER.

CRIGLER'S ALMONT,

Will make the season of 1886 at my stable on Gunpowder Creek 1½ miles above Limaburg and at Florence, Ky., at $20, to insure a mare with foal, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with,

Will be at Florence the first three days of each week, and the rest of the time at my stable, Not responsible for accidents.

ALMONT is a dark chestnut sorrel, 15¾ hands high, with fine style, and has trotted his mile in less than 2:30; he is by Almont jr., he by Wither's Almont; he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian; Almonts 1st dam Goodwood; 2d dam Daniel Boone; 3 dam Blacknose,

REX DENMARK.

Will make the season at the same time and places, at $10 to insure a mare in foal.

He is a beautiful brown with fine mane and tail, style that cannot be beaten, is 16 hands high. He has been shown 11 times and taken 10 ties, in Missouri.

He is by Crigler's Denmark; he by Denmark (Gilles); he by Black Denmark; Old Denmark by Imported Messenger. Rex Denmark's 1st dam Woodpecker Star of the West; 2d dam Mohawk; 3d dam Tom Crowder. W. A. CRIGLER.

The fine harness and saddle stallion
Young WOODPECKER

Will make the season of 1886, Saturdays and Mondays at J. W. Gaines' stable at Burlington, Tuesdays and Wednesdays at Gainesville, Thursdays and Fridays at J. W. Gaines' farm near Plattsburg, at $10 to insure a colt to stand up and suck, any person parting with a mare after being bred forfeits the insurance money.

Young Woodpecker was sired by Nat Carpenter's Star of the West; he by Woodpecker; he by Bertrand; dam imported Buzzard, Young Woodpecker's dam was a 3 minute mare, by Jeff Davis, g. d. by Russell's Pilot; he by old Sir William.

Not responsible for accidents,

TEN BROCK, This fine young jack will make the season at the same time and places and on the same terms.

He is black with mealy nose, 15 hands high. He was sired by Espartero; he by a large Spanish jack; dam of Ten Brock, Mollie McCarty, was sired by Longfellow, Perry Tucker's jack; g. d. by A. S, Piatt's jack, the best breeder ever in this county.

F. C. Wingate, J. W. Gaines,
J. J. Lillard, C. A. Gaines.

FOR SALE!

Henry County Farm of 120 acres, situated on pike 1 mile from Smithfield, on Louisville & Lexington Railroad, 37 miles from Louisville. Said farm has on it a good frame house, of 8 rooms, good barn and all other outbuildings, and never failing water, convenient to good schools and churches, The land is first-class, all in grass but 25 acres, which is in wheat, 25 acres of fine tobacco land which has never been cultivated. Terms reasonable. For further information apply to

B. D. SPURGIN, Smithfield, Ky.
Henry county. 52-3m

AGENTS WANTED for DR. SCOTT'S beautiful Electric Corsets. Sample free to those becoming agents. No risk, quick sales. Territory given. Satisfaction guaranteed. Address DR. SCOTT, 842 Broadway, NEW YORK.

1886. STALLIONS FOR 1886,
SAM HARRIS.

DESCRIPTION—Bay, no white, 16½ hands, fine style, good trotting action, 5 years old, with six weeks breaking and handling trotted a full mile over Chester Park in 2:58, full brother to Royalmont, who has a record 2:32 with a private trial 2:22 in his 5 year old form.

PEDIGREE—By Bidwell's Almont, dam Louisiana by Tornado; he by Tempest; he by Royal George; her dam by Old Mazeppa; she was sold in 1874 and delivered in Buffalo for $1,500, and afterwards shipped south. She trotted the Buffalo track in 2:35 the day of sale.

SAM HARRIS will make the season of 1886 for $25, payable when the service is rendered, with the privilege of breeding till a colt is obtained.

JOHN S.

DESCRIPTION—Dark iron gray, 6 yrs, old, very stylish, good action, 16 hands high.

PEDIGREE—By Bidwell's Almont; 1st dam by Ohio Volunteer; he by Goldsmith's Volunteer; he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian; 2d dam White Eagle. John S. will make the season of 1886 for $10 to insure, due when the fact is known or mare parted with,

Bidwell's Almont by Wither's Almont; he by Alexander's Abdallah; he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian; 1st dam by Edwin Forrest; Bidwell's Almont sired Judge Lindsay with a 5 yr. old record 2:21¼, Annie W. 2:22½, and two others with public record below 2:30; also Royalmont with a public record 2:32 and private trial 2:22 Pasture furnished at $3 per month, but not responsible for accidents.

These two stallions will make the season of 1886, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at Bullittsville and the rest of the week at my stable 1¼ mile west of Anderson's Ferry.

JAS. L. RILEY, Bullittsville, Ky.

City Flouring Mills,
RISING SUN, INDIANA.

FLOUR EXCHANGED FOR WHEAT OR CASH. THE HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR GOOD WHEAT.

J. W. TALBOTT.

OHIO STEAM DENTAL CO.
ESTABLISHED 1865.
47 WEST SEVENTH STREET,
CINCINNATI, O.
TEETH EXTRACTED WITHOUT PAIN by using Fresh Nitrous Oxide Gas.
ARTIFICIAL TEETH made of the best quality and workmanship finish, with guaranteed fit.
OPERATIVE DEPARTMENT handsomely finished and well lighted. the principal having had a life-long experience in the treatment and filling of the natural teeth.
L. ROBERTSON, D.D.S., Principal.
Office and Residence, 47 W. 7th St., two blocks north of Fountain Square, (formerly 271 Walnut and 6th & Vine). Office open at all hours.

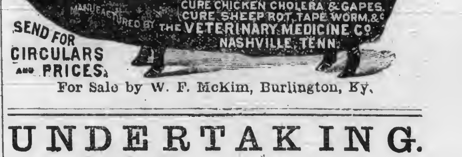
THE
COMBINATION FENCE

A fence that is wanted, and in time will be used by every one that wants a fence, either around the House, Garden or Farm, as it is cheap, durable and serviceable, to keep in check horses, cattle, sheep, hogs, chickens, etc., and restrain wolves, dogs, and rabbits, etc.

Having all the advantages of a picket fence in restraining animals from jumping, and not so liable to decay, and at much less cost, and no barbs to injure valuable stock, thus placing it far in advance of any other fence now in use, hence it must be the fence of the future; all who have it want more,

It is portable and can be removed from field to field by drawing staples from posts, taking out the splice lath and rebundling it. We offer this fence for sale in bundles of five and six rod at Burlington.

DILLS & CRISLER,
Burlington, Ky.

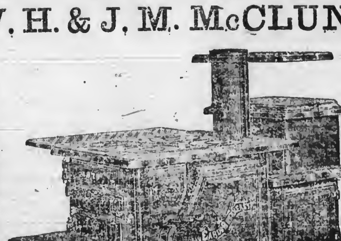


AGENTS WANTED.
USE Dr. SALMON'S HOG CHOLERA SPECIFIC!
CHICKEN POWDER. — SHEEP POWDER.
CATTLE POWDER. — CONDITION POWDER.
WE CAN
PREVENT & CURE HOG CHOLERA.
DESTROY & PREVENT HOG LICE & WORMS.
CURE CATTLE MURRAIN, TEXAS FEVER &c.
CURE CHICKEN CHOLERA & GAPES.
CURE SHEEP ROT, TAPE WORM, &c.
MANUFACTURED BY THE VETERINARY MEDICINE CO.
NASHVILLE, TENN.
SEND FOR CIRCULARS AND PRICES.
For Sale by W. F. McKim, Burlington, Ky.

UNDERTAKING.

Branch House of Chas. Donnelly & Co., of Covington, Ky.
AT BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY.
Where a Hearse and all Styles of Burial Cases and Robes can be secured at as Low Figures as at Covington, or elsewhere.
Bodies Embalmed or preserved in a
REFRIGERATOR
When desired. All orders left with our Branch House in Burlington will be promptly attended, and funerals conducted in the best style. The business is in charge of Jas. Westbay, with whom leave orders.
CHAS. DONNELLY & CO.

DeLAND & CO'S
CAP SHEAF
SODA
Best in the World.
For Sale by Dudley Rouse,
Burlington, Ky.



W. H. & J. M. McCLUNG
Early Breakfast & Ladies Cook Stoves
ALSO A GREAT VARIETY OF HARD and SOFT COAL
HEATING STOVES.
ALL KINDS OF STOVES REPAIRED,
Tin Roofing, Spouting, Guttering, etc., Done to Order,
535 & 537 Madison Ave. - Covington, Ky.
☞ Second Door Below Sixth Street. ☜

Subscribe for the Boone
County Rcorder.

Local News.

Mud plentiful.

The grass groweth.

The river has commenced falling.

The sassafras tea season has arrived.

H. M. Piper is visiting his brother at this place.

Our pencil shover from Rabbit Hash was in town Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Runge spent Sunday in Newport, with relatives.

Esquire Oscar Gaines is improving and will be out again soon.

Mrs. Josie Platt is spending sometime at Hanover, Indiana.

Miss Orie Conner is teaching the spring school at Limaburg.

The Good Templars received two new members last Friday night.

Mrs. Thos. Cowen's fine Alderney cow died of dry murane one day last week.

E. E. Foster, who has been in Florida for the last year returned home yesterday.

Bright, pleasant weather is the greatest stimulant a farmer can get at this season of the year.

This office turned out this season a large number of horsegraphs followed by breed biographies.

Everything on the jump at the Boone House this week, where business is exceedingly good.

Two street fakirs, a patent medicine man, and notion store man entertained the people in town Monday.

John P. Ryle, the Democratic nominee for County Superintendent of schools was in town last Saturday.

Some tobacco plants have come up, and should they not be molested there will be some early planting this season.

I. Baley has been unanimously elected keeper of the toll gate on the Burlington and Florence pike near Florence.

The patent right peddlers struck the town last Friday evening. By the way, the same men drive "spanking" fine teams.

We are glad to hear that Jonas Clore and Mrs. S. D. Rice of Bellevue, are convalescing. Dr. Gill Rice is yet very poorly.

The bill to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors in Boone county has been passed, and will be voted on at the August election.

For Rent—To a responsible person, a well located blacksmith shop, in the town of Florence, Ky. Apply to

A. C. Graves, Florence.

Another installment of agents struck the town last week. They manipulate a churn power which is certainly a meritorious invention.

Sheriff Clutterbuck brought Jno. W. Grubbs and John Drinkard from Covington jail Tuesday night and lodged them in jail here. They will be tried this week.

One day last week a little son of Jno O. Roberts, who lives near town, had its arm severely burned by falling in a kettle of boiling soap. The child was about six years old.

During the past week we have noticed some tobacco wending its way to Judge Baker's warehouse, evidently being some of the weed which he bought during the late campaign.

Col. Monfort, Col. Landram, Judge O'Hara, and Chas. Fisk were the visiting attorneys Monday. It has been democratically decreed recently that the first named should don the Judicial ermine in the fall.

A large crow in town Monday, and business on the staeet was lively. The horse show was not quite as large, as Monday week, but the speed of some the trotting horses was tested, as well as that of the fine saddlers.

Mr. Jasper Maguire and Miss Martha Lonaker, both of the Bellevue neighborhood, were married in the parlor at Judge Dill's residence last Sunday morning. The Judge officiated in his usual short and pleasing manner.

It will be but a few days until Brother Berkshire will commence interviewing the finny inhabitants of Gunpowder and Woolper. He has been grinding his hooks and testing the strength of his lines.

Remember that Geo. Huschart & Co. of Lawrenceburg, Indiana, can always give satisfaction both as to price and style of work, so when you want to buy a tombstone or a monument go to their yard or call on John Beall, of Hebron, Ky., their agent.

For two Sundays the daily papers have not reached this place as usual, thus entirely cutting us off from the outside world, but at the same time giving a clear field for a perusal of the Bible, a duty in which we fear many of our citizens are sadly derelict.

The garden planting which was brought to such a sudden conclusion not long since will be renewed with vigor at the first opportunity. Planting garden and attending Circuit Court both this month will furnish H. P. Stephens all the amusement he is capable of appreciating.

In a letter received from Hon. Reuben Conner last week he writes:

"We are getting along very slow. We are on the Revenue Bill, and have been for three or four weeks, and not through yet. We are on Banks, and I can not say when we will get through. I am getting very tired."

After the masonic ceremonies the remains of Felix Moses were turned over to his friends in Cincinnati, who placed them in a vault at Walnut Hills to await final interment in the Jews' cemetery at that place. The grave had been prepared at Florence before it was known that the Jews desired to take charge of the corpse and have the funeral ceremonies at Walnut Hills.

J. Frank Grant, of Petersburg, was in town Monday, all smiles over the fact that he has at last moved into his new residence. He says it is a beauty, and pronounces the painting the finest piece of work he has ever seen. He is most enthusiastic in his expression of thanks to the artist, our fellow townsman Joe Reed for the elegant and tasteful decoration of the inside of his new home.

The steamer U. P. Schenck brought up an immense lot of cane of poles for John P. Brown. They are to be used as pickets for fence, made by Brown's fence builder, and will demonstrate how cheaply the southern people can have fence, as the pickets or cane will cost them nothing but the expense of cutting the canepoles.—Rising Sun Recorder.

Some of our readers desire to be informed why Easter comes so late this year. The rule is that Easter shall be celebrated on the first Sunday after the full moon which falls upon or next after March 21, and if the full moon falls on Sunday the next Sunday shall be Easter. The first full moon after March 21 this year falls on Sunday, April 18, which puts Easter on the following Sunday, April 25. The reasons, therefore, that Easter is so late this year are that we had a full moon just before March 21, that is, eight minutes before midnight on the 19th, and that the next full moon will be on Sunday.

We clip the following from Richmond, Va., Whig. Mr. Casey is a son-in-law of Mr. Joel D. Conner, of the Bullittsville neighborhood.

"One of the finest turnouts seen on our fashionable drives is that of Mr. James Casey, manager of the P. H. Mayo tobacco works. Richmond is celebrated for its fine horses and vehicles, and we have at the present time some splendid drivers. As the spring opens they will become more beautiful and it really will be harder to find in any city scenery and roads superior to those seen in the west end and around reservoir grounds. Mr. Casey's horse, Van, is one of the fastest in the city, and his new brewster side-bar buggy, made in this city, is a model vehicle of its kind. Seated behind Van distance is easily annihilated."

Circuit Court.

Only the grand jury organized Monday. The jury is a body of the best men in the county, and from the number of witnesses before it Monday it took off its coat and went to work so soon as in its room. The jury is composed of the following named gentlemen:

J. A. Wilson, Foreman, J G Green, Wm Craven, J. H. Walton, J H Hastings, Milton Wilhoit, Edward Gaines, R A Brady, B W Adams, F L Gordon, Henry Terrill, Sam Hind, jr., J S Huey, O P Conner, Fred Utz and T B Aylor.

The petit juries were impaneled Tuesday morning, and are composed of the following gentlemen.

Jury No. 1—Joe Weaver, B H Stephens, Marion Stephens, J C Mitchell, J H Aylor, J D Cloud, W H Grant, Robt Clore, B C Tanner, S H Stephens, Jno Smith and L P Arnold.

Jury No. 2.—Geo C Voshell. W E Clutterbuck, O P Winters, M S Rice, Harvey Hughes, Justice Hudson, Sam Pope, E T Krutz, Jno J Huey, M S Rouse, Jno S Mason and H P Marshall.

The next meeting of the County Teacher's Association will take place at Florence on Saturday, April 24, 1886 The following is the programme:

Essay, Literature in the Public-schools—Miss Nannie Bristow.

Grading the country schools—Miss Lizzie Conner, Miss Katie Riggs.

Geography—L. M. Whitehead.

Object Lesson—Miss Lillie Rouse.

Licensing Teachers—W. E. Clutterbuck, J. C. Mack.

Elementary Science in the Common Schools—J. M. Lassing, Miss Anna Young.

Recitation—Robbie Foster.

Deleterious effects of Alcoholic Stimulants and Narcotics—J. G. Tomlin.

The teachers and friends of education are earnestly requested to attend and take part in all discussions. Let the teachers arouse to their duty, and take more interest in the Association. The meeting will be one of unusual interest, and demands the attendance of every member of the association.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

RABBIT HASH.

Health of the neighborhood good.

A. J. Holmes is in Texas and well pleased with that country.

Mrs. Hastings has about recovered from her attack of pneumonia.

The river has done considerable damage in the East Bend bottoms, especially to the wheat fields.

Mr. Turly and daughter, of Gallatin spent several days with Tom and Waller Marshall last week.

The river is receding at last, no damage done to amount to much, except destroying some of the gardens.

Jim Fairchild has moved to Aurora, and Sam Burris will move into the house vacated by him on Jas. Hastings farm.

John Huey, of Burlington, has purchased the house and lot of Harvey Akin's heirs, which he will take possession of in the fall.

Mrs. Kate Pope and her mother returned to their home in Ghent, last Sunday after several week's visit with Mrs. Cy Kelley at Bellevue.

PLATTSBURG.

Wheat is looking fine in this vicinity.

Sore eyes are epidemic in this neighborhood.

Judge Warren Monfort. How does that strike you?

Boys trying to smoke a ground hog out of his den caused the volcano.

W. A. Black will move to E. H. Bakers farm near Big Bone next week.

Mrs. Allen, wife of George Allen, of near here, is very low with consumption.

Born to Owen Allen and wife, a boy; also to Wm. Hensley and wife, a boy.

Marion Mobley who was so badly burned sometime ago, is able to sit up in a chair.

W. L. Gaines is teaching school at the Woolper school house, with a good attendance.

John Jackson, who went to West Platon, Mo. last fall has returned home He has been sick ever since he left.

We hear that Joseph A. Donaldson, an old Plattsburg boy, is re-elected Judge of the Carroll County Court.

The primary election is over, and we hoist to the breeze our banner with the names of the nominees inscribed thereon.

The writer's little boy is getting along nicely under the care of the big medicine man, Dr. Grant, of Burlington.

The remains of Joe C. Hensley were taken from the vault the other day and buried in the cemetery at this place.

John D. Baldon and bride, nee Miss Sallie Craig, of Carroll county, are at John's fathers, where they will make their future home.

Dr. W. E Grant, of Louisville, made tracks with his No. 11 shoes in Plattsburg, several hays last week, the guest of his brother, J. Frank.

Richard Gore will start a paint shop on Pike Street near Main in the near future. Dick is a fine carriage painter and is worthy of patronage.

Scott Johnson, of Jeffersonville, Ind. is now a resident of our burg; also Alfred Wingate, of near Gainesville, both occupying Mr. Voshell's house.

The department at Washington has raised Capt. A. B. Parker's salary $25 on the month. The Capt. is deputy collector in this Revenue district.

The many friends of J. A. Botts will be glad to hear that he is able to drive out when the weather is good, and he is much improved in health generally.

S. S. McWethy, jr's. little boy, while playing the other day, fell down on a stick, cutting the palate of his mouth loose and making a very painful wound

It has been sometime since we communicated to the Recorder, but from now on will try and come to time often and regular, unless the attack of spring fever we have chronics on us.

A successor to Squire E. H. Baker will have to be elected, and we would suggest the name of our friend, Lewis Beemon, of Limaburg, as a suitable person for the place, lets hear from yen Lewis.

The citizens of our town were startled last Sunday morning by seeing immense quantities of smoke issuing from a hole in the ground on the hill near Nick Oberding's. On close examination it was found to be a large mound from which smoke and fire issues in large quantities at times and is supposed to be a small volcano, similar to those on the Pacific coast.

As the backwater is high up in the creek and navigation is good, those fellows going on the Salt river trip should as well start from this point as any. The Str. Primary is advertised to leave this wharf between now and the first Monday in August. For information as to rates and so on, inquire on board the Steamer.

SCHOOL AND CHURCH.

—A young lady school teacher at Swiss Station, Sacramento County, Cal., threw an unruly boy of thirteen to the floor with such force as to break his leg.

—An old regulation at Yale is that a student shall lift his hat at a distance of ten rods from the president, eight from a professor and five from a tutor.—Hartford Post.

—Andover Theological Seminary will receive $25,000 from the estate of the late Mrs. William Richardson, of Manchester, N. H. The American Bible Society receives about the same amount, according to the lady's will.

—Writing to a young collegian many years ago, Ruskin said: "To do as much as you can healthily and happily do each day in a well-determined direction, with a view to far-off results, and with present enjoyment of one's work, is the only proper, the only essentially profitable way."

—The American Medical Missionary Association held its first annual meeting recently. It was voted that young men wishing to be medical missionaries will have to be earnest Christians, sound physically, of liberal education, and take a full course of lectures in an approved college of medicine.—N. Y. Examiner.

—Methodist girls are assured by the official journal of their church that they can not dance without breaking that solemn vow which they made at the altar, "in the presence of God and His angels, to renounce the devil and all his works." The assertion is further made that truly good Christians are never dancers.—Chicago Times.

—Some statistican asserts that among the 'verts to Romanism—a "'vert" may mean a "convert" or a "pervert," and is adopted as an ambiguous and satisfying term for general use by British conversationalists—that have gone over since the beginning of the Oxford movement are enumerated 36 lords, 25 baronets, 302 graduates of Oxford, 149 graduates of Cambridge, 142 army officers, 92 lawyers, 48 doctors and 1,010 ladies of aristocratic stations.—Christian Union.

—The Church Missionary Society represents the evangelical element in the Church of England. Its income was $1,162,243, and it supports 228 ordained missionaries, 34 lay missionaries, 15 women, 11 ordained Eurasians, 246 ordained natives, 10 Eurasian teachers, 3,511 native teachers and helpers, and has 40,757 communicants in its mission churches. The work of this society reaches nearly all parts of the world, and its missions in Pagan lands are among the most beneficent and successful.

—Mr. Andrew D. White, in his farewell address to the faculty and students of Cornell University, said: "This university is designed to make men and women of the students coming here. This country can afford to lose all that it has yet attained if by so doing its inhabitants become true, noble, faithful men and women. The founders of this university were patriotic men, and it was for this purpose that they conceived the idea of bettering the nation. Many come here thinking that by so doing they are patronising the university. That is a mistake. The university patronizes you."—N. Y. Tribune.

The encampment had a lively time at Florence last night.

The Drinkard and Rogers cases are set for trial to-day.

Judge Major is dispatching business with his usual alacrity.

The grand jury is interviewing witnesses from all sections of the county. No indictments have been reported yet.

County Directory

OFFICERS.

Assessor—G. M. Riley.
Jailer—Samuel Cowen.
County Surveyor—W. E. Vest.
Coroner.—Dr. A. A. Murat, Constance.
Superintendent of Schools—H. J. Foster

COURTS.

CIRCUIT COURT meets the 2d Monday in April and first Monday in October, P. U. Major, Judge; W. L. Riddell, Clerk A. G. DeJarnette, Commonwealths Attorney; W. L. Riddell, Trustee Jury Fund.

COUNTY COURT meets the first Monday in every month. L. H. Dills, Judge; S. W. Tolin, County Attorney; M. T. Garnett, Clerk; J. E. Clutterbuck, Sheriff, T. W. Finch and W. T. German, Deputy Sheriffs.

QUARTERLY COURT meets the first Monday in March, June, September and December. The officers of the County Court preside.

COURT OF CLAIMS meets the first Monday in November.

MAGISTRATES' COURTS are held in March, June, September and December, as follows:

Bellevue—M. B. Green, first Saturday, and T. H. Sutton, third Monday. J. M. Moody, Constable.

Burlington—E. H. Baker, Thursday after first Monday, and Oscar Gaines, fourth Monday. C. W. Saxton, Constable.

Carlton A. G. McConnell, Wednesday after second Monday, and B. H. Ryle, Saturday after third Monday Charles H. Acra, Constable.

Petersburg—Jos. Hensley, Wednesday after first Monday, and L. A. Loder fourth Saturday. Geo. Comer, Constable.

Beaver—W. M. Rouse, Friday after the third Monday, and Andrew Ellis, Fiday after 1st Mmonday—T. J. Coyle, Constable.

Union—M. C. Norman, Thursday after third Monday, and H. Bannister, Thursday after second Monday. H. G. Blanton, Constable.

Hamilton—F. M. Howlett, Tuesday after second Monday; W. W. Garnett, Wednesday after third Monday. R. L. Roberts Constable.

Walton—T. F. Carley, second Friday. S. T. Johnson, Tuesday after second Friday Al Arnold, Constable.

Verona—J. P. Vest, Tuesday after first Monday, J. J. Brumback, Tuesday after third Monday, J. H. Callahan, constable.

Florence—T. K. Dixon, third Saturday, Joe Wagstaff, second Saturday. Craig Pettit, Constable.

Taylorsport—A. B. Whitlock, fourth Monday, W. A Goodridge, third Saturday Thos. Watts, constable.

ROBERT B. REED
Attorney at Law.
OFFICE AT UNION, KY.

F. RIDDELL. H. P. STEPHENS.
RIDDELL and STEPHENS,
ATTORNEYS at LAW
BURLINGTON, KY.
Office over Dudley Rouse's Store.

W. E. VEST,
COUNTY SURVEYOR
WALTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of surveying. All orders sent him through the mail to Walton, will receive his prompt attention.

DR. A. B. HARRYMAN,
Resident Dentist.
Office over Post-Office.
AURORA, INDIANA.

J. J. Landram. G. G. Hughes.
LANDRAM & HUGHES,
ATTORNEYS at LAW.
Will practice in the Boone Circuit Cour and the Court of Appeals. Prompt attention given to Collections, on application t G. G. Hughes, Burlington, Ky.

E. E. IGOE,
Resident Dentist,
Rising Sun, Ind.
WITH
J. P. Ulrey.
Monday and Tuesday at Rising Sun. Ind Wednesday and Saturday at Aurora, Ind. Thursday and Friday at Lawrenceburg.

S. W. TOLIN.
ATTORNEY AT LAW
BURLINGTON, KY
Office in Court-house on 2d floor.
Will manage litigation in any of the Courts of the State, contracts and other legal instruments drawn up at reasonable rates. A prompt an studious attention given to business intrusted to my care. A trial solicited. 12-1y

W. J. RICE,
CARPENTER & BUILDER
BULLITSVILLE, KY.
Is prepared Raise or Move
EITHER LOG or FRAME BUILDINGS
On Short Notice,
And at the Lowest Possible Figures.
33-tf Your orders respectfully solicited

LUMBER.
Goe. M. Bedinger & Co.,
Erlanger, - - Ky.
We keep constantly on hand all kinds of Lumber, Laths and Shingles. Also Builder's supplies of all kinds.
—Come and see Us—

INSURE AT HOME
The Farmers' Mutual Fire
INSURANCE COMPANY
Of Boone County
Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.
Its Rates are Lower
Than those of any other Company, and it gives the farmers of Boone County a
HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE
In keeping their property insured.
EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY
should take a policy at once.
J. A. GAINES, President, Burlington, Ky.
J. H. WALTON, Secretary, Constance, Ky.
R. RANDALL, Treasurer.
DIRECTORS.
LEGRAN GAINES, B. L. RICE.
JNO. STEPHENS.
OSCAR GAINES, Agent.
R. S. COWEN, Assessor

CLORE'S SONS,
Manufacturers of Agricultural Implements,
SUCH AS
Steel Turning & Side Hill Plows
Road Plows, Double Shovels, Single Shovlse, Bar Shovel Gophers, Harrows, Jumping Shovels and Rolling Colters.
RISING SUN, - - IND.
Send for Illustrated Price List. 13-3m

FRYE'S COMBINATION
FARM, GARDEN & ORNAMENTAL FENCE
It combines the advantages of every fence, and is free from any objections. Our combination fence is composed of five two-strand cables of the best ancaled bessemer steel wire firmly interwoven with pickets at a uniform distance of 2 to 5 inches apart, and the diagonal supporting wire which is interwoven as represented, enables us to hold each and every picket up off the ground with perfect ease, keeping them even on top and the entire fence always in the open air, making the lower ends of the pickets just durable as the upper ends. Sagging is utterly impossible, as we have a direct vertibal tensil strength of 1700 lbs. to each pannel which alone is three times as strong as an ordinary pine board fence. Our five cables, which gives a combined strength of more than fifteen times that of a pine board 1x6, all interwoven in such a manner with the pickets that one wire cannot be broken without breaking 11. Thus giving us a fence 18 times stronger than a barb wire. The pickets are oak of first quality, and soaked in hot Alkalies, making them last many years. The pickets are supported every 10½ inches by the cables so that breakage is impossible, giving us a fence that will turn all kinds of stock, from the smallest pig to the meanest mule, without endangering the life of any. It is a portable fence, can be removed by drawing the staples and the fence rolled up and removed without the slightest injury. It is dog proof, keeps sheep in and logs out. It will protect your orchards from the ravages of rabbits, and your gardens from chickens. It is endorsed by over 200,000 of our farmers, as filling every claim we make for it. No farmer can afford to do without this fence that has means to buy it. Any party wishing fence or any information in regard to this fence will address,
T. H. SUTTON, Grant, Boone county, Ky.
N. B.—This fence can be sold and delivered at any landing on the river in Boone county, at the following reduced prices: Pickets 5 in. a part 55c 4½ in. apart 60c; 4 in. apart 65c, 3½ in. a part 70c; 3 in. a part 75c; 2½ in. apart 80c; 2 in. a part 85c. We have strechers expressly for our fence which we will furnish to any parties ordering fifty rods or more, and will furnish one hand to assist in putting it up, after the posts have been set.

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that Mrs. C. Fanny Latham, of Florence, Ky., wife of Robt. E. Latham, who is made defendant to the cause, has filed her petition in equity in the Boone Circuit Court, asking to be made a feme sole; and to be empowered to trade, and make conveyances in her own rights, as if she were a single woman.

C. FANNY LATHAM.
By R. Richardson, atty.

Feby. 6, 1886.

FOR SALE.

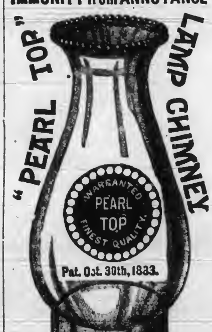
My farm of 250 acres one mile from Richwood Station, near the Cin Southern Railroad. This farm has 50 acres of timber and is all strong land, and under good fence, has three never failing ponds, good stable and a large tobacco barn. The improvements consist of a two story frame dwelling of 8 rooms, in first-class order, and all necessary out buildings. These premises front on the Hamilton & Richwood pike which intersects the Richwood & Beaver pike, also on the premises. Taking into consideration the quality of improvements and land, and convenience of pikes and railroads, schools and neighborhood, there is not a more desirable farm in Kentucky. Will sell on reasonable terms, ⅓ cash and the balance on time, or will trade for desirable city property. For particulars address

L. B. Stephens, Richwood, Ky.
Or H. P. Stephens, Burlington, Ky.

THE STAR
A Newspaper supporting the Principles of a Democratic Administration,
Published in the City of New York.
WILLIAM DORSHEIMER,
Editor and Proprietor.
Daily, Sunday, and Weekly Editions.
THE WEEKLY STAR,
A Sixteen-page Newspaper, issued every Wednesday.
A clean, pure, bright and interesting
FAMILY PAPER.
It contains the latest news, down to the hour of going to press:
Agricultural, Market, Fashion, Household, Political, Financial and Commercial, Poetical, Humorous and Editorial
Departments, all under the direction of trained journalists of the highest ability. Its sixteen pages will be found crowded with good things from beginning to end.
Original stories by distinguished American and foreign writers of fiction.
THE DAILY STAR,
The Daily Star contains all the news of the day in an attractive form. Its special correspondence by cable from London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna and Dublin is a commendable feature.
At Washington, Albany, and other news centers, the ablest correspondents, specially retained by the Star, furnish the latest news by telegraph.
Its literary features are unsurpassed.
The Financial and Market Reviews are unusually full and complete.
Special terms and extraordinary inducements to agents and canvassers.
Send for circulars.
TERMS OF THE WEEKLY STAR to Subscribers, FREE OF POSTAGE in the United States and Canada, outside the limits of New York City:
Per year....$1 25
Clubs of Ten....10 00
Clubs of Fifteen (and one extra to organizer)..15 00
TERMS OF THE DAILY STAR to Subscribers:
Every day for one year (including Sunday)....$7 00
Daily, without Sunday, one year....6 00
Every day, six months....3 50
Daily, without Sunday, six months....3 00
Address, THE STAR,
26 and 28 North William St., New York

Subscribe for the Recorder.

IMMUNITY from ANNOYANCE



Made only of the finest and best quality of Glass for withstanding heat.
Every good thing is Counterfeited, and consumers are CAUTIONED against IMITATIONS of these Chimneys made of VERY POOR GLASS. See that the exact label is on each chimney as above. The Pearl Top is always clear and bright Glass.
Manufactured ONLY by
GEO. A. MACBETH & CO.
Pittsburgh Lead Glass Works.
FOR SALE BY DEALERS.

AURORA MARBLE AND GRANITE WORKS,
Aurora. Ind
Will have constantly on hand
Marble and Granite Monuments,
Italian & American Headstones, &c
I am ready to do all kinds of Stone Work on short notice and at low prices Hoping to receive the patronage of Boone County, I am respectfully,
F. W. KASSEBAUM.

PIANOS-ORGANS
The demand for the improved Mason & Hamlin Pianos is now so large that a second addition to the factory has become imperative. Do not require one-quarter as much tuning as Pianos on the prevailing wrest-pin system. Consult Catalogue, free. 100 Styles of Organs, $22 to $900. For Cash, Easy Payments, or Rented.
Mason & Hamlin Organ and Piano Co.,
NEW YORK; BOSTON; CHICAGO.

AGENTS WANTED
FOR
The PEOPLES CYCLOPEDIA.
FARM & STOCK CYCLOPEDIA.
THOMPSONS' MEDICAL ADVISER.
PIONEER HISTORY.
Address
THE CAPITOL PUBLISHING CO.,
P. O. Box 459, Cincinnati, O.

Subscribe for the Recorder.

TAKE THE RECORDER,

H. F. BLASE
540 MADISON AVE.
Covington. Ky.
FALL GOODS ARE ALL IN.
5,000 NEW ELEGANT DESIGNS TO SELECT FROM.
SUITS AND OVERCOATS MADE TO ORDER ON SHORT NOTICE.
We Guarantee Goods, Fit and Workmanship.
We have also manufactured over 1,000 Suits and Overcoats during the dull season, made out of good material and by good workmen, which we can sell as low as any house in the country.
CALL AND SEE US.
H. F. BLASE,
540 MADISON AVE. COVINGTON. KY.

STOTT BROS,
PETERSBURG, KY.
We are still in the trade with a better class of Fall & Winter Goods and Lower Prices than was ever known in this county. We can sell you direct from one of the leading factories of the country, at from 15 to 20 per cent. less than last years prices, and warranted to be No. 1 goods as they will show for themselves.
FLANNELS
OUR YARNS,
are first-class and cheaper than ever before offered. We are agents for the Shaker Yarn, old fashioned or long reel, double cut, 120 threads to the cut, best in the market.
BLANKETS,
Very cheap. We keep a general assortment of Dry Goods Notions, Boots and Shoes, Hats and Caps, Glassware, Queensware, Hardware, Tinware, and a full line of GROCERIES.
Coal from the Perfection Mines, in quality is "Love Among the Roses."
As our trade is gradually increasing, shows that we give you First-class Goods at Bottom Prices, and warrant all goods as represented.
Thanking the people for their liberal patronage in the past, we kindly ask a continuance of the same. Yours &c.
STOTT BROS, Petersburg, Ky.

JAMES S. WAYNE, President. JNO. L. SANDFORD, Cashier
CAPITAL $300,000.
FARMERS AND TRADERS
NATIONAL BANK.
Covington, Kentucky.
DIRECTORS.
James S. Wayne, M. C. Mitch, Sam Hind, E. J. Hickey, E. J. Green
J. S. Matson, J. H. Mersman, J. L. Sandford, L. H Dills, F. P. Helm
L. C. Stephens.
The general operations of banking transacted upon the most favorable term Collections made on all points in the United States.
The Business and Accounts of Farmers are Especially Solicited by this Bank.
dec. 20-6m

COME AND SEE FOR YOURSELF.
—(o)— We've got them from the lowest price to the finest. —(o)—
None disappointed or dissatisfied in five years business. We keep constantly on hand all sizes of
Burial Cases, Caskets and Robes,
ALSO A SPLENDID
HEARSE AND TEAM.
You can always come to us with the assurance of getting what you want in this line. We guarantee our prices 20 per cent. less than city prices. J. W. Davis has charge of this business at Hebron, and T. W. Finch is our agent at Burlington.
J. J. RUCKER & CO, Hebron, Ky.

BUGGIES! BUGGIES!!
Pfalzgraf & Wingate,
DEALERS IN
Carriages, Buggies
AND
Spring Wagons.
—(o)— GAINESVILLE, KENTUCKY. —(o)—
A Large Assortment of Buggies and Carriages constantly on hand.
ANY STYLE TO ORDER ON
SHORT NOTICE
We call the attention of the People of Boone County to our stock on hand, made in the latest styles and of the best material. All work warranted to give satisfaction. Special attention given to
REPAIRING WITH NEATNESS & DISPATCH,
At the Lowest possible prices.
Old work taken in exchange for new
Pfalzgraf & Wingate,
GAINSVILLE, KENTUCKY.

KENTUCKY MILITARY INSTITUTE.
Advantages. 1. Exemption from temptations of city. One family—living, eating and working together. 3. Classes divided into small sections so that each cadet recites every day. 4. Expenditures under control of Superintendent. 5. Government adapted to the character of each individual cadet. 6. A faculty who associate with the cadets. 7. A system of military discipline which develops the body and imparts lessons of authority and prompt obedience. Address Col. R. D. ALLEN, Farmdale, Ky.

THE RECORDER.

RIDDELL & HALL, Publishers.

BURLINGTON, : : KENTUCKY

THE THREE SONS.

I have a son, a little son, a boy just five years old,
With eyes of thoughtful earnestness and mind of gentle mold.
They tell me that unusual grace in all his ways appears,
That my boy is grave and wise of heart beyond his childish years.
I can not say how this may be; I know his face is fair,
And yet his chiefest comeliness is his sweet and serious air.
I know his heart is kind and fond, I know he loveth me,
But loveth yet his mother more with grateful fervency.
But that which others most admire is the thought that fills his mind,
The food for grave, inquiring speech he everywhere doth find.
Strange questions doth he ask of me when we together walk—
He scarcely thinks as children think, nor talks as children talk;
Nor cares he much for childish sports, dotes not on bat or ball,
But looks on manhood's works and ways, and aptly mimics all.
His little heart is busy still, and oftentimes perplexed
With thoughts about this world of ours and thoughts about the next.
He kneels at his dear mother's knee, she teacheth him to pray,
And strange and sweet and solemn then are the words that he will say.
Oh! should my gentle child be spared to manhood's years, like me,
A holier and a wiser man I trust that he will be.
And when I look into his eyes and stroke his thoughtful brow,
I dare not think what I should feel were I to lose him now.

I have a son, a second son, a simple child of three,
I'll not declare how bright and fair his little features be—
How silver sweet those tones of his when he prattles on my knee,
I do not think his light-blue eye is like his brother's, keen,
Nor his brow so full of childish thought as his has ever been;
But his little heart's a fountain pure of kind and tender feeling,
And his every look's a gleam of light, rich depths of love revealing.
When we walk out, the country folks who pass us in the street
Will shout for joy and bless my boy, he looks so mild and sweet.
A playfellow is he to all, and yet, with cheerful tone,
Will sing his little song of love when left to sport alone.
His presence is like sunshine sent to gladden more the earth,
To comfort us in all our griefs and sweeten all our mirth.
Should he grow up to riper years, God grant his heart may prove
As sweet a home for heavenly grace as now for earthly love;
And if beside his grave the tears our aching eyes must dim,
God comfort us for all the love that we shall lose in him.

I have a son, a third sweet son, his age I can not tell,
For they reckon not by years and months where he has gone to dwell.
To us for fourteen anxious months his infant smiles were given,
And then he bade farewell to earth and went to live in Heaven.
I can not tell what form is his, what looks he weareth now,
Nor guess how bright a glory crowns his shining seraph brow.
The thoughts that fill his sinless soul, the bliss that he doth feel,
Are numbered with the secret things which God will not reveal;
But I know, for God hath told me this, that he is now at rest,
Where other blessed infants are, on their Saviour's loving breast.
Whate'er befalls his brethren twain, his bliss can never cease,
Their lot may here be grief and fear, but his is certain peace.
It may be that the tempter's wiles their souls from bliss may sever,
But if our own poor faith fail not, he must be ours forever.
When we think of what our darling is, and what we still must be,
When we muse on that world's perfect bliss and this world's misery,
When we groan beneath this load of sin, and feel the grief and pain,
Oh! we'd rather lose our other two than have him here again.

—Rev. John Moultrie, in Boston Transcript.

THE BEWITCHED HOUSE.

Beaten and Driven Away By a Mysterious Stone-Shower.

When I was on a visit to Mauritius a few years ago the following mysterious circumstances occurred, and, although every thing was done to find out the originator, natural or supernatural, of the trick played upon us—if trick it was—we never succeeded in elucidating the matter. Travelers in different parts of the world may have had the like disagreeable experiences, as I have since heard that this species of revenge on supposed enemies, of which so disagreeable a specimen came under my notice, is commonly resorted to in Ceylon and several parts of India.

I happened to be spending a year with my sister and her husband in the lovely island made immortal by the fact—or fiction—of the romantic loves and deaths of Paul and Virginia. The house servants, with the exception of the nurses, were all natives; that is, Indians either born in the island—the offspring of coolies imported for the labor of the sugar plantations, or who had come to prosecute their fortunes—creoles of mixed race, natives of the island, and varying considerably in tint and feature.

The cook was a Madrassee, the butler a creole of African descent; three of the "boys" were pure Indians. They all seemed to get on very well together; now and again we heard a tremendous noise—six or seven tongues raised in unintelligible hubbub of incomprehensible talk, but it gradually sank away or ended in a hearty burst of childish laughter.

The language in which we communicated with them was vaguely called creole—a mixture of French and other tongues, the former predominating; as in Mauritius, though an English colony, French obtains in the shops and in a considerable portion of the commercial world, most of the principal planters in the island being descendants of old French families. It is a childish language, full of abbreviations, odd abrupt terminals, and ejaculations, with a universal and most catching bur, which all children born in the island involuntarily acquire.

None of the servants spoke English; only one, the butler, Alphonse Appavaroo, familiarly termed "Sammy," understood it, and he only imperfectly; so that, notwithstanding the presence of three or four "boys" at table, we could speak unconstrainedly on any subject. The cook, whose name was Manuel, had been nine years in my brother-in-law's employment, and was a most respectable, steady, harmless man, and occupied, with his wife and children, a small "case" in the grounds, hidden behind a hedge of bamboo and tamarind trees. It was my brother-in-law's intention to finally leave Mauritius in six months, and as the house was to be occupied after his departure by his partner, a single man, the establishment would, naturally, be considerably reduced. But, as his intention was only known to his immediate family, and he did not wish it generally spoken of until his plans were fixed, I do not see that the servants can have had any acquaintance with his projected movement, although subsequent events have made me come reluctantly to the conclusion that Sammy, in spite of being a trustworthy servant and the factotum of the establishment, was the prime mover in the disturbance of our peace and comfort. I may be doing him an injustice, but he must, I think, have in some way become aware of the impending changes, and have taken the means I am about to narrate to get rid of a servant whose footing in the house was of longer standing than his own.

This, however, is only conjecture, as we never succeeded in clearing up the mystery.

One hot evening we were seated at table, the party consisting of my sister, her husband, two young men—his cousins—and myself. The servants had left the room for one of the courses, when, instead of returning, we heard a hubbub of mingled voices, cries of terror, a stampede of naked feet pattering along the tiled veranda, and while we were lost in amazement as to what the cause of the sudden disturbance might be, in rushed one of them, Djuman by name, his face that ashen hue which Indians assume when pale, his very turban shaking on his head, as in tremulous voice he cried piteously:

"M'sieu, pierre fine tombe, veaez, gete li, fine coupe tete doomon, ñ'a pas conne doomon sette-li, sarse, ne trouve-li."

But as I can not speak creole correctly, not to mention spelling it, I had better give a translation of the more puzzling words in his ejaculatory sentence. "Sarse" is "chez chez," as creoles can not pronounce "eh;" "gete" is look or "see;" doomon" is a very general term applied to all and sundry. Any one wishing to see you is a "doomon;" all news is heard from "quelque doomon," and I believe is traced to "du monde." Every second sentence begins with "fine" and ends with "li," followed by an extraordinary sort of grunt—"Eh!" something like the "Yah!" of our London street boy.

Djuman's trembling utterances were to the effect that while cook was dishing the dinner stones began to fall at intervals on the stove, on the table, and in different parts of the kitchen, coming down on the outside wooden roof of the building, which stood alone at some fifty yards from the house, with a sharp, clear "ping," and falling down into the room without a crack or an aperture of any kind being visible on the ceiling to show how they had affected an entrance.

My sister, who was of a nervous temperament, did not like it at all, and shrank close to her husband's side, begging him not to leave her. The two young men and I rose, ran across the veranda and the bright moonlit paved yard into the little kitchen, where I did not know at first whether to be alarmed on seeing the cook's brother, who had rushed in from the neighboring "cour" at the first noise of the falling stones, standing ruefully rubbing his head, which was bleeding from a blow he had received; or amused at seeing half a dozen full-grown men capering about like so many children, whimpering, their teeth chattering from terror, all talking at once and each giving a different version of the story in high-pitched voices.

I stood gazing at the ceiling, when a sharp thud above me made me leap suddenly into the air, and a stone larger than my fist fell at my feet.

After quieting his wife's fears G. (my brother-in-law) followed us, and instead of sympathizing with the general terror sharply told the servants to stop all this nonsense, that he would soon find out the practical joker, cut him a month's wages—the usual threat—and deprive him of his monthly bag of rice. Then he ordered them to proceed at once serving the rest of the dinner.

The excitement was far too great to permit of my doing any thing so prosaic as return to dinner while this mystery was unexplained, so the two youths and I remained in the veranda. One fetched his gun and fired into the woods and across a neighboring ravine, hoping that if the aggressor was hidden in its wooded recesses the sound of firing would cause him to desist.

He then climbed a tall tree, from which, as it was a glorious moonlit night—and no one who has not seen the beauty of a tropical full moon can have any idea of its soft and yet clear brilliance—he could see a great distance, while I fearfully peered about among the low bushes, keeping all the while in the close vicinity of my six-foot companion, who, though pooh-poohing the whole affair, did not, I could see, like it at all. I confess that I surreptitiously picked up the stone I had found in the kitchen and smelled it to see if I could find any trace of brimstone.

An hour or two elapsed and still the stones fell, doing more or less damage. Sometimes one or two would come bang; bang after each other, then a quarter of an hour would elapse, and we would think it was all over when the noise and battery would recommence.

It was getting beyond our usual hour of retiring for the night, but somehow we forgot to propose breaking up our little party. It was useless to settle to any occupation; my sister, the two young men and I talked with bated breath, and I did not at all enjoy the prospect of the night before me, as I occupied one of three pavilions—small wooden rooms built outside the large house with a connecting veranda between; and whether the thrower of the missiles was or was not a supernatural personage I did not relish his vicinity. About eleven o'clock the servant came to say that the noise and damage still continued, when G. once more repaired to the kitchen and announced his intention of sending for the police to find out and punish the offender. Accordingly his cousin went off in his little cateche to the nearest police station, and returned with three men—one a French creole, one an Irishman, and the third English. When we explained the circumstances to them they smiled in a superior manner and said: "You'll never find it out, whatever it is; it has been practiced in several parts of the island before, and quite lately, too. Some weeks ago we were sent for to Savanne for the same cause. The inhabitants left the house and we staid there alone on the alert for three days, and, though we watched steadily night and day, the very glass globes of the lamps were broken in the room where we were sitting; we saw the stones fall and heard the sound as they struck the outside roof, but never once saw any appearance of even a crack in the ceiling, and left the place without having found out any thing."

This was not satisfactory; but it was a little reassuring, in the long hours before I fell asleep, to hear the police pacing up and down the veranda, or when their steps ceased, to know, by the tell-tale scent of their cigarettes through the open window, that they were not slumbering. I had meant to keep the stone I picked up as a memento of the incident, and had put it in my room; but fearing that such an uncanny object might take to capering about my premises at the witching hour of midnight I opened my window and deposited it outside.

The police left next morning, as they said it was quite useless to remain. G. and his cousins had to be in Port Louis daily from ten in the morning till five o'clock, so my sister and I were left to face the terrors, which, however, did not look half so great by day as by night. My sister would not ask a question, nor listen when the servants volunteered details, but my curiosity, which is considerable, overcame my terror, and I kept going backward and forward to the servants' quarters to mark the progress of affairs so as to report them faithfully to G. in the evening.

I discovered that the principal victims of the missiles were the cook's two sons, bright little fellows of eight and ten years of age. Wherever they were the stones fell thickest—in the avenue, among the trees, in their own hut, or in the detached kitchen. On mentioning this circumstance to my brother he immediately sent for Manuel, told him to punish his children at once, and make them understand that he would have no more of this tomfoolery going on, and ordered them to be shut in a room all night, and a guardian placed at the door to watch. I was quite aghast at this summary and, as I thought, cruel behavior; but I only attempted a faint remonstrance, and made up my mind to reserve the rest of my exciting adventures for a more sympathetic ear.

Next morning the guardian declined to watch the children any longer, as a stone had left a large lump on his own forehead.

"I shall stop this," said the now angry master of the household.

Accordingly Manuel's boys were dispatched to the school at Rosehill, some two miles off, with a note to the school master, asking him to receive them as boarders for a few weeks. We heard nothing further for twenty-four hours, when the boys and a polite note were simultaneously handed back, to say that the schoolmaster declined having them any longer, as since the arrival of his young visitors his own head had been nearly broken by a mysterious stone coming through the roof, which, however, remained intact. Next day, after my brother had gone to town, I was in my bed-room when I heard the patter of naked feet on the veranda outside my open window, and piteous cries for "grande Ma'amselle," as they always called me from my height. I ran to the window to find ten or eleven clamorous creatures crying, wringing their hands, Manuel in their midst, a sobbing child in either hand, telling me in accents of despair that whenever the children seated themselves to eat a dish of rice an invisible hand seized and flung the dish some three feet off, scattering the rice all around; and that as he and their mother were beside them they heard the click, click, of a pair of scissors, and the children's beautiful silky hair was lying on the ground, shorn off in jagged, uneven masses. The two boys were in a great state of terror, sobbing and trembling, their father the image of misery and wretchedness. I consoled them as best I could; tried to laugh away their fears, albeit my own were increasing; and desiring Djuman to bring me a bunch of bananas, I fed the little ones out of my own hand at the window.

In order to be able to confute my brother's ideas as to the complicity, if not active agency, of the boys, I armed myself with a large umbrella, and taking the children with me, I repaired to their own hut—a regular "case," filthy, malodorous, but the excitement of my own nervous system was such that I would have gone through a good deal to find out the origin of the mystery.

It was a day of intense heat, but I stood in that baking, reeking hut—where all there was in the way of beds were some filthy looking mats; where old clothes hung on the begrimed walls, and where the only air was admitted by high, narrow windows—with the two small culprits before me, their only attire little shirts and nankeen trousers. I thought if they threw up the stones by any quick movement I could not fail to see the motion of their hands; ten minutes, a quarter of an hour, elapsed, and no sign. I was beginning to feel faint from heat and bad air, when bang went one and another on the roof, and two stones fell before me, one narrowly grazing my nose. I dismissed the children, who evinced great fear, and recommenced sobbing and shivering, and rushed out of the "case," cannoning in my flight against the coachman, who was waiting at some distance to hear the result of my courageous exploit.

"Have you ever heard of this sort of thing before?" I mustered up sufficient creole to say.

"Si fait, Ma'amselle; si fait!" he replied; and told me forthwith some ghastly tales, ending most indignantly with: "And they say, some of them, that I am at the bottom of it."

"Nonsense," I said, and rushed out of the blinding vertical sun-rays on to the comparatively cool veranda to encounter Djuman, my own servant, who next respectfully asked if ma'amselle had seen or heard any thing.

"I wonder what it can be?" I said more to myself than him.

"Le diable!" promptly responded Djuman.

"Nonsense!" I said again, this time quite sharply; for, though I had a vague idea in my own mind that perhaps "le diable" was at the bottom of it somehow, my honor and self-respect required me to keep up an appearance of courage I was far from feeling before these timid Indians, who all looked to me as a rock of defense—an infallible authority as well as a most welcome outlet to their feelings as an audience.

To their mistress they did not attempt to speak, for she was too frightened by the whole proceeding to listen even to my experiences.

"Si, Ma'amselle, si; there is a little book," continued Djuman; "they consult, and it is someone in the house who is doing it, and the little book is called the Petit Albert, and there is only one copy in the island."

I was much interested in this relation and noted the fact, and the reader can judge my surprise when, long after, in reading a book of P. Hamerton's, called "Round My House," I came upon the following passage: "In one part of France the peasants have the fullest belief in sorcery. They believe that the secrets of sorcery are contained in a mysterious volume called an Albert, and they are convinced that certain persons possess the book, though I never could see a copy of it, nor ascertain if it really existed."

Had I known the fact at the time my interest would have been doubled, as Mr. Hamerton's testimony shows that a book of divination or demonology, called Le Petit Albert, does exist in other countries, though whence it derives its rather peculiar and somewhat modern name I have never found out.

Next day, Manuel, his wife and children, took French leave, and went off for the day without our having any clew to their whereabouts. The place was quiet during the day, but while we were at dinner, between eight and nine o'clock, a servant came to say that Manuel had returned, and sent in a message to "tell massa he was drunk." Dark though it was, the instant he and his family turned from the highroad into the avenue the stones rattled round them in the path.

Next morning, as I sat in the store-room, giving out rice, flour, curry—all the articles necessary for the day's consumption, I began to Manuel thus:

"Cook, I am very sorry indeed to think that, after being a trusted servant here for nine years, you should come home in such a state as you were in last night. I can assure you that, if it ever happens again, your master will not pass it over, but you will have to go."

Manuel, who, like most Madrassees, spoke a little broken English, replied:

"What me do, Missy? Me no eat; me children, wife mis'rable; they no eat, no sleep, no noting. There is noting to do but get drunk."

I remember that I read him a moral lecture, and said by adding the effects of drink to his present misery he was not doing much to improve his condition, but all the time I felt deeply for the poor man.

Slightly infected with my brother's reiterated suspicions of his two children, who bore a name for mischief, I asked him earnestly if he thought they had really any thing to do with it, and seeing the success of their tricks in the general terror and mystification, were induced to keep it up. I did not add that G. insisted that I was very much to blame in the matter, as my evincing so much interest encouraged them to continue.

"Was it likely," said Manuel in reply, "that children of eight and ten would go on doing a thing, even if it were possible for them to do it so closely watched, which was making their parents miserable, involving themselves in punishment, and which would ultimately deprive them of house and home?

"No, Missy; it will go worse, you see; we will be pinah black and blue. Needles will go through our tongues when we sleep, and in two month we die, if no one find out and stop." Then, shutting the storeroom door mysteriously, he approached me and said in a low whisper: "Missy, some one in dis house want to get rid me. I not know who. I tink; but I not sure. If Missy will give me—lead twenty rupees, I go see woman in town who will go sleep and write names on paper, and I show Missy in storeroom to-morrow morning."

"No, no, cook," I said; "don't do any thing so silly as waste money that way. She can't tell. And don't suspect any of the servants here. It is a mere mischievous trick. I am very sorry for you meanwhile, but we will find it out by and by. I could not lend you money for such a purpose, and you must not waste your own."

But the poor wretch was too miserable to heed my remonstrances. The day following we had to trust our cooking to one of the boys, who were all becoming quite demoralized in the unusually exciting atmosphere in which we lived, for Manuel had again taken French leave, and was absent all day.

Outwardly indifferent, it was with a thrill of expectation I repaired to the store-room next morning, when Manuel immediately closed the door, and glancing tearfully all round, and out at the square grated windows, pushed a paper into my hand, saying in quick, low voice:

"Missy read that in room. No tell nobody."

"Have you seen the clairvoyante?" I asked, breathless from astonishment and with a momentary terror of perhaps seeing my own name written on the paper.

"Yes, missy. She go sleep; she ask how many servant; then she tink long time; then she say massa go to England soon — six months; two boys here want took leave dis house; they try frighten him away. Missy see?"

I ran across to my room and there read the name of Sammy and another servant (the two who subsequently were retained by G.'s partner as head servants).

To say the least of it, the woman had not made a bad guess, and how she contrived to know my brother's intention of leaving Mauritius I don't know. It was in any case a most curious coincidence.

The other servants who knew or guessed the mission on which Manuel had gone into Port Louis, and suspected that he had told me the result, scanned my face carefully and questioned me as to my having found any elucidation of the matter. But I studiously concealed my knowledge, and gave the paper back to Manuel, telling him not to put too much faith in information obtained in such a manner; though if I had any suspicions in the matter they certainly pointed in the same direction. Manuel's, I may say, had till now gone wide of the mark.

The molestation, after this, ceased for some time or occurred at rare intervals, but the poor man had become so unnerved from terror that he neglected his work and finally got his dismissal.

I had returned to Europe before this happened, but on leaving begged my sister to keep me informed about the supernatural affairs I left behind, and she wrote and told me that his persecutor followed him to his next situation, harassed him for some time and then disappeared.

In talking over the matter with an Englishwoman who had spent nearly the whole of a long life in the island she said: "It is a most extraordinary thing, but worse cases than this have come under my own notice. A young girl whom I knew came out from England here as a dressmaker. A creole youth fell in love with her and asked her to marry him. She rejected him, and, mad with rage, he resolved to compass her death. Whether by herself or watched by careful friends, this poor young thing woke in the morning, her arms and body pinched, the blue marks visible on her tender flesh, her hair cut off close to her head, her food snatched from her, needles passed through her eyelids and tongue, and she pined and died under the ceaseless and mysterious powers ranged against her."

I neither affirm nor deny the tale. I merely tell it as it was told to me by an Englishwoman whose veracity I never had any occasion to doubt. Another person told me that on the island there resided a very evil man, a Mozambique, who possessed some power supposed to be allied to sorcery or witchcraft, whose aid was frequently invoked to bring disaster or death on their enemies by revengeful persons.

The stone throwing may have been—I suppose must have been—sleight-of-hand performed by some one, but it was very extraordinary that the discovery of the perpetrator, or the means by which he accomplished his deeds, should have eluded the careful watch of my brother, his cousins, myself—a most interested spectator—three policemen and many other persons.—All the Year Round.

PLANTING FRUIT-TREES.

When and How the Work Should the Done—Selection of Trees.

If the acre has been enriched and plowed twice deeply, little more is necessary in planting than to excavate a hole large enough to receive the roots spread out in their natural positions. Should no such thorough and general preparation have been made, or if the ground is hard, poor and stony, the owner will find it to his advantage to dig a good-sized hole three or four feet across and two deep, filling in and around the tree with fine rich surface soil. If he can obtain some thoroughly decomposed compost or manure, for instance the scrapings of a barn-yard, or rich black soil from an old pasture, to mix with the earth beneath and around the roots, the good effects will be seen speedily, but in no instance should raw manure from the stable, or anything that must decay before becoming plant food, be brought in contact with the roots. Again I repeat my caution against planting too deeply—one of the commonest and most fatal errors. Let the tree be set about as deeply as it stood before removal. If the tree be planted early in spring, as it should be, there will be moisture enough in the soil, but when planting is delayed until the ground has become rather dry and warm, a pail of water poured about its roots when the whole has been nearly filled will be beneficial. Now that the tree is planted, any kind of coarse manure spread to the depth of two or three inches on the surface as a mulch is very useful. Stake at once to protect against the winds. Do not make the common mistake of planting too closely. Observe the area shaded by fully grown trees, and you will learn the folly of crowding. Moreover, dense shade about the house is not desirable. There should be space for plenty of air and sunshine. The fruit from one well-developed tree will often more than supply a family, for ten or fifteen barrels of apples is not an unusual yield. The standard apples should be thirty feet apart. Pears, the dwarfer growing cherries, plums, etc., can be grown in the intervening spaces. In ordering from the nurseries insist on straight, shapely and young trees, say three years from the bud. Many trees that are sent out are small enough, but they are old and stunted. Also require that there should be an abundance of fibrous and unmutilated roots.—E. P. Roe, in Harper's Magazine.

—A misfit hat store would do well in any city after the holding of a big public ball.—N. Y. Picayune.

HOME AND FARM.

—Clean tea or coffee cups with scouring brick. It makes them look as good as new.—Exchange.

—A correspondent of the Breeder's Gazette thinks it unwise to feed ensilage to breeding cattle.

—It is well to remember that the turkey must have wide range. Confinement is death to him. He will show his gratitude, if permitted to forage, by making most of his living.—Prairie Farmer.

—Soda Cake: Two cups of butter, four of sugar, one of sour cream, one-half cup of sweet milk, two teaspoonfuls of soda, one of cream-of-tartar, flavor with nutmeg or vanilla.—The Caterer.

—If you want to get the good-will of your hens, says the Prairie Farmer, feed them dry, hot corn at night. Heat the corn in an iron pan or kettle in the oven, and stir occasionally. No matter if it gets a little charred. It won't do any harm to give warm water, either.

—Stuffed Potatoes: Mince some cold meat very fine and season it to taste. Choose large potatoes of one size and peel and core them, taking care not to core them through. Fill them with the minced meat and put them in a dish to bake, with a cupful of water and a little butter or nice beef dripping. If the potatoes are large they will require an hour to bake; if small, half that time will be sufficient.—Boston Globe.

—Mr. J. J. H. Gregory makes the statement that the corn plant has the power of getting its nitrogen from the air. We have, therefore, but to supply potash and phosphate to the soil. For three years the experiment has been tried upon the poor-soil plots of the Rural grounds. No matter how large the quantity of potash and phosphoric acid used, we can not get a good crop without nitrogen.—Rural New Yorker.

—Milk should be strained at once after milking, without being cooled or shaken. Accurate experiments have shown that shaking the milk, as in carrying it in a wagon, or reducing the temperature several degrees before it is set for cream, will lessen the amount of butter. This would indicate that carrying milk to a cheese factory in a wagon would be an advantage to the cheese, as the cream would not rise so much while the curd was forming.—Toledo Blade.

—More than half of the diseases so prevalent among farm horses are due to improper attention to the common laws of sanitation, and farmers would save many times the expense of a properly constructed stable were they to try the experiment. The animals that are so closely connected with the successful working of the farm assuredly deserve better care and attention than is usually given them. The humane man will therefore see that they have light, roomy, well-ventilated stables, where disease will be far less likely to enter.—N. Y. Telegram.

—Pearl wheat: This is good as a variation on the oatmeal porridge for breakfast. Take half a cup of pearl wheat, two cups of milk and four cups of water, with a scant teaspoonful of salt. Let the milk and water boil up in a saucepan on the stove, then stir in the wheat and salt. Put the wheat in the inside kettle of a steamer to cook, pouring boiling water in the outside kettle around it.—Boil two hours. Let the steamer stand all night on the back of the range, and in the morning beat it up gradually just before serving. This can also be done with oatmeal.—The Caterer.

SPRING COSTUMES.

A Perpetuation of the Styles Prevalent During the Winter Season.

New costumes for spring and summer retain the general effect of those now worn, with basque, bouffant skirt and combinations of two materials. The principal changes are in the drapery, and in an attempt to lengthen short skirts, making those of street dresses barely escape the ground, while those for the house touch the floor. The plaits across the back of skirts, instead of being abandoned, are increased in number from three to six, the added ones being very short, and set in only a few inches below the belt, so that they may take the place of the warm hair cushion, though this cushion is still used by many French modistes.

The foundation skirt remains about two yards and a quarter in width. The lower skirt of the dress material is very full and straight, being almost a regular Mother Hubbard skirt, and is visible to a greater height below or between the draperies than in winter dresses. Sometimes this skirt is gathered all around at the top, and sewed to the foundation skirt, but in most cases it is partly plain and partly gathered, or else plaited in wide, loose-looking plaits in the sides or behind, or wherever it is not covered by drapery.

The new draperies are arranged very long in the front and back, leaving both sides of the lower skirt uncovered from the belt down. The front drapery drops in a point toward the right side, being made very wide and full of plaiting into the belt; it is then caught up in plaits on the left hip, and falls in a curve to the foot on the right, leaving its right side quite straight. This tablier, it will be seen, exposes both sides of the lower skirt, which may be in lengthwise plaits on both sides, or it may have stripes of the material or bands of velvet ribbon or plush woven in the fabric, or rows of embroidery on a deep fall of lace, or else for light summer fabrics there may be many narrow ruffles of silk or of lace, with a band of velvet ribbon heading each. The back drapery is confined to a very narrow space when plaited or gathered to the belt, but it is very full, and may hang straight to the foot, or else be opened in the middle and droop in two long narrow points that again disclose the full lower skirt. Flounces all around the skirt are seldom seen; even as a finish to the foot, but are used in very narrow widths to cover the sides or perhaps the front of a skirt, while the full lower skirt, when made of wide lace or embroidery or any one of the bordered or bayadere striped fabrics, is, in point of fact, merely one deep flounce, giving the effect of a full round skirt.

Basques remain short with high darts, giving the appearance of a long slender waist, but those of thin fabrics have fuller trimmings in front that the flat garnitures of winter dresses. The full plastron or vest is made of soft silk gathered or plaited, and there are tapering velvet revers on each side of this vest.

The laced front is a feature of new basques, and is becoming to all figures. Some plain wool dresses are laced from the throat down, but it is more usual to add separate pieces at the top of the first dart and lace these to the end of the basque, while above this is the gathered or plaited plastron and the revers. The seams of basques are not changed, but the outside fabric is put on in varied ways, a partiality being shown for V-shaped trimmings in back and front, inlaid between folds of the material set in two or four inch-wide plaits on the shoulders in front and behind, and tapered into very narrow plaits at the waist line, making the old-time fan waist so becoming to slight figures. Very high dog collars of velvet, cut all in one piece and stiffly lined with buckram, are on dresses of thin fabrics, and may be fastened on the left side in a point, or with a bow of ribbon; if made to meet in front, two or even three hooks and eyes are required to fasten them.—Harper's Bazar.

—Artificial eyes are now furnished for horses that have lost an optic by accident. A glass eye helps the looks of a horse, even if he can't look through it.—Chicago Times.

Hindoo Craftsmen's Feet.

The supple, delicate fingers of the craftsmen are as remarkable as those of the Japanese, although their hands are much larger; but one thing must very forcibly strike the visitor who watches these clever workmen, and who observes the primitiveness of their appliances—the sad fact that the march of civilization has deprived us western nations of the use of our toes. To be able to use four hands instead of two in all work must obviously be an enormous advantage, and the long, prehensile toe of the Hindoo craftsmen is even more remarkable than that of his Japanese brother. To see the ivory-worker turning his lath with his upper hands, while he guides it and holds the ivory in his lower ones, is quite an education in possibilities of development of what to us are really almost rudimentary organs—daily, in fact, becoming mere so under the operation of the fashionable bootmaker.—Interior.

—"Ah, Farmer Robinson," said his fair city guest, "how quietly you live out here in the country. You are not disturbed by society quarrels, or political excitement, or labor troubles, but all is comfortable and pleasant." "Yes, miss, I s'pose it looks so to you. But there's the hottest society quarrel over who's going to sing alto in the choir next year; an' the politics, Ben Johnson swears I shan't be selectman again; and as for labor troubles, my hired man struck yesterday because I wanted him to milk the cows before breakfast. O, we have our little seasons of enjoyment as well as you city folks.—Hartford Post.

—A newspaper has been started at Sitka. Printers out of a Sit-kan perhaps get one by applying early.—Boston Post. In such far-fetched attempts we can not see what there is to Boston. Postpone them for the future.—The Alaskan (Sitka). It takes a good while for a joke to travel to Alaska and back, especially when it is as weak as the above; and in the interval we had forgotten our crime. Now as we Sitkanly and look at it we sigh: Alaskan such things be!—Boston Post.

—As a result of the establishment of the Niagara Falls Park the commissioners report four times as many visitors in the last half of 1885 as at any previous time, that summer visitors stayed longer, the hack-driver nuisance is abated, and the scenery has already been greatly improved and will be still more.—Buffalo Express.

—An English experimenter finds that, contrary to general opinion, a growth of ivy over a house renders the interior entirely free from moisture.

FOR eight years Col. D. J. Williamson, Quarter-Master, U. S. A. and ex-U. S. Consul at Callao, was crippled with rheumatism. He got no relief until he used St. Jacobs Oil, which cured him.

U. S. Marshal Kerns, Philadelphia, says Red Star Cough Cure cured his family. 25 cents.

WHEN are skipping lambs like library volumes? When they are boundin' sheep.—N. Y. Ledger.

Consumption.

Notwithstanding the great number who yearly succumb to this terrible and fatal disease, which is daily winding its fatal coils around thousands who are unconscious of its deadly presence, Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" will cleanse and purify the blood of scrofulous impurities, and cure tubercular consumption (which is only scrofulous disease of the lungs). Send 10 cents in stamps and get Dr. Pierce's complete treatise on consumption and kindred affections, with numerous testimonials of cures. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

BOSTON finds her glory in the past, because she belongs to the "had beans."—Washington Critic.

Young Men, Read This.

THE VOLTAIC BELT CO., of Marshall, Mich., offer to send their celebrated ELECTRO-VOLTAIC BELT and other ELECTRIC APPLIANCES on trial for 30 days, to men (young or old) afflicted with nervous debility, loss of vitality and all kindred troubles. Also for rheumatism, neuralgia, paralysis, and many other diseases. Complete restoration to health, vigor, and manhood guaranteed. No risk incurred, as 30 days' trial is allowed. Write them at once for illustrated pamphlet, free.

SINGERS are the only people who wish to hold a note for a long time.—Chicago Telegram.

PIKE'S TOOTHACHE DROPS cure in 1 minute, 25c.
Glenn's Sulphur Soap heals and beautifies. 25c.
GERMAN CORN REMOVER kills Corns & Bunions.

ISN'T an attempt to prove an alibi self-denial?—N. Y. Journal.

THE MARKETS.

CINCINNATI, April 13.
LIVE STOCK—Cattle—Common	$2 00	@ 2 75
Choice Butchers	4 00	@ 4 75
HOGS—Common	3 50	@ 4 00
Good Packers	4 10	@ 4 40
SHEEP—Good to choice	5 00	@ 5 75
FLOUR—Family	3 80	@ 4 10
GRAIN—Wheat—Longberry red	90	@ 91
No. 2 red	88	@ 90
Corn—No. 2 mixed	36	@ 37
Oats—No. 2 mixed	32½	@ 33
Rye—No. 2	65	@ 66
HAY—Timothy No. 1	12 00	@ 12 50
TOBACCO—Common Lugs	8 00	@ 9 40
Good Mediums	10 25	@ 13 87½
PROVISIONS—Pork—Mess	10 25	@ 10 37½
Lard—Prime steam	[illegible]	@ 5 85
BUTTER—Choice Dairy	14	@ 18
Ohio Creamery	32	@ 34
APPLES—Prime	1 50	@ 1 65
POTATOES—per bushel	55	@ 60
NEW YORK.
FLOUR—State and Western	$2 90	@ 3 40
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 Chicago		@ 91
No. 2 red	91¾	@ 92¼
Corn—No. 2 mixed	42	@ 47½
Oats—mixed	37	@ 45
PORK—Mess	10 50	@ 10 75
LARD—Western steam	8 25	@ 8 20
CHICAGO.
FLOUR—State and Western	$4 50	@ 4 75
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red	80½	@ 81¾
No. 2 Chicago Spring	73¾	@ 76¼
Corn—No. 2	35¾	@ 36¾
Oats—No. 2	26	@ 28¼
Rye	57	@ 59
PORK—Mess	9 15	@ 9 20
LARD—Steam		@ 5 90
BALTIMORE.
FLOUR—Family	$4 50	@ 5 00
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		@ 90¼
Corn—Mixed	45½	@ 46
Oats—Mixed	38	@ 39
PROVISIONS—Pork—Mess	10 25	@ 11 75
Lard—Refined	7⅛	@ 7½
CATTLE—First quality	5 12½	@ 5 25
HOGS	5 75	@ 6 50
INDIANAPOLIS.
Wheat—No. 2 red	$	@ 86
Corn—mixed		@ 35
Oats—mixed		@ 30
LOUISVILLE.
Flour—A No. 1	$4 00	@ 4 50
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 86
Corn—mixed		@ 36½
Oats—mixed		@ 32
PORK—mess		@ 11 50
LARD—steam	7 75	@ 8 00

"A Perfect Flood of Sunshine"

will fill the heart of every suffering woman if she will only persist in the use of Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription." It will cure the most excruciating periodical pains, and relieve you of all irregularities and give healthy action. It will positively cure internal inflammation and ulceration, misplacement and all kindred disorders. Price reduced to one dollar. By druggists.

"WHAT is your name, little girl?" "Minnie." "Minnie what?" "Minnie don't, mamma calls me."—N. Y. Independent.

BEING entirely vegetable, no particular care is required while using Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets." They operate without disturbance to the constitution, diet, or occupation. For sick headache, constipation, impure blood, dizziness, sour eructations from the stomach, bad taste in mouth, bilious attacks, pain in region of kidneys, internal fever, bloated feeling about stomach, rush of blood to head, take Dr. Pierce's "Pellets." By druggists.

THERE is one thing which can not be "slow and sure," and that is a watch.—Burlington Free Press.

To eradicate dandruff, and keep the scalp moist and clean, use Hall's Hair Renewer. The lives of many children have been saved by the timely use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

IF you desire to take an extended pleasure trip, get a bicycle and go to Wheeling.—Norristown Herald.

BEST, easiest to use and cheapest. Piso's Remedy for Catarrh. By druggists. 50c.

THE headquarters of ignorance—An intelligence office.

RED STAR
TRADE MARK.
COUGH CURE
Absolutely Free from Opiates, Emetics and Poison.
SAFE, SURE, PROMPT. 25 Cts.
AT DRUGGISTS AND DEALERS.
THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO., BALTIMORE, MD.

ST. JACOBS OIL
TRADE MARK
THE GREAT GERMAN REMEDY
For Pain
Cures Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Backache, Headache, Toothache, Sprains, Bruises, etc., etc.
PRICE, FIFTY CENTS.
AT DRUGGISTS AND DEALERS.
THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO., BALTIMORE, MD.

ELY'S CREAM BALM
Cleanses the Head. Allays Inflammation. Heals the Sores. Restores the Senses of Taste, Smell, Hearing. A Quick Relief. A Positive Cure.
CATARRH
ELY'S CREAM BALM CURES COLD IN HEAD CATARRH ROSE-COLD HAY-FEVER DEAFNESS HEADACHE EASY TO USE. PRICE 50 CENTS. ELY BRO'S, OWEGO, N.Y. U.S.A.
HAY-FEVER
A particle is applied into each nostril; is agreeable to use. Price 50 cents by mail or at Druggists. Send for circular. ELY BROTHERS, Druggists, Owego, N. Y.

The Red School House Shoe.
HENDERSON'S SCHOOL SHOES SOLE LEATHER COUNTERS
IF you wish to purchase a shoe for your Boy or Girl that will stand the wear and tear of every-day usage, that is made of honest leather throughout, and on common sense ideas, ask your dealer for Henderson's "SCHOOL SHOE," known everywhere by the Trade Mark of the Little Red School House found on the bottom of each pair. (None genuine without it.) Ask also for the HENDERSON $2.50 WOMAN'S GOAT BUTTON. Stitched with Silk and every way solid. Made only by C. M. HENDERSON & CO., the Celebrated Manufacturers of Boots and Shoes Chicago. Write for a Set of Our Fancy School Cards.

Satisfactory Evidence.
J. W. Graham, wholesale druggist, of Austin, Tex., writes: "I have been handling DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS for the past year, and have found it one of the most salable medicines I have ever had in my house for coughs, colds and consumption, always giving satisfaction."

No Rope to Cut Off Horses' Manes.
Celebrated "ECLIPSE" HALTER and BRIDLE Combined, can not be slipped by any horse. Sample Halter to any part of the U. S. free, on receipt of $1. Sold by all Saddlery, Hardware and Harness Dealers. Special discount to the Trade. Send for Price-List. J.C. LIGHTHOUSE, Rochester, N.Y.

FRENCH DECORATIVE ART DESIGNS.
New method of decorating Silks, Satins, Vases, Plaques, Lampshades, etc. Can not be detected from hand painting. Easily applied. Send for price-list and full directions. HOFFMANN BROS., 165 Main Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

SEND YOUR ADDRESS The Programme of the SARATOGA SUMMER SCHOOL will be mailed to you free. Sterns' School of Languages of New York City, 27 East 44th Street, New York.

OPIUM Habit, Quickly and Painlessly cured at home. Correspondence solicited and free trial of cure sent honest investigators. THE HUMANE REMEDY COMPANY, Lafayette, Ind.

FREE A book worth $10, on Courtship, sent free by the Union Pub Co., Newark, N.J. Send stamps for post'g. LOVE

CANCER Treated and cured without the knife. Book on treatment sent free. Address F. L. POND, M. D., Aurora, Kane Co., Ill.

TELEGRAPHY Learn here and earn good pay. Situations furnished. Write VALENTINE BROS., Janesville, Wis.

$250 A MONTH. Agents Wanted. 90 best selling articles in the world. 1 sample FREE. Address JAY BRONSON, DETROIT, MICH.

FOR THE BLOOD
BROWN'S IRON BITTERS
Combining IRON with PURE VEGETABLE TONICS, quickly and completely CLEANSES and ENRICHES THE BLOOD. Quickens the action of the Liver and Kidneys. Clears the complexion, makes the skin smooth. It does not injure the teeth, cause headache, or produce constipation—ALL OTHER IRON MEDICINES DO. Physicians and Druggists everywhere recommend it.
MR. J. A. GREEN, of 8 Grubb St., Columbus, Ohio, says: "I have been troubled with humor in my blood for the last seven years. I could get nothing to relieve me until I used Brown's Iron Bitters, which has benefited me greatly."
MR. J. W. HOLLAND, Sandusky, Ohio, says: "I have used Brown's Iron Bitters as a blood purifier with good results, and cheerfully recommend it."
MR. CHAS. W. BLACKMOR, 67 Mentor Ave., Cleveland, Ohio, says: "I used Brown's Iron Bitters for my blood. It removed the blotches from my face and neck and has completely cured me."
MISS EMMA HARTMAN, Allentown, Pa., says: "My blood was very thin and watery, and I became weak and languid. After using four bottles of Brown's Iron Bitters I am entirely restored to health and strength, and cheerfully recommend it."
Genuine has above Trade Mark and crossed red lines on wrapper. Take no other. Made only by BROWN CHEMICAL CO., BALTIMORE, MD.

R. R. R. RADWAY'S READY RELIEF
CURES AND PREVENTS
Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat, Influenza, Inflammations, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Headache, Toothache, Asthma, Difficult Breathing.
CURES THE WORST PAINS in from one to twenty minutes. NOT ONE HOUR after reading this advertisement need any one SUFFER WITH PAIN.
RADWAY'S READY RELIEF
Is a SURE CURE for Every Pain, Sprains, Bruises, Pains in the Back, Chest or Limbs. It was the First and is the ONLY PAIN REMEDY
That instantly stops the most excruciating pains, allays inflammation, and cures Congestions, whether of the Lungs, Stomach, Bowels, or other glands or organs by one application.
A half to a teaspoonful in half a tumbler of water will in a few minutes cure Cramps, Spasms, Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Sick Headache, Diarrhea, Dysentery, Colic, Flatulency and all internal pains.
Malaria in its Various Forms.
There is not a remedial agent in the world that will cure Fever and Ague and all other Malarious, Bilious and other fevers, aided by RADWAY'S PILLS, so quick as RADWAY'S READY RELIEF. Fifty cents per bottle. Sold by druggists.
Dr. RADWAY'S SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT
For the cure of all Scrofulous, Skin and Blood Diseases.
DR. RADWAY'S PILLS,
For the cure of all disorders of the Stomach, Liver, Bowels, etc. 25 cents a box. Sold by Druggists.

DROPSY
TREATED FREE.
DR. H. H. GREEN & SONS,
Specialists for Eleven Years Past,
Have treated Dropsy and its complications with the most wonderful success; use vegetable remedies, entirely harmless. Removes all symptoms of dropsy in eight to twenty days.
Cure patients pronounced hopeless by the best of physicians.
From the first dose the symptoms rapidly disappear, and in ten days at least two-thirds of all symptoms are removed.
Some may cry humbug without knowing anything about it. Remember, it does not cost you anything to realize the merits of our treatment for yourself. In ten days the difficulty of breathing is relieved, the pulse regular, the urinary organs made to discharge their full duty, sleep is restored, the swelling all or nearly gone, the strength increased, and appetite made good. We are constantly curing cases of long standing, cases that have been tapped a number of times, and the patient declared unable to live a week. Give full history of case. Name sex, how long afflicted, how badly swollen and where, are bowels costive, have legs bursted and dripped water. Send for free pamphlet, containing testimonials, questions, etc.
Ten days' treatment furnished free by mail.
Epilepsy (fits) positively cured.
If you order trial, send 10 cents in stamps to pay postage. H. H. GREEN & SONS, M. Ds., 55 Jones Avenue, Atlanta, Ga.

Scrofula of Lungs.
I am now 49 years old, and have suffered for the last fifteen years with a lung trouble. I have spent thousands of dollars to arrest the march of this disease; but temporary relief was all that I obtained. I was unfit for any manual labor for several years. A friend strongly recommended the use of Swift's Specific (S. S. S.), claiming that he himself had been greatly benefited by its use in some lung troubles. I resolved to try it. The results are remarkable. My cough has left me, my strength has returned, and I weigh sixty pounds more than I ever did in my life. It has been three years since I stopped the use of the medicine, but I have had no return of the disease, and there are no pains or weakness felt in my lungs. I do the hardest kind of work. T. J. HOLT.
Montgomery, Ala., June 25, 1885.
Swift's Specific is entirely vegetable. Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed free.
THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Drawer 3, Atlanta, Ga., or 157 W. 23d Street, N. Y.

FREE FARMS IN SUNNY SAN LUIS.
The most Wonderful Agricultural Park in America. Surrounded by prosperous mining and manufacturing towns. FARMER'S PARADISE! Magnificent crops raised in 1885. THOUSANDS OF ACRES OF GOVERNMENT LAND, subject to pre-emption & homestead. Lands for sale to actual settlers at $3.00 per Acre. Long Time. Park irrigated by immense canals. Cheap railroad rates. Every attention shown settlers. For maps, pamphlets, etc., address COLORADO LAND & LOAN CO., Opera House Block, Denver, Colo. Box, 2390.

I CURE FITS!
When I say cure I do not mean merely to stop them for a time and then have them return again, I mean a radical cure. I have made the disease of FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS a life long study. I warrant my remedy to cure the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a Free Bottle of my infallible remedy. Give Express and Post Office. It costs you nothing for a trial, and I will cure you.
Address Dr. H. G. ROOT, 183 Pearl St., New York.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is the Best, Easiest to Use, and Cheapest.
CATARRH
Also good for Cold in the Head, Headache, Hay Fever, &c. 50 cents.

SOLDIERS NEW LAWS; Officers' pay from commissions; Deserters relieved; Pensions and increase; experience 20 years; success or no fee. Write for circulars and laws. A. W. McCORMICK & SON, Cincinnati, Ohio.

DYKE'S BEARD ELIXIR
Before After Before After
Smith Mfg. Co., Palatine, Ills.

FINE Blooded Cattle, Sheep, Hogs, Poultry, dogs for sale. Catalogues with 150 engravings free. N. P. Boyer & Co., Coatesville, Pa.

A.N.K.—E. 1078

MARCH, APRIL, MAY
Are the three arches of a bridge which bind the season of ice to that of roses. SPRING IS A TRYING TIME for invalids. At this time you should seek to cleanse and purify your system from humors. If you are vexed with indigestion, headache, want of appetite, disordered liver and kidneys, constipation, or feverish skin, take DR. D. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY to
PURIFY THE BLOOD
Without an hour's delay. It is mild, quick and positive in action. Keep it in the house when you are at home, for the blood, and take it with you on journeys. You will find it cheaper than sickness, and as pleasant to take as the hand of a friend. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to the sex, FAVORITE REMEDY proves a real blessing.
DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S "FAVORITE REMEDY." SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS. $1 per Bottle; 6 for $5.00.
MADE BY DR. DAVID KENNEDY, RONDOUT, N. Y.

CHEAPEST and BEST. Prices REDUCED.
Holman's New PARALLEL BIBLES!
Over 2 000 pages. Fully Illustrated. Agents Wanted. Circulars free. A. J. HOLMAN & CO., Phila.

Purify Your Blood
Your blood may be full of impurities, but Hood's Sarsaparilla will thoroughly cleanse, enrich and vitalize it. The most severe cases of scrofula, salt rheum, boils, pimples—in fact, all affections arising from impure blood—yield to Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier. It also cures dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache, kidney and liver complaints, sharpens the appetite and builds up the whole system.
Henry Biggs, Campbell Street, Kansas City, had scrofulous sores all over his body for 15 years. Hood's Sarsaparilla completely cured him.
"I was troubled with boils, having several of them at a time. After suffering about all I could bear, I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, which entirely cured me. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to all like afflicted, being sure they will find permanent relief." E. N. NIGHTINGALE, Quincy, Mass.
Wallace Buck, of North Bloomfield, N. Y., suffered eleven years with a terrible varicose ulcer on his leg, so bad that he had to give up business. He was entirely cured of the ulcer, and also of catarrh, by Hood's Sarsaparilla.
Hood's Sarsaparilla
Is the best spring medicine and blood purifier. It eradicates every impurity from the blood, and cures scrofula, salt rheum, boils, pimples, all humors, dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache, indigestion, general debility, catarrh, rheumatism, kidney and liver complaints. It overcomes that extreme tired feeling, creates an appetite, and builds up the whole system.
Purifies the Blood
"When I bought Hood's Sarsaparilla I made a good investment of one dollar in medicine for the first time. It has driven off rheumatism and improved my appetite so much that my boarding mistress says I must keep it locked up or she will be obliged to raise my board with every other boarder that takes Hood's Sarsaparilla." THOMAS BURRELL, 99 Tillary Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Hood's Sarsaparilla
Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.
100 Doses One Dollar
Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.
100 Doses One Dollar

LIST OF DISEASES
ALWAYS CURABLE BY USING
MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT.
OF HUMAN FLESH. Rheumatism, Burns and Scalds, Stings and Bites, Cuts and Bruises, Sprains & Stitches, Contracted Muscles, Stiff Joints, Backache, Eruptions, Frost Bites,
OF ANIMALS. Scratches, Sores and Galls, Spavin, Cracks, Screw Worm, Grub, Foot Rot, Hoof Ail, Lameness, Swinny, Founders, Sprains, Strains, Sore Feet, Stiffness, and all external diseases, and every hurt or accident. For general use in family, stable and stock-yard, it is THE BEST OF ALL
LINIMENTS

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOLUME XI. BURLINGTON, KY., WEDNESDAY, APRIL 21, 1886. NUMBER 24.

VANDERBILT CLINIC.

Heirs of the Millionaire Promote His Intentions

To Make New York a Great Medical Center of this Country.

NEW YORK, April 16.—When Wm. H. Vanderbilt gave $500,000 to the College of Physicians and Surgeons, October 17, 1884, he had an exceedingly clear and practical idea of what should be done to make New York the medical center of this country and put it on an equal in point of facilities with institutions of Europe. A part only of his plan was developed in his lifetime. His gifts to the above named college were restricted to the purchase of 29 lots in Tenth avenue. These cost $200,000. The remaining $300,000 was to be expended in putting up the main college building. Mr. Vanderbilt's scheme was a large one, and he kept most of the details to himself as to what he intended to do for the College of Physicians and Surgeons, yet he at times let his plans be known in a general way to his family. They became interested in the work that he had entered on, the carrying out of which seemed to please him greatly. In a short time Mrs. William D. Sloane, one of the daughters, gave to the college handsome gifts of money, to be used in erecting a maternity hospital, which is to be free to all, no matter what the condition of the patient. At a meeting of the board of trustees, Thursday evening, it was announced that Cornelius, Wm. K., Fred. W. and George, the sons of Wm. H., had decided, if the trustees would consent, to put up a building on the corner opposite to where the Maternity is being erected, to be known as the Vanderbilt Clinic. They each gave $62,500 for this purpose. It is needless to say that the trustees promptly gave their consent to have this building put up. As the title to the land is vested in the trustees it was necessary to secure their formal consent. According to the plan proposed, a building is to be put up at a cost of $50,000. The remaining $200,000 is to be invested as an endowment fund in the hands of suitable trustees, and the income, it is expected, will keep the clinic in working order for all time. Mr. Vanderbilt's sons are to put up this building, the college having nothing to do with it. When it is completed and equipped it will be turned over to the college.

DEATH AT THE FEAST.

Ten Persons at a Wedding Party Killed by the Cyclone.

RICE STATION, MINN., April 16.—The fatal ending of the wedding party, near this village forms one of the saddest features of the wholesale destruction of life and property wrought in this section by Tuesday night's cyclone. The party was assembled at the residence of John Schutz, a farmer, to celebrate the wedding of his daughter Mamie, and the ceremony was performed about 1 o'clock by Rev. Gustavus Smith. The afternoon was spent in social enjoyment, and at 4 o'clock the party gathered about the wedding feast. It was a happy assemblage of nearly forty people celebrating the bridal festivities for the favorite daughter of the house. The cyclone came, and in the space of five minutes the house was converted into kindling wood, and scattered all over the farm. Of the happy party a few minutes before 16 were corpses, and many others injured, several of whom will die. There was not a building in which the survivors could care for those not past help. The bridegroom was killed outright, but the bride was only slightly injured. The neighbors who had escaped the fury of the cyclone, came to the rescue, and the bodies of the dead were taken to the school house at Rice Station.

Epitome of Gladstone's Bill.

LONDON, April 16.—Following is the text of Gladstone's bill for the better government of Ireland: "It debars the proposed Irish Parliament from legislating concerning the status, dignity or succession of the Crown; from passing laws effecting peace or war, the army or navy, the militia or volunteers, or the defense of the realms, and from taking any action concerning the foreign or colonial relations of the Empire. Among the other subjects placed beyond the power of the Irish Government to deal with are dignities, titles and honors; prizes and booties of war; offenses against the law of nations; treason and alienage; navigation, copyright, patents, mails, telegraphs, coinage and weights and measures. The bill further prohibits Ireland from doing any thing to establish or endow any religion, or to disturb or confer any privileges on account of religious belief; and also forbids it to impose customs or excise duties. The Queen is given the same prerogative to summon, prorogue and dissolve the Irish Legislature as she has with respect to the Imperial Parliament. To her Majesty also is reserved the power to erect forts, arsenals, magazines and dockyards. The Irish Legislature is permitted to impose taxes to be paid into the consolidated fund to defray the expenses of the public service in Ireland, subject to the provisions of the Irish land purchase bill; but is not to either raise or appropriate revenues without the Queen's recommendation made through the Lord Lieutenant. The church property in Ireland is to belong to the Irish people, subject to existing charges. The Executive Government of Ireland is vested by the Queen in a Lord Lieutenant, who will govern with the aid of such officers and councils as the Queen may appoint, and will give or withhold the Queen's assent to such bills as the Irish Legislature may pass.

Discomfort of Riches.

NEW YORK, April 16.—The arrest of a Japanese young man who imagined that a daughter of the late Wm. H. Vanderbilt favorably regarded him in the light of a lover, and wildly sought her throughout his boarding-house, leads to the discovery that the residences of the Vanderbilts, the Astors and Jay Gould are constantly guarded against cranks by private detectives. The private service for the protection of the Vanderbilts, Astors and Gould was organized three years ago, and is ostensibly separate for each family, though the man who defend the Vanderbilts and Astors are provided by the same establishment, and practically work together. Regular patrol duty is done, night and day, and twenty detectives are exclusively employed for the purpose. There are four Astor residences and five belonging to the Vanderbilts, all in or close to Fifth avenue, between Thirty-third and Fifty-second streets. The spies are on watch eight hours each per day, and the beats are so arranged that the nine houses can not be approached unseen by one or more of the guardsmen. Wm. H. Vanderbilt was the originator of this system, and he was incited to it by the large number of cranky letters which he received.

A Week's Failures.

NEW YORK, April 16.—The business failures occurring throughout the country during the last seven days, number, for the United States, 155, and for Canada, 27, or a total of 182 as compared with 215 last week and 214 the week previous to the last. The decrease, as compared with previous weeks, is considerable, and is about equally distributed throughout the country.

Missed the Can but Hit the Coachman.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Dr. Thomas S. Taylor, a wealthy resident of Merrick, L. I., and an expert marksman, in attempting to shoot a tomato can from his coachman's head put a bullet through his brain.

Sixty Cases of Cholera.

ROME, April 16.—Sixty cases of cholera are reported at Brindisi, with several deaths, of which three are certainly from Asiatic cholera.

PARIS, April 16.—The development of cholera at Brindisi causes alarm in France, particularly along the Italian frontier. Precautions of the most stringent kind are being instituted to prevent the scourge from invading France.

ALEXANDRIA, April 16.—A quarantine of seven days has been ordered against all arrivals here from Brindisi, Vanios and Ancona.

Want Shorter Hours for Study.

ST. LOUIS, April 16.—Children in three St. Louis schools threaten to strike for longer recesses and shorter hours of study.

POWDERLY'S APPEAL.

All Knights of Labor Called Upon to Peculiarly Assist the Southwest Strikers—The War Not on Capital But on Jay Gould and Monopoly.

PHILADELPHIA, April 15.—General Master Workman Powderly, of the Knights of Labor, to-day addressed the following circular to members of the order:

Noble Order of Knights of Labor of America—To the Order Wherever Found—Greeting: You have all read of the great strike on the Gould lines of railway in the Southwest. Its history is being written day by day. It makes but little difference now whether the men of the Southwest acted wisely or not. Let us pass that part of the affair over, for it, too, has passed into history. The General Executive Board of the Order attempted to settle the trouble and restore harmony; agreements were made by them with Jay Gould, Esq., but when the Board reached St. Louis Mr. Hoxie would not treat with them. Not that alone, but he positively refused to employ Knights of Labor, whether they had been active in the strike or not. It now becomes the part of every man and woman in the order to take up the fight of the Southwest and assist them to the full extent of their means. They have been idle for nearly two months. They have had a most trying ordeal to go through and are in need of funds. It requires no eloquence or rhetoric to plead the cause of these suffering people. They require aid, and it becomes our duty to extend that aid as quickly as possible for us to do so. Send every dollar you can spare to the general secretary and treasurer, who will at once forward it to the men at St. Louis for distribution. Remember, the men out there do not ask for charity. They do not ask at all. It is your executive board that makes the appeal in their behalf. He who gives quickly gives double. Act at once. Another appeal may be sent to you and we ask of you to prepare for it now. We must be judged by our actions in this matter. Do not pass resolutions condemning capital, for we are not fighting capital. Do not antagonize the contest we have before us. Let us make a friend of every man who has suffered through monopoly. This battle against the man who represents monopoly must be fought out manfully. Watch his actions everywhere. Keep an eye on the doings of Congress. Urge the committee that has been appointed to do its duty fearlessly. Strengthen their hands; give them every aid. In conclusion let us again ask that you send at once every dollar you can at present raise to uphold the men who are now out along the lines of the Southwest system of Gould's railway. Do not delay, and at the same time make ready to bring the whole power ready to bear upon the man who wrecks railroads, homes, fortunes and lives in his greed for gold. Let us determine to have it go into history that the men of 1886 struck as grand a blow for liberty as the men of 1776. The men of 1776 broke the power of monarchy and dethroned the king. The power which they wrested from the hands of a king was not so great as that which is now held by one man who, through the corrupt use of money, has brought manufacturer and workman to ruin. The power of the king has passed away. The power of wealth is passing away, and it must now be determined whether man shall rule or whether wealth shall rule.

T. V. POWDERLY,
General Master Workman.

The Mighty Wind.

ST. PAUL, MINN., April 15.—The reports of the cyclone at St. Cloud, Sauk Rapids, Rice Station and other points in the vicinity last night and early this morning were not exaggerated. At 3 o'clock this morning, in the places named, there were forty-nine dead and nearly two hundred injured, with many still missing, whose bodies will probably be recovered to-day. Just enough houses are left in Sauk Rapids to form a fringe around the village limits. The debris is not piled in heaps, but scattered far and wide. The sign "Sauk Rapids" in the Manitoba Depot, and a basketful of books were found in Rice Station, fifteen miles distant. This shows the terrible power of the storm. No reports have yet been received from outlying districts, where it is believed great destruction of property and loss of life have been wrought. The storm extended from Jamestown, Dak., through Minnesota, and into Wisconsin, though its most disastrous effects are to be found in the three places first named.

Another Telephone Invention.

CHICAGO, April 15.—Cornelius Spillane, of this city, has invented a device for telephoning between moving trains and railroad stations. The invention is an extremely simple affair, consisting of a circuit wire resting on an insulated slab between the railway tracks. On this wire rests a circuit rod, made of a strip of metal, having attached to it a movable metal roller, making continuous connection with all stations and all trains on the line of the route. The return circuit is gained by means of a rail, wheel and axle and through the framework of the engineer's cab to the telephone. The wire runs through the train, connecting all the cars, so that conversation can be kept up from all parts of the train to all stations on the road and between all other trains on the line.

Edmunds Surprises His Friends.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—In response to an attack on the President in secret session by Senator Sherman for refusing information as to the causes of the removal of Republican office-holders, it is said Senator Edmunds, to the surprise of his Republican friends, defended Cleveland, declaring the soldier-talk business played out, and that the President had the right to remove such men as he pleased.

Removed for Cruelty to Soldiers' Orphans

HARRISBURG, PA., April 15.—Governor Pattison to-day demanded the resignation of Rev. R. E. Higbee, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and removed Rev. J. W. Sayres and Mrs. E. E. Hutter, inspector and assistant inspector of Soldiers' Orphans' Schools, for gross mismanagement of the schools, and neglect and cruelty to the scholars.

Deputy Marshal Assassinated.

FT. SMITH, ARK., April 15.—Deputy Marshal Wm. Erwin was assassinated in the Choctaw Nation Tuesday evening. He had arrested and was returning to this city with Felix Griffin, a noted outlaw, charged with highway robbery and horse-stealing, when he was set upon by two men, who released the captive and shot and instantly killed Erwin.

Crusade Against the Classical Nude.

MONTREAL, April 15.—The authorities here have begun a crusade against the nude in art. Action is to be taken against one of the wealthiest gentlemen in the city for keeping in his house copies of the Venus of Milo, the Venus Di Medici, Canovas Venus, Power's Greek Slave, the Laocoon and others.

Blew Out the Gas.

CHICAGO, April 15.—John Ellis, a stockman from Mexico, Mo., was found dead this morning in his room, at the Transit House. He had been asphyxiated, and it was discovered that, on retiring last night, he had blown out the gas.

Just a Cipher Too Many.

MILWAUKEE, April 15.—Through an error in the transmission of a telegram from Racine yesterday, the false announcement went out that J. I. Case had sold his celebrated stallion Phallas to a Minneapolis gentleman for $50,000. The truth is that Phallas Chief, sired by Phallas, was sold by Mr. Case for $5,000.

Schoolboys Strike at Columbus.

COLUMBUS, O., April 15.—The pupils in one of the public school buildings struck for less time in the school room and the police were called upon to enforce the orders of the teachers. Thirteen boys have been suspended and the strike is over.

New Cable Road at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, MO., April 15.—St. Louis cable road was opened to-day for business. Every car was crowded with passengers, and they attracted as much attention along the streets on the line as a circus procession would. The line runs from the corner of Sixth and Locust streets to the north-western suburbs.

Two Men Struck by Lightning.

ST. JOSEPH, MO., April 15.—There was a heavy thunder storm at Louisiana, Mo., at 11 o'clock this morning. Fred Flye and Robert Stewart were struck by lightning at the saw-mill of the Freeman Manufacturing Company. Stewart was instantly killed. Flye is in a precarious condition.

LYNCHINGS.

Lawless Doings of Mobs in Widely Separate Sections.

Three Men Taken From a Kansas Jail and Riddled With Bullets—A Virginia Lynching—Two Mexicans Strung Up.

ANTHONY, KAN., April 19.—About two months ago a fight occurred in the village of Danville, near this place, between three brothers named Weaver and a man named Adel Shaarar. The latter was fatally wounded, and the Weaver boys were arrested and hurried away to avoid mob violence. Last week they were returned for trial, but their cases were continued for the term, with bail fixed at $10,000 each. At 1 o'clock this morning a mob of forty or more armed men surrounded the residence of the sheriff, where the prisoners were under guard. The guard hearing them rushed the prisoners out of the back door and into the basement of the new school building. The sheriff was taken prisoner by the mob and guarded. The deputies, finding it useless to resist, surrendered. The Weaver brothers defended themselves in their struggle for life with a revolver, which they had taken from one of the deputies. They were finally overpowered by the mob and disarmed. Ropes were placed about their necks and preparations were made to hang them to the rafters, but the trample of approaching feet frightened the mob so they fired fifteen or twenty shots into each man, literally shooting them to pieces, and mounting their horses rode rapidly away. The mother of the boys and the wife of one of them witnessed the entire tragedy.

DANVILLE, VA., April 19.—On Sunday near Axton a negro named Kellis Moorman, by a forged note, induced Mike Mahone, a white man, to go to a neighboring house to play a game of cards. Mahone took a small sum of money with him, and on the way Moorman knocked Mahone down and robbed him. Mahone was badly stunned, but recovered sufficiently to tell what had happened. A party of men soon captured Moorman and lynched him last night. Mahone's injuries are thought to be fatal.

CORPUS CHRISTI, April 19.—Of late several rancheros residing along Los Alamos Creek have suffered heavy losses at the hands of horse thieves. The ranchmen started out last night in a body, rounded up two Mexican thieves and hung them to the nearest tree. The sheriff left here this afternoon to investigate the affair.

New Yorkers Hoofing It.

NEW YORK, April 19.—All the street-car lines in the city, except the Eighth and Ninth-avenue lines, were tied up to-day by order of the Executive Board of the Empire Association. The order is out of sympathy with the Third-avenue men, who are on a strike. The board claims that all the street railway presidents are in league with the Third-avenue line and that they mean to defeat the strikers on each line consecutively. The board means to fight it out to the end. The employes of the Dry Dock Line state that they left work because they were ordered to do so by the committee and not because they had any grievances. The Forty-second Street Line men stopped for the same reason. In fact, the men on none of the lines, with the exception of the Third-avenue Line, have any complaints to make in regard to their hours or pay. The general tie-up was ordered so as to force the directors of the Third-avenue line to yield to the demand of the strikers. The men ordered out on a number of the lines feel very bitter over the action of the committee in stopping all cars and state that this general tie-up business is being run into the ground.

A Cholera Scare.

LONDON, April 19.—There is a general cholera scare throughout Southern Europe; and it is extending to England. The Lancet and other medical journals implore the authorities of every British seaport to lose no time in putting their towns in the best possible condition of sanitary defense, and seeing that their quarantine service is vigilant and effective. They say it is morally certain that the cholera will be brought to the doors of these towns during the next few days or weeks, and that the terrible responsibility rests upon the health authorities of admitting or repelling the scourge.

Newsboys Strike.

DETROIT, MICH., April 19.—The afternoon newsboys to-day struck on the Evening News of this city, demanding two papers for a cent instead of one as heretofore. There are about 100 of the boys in front of the News office and they have acted like their elders when any one attempted to take out papers. The boy so doing was set upon and beaten and his papers torn to pieces. Few papers are being sold except from the office. The Journal is free from the trouble.

Cheated the Gallows.

NEW YORK, April 19.—John Carpenter, who murdered his wife in a Third avenue saloon at the corner of Twenty-sixth street two years ago, and who has been confined in the tombs under sentence of death, this morning killed himself in his cell by cutting open his jugular vein and the veins in his arm. Carpenter made two unsuccessful attempts to end his life before. He was fifty years of age.

Gold for Europe.

NEW YORK, April 19.—A shipment of $20,000 gold bars to Europe was made on Saturday, but it excited little comment in Wall street. Yesterday the engagements at the assay office amounted to $1,000,000. The shipments, it is understood, are destined for Paris and the continent. The resumption of the export movement in the present condition of the foreign exchange market was regarded with some surprise.

Miss Folsom Coming Home.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Miss Frances S. Folsom, of Buffalo, of whose engagement with President Cleveland there has been so much talk, has taken passage for America. She and her mother and brother will sail on May 18. The report that she is to be married at the White House in June is again revived.

Imperiled Nuns.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Advices just received from Montreal state that the nuns on St. Paul's Island, opposite that city, are in a very precarious condition on account of the flood. They are obliged to take refuge in the attic of the buildings, and the blockade of ice renders all access to them impossible.

—Emptying vacant houses of their furniture in broad daylight is one of the most successful methods of modern thievery. Several country seats in New Jersey belonging to New Yorkers have been stripped in this manner, and when the astonished owners asked the neighbors if they did not see it, the reply was: "Yes, certainly; but they said they were your carts sent to carry the things away, and, of course, we thought it all right." The boldness of this act disarms suspicion.—N. Y. Tribune.

—Minister's wife (looking over the paper)—"You are referred in this morning's paper, my dear, as 'a distinguished clergyman.'" Minister—"H'm. I thought that my sermon yesterday would attract attention. It is published in full or only a synopsis given?" Wife—"Neither. You are spoken of as a 'distinguished clergyman' in connection with that patent medicine testimonial you sent Dr. Quack."—N. Y. Mail.

—The cat, horse and birds have a third eyelid, which is used to protect the eye from too much light. Man has a third eye-lid in the corner of the eye which is undeveloped.—N. Y. Mail.

PLAN TO BOYCOTT GOULD

By Shutting Off Shipments of Manufactured Goods From His Roads.

ST. LOUIS, April 18.—It has transpired here that a scheme is on foot to boycott the Gould railroad through Eastern manufacturers. District Assembly No. 30 Knights of Labor, with headquarters in Boston, embraces about 300 local assemblies with a membership of some 40,000 shoe and cotton workers. Large quantities of the articles made in the territory covered by these assemblies are shipped to points on the Gould system, and the plan is to notify all manufacturers to stop shipping their goods over those roads. There is to be a meeting of District Assembly No. 30 at Boston this week to discuss this matter, and if the plan is decided upon and the manufacturers refuse to accede to the demands of the assembly, a strike will probably be ordered of the workers in the territory named. A representative of this District Assembly has been in consultation with the general executive and local committees here, and will report to the Boston meeting what he has learned as the situation here and in the Southwest. It is also said that District Assemblies 77 and 78, which include the shoe and cotton workers in Maine, New Hampshire and Massachusetts, will hold meetings immediately after the Boston Assembly, and it is thought possible that they will pursue the same course decided upon by that body.

A RASCALLY SERVANT.

Saved From the Penitentiary by His Employer Only to Rob Him a Second Time.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Dr. Louis Sheffield, of 26 West Thirty-second street, hired a year ago Arthur Williamson, a good-looking young colored man, as a servant. Last August when he went to Saratoga he took Williamson along. There Williamson stole a suit of clothes from a fellow servant and started off for Albany with Dr. Sheffield's team. He was arrested, and on the complaint of the owner of the team was sentenced to a year's imprisonment in the Albany Penitentiary. Dr. Sheffield, who thought he had reformed, procured his pardon from Governor Hill and took him into his service again. Last week Mrs. Sheffield became very ill, and was removed to an up-town sanitarium for treatment. The doctor was called away to Philadelphia, and Williamson and another servant were left in charge of the house. On Wednesday night Williamson packed about $3,000 worth of valuables into a Saratoga trunk and a hamper, and, loading them on a cab, drove off with them. He stopped, also, at the Sanitarium and got Mrs. Sheffield's sealskin dolman, which he said the doctor had sent him for. Detectives traced Williamson to the Cosmopolitan Hotel in this city, where they found all of the stolen goods in his room except the dolman and a fur coat belonging to Dr. Sheffield. Williamson was remanded to-day.

A GREAT CATASTROPHE.

Hundreds of People Lost by a Fire in a Gallician Town.

VIENNA, April 18.—The town of Stry, in Galicia, has been almost completely destroyed by fire. The number of houses burned is about 600. Many persons were killed. The inhabitants are destitute. A high wind was blowing, and the fire started in several parts of the town about the same time. One hundred persons were killed in one street by falling walls. The town hall, the railway station and the telegraph office were destroyed. A large number of wounded were sent to Lemborg, a distance of two miles, where the hospitals are crowded with the sufferers. Hundreds of persons are missing. Lack of water rendered aid by the military futile. Money and food are being collected in the surrounding towns for the relief of the sufferers.

Sorrowful Story.

FALL RIVER, MASS., April 18.—Twelve years ago Mrs. John H. Cook lost the last of seven children. Her bereavement unsettled her mind. Since then she has lived with her husband at No. 8 Radway street. She spends much time wandering about the streets seeking her dead children. One of her delusions is that the children are concealed within the walls of the house, and she frequently conceals food under the floor for them. To-day the authorities investigated her condition. Considerable food was found concealed beneath the floor, the odor from which was very unpleasant. The woman will probably be sent to the asylum.

On to Washington.

SCRANTON, PA., April 18.—Mr. Powderly will go to Washington to-morrow to testify before the Special Congressional Committee inquiring into the strike on Gould's Southwestern railroads. Mr. Griffith, of Chicago, General Worthy Foreman, next in authority to Mr. Powderly, came here yesterday, and will also go to Washington to give testimony. When Mr. Powderly leaves Washington he will go to Philadelphia, where he will establish headquarters, and probably remain there until the expiration of his term on January 1 next.

Punishment for Insulting a Lady.

WASSON, TENN., April 18.—Wm. and Dan. Kent met Miss Soards, a respectable young lady, on the street yesterday and insulted her. She told her brother Lewis, aged seventeen, about the affair. He seized a shotgun and went in pursuit of the Kents. When he came upon them he emptied a barrel into each of the young men. Dan. was mortally wounded, while the other will have to suffer the amputation of his left arm. The boy was placed in jail.

Sam Jones Can Have Revenge.

NASHVILLE, TENN., April 18.—A Waco, Tex., special says: A white man named Tobe Jackson was arrested near Reagan, Falls County, and brought here to-day. Jackson is wanted in Barton County, Ga., to answer to the charge of blowing up the residence of the Judge of that county, and the house of the evangelist, Sam Jones with dynamite.

A Can of Carbon Oil.

PITTSBURGH, PA., April 18.—This afternoon Michael Clowley, living on Pius street, South Side, attempted to light a fire with the aid of a can of carbon oil. The oil exploded, and set fire to the house, and, owing to the lack of water, five dwellings were totally destroyed before the firemen could gain control of the flames. Loss, $16,000; insurance small.

The Street-Car Bill a Law.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 18.—The New York Legislature has passed a bill, which the Governor has signed, making twelve hours a day's work on all horse-cars in New York and Brooklyn.

Tornado and Frost Predicted.

LEAVENWORTH, KAS., April 18.—Prof. Foster will say in to-morrow's Times that during the great storm period from April 25 to 29, a hurricane will organize on or near the Gulf, and sweep up the Southeast Atlantic Coast, and that about the same time a cold wave will appear in the Northwest and run down into the Southern States followed by heavy frosts as far south as Tennessee and Southern Kansas.

Killed by Lightning.

NEW CASTLE, PA., April 18.—Two ladies standing in a doorway of a house eight miles from here, were struck by lightning and killed.

Accident in an Iron Works.

PITTSBURGH, PA., April 18.—A mold containing over one thousand pounds of molten metal, in the iron works of Singer, Nimick & Co., burst, scattering the metal in every direction, and burning twenty bystanders dangerously. Thirty other were injured.

Aged Couple Cremated.

XENIA, O., April 18.—The remains of Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Douthett were found in the ruins of their burned dwelling, near here. Charles Morris, a colored farmhand, has been arrested on suspicion of murdering and robbing the aged couple and burning the building to hide the crime.

XLIXTH CONGRESS.

First Session.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—SENATE.—A number of bills were introduced. Mr. Platt took the floor on his resolution relating to open executive sessions, and spoke at length. Mr. Butler obtained consent to speak to-morrow. Mr. Logan will follow. A House bill was passed authorizing the delivery to the owners of certain classes of property captured in the late war. The fisheries resolution was then taken up, and, after considerable debate, voted upon. It was agreed to—yeas 35, nays 10. The resolution declares it to be the sense of the Senate that Congress should not provide for any joint commission to consider and settle the fisheries question.

HOUSE.—In the House the Hurd-Romeis case was called up. A number of speeches consumed the time up to 5 o'clock, when the House adjourned.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—SENATE.—A letter from Mr. Jackson was read informing the body of his acceptance of the U. S. Judgeship of the Sixth District. A memorial of the wool-growers' convention at St. Louis was presented. A bill was passed for the construction of a light ship for the entrance to the Chesapeake Bay. Mr. Butler addressed the Senate on open executive sessions. Mr. Logan gave notice of his intention to speak. Mr. Riddleberger offered a substitute for the pending resolution excepting treaties from open consideration. Blair's bill to pension disabled soldiers, who had served six months in the army, was taken up, but it went over. The Inter State commerce bill was taken up, Senator Cullom and Palmer speaking. At 4:12 the Senate went into executive session, and adjourned at 5:30 p. m.

HOUSE.—A resolution was reported giving priority to bills reported from the Committee on Public Lands. The Hurd-Romeis case was taken up. Speeches were made by Hall (Ia.), Ely (Mass.), Green (N. C.), Pettiboue, Breckinridge, Hurd and Tucker (Ga.) The majority resolutions confirming Mr. Romeis' right to his seat were agreed to without division, after a yea and nay vote on the minority resolutions declaring that Romeis' was not elected. The roll call showed yeas 105, nays 168. The agricultural appropriation bill was passed. The river and harbor appropriation bill was the unfinished business when the House adjourned.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—SENATE.—A memorial was presented asking for an appropriation for the dedication of the Saratoga monument. Mr. Logan took the floor in support of the resolution for open executive sessions. Mr. Riddleberger followed. The pension bill was called up, but after a short debate went over for executive session.

HOUSE.—Under the call of committees, bills were reported prohibiting book-making, pool selling and lottery advertisements in the District of Columbia; accepting from Mrs. Grant and W. H. Vanderbilt certain objects of art presented to the late General U. S. Grant; establishing a commission to report on certain manuscripts of supposed historical value; amending the statutes relating to yachts; regulating the presidential count; to establish a Sub-Treasury at Louisville, Ky.; authorizing the President to arrange a conference for the promotion of commercial relations between the United States and South and Central America; granting right of way to the B. & O. R. R. through Government reservations in Philadelphia; for the organization of the Territory of Oklahoma; authorizing an investigation of the books and accounts of the Pacific railroads; repealing the preemption, timber culture, and desert land laws. An adverse report was made on a memorial for the impeachment of U. S. Circuit Judge Nelson, of Massachusetts. A bill was passed amending Section 3336 of the Revised Statutes for the regulation of brewers. Pending action on a bill to authorize the establishment of tobacco manufactures and for drawbacks on imported articles used in the manufacture of exported tobacco, the morning hour expired. The river and harbor appropriation bill was taken up and considered until adjournment at 5 p. m.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—SENATE.—Bills to relieve political disabilities were passed. Mr. Riddleberger tried to have the open executive session resolution considered, but he was antagonized by Mr. Dolph with the Indian depredation bill. The Senate by a vote of 43 to 1, took up the Indian depredation bill. After remarks by several Senators the bill was referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs. The inter-State commerce bill was taken up. After a speech by Mr. Camden, the Senate went into executive session at 3:10 p. m., and adjourned at 5 p. m. until Monday.

HOUSE.—A Senate bill was passed, providing for the appointment of a commission to report the value of certain property in Chicago needed for Government purposes. The fisheries question was discussed on a resolution of inquiry reported back from the Committee on Foreign Affairs and adopted. The river and harbor bill was put aside for private bills, the regular order for Friday. At the conclusion of the call of committees, the private calendar was taken up. The first bill was for the relief of the McMinnville and Manchester Railroad Company of Tennessee. It was finally reported to the House, but not definitely disposed of, and at 4:40 p. m. the House took a recess until 7:30 p. m. At the night session, forty-five pension bills were passed. The House adjourned at 8:15 p. m.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—SENATE.—Not in session.

HOUSE.—The House spent the day on public buildings of the class costing $25,000 or less. The bill to authorize the establishment of export tobacco manufactories, and for drawback on imported articles used in manufacturing export tobacco, was passed.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Executive communications were received. A bill was passed for the erection of a fire-proof hall of records in Washington. After some routine business the Senate went into executive session at 12:40 p. m. for the further consideration of the Mexican Weil and L'Abra treaty. A vote will be reached to-morrow. Adjourned p. m.

HOUSE.—A number of bills and resolutions were introduced under the call of States. A resolution making the bill to increase the naval establishment a continuing special order from April 22 to April 27, was lost. A bill was passed extending the immediate delivery system by establishing it within the carrier delivery limit of any free delivery office and within one mile of any other post-office the Postmaster General may designate. The following measures were then passed: providing for the sale of the Cherokee Reservation in the State of Arkansas; resolution fixing May 27 and 29 for the consideration of business from the Indian Commission. Resolutions setting apart the 1st and 8th of May for Territorial Commission business. Mr. Murphy (Ia.), endeavored to have May 6 set apart for the consideration of the Hennepin Canal bill. Lost—yeas 112, nays 103; not two-thirds. A motion to suspend the rules and fix May 6 for the consideration of public building bills was also lost. A motion to suspend the rules and pass a bill requiring the Northern Pacific Railroad Company to pay the cost of locating and surveying lands granted to that road was pending when the House adjourned at 5:30 p. m.

Foreign Notes.

THE sanitary board of Rome admits that Asiatic cholera has broken out at Brindisi, and has ordered that all arrivals at other Adriatic ports from Brindisi be quarantined one week.

IT is stated that owing to family pressure the King of Bavaria has stopped the building of palaces and is retrenching in every way. He will pay his debts, it is asserted, in yearly instalments of £550,000.

THE Ministry has order the authorities of all the universities in the Prussian Empire to at once adopt means for the immediate and permanent suppression of all forms of political agitation by young students.

THE German Government refuses to recognize the German explorer, Richard, who claims to have acquired territory around Lake Tanganyika equal to half of the area of Germany.

—The largest authenticated snake ever seen was an anaconda, which had swallowed a horse. His length was forty feet, and after his feat of lunch-taking he was indisposed, and was captured by a naturalist who was hunting specimens in the Amazon valley.—Chicago Times.

—Low-ceiled rooms are being advocated in England, not only on account of the more cozy appearance of the room, but because it is believed that better ventilation is afforded through the prevention of an upper strata of irremovable foul air.

—Sugar cultivation has been initiated in Southern Florida. Over two hundred acres have been prepared for the planting of the cane near Kissimmee City, where a sugar factory will be erected.

—Why is it worse for a woman to smoke a pipe, chew tobacco, drink intoxicating liquors or use profane language than for a man to do these things?—N. E. Farmer.

—North Carolina, formerly called South Virginia, was once sold to the King's agent for a house and £200.

THE COMMONWEALTH.

Louisville Leaf Tobacco Market.

We quote 1885 tobaccos as follows for full weights and sound packages:

	Dark and Heavy.	Burley.
Trash	$1 50@ 2 50	$3 25@ 3 75
Common lugs	2 75@ 3 75	4 00@ 5 00
Medium lugs	3 57@ 4 50	5 25@ 5 75
Good lugs	4 50@ 4 75	6 25@ 7 25
Common leaf	5 00@ 5 50	6 50@ 7 00
Medium leaf	5 50@ 6 25	8 50@ 9 75
Good leaf	7 25@ 8 25	10 00@13 00
Selections	9 00@10 50	13 50@15 50
Wrappers	12 00@18 25	16 00@18 00

Proceedings of the Legislature.

FRANKFORT, April 12.—SENATE.—There was not a quorum in the Senate this morning, and that grave body remained in session only fifteen minutes. Senator Kendall offered a bill to prohibit the sale of liquor within ten miles of the State House, at Frankfort HOUSE—Mr. Bullitt's bill prescribing the manner of selling morphine and its preparations was called up and passed. It provides that on and after September 1, 1886, it shall not be lawful for any one to sell it in any other wrapper than scarlet paper or envelope, and it shall have in addition a scarlet label lettered in white letters. Violation of this law is punished by a fine of $10 to $50. The Committee on Public Health reported favorably on the bill to establish boards of health in cities containing ten thousand inhabitants or over. It provides that the board shall consist of six persons, two of whom are to be elected for one year, two for two years, and two for three years, and at least three of the entire number are to be practicing physicians. They are to be elected by the city council, and receive no salary. The bill was passed. It originated in the Senate, and has passed that body. The Committee on Insurance reported favorably on a bill which provides that life insurance agents who do not take out the regular license prescribed by law shall be fined from $50 to $500, or imprisoned in the county jail not more than 60 days. The Committee on Judiciary reported a bill to establish the Nineteenth Judicial District. The bill passed the Senate and placed Estill, Powell, Lee, Clay, Perry, Letcher, Knott and Breathitt Counties in the new district. The bill was recommitted. A bill concerning land titles was reported. It provides that any lands sold to the State of Kentucky or any county for taxes due in any of the years from 1880 to 1886 inclusive, shall be redeemed on payment of the amount due and six per cent. interest on same. It was passed.

FRANKFORT, April 13.—SENATE.—The bill requiring counties to pay for blank books, the expense of which has been heretofore defrayed by the State, was called up and passed. The joint resolution to adjourn April 16, 1886, was called up. Mr. Feland moved that the date be changed to April 16, 1887, and it was adopted. Some of the Senators then thought that the resolution to adjourn in 1887 might not look like a joke, and a motion to reconsider was made. It failed to call out a quorum of voters, and the Senate passed on to other matters. The bill allowing a married woman to dispose of her property absolutely by will was called up and defeated. The bill passed in the House stipulating that the convicts shall not hereafter be worked in the coal mines, was taken up and unanimously passed.

HOUSE.—The bill to make seduction a felony was called up. It passed the House some time ago, and afterward passed the Senate, but the latter added to it one or two unimportant amendments, which were concurred in by the House. The bill to make one convicted of hunting on the inclosed land of another guilty of a misdemeanor, and subject to a fine of $5 to $10, was tabled. The signal service bill was next on the docket. It provides for the establishment of weather service for the State of Kentucky, co-operating with the U. S. Signal Service at Washington, with a central office at Louisville. It was to receive monthly reports, and they were to be published in the newspapers of the State. The sum of $500 was to be appropriated for the expenses, and volunteer weather stations were to be established in the State. The revenue bill was taken up, and a motion to reconsider the Straus bank bill was tabled. Mr. Owens offered an amendment that banks pay seventy-five cents on the $100. It was adopted. Mr. Owen's amendment, in addition to the tax of seventy-five cents on the $100 of capital stock, provides that a tax shall be levied upon all the surplus over and ten per cent. of the capital stock at the same rate as is levied upon real estate, which shall be in full of all tax—County, State and municipal. After disposing of the bank question the House went back to the first clause of the first chapter of the revenue; namely, that fixing an annual tax upon all property, real and personal. In the original bill it is placed at fifty-two cents on the $100. A dozen amendments were offered, fixing the rate on a basis of forty-six to fifty-two cents. Mr. Richardson's amendment fixing the rate at 47 cents was adopted. The rate already provided is 47½ cents. In addition, there is 3½ cents for building the branch penitentiary at Eddyville. Next year, when the revenue bill goes into effect, the tax will be only 47 cents, of which 22 cents go to the common schools, 5 cents to the sinking fund, and 20 cents to ordinary expenses. This was the last clause of the revenue bill, and the previous question on the entire bill was moved and carried. The bill was passed by a vote of 56 to 28.

FRANKFORT, April 14.—SENATE.—Several minor bills were passed. Senator Bush reported a bill from the Judiciary Committee to amend the election laws relative to bribery. The bill so amends the existing law as to permit conviction on the testimony of one witness, but allows defendant to testify. A vote on a resolution offered that the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund at once rescind the contract with the Mason & Foard Company and return the convicts to Frankfort resulted in a tie vote. Speaker Hindman voted against the resolution and defeated it. After defeating Mr. Boles' substitute, the Senate wrangled over the question for half an hour, rejecting several amendments. It finally adjourned, leaving the question still open.

HOUSE.—The House refused to concur in the Senate amendment to the seduction bill by striking out the clause which says it shall be a felony if accomplished under a promise of marriage, and made it a felony under any promise whatever. This was bill day, but no measures of a general nature were offered. The usual number of local and private bills were introduced. As the session draws to an end the number of these bills does not seem to decrease, and from 150 to 200 are offered every week. The whipping-post bill was taken up and discussed. The House then adjourned. The bill will come up to-morrow morning.

FRANKFORT, April 15.—SENATE—The special order (the convict question) was taken up and the vote by which was defeated Mr. Boles' amendment to rescind at once the contract with the Mason & Foard Company and reconsidered, but the amendment was again defeated by a vote of 17 to 14. Mr. J. R. W. Smith's amendment to give the contractors six months' notice was defeated by a vote of 28 to 5. The House resolution was then voted on. It refers the report of the committee sent to Greenwood to the Sinking Fund Commissioners, who are to examine it and report. This resolution was adopted by a vote of 21 to 11, and the motion to reconsider was tabled by a vote of 18 to 14.

FRANKFORT, April 16.—The House bill, incorporating the Louisville and Madison Railroad Company was passed. Little else was done.

HOUSE.—The whipping-post bill was laid on the table, thus killing it. The bill to withdraw the troops from Greenwood was called up. This bill also takes from the Governor the power to order out the militia when he thinks it necessary. Mr. Thompson consumed a few minutes in the defense of his bill. He thought the civil authorities of the county should use the means in their power to suppress trouble, and when that failed they should call upon the State. A motion to lay the bill upon the table was lost. A second motion was made to table the bill, but resulted in a tie—38 to 38.

Miscellaneous Items.

A RAILROAD is proposed to run from Somerset through the counties of Pulaski, Wayne, Clinton, Cumberland and Monroe, thence into Tennessee.

MRS. VIRGINIA C. THOMPSON has been appointed post-mistress at Louisville.

THE celebrated case contesting the will of the late Wm. Workman, which was set for trial at Owingsville, has been satisfactorily compromised. By the terms of the compromise, the estate, amounting to $50,000, is to be equally divided between the Presbyterian Church, to which he had willed all his property, and his relatives.

A NUMBER of people gathered at a house on Clear creek, Bell County, and, becoming engaged in a drunken frolic, got into a general fight. Beth Goodin was found dead, and Wm. Doherty, who it is thought killed Goodin, was lying on the floor with one eye shot out and his nose shot off.

THE Robert Hamilton tobacco factory, Covington, was damaged $75,000 by fire a few days ago.

IN Bell County Elihu Saylor married a sister of Wm. Shell. The couple quarreled, and the woman deserted him. The husband went in search of his wife, accompanied by young Shell, her brother. They found her in Pineville, hid in a smoke-house. Saylor forced her to go with him, and as they started away Shell shot Saylor three times, mortally wounding him.

ANDREW JOHNSON, dairyman, while going through Wathen's distillery, Louisville, fell into a tubfull of hot corn mash. He was half immersed, but was rescued by the employes. His burns are not fatal.

BOOM-LAND.

One east of the sun and due west of the moon, in a region of lights and glooms,
In a place full of sound and of silence lies the faint, far Land of Booms,
Where is stalled the great stud of dark horses which Ambition heedfully grooms.

There talk-geysers spout on forever, and the word-pump never tires;
There himself in the glass of the future the statesman himself covly admires,
While Mount Evarts threatens the plains of speech with sluggish volcanic fires.

All day and all night are heard there the making and breaking of slates,
And the buzzing of bees in the bonnets of professional candidates,
And the neigh of dark horses waiting in the stalls of the mighty Fates.

There wise men feed on the husks of hope and drink of the juice of corn,
And are lulled with lies that reach their souls through the cheating gate of horn,
Till they feel that the nomination's theirs as sure as they are born.

Like the lightnings of midnight the eyes there of Black Jack fitfully gleam;
There, awful and white and majestic, by the verge of the dire talk-stream,
The top of Edmunds hill shines out like a snow-peak seen in a dream.

There Allison, Sherman and Frisbie Hoar pin their ears to the cold, cold ground,
And wait for the sound of the people calling, but no man hears that sound,
For in wild reverberance "Hooray for Blaine!" rings ever fiercely around.

Oh, pity, pity for them who wait for a vision that never looms;
Oh, pity, pity for them who dwell in the faint, far Land of Booms,
For the great Salt river skirts it, and its marge is white with tombs!

—N. Y. Sun

TARDY PATRIOTISM.

The Author of "Uncle Daniel's Story" Counted Disloyal—Interesting Facts from History.

The Star's publication of Logan's novel of the war has set the oldest citizens of Washington to buzzing like so many bees. The air is thick with reminiscence and conjecture. Hoary veterans who were in their prime during the tragic days of 1860–61, but who latterly have withdrawn from active life and mingle with the world only at some rare military re-union, have begun to brush up their recollections of twenty-five years ago. They knew John A. Logan well in those days, and remember him vividly as a rather commonplace man of about forty, or perhaps a year or two less, who was bon camarade in the social recreations of that time, but of no personal or political mark, and giving no promise whatever of the robust and virile individuality he has since developed.

It is proper to say that these men remember him kindly. What puzzles them is the attempt in "Uncle Daniel's" narrative to make Logan a furious Boabdil of Union enthusiasm during the early days of secession. Many of these men were busy at that time organizing for the Union cause. Many became members of the first company mustered into the Federal army for the war—Company A, Washington Light Infantry Battalion. Before that they had known Logan intimately, and what they do not understand now is why, if Logan was such a fervent Union man, he never mentioned the subject to them. It was a time when most men were taking sides; when Congress rang with the fiery outbursts of secession prophets and impassioned appeals of the loyal. The subject was on every tongue. Southerners were resigning and going home, and from beyond the Potomac came sounds of hostile preparation blown on fierce winds of sectional hate.

Every body then knew the South's dread purpose. A hundred thousand tongues of flame were licking at the soldier that held the States together. Wigfall was in New York trying to secure an engraver's establishment to take South and make the Confederate currency. Yancey, Slidell and Toombs had declared the gloomy propaganda of secession. It was the time for loyal hearts to thrill and loyal voices to ring out. Yet these veteran citizens at Washington who knew Logan so closely can not remember that he at any time defined his position, directly or indirectly. They, his erstwhile boon companions, were notoriously organizing a company, but he did not approach them with one word of sympathy or encouragement. He had opportunities without number, but he did not embrace a single one of them.

Your correspondent visited one of these citizens at his house last night, and asked him to review his memories of the winter of '60–'61 so far as John A. Logan formed part of them. "I knew John very well in those days," he said. "We were, you may say, close friends, certainly intimate acquaintances. No; I do not connect him with the Union sentiment during that winter. If he had declared himself I should have known it. If he had said a word in Congress I should have heard it. I am sure of that. But he never opened his mouth. Nobody knew how he stood, only we, his former companions and intimates, took it for granted that he was a Southern sympathizer because he manifested no sympathy with us. He knew we were embarked in the Union cause, but he never told us his heart was with us."

"When was this?"

"All through the winter. He left here after the Congress adjourned, and went back to Illinois. Then, when we heard the stories of the companies being raised in Egypt to go South, we gave Logan up for lost. His name was associated with that movement, you know."

"How did you finally hear of his joining the army?"

"From himself. In May he returned to Washington, and one evening I met him at Brown's Hotel. He came up to me with his old manner, and told me he was going with the Union army at the head of a regiment. I remember how delighted, and yet how surprised I was, for I had certainly thought he was all wrong. But he made a good soldier—a mighty good soldier. I have always thought that the secession of John C. Breckenridge had a good deal to do with deciding the Douglas faction. They couldn't agree on any thing, you see. If Breckenridge had taken part on the Union side, as he really wanted to do, I honestly believe the Douglas crowd would have done the other thing—at least they wouldn't have gone with Breckenridge. But Albert Sydney Johnston persuaded Breckenridge against his will, against his convictions, and he went South. He was a failure there, because his heart was not in it. But I have always thought that act of his had a great deal to do with deciding the crowd Logan was with."—N. Y. Star.

——Senator Edmunds is discovering that his "victory" over the Administration kicks harder than it shoots. When such men as Hoar, Cameron and Conger drop out of the ranks the signs indicate a revival of personal feeling against the Presidential aspirant from Vermont.—Chicago News.

ESSAY ON HEALTH.

A Few Remarks Which Apply to Men Who Work for "Recreation."

It is easy to tell why a man shouldn't die, and in point of fact death is almost always, in public opinion, a curious accident, though the victim have the age of Methuselah. It was a bad cold. It was a little over-exercise. It was some overwork. It was the failure to have work enough. It was every thing that wasn't proper, with a most surprising failure as to the happening of the every thing that should have been. No man dies because he is ready to die and his appointed time has come. Death is a perpetual surprise, and when the spirit of the dead man gets over there—whichever place it may happen to be—it probably calls with unspeakable indignation and much volume of voiceless malediction for the cause of the surprise and the reason of the unprovoked astonishment.

There is a great deal of talk as to the overwork of Daniel Manning and Grover Cleveland. The latter is a man of what is called full habit, as was the former. It is alleged that both should have taken more recreation and that the lesson of Manning should be taken to heart by Cleveland. These are wise words; but, after all, what is recreation? The late Charles Sumner married a beautiful woman at a late hour of his life, and in attending the parties to which she led him experienced such acute pain because of his misplacement and the absence of his books that, according to various accounts, he loomed above the prevailing greatness and fun and gentility like the awful embodiment in small space of an impending epidemic. Mr. Sumner willingly submitted to the divorce for which his wife sued—and no harm to either—and though he died early he lived happy.

Now, men are the creatures of birth as well as the creatures of circumstances. Probably Mr. Manning's best recreation lay in hard work. Few men get such satisfaction from any thing as they get from work well done. There are men who have never been used to the effort necessary to that end, and with them—good fellows, all of them, beyond a doubt, and men worthy of all possible respect—the lighter pleasures are as necessary to life as the blood they carry. But Mr. Manning as one of the light cavalry people would have been as little at home as the artilleryman or the foot soldier. He was studious rather than gay, as is Mr. Cleveland also. Put either of these men under the gay cockade and give him the small sword and the light horse, the dashing mustache and the always uplifted glove, and he would speedily disgrace himself. Give him his work and he has his recreation, and take away his recreation and you take away his life.

There is an old adage to the effect that it is better to wear out than to rust out. There is nothing so pathetic as the spectacle of a man in his prime who has always been used to work trying to live without it. There are few things so ridiculous as the exertions of the man who kills himself in order to make perpetual the health the Almighty has already given him. There is nothing more true than the declaration that man must earn his life by the sweat of his brow—he can never get so rich as to escape that necessity. The physicians are well enough, and rules looking to health are well enough; but every wise man is a law unto himself, knowing the temperament that rules his health better than any physician can; and behold, contrary to all rules and all popular belief, it is life that is the accident and death that is the rule.—N. Y. Graphic.

THE PRESIDENT'S DESK.

Many Subjects that Demand Mr. Cleveland's Attention—His Autograph.

The President's desk in the early morning presents a queer sight. When the Chief Executive lays aside his Havana to go to work, there are upon the table all sorts of things. Papers of every description, pertaining to almost every known subject under the sun, are there, and the writing on the envelopes is a study. People resort to every means to reach the President's ear and eye, and present their claims after their own style. "Personal" is always written on letters addressed to the President, but nearly all of his mail is gone through by Colonel Lamont and the under-secretaries, and the really personal or important letters sifted out and laid on the President's desk, and these are legion. His desk is always neatly arranged in the morning, but it presents a sorry appearance when the day's work is done. The President receives a good many papers from callers during the day, and these he lays on his table. He is a quick worker, and in an hour generally has every thing in order, and a majority of the cases either disposed of entirely or properly referred.

One of the most pleasant yet difficult duties he has to perform is appeasing the autograph craze. Doorkeeper Lœffler generally has a dozen or so autograph albums lying on his table. When the President comes to his office in the morning Lœffler takes in his little load, and if the President appears to be in a good humor he lays them on the table, and the President, with a laugh and some remark about the craze, writes his signature nearly always this way:

Grover Cleveland.
Feb. 27, 1886.

When the books have all been signed Lœffler takes them to his desk and keeps them until they are called for. The President sometimes varies the way of writing his autograph, occasionally following the date by "Executive Mansion" or "White House," but never putting "President" before or after his name. A great many of the autograph books are left by Senators, members and other high officials, but almost every caller has a book in which they want the President's signature. If all these were sent in the labor would keep the President busy for twenty-five hours in the day, but Mr. Lœffler has a way of keeping the people off. The President never refuses to sign his name in the books, as not more than a half dozen at a time are taken in to him, and these only about three days in a week.

Some ladies interested in one of the charitable institutions of this city called on the President a month or so ago and requested that he donate his signature to be voted for at a fair to be given for the benefit of the institution. The President seized a piece of paper, then stopped, and opening a drawer pulled out his check-book, filled it in for a substantial amount, and signed it, giving it to one of the ladies with the remark: "I guess that autograph will do more good."—Washington Post.

THE RECORDER.

WEDNESD'Y, APRIL 21, 1886.

RIDDELL & HALL,
Proprietors.

Rates of Subscription.
One year.....$1 50
Six months.....75
Three months.....40
☞Payment invariably in advance.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1 Column	1 year	$80
1	½ ''	40
1	¼ ''	20
½ ''	1 ''	20
½ ''	½ ''	10
½ ''	¼ ''	6

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

Augest Election 1886.

For Circuit Judge
WARREN MONFORT.
For Commonwealth's Attorney
JOHN S. GAUNT.

For Circuit Clerk
W. L. RIDDELL.
For County Judge
E. H. BAKER.
For County Attorney
S. W. TOLIN.
For County Clerk
M. T. GARNETT.
For Sheriff
J. R. CLUTTERBUCK.
For County Superintendent
J. P. RYLE.
For Surveyor
W. E. VEST.
For Jailer
SAMUEL COWEN.
For Assessor
G. M. RILEY.
For Coroner
Dr. A. A. MURAT.

Subscribe for the Recorder.

LOCAL option will take effect in Carlisle May first.

CLEVELAND has appointed J. C. Riley, Postmaster at Cincindati.

THERE are twelve convicts in the penitentiary under 15 years of age.

THE legislature now expects to be able to adjourn some time about the first of next month.

JIM WILLIS will be our next Master Commissioner. How do you like him?—Williamstown Courier.

THE egg liar has been kept under the surface for some time past, but he has again bobbed up. A Henderson fellow has found one without the shell, on which is, "War in 1887."

THERE is an attempt to get up a natural gas excitement in some localities in this State. There is an abundance of the article about Franklort and it is creating much talk throughout the State.

THE body of Felix Moses, drowned at Florence, was taken from the river near Newport.—Ex.

If the above had said drowned, by hanging, it would have been as near correct as it is.

Rev. David Walk, a well known Indiana minister, has become wealthy by the advance of real estate. Eight years ago he bought five acres of land in Kansas City, Mo., for $1,500, which he has just sold for $66,250.

JAS. GARRETT has withdrawn from the contest for the Circuit Judgship in the Seventh Judicial district, thus leaving a clear track to ex-Gov. Preston H. Leslie, the present incumbent of the office.

THERE have been two thousand seven hundred and forty-eight soldiers appointed to office under Cleveland's administration. Of this number seventy-eight are Union soldiers, and twenty-six hundred and seventy are ex-rebel soldiers.

Col. Jas. T. Willis, of Williamstown, is prominently mentioned as a candidate for clerk of the Court of Appeals. We're all for Jim in this neck of the woods, and he is as far above Tom Henry, the present incumbent, in every capacity as a high toned gentleman can be above a drunken ruffian.—Warsaw Indpt.

A NEW YORK patent medicine company contracted with a Philadelphia firm last week, for printing 40,000,000 thirty two page pamphlets, and 400,000,000 four-page circulars. The amount of money involved in the transaction is $800,000. The firm is among the heaviest advertisers in the country. This is the largest contract for printing on record.

AT a meeting of the Democrats of Glasgow, Ky., held last Saturday evening, resolutions were passed denouncing the action of Senator Beck and Congressman Willis in urging and demanding the appointment of the Republican incumbent as Postmaster at Louisville over the remonstrance of the true and tried Democracy of Louisville.

Mr. Samuel Thompson, a well-to-do farmer of Mercer county, aged forty years says he never was in a town or city in his life larger than Harrodsburg, never saw a steamboat never rode on a railway train, and lives within six or eight miles of High Bridge and never saw it. For years he lived along the line of a stage route, but never rode in a stage.

HON. REUBEN CONNER has never made an attempt at oratory in the legislature this winter, but has established for himself the reputation of being one of the most industrious members in the house. The legislature has had an over dose of orators this session, and the efforts of the few working men, such as Mr. C. are duly appreciated by those who are acquainted with the fact.

THE wife of John Coleman, who lives upon the farm of B. Bourne, near Hallam in this county, was bitten on the finger by a large spider last Tuesday evening, just before sundown. The hand and arm commenced swelling immediately, and during the course of the night produced intense agony, accompanied by spasms as if attacked with hydrophobia. Dr. Busby was called in, but was unable to do anything for her. Dr. Burchett on his way the next morning to visit a patient father on, was met with a summons to see her, but concluded to return after the first call had been attended to. On reaching the house when returning he found the unfortunate young woman was dead.—Owenton Democrat.

A special to the Lexington Transcript of the 18th inst., from Louisville says: "Information reached here to-day of three sensational murders in Bell county, Ky., during the past week. Elihu Taylor married the sister of Wm. Shell, The couple quarreled and the woman deserted him. The husband went in search of his wife, accompanied by young Shell, the brother. They found her in Pineville hid in a smoke-house. Taylor forced her to go with him, and as they started away Shell shot Taylor three times, mortally wounding him. Taylor was one of the men who murdered Wm. Hanskin and daughter about a year ago.

In the second murder Berry Turner started out saying that he was going to kill his man to-day. Meeting a man named Lewis, he levelled gun, and shot him dead without warning.

The third case occurred on Clear creek. A number of countrymen had gathered at a house, and after engaging in a drunken frolic got into a general fight. When the smoke of battle had cleared away Beth Goodin was found dead and Wm. Dougherty, whom it is thought killed Goodin, was stretched on the floor with one eye shot out and his nose shot off."

THE President has re-appointed Mrs. Thompson as Postmaster at Louisville, and the citizens have held an indignation meeting to protest against the appointment. The Courier-Journal of the 19th says:

"The meeting at Masonic Temple last night to protest against the appointment of Mrs. Thompson as Postmistress, was such a one as was never held in Louisville before. It was such a one as was never necessary before. The Democracy of the Fifth Congressional District for the first time in their history—honorable with the upright deeds of many Representatives—had never occasion before to condemn in unmeasured terms the official action of the man whom they had honored with their confidence by giving him a seat in Congress. There was nothing uncertain about the will of the large and representative body. The firm and indignant tone of the resolutions and the emphatic utterances of the speakers met a hearty response from the audience and the puny efforts to disturb the proceedings made by those alleged Democrats who have turned their footsteps into Republican paths were met by a storm of disapproval which, in itself, was the strongest protest against the action of Mr. Willis, Senator Beck and the President in appointing Mrs. Thompson. It will be long before any other Representative of the Democracy of the Fifth Congressional district will place himself in a position to bring upon his head such a manifestation of the disapproval of his constituents. The gentlemen for whose benefit the meeting of last evening was held will remember it for many days, and constantly receive reminders that will be of an unpleasant nature.

Natural Gas and White Sulpher Water.

Last fall Mr. R. H. Renfro was engaged in digging a well on the place of Isaac Pearson, formerly the Robt. Grimes farm, three-fourths of a mile from Harrodsburg. When the drill had reached a depth of one hundred and fifty feet a roaring, rumbling sound was heard and a stream of mud and water was thrown twenty feet high. Also a strong current of natural gas was emitted. Mr. Renfro tried an interesting experiment at the time that shows the great force of the gas discovered there. He inserted a lead pipe into the hole, and attached an elbow to it several feet long. Seeing a tin can near, he clapped it over the mouth of the pipe and produced a shrill whistle which made an almost deafening sound, like the whistle of a large boiler. A visit to this well will repay anyone. When the pump is first moved the roaring, rushing sound commences and the water is shot up through the pipe bursting out several feet high. This action is repeated at regular intervals until the gas seems to partially subside. The water first pumped from the well is a very fine white sulphur, pronounced by several gentlemen to be superior to the white sulphur of Virginia. As the pump progresses the water becomes a dark blue and is so strongly impregnated with gas as to be unpalatable. Mr. Owings who occupies the farm says that at times the pressure of the gas throws the water a height of twenty feet. In connection with these facts it may be mentioned that about a year ago on the place of Mr. Samuel Hanna, about three hundred yards from the well just spoken of, parties were boring for water when the emission of natural gas became very strong and some one dropped a match in it which immediately ignited the gas. A flame of burning gas arose several feet in the air and was with much difficulty extinguished. The persons present finally succeeded in getting it subdued by stuffing wet corn stalks down the hole and plugging it up when it was finally abandoned. These discoveries go to show that a strong vein of natural gas exists in that locality which might be utilized in lighting the town of Harrodsburg and neighboring places. Experts in the Ohio gas region from the representations made to them have stated that gas no doubt exists in that locality in paying quantities. The discovery of the white sulphur water also adds another to the valuable mineral waters of which Mercer county has almost a full list.—Harrodsburg Democrat.

SPEAKER CARLISLE.

One of the foremost men in this country to-day is John G. Carlisle, of Kentucky. Ten years ago he was unknown beyond the limits of his State and entered the lower house of Congress a stranger. Within that short time he has, by the power of his intellect, by the strength of his manhood, by the force of his individuality, become the recognized leader of his party in the house and holds a first place among American statesmen of our day.

The American house of representatives is perhaps the most difficult deliberative assembly in the civilized world in which to attain and maintain distinction. There are gathered together more than three hundred men, representing the respectability, the patriotism and the statesmanship of this great republic. Among its number are to be found great lawyers, ripe scholars, skillful debaters, magnificent orators and profound statesmen, all contending for intellectual supremacy. There, at one time, was the astute Blaine and the scholar'y Garfield; there was Ben Hill, impetuous and irresistible; the adroit and formidable Randall and rare Sunset Cox were there; the profound Lamar, the ready Blackburn, the skilful Reed, the ingenuous Frye, the learned Tucker, the potential Morrison, the effective Bland, are a few of the names that have added lustre to its history.

It was in such a field and with such intellects the splendid powers of Carlisle were developed; it is by such men his leadership is now acknowledged; it was amid such rivalry he has been twice elected to the speakership.

It is our deliberate judgment that John G. Carlisle possesses more of the elements of statesmanship, has achieved a more varied distinction than any contemporary public man. As a debater his reputation was made when there was no dearth of talent but when there were foemen worthy of his steel and blows to take as well as blows to give; employing the arts of the logician rather than the rhetorician, he always addresses himself to the reason, let those who may engage the fancy and entertain the unthinking. He is clear, convincing concise, and masterly in statement. Regarding legislation as a serious business he is always sober, dignified and effective in his treatment of public questions. In the discussion of legal and constitutional question he is considered an authority, and there is no man in either House or Senate whose utterances have greater value or whose legal opinions carry greater weight.

He is, perhaps with the single exception of Mr. Blaine, the most skillful and accomplished parliamentarian that our day has seen. And as a presiding officer he has born himself with such courteous dignity, such conspicuous effiency as to have commanded the admiration of all parties.

We come now to speak of him as a statesman. Great in many directions he is pre eminently so in this. He has been for years a dilligent student of every public question. In political wisdom he has no contemporaneous superior. His name is identified with the greatest issue of the day. He is no visionary theorist, but a practical and humane statesman who is deeply and genuinely interested in the welfare of his followman. He is a broad, liberal man—a patriot of enlarged mental horizon—a statesman in whose contemplation sectional lines do not exist, but who regards with intense satisfaction, one great, united prosperous country.

This is the manner of man on whom the eye of the Democracy is now fixed. This is the man who will succeed Mr. Cleveland as president of the United States—And what an admirable president he will be. Commanding universal confidence by reason of his great wisdom, his irreproachable character and his undoubted patriotism. Yes, Kentucky will furnish our next president and his name is John G. Carlisle.—Jefferson City (Mo.) Tribune.

THE Senate has passed a bill imposing the cost of Record books, etc., on the counties

THE U. S. Senate passed the bill providing for the admission of Washington Territory as a State,

Larkin Ryle has bought the Carpenter tract of land consisting of 44 acres near the old Summons tract for $950, and will farm this year. He expects to build a residence on it next fall.—Warsaw Independent.

A bill has been introduced in the legislature granting a man the privilege of carrying a pistol for one year upon taking out a license for same at $2 per year, while those convicted of carrying pistols without the license will be severely punished.

Take the Recorder.

State Politics.

It is understood that Judge Pryor will be a candidate for re-election to the Appelate Court.

Judge Wm. L. Dulaney, of Bowling Green, declines to be a candidate for Appelate Judge to succeed Hon. T. H. Hines.

Judge Posey, recently nominated for county judge in Anderson county has enjoyed an uninterrupted term of office for the past twenty years, never having suffered defeat.

FARM IMPLEMENTS.

Buy your Farming Implements, Fence Wire, Cutting Boxes, Feed Grinders, Corn Shellers, Road Scrapers, Excavating Carts, Sewing Machines, Mowers and Reapers and

Deering TWINE Binders,
GROCERIES, &c.
READY MIXED PAINT.
—of—
J. C. Smith,
Successor to W. H. HILL & Co.
22 and 24 EAST THIRD STREET,
Cincinnati, Ohio.

Or of our local Agent C. W. RILEY, North Bend, Ohio, (Ky. Box). All goods sold strictly on their merits.

REPORT OF THE CONDITION
OF THE
Farmers & Traders National Bank
AT COVINGTON.

In the State of Kentucky, at the close of business, March 1, 1886.

RESOURCES.
Loans and discounts		$577,951 88
Overdrafts		2,283 91
U.S. Bonds to secure circulation		50,000 00
U. S. Bonds on hand		100,000
Due from approved reserve agents		51,808 76
Due from other Nat'l Banks		7,404 52
Due from banks and bankers		4,741 33
Real est., furniture & fixtures		1,668 91
Current expenses and taxes		2,159 22
Premiums paid		31,512 50
Checks and other cash items	812 34
Bills of other Banks	3,000 00
Frac. paper currency, nickles and pennies	130 27
Specie	10,600 00
Legal tender notes	25,000 00	39,572 61
Redemption fund with U. S. Treas., (5 per cent. circulation)		2,250 00
Total		$878,153 67
LIABILITIES.
Capital stock pd in		$300,000 00
Surplus fund	$30,000 00
Undivided profits	13,408 05	43,408 05
Nat'l Bank notes outstanding		45,000 00
Individual dep'ts subject to check	363 452 09
U. S. Deposits	75,000
Due to other N'tl Banks	25,240 29
Due to State B'ks and bankers	26,053 24	489,745 67
Total		$878,153 67

State of Kentucky, County of Kenton, ss

I, John L. Sandford, Cashier of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

JOHN L. SANDFORD, Cashier.

James S. Wayne, Pres't.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 6th day of March, 1886.

A. KLOENTRUP, Notary Public.

Correct—Attest:
M. C. Motch,
J. H. Mersman,
E. J. Hickey,
} Directors.

ATTENTION!
TOBACCO
Shippers and Raisers, you can buy
Tobacco
Hogheads,
Set up or Knock Downs,
AT THE COMPANY'S MILLS
At Lawrenceburg or Aurora, Ind.
Orders by mail will meet our prompt attention.

LAND FOR SALE.

50 acres good land near Constance, this county. All in grass and well watered. Terms easy apply to this OFFICE.

READ!

Feeling the urgent necessity of a first class Drug Store in Bellevue, and ever willing to cater to the wishes of a generous public, I have just opened a fresh stock of Drugs & Patent Medicines.

— Terry & Co's Brands of Tea. —
Ibold's Brand of Cigars & Tobacco.
—Perfumery and Fancy Toilet Articles.—
Paints Ready For Use,
From a gallon can down to the smallest.
WHITE LEAD, OILS, VARNISHES, DYE-Stuffs, Brushes, Etc., Etc.

I will furnish to any one wishing to paint their house or barn, any kind of paint at two days notice, at the lowest cash prices. Give me a call.

A good barber shop attached and work suits factory.

W. M. BAISLY.

1886 THE COURIER-JOURNAL 1886
AN ORGAN OF
LIVING IDEAS AND LIVE ISSUES.
AN ENEMY OF
Monopolies, Oligarchism, and the Spirit of Sectional Strife.

The Courier-Journal (HENRY WATTERSON Editor-in-Chief), is the acknowledged Representative Newspaper of the South, is Democratic in politics, and first, last, and all the time is for a reduction of the War Taxes as levied by the people by the tariff now in force.

The Weekly Courier-Journal

is the best weekly newspaper published in the United States, and for the quantity and quality of matter that appears in each issue of it, it is the CHEAPEST. Its telegraphic news facilities outclass any other paper, and it has the services of the ablest writers and correspondents in the country. It presents the news of the week from every section of the World. It gives to its readers throughout the year a greater number of Serial and Short Stories by prominent and popular writers than any of the high-priced magazines. It is in every respect a Model Political and Family Paper.

The Weekly Courier-Journal has by far the Largest Circulation of any Democratic Newspaper in America.

It is acknowledged by press and people throughout the United States to be a great paper; great in size; great in enterprise; great in ability; great in its correctness of information; great in variety; great in every sense of the word. It is the paper that everybody should have. To be without it is a great opportunity lost. Those who once take it are not willing to be without it in their homes.

FREE PREMIUMS.

A list of handsome and useful premiums of great variety are offered free to yearly subscribers. On receipt of a request for them, we send free of charge a sample copy of Weekly Courier-Journal and our Premium Supplement, giving our full list of premiums, to any address.

SUBSCRIPTION TERMS.

Weekly, one year, including a free premium.....$1.50
Weekly, inclusive of five and over, without premium, each.....1.10
For every club of five names sent us at one time, the sender of club will be sent as a present any one of our free premiums selected by him.
Daily, (except Sunday), one year.....$10.00
Daily, (except Sunday), six months.....5.00
Daily, (except Sunday), one month.....1.00
Sunday, one year.....2.00
Sunday, six months.....1.00

No traveling agents are employed by the Courier-Journal, but a good local agent is wanted for it in every community, to whom a liberal cash commission is allowed. If the Courier-Journal has no local agent in your neighborhood, send to us for our Agent's Canvassing Outfit, which we send free of charge. All subscription orders, requests for outfits, sample copies, etc., should be addressed to

W. N. HALDEMAN,
President Courier-Journal Co.,
LOUISVILLE, KY.

Riddell's Hambletoni'n

Is a bay, 15¼ hands high, 8 years old, and will make the season of 1886 at my stable, 2 miles from Anderson's Ferry, and 2 miles from Hebron, and will serve mares at $10. He is by Strader's Hambletonian; dam Ruchie Sanders; she by Green's Bashaw. He is one of the best breeders in the county his colts are good size, good workers and trotters.

J. A. RIDDELL.

I had a colt by this horse which I sold for $300, unbroke, Geo. Gaines.

The fine harness and saddle horse,
Young Hedgeford,

Will make the season of 1886, at my stable 1¼ miles from Petersburg, at the forks of the Burlington and Woolper pike, and will serve mares at $10 to insure a colt to stand up and suck, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

DESCRIPTION & PEDIGREE.

He is a dark mahogany bay, 4 years old, 16 hands high, and has fine style and action. He was sired by Old Hedgeford, the premium saddle and general purpose horse, who was sold to Joe Emmet for $1,000. Young Hedgeford's dam was a fine mare from Burbon county, Ky.

Not responsible for accidents.

J. W. BERKSHIRE.

NOTICE.

The annual election for President and Directors of the Burlington and Bellevue turnpike company, will be held in the town of Burlington on the 1st Monday in May, 1886.

S. P. BRADY, President.

WANTED—LADY Active and intelligent, to represent in her own locality an old firm. References required. Permanent position and good salary. GAY & BROS., 12 Barclay St., N. Y.

OPIUM and WHISKY HABITS cured at home without pain. BOOK of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.

JENKINS'

ALMONT,

This renowned trotting stallion and sire of trotters will make the season of 1886, at the stable of John D. Norris, 1 mile from Petersburg, Boone county, Ky., at $30 the season, with the privilege of returning in 1887 should the mare fail to get with foal, money due July 1st, 1886.

Jenkins' Almont was sired by Wither's Almont, the sire of 26 horses with records of 2:30 or better. 1st dam by Toledo; 2nd dam Sousby Grays Highlander; 3d dam by Couer de Leon, a noted pacer.

Jenkins' Almont is the sire of Bessie G. 2:25½; Grafton, 2:28; Will Heath, trial, 2:21, and others gifted with great trotting speed.

Pasture furnished at $3 per month. Care will be exercised to prevent accidents or escapes, but will not be responsible should any occur. We are endeavoring to give the people of Boone Co., a chance to get a fine colt at a low price.

J. D. NORRIS & Co.

The Combined Stallion,
RECTOR

Will make the season of 1886, Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays at Harvy Marshalls at Waterloo, and the rest of the week at my stable at Bellevue, at $10 to insure a mare with foal, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Rector is a beautiful black, 7 years old, 15½ hands high, and a good all-purpose horse. He was sired by Criss, dam Black Nose.

Not responsible for accidents should any occur. ROBT. CLORE, Bellevue, Ky.

The fine stallion, Conner's
ALMONT

Will make the present season at my stable at Bullittsville, Ky., and will serve mares at $10 to insure, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Care will be taken to prevent accidents, but will not be responsible should any occur.

ALMONT is 6 years old, a beautiful rich mahogany bay, black mane and tail, with two white ankles behind, stands 16 hands high, and shows much style and speed.

ALMONT was by Bidwell's Almont, jr., bred by Col. West; got by Almont, son of Alexander's Abdallah; dam Belle Forrest, by Edwin Forrest. Almont is a half brother to Sensation; 1st dam Topsy, the fine premium mare, by Topgallant; g.d. a Belle Founder mare, g. g. d. a Copperbottom mare that possessed all the fine saddle qualities.

J. D. CONNER.

CRIGLER'S ALMONT,

Will make the season of 1886 at my stable on Gunpowder Creek 1½ miles above Limaburg and at Florence, Ky., at $20, to insure a mare with foal, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Will be at Florence the first three days of each week, and the rest of the time at my stable. Not responsible for accidents.

ALMONT is a dark chestnut sorrel, 15¾ hands high, with fine style, and has trotted his mile in less than 2:30; he is by Almont jr., he by Wither's Almont; he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian; Almonts 1st dam Goodwood; 2d dam Daniel Boone; 3 dam Blacknose.

REX DENMARK.

Will make the season at the same time and places, at $10 to insure a mare in foal.

He is a beautiful brown with fine mane and tail, style that cannot be beaten, is 16 hands high. He has been shown 11 times and taken 10 ties, in Missouri.

He is by Crigler's Denmark; he by Denmark Chief; he by Black Denmark; Old Denmark by Imported Messenger. Rex Denmark's 1st dam Woodpecker Star of the West; 2d dam Mohawk; 3d dam Tom Crowder.

W. A. CRIGLER.

The fine harness and saddle stallion
Young WOODPECKER

Will make the season of 1886, Saturdays and Mondays at J. W. Gaines' stable at Burlington, Tuesdays and Wednesdays at Gainesville, Thursdays and Fridays at J. W. Gaines' farm near Plattsburg, at $10 to insure a colt to stand up and suck, any person parting with a mare after being bred forfeits the insurance money.

Young Woodpecker was sired by Nat Carpenter's Star of the West; he by Woodpecker; he by Bertrand, dam imported Buzzard. Young Woodpecker's dam was a 3 minute mare, by Jeff Davis, g. d. by Russell's Pilot; he by old Sir William.

Not responsible for accidents.

TEN BROCK, This fine young jack will make the season at the same time and places and on the same terms.

He is black with mealy nose, 15 hands high. He was sired by Espartero; he by a large Spanish jack; dam of Ten Brock, Mollie McCarty, was sired by Longfellow, Perry Tucker's jack; g. d. by A. S. Piatt's jack, the best breeder ever in this county.

F. C. Wingate, J. W. Gaines,
J. J. Lillard, C. A. Gaines.

FOR SALE!

Henry County Farm of 120 acres, situated on pike 1 mile from Smithfield, on Louisville & Lexington Railroad, 35 miles from Louisville. Said farm has on it a good frame house, of 8 rooms, good barn and all other outbuildings, and never failing water, convenient to good schools and churches. The land is first-class, all in grass but 25 acres, which is in wheat, 25 acres of fine tobacco land which has never been cultivated. Terms reasonable. For further information apply to

B. D. SPURGIN, Smithfield, Ky.
Henry county. 52-3m

AGENTS WANTED for DR. SCOTT'S beautiful Electric Corsets. Sample free to those becoming agents. No risk, quick sales. Territory given. Satisfaction guaranteed. Address DR. SCOTT, 842 Broadway, NEW YORK.

1886. STALLIONS FOR 1886.
SAM HARRIS.

DESCRIPTION—Bay, no white, 16½ hands, fine style, good trotting action, 5 years old, with six weeks breaking and handling trotted a full mile over Chester Park in 2:58, full brother to Royalmont, who has a record 2:32 with a private trial 2:22 in his 5 year old form.

PEDIGREE—By Bidwell's Almont, dam Louisiana by Tornado; he by Tempest; he by Royalgeorge; her dam by Old Mazeppa; she was sold in 1874 and delivered in Buffalo for $1,500, and afterwards shipped south. She trotted the Buffalo track in 2:35 the day of sale.

SAM HARRIS will make the season of 1886 for $25, payable when the service is rendered, with the privilege of breeding till a colt is obtained.

JOHN S.

DESCRIPTION—Dark iron gray, 5 yrs. old, very stylish, good action, 16 hands high.

PEDIGREE—By Bidwell's Almont; 1st dam by Ohio Volunteer; he by Goldsmith's Volunteer; he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian; 2d dam White Eagle. John S. will make the season of 1886 for $10 to insure, due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Bidwell's Almont by Wither's Almont; he by Alexander's Abdallah; he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian; 1st dam by Edwin Forrest; Bidwell's Almont sired Judge Lindsay with a 5 yr. old record 2:21, Annie W. 2:22½, and two others with public record below 2:30; also Royalmont with a public record 2:32 and private trial 2:22. Pasture furnished at $3 per month, but not responsible for accidents. These two stallions will make the season of 1886, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at Bullittsville and the rest of the week at my stable 1½ mile west of Anderson's Ferry.

JAS. L. RILEY, Bullittsville, Ky,

City Flouring Mills,
—RISING SUN, INDIANA.—

FLOUR EXCHANGED FOR WHEAT OR CASH. THE HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR GOOD WHEAT.

J. W. TALBOTT.

OHIO STEAM DENTAL CO.
ESTABLISHED 18—

47 WEST SEVENTH STREET,
CINCINNATI, O.

TEETH EXTRACTED WITHOUT PAIN by using Fresh Nitrous Oxide Gas.
ARTIFICIAL TEETH made of the best quality and workmanship finish, with guaranteed fit.
OPERATIVE DEPARTMENT handsomely finished and well lighted—the principal having had a life-long experience in the treatment and filling of the natural teeth.

L. ROBERTSON, D.D.S., Principal.

Office and Residence, 47 W. 7th St., two blocks north of Fountain Square, (formerly 271 Walnut and 6th & Vine). Office open at all hours.

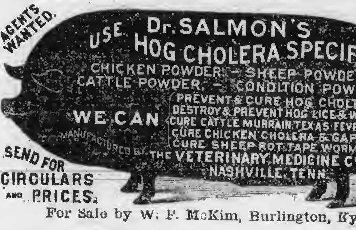
THE
COMBINATION FENCE

A fence that is wanted, and in time will be used by every one that wants a fence, either around the House, Garden or Farm, as it is cheap, durable and serviceable, to keep in check horses, cattle, sheep, hogs, chickens, etc., and restrain wolves, dogs, and rabbits, etc.

Having all the advantages of a picket fence in restraining animals from jumping, and not so liable to decay, and at much less cost, and no barbs to injure valuable stock, thus placing it far in advance of any other fence now in use, hence it must be the fence of the future; all who have it want more.

It is portable and can be removed from field to field by drawing staples from posts, taking out the splice lath and rebundling it. We offer this fence for sale in bundles of five and six rod at Burlington.

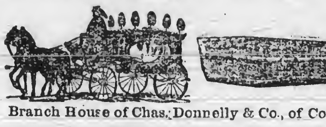
DILLS & CRISLER,
Burlington, Ky.



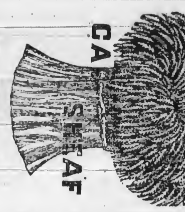
AGENTS WANTED.
USE Dr. SALMON'S HOG CHOLERA SPECIFIC!
CHICKEN POWDER — SHEEP POWDER.
CATTLE POWDER. — CONDITION POWDER.
WE CAN
PREVENT & CURE HOG CHOLERA.
DESTROY & PREVENT HOG LICE & WORMS.
CURE CATTLE MURRAIN TEXAS FEVER &c.
CURE CHICKEN CHOLERA & GAPES.
CURE SHEEP ROT TAPE WORM &c.
MANUFACTURED BY THE VETERINARY MEDICINE CO. NASHVILLE, TENN.
SEND FOR CIRCULARS AND PRICES.

For Sale by W. F. McKim, Burlington, Ky.

UNDERTAKING.

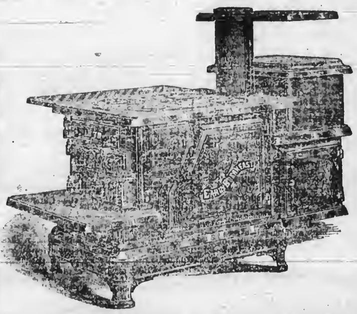


Branch House of Chas. Donnelly & Co., of Covington, Ky.
AT BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY.
Where a Hearse and all Styles of Burial Cases and Robes can be secured at as Low Figures as at Covington, or elsewhere.
Bodies Embalmed or preserved in a
REFRIGERATOR
When desired. All orders left with our Branch House in Burlington will be promptly attended, and funerals conducted in the best style. The business is in charge of Jas. Westbay, with whom leave orders.
CHAS. DONNELLY & CO.



SODA
Best in the World.
For Sale by Dudley Rouse,
Burlington, Ky.

W. H. & J. M. McCLUNG



ALSO A GREAT VARIETY OF HARD and SOFT COAL
HEATING STOVES.
ALL KINDS OF STOVES REPAIRED.
Tin Roofing, Spouting, Guttering, etc., Done to Order.

535 & 537 Madison Ave. - Covington, Ky.
☞ Second Door Below Sixth Street. ☜

Subscribe for the Boone
County Rcorder.

Local News.

Sunday was a beautiful day.

He that angleth may now angleth.

Get your eggs colored—next Sunday is Easter.

Two panels of jurors were summoned for this term of the court.

F. L. Gordon, of Hebron, has several fresh milch cows for sale.

The grass has grown very rapidly since the latter part of last week.

John S Gaunt, of Carroll county, attended court one day last week.

The roads have been pretty well worked this season—by horses feet.

"April showers make May flowers," and they will certainly be abundant this spring.

John T. Bashaw, County Attorney, of Trimble county, attended court a day or two last week.

Mrs. Light and daughter. Miss Eunie, of Covington, were visiting their relatives in Burlington Sunday.

The directors of the bank met last Saturday and made a call for 16 per cent more of the capital stock.

Miss Alice Revill, sister of Jo C. Revill, of this place has received a government appointment at Washington.

Gov. John F. Fisk and wife, of Covington, have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Brady since last Friday.

The English sparrows' energy and propensity for a noise seems to have been increased by the lingering winter.

Jim Gray, an old colored man, who used to live with Gen. Wallace, died last Saturday night after a protracted illness.

O. W. Gaines and J. M. Conner went to Louisville Sunday night, where they expect to buy a drove of good feeding cattle.

The father of the boy, William Collier, who stole McConnell's horse bailed him out, and left for home Saturday with his son.

Should some fellow get into one of those holes in the court-house floor and fracture a limb, would the county be liable for damages?

All the indictments found at this term are for misdemeanors except two, and they are of a grade that the Judge fixed the bail on each at $100.

For Rent—To a responsible person, a well located blacksmith shop, in the town of Florence, Ky. Apply to

A. C. Graves, Florence.

The buds are bursting and the leaves will soon be here, robing our town in its summer's beauty. The usual force of shaders will engage in the business again this summer.

The race for Circuit Judge in the 12th Judicial district is waxing slightly warm. There are four contestants, Hon W. E. Arthur, M. J. Dudley and T. J. Phelps, of Covington, and Lucius Desha, of Harrison county.

When Capt. DeJarnett, in his speech on the Drinkard trial, pictured to the jury the scene at Holder's home when he was taken home after receiving the mortal wound, it brought tears to the eyes of some of the jurors.

Wm. Chapin, an old and highly respectable citizen of Petersburg, died on the 14th inst of old age. He was a very peculiar gentleman, and his last request was that no one should set up with his corpse after he was dead.

Mr. E E. Ultz has a curiosity at his house, in the shape of a young lamb, which has no eyes in its head. Where the eyes should be there is nothing but a couple of little knots. Mr. Ultz says the little animal is living and doing well.

Remember that Geo. Huschart & Co. of Lawrenceburg, Indiana, can always give satisfaction both as to price and style of work, so when you want to buy a tombstone or a monument go to their yard or call on John Beall, of Hebron, Ky., their agent.

The Wallace Circus Band, composed of twenty distinguished musicians, are here rehearsing prior to taking the road with the show. The following Lawrenceburghers are members of the band: Wm. Goetz, Geo. Decker, jr. Wm. Janker and Johnny Gamber.—Register.

Hon. Joseph A. Gaines, who lives about four miles from Burlington on the Petersburg pike stayed in town his first night last Thursday night. He was caught on the Drinkard jury or he would not have remained that night. We are not prepared to say that Mr. Gaines has lost anything by not spending a few nights in his county metropolis.

A Mr. Pettit, who lived on C. L. Crisler's farm on Gunpowder, died last Wednesday evening after a long suffering with blood poison. He moved to this county from Pendleton county in February, and was taken sick in a short while after moving here. He was the step-father of Frank Mullins. His remains were interred in the cemetery at this place Thursday morning.

If you think this is a joke don't read it. Monday morning before the aurora of morning had illuminated the oriental horizon, James Westbay had doffed his coat, filled a four-horse wagon with farming implements, gone a mile and a half in the country, (to sow oats,) put Charley and a couple more hands to work, and got back to court by eight o'clock. Oh, Jim is a hustler. Joe Reed says he is, and he told us about the above. Oh no, its no joke.

Mrs. Julia A. Hagish, another one of Boone's oldest citizens, died last Friday night at her daughter's, Mrs. Jack Marques, near Florence, of congestion of the lungs, in the 97th year of her age. She leaves eight children, two girls and six boys, and a large number of friends and acquaintances to mourn over her death. After funeral services her remains were buried in the family burying ground on the old Hagish farm near Big Bone, last Saturday.

Circuit Court.

The next that it will be your Honor, Judge Menfort.

Hon. D. A. Glenn assisted in the prosecution of John Drinkard.

The Rogers and Drinkard trials put the court behind with the docket.

Since court commenced, the jail has had about all it could accommodate.

One divorce has been granted this term: Jacob Johnson from Rachael Johnson.

The attendance at court was of moderate dimensions each day, and hotels and boarding houses thrived.

Col. Landrum took his leave of the legal reunion at this place and turned his steps homeward, last Saturday.

The grand jury was composed of good men, and they investigated infractions of the law without fear or favor.

Mr. Cole, an attorney of Rising Sun, Indiana, is attending court this week, being one of the counsel in the Moore will case.

One jury sat in the box last Friday and returned three verdicts in about thirty minutes—two convictions and one acquittal.

The Commonwealth's Attorney did not strike a gold mine at this term of the court. The total amount of fines will be very small.

Henry Hall was indicted for the cutting of John Finch. The court put his bail at $100, and Henry will not be tried until next term.

Sam Cantwell, who was indicted at the October term of court for giving whisky to minors, was fined $150, and is now laying out his fine in jail.

Capt. DeJarnett has made his last appearance here in his official capacity. He has made a fearless prosecutor, and has gained for himself the reputation of an able attorney.

The grand jury was in session longer than it has been at any one term during the last six years. The morals of the county now ought to be much better for a season at least.

The trial of James Rogers consumed one day and a half in hearing testimony and arguments—The jury was out but about fifteen minutes when it returned a verdict of "not guilty."

The Moore will case was reached directly after noon Saturday, when the court adjourned, to take a fresh start on that trial Monday. It will consume three or four days of this week at least.

James Woods, colored, for housebreaking goes over the road for two years. He is quite a youth, and not very bright, and seemed to be very indifferent as to the time he was provided for.

This term of the court sends two delegates to Frankfort, Drinkard and a negro boy, their terms aggregating 22 years. This is the most labor that this county has provided for the State for a long time.

H. P. Stephens defended Drinkard, and made an earnest and well presented appeal to the jury for mercy towards his client, which was followed by one of Capt. DeJarnett's fair but very strong prosecutions, and 20 years was the result.

The injunction suit of Thos. A. Johnson against Levi Wolfe, &c., was decided in favor of Mr. Johnson. The suit was brought to prevent Mr. Wolfe and the other trustees of school district No. 47 from collecting a tax off of Johnson to build a new school house. In making the levy the trustees did not comply with the law under which they were acting, hence the decision.

John W. Grubbs' case was continued until the first day of the next term for him. He stated that he was not ready for trial at this term because he was not allowed to communicate by letter with any one while in Covington jail, and therefore could not work up his case. The indictment was filed in the Boone Circuit Court twenty years ago on the 18th day of this month. Quite ancient.

Owing to the youthfulness of William Weaver, colored, who was indicted for stealing Jerry Underhill's watch, he was not prosecuted, the attorney allowing the indictment to be filed away, which will stay provided the boy behaves himself in the future. Judge Major gave William a lecture in which he pictured to him in vivid terms the horrors of the penitentiary and the coal mine.

John Drinkard, for the killing of George Holder, of Walton, was given twenty years in the penitentiary, the jury deciding that he was guilty of manslaughter. During the entire trial it was apparent the accused was apprehensive of a long period of confinement if he escaped the gallows, and when the verdict came he was much relieved and thanked the jury, his attorney and the Commonwealth's Attorney.

Report of Grand Jury.

Hon. P. U. Major, Judge of the Boone Circuit Court.

The grand jury would respectfully submit the following report:

We have been in session six days, have dilligently inquired into all the offenses brought to our notice, have examined 85 witnesses and returned 25 indictments; have examined the public buildings and find the County and Circuit Clerk's offices with the books and papers they contain in good order and properly kept. The roof of the Court-house is in bad repair, and we recommend that it be replaced with a new one without delay. The other public buildings appear to be in good condition.

We desire to present our thanks to the Sheriff and his assistants for the prompt and efficient manner in which they have responded to all demands made upon them. Having no more business before us, we respectfully ask to be dismissed.

J. A. Wilson, Foreman.

The entertainment for the benefit of the Presbyterian church at this place, will be given on the nights of May 14 and 15th.

Monday morning Joe Ferris, of Petersburg, passed through town with a string of five or six fine steppers en-route to Lexington, where they will be put on training, and will proabably be sold.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

Verona.

The peaches are not all killed as some supposed—there will be a good crop in this section.

The long unfavorable weather has put our farmers greatly behind with their spring work Tobacco plants are up and will be ready to transplant before they know it.

Last Friday evening about 7 o'clock, the young folks of this community met at the school-house to tear up Webster's Umbridge. After spelling three rounds Miss Poland, teacher at this place, and Messrs Fry and Farrell were pronounced the best spellers of the evening. When through spelling the audience elected E. E. Fry chairman, to decide parliamentary laws, and proceeded at once to discuss matters pertaining to the propriety of a literary society. After about an hour of eloquent speeches and debate, it was decided to have a society, said society to be held at the Oak Ridge school house semi-monthly. An entertaining speech was then made by Eugene Houston, setting forth the objects of a good literary society, after which the meeting adjourned until next Saturday evening, when they will discuss matters fully and come to a more definite conclusion.

We do not see why there cannot be something of the kind in the neighborhood, as it would be entertaining, and surely very instructive to our youths.

Erlanger.

Thinking a few items from this place would be appreciated by the many readers of your valuable paper, will say, Erlanger has a population of one hundred, a post-office, telegraph-office, one store and saloon, skating rink, lumber yard, and machine shops. The latter are being built by the R. R. They are receiving machinery from Philadelphia every day, and having it placed to press the wheels of cars together four inches. As the guage of the road will be changed from 5 to 4 ft. 8 inches, standard guage, the first of June, the shortning of the wheels will be done here. The company has 30 or 40 men at work here now changing the guage of side tracks.

J. P. Garvey has returned from the South.

Judge Straub will move to Cincinnati, his future home.

Geo. M. Bedinger, of Texas, has taken charge of his father's farm near here.

W. W. Watkins and family, of Maysville, were visiting relatives here last week.

Rumor says the prettiest girl in Erlanger, will shortly wed a young merchant of Florence.

One of the mechanics had one of his fingers mashed while placing an engine Monday evening.

Several of the young bloods of Florence, were here last week, running from the grand jury, of course.

The Silver Lake Ice Co., have sold their large ice house at this place to the Stone Lake Ice Co., of Cincinnati.

Jno. L. Conner has his skating rink open and in full blast, and the city people are coming out every day to skate and fish.

Bedinger & Stevenson are buying all the tobacco around here. They have several hands at work in their warehouse preparing the weed for market.

Born—To wives of T. A. Finnell and J. L. Conner each, a girl. Uncle Jim Ross says:

"May they live in bliss from sorrow away—Have plenty laid up for a rainy day, and when they are ready to settle in life, may they find good husbands and make good wives."

Constant Reader.

The Moore will case is progressing slowly.

The farmers are awful busy just now—planting potatyes.

Frank Gregg, an old german, who has been an inmate of the County Infirmary for the last five or six years, died Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Mary Craven, of near Limaburg has lost a red cow with yoke on, and a spotted heifer. Information as to them will be thankfully received.

J. M. Conner and John McConnell have bought of Jas. T. Grant, the noted Percheron Stallion, Granger, for which they paid $400. He will be kept this season on Jno. McConnell's farm, in East Bend.

Samuel Carroll, a Gallatin county man, borrowed all the money he could of his neighbors, robbed his tenant of his money and wife and deserted his own wife and fled the country, and much excitement exists because thereof.

It is with much alacrity and a heavy frown prevailing that a farmer leaves his home in the morning this time of the year to be absent at court one and may be several days. A day at this time of the year to an industrious and thriving farmer is worth to him not less than a V.

The grand jury discovered that the temple of justice needs a new roof, but failed to gather any information that the lower floor was falling out. At one point near the Judge's stand it is in a very dangerous condition, there being two very large holes, which have appeared since court began.

An inebriated individual from the dark and bloody soil of Kentucky, who was seated on the curbstone at the Riverside corner, last Saturday, felt something crawling in his boot, and on taking the boot off was not a little surprised to see a snake nearly three feet long crawl out of it. It was not a case of "jimjams," but a veritable fact, and is vouched for by several reputable citizens, among them the president of the Rising Sun Bank, who happen to be near and saw it.—Local.

We have heard of men having snakes in their own boots, but we never before heard of a man having "jimjams" and seeing snakes crawl from another man's boots. Try and keep your snakes at home, Bro. Hall.

I. C. STEINHARTER,
416 & 418 Pike St.
COVINGTON, - KENTUCKY.

Highest price paid for sheared Wool and Sheep-skins. Ed Golloway, of Florence, Buyer.

County Directory

OFFICERS.

Assessor—G. M. Riley.
Jailer—Samuel Cowen.
County Surveyor—W. E. Vest.
Coroner.—Dr. A. A. Murat, Constance.
Superintendent of Schools—H. J. Foster

COURTS.

CIRCUIT COURT meets the 2d Monday in April and first Monday in October, P. U. Major, Judge; W. L. Riddell, Clerk A. G. DeJarnette, Commonwealths Attorney; W. L. Riddell, Trustee Jury Fund.

COUNTY COURT meets the first Monday in every month. L. H. Dills, Judge; S. W. Tolin, County Attorney. M. T. Garnett, Clerk; J. R. Clutterbuck, Sheriff, T. W. Finch and W. T. German, Deputy Sheriffs.

QUARTERLY COURT meets the first Monday in March, June, September and December. The officers of the County Court preside.

COURT OF CLAIMS meets the first Monday in November.

MAGISTRATES' COURTS are held in March, June, September and December, as follows:

Bellevue—M. B. Green, first Saturday, and T. H. Sutton, third Monday. J. M. Moody, Constable.

Burlington—E. H. Baker, Thursday after first Monday, and Oscar Gaines, fourth Monday. C. W. Saxton, Constable.

Carlton—A. G. McConnell, Wednesday after second Monday, and B. H. Ryle, Saturday after third Monday Charles H. Aera, Constable.

Petersburg—Joe. Hensley, Wednesday after first Monday, and L. A. Loder fourth Saturday. Geo. Comer, Constable.

Beever—W. M. Rouse, Friday after the third Monday, and Andrew Ellis, Fiday after 1st Minonday—T. J. Coyle, Constable.

Union—M. C. Norman, Thursday after third Monday, and H. Bannister, Thursday after second Monday. H. G. Blanton, Constable.

Hamilton—F. M. Howlett, Tuesday after second Monday; W. W. Garnett, Wednesday after third Monday. R. L. Roberts Constable.

Walton—T. F. Carley, second Friday. S. T. Johnson, Tuesday after second Friday Al Arnold, Constable.

Verona—J. P. Vest, Tuesday after first Monday. J. J. Brumback, Tuesday after third Monday, J. H. Callahan, constable.

Florence—T. K. Dixon, third Saturday, Joe Wagstaff, second Saturday. Craig Pettit, Constable.

Taylorsport—A. B. Whitlock, fourth Monday, W. A Gooodridge, third Saturday Thos. Watts, constable.

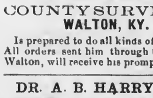
ROBERT B. REED
Attorney at Law.
OFFICE AT - - UNION, KY.

F. RIDDELL. H. P. STEPHENS.
RIDDELL and STEPHENS,
ATTORNEYS at LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Office over Dudley Rouse's Store.

W. E. VEST,
COUNTY SURVEYOR
WALTON, KY.

Is prepared to do all kinds of surveying. All orders sent him through the mail to Walton, will receive his prompt attention.

DR. A. B. HARRYMAN,



Resident Dentist.
Office over Post-Office.
AURORA, INDIANA.

J. J. Landram. G. G. Hughes.
LANDRAM & HUGHES,
ATTORNEYS at LAW.

Will practice in the Boone Circuit Cour and the Court of Appeals. Prompt atten tion given to Collections, on application t G. G. Hughes, Burlington, Ky.

E. E. IGOE,

Resident Dentist,
Rising Sun, Ind.
WITH
J. P. Ulrey.
Monday and Tuesday at Rising Sun. Ind.
Wednesday and Saturday at Aurora, Ind.
Thursday and Friday at Lawrenceburg.

S. W. TOLIN.
ATTORNEY AT LAW
BURLINGTON, - - - Y
Office in Court-house on 2d floor.

Will manage litigation in any of the Courts of the State, contracts and other legal instruments drawn up at reasonable rates. Aprompt an studious attention given to business intrusted to my care. A trial solicited. 12-1y

W. J. RICE.
CARPENTER & BUILDER,
BULLITSVILLE, KY.

Is prepared Raise or Move
EITHER LOG or FRAME BUILDINGS
On Short Notice.
And at the Lowest Possible Figures.
33-tf Your orders respectfully solicited

LUMBER.
Goe. M. Bedinger & Co.,
Erlanger, - - Ky.

We keep constantly on hand all kinds of Lumber, Laths and Shingles. Also Builder's supplies of all kinds.

—Come and see Us—

INSURE AT HOME
The Farmers' Mutual Fire
INSURANCE COMPANY
Of Boone County
Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.
Its Rates are Lower
Than those of any other Company, and it gives the farmers of Boone County a
HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE
In keeping their property insured.
EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY
should take a policy at once.

Jas A. GAINES, President, Burlington, Ky.
J. H. WALTON, Secretary. Constance, Ky.
R. RANDALL, Treasurer.
DIRECTORS.
LEGRAN GAINES, B. L. RICE.
JNO. STEPHENS.
OSCAR GAINES, Agent.
R. S. COWEN, Assessor

CLORE'S SONS,
—o— Manufacturers of —o—
Agricultural Implements,
—(– SUCH AS –)—
Steel Turning & Side Hill Plows

Road Plows, Double Shovels, Single Shovlse, Bar Shovel ophers, Harrows, Jumping Shovels and Rolling Colters.

RISING SUN, - - IND.
Send for Illustrated Price List. 13 3m

FRYE'S COMBINATION
FARM, GARDEN & ORNAMENTAL FENCE

It combines the advantages of every fence, and is free from any objections. Our combination fence is composed of five two-strand cables of the best annealed bessemer steel wire firmly interwoven with pickets at a uniform distance of 2 to 5 inches apart, and the diagonal supporting wire which is interwoven as represented, enables us to hold each and every picket up off the ground with perfect ease, keeping them even on top and the entire fence always in the open air, making the lower ends of the pickets just durable as the upper ends. Sagging is utterly impossible, as we have a direct vertibal tensil strength of 1700 lbs. to each pannel which alone is three times as strong as an ordinary pine board fence. Our five cables, which gives a combined strength of more than fifteen times that of a pine board 1x6, all interwoven in such a manner with the pickets that one wire cannot be broken without breaking 11. Thus giving us a fence 18 times stronger than a barb wire. The pickets are oak of first quality, and soaked in hot Alkalies, making them last many years. The pickets are supported every 10½ inches by the cables so that breakage is impossible, giving us a fence that will turn all kinds of stock, from the smallest pig to the meanest mule, without endangering the life of any. It is a portable fence, can be removed by drawing the staples and the fence rolled up and removed without the slightest injury. It is dog proof, keeps sheep in and dogs out. It will protect your orchards from the ravages of rabbits, and your gardens from chickens. It is endorsed by over 200,000 of our farmers, as filling every claim we make for it. No farmer can afford to do without this fence that has means to buy it. Any party wishing fence or any information in regard to this fence will address.

T. H. SUTTON, Grant, Boone county, Ky.

N. B.—This fence can be sold and delivered at any landing on the river in Boone county, at the following reduced prices: Pickets 5 in. a part 55c 4½ in. apart 60c; 4 in. apart 65c, 3½ in. a part 70c; 3 in. a part 75c: 2½ in apart 80c; 2 in. a part 85c. We have strechers expressly for our fence which we will furnish to any parties ordering fifty rods or more, and will furnish one hand to assist in putting it up, after the posts have been set.

Exposition Medal Awarded for 1884.
$5.00 and Upwards
For a Beautiful Single Set of Teeth. Extracting without pain included.
DR. DeJOHNS.
In attendance at the office. Gold fillings $1 and upwards. Amalgon 50c. Gas and Spray used. All work warranted.
Will be in Burlington the first Monday In each month, County Court.
J. C. ALLEN, 327 Vine Str., Cor. 9th, Cincinnati, Ohio.

FOR SALE.

My farm of 250 acres one mile from Richwood Station, near the Cin Southern Railroad. This farm has 50 acres of timber and is all strong land, and upper good fence, has three never failing bonds, good stable and a large tobacco barn. The improvements consist of a two story frame dwelling of 8 rooms, in first-class order, and all necessary out buildings. These premises front on the Hamilton & Richwood pike which intersects the Richwood & Beaver pike, also on the premises. Taking into consideration the quality of improvements and land, and convenience of pikes and railroads, schools and neighborhood, there is not a more desirable farm in Kentucky. Will sell on reasonable terms, ⅓ cash and the balance on time, or will trade for desirable city property. For particulars address

L. B. Stephens, Richwood, Ky.
Or H. P. Stephens, Burlington, Ky.

THE STAR
A Newspaper supporting the Principles of a Democratic Administration,
Published in the City of New York.
WILLIAM DORSHEIMER,
Editor and Proprietor.
Daily, Sunday, and Weekly Editions.
THE WEEKLY STAR,
A Sixteen-page Newspaper, issued every Wednesday.
A clean, pure, bright and interesting
FAMILY PAPER.

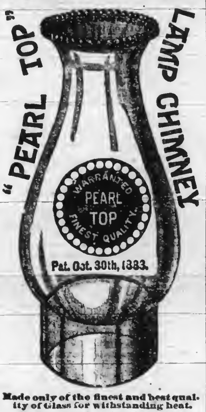
It contains the latest news, down to the hour of going to press:
Agricultural,
Market,
Fashion,
Household,
Political,
Financial and Commercial,
Poetical, Humorous and Editorial
Departments, all under the direction of trained journalists of the highest ability. Its sixteen pages will be found crowded with good things from beginning to end.
Original stories by distinguished American and foreign writers of fiction.

THE DAILY STAR,
The Daily Star contains all the news of the day in an attractive form. Its special correspondence by cable from London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna and Dublin is a commendable feature.
At Washington, Albany, and other news centers, the ablest correspondents, specially retained by The Star, furnish the latest news by telegraph.
Its literary features are unsurpassed.
The Financial and Market Reviews are unusually full and complete.
Special terms and extraordinary inducements to agents and canvassers.
Send for circulars.

TERMS OF THE WEEKLY STAR to Subscribers, free of postage in the United States and Canada, outside the limits of New York City:
Per year....$1 00
Clubs of Ten....10 00
Clubs of Fifteen (and one extra to organizer)...15 00
TERMS OF THE DAILY STAR to Subscribers:
Every day for one year (including Sunday)....$7 00
Daily, without Sunday, one year....6 00
Every day, six months....3 50
Daily, without Sunday, six months....3 00
Address, THE STAR,
26 and 28 North William St., New York

Subscribe for the Recorder.

IMMUNITY from ANNOYANCE



Made only of the finest and best quality of Glass for withstanding heat.

Every good thing is Counterfeited, and consumers are CAUTIONED against IMITATIONS of these Chimneys made of VERY POOR GLASS. See that the exact label is on each chimney as above. The Pearl Top is always clear and bright Glass.

Manufactured ONLY by
GEO. A. MACBETH & CO.
Pittsburgh Lead Glass Works.
FOR SALE BY DEALERS.

AURORA
MARBLE
AND GRANITE
WORKS,
Aurora, Ind
Will have constantly on hand
Marble and Granite Monuments,
Italian & American Headstones, &c

I am ready to do all kinds of Stone Work on short notice and at low prices Hoping to receive the patronage of Boone County, I am respectfully,

F. W. KASSEBAUM.

PIANOS-ORGANS
The demand for the Improved Mason & Hamlin Pianos is now so large that a second addition to the factory has become imperative. Do not require one-quarter as much tuning as Pianos on the prevailing wrest-pin system. Consult Catalogue, free. 100 Styles of Organs, $22 to $900. For Cash, Easy Payments, or Rented.
Mason & Hamlin Organ and Piano Co,
NEW YORK; BOSTON; CHICAGO.

AGENTS WANTED
FOR
The PEOPLES CYCLOPEDIA,
FARM & STOCK CYCLOPEDIA,
THOMPSONS' MEDICAL ADVISER,
PIONEER HISTORY.
Address
THE CAPITOL PUBLISHING CO.,
P. O. Box 459, Cincinnati, O.

Subscribe for the Recorder.

TAKE THE RECORDER,

H. F. BLASE
540 MADISON AVE.
Covington. - Ky.
FALL GOODS ARE ALL IN.
5,000 NEW ELEGANT DESIGNS TO SELECT FROM.
SUITS AND OVERCOATS MADE TO ORDER ON SHORT NOTICE.
We Guarantee Goods, Fit and Workmanship.

We have also manufactured over 1,000 Suits and Overcoats during the dull season, made out of good material and by good workmen, which we can sell as low as any house in the country.

CALL AND SEE US.
H. F. BLASE,
540 MADISON AVE. COVINGTON. KY.

STOTT BROS,
PETERSBURG, KY.
We are still in the trade with a better class of Fall & Winter Goods and Lower Prices than was ever known in this county. We can sell you direct from one of the leading factories of the country, at from 15 to 20 per cent. less than last years prices, and warranted to be No. 1 goods as they will show for themselves.
FLANNELS
OUR YARNS,
are first-class and cheaper than ever before offered. We are agents for the Shaker Yarn, old fashioned or long reel, double cut, 120 threads to the cut, best in the market.
BLANKETS,
Very cheap. We keep a general assortment of Dry Goods Notions, Boots and Shoes, Hats and Caps, Glassware, Queensware, Hardware, Tinware, and a full line of.
GROCERIES.
Coal from the Perfection Mines, in quality is "Love Among the Roses."
As our trade is gradually increasing, shows that we give you First-class Goods at Bottom Prices, and warrant all goods as represented.
Thanking the people for their liberal patronage in the past, we kindly ask a continuance of the same. Yours &c.
STOTT BROS, Petersburg, Ky.

JAMES S. WAYNE, President. JNO. L. SANDFORD, Cashier
CAPITAL $300,000.
FARMERS AND TRADERS
NATIONAL BANK.
Covington, Kentucky.
DIRECTORS.
James S. Wayne, J. S. Matson, M. C. Motch, J. H. Mersman, Sam Hind, J. L. Sandford, E. J. Hickey, L. H Dills, E. J. Green, F. P. Helm, L. C. Stephens.
The general operations of banking transacted upon the most favorable term Collections made on all points in the United States.
The Business and Accounts of Farmers are Especially Solicited by this Bank.
dec. 20-6m

COME AND SEE FOR YOURSELF.
—(o)— We've got them from the lowest price to the finest. —(o)—

None disappointed or dissatisfied in five years business. We keep constantly on hand all sizes of Burial Cases, Caskets and Robes,
— ALSO A SPLENDID —
HEARSE AND TEAM.

You can always come to us with the assurance of getting what you want in this line. We guarantee our prices 20 per cent. less than city prices. J. W. Davis has charge of this business at Hebron, and T. W. Finch is our agent at Burlington.

J. J. RUCKER & CO, Hebron, Ky.

BUGGIES! BUGGIES!!
Pfalzgraf & Wingate,
—DEALERS IN—

Carriages, Buggies
— AND —
Spring Wagons.
—(o)— GAINESVILLE, KENTUCKY. —(o)—
A Large Assortment of Buggies and Carriages constantly on hand.
ANY STYLE TO ORDER ON
—SHORT NOTICE—
We call the attention of the People of Boone County to our stock on hand, made in the latest styles and of the best material. All work warranted to give satisfaction. Special attention given to
REPAIRING WITH NEATNESS & DISPATCH,
At the Lowest possible prices.
Old work taken in exchange for new
Pfalzgraf & Wingate,
GAINSVILLE, KENTUCKY.

KENTUCKY MILITARY INSTITUTE. Advantages. 1. Exemption from temptations of city. One family—living, eating and working together. 3. Classes divided into small sections so that each cadet recites every day. 4. Expenditures under control of Superintendent. 5. Government adapted to the character of each individual cadet. 6. A faculty who associate with the cadets. 7. A system of military discipline which develops the body and imparts lessons of authority and prompt obedience. Address Col. R. D. ALLEN, Farmdale, Ky.

THE RECORDER.

RIDDELL & HALL, Publishers.

BURLINGTON, : : KENTUCKY

MY SHIP COMES IN.

'Neath Summer's sun and Winter's blast
While the long years swept slowly past,
I waited, looking out to sea,
For sure my ship would come to me.

Ah, sure! For with this morning's sun
My glad heart heard her signal gun,
And safely down the sheltering bay
I saw my ship come in to-day.

And then I learned that she had been
Eleven weeks in quarantine,
While yellow fever sunk the crew
Deep in its complementary blue.

And long before, while tempest tossed,
Her masts and rigging had been lost.
And then the crew, a frightened horde,
Had flung the cargo overboard.

And then a steamer of the line
Laid hold upon this ship of mine,
And towed her through the waters wild,
And fearful claims for salvage filed.

And then I learned the company
That had insured my ship for me
Had gone up higher than a kite,
Bursted wide open out of sight.

And so again I sit all day
Down where the restless breakers play
And wish—though all the good it does—
My ship had stayed out where it was.

And when the evening, gray and dim,
Falls on the ocean's misty brim,
With weary heart and quivering lip,
I wish I'd never had no ship.

—R. J. Burdette, in Brooklyn Eagle.

COMRADES ONLY.

The "Mitten" Given to Mr. Schnuriger by Miss Janes.

The residents of a certain retired street awoke one morning to find a small shop sprung into existence, mushroom fashion, in their midst. The neighborhood was not peopled by the upper ten, yet it grumbled not a little to find its shabby gentility in such close contact to a shop—and a dairy at that. Yes, there hung the flaunting sign, "Xavier Schnuriger, Dairy Products."

"Why couldn't his name have been John Smith?" querulously remarked the old lady across the way, as she established herself behind the window blind and prepared to take items.

"For my part, I don't see any use in names that nobody can pronounce without calling in a dentist afterward," said Mrs. Janes' daughter, an unmarried female somewhere between forty and fifty years of age.

"I wish the man himself would come to the door," continued Mrs. Janes. "A shop in our square! Really, I've lived here well on to fifty years, Lurida—that was before your time—and this is the first shopkeeper who has had the bold face to open a place of business here—right in the very house, too, where Mary Frances Perkins' first husband's sister lived for years. Our quarter is not exactly the most fashionable one, Lurida, but it is eminently respectable and cultivated—no talk of shop. Well, I never! Lurida, just come here for a moment and look out."

Miss Lurida let her knitting drop to the floor, as she hastily moved over to the window and opened another slat in the persienne, close to her mother's.

"Why, mother, he is young, isn't he? good-looking, too, in spite of his name. He must have a great deal of pluck, to open a store—here. His looks would secure him a presentation anywhere. I hope his grammar is correct—for it would be a terrible shock if he turned out to be one who said 'them people is,' or 'usen't,' or 'git out o' thar.' Really, we must encourage him by giving him our patronage. I'll buy to-day's milk there."

"Lurida!" exclaimed Mrs. Janes, too much astonished to say any thing for a moment; then: "My dear, I wish you would not go on at such a rate. You talk as if we were intending to give him an invitation to call upon us. Invite the shopkeeper in our square?—never—no, not if he was as beautiful as the Ettrick shepherd."

"How sweetly appropriate your allusions always are, mother," sighed Lurida. She was accustomed to these inconsequent comparisons in her mother's speeches, but they never failed to irritate her, for Lurida made a great point of culture.

"Lurida Janes, anybody would think you were still in your teens to hear you talk and sigh in that sentimental way."

"Well, so I am young, mother, in my feelings. I am going over to get some milk. I want to see what he is like," said the adventurous Lurida, donning a hat lined with red, that cast a most unpleasant tinge upon her high cheek bones and her somewhat prominent nose. Taking the milk can from its hook in the kitchen, she went across to the new store to satisfy her natural curiosity.

"If there isn't Luridy Janes a-going for that young man a-ready!" said Mrs. Stillwell, the next door neighbor, to the English pug dog in her lap. "Law! Romeo, that frightful old maid is never happy without there is a man a-capering at her heels. If I was she, I'd begin to settle down—she's fifty if she's a day."

In censuring Lurida's fondness for masculine attention, Mrs. Stillwell did not stop to reflect that she herself had recently buried her fourth husband, and that a certain quota of coquetry is understood to have been practiced in order to entrap four spouses. Charitable comparison is a stranger among neighbors—it is always the mote in the other person's eye that fills our thoughts.

Ding-a-ling-a-ling — quavered Mrs. Stillwell's front door-bell at that moment. Romeo barked with unusual vehemence, while his mistress, with a startled flush, stepped to a mirror to see if the parting of her frizette was exactly in the middle; then, throwing a lavendar crape shawl about her shoulders, she stepped to the door. It was only Mrs. Richards, who kept a private boarding-house next door but one; and she had brought her impish six-year-old son with her.

"Did you ever!" exclaimed the visitor breathlessly, when she sunk into the depths of the late Mr. Stillwell's favorite easy-chair—an act that seemed little short of sacrilege to the bereaved widow. "Did you ever! Luridy Jane is over there already"—indicating the shop with a crook of her ebony finger.

"Just like her," said Mrs. Stillwell, as she moved a little nearer to her caller, in order not to lose a word of the lively gossip that would be forthcoming. Mrs. Richards had a vivid imagination—quite equal to the extravagant tales of the Arabian Nights, except that her histories were brimming over with malice that scorched and deadened wherever they touched, like a stream of molten lava. "Just like her," repeated Mrs. Stillwell. "No maids like the old maids. She's fifty if she's a day. Even her fine airs and all her talk about culture can't hide her old age."

"Fifty, you don't say? I've often wondered, but—Jimmie, stop wetting a finger every time you turn a page of that album. You've left a great thumb mark on every page, you wicked boy. Stop, or I'll whip you."

"No, you won't," nonchalantly retorted Jimmie, continuing to moisten his thumb in order to make the pages turn more easily.

"Did you hear me, Jimmie Richards?"

"Yes, ma."

"Well, you better mind, then. Where was I, Mrs. Stillwell? O, about Luridy Janes' age. According to that, her mother must be nearly a hundred. Awful homely old woman, isn't she?—uncultivated too. Why, what do you think? The other day, says she to me, 'I've been tryin' to persuade Luridy to take dancin' lessons—one is invited out so much more when one dances.' But Luridy says, says she: 'Don't you think it's most too late for me to learn to dance? I'm going on fifty.' "

"I should say!" exclaimed Mrs. Stillwell, who was eyeing Jimmie nervously. He had removed all the bric-a-brac from the mantels, tables and brackets, and had made a Noah's ark procession of the articles, two and two, that stretched clear across the room.

"Jimmie Richards!" cried his mother, "you just put them things back. He don't mean any harm, Mrs. Stillwell. Boys will be boys. Jimmie, mind me this instant.

"Yes, ma," he replied without the smallest idea of obeying.

There was an ominous silence of one minute, then Jimmie rent the air with a piteous howl.

"There, now, you'll disobey me again, will you?"

She thrust him into a chair beside her. Mrs. Stillwell replaced her bric-a-brac, and then the two women resumed their comments, but this time upon people not concerned in this narration.

Lurida, in the meantime, was forming the acquaintance of the shopkeeper, who seemed more like a gentleman of high standing than like a dairyman. He had placed the five cents' worth of milk in the can and returned it to her. Still she lingered.

"Curious old girl, that," irreverently thought the proprietor, who was wondering why she did not go. Lurida's eyes rested upon the window, in which were tastefully arranged some plants—two palms and a number of tall ferns.

"How pretty your window is. Who would ever have thought of making a store out of this old house. You can't imagine how surprised we were to see a store opened in our square. It is the first time."

"Just because it never had been, did you think it never could be?—is that the theory you follow out in life?" he asked, with a shadow of annoyance in his voice.

"O, well, we thought we were too far up town to suffer from such an invasion," she answered, without taking his feelings into consideration.

"You are too conservative for an American," he answered, quickly. "I have been trying all my life to make that the central idea of my writings—a broader social democracy than we have now. They talk of European aristocracy—there is no country in the world where people are so rigidly exclusive as in America—exclusive to every thing but money. Bah!"

"You write, then?" asked Lurida, with renewed interest, looking about the shop interrogatively.

"You wonder why I am here if I write?" he said. "Well, I wouldn't be here if people bought what I wrote. It is one thing to write, and quite another to make money in that calling."

"Are your family going to live here in the house?" inquired Lurida, eager to know more of this singular person.

"Family?" he repeated, with a vague look of dismay. "Family? I have none—never had. Fact is, I am both an orphan and a bachelor."

"Then you will have plenty of room here—and quiet," smilingly responded Lurida, taking her leave.

"Well, Lurida Janes, did you stop to help him tend shop?" tartly demanded Mrs. Janes, when Lurida had come into the sitting-room and hung up her hat.

"He's delightful," remarked Lurida, ignoring her mother's ill temper. "He talks like a gentleman—and he is a writer. I should think he'd be rather lonely, living in that big house all alone. I always pity a man who has no kith nor kin. But, then, perhaps it is better for a writer to live in seclusion and solitude—he has a chance to concentrate his ideas on his work. Why, mother, is anything the matter?"

"Matter!" said Mrs. Janes, sternly, eyeing her daughter over her spectacles. "Matter enough. Did he tell you all that while you were buying the milk? He's a bad young man, take my word for it, Lurida—if his tongue runs on like that."

"But, ma, I asked him the questions. He would never have opened his mouth if I hadn't asked him the questions," said Lurida, with a vague tone of apology.

"Well, I never!" exclaimed the mother, more disconcerted than ever. "Lurida, you are a fool! The neighbors will have it about to-morrow that you have been running after the store young man. Yes, they will—you needn't shake your head—for I saw Mrs. Richards going into Mrs. Stillwell's a while ago. Then the slats of the window blind were moved, so I knew what was going on. We'll hear of this to-morrow, if I am not mistaken. O, Luridy, Luridy, you little fool!"

Xavier Schnuriger was not altogether dependent upon his custom. The fact was, that he was a man of unlimited literary ambition. In the flush of his youth he had edited the college paper. Later, in his twenty-first year, he had been assistant editor of the political organ of which his father was a manager. His father's death at once caused the failure of the paper, and threw the young man out of his position. The brief glory of being one of the "we" on an editorial staff had unfitted him for any other calling in life—in his own estimation. He was not without ability, but the barriers which publishers must necessarily place about themselves for protection left Schnuriger just without the golden bars behind which manuscripts were retained as "available."

"By Jove!" he often grumbled; "if I was a pig-sticker or a rag-picker the world would be agog with my talent. As it is, because I am in easy circumstances, and for the reason that I have had every advantage, they put me down in their black list."

Of course, this was the view of a disappointed aspirant, but it seemed very real to him. Being by nature a man of indomitable perseverance, he never permitted his disappointment to conquer him beyond all hope. For fully ten years he had written his manuscripts, and sent them upon their way with return stamps enclosed—to the best magazines first, then down the list, until they were accepted somewhere. There came a time later on, when some things that he wrote were gracefully accepted as long as no price was attached—but never a check greeted his expectant eyes.

"If I were only a rag-picker," he had repeated over and over, "they would make me a hero."

Stern necessity had forced him to go into some business, and a friend had offered him the city agency of his dairy products. So it came about that destiny had made him "the butter-man of our square." When well settled in the new place, he smiled a grave, amused little smile, and said to himself:

"Well, this will do for present needs, but the publishers will have to come to terms some day, for I shall write, write until I am called back to heaven, and if they have paper and pen there, I have no doubt but that I shall still continue through all time."

Not long after he opened his dairy depot, he wrote a story that seemed to him to be of stirring interest. It was a graphic romance, founded upon a certain Indian massacre which devastated an island in Humboldt Bay, California, some fifty years before. A few weeks after it was sent away, it was returned to him with a note which said:

"We would advise you to stick to butter-making. It may pay you far better than literature."

Whether the message was meant to be offensive or not, he could scarcely tell. It might have come from the weary "reader" of the great publishing house; that over-worked individual who continually felt the humiliating certainty that every thing in the literary profession below the "great lights," was an everlasting grind for which there was no compensation. Schnuriger gave the writer the benefit of the doubt—and even went so far as to say compassionately: "Poor devil!"

Miss Jane's daily calls had established somewhat of a friendly footing between them. He no longer looked upon her as a homely old girl of too youthful proclivities, as he had at first. Indeed, he had found her interesting from many standpoints, and he rather enjoyed his conversations with her. It had not gone far enough for him to call upon her—still the intercourse was very friendly.

One morning Lurida came in, and found him in a decidedly bad humor; but she knew she had it in her power to dispel the shadows from that morning at least.

"I have been writing to my cousin," she began, "my cousin in New York."

"Strange!" sarcastically murmured Schnuriger, with no great civility.

Miss Lurida colored a bit, but persevered, saying: "Yes. Some time ago I mentioned your name. My cousin is the owner of Popper's Magazine, you know."

"You don't mean it," said Schnuriger, with awakening interest.

"My cousin said that he knew of you," continued Lurida, "and he asked my honest opinion in the matter. He has always put great reliance in what I say, and as he is immensely interested in the budding genius of the West, it has fallen into my power to bring him into business relations with quite a number of able men and women here. What do you think he asked me? He asked if you were really a butter-maker, and if you intended to go on wasting ink through all eternity."

Schnuriger bit his lip at this sally, and then bent a scrutinizing gaze upon Miss Lurida, to see if she understood the cut, and if she was laughing at him. Apparently, she was innocent of all offense, for she continued, this time coloring slightly: "I wrote back that you were gifted with indomitable perseverance, and—well, I'll not tell you the rest. Finally, I wrote to him that none of the neighbors thought that dairying was quite in your line."

"Confound those women!" he growled. "What makes them think I am not a butter-maker?"

"Well," returned Lurida with thoughtful reluctance, "I suppose it is because—because—you know you do make outrageous blunders once in a while—when people ask you about dairy management; and then, do you remember the day when you sold that young Jersey cow to Mr. Peters, and he made you take off half the price, because he said that old age had made her lose her upper front teeth, and you believed him? Such blunders don't pass unheeded, my friend. Are you offended?"

"Not at all. But now I would like to ask you for the whole of your cousin's criticism."

"You must remember, Mr. Schnuriger, that you are an absolute stranger to my cousin John," said Miss Lurida, with visible embarrassment.

"You mean, then, that the criticism is hardly flattering? My feelings are pretty well calloused by this time; I can endure a great deal," he answered, with a curious half laugh.

"Then I shall ask you to drop in this evening and read the letter yourself; it will be easier than telling you," she said, rising to take her leave.

"What will Mrs. Stillwell say, to see you entertaining the shop-keeper? I heard her tell your mother it was a burning shame for her to permit you to speak to such an inferior person."

"If you don't mind it, I am quite sure I don't."

When she had gone he muttered to himself:

"It would be strange if, after all my prejudices against that woman, she should be my stepping-stone to success. I wonder what compensation she expects. I haven't anything to give her but myself—bah! what an idea. Such an old woman!" In the evening he made his first call across the way. After much persuasion, Miss Lurida brought forth the document, of which it will only be necessary to give the extract in question:

"If the man is really a butter-maker, he shows an extraordinary acquisition of knowledge. If he has had every advantage, then his genius is somewhat colorless, or rather overdone. I would give him a lift if I thought it would do him any good; but he is too much like the ordinary swarm that makes life a burden to me now. Perhaps if he cut out the countless historical and mythological allusions which adorn his work; if he reduced the avoirdupois of his figures of speech; if he cut each one of his long-winded sentences into at least three clean, straightforward, manly statements; if he localized his genius, and let the old European highways severely alone; if he searched for hitherto unwritten bits of legendary history that must be floating about that new western country—if he did this, I might look at his work. For the present style I have no available time. So, Lurida, use your judgment; you know I am always willing to prop up your weakling proteges when they deserve propping."

Underneath Lurida's plain exterior there ran a vein of earnest purpose, which had made her long to be of some use in the world. Long ago she had found that it was not ordained for her to shine in any sphere as a creative genius; but her labor had been directed toward helping others to shine, and she was happy in this work. As she now looked at her guest her face showed a grave sympathy. Yet she knew that she could not have done him a greater service. His lips were firmly pressed together while he read and re-read the letter. Lifting his eyes from the letter at last, he said:

"By heavens! How can you make gold out of lead? How can you make a new man out of an old one? Well, Miss Lurida, at least you know that I am no butter-maker. I lay claims to gentility—may I remain and chat with you?"

The evening passed pleasantly, and when he finally rose to go, he said, gratefully:

"How shall I ever repay you?"

"Repay me for cutting your heart to the core with rough words? But if you are grateful, don't let me see that you feel the obligation, for that would mar my pleasure."

"This is a great service for you to undertake for—your butter-maker," he said, with a tinge of bitterness.

"I am too democratic to think of that now, even if I did at first," she replied, smiling a little at his sense of abasement. "Good evening, and remember you are to call often. If I can be a help to you, I will."

"Good evening"—and he was gone.

Their friendship took rapid strides after this—it being no longer necessary for them to confine their conversations to those held over the counter. There came a day, at last, when the postman brought, instead of another "available," an imposing document in a legal envelope, which the expectant author tore open with eager curiosity.

> MR. XAVIER SCHNURIGER—Dear Sir: "We shall be pleased to accept the MS. you have kindly sent us. Enclosed you will find check for the same, which, though hardly adequate, is all that we feel we can afford to an author who is yet unknown to fame. Hoping to hear from you from time to time, we remain yours,
>
> "EDITORS POPPER'S MAGAZINE."
>
> To Xavier Schnuriger.

He thrust on his hat, and rushed across the street to tell Miss Janes the news. Lurida's face beamed with glad satisfaction as he entered, and before he had time to speak, she had taken his hand cordially, and said:

"I know about it, for I, too, have had a letter. It makes me very happy, for I know the day will come when I shall be proud to say that I had the honor to help you become famous." He almost loved her as she stood before him, making her sympathetic speech. She no longer seemed old or ineligible—she was to him then a cultivated woman, who would make—as she had made—a help-meet.

"O, Miss Lurida, I can never thank you—" he began, drawing her a little closer to him.

"Sh!" she answered, smiling at his excess of emotion. "There is no need to speak of any return. Besides, my friend, I am old enough to be your grandmother."

"Not quite—" he laughed, somewhat disconcerted by the shrewd way in which she had anticipated what would have been an awkward scene. "Not quite, Miss Lurida; any man might be proud to ask you to be his help-meet."

"Sh!" she entreated. "I am quite enough your senior to be permitted to make of you a protege without any impropriety. We will be friends, comrades, instead."

"Comrades," he repeated, still holding her hand. "That sounds very sweet to a lonely man. "Well, good night, and God bless you, comrade"—giving her hand another hearty grasp, and taking his leave.

"Yes," he said, as he went across the street, "she is the best little woman on earth; and if she were only ten or fifteen years younger—"

And Mrs. Stillwell said to her pug: "Humph! I do b'lieve she's given him the mitten. Served him right!"—Emelie Tracy Y. Swett, in Overland Monthly.

CONCRETE FLOORS.

How to Prepare the Foundations for a Cement Floor for a Stable.

The first preparation for a concrete floor is to insure complete drainage. Frost is too powerful for concrete—if wet under the floor, frost may destroy it in a day—it should therefore be completely drained before laying such a floor. When this is provided for, then place a layer of broken stone all over the space to be occupied by the floor, and with a paver's mallet drive these into the earth so as to be solid. Now a thin layer of smaller stone over this, and you are ready for the concrete. First make some thin grout by mixing two of sand with one of water lime when dry; then wet this up thin, so that it will run in between the broken stone. As fast as this thin grout fills up the spaces between the rough stone, let the whole be driven down moderately, with small mallet, and all settled solid together; add more grout if required, till all is filled to the top of the broken stone; level it off as well as may be. Now it is ready for the top layer of concrete. This layer is best if made with Portland cement, for it will be much harder than if made with common water lime; yet if Portland cement can not be had, then Akron or other good common water lime will do. If made of Akron cement, mix 1 1-2 of sand with one of cement when dry; if of Portland, mix two of sand with one of cement. Then mix well into thin mortar—spread this, in a layer 3-4 of an inch thick, all over the prepared foundation, rubbing it down well, so that it may be compact. It is important that the surface should be even and uniform. And to this end, a gauge is laid on each side of the floor, and a straight-edge, reaching from one gauge to the other, moved over the space, will show when it is even with the gauges.

This makes a very complete floor, rat and other vermin proof. The Portland cement will stand for a considerable time with no protection from cattle's feet; but cattle, in getting up, place much weight on the toes of the fore-feet, and will soon dig a hole in common concrete—they will in a few years dig holes in stone. It is, therefore, better to lay down a board next the manger, and let the friction of the fore-feet come on this board (some regard it best to lay boards from manger to gutter), which is easily replaced when worn out, and the concrete will remain uninjured. This floor will keep the manure from soaking into the earth, rendering it much easier to keep the stable sweet and wholesome for the animals. But the manure, to save both liquid and solid, should be taken directly to the field, and not piled up in the yard to lose most of its liquid by soakage and evaporation.—Country Gentleman.

FARM HORSES.

The Dangers to Which They Are Subject in the Spring.

Idleness is the bane of the average farm horse, fed as they generally are during the winter season. The muscles become soft, and there is a general want of tone in the entire system, opening the way for getting overheated, and that opens the way for taking cold. There is, during spring, an essential tendency in the high-fed, non-exercised horse, to perspire profusely, and his unshed coat, holding this excess of moisture upon the surface, forms an important factor in whatever damaging result follows. If the farmer could have the opportunity, at the beginning of his operations with the plow, to hitch in a stage or truck horse that had been worked during winter, with one of his over-fattened and idly-wintered animals, he would speedily see the contrast to the manner of performance, and in the condition of the two horses at night. The one would come from his stall in the morning fresh and limber, while the other would be sore in every muscle and joint, and if he had had a fair day's work put upon him—fair for a horse in condition for work—it is quite likely that he would, by the second day, be "off his feed." Taking cold in such a plight would be a very dangerous cold to take. The farm boys and hired men not unfrequently say: "We are favoring the work horse and feeding him up for the spring rush." When the rush comes, a horse that has had service to do, enough to "harden him," as the saying goes, being, at the same time, fairly fed, can go into the field with comfort and safety to his health. It takes a wiser man than the average farm hand to "break in" a fatted, unused farm horse, without getting him on the sick list.—National Live-Stock Journal.

Beans as Food.

The nutritive value of beans is very great, greater than almost any other article of food in common use. Considering their richness they are probably the cheapest food we have, but somewhat difficult of digestion, probably owing to the fact that we rarely cook them enough and masticate insufficiently. In preparing beans for the table they should be first well soaked in cold water, then thrown into boiling water and cooked of a medium consistency, between a fluid and a solid, neither too thick nor too thin. They require some acid when eaten, and a sufficient amount of salt to render them palatable. They may be eaten with potatoes or other vegetables which contain more starch and less albumen, rather than with too much bread or meat.—Cleveland Leader.

TEXAN SNAKES.

A Great Country for Monster Specimens of the Rattlesnake Persuasion.

The largest rattlesnakes are in Texas, on the lower Rio Grande, where they sometimes attain the length of twelve feet and are heavy in proportion. The smallest are the "horned" rattlesnakes of Arizona, New Mexico and Southern California, which seldom reach a length of two feet. They have two little excrescences over the eyes and are full of devilment. They have rattles, but seldom use them, preferring to lie half hidded in the sand until stepped on, when they remonstrate. The sand or "dessert" is also small, and pretends to be on neighborly terms with the prairie dog, whose burrows he occupies. I have reason to believe that when the rattlesnake inserts himself in the bosom of a prairie dog's family he does so on fraudulent grounds and is unwillingly entertained. The prairie dog carries no life insurance and can not afford a quarrel, and the snake is mean enough to take the advantage of him. There is a little brown and very comical owl who likewise takes up residence with the prairie dog, but he makes at least a show of earning his rent by remaining at the entrance and acting as janitor, politely bowing to everybody who passes. Neither snake, dog nor owl seems to mind the others' presence, but are exceedingly sociable.—Nashville American.

* * *

LIFE-SENATOR FLINT, Canadian parliament, says: St. Jacobs Oil acts like a charm. Rev. W. M. Leftwich, D. D., Nashville, publicly endorses Red Star Cough Cure. Price, twenty-five cents a bottle.

THIS talk about the editorial pen is all nonsense—nearly all editors use pencils.—Chicago Ledger.

NOT a faded or gray hair to be seen, after using Hall's Hair Renewer.

A powerful remedy for lung troubles. Safe for young or old. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

WHAT is it that is dry, but still has a running spring in it! A watch.

PIKE'S TOOTHACHE DROPS cure in 1 minute, 25c. Glenn's Sulphur Soap heals and beautifies. 25c. GERMAN CORN REMOVER kills Corns & Bunions.

DESIRABLE Quarters—Twenty-five cent pieces.—Boston Post.

IF afflicted with Sore Eyes use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye Water. Druggists sell it. 25c.

AS A home-ruler the cook is a supreme success.—N. Y. Independent.

No Opium in Piso's Cure for Consumption. Cures where other remedies fail. 25c.

A SCHOOL for liars—A school of fish.—Indianapolis Herald.

THE MARKETS.

CINCINNATI, April 20.

LIVE STOCK—Cattle—Common	$2 00	@ 2 75
Choice Butchers	3 85	@ 4 50
HOGS—Common	3 40	@ 3 80
Good Packers	3 90	@ 4 25
SHEEP—Good to choice	4 50	@ 5 25
FLOUR—Family	3 80	@ 4 10
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red	88	@ 90
No. 3 red	80	@ 85
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@ 37¼
Oats—No. 2 mixed	33	@ 33½
Rye—No. 2	67	@ 68
HAY—Timothy No. 1	12 50	@ 13 00
TOBACCO—Common Lugs	8 20	@ 9 80
Good Mediums	10 50	@ 12 25
PROVISIONS—Pork—Mess	10 25	@ 10 37½
Lard—Prime steam	5 10	@ 5 95
BUTTER—Choice Dairy	12	@ 14
Ohio Creamery	20	@ 27
APPLES—Prime	1 50	@ 1 65
POTATOES—per bushel	55	@ 60
NEW YORK.
FLOUR—State and Western	$3 25	@ 3 60
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 Chicago		@ 91
No. 2 red	90⅝	@ 91½
Corn—No. 2 mixed	42	@ 48
Oats—mixed	37	@ 46
PORK—Mess	10 50	@ 10 75
LARD—Western steam		@ 6 20
CHICAGO.
FLOUR—State and Western	$4 50	@ 4 75
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red	77½	@ 78¼
No. 2 Chicago Spring		@ 78⅜
Corn—No. 2		@ 36⅛
Oats—No. 2	28⅛	@ 28⅜
Rye		@ 60
PORK—Mess	9 15	@ 9 25
LARD—Steam		@ 5 90
BALTIMORE.
FLOUR—Family	$4 50	@ 5 00
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2	91⅛	@ 91¼
Corn—Mixed	46⅛	@ 46⅞
Oats—Mixed	38	@ 39
PROVISIONS—Pork—Mess	10 00	@ 11 00
Lard—Refined		@ 7¼
CATTLE—First quality	4 87½	@ 5 00
HOGS	5 55	@ 6 25
INDIANAPOLIS.
Wheat—No. 2 red	$	@ 88¼
Corn—mixed		@ 35
Oats—mixed		@ 30¾
LOUISVILLE.
Flour—A No. 1	$4 00	@ 4 50
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 86
Corn—mixed		@ 37
Oats—mixed		@ 33
PORK—mess		@ 10 50
LARD—steam	7 75	@ 8 00

Boils

And pimples, and other like affections caused by impure blood, are readily cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. While it purifies, this medicine also vitalizes and enriches the blood, and builds up every function of the body. Scrofula, humors of all kinds, swellings in the neck, hives, ringworm, tetter, abscesses, ulcers, sores, salt rheum, scaldhead, etc., are also cured by this excellent blood-purifier.

Purify the Blood

"Last Spring I was troubled with boils, caused by my blood being out of order. Two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla cured me, and I recommend it to others troubled with affections of the blood." J. SCHOCH, Peoria, Ill.

"I had been troubled with hives and pimples for some time. Other remedies having failed, I was advised to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I have taken two bottles, and am entirely cured. I think Hood's Sarsaparilla has no equal as a blood-purifier." EFFIE M. PETRIX, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

CONTAINS NO ACID
LE PAGE'S CARRIAGE GLUE FOR MECHANICS
READY FOR USE.

LE PAGE'S GLUES

Used by the best manufacturers and mechanics in the world. Pullman Palace Car Co., Mason & Hamlin Organ & Piano Co., &c., for all kinds of fine work. At the New Orleans Exposition, joints made with it endured a testing strain of over 1600 Pounds TO A SQUARE INCH.

Pronounced strongest glue known.

TWO GOLD MEDALS. London, 1883. New Orleans, 1885.

If your dealer does not keep it send his card and 10c. postage for sample can, FREE.

RUSSIA CEMENT CO., Gloucester, Mass.

ARTISTS' MATERIALS. Lustra and Kensington Colors. Repousse Work. Wax Flower Supplies. Send for our various catalogues. Mail orders solicited. HOFFMANN BROS., 165 Main Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

LIST OF DISEASES ALWAYS CURABLE BY USING

MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT.

OF HUMAN FLESH.	OF ANIMALS.
Rheumatism,	Scratches,
Burns and Scalds,	Sores and Galls,
Stings and Bites,	Spavin, Cracks,
Cuts and Bruises,	Screw Worm, Grub,
Sprains & Stitches,	Foot Rot, Hoof All,
Contracted Muscles,	Lameness,
Stiff Joints,	Swinny, Founders,
Backache,	Sprains, Strains,
Eruptions,	Sore Feet,
Frost Bites,	Stiffness,

and all external diseases, and every hurt or accident. For general use in family, stable and stock-yard, it is

THE BEST OF ALL LINIMENTS

Soldiers.

From Colonel C. H. Mackey, 32d Iowa Infantry: I have now been using Ely's Cream Balm for three months, and am experiencing no trouble from catarrh whatever. I have been a sufferer for twenty years.—C. H. MACKEY, Sigourney, Iowa.

For several years I have been troubled with catarrh — Ely's Cream Balm has proved to be the article desired. I believe it is the only cure.—L. B. CORHAN, Hardware Merchant, Towanda, Pa.

A particle is applied into each nostril; is agreeable to use. Price 50 cents by mail or at Druggists. Send for circular. ELY BROTHERS, Druggists, Owego, N.Y.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION. CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.

CONSUMPTION

I have a positive remedy for the above disease; by its use thousands of cases of the worst kind and of long standing have been cured. Indeed, so strong is my faith in its efficacy, that I will send TWO BOTTLES FREE, together with a VALUABLE TREATISE on this disease, to any sufferer. Give Express and P. O. address. DR. T. A. SLOCUM, 181 Pearl St., N. Y.

CANCER Treated and cured without the knife. Book on treatment sent free. Address F. L. POND, M.D., Aurora, Kane Co., Ill.

M. EHRET, JR. & CO.
—MANUFACTURERS OF—

FOR FLAT AND STEEP ROOFS.
GUARANTEED
CHEAPEST & BEST IN USE.
ABSOLUTELY
WATER, FIRE & WIND-PROOF.
PUT ON BY ANYBODY.
W. O. BURGESS, Agt.,
8 and 9 Public Landing, CINCINNATI, O.

Buckeye Folding Binder.

The lightest running elevator binder in the world. Folds so as to pass through farm gates. Requires less storage room. Never misses a bundle. Mention this paper when you send for our Catalogue.
C. Aultman & Co., Canton, Ohio.

FREE FARMS IN SUNNY SAN LUIS.

The most Wonderful Agricultural Park in America. Surrounded by prosperous mining and manufacturing towns. FARMER'S PARADISE! Magnificent crops raised in 1885. THOUSANDS OF ACRES OF GOVERNMENT LAND, subject to pre-emption & homestead. Lands for sale to actual settlers at $3.00 per Acre. Long Time. Park irrigated by immense canals. Cheap railroad rates. Every attention shown settlers. For maps, pamphlets, etc., address COLORADO LAND & LOAN CO., Opera House Block, Denver, Colo. Box, 2890.

ASTHMA CURED

German Asthma Cure never fails to give immediate relief in the worst cases, insures comfortable sleep; effects cures where all others fail. A trial convinces the most skeptical. Price 50c. and $1.00, of Druggists or by mail. Sample FREE for stamp. DR. R. SCHIFFMAN, St. Paul, Minn.

LOVE COURTSHIP and MARRIAGE. This most wonderful and handsome book of 160 pages mailed for only 10c. Ads. UNION PUB. CO., Newark, N.J.

OPIUM Habit, Quickly and Painlessly cured at home. Correspondence solicited and free trial of cure sent honest investigators. THE HUMANE REMEDY COMPANY, Lafayette, Ind.

HAIR Wigs, Bangs and Waves sent C. O. D. anywhere. Wholesale and retail price-list free. B. C. Strehl & Co., 173 Wabash-av., Chicago.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. Dr. J. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio

FINE Blooded Cattle, Sheep, Hogs, Poultry, dogs for sale. Catalogues with 150 engravings free. N. P. Boyer & Co., Coatesville, Pa.

A.N.K.—E. 1079

INVALIDS' HOTEL AND SURGICAL INSTITUTE

No. 663 Main Street, BUFFALO, N. Y.

Not a Hospital, but a pleasant Remedial Home, organized with

A FULL STAFF OF EIGHTEEN PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS,

And exclusively devoted to the treatment of all Chronic Diseases.

This imposing Establishment was designed and erected to accommodate the large number of invalids who visit Buffalo from every State and Territory, as well as from many foreign lands, that they may avail themselves of the professional services of the Staff of skilled specialists in medicine and surgery that compose the Faculty of this widely-celebrated institution.

A FAIR AND BUSINESS-LIKE OFFER TO INVALIDS.

We earnestly invite you to come, see and examine for yourself, our institutions, appliances, advantages and success in curing chronic diseases. Have a mind of your own. Do not listen to or heed the counsel of skeptical friends or jealous physicians, who know nothing of us, our system of treatment, or means of cure, yet who never lose an opportunity to misrepresent and endeavor to prejudice people against us. We are responsible to you for what we represent, and if you come and visit us, and find that we have misrepresented, in any particular, our institutions, advantages or success, we will promptly refund to you all expenses of your trip. We court honest, sincere investigation, have no secrets, and are only too glad to show all interested and candid people what we are doing for suffering humanity.

NOT ALWAYS NECESSARY TO SEE PATIENTS.

By our original system of diagnosis, we can treat many chronic diseases just as successfully without as with a personal consultation. While we are always glad to see our patients, and become acquainted with them, show them our institutions, and familiarize them with our system of treatment, yet we have not seen one person in five hundred whom we have cured. The perfect accuracy with which scientists are enabled to deduce the most minute particulars in their several departments, appears almost miraculous, if we view it in the light of the early ages. Take, for example, the electro-magnetic telegraph, the greatest invention of the age. Is it not a marvelous degree of accuracy which enables an operator to exactly locate a fracture in a submarine cable nearly three thousand miles long? Our venerable "clerk of the weather" has become so thoroughly familiar with the most wayward elements of nature that he can accurately predict their movements. He can sit in Washington and foretell what the weather will be in Florida or New York as well as if several hundred miles did not intervene between him and the places named. And so in all departments of modern science, what is required is the knowledge of certain signs. From these scientists deduce accurate conclusions regardless of distance. So, also, in medical science, diseases have certain unmistakable signs, or symptoms, and by reason of this fact, we have been enabled to originate and perfect a system of determining, with the greatest accuracy, the nature of chronic diseases, without seeing and personally examining our patients. In recognizing diseases without a personal examination of the patient, we claim to possess no miraculous powers. We obtain our knowledge of the patient's disease by the practical application, to the practice of medicine, of well-established principles of modern science. And it is to the accuracy with which this system has endowed us that we owe our almost world-wide reputation of skillfully treating lingering or chronic affections. This system of practice, and the marvelous success which has been attained through it, demonstrate the fact that diseases display certain phenomena, which, being subjected to scientific analysis, furnish abundant and unmistakable data, to guide the judgment of the skillful practitioner aright in determining the nature of diseased conditions. The most ample resources for treating lingering or chronic diseases, and the greatest skill, are thus placed within the easy reach of every invalid, however distant he or she may reside from the physicians making the treatment of such affections a specialty. Full particulars of our original, scientific system of examining and treating patients at a distance are contained in "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser." By R. V. Pierce, M. D. 1000 pages and over 300 colored and other illustrations. Sent, post-paid, for $1.50. Or write and describe your symptoms, inclosing ten cents in stamps, and a complete treatise, on your particular disease, will be sent you, with our terms for treatment and all particulars.

SIGNS OF DISEASE.

MARVELOUS SUCCESS.

COMMON SENSE AS APPLIED TO MEDICINE.

It is a well-known fact, and one that appeals to the judgment of every thinking person, that the physician who devotes his whole time to the study and investigation of a certain class of diseases, must become better qualified to treat such diseases than he who attempts to treat every ill to which flesh is heir, without giving special attention to any class of diseases. Men, in all ages of the world, who have become famous, have devoted their lives to some special branch of science, art, or literature.

By thorough organization, and subdividing the practice of medicine and surgery in this institution, every invalid is treated by a specialist—one who devotes his undivided attention to the particular class of diseases to which the case belongs. The advantage of this arrangement must be obvious. Medical science offers a vast field for investigation, and no physician can, within the brief limits of a life-time, achieve the highest degree of success in the treatment of every malady incident to humanity.

OUR FIELD OF SUCCESS.

NASAL, THROAT AND LUNG DISEASES. The treatment of Diseases of the Air Passages and Lungs, such as Chronic Nasal Catarrh, Laryngitis, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption, both through correspondence and at our institutions, constitutes an important specialty.

We publish three separate books on Nasal, Throat and Lung Diseases, which give much valuable information, viz: (1) A Treatise on Consumption, Laryngitis and Bronchitis; price, post-paid, ten cents. (2) A Treatise on Asthma, or Phthisic, giving new and successful treatment; price, post-paid, ten cents. (3) A Treatise on Chronic Nasal Catarrh; price, post-paid, two cents.

DISEASES OF DIGESTION. Dyspepsia, "Liver Complaint," Obstinate Constipation, Chronic Diarrhea, Tape-worms, and kindred affections are among those chronic diseases in the successful treatment of which our specialists have attained great success. Many of the diseases affecting the liver and other organs contributing in their functions to the process of digestion, are very obscure, and are not infrequently mistaken by both laymen and physicians for other maladies, and treatment is employed directed to the removal of a disease which does not exist. Our Complete Treatise on Diseases of the Digestive Organs will be sent to any address on receipt of ten cents in postage stamps.

KIDNEY DISEASES. BRIGHT'S DISEASE, DIABETES, and kindred maladies, have been very largely treated, and cures effected in thousands of cases which had been pronounced beyond hope. These diseases are readily diagnosticated, or determined, by chemical analysis of the urine, without a personal examination of patients, who can, therefore, generally be successfully treated at their homes. The study and practice of chemical analysis and microscopical examination of the urine in our consideration of cases, with reference to correct diagnosis, in which our institution long ago became famous, has naturally led to a very extensive practice in diseases of the urinary organs. Probably no other institution in the world has been so largely patronized by sufferers from this class of maladies as the old and world-famed World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel. Our specialists have acquired, through a vast and varied experience, great expertness in determining the exact nature of each case, and, hence, have been successful in nicely adapting their remedies for the cure of each individual case.

CAUTION. These delicate diseases should be carefully treated by a specialist thoroughly familiar with them, and who is competent to ascertain the exact condition and stage of advancement which the disease has made (which can only be ascertained by a careful chemical and microscopical examination of the urine), for medicines which are curative in one stage or condition are known to do positive injury in others. We have never, therefore, attempted to put up anything for general sale through druggists, recommending to cure these diseases, although possessing very superior remedies, knowing full well from an extensive experience that the only safe and successful course is to carefully determine the disease and its progress in each case by a chemical and microscopical examination of the urine, and then adapt our medicines to the exact stage of the disease and condition of our patient.

MARVELOUS SUCCESS. To this wise course of action we attribute the marvelous success attained by our specialists in that important and extensive Department of our institutions devoted exclusively to the treatment of diseases of the kidneys and bladder. The treatment of diseases of the urinary organs having constituted a leading branch of our practice at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, and, being in constant receipt of numerous inquiries for a complete work on the nature and curability of these maladies, written in a style to be easily understood, we have published a large Illustrated Treatise on these diseases, which will be sent to any address on receipt of ten cents in postage stamps.

BLADDER DISEASES. INFLAMMATION OF THE BLADDER, STONE IN THE BLADDER, Gravel, Enlarged Prostate Gland, Retention of Urine, and kindred affections, may be included among those in the cure of which our specialists have achieved extraordinary success. These are fully treated of in our illustrated pamphlet on Urinary Diseases. Sent by mail for ten cents in stamps.

STRICTURE. STRICTURES AND URINARY FISTULÆ.—Hundreds of cases of the worst form of strictures, many of them greatly aggravated by the careless use of instruments in the hands of inexperienced physicians and surgeons, causing false passages, urinary fistulæ, and other complications, annually consult us for relief and cure. That no case of this class is too difficult for the skill of our specialists is proved by cures reported in our illustrated treatises on these maladies, to which we refer with pride. To intrust this class of cases to physicians of small experience is a dangerous proceeding. Many a man has been ruined for life by so doing, while thousands annually lose their lives through unskillful treatment. Send particulars of your case and ten cents in stamps for a large, illustrated treatise containing many testimonials.

NERVOUS DISEASES. Epileptic Convulsions, or Fits, Paralysis, or Palsy, Locomotor Ataxia, St. Vitus's Dance, Insomnia, or inability to sleep, and threatened insanity, Nervous Debility, arising from overstudy, excesses, and other causes, and every variety of nervous affection, are treated by our specialists for these diseases with unusual success. See numerous cases reported in our different illustrated pamphlets on nervous diseases, any one of which will be sent for ten cents in postage stamps, when request for them is accompanied with a statement of a case for consultation, so that we may know which one of our Treatises to send.

DISEASES OF WOMEN. We have a special Department, thoroughly organized, and devoted exclusively to the treatment of Diseases of Women. Every case consulting our specialists, whether by letter or in person, is given the most careful and considerate attention. Important cases (and we get few which have not already baffled the skill of all the home physicians) has the benefit of a full Council of skilled specialists. Rooms for ladies in the Invalids' Hotel are very private. Send ten cents in stamps for our large Complete Treatise on Diseases of Women, illustrated with numerous wood-cuts and colored plates (100 pages).

RADICAL CURE OF RUPTURE. HERNIA (Breach), or RUPTURE, no matter of how long standing, or of what size, is promptly and permanently cured by our specialists, without the knife and without dependence upon trusses. Abundant references. Send ten cents for Illustrated Treatise.

PILES, FISTULÆ, and other diseases affecting the lower bowels, are treated with wonderful success. The worst cases of pile tumors are permanently cured in fifteen to twenty days. Send ten cents for Illustrated Treatise.

DELICATE DISEASES. Organic weakness, nervous debility, premature decline of the manly powers, involuntary vital losses, impaired memory, mental anxiety, absence of will-power, melancholy, weak back, and kindred affections, are speedily, thoroughly and permanently cured.

To those acquainted with our institutions, it is hardly necessary to say that the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, with the branch establishment located at No. 3 New Oxford Street, London, England, have, for many years, enjoyed the distinction of being the most largely patronized and widely celebrated institutions in the world for the treatment and cure of those affections which arise from youthful indiscretions and pernicious, solitary practices.

We, many years ago, established a special Department for the treatment of these diseases, under the management of some of the most skillful physicians and surgeons on our Staff, in order that all who apply to us might receive all the advantages of a full Council of the most experienced specialists.

WE OFFER NO APOLOGY. We offer no apology for devoting so much attention to this neglected class of diseases, believing no condition of humanity is too wretched to merit the sympathy and best services of the noble profession to which we belong. Many who suffer from these terrible diseases contract them innocently. Why any medical man, intent on doing good and alleviating suffering, should shun such cases, we cannot imagine. Why any one should consider it otherwise than most honorable to cure the worst cases of these diseases, we cannot understand; and yet of all the other maladies which afflict mankind there is probably none about which physicians in general practice know so little.

We shall, therefore, continue, as heretofore, to treat with our best consideration, sympathy, and skill, all applicants who are suffering from any of these delicate diseases.

CURED AT HOME. Most of these cases can be treated by us when at a distance just as well as if they were here in person.

Our Complete and Illustrated Treatise (168 pages) on these subjects is sent to any address on receipt of ten cents in stamps.

SURGICAL PRACTICE. Hundreds of the most difficult operations known to modern surgery are annually performed in the most skillful manner, by our Surgeon-specialists. Large Stones are safely removed from the Bladder, by crushing, washing and pumping them out, thus avoiding the great danger of cutting. Our specialists remove cataract from the eye, thereby curing blindness. They also straighten cross-eyes and insert artificial ones when needed. Many Ovarian and also Fibroid Tumors of the Uterus are arrested in growth and cured by electrolysis, coupled with other means of our invention, whereby the great danger of cutting operations in these cases is avoided.

Especially has the success of our improved operations for Varicocele, Hydrocele, Fistulæ, Ruptured Cervix Uteri, and for Ruptured Perineum, been alike gratifying both to ourselves and our patients. Not less so have been the results of numerous operations for Stricture of the Cervical Canal, a condition in the female generally resulting in Barrenness, or Sterility, and the cure of which, by a safe and painless operation, removes this commonest of impediments to the bearing of offspring.

A Complete Treatise on any one of the above maladies will be sent on receipt of ten cents in stamps.

ALL CHRONIC DISEASES A SPECIALTY. Although we have in the preceding paragraphs made mention of some of the special ailments to which particular attention is given by the specialists at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, yet the institution abounds in skill, facilities, and apparatus for the successful treatment of every form of chronic ailment, whether requiring for its cure medical or surgical means.

All letters of inquiry, or of consultation, should be addressed to

WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION,
663 Main Street, BUFFALO, N. Y.

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOLUME XI. BURLINGTON, KY., WEDNESDAY, APRIL 28, 1886. NUMBER 25.

CAPITAL ORGANIZING,

Not To Resist the Knights of Labor, But to Protect its Members.

A Huge Organization of the Several Textile Industries of New England, With Millions of Capital.

BOSTON, April 23.—The Commercial Bulletin to-morrow will say: "The sudden and unexpected collapse of what threatened to be a serious strike at the Whittenton Mills, Taunton, was caused by the discovery that that mill belonged to a huge organization of textile industries of New England, which has been formed so quietly that it has escaped all notice. This organization extends over Rhode Island and Connecticut and already includes forty-nine large woolen mills. This society was organized for mutual protection. It does not recognize the authority of the Knights of Labor in any way, but is prepared to use arbitration in the settlement of strikes. The organization is growing in numbers, and it proposes to give each strike careful consideration and to assist only those manufacturers who are unfairly treated by their help. A second society, embracing all cotton mills of any importance in Maine, New Hampshire and Massachusetts, was quietly completed, and elected its officers in Boston on Wednesday. The Massachusetts League is the league of cotton mills to which woolen mills are to be admitted, while the Rhode Island society was formed by woolen mills, and subsequently admitted cotton manufacturers. During the last month the cotton mills of this State have been quietly preparing for organization for mutual insurance against labor disturbances. The cotton-manufacturing industry is better adapted for the formation of such an organization than many others, because it is composed of a number of large mills rather than a large number of small ones. The quiet organization which has taken place, therefore, has been conducted with much expedition, and its result will probably be witnessed at the next attempt of the mill hands to secure the discharge of workmen who are not members of the union. The society is not a corporation, and has no stock. The yearly pay rolls of the Massachusetts mills that have already joined amount to $15,000,000. The aims of the society are not in any sense aggressive, and its purpose is not to attack the Knights of Labor, but simply to protect its members against unjust persecution. The methods of self-defense which the society will employ have not yet been made public."

POWDERLY FIXED IT.

How the General Master Workman Started an Engine that Wouldn't Go.

ST. LOUIS, April 23.—Some weeks ago an engine attached to a passenger train on the Michigan Central Road suddenly stopped. The place was between stations, and the engineer could neither start the engine along nor discover what the matter was. The passengers, many of them, got off the train and stood watching the engineer's futile efforts to find out what the cause of the trouble was. He saw at length that he would have to give it up, and that the train would stand there until a new engine could be brought. Then a quiet man who had been standing among the passengers stepped up to the engineer and said: "Take off your overalls and let me put them on." He was a man of intellectual cast of features and a pair of eye glasses added force to this impressiveness. The engineer took off his overalls and the quiet man put them on, and with a monkey wrench in his hands, crawled under the engine, and flat on his back, hammered and tinkered for a quarter of an hour. Then he mounted the cab, opened the throttle valve, and off went the engine as easy as could be. Some of the passengers thanked the quiet man as the engineer mounted the board, and the engineer himself asked his name, but the quiet man would not give it. Nevertheless a man on the train knew this bookish-looking mechanic, and he said to the engineer at the next station: "The man who fixed your engine was General Master Workman Powderly, of the Knights of Labor." This happened when Mr. Powderly was on his way back from his trip to the West to examine into the troubles which led to the strike.

A Mother's Awful Crime.

KEYPORT, N. J., April 23.—Seven miles south of this place lives J. Monroe Smith. Mr. Smith is fifty-five years old, and his wife forty-three, and the mother of six children ranging in age from nineteen years down to four. Some years ago the wife and mother was sent to an insane asylum and was discharged a year later, presumably cured. Last fall she had severe pains in her head and her husband sent her to her brother's house in Elizabeth, where she improved greatly and returned home a short time ago. This morning, after breakfast, she went to one of the outbuildings on the premises, and after swallowing a dose of "Rough on Rats," returned to the house with an axe concealed under her dress. Eva, her four-year-old daughter, was still sleeping when the mother entered the bedchamber. Lifting the axe above the sleeping child, the maniac mother brought it swiftly down, splitting the little one's head open, killing her instantly. She then attacked Rufus, aged thirteen, dealing him several savage blows on the head with the poll of the axe. Bessie, the 11-year-old daughter, begged for mercy, but the terrible bloodstained axe whirled in the air and went crashing into the fragile little head. The 18-year-old daughter locked the baby in an adjoining room and ran screaming outside to apprise her father of the awful work within. After a terrible struggle, the woman was secured. One of the children is dead, and the others are likely to die before morning. Mrs. Smith is herself in a very precarious condition.

Switchmen's Strike Ended.

CHICAGO, April 23.—The Lake Shore switchmen's strike in this city is ended, the company having made a satisfactory arrangement with the men.

A BROKEN LEVEE.

A Million Acres of Cotton Land Flooded in Arkansas.

HELENA, ARK., April 23.—The levee on the Mississippi river broke last evening fifteen miles south of Helena on the Arkansas side. The crevasse is forty yards wide, and it will be impossible to close it. As in 1882, one million acres of the most fertile cotton land in the Mississippi Valley will be covered by water from one to six feet deep. Planting operations were suspended three weeks ago, and cattle and farm stock were moved to the high lands. Unless the water recedes very fast the entire cotton crop in the overflowed district will be spoiled.

A SINGULAR CRIME.

An Attempt to blow Up One of the Churches of the City of Madrid.

MADRID, April 23.—An attempt was made this morning to destroy the church of San Luis in this city. An explosive was placed inside of the enormous hollow candles which stand on either side of the altar. The explosion, instead of taking place while the church was crowded, as probably intended, occurred before the people began to arrive. The edifice was badly wrecked, and two sextons who were in the building were badly burned.

Internal Revenue Collections Increasing.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The collections of internal revenue for the first nine months of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1886, were as follows: From spirits, $50,591,795; from tobacco, $20,136,918; from fermented liquors, $13,662,750; from miscellaneous items, $179,788, making a total of $84,571,252, or an increase of $2,974,046 over the collections for the corresponding period of the last fiscal year.

Cholera Inoculation Authorized in Spain.

MADRID, April 23.—The Spanish Sanitary Council has authorized the practice of inoculation discovered by Dr. Ferran in the event of a recurrence of cholera in Spain.

HORRIBLE DEATH.

Fatal Mistake of a Boy in Tying a Rope Around His Waist.

NOKOMIS, ILL., April 25.—On his return from town last evening Mr. Jacob Swarey, living three miles east of here, missed some colts which he had left in the stable, and upon searching for them found them in a pasture, and attached to one of them by a halter was the dead body of August Middlecamp, a boy about thirteen years old, who had been left at home. It is supposed the lad had attempted to lead the colt to water and carelessly tied the rope around his waist in a slip-noose, when the animal, unaccustomed to being handled, pulled him down and dragged him until exhausted, as, although it appeared frightened, it did not run when approached. The boy's body was badly mangled and nearly cut in two by the rope, the knot of which was drawn to only about a four-inch noose.

FILLED A LIGHTED LAMP.

Three Women Undertake It and Have Died from Their Injuries.

CHICAGO, April 25.—Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Sterling, who is landlady of the Sterling House, on Adams street, was in the kitchen with her daughter Emma and Miss Whalen, a servant. One of them took a lighted lamp, and holding an oil can in one hand commenced to fill it. Suddenly the oil was ignited, and the can exploded with a loud report. The burning fluid was scattered over Mrs. Sterling and her daughter, and their clothes were soon a mass of flames. Miss Whalen, the domestic, was not burned, but inhaled the gas and smoke. The fire department was summoned, and firemen aided in the efforts to extinguish the flames and save the lives of Mrs. Sterling and her daughter, but their aid came too late. After several hours' intense suffering, all three of the women died.

TORNADO IN TEXAS.

Buildings Destroyed and People Injured, a Baby Fatally.

KILLEEN, TEX., April 25.—A tornado swept past Killeen this evening, about one mile from town. It struck the house of Jacob Uselton, demolishing the building and injuring the entire family, the baby fatally. The Norman brothers' residence was also destroyed. The family were saved, having just taken refuge in a storm-house. The storm came from the northwest, and did considerable damage in the town of Killeen. Hail stones as large as hens' eggs fell, destroying vegetation and fruit trees and breaking many window panes.

Goes Mad by Proxy.

NEW YORK, April 25.—A curious case has been developed at Matteawan, N. J. About six weeks ago Nellie Smith, of that village, was bitten by a dog. Dr. A. J. Jackson treated her with apparent success. The girl has a sixteen-year-old brother Thomas, who took her case very much at heart. The stories about hydrophobia which had been circulated gave him a great deal of anxiety. On last Thursday night he was taken suddenly ill. He became extremely violent, requiring two and often three men to hold him, and barked like a dog. No one knew whether he was bitten by a dog or not. Dr. Jackson says that he hardly knows what to think about the case. If he knew that the boy had been bitten by a dog he should certainly consider it a case of hydrophobia. As it is it may be nervous hysteria brought on by worry about his sister Nellie. The little girl is doing well under her treatment.

Roast Beef.

DAYTON, O., April 25.—The cattle pens of the Dayton Sugar Refining Company, five hundred in number, were burned to the ground late last night. The fire originated in the department where hay was kept, and evidently was the work of an incendiary. There were one hundred and twenty-six head of cattle in the pens, all of which were burned to a crisp. The pens were all filled on Wednesday last, when the entire lot of cattle was sold to Charles Zachritz. He took away all but the cattle that were burned, which will be a loss to the company.

Died on a Train.

LEXINGTON, IND., April 25.—A lady named Harrison suddenly died on passenger train No. 4, on the Ohio and Mississippi railroad, near Mitchell, Ind., a few minutes after two o'clock this morning. The lady was on her way from some point in Mexico to Charleston, W. Va., and was accompanied by a brother and sister. She was in the last stage of consumption, and it is supposed the journey was too great for her physical condition, and she expired as stated. The remains were taken to Louisville, where they were prepared for burial.

Killed By Lightning.

CRESTLINE, O., April 25.—Frederick Blazer, of this place, was instantly killed by lightning this afternoon. He was working on the track of the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago railroad, two and a half miles east of this place. About three o'clock a storm came up, when Binzer took shelter under a tree near by, which was struck by lightning. He leaves a wife. The storm lasted about thirty minutes, and was accompanied by heavy thunder and lightning and large hailstones.

Peculiar Accidental Hanging.

BALTIMORE, April 25.—Henry Fryer, aged sixty-eight years, who for many years has been one of the gate-keepers of Druid Hill Park, was found dead last night hanging head down from a tree not more than ten feet from the gate. He had been training a wild rose vine to run up the tree, and had no doubt lost his balance, and in falling caught his foot in a crotch of the limb on which he was standing. The body was accidentally discovered while it was yet warm.

Mistaken for a Burglar.

PORT HURON, MICH., April 25.—Henry A. Smith, while drunk, attempted to escape from a thunder storm into a neighbor's house, was taken for a burglar and shot and killed.

Plasterers to Try the Eight-Hour System.

ST. LOUIS, MO., April 25.—The master plasterers of this city have agreed to put the eight-hour system into effect on May 1, and to pay their men three dollars and seventy-five cents per day. The old rate was four dollars and fifty cents for ten hours. The new rate is really an advance of fifteen cents per day. The journeymen are expected to accept the plan, and no trouble is apprehended.

Colorado's Mineral Output.

DENVER, COL., April 25.—Official figures from the Denver Mint give the mineral output for Colorado for 1885 as follows: Gold $5,000,000; silver $13,500,000; copper $700,000; lead $3,361,000. Total $22,561,000.

Gored to Death by a Cow.

CALDWELL, O., April 24.—Mrs. Lizzie Way, wife of Charles Way, of Graysville, Monroe County, was gored to death by an infuriated cow which she was milking. The cow's horn passed through her neck, causing almost instant death.

Church-Spire Shattered by Lightning.

CANTON, O., April 25.—During a severe thunder-storm yesterday afternoon the spire of the United Brethren Church was struck by lightning and shattered its entire length to the ground. Luckily it did not take fire. The damage is about $1,000.

The Convicts at the Greenwood Mines.

FRANKFORT, KY., April 25.—The convicts employed at the Greenwood Mines were examined yesterday by Governor Knott and Cabinet. Sensational stories of the infliction of barbarous punishments were disproved. The State troops will remain, as the free striking miners and others openly assert their intention to destroy the camp the moment it is free from military protection.

A Mother's Love.

DRESDEN, ONT., April 25.—Mrs. Lije and her three-year-old child were drowned in the river near here last evening. The child fell over the bank, which is very steep, and the mother jumping in after it, both perished.

MIDNIGHT BATTLE

Between a Deputy Marshal and a Band of Moonshiners.

The Plucky Officer is Killed, but Not Until He Had Made four Assailants Bite the Dust.

CHATTANOOGA, April 26.—A special to the Times from Manchester, Coffee County, Tenn., gives details of a bloody tragedy enacted there shortly after midnight this morning, in which United States Deputy Marshal Webb Purdon, of Manchester, and a moonshiner named Clark were killed and three other moonshiners fatally wounded. About ten days ago Purdon accompanied Deputy Marshal Hughes on a raid among the illicit distilleries of Grundy County, Tenn., and captured and destroyed several stills. Between 12 and 1 o'clock this morning fifteen moonshiners rode into Manchester determined to have Purdon's life. Seven broke into his house and the balance surrounded it. Purdon met them as they entered with a revolver and a terrible battle ensued. Two moonshiners fell to the floor mortally wounded, and the gang retreated, but they had succeeded in fatally wounding Purdon. Disabled as he was, he seized a double-barreled shot-gun and fired into the retreating gang and two more fell mortally wounded. Purdon then fell dead beside the body of one of his victims. The gang carried off three of their wounded companions. A large posse is now in pursuit of them.

HIS LIFE FOR A DOG.

A Distressing Affair on the Cincinnati Southern Railroad.

CHATTANOOGA, TENN., April 26.—Major Holliday, a prominent citizen of Spring City, was run over and killed by the Cannon Ball Express train on the Cincinnati Southern railroad last evening while attempting to save the life of a valuable dog. Major Holliday started across a bridge above Spring City. He had scarcely reached it when the approaching train was heard. His dog was midway the long trestle. It meant instant death to attempt to rescue the animal, yet Major Holliday rushed forward to remove the dog to a place of safety, and before he could return the train struck him, killing him instantly. The dog was also killed.

Excited Settlers.

PIERRE, DAK., April 26.—Yesterday Agent McChesney had notice served on all the merchants and dealers in Fort Pierre that they must remove their stocks of goods from the Reservation and cease to do business on that side of the river. This order of removal was on the authority of the Secretary of the Interior. The notice was served by the Indian police. It is held that they have a right to remain, for the reason that Fort Pierre is the eastern terminus of the Government highway, but as to how far that would give them rights they are not informed. The outcome will be watched with interest. To enforce this order would entail a loss of over $500,000 and ruin hundreds of settlers. The settlers held a meeting yesterday and decided not to move, unless at the point of the bayonet. The excitement is intense.

Greece Gives It Up.

PARIS, April 26.—It is officially announced this morning that the Greek Government has yielded to the councils of France and will instantly order a disarmament of her forces.

LONDON, April 26.—A later dispatch from Athens confirms the announcement that Greece has decided to disarm, and adds that the greatest consternation prevails in that city over the sudden and unexpected change of front by the Government. The Chamber of Deputies has been hurriedly convoked. The warships representing England, Italy, Austria and Germany have withdrawn from their anchorage in the Piræus.

Prohibition Beaten in Virginia.

RICHMOND, VA., April 26.—Prohibition met with an overwhelming defeat here today, the election resulting in a majority of 5,681 in favor of licensing the sale of liquors. The vote in Manchester was anti-Prohibition—majority 626. The vote in both this city and in Manchester was nearly as large as in the Presidential election. Under the law it can not be renewed for two years. The colored vote was almost unanimously anti-Prohibition. The anti-Prohibitionists carried Lynchburg by 1,188 majority.

Still on the Warpath.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., April 26.—The Call's Guaymas, Mexico, special of this morning says: "Geronimo's band attacked ranches near Imuris, completely destroying all the buildings at Casita, a small way station near Imuris, on the Sonora railroad, killing fifteen persons, all Mexicans. A company of soldiers was sent after them. Two soldiers were killed. The Indians were moving in the direction of Nacori, in the Sierra Madre mountains. A reign of terror prevails throughout the district."

Railroad Shops Taken by Force.

KANSAS CITY, MO., April 26.—An Atchison (Kas.) special says: Strikers this afternoon took forcible possession of the Missouri Pacific yards there, driving out all men who had gone to work since the strike began six weeks ago. The strikers organized in the yards and marched to the shops, when the workers went out with but little protest, bloodshed being thus avoided. The fires in the shops were drawn and guards appointed to prevent any of the new men returning to work.

The Fatal Penalty of Politeness.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., April 26.—James Forrester, while riding on a street car last evening, offered his seat to a lady, but before she could take the seat an Italian seated himself in it. Forrester expostulated without avail and finally took the man by the collar to put him out, when the Italian drew a knife a foot long and plunged it into Forrester's back, inflicting a fatal wound. The Italian was arrested.

Lowered the World's Record.

ST. LOUIS, April 26.—At Clarksville, Mo., Geo. E. Weber, of Smithville, N. J., won the fifty-mile bicycle race in three hours, seven minutes, forty-two and a quarter seconds, lowering the world's record by nearly half an hour.

A Horror in Harrar.

ADEN, April 26.—The report is confirmed that the Emir of Harrar has massacred all the Europeans in his capital; also the members of the Italian scientific expedition under Count Porro.

—Speaking of sudden deaths as the result of mental anxiety or excitement, the Medical News says: "There is no treatment which will prevent this class of sudden deaths, and physicians are powerless to avert its onset. All they can do is to advise a calm, unexciting mode of life, with freedom from worry and anxiety. Such advice is very easy to give, but as difficult to follow as would be a suggestion that it is not advisable to die at any given time."

—"Two dozen black-hen's eggs," said an old woman to a grocer. "Black-hen's eggs!" exclaimed he, "I don't know a black-hen's eggs from another colored chicken's." "Troth, then, I do," said the woman. "Then go and pick them out yourself," he replied, pointing to a large basket of eggs. The woman did so, and picked out two dozen of the largest in the basket.

—The crime of the last boy sent to the New Hampshire Reform School was the setting on fire of a passing load of hay, whereby the farmer on top of it was nearly burned to death.—Boston Journal.

XLIXTH CONGRESS.

First Session.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—SENATE.—Executive communications were received. A bill was introduced for the retirement of disabled officers of the army. At 12:45 p. m. the Senate went into executive session, and after some discussion rejected the treaty for the reopening of the Weil and La Abra claims by a vote of 32 to 26—not two-thirds. A number of nominations were confirmed.

HOUSE.—The Ways and Means Committee reported a joint resolution to give notice to terminate the Hawaiian treaty. Bills were reported fixing the salaries of U. S. District Judges at $5,000; to regulate commercial sales by sample, price list, etc., between residents of the several States and Territories; to create the office of Assistant Commissioner of Indian Affairs; for the relief of Wm. McGarraghan; to provide for study of the nature of alcoholic drinks and narcotics, and their effects on the human system, in the military and naval academies, and in the Indian public schools of the Territories and the District of Columbia; for the establishment of signal stations on the West India Islands; to give honorably discharged soldiers and sailors preference in public appointments.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—SENATE.—A resolution was referred to the Judiciary Committee inquiring what legislation was necessary to require the U. S. Courts to prevent the wasteful appropriation of the assets and receipts of railroad property in their possession. Four hundred private pension bills were then passed, leaving but half a dozen on the calendar. At 4:15 p. m. the Senate went into executive session, and at 4:45 p. m. adjourned.

HOUSE.—A resolution was reported calling on the Commissioner of Agriculture for certain information in regard to the acreage and supply of wheat and corn in this country. Bills were reported to limit the jurisdiction of U. S. courts in patent cases, and to pension prisoners of war during the rebellion. The bill for the relief of the Alabama flood sufferers was debated without action, and resumed its place on the calendar under the rules. The river and harbor bill was taken up and discussed until 5:20 p. m., when the House adjourned.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—SENATE.—Petitions were presented. A bill was passed appropriating $15,000 in aid of a National monument at Plymouth, Mass. A bill was reported to indemnify the Chinese who suffered by the recent outbreaks in Wyoming. Mr. VanWyck addressed the Senate on the bill to tax railroad grant lands. Mr. Blair gave notice that on Monday he would call up the joint resolution providing a constitutional amendment prohibiting the manufacture and sale of alcoholic liquors. At 2 o'clock the Inter-State commerce bill was placed before the Senate. Messrs. Sewell and Cullom addressed the Senate. A message from the President relating to labor troubles was received and ordered printed. At 4 o'clock the Senate went into executive session, and at 5:15 p. m. adjourned until Monday.

HOUSE.—The electoral count bill was made the special order for May 6. A Conference Committee was appointed on the Indian appropriation bill. Adverse reports were presented from the Judiciary Committee on a joint resolution proposing a constitutional amendment giving the President power to veto specific items in appropriation bills, and a bill to prevent the adulteration of food. They were laid upon the table. The House passed a bill Amending Section 2805 Revised Statutes, in relation to oaths on entries of merchandise. Bills were passed providing for holding the terms of the District Court in New York and Colorado. The river and harbor bill was then taken up and twenty-eight of the sixty-three pages considered.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—SENATE—No session.

HOUSE.—The session was continued from 11 o'clock until near noon on the river and harbor bill. After adjourning, Friday's session was opened. The President's message on the labor troubles was read. Mr. Springer moved to refer it to the Committee on Labor. Mr. Butterworth moved its reference to the committee of the whole. The latter motion was lost—yeas 77, nays 147. After a lively debate in which Messrs. Butterworth, Randall, Gibson (W. Va.), O'Neill, McCreary and Springer took part, the message was referred to the Committee on Labor, with instructions to report on or before May 15. The Senate bill in aid of a National monument at Plymouth, Mass., was passed. Mr. Voorhees, of Washington Territory, offered a resolution instructing the Committee on Rules to inquire whether L. D. Swett, of Maine, or any other ex-member of the House admitted to the floor, is interested as agent or attorney for corporations or claims. The resolution was finally modified so as to omit the name of Mr. Swett, and providing for a select committee of five members to carry on the inquiry. The modified resolution was adopted. The private calendar was then taken up. At 4:40 p. m. the House took a recess until 7:30 p. m., the night session being for the consideration of pension bills.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—SENATE.—Not in session.

HOUSE.—June 1 and 2 was set apart for the consideration of business reported from the Committee on Post-offices and Post-roads. A bill was passed authorizing the Covington and Cincinnati Elevated Railroad and Bridge Company to erect a bridge across the Ohio river. The floor was then given to the Judiciary Committee, and the following bills were passed: Transferring the counties of Howard, Little Rock and Sevier from the Western to the Eastern Judicial District of Arkansas; repealing the statute which allows clerks of U. S. Courts in California, Oregon and Nevada double fees. Punishing robbery in the Indian Territory by a fine of not exceeding $1,000, or imprisonment not exceeding ten years, or both. Punishing horse-stealing in the Indian Territory by a fine not exceeding $1,000 or imprisonment not exceeding five years, or both. Providing that all claims now existing against the United States, except pension claims, must be presented for adjudication and payment within four years of the passage of this act, and that all claims arising hereafter must be presented within six years from the time they accrued. Conferring civil jurisdiction for cases arising in the Indian Territory or the U. S. Courts exercising original jurisdiction over that Territory. Providing that in all cases of disputed hand-writing, comparison of the disputed writing with any writing proved to the satisfaction of the judge to be genuine, shall be permitted to be made by witnesses, and such writing and the evidence of the witnesses in regard to it may be submitted to the court and jury as evidence of the genuineness or otherwise of the writing. Providing that any judgment or decree rendered in United States courts within any State shall take effect, notwithstanding it is not docketed by way of lien, to the same extent and in like manner as the judgment or decree of the State court. To provide for holding terms of court for the Northern District of Illinois at Peoria. Dividing the State of California into two judicial districts.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—A bill was passed to extend for two months the powers of the Chief Clerk of the Court of Alabama Claims, with authority to employ the necessary force to wind up the business of the Court. The House bill relating to the bonds of brewers was amended, requiring that the bonds shall be renewed once in four years whether the Collector of Internal Revenue requires it or not. Passed. A bill was passed for the completion of the public building at Jackson, Tenn. Mr. Blair addressed the Senate on his proposed constitutional amendment prohibiting the manufacture or sale of alcoholic liquors as beverages. The Inter-State commerce bill was then taken up and Mr. Van Wyck addressed the Senate. He was followed by Mr. Stanford. The post-office appropriation bill was reported and placed on the calendar. Mr. Camden's amendment to the Inter-State commerce bill, relating to "the long and short haul," was discussed by Messrs. Camden, Harris, Platt, Brown, Wilson and Cullom.

HOUSE.—A bill was reported forfeiting the lands granted in the State of Michigan to aid in the construction of a railroad from Marquette to Ontonagon. Under the call of States a number of bills were introduced and referred, including a bill to establish a Department of Labor. The bill to establish a Sub-Treasury at Louisville, Ky., was taken up, and pending action the House went into committee of the whole on the river and harbor bill. Some progress was made, several amendments being adopted and rejected.

—The Ione Valley (Cal.) Echo relates the following: A cow on the ranch of Mrs. Leary, in Jackson valley, was killed in a singular way. A forkful of hay was thrown to her, which she had just commenced to eat, when she started back and began running and jumping wildly about the corral. She soon after fell down and expired, when it was ascertained that she had been strangled to death by a live snake, which had run from the hay into her throat.

—Carl Beck, a civil engineer in Ebingen, in Wurtemberg, has invented a carriage in imitation of the velocipede and intended to be used in districts where there are no railroads by letter-carriers, expressmen, traveling agents or by private persons. It contains a covered seat for one person in front and a receptacle for baggage in the rear. The inventor claims for his vehicle a velocity of ten or thirteen miles per hour, according to the condition of the roads.

—It is calculated that there are three hundred labor unions in New York City, with an aggregate membership of one hundred thousand men and women.

CAUSES OF STRIKES

The Number, Location, Causes and Results of Strikes and Lock-Outs for the Year 1880.

Report of Mr. Joseph D. Weeks, Who Has Been Employed by the Census Bureau to Investigate Causes of the Labor Troubles.

COMMISSIONER WEEKS' REPORT.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Mr. Joseph D. Weeks, who has been employed under the Census Bureau in making an investigation into the number, location, causes and results of strikes and lock outs during the calendar year 1880, has just completed his report. In his letter of transmittal to the Superintendent of the Census, he says: "Those who understand the difficulties in the way of such an investigation as this will not be surprised at its incompleteness, and especially at its failure to secure records of the number of employes engaged in all the strikes and lock-outs reported, as well as the number of days and amount of wages lost."

In the outset of the report he states that both the employers and employed, as a class, hesitate to engage in a strike or lock-out, especially after having experienced the disastrous effects of these industrial agitations. The condition of mutual respect and forbearance between these two classes has been growing in this country, and strikes have grown not less frequent, but they are undertaken only when it is felt that there is no other resource. He states that in his efforts to get information of strikes, he sent out 1,200 circulars to both employes and employers who were directly concerned, and he adds that most of the replies were received from employers and very few from the employes. The latter either making no response or refusing the desired information, giving as their reason that it might be used to their disadvantage by the employers. From what returns were received he observed the tendency of the workmen to magnify a strike and of employers to disparage its importance, and as the bulk of the information came from the latter, the statements made in the report as to the number of strikes, the men concerned in it, etc., are understated rather than the reverse.

The difference between a strike and a lock-out is stated to be the stoppage of work in the first instance growing out of some demand or other action of the employes and in the latter instance from some demand or action on the part of employers which is resisted by the workmen. In some cases, by agreement between the employers or the employes, work is stopped in one establishment because of the existence of a strike or a lock-out in another. Of the total number of strikes—the word being used to include both strikers and lock outs—reported in 1880, which was 762, Pennsylvania with 301, New York with 101 and Ohio with 93, are credited with 501, or 65¾ per cent.

In the mining and manufacturing States the strikes are more frequent, while very infrequent in agricultural trades, where large bodies of men are collected together. The same is true of those engaged in professional and personal services. Domestic servants and the great body of unclassified laborers, which two groups include more than 72 per cent of those engaged in personal and professional services, do not strike at all, or at least do not strike in such a way as to get the fact into the papers.

The number of strikes reported in certain prominent trades are as follows: 236 in iron and steel industries; 158 in coal mining; 46 in the textile trades; 42 in cigar making; 36 in building trades; 46 in transportation; 28 in printing trades; 17 in glass industries; 14 in piano making, and 11 in boot and shoe making.

Mr. Weeks thinks that the frequency of strikes is not wholly due to the aggregation of workmen at certain points. In Great Britain more than twenty-five per cent. of the strikes occur in the building trades and while the metal trades, mining and textile trades rank next, touch the greater proportion—71½ per cent.—of the strikes reported in this country in 1880 were caused by differences as to rates of wages and of these 62 per cent. were for an advance and 9½ per cent. were against a reduction.

Of the more important industries, especially noticeable in the boot and shoe trades, methods of work and rules of the shop occasioned as many strikes as rates of wages. The results of only 481 strikes are reported, and of this number 35 per cent. were successful, 18 per cent. were compromised and 47 per cent. were unsuccessful. Every strike in connection with hours of labor were unsuccessful, while those relating to payment of wages were uniformly succeeded. It should also be noted that strikes growing out of demands for an advance are much more uniformly unsuccessful than those against a reduction.

In conditions of trade that justify an advance, it is much more to the interest of the employer to give in than to have his works stop. On the other hand, when trade is not so brisk, it is to the advantage of the employer to have his works stopped. In such cases the opposition to a demand for a reduction is not of little effect. The reduction comes or the works stop.

As to the results of strikes and lock-outs it appears that these depend largely on the condition of trade. In 1880, however, there was an era of remarkable prosperity, and as a result strikes were successful in a proportion of cases, doubtless much above the average.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics of Pennsylvania in the investigation into strikes in that State for forty-six years, beginning in 1835, states that 45 of the 135, of which the result was given, were successful, or [illegible] per cent, while 66 or 48 4-5 per cent. were unsuccessful. This corresponds, the report adds, in some degree with the results obtained in the present investigation. As this report shows that 35 per cent. were successful while 47 per cent. were unsuccessful.

The Massachusetts report, however, shows a remarkable difference, only twelve per cent. being reported successful and seventy-three per cent. unsuccessful. This shows that the industrial conditions in Massachusetts are widely different from those existing in other parts of the country.

It has been known, adds Mr. Weeks, to careful observers, that strikes are neither so frequent nor so successful when undertaken in New England as in other States.

In regard to losses by strikes, the report states that from 414 of the 762 strikes reported, figures are given showing that the number of men idle in these cases were 128,262, which includes only those men idle directly in consequence of the strike, and not those who may have been laid idle in other parts of the works or in other works by reason of the strike. There are 348 strikes concerning which no statement has been received as to the number of men idle. By approximation the number is estimated to have been 99,876, which, added to the above, would give a total of 228,138 idle men.

With relation to the loss of wages, it is estimated that each of these men were idle twenty-seven days. The returns show that 64,779 employes lost $3,711,097. This would be at the rate of $57 each. As the entire number of employes estimated was 228,138, the total loss of wages on this average would be $13,003,866, that is for the time lost. The wages which would have been received had the works run constantly, is the amount named. In case the strike was successful the men received additional pay and in cases where unions existed the men received strike pay, but this was simply refunded money that had previously been paid. There is also another item of reduction in the fact that the men sometimes obtained employment in other industries during the strikes. As this $3,711,097 was lost from 1,989,872 days of idleness it appears that the average rate of wages earned by the parties striking was $1.86 per day. Tables are appended to the report showing these facts in detail.

Seeing the Good.

It is good to be well rounded out, so good that such a life should be the ideal towards which every Christian should work. But it is hard, in this unequal world to make such an attainment, and even to keep the mark properly and always in mind. Nearly all men grow in certain directions; if opposite parts and qualities do not dwarf, they at least do not increase, and hence the character fails of symmetry. But we mistake when we judge men wholly by their defects, or their less-developed parts, failing to give them credit for the good points that, jutting out here and there, constitute their better peculiarities. The right way is to see the good, rejoice in it, encourage it if possible, and then hope that this good will some time, as the predominating trait and growth, subordinate to itself all the others, and thus become the real man and Christian. If, for instance, a man have large benevolence and small reverence, we should not think wholly of the latter, but try to see the former, believing that it will in the end become controlling and determining.—United Presbyterian.

THE COMMONWEALTH.

Louisville Leaf Tobacco Market.

We quote 1885 tobaccos as follows for full weights and sound packages.

	Dark and Heavy.	Burley.
Trash	$1 50@ 2 50	$1 25@ 3 75
Common lugs	2 75@ 3 75	4 00@ 5 00
Medium lugs	3 75@ 4 50	5 25@ 5 75
Good lugs	4 75@ 5 00	5 25@ 7 95
Common leaf	5 25@ 5 75	6 50@ 7 00
Medium leaf	5 75@ 6 50	8 50@ 9 75
Good leaf	7 25@ 8 25	10 00@13 00
Selections	9 00@10 50	13 50@15 50
Wrappers	12 00@18 50	18 00@18 00

Proceedings of the Legislature.

FRANKFORT, April 17.—Neither House nor Senate did anything to-day worthy of notice. The session in each body being devoted to local, petty measures of no importance. Scarcely a quorum was present in either house, the members generally leaving for the weekly visit to their homes or to Louisville.

FRANKFORT, April 19.—SENATE.—There was not a quorum in the Senate this morning, and attention was chiefly directed to local bills. The House bill providing a fine for circuses and menageries which do not take out license, was passed. The Senate was in session only one hour.

HOUSE.—Mr. Thompson, from the committee on criminal laws, reported the bill designed to suppress the spread of pleuro-pneumonia. It provides that any person who shall bring into the State any cattle known to be infected with pleuro-pneumonia, shall be deemed guilty of felony, or any person who keeps in his possession cattle known to be affected with this disease and allow them to come in contact with other cattle, shall be deemed guilty of felony. For either of these offenses punishment is confinement from one to three years at hard labor in the penitentiary. Any one who has in his possession cattle known to have been exposed to pleuro-pneumonia shall confine them in an inclosure through which no stream of water runs, at not less than six hundred feet from any highway or common, at least six consecutive months after such cattle have been exposed, otherwise he shall be deemed guilty of misdemeanor and fined from $100 to $1,000 and be confined in the county jail from three to twelve months. Any person who shall dispose of any cattle known to have been afflicted with contagion shall be deemed guilty of misdemeanor, and shall be fined from $100 to $1,000, and be confined in the county jail from one to three months. It shall be the duty of the county judge, when complaint has been made to him that any person has in his possession infected cattle to summon a jury who are to examine such cattle and decide, and if infected the latter shall be killed and their bodies burned or buried; any person who has in his possession premises that have been occupied by infected cattle shall not allow other cattle to be placed in them until six months have expired, and a violation of this clause entails a fine of from $100 to $1,000, or imprisonment in the county jail from three to twelve months or both. The bill was passed without discussion and not over twelve or fifteen persons voted.

FRANKFORT, April 20.—SENATE.—Bills passed: House bill authorizing the town of Auburn to issue bonds for street purposes; bill for the branch penitentiary at Eddyville, providing for borrowing money from the banks to carry on the work when there is no money in the treasury; bill amending the charter of the city of Louisville fixing the salary of wharfmaster at $2,500 a year; House bill giving circuit court and county clerks and other officers further time for collecting fee bills; House bill No. 38, known as the "Revenue bill," was taken up, but postponed till to-morrow, when the Senate will go into a committee of the whole to discuss it section by section.

HOUSE.—In the House to-day the bill for the protection of game occupied most of the session, but fell into the orders of the day because no quorum voted on it. Several minor local bills were passed.

FRANKFORT, April 21.—SENATE.—The House Revenue bill was taken up and discussed and adopted section by section. Several amendments were adopted, and it will require ten days or more to complete its consideration.

HOUSE.—The bill known as the Newton Craig Claim was discussed during the entire session. Craig claims that the State owes him $1,800, with interest, since 1850. He was formerly keeper of the penitentiary, and says this money was expended out of his own pocket with the understanding that he was to be reimbursed when the Legislature met. He has been before every legislature for twenty years endeavoring to have his claim adjusted, but for some reason has failed, although several committees and commissions have reported favorably on it. He now asks that a commission be appointed to investigate the matter and finally decide the much vexed question. A vote was not reached on it to-day, but it will come up to-morrow and be disposed of.

FRANKFORT, April 22.—SENATE.—Bills passed: House bill prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors in Livingston County; House bill prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors in Caldwell County. A bill appropriating $2,000 to the widow of George Cassell, of Fayette County, was lost. Cassell was summoned by the sheriff in August, 1884, to assist in capturing some escaped convicts, and was killed in the discharge of his duty. A motion to reconsider was entered, and the bill may pass when it comes up again. The Revenue bill was then taken up, and the section relating to taxing of banks was discussed till the end of the session.

HOUSE.—The Newton Craig claim occupied nearly all of the session, and the bill was finally passed, though a desperate effort was made to defeat it by members refusing to vote, but the friends of the bill, headed by Owens and Jackson, carried every thing before them. An amendment was adopted leaving it to the discretion of the Commission as to whether they should allow interest on the claim or not.

FRANKFORT, April 23.—SENATE.—Consideration of the revenue bill was laid over until Tuesday. The regular Lunatic Asylum appropriation bill was amended as follows: Making appropriations to Anchorage Asylum of $40,000 instead of $52,000, and appointing three Commissioners to distribute the amounts appropriated; by Mr. J. R. W. Smith, providing that the debts of the Asylum should be first paid out of the appropriations. After the adoption of these amendments, the bill passed. It reduces the per capita to inmates from $165 to $150. Mr. Rigney reported a bill appropriating $20,000, and $1,000 annually hereafter, to the Deaf and Dumb Asylum at Danville, and it was passed.

HOUSE.—Mr. Strauss sent to the Clerk's desk and had read an article in a Cincinnati daily concerning cruelty to convicts at Greenwood, also some telegrams denying the correctness of certain statements. None of the legislative committee will go to Greenwood with the Sinking Fund Commissioners. The Governor, Secretary of State, Auditor and Treasurer have gone to Greenwood to make an inspection. Mr. Strauss reported the Senate bill to establish the Nineteenth Judicial District, composed of Estill, Powell, Lee, Clay, Perry, Letcher, Knott and Breathitt Counties. An amendment adding Wolfe to the new district was adopted. The bill then passed. Magoffin was transferred from the Sixteenth to the Thirteenth District. A bill making wire fences and osage orange hedges lawful fences within the meaning of the statute was passed. Adair County was exempted from its operation. Governor Knott sent in a message vetoing an act to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors in New Liberty election precinct of Owen County.

Miscellaneous Items.

JAMES H. HUDSON fell from the Ohio river bridge at Louisville into a barge. He was terribly and fatally mangled.

ROBERT FOWLER, murderer of Miss Lida Burnett, was hanged at Morganfield.

JAMES SAYRE, SR., and a colored man named Henry Grant were drowned in the river at Bland Bridge, in Woodford County, by the capsizing of a boat. Sayre is a widower with nine children. Grant leaves a wife.

FATHER ABRAM J. RYAN, "the Poet Priest of the South," died at Louisville the other night after a brief illness from brain fever.

THE jury in the case of Melvin Butler returned a verdict of murder and fixed life sentence. Butler is charged with murdering John B. Macy, a well known gambler, who was found dead in front of his house, Louisville, with a bullet-hole in his head several months ago.

OVER thirty indictments have been found in Henry County against persons attending the recent Warren-Barnes prize-fight there.

A NUMBER of the cart horses belonging to the various coal men in Newport are suffering with pink eye.

THE Louisville Charity Organization is about to open its doors to the public. The institution is for the benefit of working women who have no time to spare with their children during the day. An admission of five cents per day will be charged for every child. The mothers may bring their children at seven o'clock in the morning and take them away at seven in the evening. A matron and a nurse will have charge of the children during the day.

IN a row between Henry Rucker and Charles Withers, at Tick Town, near Cynthiana, Withers was shot in the leg.

NOW AND THEN.

Mr. Edmunds Trying to Explain His Former Treatment of Blaine—A Foolish Defense for a Man Who Pretends to Be Honest.

Nearly two years have passed away since the country was filled with the noise and fury of a Presidential campaign. In those two years, as is natural, many things have happened, and many reputations have been shattered; but what greater and more distressful contrast is presented by this lapse of time than that between George F. Edmunds of to-day and George F. Edmunds of 1884? Then he sat on the cold shores of Lake Champlain, in the icy dignity of his presumed political integrity, and the mugwumps admired him. He refused to speak in behalf of the candidate of his party. There were intimations of a letter which had been written by Mr. Edmunds strongly condemnatory of Mr. Blaine's attitude on the Thurman act. There was a much quoted phrase, in which Mr. Blaine was represented as skulking behind Union Pacific breastworks, and carrying a furtive metaphorical gun, out of the muzzle of which he was accustomed to pour shot into the backs of Mr. Edmunds and Mr. Thurman. The existence of some such letter as this was never denied. On the contrary, since the opening of the Senatorial campaign in Vermont Mr. Edmunds' friends have induced a correspondent of the Boston Advertiser to say that Mr. Edmunds was willing to speak for Mr. Blaine on general principles, but that, having frankly shown certain letters to the National committee, he was advised not to take the stump, his previously expressed opinions of the candidate not being consistent with advocacy of him for the Presidency. It was gravely put forth that, though Mr. Edmunds thought Mr. Blaine a bad man, he was perfectly willing to speak for the party which nominated the bad man.

It would seem, in the calm and peace of the present, that one whose words carry authority and who is a trusted servant of the public should actively contend against the candidate for whom he can not conscientiously speak. Moreover it is understood that Mr. Edmunds voted for Mr. Blaine, notwithstanding his low opinion of his character. It really seems strange that a good man should have expressed his desire that a bad man should be President. As we have said, however, Mr. Edmunds was forgiven by the Mugwumps, and more than a few of them have asserted since 1884 that they would be glad to vote for George F. Edmunds for President.

It is not probable that Mr. Edmunds has now nearly so many admirers as he had at the beginning of the present session of Congress. Judicious people who had studied his speeches and deeds rather than the adulations of his admirers were not surprised when he entered upon his present course of tricky partisanship. Mr. Edmunds would have made his issue with the President even if the end of his Senatorial term was not in the near future. He loves the byways of partisanship. He delights in the small arts of the attorney. He has never been the author of a great statute, but he has made innumerable verbal changes in measures that have been discussed by the Senate. It would be a miracle almost if Senator Edmunds should say a generous word of a political opponent, unless, like Mr. Thurman, a Democrat should happen to be his intimate friend. The contest for the Vermont Senatorship, which is now in its preliminary stages, is a fresh incentive, but his own nature and intellectual constitution are at the bottom of the fight he is making against the President. The facts in the Duskin case clearly show that Mr. Edmunds insists on the right of the Senate to demand papers touching suspensions because the President is a Democrat. He is moved by no other consideration, and the country knows it.—N. Y. Star.

A Strange Anomaly.

The report that a considerable number of Senators on both sides of the Chamber are in favor of doing away with secret executive sessions will lead to the hope that Mr. Pratt's resolution looking in that direction will pass. This resolution is so moderate that it is difficult to see why it should encounter any opposition whatever. It leaves the whole matter in effect to the discretion of the Senate. Indeed, herein consists the danger that it may prove ineffective. Secret sessions may be resumed whenever the Senate thinks it advisable. But it is valuable in that it breaks up the superstition which hedges the antiquated absurdity now in vogue, and once a departure is effected it will not be long before the practice shall have entirely disappeared. The general good sense of the body may be trusted so far.

It is even said that Mr. Edmunds is in favor of some modification of the present system. His difficulty, or rather his defeat, in bringing his party into thorough submission to his committee will not prove an unmixed evil if it leads him to support this movement. The general sentiment of the people of both parties is altogether in favor of progress in this respect. Open sessions would certainly help Senators to arrive at a true realization of their responsibility to the people. And they would increase the dignity of the body by doing away with the strange anomaly of calling certain of its meetings secret sessions, while they are invariably reported with especial fullness in the newspapers of the following day. By all means let the people know openly and honestly how their business is transacted in the Senate.—Washington Post

The Nation Yet Lives.

The Republican orators in the last campaign, from Mr. Blaine down, predicted that all sorts of financial disaster would result from placing the Administration in the hands of the Democrats. They "pointed with pride" to the reduction of the public debt, the large treasury balance, and a reasonable store of gold, as the results of Republican rule, and depicted in dark colors the probable effect of a change. The voters, believing government of the people to be safe in the hands of any majority of the people, decreed a change. A comparison of the receipts and expenditure for the nine months from July 1, 1884, with the corresponding period from July 1, 1885, shows that there has been an increase during the latter time of $10,000,000 in the revenues, and a decrease in the expenditures of $23,000,000, a net gain under Democratic rule of $33,000,000 for three-fourths of a year. The public debt was reduced over $14,000,000 in March; the net cash balance in the treasury is $76,000,000; the surplus gold reserve over $51,000,000. If the Republicans were entitled to credit for the good showing sometimes made under their Administration, the Democrats are deserving of just as much now. As a matter of fact, the people paid the taxes that produced these results in both cases; but it is the universal testimony of business men that the management of the treasury under Secretary Manning has been as honest, wise and firm as it was under any of his predecessors. The fiction of Republican indispensableness is thoroughly exploded.—Boston Sunday Herald.

THE STAR CHAMBER.

The Old Musty Republican Idea of Secret Sessions Giving Place to More Enlightened Views.

It really begins to look as if we should soon see the last of the Senatorial star chamber humbuggery. Even Mr. Edmunds is thought to be about ready to back down. The futility of all efforts to keep important proceedings secret has discouraged him; and rather than continue the farcical performance of closing the doors only to have Senators themselves carry reports to the press, he may join those who advocate the abolition of executive sessions. That would be a creditable step. But, apparently, the movement can succeed without his aid or favor. Mr. Platt's resolution has been gaining supporters. Old, musty ideas about the necessity of shutting out the public when certain matters are being considered, have gradually disappeared. They, in fact, belong to the distant past—to the early days of knee-breeches and wigs, when the Government was hardly so near the people as it is to-day. All proceedings of the Senate were held in secret until 1793, though there was much opposition to the custom. The doors were first thrown open when Albert Gallatin's right to a seat in the Senate was under discussion. The argument in favor of publicity, says Lossing, was the due enforcement of the responsibilities of the Senate and its individual members to the people, which secret debates tended to diminish; the prevention of those jealousies naturally aroused by secret legislation; and the greater confidence which publicity would inspire. These reasons for conducting legislative business with open doors are good now as arguments for keeping the doors permanently open, and publishing all the proceedings as the proceedings of the House are published. Old fogies among Senators can not long retain the precious privilege of clearing the galleries and bringing out the little brown jug. The custom is out of date.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

MEAN PARTY SPIRIT.

Mr. Ingalls' Speech Unworthy of a Representative of Liberty-Loving Kansas.

It must be a source of poignant grief to American citizens who decline to support unfit candidates for office, although nominated by the party to which they belong, that Mr. Ingalls, a Republican Senator from Kansas, thinks that they are politically neither men nor women, and announces his opinion in such vivid terms, according to the reports, that ladies fly from the galleries and Republican Senators roar with laughter. On the other hand, it can not be altogether pleasant for Republicans who remember that Republicanism in Kansas once meant a great and earnest conflict for freedom and the rescue of the Union from the slave power to perceive that Republicanism in Kansas, as illustrated by Mr. Ingalls, has dwindled into a vulgar sneer at political independence and manliness and honesty, and ridicule of reform in the civil service. The tirade of Mr. Ingalls against political independence was but a feeble echo of Mr. Conkling's picturesque gibes at "Jayhawkers and skirmishers between the lines." But some Republicans perhaps ask themselves whether even Mr. Conkling's gibes in the height of his political power and of the unquestioned supremacy of the Republican party, although loudly cheered as the blows of a great practical statesman pulverizing the Miss Nancys and and the Sunday-school prigs of politics, were really serviceable to the party, or whether the Republican jeers of 1884 at purists and Pharisees and super-celestial essences for whom no earthly party is good enough were really of use to it.—Harper's Weekly.

A Grand Monument.

At last there is to be a National library worthy of the name. Senator Voorhees' labor of six years to pass a bill appropriating money for a building fit for so grand an enterprise was the other day crowned with success. Although always a member of the minority in the Senate, he has been kept at the head of the committee in order that his zeal and interest in the subject should be secured for the project. The bill has passed the Senate several times, but always heretofore been lost in the House. The design of the building will allow space for three million volumes, though room for only one million will be secured at present. When complete, the edifice will rival the Capitol in size. When the Smithsonian Institute shall outgrow its demands its collections also will probably obtain larger and finer shelter, until this country shall have institutions rivaling the British Museum and the imperial libraries and institutes of the continent. Appropriations for purposes of this sort would make far nobler monuments to the memory of Lincoln and Grant than the meaningless piles of stone now proposed for them and that already built to Washington's name.—Detroit Free Press.

DEMOCRATIC BRIEFS.

——The assault upon Postmaster-General Vilas for refusing to subsidize mail steamship lines comes from the steamship companies themselves.—Detroit Free Press.

——The only really good effect which the indefinite expansion of the pension policy will have upon the growing generation, will be to add such an effective additional horror to war that they will not resort to it under any consideration.—New York World.

——The Republican Senators are still floundering about in their effort to make a little party capital out of their controversy with the President over nominations, but it becomes daily more evident that Mr. Edmunds can not hold them to the rule of rejecting men simply because they can not get the "papers."—New York Post.

THE SPRING STOCK OF GOODS HAS ARRIVED AT

W. E. PIPER & BROTHER,

BURLINGTON, - - - - - KENTUCKY.

WHITE GOODS, DRESS GOODS AND

SEERSUCKERS,

We feel entirely above contradiction when we assert that no one ever presented to the public, in one town, a more complete and gratifying selection of the above,

Also Spring & Summer

PRINTS,
LAWNS,
DOMESTIC,
AND GINGHAMS,

In every Quality and at the Lowest Prices. In connection with the above, we have an Elegant Line of LACES, BASTISTE, INSERTING, HAMBURG EDGINGS, white and colored, SCRIM for window curtains, and CHEESE CLOTH.

Table Linens, Black and Brown Cotton, Sheeting, Toilet Towels, Napkins, Chiviot Shirting & Cottonades.

Our assortment of these is so complete and varied, that any one can be suited in taste and price.

W. E. PIPER & BROTHER.

It Is

Our Pleasure to Announce

That we have added an entirely new feature to our business, i. e.

A FULL AND COMPLETE

assortment of Ladie's Dress

STAW HATS & BONNETS.

We are the first who ever introduced Millinery Goods here, outside a Milliner, and having had experience of pleasing the Trade in the Fall, and the best advice in selecting our

SPRING GOODS.

We do not hesitate to say we can please you, so

COME AND TRY US

LADIES, MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S

HOSE

In all the Durable Spring and Summer Shades. Ladies' Misses' and Children's Fine Dress

SHOES AND SLIPPERS,

and the most satisfactory Line of Mens' and Boy's

PLOW SHOES

Ever Exhibited.

GLASSWARE, QUEENSWARE AND TINWARE,

Is of the best Quality and Latest Patterns throughout.

Our Line of GROCERIES is Complete And Fresh. Standard Sugars, Green and Brown Coffees, AT THE LOWEST PRICES.

We are Headquarters for the best FLOUR PATENT and FAMILY.

LIME, WHITE WASH BRUSAES AND GARDEN IMPLEMENTS.

W. E. PIPER & BROTHER.

In conclusion we beg to ask you to Call and Examine for Yourself the Articles Enumerated and all others We carry, and if not as we say, we then Submit. Until then however, we are with an always willing desire to please when permitted to attend you.

YOURS VERY TRULY, W. E. PIPER & BROTHER.

THE RECORDER.

WEDNESD'Y, APRIL 28, 1886.

RIDDELL & HALL,
Proprietors.

Rates of Subscription.

One year	$1 50
Six months	75
Three months	40

Payment invariably in advance.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1 Column	1 year	$80
1	½ "	40
1	¼ "	20
½ "	1 "	20
¼ "	½ "	10
¼ "	¼ "	6

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

Augest Election 1886.

For Circuit Judge
WARREN MONFORT.
For Commonwealths Attorney
JOHN S. GAUNT.

For Circuit Clerk
W. L. RIDDELL.
For County Judge
E. H. BAKER.
For County Attorney
S. W. TOLIN.
For County Clerk
M. T. GARNETT.
For Sheriff
J. R. CLUTTERBUCK.
For County Superintendent
J. P. RYLE.
For Surveyor
W. E. VEST.
For Jailer
SAMUEL COWEN.
For Assessor
G. M. RILEY.
For Coroner
Dr. A. A. MURAT.

Subscribe for the Recorder.

SECRETARY MANNING has so far recovered that he is now able to see visitors.

BUTCHERS are actively pushing their organization all over the country with the design to fighting dressed beef.

AN Arizona paper begins an obituary with this: "Death loves a shining mark, and when he struck Jim he struck a dandy."

THE story is told of a certain town Judge in Henry county that whenever he fines any one in his August court he always says, give him $5, and cost, and one day's hoeing in my garden.

IT is estimated that there are 500-000 Knights in the United States who are amply able to give $500,000 per month, which they say they are willing to do until eternity, unless Gould gives in.

A MISSOURI farmer who has been testing seed corn from the butt, the tip and the middle of ears for three years, finds that the corn from the tip of the ears will ripen first, that from the middle next, and that from the butt last.

'Squire Lucian Gex has been having a royal time catching fish on his farm near Ghent, since the recent high water. The falling river left many fish in pools on the overflowed part of his land and they are easily caught with a net. In one day's fishing he caught over two hundred pounds.—Warsaw Independent.

THE London Standard, commenting on the strike in the United States says they "will strain the resources of American statesmanship as they have only once been tried since the war of independence to keep the conflict within the bounds of legality and constitutional order. Republican institutions are still on their trial. It looks as if the social difficulty would be their severest tests."

KENTUCKY stands in need, just now, of some wholesome reforms in the administration of State affairs, and Judge Durham is a reformer of the old school. "Charity begins at home," therefore the Democracy of Kentucky should transfer Judge Durham from the Comptroller's office at Washington to the office of Chief Magistrate of Kentucky. We have had about as much fogy and fossilism in the management of our State affairs as the people will stand and it behooves the Democratic party to see that good men are nominated in 1887. Head the ticket with M. J. Durham.—Cattletsburg Democrat.

THE weather has been exceptionally favorable during the past ten days for spring wheat seeding, and has been improved to the utmost in Winconsin, Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota and Dakota. Fully one-half to two-thirds of the entire acreage in Dakota and Minnesota has already been seeded, and under condition which could hardly have been excelled. Seeding is progressing favorably in Wisconsin and Iowa, but in Nebraska complaint of wet weather still continues, and considerable land, which would otherwise been devoted to wheat, has gone to flax and oats. While the reports are not yet complete, the indications are for slightly decreased acreage in Wisconsin and Minnesota, and a considerable increase in Dakota. The reports from the winter-wheat States show little variation from those of the proceeding two weeks. The Kansas bulletins do not indicate any improvement. The outlook at the best, is that the yield will not exceed one-third to one-half an average crop. In Dickson and other counties the failure is almost total, and the fields have been plowed under and devoted to oats and other grains. The reports from Michigan also show very little or no improvement. The prospects are for from 65 to 85 per cent. of an average crop in the different counties. Reports of damage from the Hessian fly comes from three Michigan counties and from one county in Indiana, but the injury reported thus far is not serious. The generality of the reports from Indiana and Ohio are very favorable, while the reports from Missouri and Tennessee continue very flattering, the weather of the past two weeks proving extremely favorable. With the exception of one county in Kentucky, Johnson, where there is the promise of not to exceed half a crop, the returns continue very favorable. —Farmers Review.

THE unveiling of Benj. H. Hill's statute will take place at Atlanta, Ga., May 1st.

THE DRESSMAKER.

An Individual of the Female Persuasion of Uncertain Age and Migratory Habits.

Come, children, put away your playthings, and I will tell you about the dressmaker; a creation which you have all heard of, no doubt, but of which it is not possible you can be fully informed.

A dressmaker, then, is an individual of the female persuasion; age, uncertain; habits, migratory.

It is the custom of the dressmaker to roam about from house to house, ostensibly for the purpose of fitting dresses to her victims; but this is an error. The dressmaker was never known to be guilty of such an indiscretion. They who have spread the report have injured her grossly.

No: the dressmaker does not fit dresses. She has better business on her hands than any such trifling affair as that. Her mission is a high and ennobling one. All such commonplace matters as cutting and fitting dresses she relegates to the inferior intelligence of her customers.

But let me tell you just what the duties of the dressmaker are.

To day she is engaged to spend the day with Mrs. Smith. Mrs. Smith receives the dressmaker with open arms and some twenty or thirty yards of silk. The dressmaker is kind enough to look at the silk, and kinder still to sit down and cut it into patches eminently suitable for insertion in a crazy quilt; in the meantime regaling Mrs. Smith with a full and accurate account of domestic economy as practiced at Mrs. Brown's.

While the dressmaker is engaged in this two fold operation of dissecting Mrs. Smith's silk and Mrs. Brown's household affairs, Mrs. Smith is kept very busy. Listening to a recital of one's dear friend's eccentricities—always a delightful occupation—and superintending the preparation of dinner are quite a strain upon even the strongest constitutions.

But in process of time dinner is ready, the silk is divided and subdivided to the satisfaction of the dressmaker, and the whole story of Mrs. Brown's domestic economy has been told.

That is to say, it seemed to have been told. But the appearance of the several articles of food upon Mrs. Smith's table reminds the dressmaker that she has omitted some very important items, and straightway she proceeds to compare the respective bills of fare provided by her hostess and by Mrs. Brown, much to the disadvantage of the latter.

Dinner over, the dressmaker pins and bastes and ties upon Mrs. Smith all the pieces of silk, big and little, that come convenient; all the while, of course, entertaining her hostess with most improving conversation upon a variety of subjects, embracing almost everything under heaven, from the last novel up to the way Mrs. Gray's servant acted when Mrs. Gray's baby came down with the measles.

The afternoon is consumed in this way, and supper time and Mr. Smith come before the trying on process is fairly completed. Mrs. Smith retires to make herself presentable, the dressmaker meanwhile gracefully flirting with the lord of the manor.

At the tea table, the dressmaker, now having an enlarged audience, repeats with additions and improvements, her essay on the comparative merits of the Smith and the Brown cuisine, and at the close of the meal the dressmaker retires from the field with the proud satisfaction that she has shed a radiance over the Smith household for one day at least, besides amply earning the five dollar gratuity for her distinguished services.

The dressmaker and the dress have no interest in one another from this moment, but during the ensuing three weeks that Mrs. Smith is engaged in sewing, ripping, re-sewing, undoing, rearranging and altering that dress, it is to be presumed that the dressmaker is ever present to her thoughts.

How pleasant it is thus to live in the memory of those whom you have benefited!

It is needless to follow the dressmaker on her mission of love and usefulness. To-morrow she will be irradiating the household and severing the silk of Mrs. Black. The only difference in the day's duties will be that, instead of Mrs. Brown's domestic affairs and Mrs. Brown's cookery, it will be Mrs. Smith's home economy and Mrs. Smith's cuisine which pass in review.

I think I have said enough, children, to show you that the dressmaker does not fit dresses much less make them. If you have any doubt about the truth of what I have told you, however, you would better ask your mammas, who are amply able to satisfy your uncertainty.—Boston Transcript.

The whipping post bill has been defeated.

MUST BE ENFORCED.

An Arkansaw Justice Who Was Determined to Enforce the Laws of the State.

Abraham Stockton, who during many years lived in the southern part of Arkansaw, was, in honor to his great learning and also to the fact that he had once killed a mad dog, elected justice of the peace. The people were very anxious to see a case taken before the old man, for every man knew that Stockton's opinion would be one which the Supreme Court could not reverse. The opportunity came. A man named Hefford sued Mr. Cheeley. The litigation grew out of a dispute concerning the ownership of a lot of sheep. A jury was empaneled, the evidence was taken and the lawyers made their speeches. The verdict of the jury declared that the sheep be equally divided. Before discharging the jury, the magistrate said:

"Gentlemen, you've did your duty, but you ain't made no provisions fur the cost in this thing. The Constitution of the United States says that when jurymen make sich a oversight, the Judge shall take the matter into his own hands. Gentlemen, I'll charge you two dollars a piece. I have heard a heap o' people talk about the Judge's charge to the jury, an' I reckon some o' you will talk about this one, but if you say anything outen the way, I'll whale the whole kit an' bilin' o' yer."

"Your honor," said a lawyer, "you can't make the jury pay—"

"Can't I? Wall, now it's funny if we don't. They don't get a bite to eat till the thing's settled. Boys, git your pops an' keep your eyes on the jury. The laws of this State have got to be enforced."—Arkansaw Traveler.

FARM IMPLEMENTS.

Buy your Farming Implements, Fence Wire, Cutting Boxes, Feed Grinders, Corn Shellers, Road Scrapers, Excavating Carts, Sewing Machines, Mowers and Reapers and Deering TWINE Binders, GROCERIES, &c.

READY MIXED PAINT.

—of—

J. C. Smith,

Successor to W. H. HILL & Co.

22 and 24 EAST THIRD STREET,
Cincinnati, Ohio.

Or of our local Agent C. W. RILEY, North Bend, Ohio, (Ky. Box). All goods sold strictly on their merits.

ATTENTION!

TOBACCO

Shippers and Raisers, you can buy

Tobacco Hogheads,

Set up or Knock Downs,

AT THE COMPANY'S MILLS

At Lawrenceburg or Aurora, Ind.

Orders by mail will meet our prompt attention.

LAND FOR SALE.

50 acres good land near Constance, this county. All in grass and well watered. Terms easy—apply to this OFFICE.

FOR SALE!

Henry County Farm of 120 acres, situated on pike 1 mile from Smithfield, on Louisville & Lexington Railroad, 30 miles from Louisville. Said farm has on it a good frame house, of 8 rooms, good barn and all other outbuildings, and never failing water, convenient to good schools and churches. The land is first-class, all in grass but 25 acres, which is in wheat, 25 acres of fine tobacco land which has never been cultivated. Terms reasonable. For further information apply to

B. D. STURGIN, Smithfield, Ky.
Henry county. 52-3m

Take the Reccorcer.

DENMARK CHIEF, JR,

Will stand the present season at my stable at Sand Run, at $10 to insure, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with. Not responsible for accidents. I will reserve a lien on all colts until the insurance money is paid.

Denmark Chief, jr, is a bright mahogany bay, 4 yrs-old, 15½ hands high, fine length, with as fine hip, loin and quarter as ever put on a horse. His blood-like head is full of expression, indicative of the finest disposition; and, take him all in all, he is one of the finest models of the Ky., horse.

He was sired by Old Denmark Chief; he by Old Black Denmark, formerly owned by A. R. Alexander, of Woodford county, Ky.; Old Denmark was sired by the old race-horse Imported Hedgeford; Wm. Allen's dam sorrel Betty, a Copperbottom mare, sired by Daniel Boone; he by Tom Crowder; he by Black Pilot, the old horse Alexander. CHRISTOPHER BARLOW.

BILL CHEERE

Will make the season at the stable of John G. Bradford in Union, Ky., at $15 to insure. Bill Cheere was bought of Mr. W. Duncan, of Illinois, who imported him. He is the most perfect draft horse in the county.

GUIZOT

Will make the season at my stable in Petersburg, Ky., at $16 to insure. Guizot was imported from France, and is a fine breeder. GEO. W. TERRILL, Petersburg, Ky.

Riddell's Hambletoni'n

Is a bay, 15½ hands high, 8 years old, and will make the season of 1886 at mo stable, 2 miles from Anderson's Ferry, and 2 miles from Hebron, and will serve mares at $10.

He is by Strader's Hambletonian; dam Bushie Sanders; she by Green's Bashaw. He is one of the best breeders in the county his colts are good size, good workers and trotters. J. A. RIDDELL.

I had a colt by this horse which I sold for $300, unbroke, Geo. Gaines.

The fine harness and saddle horse,

Young Hedgeford,

Will make the season of 1886, at my stable 4½ miles from Petersburg, at the forks of the Burlington and Woolper pike, and will serve mares at $10 to insure a colt to stand up and suck, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

DESCRIPTION & PEDIGREE.

He is a dark mahogany bay, 4 years old, 16 hands high, and has fine style and action. He was sired by Old Hedgeford, the premium saddle and general purpose horse, who was sold to Joe Emmet for $1,000. Young Hedeford's dam was a fine mare from Burbon county, Ky.

Not responsible for accidents.

J. W. BERKSHIRE.

NOTICE.

The annual election for President and Directors of the Burlington and Bellevue turnpike company, will be held in the town of Burlington on the 1st Monday in May, 1886.

S. P. BRADY, President.

WANTED—LADY Active and Intelligent, to represent in her own locality an old firm. References required. Permanent position and good salary. GAY & BROS., 12 Barclay St., N. Y.

OPIUM and WHISKY HABITS cured at home without pain. BOOK of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.

JENKINS'

ALMONT,

This renowned trotting stallion and sire of trotters will make the season of 1886, at the stable of John D. Norris, ¼ mile from Petersburg, Boone county, Ky., at $30 the season, with the privilege of returning in 1887 should the mare fail to get with foal, money due July 1st, 1886.

Jenkins' Almont was sired by Wither's Almont, the sire of 26 horses with records of 2:30 or better. 1st dam by Toledo; 2nd dam Sousby Grays Highlander; 3d dam by Coner de Leon, a noted pacer.

Jenkins' Almont is the sire of Bessie G. 2:25½; Grafton, 2:28¼; Will Heath, trial, 2:21, and others gifted with great trotting speed.

Pasture furnished at $3 per month. Care will be exercised to prevent accidents or escapes, but will not be responsible should any occur. We are endeavoring to give the people of Boone Co., a chance to get a fine colt at a low price. J. D. NORRIS & Co.

The Combined Stallion,

RECTOR

Will make the season of 1886, Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays at Harvy Marshalls at Waterloo, and the rest of the week at my stable at Bellevue, at $10 to insure a mare with foal, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Rector is a beautiful black, 7 years old, 15½ hands high, and a good all-purpose horse. He was sired by Criss, dam Black Nose,

Not responsible for accidents should any occur. ROBT. CLORE, Bellevue, Ky.

The fine stallion, Conner's

ALMONT

Will make the present season at my stable at Bullittsville, Ky., and will serve mares at $10 to insure, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Care will be taken to prevent accidents, but will not be responsible should any occur.

ALMONT is 6 years old, a beautiful rich mahogany bay, black mane and tail, with two white ankles behind, stands 16 hands high, and shows much style and speed,

ALMONT was by Bidwell's Almont, jr., bred by Col. West; got by Almont, son of Alexander's Abdallah; dam Belle Forrest, by Edwin Forrest. Almont is a half brother to Sensation; 1st dam Topsy, the fine premium mare, by Topgallant; g. d. a Belle Founder mare, g. g. d. a Copperbottom mare that possessed all the fine saddle qualities. J. D. CONNER.

CRIGLER'S ALMONT,

Will make the season of 1886 at my stable on Gunpowder Creek 1½ miles above Limaburg and at Florence, Ky., at $20, to insure a mare with foal, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Will be at Florence the first three days of each week, and the rest of the time at my stable. Not responsible for accidents.

ALMONT is a dark chestnut sorrel, 15¾ hands high, with fine style, and has trotted his mile in less than 2:30, he is by Almont jr., he by Wither's Almont; he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian; Almonts 1st dam Goodwood; 2d dam Daniel Boone; 3 dam Blacknose.

REX DENMARK.

Will make the season at the same time and places, at $10 to insure a mare in foal. He is a beautiful brown with fine mane and tail, style that cannot be beaten, is 16 hands high. He has been shown 14 times and taken 10 ties, in Missouri.

He is by Crigler's Denmark; he by Denmark Chief; he by Black Denmark; Old Denmark by Imported Messenger. Rex Denmark's 1st dam Woodpecker Star of the West; 2d dam Mohawk; 3d dam Tom Crowder. W. A. CRIGLER.

The fine harness and saddle stallion

Young WOODPECKER

Will make the season of 1886, Saturdays and Mondays at J. W. Gaines' stable at Burlington, Tuesdays and Wednesdays at Gainesville, Thursdays and Fridays at J. W. Gaines' farm near Plattsburg, at $10 to insure a colt to stand up and suck, any person parting with a mare after being bred forfeits the insurance money.

Young Woodpecker was sired by Nat Carpenter's Star of the West; he by Woodpecker; he by Bertrand; dam imported Buzzard. Young Woodpecker's dam was a 3 minute mare, by Jeff Davis, g. d. by Russell's Pilot; he by old Sir William.

Not responsible for accidents.

TEN BROCK, This fine young jack will make the season at the same time and places and on the same terms.

He is black with mealy nose, 15 hands high. He was sired by Espartero; he by a large Spanish jack; dam of Ten Brock, Mollie McCarty, was sired by Longfellow, Perry Tucker's jack; g. d. by A. S. Piatt's jack, the best breeder over in this county.

F. C. Wingate, J. W. Gaines,
J. J. Lillard, C. A. Gaines.

OHIO VOLUNTEER,

Will stand the season of 1886, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of each week at David Clements', near Jeff Utz's, on the Union & Rising Sun grade, 4 miles from Union, and the rest of the time at my stable in Burlington, at $10 to insure, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with. Not responsible for accidents.

Ohio Volunteer is a beautiful dark brown has fine form and action, is a sure foal getter and a good trotter. His many colts prove him a model breeder.

Ohio Volunteer was sired by Goldsmith's Volunteer; he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian, dam Forrest Telltale, by Edwin Forrest; 2d dam Telemon. C. W. SAXTON,

AGENTS WANTED for DR. SCOTT'S beautiful Electric Corsets. Sample free to those becoming agents. No risk, quick sales. Territory given. Satisfaction guaranteed. Address DR. SCOTT, 842 Broadway, NEW YORK.

1886. STALLIONS FOR 1886.

SAM HARRIS.

DESCRIPTION—Bay, no white, 16½ hands, fine style, good trotting action, 5 years old, with six weeks breaking and handling trotted a full mile over Chester Park in 2:58, full brother to Royalmont, who has a record 2:32 with a private trial 2:22 in his 5 year old form.

PEDIGREE—By Bidwell's Almont, dam Louisiana by Tornado; he by Tempest; he by Royalgeorge; her dam by Old Mazeppa; she was sold in 1874 and delivered in Buffalo for $1,500, and afterwards shipped south. She trotted the Buffalo track in 2:35 the day of sale.

SAM HARRIS will make the season of 1886 for $25, payable when the service is rendered, with the privilege of breeding till a colt is obtained.

JOHN S.

DESCRIPTION—Dark iron gray, 5 yrs. old, very stylish, good action, 16 hands high.

PEDIGREE—By Bidwell's Almont; 1st dam by Ohio Volunteer; he by Goldsmith's Volunteer; he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian; 2d dam White Eagle. John S. will make the season of 1886 for $10 to insure, due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Bidwell's Almont by Wither's Almont; he by Alexander's Abdullah; he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian; 1st dam by Edwin Forrest; Bidwell's Almont sired Judge Lindsay with a 5 yr. old record 2:21¼, Annie W. 2:22¼, and two others with public record below 2:30; also Royalmont with a public record 2:32 and private trial 2:22. Pasture furnished at $3 per month, but not responsible for accidents.

These two stallions will make the season of 1886, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at Bullittsville and the rest of the week at my stable 1½ mile west of Anderson's Ferry.

JAS. L. RILEY, Bullittsville, Ky.

City Flouring Mills,

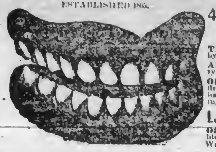
—RISING SUN, INDIANA.—

FLOUR EXCHANGED FOR WHEAT OR CASH. THE HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR GOOD WHEAT.

J. W. TALBOTT.

OHIO STEAM DENTAL CO.

ESTABLISHED 186[illegible].



47 WEST SEVENTH STREET,
CINCINNATI, O.

TEETH EXTRACTED WITHOUT PAIN by using Fresh Nitrous Oxide Gas.
ARTIFICIAL TEETH ... of the best quality and workmanship finish, with guaranteed fit.
OPERATIVE DEPARTMENT handsomely finished and well lighted—the principal having had a lifelong experience in the treatment and filling of the natural teeth.

I. ROBERTSON, D.D.S., Principal.

Office and Residence, 17 W. 7th St., two blocks north of Fountain Square, (formerly 271 Walnut and 6th & Vine). Office open at all hours.

THE COMBINATION FENCE

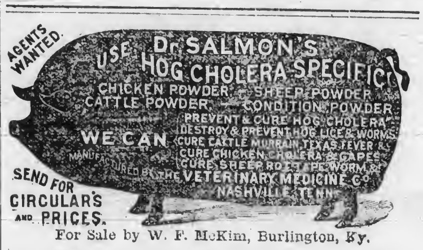
A fence that is wanted, and in time will be used by every one that wants a fence, either around the House, Garden or Farm, as it is cheap, durable and servicable, to keep in check horses, cattle, sheep, hogs, chickens, etc., and restrain wolves, dogs, and rabbits, etc.

Having all the advantages of a picket fence in restraining animals from jumping, and not so liable to decay, and at much less cost, and no barbs to injure valuable stock, thus placing it far in advance of any other fence now in use, hence it must be the fence of the future; all who have it want more.

It is portable and can be removed from field to field by drawing staples from posts, taking out the splice, lath and rebundling it. We offer this fence for sale in bundles of five and six rod at Burlington.

DILLS & CRISLER,

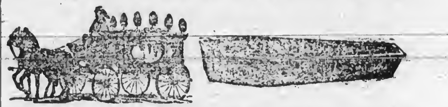
Burlington, Ky.



AGENTS WANTED.
USE Dr SALMON'S
HOG CHOLERA SPECIFIC
CHICKEN POWDER
SHEEP POWDER
CATTLE POWDER
CONDITION POWDER
PREVENT & CURE HOG CHOLERA
DESTROY & PREVENT HOG LICE & WORMS
WE CAN
CURE CATTLE MURRAIN TEXAS FEVER &
CURE CHICKEN CHOLERA & GAPES
CURE SHEEP ROT TAPE WORM &c
MANUFACTURED BY THE VETERINARY MEDICINE Co
NASHVILLE TENN
SEND FOR CIRCULARS AND PRICES.

For Sale by W. F. McKim, Burlington, Ky.

UNDERTAKING.



Branch House of Chas. Donnelly & Co., of Covington, Ky.

AT BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY.

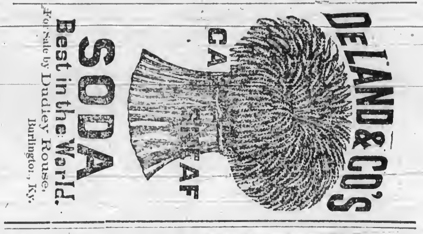
Where a Hearse and all Styles of Burial Cases and Robes can be secured at as Low Figures as at Covington, or elsewhere,

Bodies Embalmed or preserved in a

REFRIGERATOR

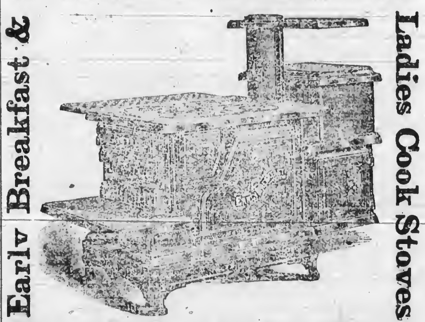
When desired. All orders left with our Branch House in Burlington will be promptly attended, and funerals conducted in the best style. The business is in charge of Jas. Westlay, with whom leave orders.

CHAS. DONNELLY & CO.



For Sale by Dudley Rouse, Burlington, Ky.

W. H. & J. M. McCLUNG



ALSO A GREAT VARIETY OF HARD and SOFT COAL

HEATING STOVES.

ALL KINDS OF STOVES REPAIRED.

Tin Roofing, Spouting, Guttering, etc., Done to Order.

535 & 537 Madison Ave. Covington, Ky.

Second Door Below Sixth Street.

Subscribe for the Boone County Recorder.

Local News.

We have an abundance of shade in our town now.

The second relay of jurors reported Monday morning.

C. H. Meninger, of Williamstown, was in town Saturday.

Dr. Riley and wife, of Bellevue, were guests at Jo C. Revill's last Saturday.

Miss Mattie Winston, of Hebron, was visiting Miss Fannie Rice, Monday.

Mrs. Mollie Gallion, of Carrollton, has been at her mother's for several days.

Judge Hawes takes advantage of the fine weather and takes buggy rides, daily.

Easter passed in good style, and now we need expect very little more cold weather.

A good shower would be no disadvantage to the growth of vegetation about now.

Miss Abbie Scott, of Florence, was the guest of Mrs. Kirb Conrad several days last week.

J. G. McGarvey and family, of Cincinnati, spent Sunday with relatives in Burlington.

Solen Earley, of Petersburg, spent several days in town last week, being engaged at his trade.

If this weather continues it will be but a few days until you hear of some fellow planting corn.

H. P. Stephens is giving the inside of his commodious residence an overhauling, papering, &c.

Mr. Paschal Rucker was out of the house last Wednesday for the first time since he was hurt.

James Green, of Cincinnati, spent several days last week, with his sister, Mrs. Carpenter, near here.

There is a heavy apple bloom this spring. Some say that is no indication as to the quanity of apples though.

H. Clay White attended court last Thursday long enough to have the suits in which he is interested, continued.

James Setters, an aged gentleman down on Gunpowder, died one day last week. His remains were interred on Tuesday.

C. W. Hanna, of Mason county, attended court last week and the first of this, being a party litigant in one suit pending.

Only sixteen out of the 24 petit jurors summoned for this week answer to the call Monday morning when court convened.

Mayor Batterson, of Francesville, sojourned in Burlington last week, ostensibly absorbing legal lore, during leisure moments.

A large number of the East Benders were witnesses in the Moore will case. In some instances both sides drew on the same family for testimony.

For Rent.—To a responsible person, a well located blacksmith shop, in the town of Florence, Ky. Apply to

A. C. Graves, Florence.

Joe Reed has resumed business at the old stand, where he can always be found, provided always if the dog or goose question is not under investigation.

Piper Bros. took their stove down and out last Thursday and supplied its place by a display of summer hats. We hope their act will not prove to be premature.

J. M. Conner will commence receiving in a few days, his this season's purchase of wool, and will receive at Burlington Saturday's and at Bellevue on Friday's.

Miss Nannie Lyne, of Fayette, and her niece, Miss Lillie Lyne, of Jessamine, returned home, on last Saturday from Hon. J. A. Gaines', where they have been visiting.

It is currently reported that our suburban fellow citizen, John J. Huey, will move to Rabbit Hash this fall and take charge of the ferry at that place. It will bo Capt. Huey, then.

We were in hopes that the style for ladies hats this spring, would be 1-story lower, but, instead of being lowered they have been raised. Some of them remind us of the smoke stack of a sawmill.

Geo. Stamler, of Walton, has his notices up for license to keep hotel at Florence, having rented the Southern Hotel of Mrs Grant. He will make his application at the May term of the County Court.

Judge Major has been as attentive to business this court as though he would return again in the fall. The failure of a nomination had no effect on the Judge's knack of dispatching business for which he is equal to any official.

E. T. Krutz, of Big Bone, has twice served as a regular juror in the Boone Circuit Court, and each time he has struck a protracted trial, which detained him nine consecutive days. He is a man of considerable endurance.

Remember that Geo. Husohart & Co. of Lawrenceburg, Indiana, can always give satisfaction both as to price and style of work, so when you want to buy a tombstone or a monument go to their yard or call on John Beall, of Hebron, Ky., their agent.

Mr. W. H. Nelson, so long and favorably known to the citizens of this county, has accepted the agency for Boone and Kenton, of Prof. Ridpath's great Cyclopedia of Universal History. We bespeak for Mr. Nelson the courteous attention of our readers.

This is the season when a fellow upon going home at any time should not allow himself disconcerted by his discovering his housekeeping out-fit in a confusion surpassing the result of a full grown western cyclone. He should be thankful though, that his domicile is left in tact by the house cleaning tempest.

Miss Mary Cropper, daughter of John Cropper, of the Bullittsburg neighborhood, is lying dangerously ill with erysiples at Georgetown, where she has been attending college. Her parents are at her bed side, and many friends at home are very anxious about her condition.

We have never before seen such a display of Spring Goods, as Dudley Rouse and Piper Bros. have on hand this spring. They have the latest styles in Calicoes, Lawns, Seersuckers, Scrim for window curtains, and Ladies' straw hats and bonnets in every imaginable shape. Read their advertisements in this impression, and when in town step in and see for yourself.

It seems that we are to have a partial peach crop notwithstanding the extreme severity of the past winter. We were shown last week a sprig from a smock peach tree upon which there were live buds enough for a full crop, and we understand that there are several varieties putting forth considerable bloom. In several localities we learn that the budded peach tree bare plenty of bloom.—Milton Press.

J. M. Conner received from M. Sabel & Sons., of Louisville, one of the largest wool buyers in the country, the following letter, dated April 24. 1886:—

"The market East is in a very unsettled condition with the tendency downwards, and we do not look for a reaction soon. We don't think over 20c. will be paid in the country down this way, and we are reliably informed that pretty much the same feeling exists in the Bluegrass section. You will no doubt think this rather a discouraging letter, but such are the facts so far as we can learn. Write all your parties not to pay over 20c. for good wool."

Jim Westbay's experience in the Queen City has been exceedingly varied, but that of last Thursday capped the climax, and caused about as much excitement there as did the late riot. He had captured a stray dog, a gray hound, in Burlington, and was taking it back, expecting to receive the advertised reward. When the dog was taken out of the wagon in the city it slipped its collar and started with Jim in hot pursuit which was continued for about two hours, going pellmell up the street through the crowd, over children and baby carriages, down allies, through stores, into cellars and any where else they could go, until he was completely convinced that in his declining years he is not as fleet as the spry gray hound. Jim did not get the reward.

Wednesday afternoon quite a number of friends and relatives congregated at the residence of Mrs. Wm. Carpenter, near Sparta to witness the nuptials of James Wood and Miss Allie Carpenter. Rev. G. W. Hill, of Glencoe Baptist church, in his usual happy and elegant manner, performed the ceremony that bound the young couple together as husband and wife. The happy young couple, accompanied by quite a number, came here and were entertained by Chas. R. Wood and wife at their home the Brown Hotel, where an elegant collation was spread for their guests. Mr. and Mrs. Wood left on the night boat for Cincinnati on a short bridal trip. The young couple are popular with all who know them, and the best wishes are extended them for a happy and prosperous future. They were the recipients of a number of fine and useful presents. They will reside near Sparta.—Warsaw Independent.

Notice of the death of our much beloved brother, Felax Moses, who was made a Master Mason in Good Faith Lodge of Free Masons, August 28th, 1886, and

Whereas, Brother Moses departed this life March 28th, 1886, and was in the 60th year of his age and was a member of this Lodge for 20 years, during which time he ever acted in a manner becoming a true and worthy brother, endearing himself to all who knew him, manifesting himself at all times, the spirit of honesty in all his business transactions with all persons, and brotherly kindness toward those with whom he was associated, therefore,

Resolved, That in the death of our worthy Brother, Felax Moses, this Lodge has lost a most devoted member. Yet, we humbly bow to the dictation of the Grand Master above, believing by Him our Brother will ultimately be called from labor to refreshment in that great, grand Lodge above, where all Worthy Master Masons ultimately meet to part no more forever.

Resolved, That this notice be published in the Boone County Recorder and a copy of said paper sent to David Moses, brother of Felax, Natchez, Miss, No. 22, Commese Street, also a copy to S. March, No 23, Walnut Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

A. Sayre,
Wm Allen,
Butler Carpenter, } Com.

Sunday morning four or five young men left town for a stroll over the green fields and by the merry rivelets to admire nature as being bedecked in all its beauty at this season of the year. When about a mile from town one of the parties, after lighting a cigar, thoughtlessly threw the match down among the grass. They proceeded on their way and had gone some distance, when, upon looking back, they discovered the whole country in their rear enveloped in smoke. It at once occurred to the gentleman who was smoking, the match he had thrown down, was the instigator of the raging conflagration. The young men voted unanimously to walk back to the locality of the smoke, which they did at the rate of about 40 miles an hour, and when they arrived they found the flames spreading and threatening considerable fencing near by. They were soon out of their coats, and commenced the battle, determined to conquer or die. After about two hours of as lively a time as men ever had they succeeded in subduing the flames, but in the mean time they had been reenforced by several of the neighbors who were attracted by the large volume of smoke. It is said that some of the boys danced "juber" on the flames for two hours, while others wore their fingers out making ditches around the fire to intercept its mad career. Taking it all in all the boys had but little enjoyment out of their walk Sunday morning, but like little men they remained on the battle field until the enemy was completely conquered, having prevented the destruction of any property, by heroic efforts.

County Directory

OFFICERS.

Assessor—G. M. Riley.
Jailer—Samuel Cowen.
County Surveyor—W. E. Vest.
Coroner.—Dr. A. A. Murat, Constance.
Superintendent of Schools—H. J. Foster

COURTS.

CIRCUIT COURT meets the 2d Monday in April and first Monday in October. P. U. Major, Judge; W. L. Riddell, Clerk A. G. DeJarnette, Commonwealths Attorney; W. L. Riddell, Trustee Jury Fund.

COUNTY COURT meets the first Monday in every month. L. H. Dills, Judge; S. W. Tolin, County Attorney. M. T. Garnett, Clerk; J. R. Clutterbuck, Sheriff, T. W. Finch and W. T. German, Deputy Sheriffs.

QUARTERLY COURT meets the first Monday in March, June, September and December. The officers of the County Court preside.

COURT OF CLAIMS meets the first Monday in November.

MAGISTRATES' COURTS are held in March, June, September and December, as follows:

Bellevue—M. B. Green, first Saturday, and T. H. Sutton, third Monday. J. M. Moody, Constable.

Burlington—E. H. Baker, Thursday after first Monday, and Oscar Gaines, fourth Monday. C. W. Saxton, Constable.

Carlton A. G. McConnell, Wednesday after second Monday, and B. H. Ryle, Saturday after third Monday Charles H. Acra, Constable.

Petersburg—Jos. Hensley, Wednesday after first Monday, and L. A. Loder fourth Saturday. Geo. Comer, Constable.

Beaver—W. M. Rouse, Friday after the third Monday, and Andrew Ellis, Fiday after 1st Mmonday—T. J. Coyle, Constable.

Union—M. C. Norman, Thursday after third Monday, and H. Bannister, Thursday after second Monday. H. G. Blanton, Constable.

Hamilton—F. M. Howlett, Tuesday after second Monday; W. W. Garnett, Wednesday after third Monday. R. L. Roberts Constable.

Walton—T. F. Carley, second Friday. S. T. Johnson, Tuesday after second Friday Al Arnold, Constable.

Verona—J. P. Vest, Tuesday after first Monday. J. J. Brumback, Tuesday after third Monday, J. H. Callahan, constable.

Florence—T. K. Dixon, third Saturday, Joe Wagstaff, second Saturday. Craig Pettit, Constable.

Taylorsport—A. B. Whitlock, fourth Monday, W. A. Goodridge, third Saturday Thos. Watts, constable.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

GUNPOWDER.

Mrs. Betty Ann Beemon is on the sick list.

Miss Ettie Beemon burned her hand very badly one day last week.

Mr. Will Adams and family, were visiting Early Rouse's family, Sunday.

There will be preaching at Pleasant Valley the second Sunday in May, by Eld. Ed Stephens.

Grass is growing nicely and the farmers are glad to see it; they can now turn their stock out on grass.

Farmers have commenced plowing—farmers have had good luck with their spring pigs—farmers have commenced planting potatoes.

McVILLE.

George Clore was the guest of his father Sunday.

Thos. Baker, of Petersburg, was in town Sunday.

R. D. Akens left last Tuesday for Cynthiana, where he is at work.

Mrs. Sallie Bradford and Cricket Bradford, of Gunpowder, were visiting here Sunday.

Mrs. Mary Kleinhans, of Cincinnati, was visiting her brother, J. R. Akins, at this place, the first of the week.

Bettie Williamson, of Middle Creek, and ex-Ferryman, Smith Riggs and wife, of Rabbit Hash, were visiting J. R. Akins and family Sunday.

RABBIT HASH.

Walter Marshall, of Waterloo, was in the burg Thursday.

T. A. Marshall is putting out a great many crab apple trees this spring.

S D. Rice, of McVille, was in town Friday, and reported his father some better.

When you want the full blooded Plymouth Rock chickens, call on C. G. Riddell.

A great many from this precinct attended court last week, witnesses in the Moore will case.

Mr. Day, a blind man, of Gunpowder, gave the Rabbit Hashers an entertainment at the store last Saturday, in the way of violin and vocal music.

C. G. Riddell stopped at the city as he came from Burlington and purchased a big stock of spring goods and groceries, which were landed here last Thursday.

HEBRON.

Oats all sowed.

No corn planted.

Wheat looks promising.

Business is on the boom here.

The stock law is being enforced at this place.

Preaching at 10 o'clock Sunday, Sunday school at 3 p. m.

W. C. Rouse will commence to build fence for A. G. Winston, shortly.

Ed Wilhoit sold his fine gelding horse for $190, to a Cincinnati man.

Richard Gordon has a dead lamb that has two heads, four eyes and four ears.

The remains of Alonzo Gaines were taken from the vault last Wednesday and buried in the cemetery.

Wilson Warner has a goose that is 19 years old. How is that for the goose? [That is no old goose—we heard Judge Major tell about one Sunday, that was 65 years old—Eds.]

Jo. C. Revill is improving the appearance of his residence very much.

The evidence in the Moore will case was concluded last Friday evening, when the jury was adjourned over till the next morning. Saturday was consumed by counsel in arguments to jury Monday morning the jury commenced its deliberations, and when court adjourned last night the jury had not yet agreed. Court will probably adjourn to-day.

Capt. Dejarnette will be here to-day.

SPRING STOCK!

I have Just received a Large and well Selected Stock of Spring Goods, consisting of All the Latest

Styles of Dress Goods

— SUCH AS —

Lawns,
Basties,
Chambrays,
Crinkled Seersuckers,
Normandie Ginghams,
Persian Suitings,

AND A FULL LINE OF FANCY PRINTS.

The Latest Syles in White Dress Goods

Stamped and Plain Scrims. I have the Largest and most Beautiful Assortment of the Latest Parisian Styles of

STRAW HATS AND BONNETS

Ever offered to the people of this Community.

COARSE SHOES & FINE SHOES.

My stock in this line is complete, consisting of Men's and Boys' Plow Shoes, Ladies, Misses' and Children's fine Lace and Button Shoes.

Come in and see for yourself, I am more than glad to show my GOODS whether you wish to purchase or not. Very Truly Yours,

DUDLEY ROUSE, Burlington, Ky.

There was no Sunday-school in town last Sunday, on account of the inside of the church being fresh painted.

E. H. Baker's big black Newfoundland dog left home Sunday, and has not been heard of since. Any information leading to his recovery will be thankfully received.

I. C. STEINHARTER,
416 & 418 Pike St.
COVINGTON, - KENTUCKY.

Highest price paid for sheared Wool and Sheep-skins. Ed Golloway, of Florence, Buyer.

ROBERT B. REED
Attorney at Law.
OFFICE AT - S UNION, KY

F. RIDDELL. H. P. STEPHENS.
RIDDELL and STEPHENS,
ATTORNEYS at LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
☞Office over Dudley Rouse's Store.☜

W. E. VEST,
COUNTY SURVEYOR
WALTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of surveying. All orders sent him through the mail to Walton, will receive his prompt attention.

DR. A. B. HARRYMAN,

Resident Dentist.
Office over Post-Office
AURORA, INDIANA.

J. J. Landram. G. G. Hughes.
LANDRAM & HUGHES,
ATTORNEYS at LAW.
Will practice in the Boone Circuit Cour and the Court of Appeals. Prompt attention given to Collections, on application t G. G. Hughes, Burlington, Ky.

E. E. IGOE,

Resident Dentist,
Rising Sun, Ind.
WITH
J. P. Ulrey.
Monday and Tuesday at Rising Sun, Ind.
Wednesday and Saturday at Aurora, Ind.
Thursday and Friday at Lawrenceburg.

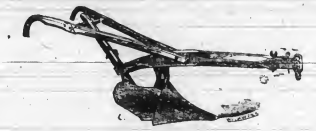
S. W. TOLIN,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
BURLINGTON, - - Y
Office in Court-house on 2d floor.
Will manage litigation in any of the Courts of the State, contracts and other legal instruments drawn up at reasonable rates. A prompt an studious attention given to business intrusted to my care. A trial solicited. 12-1y

W. J. RICE,
CARPENTER & BUILDER,
BULLITSVILLE, KY.
Is prepared Raise or Move
EITHER LOG or FRAME BUILDINGS
On Short Notice,
And at the Lowest Possible Figures.
38-tf Your orders respectfully solicited

LUMBER.
Goe. M. Bedinger & Co.,
Erlanger, - - Ky.
We keep constantly on hand all kinds of Lumber, Laths and Shingles. Also Builder's supplies of all kinds.
—Come and see Us—

Subscribe for the Recorder.

CLORE'S SONS,
—o— Manufacturers of —o—
Agricultural Implements,
—(- SUCH AS -)—
Steel Turning & Side Hill Plows



Road Plows, Double Shovels, Single Shovlse, Bar Shovel Gophers, Harrows, Jumping Shovels and Rolling Colters.
RISING SUN, - - IND.
☞Send for Illustrated Price List. 13 3m

Exposition Medal Awarded for 1884.
$5.00 and Upwards
For a Beautiful Single Set of Teeth. Extracting without pain included.
DR. DeJOHNS,
In attendance at the office. Gold fillings $1 and upwards. Amalgon 50c. Gas and Spray used. All work warranted.
Will be in Burlington the first Monday in each month, County Court.
J. C. ALLEN, 327 Vine Str., Cor. 9th, Cincinnati, Ohio.

FOR SALE.

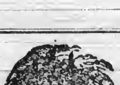
My farm of 250 acres one mile from Richwood Station, near the Cin. Southern Railroad. This farm has 50 acres of timber and is all strong land, and under good fence, has three never failing ponds, good stable and a large tobacco barn. The improvements consist of a two story frame dwelling of 8 rooms, in first-class order, and all necessary out buildings. These premises front on the Hamilton & Richwood pike which intersects the Richwood & Beaver pike, also on the premises. Taking into consideration the quality of improvements and land, and convenience of pikes and railroads, schools and neighborhood, there is not a more desirable farm in Kentucky. Will sell on reasonable terms, ⅓ cash and the balance on time, or will trade for desirable city property. For particulars address

L. B. Stephens, Richwood, Ky.
Or H. P. Stephens, Burlington, Ky.

INSURE AT HOME
The Farmers' Mutual Fire
INSURANCE COMPANY
Of Boone County
Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.
Its Rates are Lower
Than those of any other Company, and it gives the farmers of Boone County a
HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE
In keeping their property insured.
EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY
should take a policy at once.
J. A. GAINES, President, Burlington, Ky. | J. H. WALTON, Secretary, Constance, Ky.
R. RANDALL, Treasurer.
DIRECTORS.
Legran Gaines, B. L. Rice.
Jno. Stephens.
Oscar Gaines, Agent. | R. S. Cowen, Assessor

Subscribe for the Recorder.

AURORA



MARBLE AND GRANITE WORKS,
Aurora. Ind
Will have constantly on hand
Marble and Granite Monuments,
Italian & American Headstones, &c.
I am ready to do all kinds of Stone Work on short notice and at low prices Hoping to receive the patronage of Boone County, I am respectfully,
F. W. KASSEBAUM.

IMMUNITY from ANNOYANCE

Made only of the finest and best quality of Glass for withstanding heat.
Every good thing is Counterfeited, and consumers are CAUTIONED against IMITATIONS of these Chimneys made of VERY POOR GLASS. See that the exact label is on each chimney as above. The Pearl Top is always clear and bright Glass.
Manufactured ONLY by
GEO. A. MACBETH & CO.
Pittsburgh Lead Glass Works.
FOR SALE BY DEALERS.

H. F. BLASE
540 MADISON AVE.
Covington. - Ky.
FALL GOODS ARE ALL IN.
5,000 NEW ELEGANT DESIGNS TO SELECT FROM.
SUITS AND OVERCOATS MADE TO ORDER ON SHORT NOTICE.
We Guarantee Goods, Fit and Workmanship.
We have also manufactured over 1,000 Suits and Overcoats during the dull season, made out of good material and by good workmen, which we can sell as low as any house in the country.
CALL AND SEE US.
H. F. BLASE,
540 MADISON AVE. COVINGTON, KY.

FRYE'S COMBINATION
FARM, GARDEN & ORNAMENTAL FENCE
It combines the advantages of every fence, and is free from any objections. Our combination fence is composed of five two-strand cables of the best anealed bessemer steel wire firmly interwoven with pickets at a uniform distance of 2 to 5 inches apart, and the diagonal supporting wire which is interwoven as represented, enables us to hold each and every picket up off the ground with perfect ease, keeping them even on top and the entire fence always in the open air, making the lower ends of the pickets just durable as the upper ends. Sagging is utterly impossible, as we have a direct vertibal tensil strength of 1700 lbs. to each pannel which alone is three times as strong as an ordinary pine board fence. Our five cables, which gives a combined strength of more than fifteen times that of a pine board 1x6, all interwoven in such a manner with the pickets that one wire cannot be broken without breaking 11. Thus giving us a fence 18 times stronger than a barb wire. The pickets are oak of first quality, and soaked in hot Alkalies, making them last many years. The pickets are supported every 10½ inches by the cables so that breakage is impossible, giving us a fence that will turn all kinds of stock, from the smallest pig to the meanest mule, without endangering the life of any. It is a portable fence, can be removed by drawing the staples and the fence rolled up and removed without the slightest injury. It is dog proof, keeps sheep in and dogs out. It will protect your orchards from the ravages of rabbits, and your gardens from chickens. It is endorsed by over 200,000 of our farmers, as filling every claim we make for it. No farmer can afford to do without this fence that has means to buy it. Any party wishing fence or any information in regard to this fence will address.
T. H. SUTTON, Grant, Boone county, Ky.
N. B.—This fence can be sold and delivered at any landing on the river in Boone county, at the following reduced prices: Pickets 5 in. a part 55c 4½ in. apart 60c; 4 in. apart 65c, 3½ in. a part 70c; 3 in. a part 75c; 2½ in apart 80c; 2 in. a part 85c. We have strechers expressly for our fence which we will furnish to any parties ordering fifty rods or more, and will furnish one hand to assist in putting it up, after the posts have been set.

JAMES S. WAYNE, President. JNO. L. SANDFORD, Cashier
CAPITAL $300,000.
FARMERS AND TRADERS
NATIONAL BANK.
Covington, Kentucky.
DIRECTORS.
James S. Wayne, J. S. Matson, M. C. Motch, J. H. Mersman, Sam Hind, J. L. Sandford, E. J. Hickey, L. H Dills, E. J. Green, F. P. Helm, L. C. Stephens.
The general operations of banking transacted upon the most favorable term Collections made on all points in the United States.
The Business and Accounts of Farmers are Especially Solicited by this Bank. dec. 20-6m

COME AND SEE FOR YOURSELF.
—(o)— We've got them from the lowest price to the finest. —(o)—

None disappointed or dissatisfied in five years business. We keep constantly on hand all sizes of
Burial Cases, Caskets and Robes,
ALSO A SPLENDID
HEARSE AND TEAM.
You can always come to us with the assurance of getting what you want in this line. We guarantee our prices 20 per cent. less than city prices. J. W. Davis has charge of this business at Hebron, and T. W. Finch is our agent at Burlington.
J. J. RUCKER & CO, Hebron, Ky.

BUGGIES! BUGGIES!!
Pfalzgraf & Wingate,
—DEALERS IN—

Carriages, Buggies
— AND —
Spring Wagons.
—(o)— GAINESVILLE, KENTUCKY. —(o)—
A Large Assortment of Buggies and Carriages constantly on hand.
ANY STYLE TO ORDER ON
—SHORT NOTICE—
We call the attention of the People of Boone County to our stock on hand, made in the latest styles and of the best material. All work warranted to give satisfaction. Special attention given to
REPAIRING WITH NEATNESS & DISPATCH,
☞At the Lowest possible prices.☜
Old work taken in exchange for new
Pfalzgraf & Wingate,
GAINSVILLE, KENTUCKY.

TAKE THE COUNTY PAPER.

THE RECORDER

RIDDELL & HALL, Publishers.

BURLINGTON, : : KENTUCKY

AN EASTER INCIDENT.

In moonlight the world was sleeping,
As it slept on that night of old
When the wonderful angel descended
And the stone from the sepulcher rolled;
The vigil of Easter was ended,
The hour of midnight tolled.

In one of the countless chambers
Where slumber held its sway—
Dreaming perhaps of Easter—
A tranquil sleeper lay,
When the whisper of wings beside her
Wafted her dreams away.

Is it a bird? she wondered,
Lifting her startled head,
As she heard the delicate flitting
Circle around her bed,
And soon against the casement
The sweep of those wings outspread.

It was not the patient flutter
Of some poor terrified thing
That beateth the bars of its prison,
And bruiseth its tender wing,
But an eager, exultant motion,
Glad as the impulse of spring.

The flash of a thought, and the listener
Had lighted her lamp anew
And wide on the shadowy chamber
Its fullest radiance threw,
When straightway toward its shining
The beautiful visitant flew.

A moth, a marvel of measure,
From tip to tip of its wings,
Painted in colors resplendent—
Lightest and fairest of things;
Type of the Resurrection,
The angel's own message it brings!

Did the angel himself, descending
And passing through hamlet and town
To waken once more the faithful,
Their sorrow with joy to crown,
Touch with finger transcendent
That tiniest cradle brown?

There lay the chrysalis empty,
Frail shell of the past outworn;
Here was the living creature
Exulting in beauty new-born,
And trembling as if to utter
The truth of the Easter morn!

—Harriet M. Kimball, in Christian Union.

BERTIE'S MISSION.

He Found Out on Easter Sunday What He "Was For."

All day the burning sun had scorched the dry earth. Along country roads the dust lay, fine and light as powder; the grass by the wayside was browned; the fields of yellow grain fell in great swaths beneath the scythe, and lay like glittering gold along the ground, while the crimson, blistered face of the panting reaper pleaded in vain to the cruel luminary to hide his own glowing countenance behind a friendly cloud. The very trees of the forest gasped for air, their leaves shriveled and the bark giving forth an ominous order of possible combustion.

Since early morning—when the sun's rays but faintly foretold the heat to come—a slight, pale woman had been walking along those hot and dusty roads. By noon she had traveled many miles and yet her journey was but half done; for she had set out to reach the great city, where so many sad hearts are lost in the crowd save to their unhappy owners. She carried a little child who looked so pale and wan that he might have been mistaken for one-half his real age, which was almost two years. But even his light weight, upborne by the love which makes such weights easy to carry, was at times insupportable to the weary mother. From time to time she came to the shade of a solitary tree and then sat down at the root of it or on a stone by the wayside to rest for a few moments, and on each occasion she stooped over the child to kiss his brow or lips, as if to assure him that he was not the cause of her fatigue. She often removed his little straw-hat, too, and gently fanned the tiny face, fair as a snowdrop and, notwithstanding its delicate pallor, exquisitely lovely.

At high noon the travelers met a buxom country girl returning from the field after carrying dinner to the mowers, who stopped to admire the child and inquire if it was ill.

"No, not ill," the mother answered, gazing wistfully at her child; "but he's never very strong."

"How old is he?" was the girl's next question.

"He will be two years old next month."

"Land sake! And don't he walk yet?"

"He has never walked—yet—he's lame. But I hope he will walk some day. I am taking him to the city, because I have been told the doctors there are clever; and if I earn money enough I hope to have him made strong, for he's never had any accident. One little ankle is so weak that he can't put the foot on the ground when he tries to stand. You see he's never been able to learn to walk, like other children of his age."

She spoke with a pitiful pleading, as if it was necessary to find excuses for the child, because he was less forward than other children.

"Poor little fellow!" said the farmer's girl, kindly enough, "and you have to carry him all the time—how tired you must be! Come to the house and rest. Perhaps he would take a cup of milk."

The woman thanked her with a grateful look, and the girl continued, holding out her hands to the child:

"Let me carry him for you. I love children, and the little rogues know it. Come, little pretty! What's his name?"

"His name is Albert, but call him Bertie."

"Come to me, Bertie," said the girl, and the child smiled and held out his hands.

"And your own name?" the girl went on with an inquisitive look at the mother, "Mrs.—what?"

"My name is Tingler," the pale woman answered, coldly.

The farmer's girl did not pursue her questions, for she saw they were unwelcome; an instinct of good breeding, oftener found among the untaught than they get credit for, told her further inquiry might give pain.

Mrs. Tingler proceeded in silence; but the girl chattered to the baby and drew from him many an unexpected peal of laughter, while at every sound of his merriment the pale mother smiled and brightened till her own laughter mingled with that of the child.

At the farmer's house they fared well; and the good people refused to let them proceed until they had rested from their journey. When they again set out on their way, although the heat was increased, the pale mother did not feel it so much; for kindness and sympathy had lightened her heart. All the afternoon she walked steadily on, and her little boy was held so close to her heart that she did not realize how nearly she was worn out with fatigue and hunger. Toward nightfall she came to the outskirts of the great city, and the prospect was not encouraging to eyes accustomed to the freshness of the country. As she passed street after street there seemed a mingled odor of oil, dirt, grease and general untidiness everywhere. Ash-barrels and garbage-pails stood all along the sidewalk, and here and there a half-decayed orange, or a lemon peel, or a wilted cabbage was flung in the way of the foot-traveler. Ill-tempered, snarling dogs ran out of the tumble-down tenements, whose human inhabitants looked equally snarling and ill-tempered.

"What if I have made a mistake in coming here at all?" thought the anxious mother, with a shudder, as she looked into the face of her delicate child. "How hard it is to know what is best—but I could not stay any longer with them. They hated me, and they hated my child, though their own son was his father! Ah, William—dear William! How could you leave me to fight their hard hearts alone?"

A sob of anguish tried to struggle up from the almost bursting heart, but the brave little woman crushed it down, and held her child closer to her breast.

Night was coming on, and she felt the urgent need of food and shelter for Bertie; inexperienced as she was, she had but a dim idea of the difficulties before her—alone, and in a great city for the first time. She began to glance about anxiously, eagerly—how dark it was!—and how suddenly the night had come on. Then for the first time she observed that the heat was not so great; a cool breeze had sprung up, and it blew straight in from the country fields she had left so far behind her. It was cool and moist, and it bore the sweet odor of wet grass and hay and of the damp earth. While she was feeling rather than thinking of this change in the atmosphere, came the rumbling roar of thunder, at first far off, but gradually coming nearer. The clouds gathered more darkly, and from out their gloomy depths leaped forked tongues of lightning. Then came peals of thunder that shook the ground she walked on, while little Bertie trembled and clung more closely to her. Anxiously now — wildly — the poor little mother glanced to and fro in search of some shelter. Her breath came quick and short—a dizzy tumult possessed her brain—she heard the wild throbs of her own heart, then it seemed to stop beating. A terrible faintness overpowered her; the darkness grew blacker. She had an indistinct vision of an open door a little further on; she struggled blindly toward it, tottered, swayed to and fro, made one last effort and ran, then fell, fainting, across the threshold.

Thank Heaven! there are kind hearts to be found, even in the midst of squalor and misery that too often harden the gentlest. Bertie's mother had scarcely reached the floor when she was caught by a pair of strong arms and a good-natured voice exclaimed:

"God bless us! but look at that, now, and the child in her arms nigh killed! Is it dhrinkin' ye've been? An' a burnin' shame fur ye, with that swate child to take care of—the Lord forgive me! What was I sayin'? Sure there's little sign of dhrink in the pale face av her, but dead bate entoirely, an' fainted away altogether. Come here, Biddy, an' take the child."

A tall girl came forward and took Bertie in a very motherly manner, like one well used to the task of caring for children. She disappeared with him into an inner room, and divining that food and drink were his chief wants, fed him copiously.

In the meantime, Mrs. Flynn had carried the mother to a small apartment—little better than a closet—which did duty as her own sleeping-room. There she placed the insensible woman on the bed, untied her bonnet, chafed her cold hands, marveling at their whiteness, and observed with an approving nod the plain gold ring on the third finger.

"Poor craythure!" she murmured; "a widdy, I suppose, like meself."

It was long before a faint color came back to the pallid lips and flaxen face; but at length the large blue eyes opened and gazed wonderingly into the red, good-natured countenance that met them—the next moment the poor mother remembered, and asked in an anxious whisper.

"Where's Bertie?"

"Whist, now! don't be afther worrithin'. The child's cared for, ye'll be bether in a moment an' thin yez can talk."

"But he's hungry, and I've money to buy food."

"Be aisy, now! D'ye think we're haithens here? Yer baby's had all he wants, an no thought av pay."

The tears that shone in the grateful mother's eyes spoke mute, but eloquent thanks. She was too weak to speak and gladly refrained from making the effort for awhile.

Mrs. Flynn was a widow, with a large family, which she managed to support, as she said herself, "by turning her hand to siveral trades." She did washing and ironing by the day, or dozen—also scrubbing and house cleaning. She kept a small store for the sale of eggs, milk and butter, which a friend on the outskirts of the town supplied her with. Then her two eldest boys sold papers and swept crossings, while Biddy—who was housekeeper and care-taker in general to the family, in her mother's absence—had a great gift at knitting and often made a few extra shillings in that way.

After much talk on the subject Mrs. Flynn now consented to add another to her various modes of money-making; and agreed to take Bertie and his mother as boarders.

At first the arrangement had been "until they could find a better place;" but weeks and months grew into years, and Mrs. Tingler and her little boy still continued to board with Mrs. Flynn. Bertie was now five years old, and though still a slender and delicate child, he was stronger and hardier than on that hot summer day when his mother had carried him till she had fainted at the door of Mammy Flynn. He was still lame, but he walked with the help of a little crutch; and the doctors gave his mother good hope that he would, in time, outgrow his lameness. During the three years in which she had been Mrs. Flynn's boarder, the sad little mother had known much disappointment and frequent hardship. It had been hard to get work of any kind, and the walk to the city in the morning and back again at night had tried her strength severely, and more than once she had broken down and felt that all was over. But as often she had rallied again and made another trial, and the good-hearted Irish woman had always encouraged her; and although she needed the little weekly sum paid by Mrs. Tingler, she never asked for it when it was not forthcoming. At last Mrs. Flynn decided to move further down into the city, and that made it easier for her lodger, for she had found steady employment in a book-bindery, where the pay was so good that she every day put away a few pennies in the little purse she was saving up for Bertie, who needed medicines and strengthening food and a certain mechanical appliance for his little ankle, all of which could only be got with money. These were bright days for Mrs Tingler, and she was so happy that she no longer wept in the night or waked up from dreams of terror, calling for the husband, whose ear was stopped with dust, and then clutching her child to her heart to still its aching. Then Bertie was growing so strong and beautiful—the thought of him filled her life with joy. When she came home in the long bright summer evenings and saw his sweet face pressed against the window, watching for her, there were a thousand rich women with every wish gratified before it could be spoken who would have gladly changed places with Clara Tingler.

There came an evening when Bertie watched at the window longer than ever before for the well-known figure and the face that was always raised to his with a smile. But the sunset glow died away and the twilight drew on and brought the night. The lamps were lighted in the streets and the stars glittered in the sky above, and Bertie could not see any face or figure, for he could no longer see through the thick tears that scorched his eyes. At last Mammy Flynn put him to bed, wondering almost as much as himself at the non-appearance of his mother, but not so much alarmed as surprised. She comforted the child with the assurance that "mamma would be there when he waked up," and with that hope in his heart little Bertie had cried himself to sleep.

There had been an accident on Broadway that day—a stage had been upset, and another had collided with it, and the horses had become wild and unmanageable. When order was restored a slender little woman in black was picked up insensible—a blow on the temple had done it—and carried to the nearest hospital. She never recovered consciousness, though for a moment her eyes had unclosed, and she murmured one word —"Bertie." Then a gray shadow crept over her face, and all was over.

There was nothing found on her by which she might have been identified—the body was kept for two days, but no friend claimed it, and she was buried. A little purse of money, all of small coins, amounting to a few dollars, was found sewed within the waist of her dress. It had been carefully—oh, how carefully and hopefully!—saved for little Bertie. It now paid for the pine coffin that held all that could die of Bertie's mother.

Mrs. Tingler's disappearance soon became an old story in the Flynn household, except to the heart that pined for her. At first, Mrs. Flynn pitied and comforted the child after her own way —"for," she said, "he was a big boy now, and it spoiled children to bring them up too soft-hearted."

Then she was disgusted with the conduct of her late lodger—"For av coorse she has run away, an' left the child on my hands, seein' as I hadn't enough of my own," she said to a neighbor. The thought made her bad-tempered and discontented, and at odd moments she vented her ill-humor on Bertie. But to do her justice, such occasions were rare, and being remorseful afterward she often gave the child a rough hug and a warm kiss to make up for her harshness.

But as years passed on her ill-humor increased, and her regret for it died away. Bertie grew weak and sickly without his mother's watchful care, and his lameness increased. He always walked with a crutch, now, and there seemed no likelihood that he would ever walk without that assistance. He had grown accustomed to being pushed out of the way, and to being told that he had no right to the little he ate and drank—and to much more that, while it sunk like a stone to the depths of his heart, seemed also to cut like a thrust from a knife. But there was one hard speech that cut him more than all else. He heard it often both from Mammy Flynn and from the boys, who had grown up to be a care and worry to their mother, and the chief cause of her growing discontent and bad temper.

"What are you for, anyway—a sickly cripple, a trouble to herself an' a bother to ivery one else—eh? What are ye for, anyway?"

These were the words that were like knife-thrusts to Bertie's sensitive heart. How well he could remember his mother's warm kisses, and her tender assurance that he had been sent into the world to be the joy of her heart and to reward her for every sorrow she had ever felt. He had been only a child, that he had understood—in those happy days he had known what he was for. But, now, alas! He began to ask the same hard question of himself—why was he in the world? Was there any room for him? What was there for him to do? In brief, as Mammy Flynn, and Dan and Patsy so often said, what was he for, anyway?

One member of the family never asked that question. It was little Conn—Mrs. Flynn's grandchild. The boy was a little Irish beauty—great gray eyes, jet black brows and lashes, a mane of dark curly hair and a skin of cream—big, strong and hearty. Bertie loved him with devouring affection: he was almost jealous of the child's own mother. Though yet a child in years, sorrow and suffering had matured his mind; and in that fine, healthy child he saw all the possibilities forever shut out of his own life. He played with Conn by the hour together, sung him to sleep at night and told him marvels of fairy lore. But, though unlettered and unread—for he had never been sent to school—Bertie had a command of language and a fervor of imagination that was marvelous.

Even the queer sounds in the old house, as he lay awake at nights, furnished him with material for quaint fancies. The poor child was often kept awake by pain, and at such times he was glad of any thing that would lift his thoughts from his sufferings. He had none of the natural timidity of his age, and the rumblings and creakings that seemed to fill the wall when all else were asleep sounded like spirit voices to Bertie; and his fancy built them up into weird stories to entertain little Conn on the next day.

Once, after a night of great pain, Bertie fell into a deep sleep toward morning. And in that sleep a face that he knew as well as his own—though it was but a memory—the pale, sweet face of his vanished mother, stooped over him, and pressed on his lips a long, tender kiss. When he opened his eager eyes that kiss was still warm on his lips! What joy! what agony! He knew, then, that she had died and gone to Heaven, and with a bursting heart, he cried out that he must go, too, since on earth there was no place for him.

He was frantic with grief and longing that day; and even the pretty ways of little Conn failed to bring any joy to his aching heart. He took his crutch, and went out into the streets, and there he heard the sound of church bells, and noted how still every thing was, for it was Sunday. By and by he found himself in a crowd, and as they were all going to church, he went along with them. He would presently have been put out, but a kind old lady opened the door of her pew and invited him into it; and there he sat during the service. He listened, but didn't understand much: till at once he heard words that seemed to drop into his soul.

"For we have all some work to do," he heard the minister say—"the humblest—the smallest of us. It may not be great or wonderful—but it is ours! The one thing appointed for us since the beginning, and in good time it will be shown to us."

To Bertie this seemed a message direct from Heaven; it brought him peace and patience; and he felt that he could wait now till his "work" was pointed out to him.

On the next Sunday he would have stolen out again, but Mammy Flynn bade him take care of Conn, for it was Easter Sunday, and the whole family were going to church. So he stayed with the child, and told him a story of a bird that used to be like a Jenny Wren, but had never known how to sing till the morning of the first Easter Sunday. When the stone was rolled away and Christ had come forth, the bird had burst into triumphant song, and then had flown away, singing to all the world the glad tidings that the Lord had risen.

After the story Conn demanded a song, and Bertie sang an Easter hymn. Long before it was finished the child was fast asleep; and his careful nurse placed him, flushed and beautiful, in his cradle.

Then he sat down to amuse himself with some pictures that Biddy had pasted in an old scrap-book.

What sound was that? Bertie started up and looked about while he asked the question. What a strange, crackling, crumbling noise—then a loud rumbling and trembling! What ailed the wall that it bent so toward Conn's cradle? With a shriek of horror Bertie bounded forward and flung himself over the sleeping child—then followed a crash and a roar like thunder!

* * *

When the Flynn family returned from church the house that had been their home was a mass of broken timber and mortar.

"God help me! My child!" screamed Conn's mother, and fell insensible.

"The baby's safe, Mrs. Flynn," a neighbor hastened to assure the poor grandmother, who stood, dazed and stupid, gazing at the ruins. "Come with me and see him—the little boy won't let him out of his arms."

Mrs. Flynn allowed herself to be led in silence. Whiter than a snow wreath Bertie was holding the baby in his arms; while the little fellow fondled the cheek already damp with the dew of death.

Mrs. Flynn burst into loud weeping, as she clasping them both in her arms; and she kissed Bertie with a thrill of pain at her heart that would leave an ache there as long as she lived.

"Oh, my poor darling! Are ye hurt?" she asked.

Bertie smiled as he answered:

"I feel no pain, Mammy Flynn, and now I know what I was for," and he gently pushed little Conn into his grandmother's arms.

Mammy Flynn would have asked him to forgive her—to forgive the cruel, thoughtless words that had wounded—but a sudden awe chained her tongue as she looked on Bertie. The child's face was illuminated with joy; a glory seemed to rest upon his golden hair; his lips parted, and then with a soft, rapturous cry: "Mamma, mamma!" his spirit fled to her embrace.—Detroit Free Press.

TALENT AND GENIUS.

The Capacity to Do Things Well and the Capacity to Do Them Perfectly.

As education tends to become universal, the field of talent widens and many come to believe that the man of talent is more capable than the man of genius, as regards the necessary and unceasing work of the world. Genius has many an idiosyncrasy which jars upon the sensibilities of a practical and prosaic age; talent is invariably the creature of its surroundings. The man of talent is, in the main, more companionable than the man of genius; and is more capable of the sustained exertion which is not to be despised in a time when cheapness is more sought after than intrinsic worth. Anthony Trollope tells us, in his autobiography, how he disciplined himself until he could count upon completing a certain number of pages of a new novel per diem as surely as he could count upon his ability to walk a certain number of miles. So good a writer, with such a system, must have been a source of unfailing delight to his publisher; but future generations will know Trollope merely as one of a host of clever men who helped to make English fiction the fine art it has now become. The utmost efforts of men like Trollope, Black and Henry James can never decrease the awful distance that finally separates them from Dickens, George Eliot and Thackeray. Genius can not work by talent's method, but produces, by its erratic process, something that will last as long as men continue to care for the good, the beautiful, the true.

The difference between talent and genius is often extremely subtle—so subtle, indeed, that a man of talent is not infrequently mistaken by his contemporaries for a man of genius. Time, however, corrects all errors of that sort and places the man of genius in his true position. Talent would appear to be the capacity to do things well, while genius is the capacity to do them perfectly. Therefore, it would seem that talent must do the every-day work of the world, while genius alone will suffice for the really great occasions when a decisive battle is to be fought, a school of painting is to be exemplified, or a poem, breathing the passions and aspirations of a race, is to be written. At such times the man of talent who usurps the place of the man of genius receives the unmeasured contempt of all men, but he deserves their infinite pity as well. The least work of genius will outlive all that talent can do. If Shelley had written nothing save his "Ode to a Sky-Lark," he would have stood higher among the poets than Scott, despite the latter's many thousand lines of admirable verse. Ten pages would comprise the verses on which the reputation of Keats now rests, yet all of Southey's elaborate and conscientious work has left him in the dim shadow of mediocrity when compared with the marvelous boy who gave us the exquisite odes "To a Grecian Urn," and "To a Nightingale." One great passage of Shakspeare is worth more than all the trash which chiefly makes up the drama of the day. In an age which shows a mighty tendency toward the worship of the common-place, the claims of genius can not be too often or too clearly set forth. The difference between talent and genius is the difference between excellence and perfection, between the placid lake and the tumultuous ocean, between mortality and immortality. It is not of much moment to know the thoughts and deeds of the world's mediocrities; but it is of the last importance to study the personality of the few men who may truly be said to have shaped the destinies of the race.—N. O. Times-Democrat.

POULTRY-HOUSES.

An Important Point Which is Not Generally Taken into Consideration.

The hens will not stay in a closed poultry-house during the day time, no matter how warm and comfortable it may be, if they can get an open shed facing the south. It is the natural condition of fowls to be in the open air, and, as is well-known, some of them, such as the turkey and guinea, much prefer the trees at night to any shelter that may be made for them. We do not imply by this that it is to the advantage of the farmer to expose his fowls, for domestication has made them dependent upon his care, but we will state that during the day an open shed will be of greater advantage, even in the severest of weather, than a close house. But at night the fowls should be comfortably housed and protected. It is the habit of hens to scratch and exercise, which helps the blood in circulation, and hence, if a warm shed, with plenty of scratching material, be ready for them from morning till night, they will do well as long as the wind does not sweep upon them, but at night, when they are quiet and inactive, they must be well protected. Right here we will state that nearly all the diseases of fowls in winter and spring arise from exposure to cold winds. The comb, if examined, will be found to be a perfect radiator of heat, and the larger the comb the greater the exposed surface to the action of the cold, and the more rapidly the heat is carried off. The same may be said of the wattles, which often get wet while the bird is drinking, and become frozen. Therefore give your hens an opportunity to work in the open air, in a well protected place. Keep them warm and comfortable at night, give them water in a vessel with a small aperature for drinking, and avoid dampness as much as possible.—Farm, Field and Stockman.

—Mr. Henry Strong, in the course of an article in the North American Review combats the idea that this country is threatened by the English system of lanlordism, showing by successive census that small estates are not in the course of consolidation into large estates. In Illinois, out of 255,000 farms, only 649 are of more than 1,000 acres; in Michigan there are but sixty-four and in Kansas only 235.

EXPENSIVE BUTTONS.

They Are to Be Had in Wood, Mother-o'-Pearl, Diamonds and Pearls.

Buttons are a prominent feature in dress just now, their size in many instances being almost grotesque. Many of the newer styles are handsome and very expensive, reaching in price to fifteen and twenty dollars the dozen, with smaller ones to match for the bodice and sleeves. Among the varieties which crowd the market are the Watteau, Louis XV. and XVI., called severally after the monarchs whose names they bear. A fashionable and costly variety is a set of deep cream-colored enamel and mother-o'-pearl buttons, exquisitely hand painted, each button bearing a different device. The list includes Dresden works of art a la placque, Grecian interlaced chains enclosing real gems in the center, almond-tinted enamels cut out flat with Murillo cherubs in raised work and huge corn and bronze buttons with richly colored faience cut in medallion effects. Added to the high art productions of foreign lands, which show Roman and the gay Persian intermingling of lights and shades are less expensive sets of cowry shell, corozo, fine grained woods of the coco palm, which takes fine polish, and is made also into rosary beads, Japanese buttons, China buttons, bronze and silver buttons, and buttons ad infinitum, the list running down to the tiny glove button made of real diamonds, pearls and rubies, to be worn upon gloves en suite with wedding and reception toilets.—N. Y. Evening Post.

Results of English Sanitation.

Improved health laws appear to have produced remarkable results in England and Wales, a decided reduction in the death-rate having now been maintained for ten years, and been much greater during the second half of that period than the first. So great has been the recent reduction that, as the registrar-general points out, more than 281,000 persons survived the last five years whose deaths would have been recorded had the mean rate of mortality been equal to that prevailing in the ten years, 1871-80. The effect of longevity has been indicated by Mr. Noel Humphrey, who states that the reduction in the death-rate from 22.5 in 1838-54, to 20.8 in 1876-80 has added two years to the life of every male born, and three years and a half to that of every female.—Arkansaw Traveler.

American Vital Statistics.

It is a matter for international regret that in such essential departments of vital statistics as the registration of births and deaths in the United States should be so far behind most other civilized countries. Until, however, some tolerably uniform system for such registration be adopted throughout the United States, we much doubt whether, either from a public-health or a statistical point of view, the comparison of American and European mortality statistics can yield any useful result.—London Lancet.

—"Some time ago," says the Tacoma (W. T.) Ledger, "when the boom was on this town and there was not no safe place in which to put money, a great deal of it was buried in the ground, and one of Tacoma's old citizens had a bag of gold 'twenties' hidden near a stump and safely covered over with earth. One night he was seated in the hotel, talking with a crowd of men, when quite unexpectedly his black dog came in with the bag of coin in his mouth and laid it down at his master's feet. Enough to say that he banked no more money that way, as mother earth was not a safe place when the old dog was acting as clerk."

—The word landlord probably became applied to inn-keepers and tavern-keepers by virtue of their letting their rooms and apartments for hire. Landlords, in common phraseology, now means a person from whom houses, lands or lodgings are rented. The word is a relic of feudal times, when the possessor of land was actually dominus terrae. Addison uses the word as meaning the master of an inn. —Chicago Herald.

—A grandfather, coming to read his paper found that he had mislaid his spectacles, and thereupon declared: "I have lost my glasses somewhere, and can't read the paper." A little three-and-a-half-year-old girl, desiring to assist him, answered: "G'an'pa, you go outside and look froo ze window, an I'll hold ze paper up so you can read it."—Toledo Blade.

—A constant dropping, it is commonly believed, will wear away a rock. This is somewhat of a fable, however. It depends upon the size of the rock and what it drops on. If a granite bowlder, weighing several tons, should drop on a strong man it would wear out the man from hem to selvage, and wouldn't perceptibly abrade the rock.—Brooklyn Eagle.

—Chamber's Journal has discovered that in September and October a child grows only a fifth of what it does in June and July. In other words, its growth is some in the autumn, but in June and July it is summer.

CONGRESSMAN FORAN, of Ohio, says St. Jacobs Oil surely cures rheumatism.

Congressman Mutchler, of Pennsylvania, publicly indorses Red Star Cough Cure. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

WHEN G. W. was a small boy they used to call him Figures, because they can not lie.—Prairie Farmer.

A New Way to Pay Old Debts.

Shakespeare tells how this can be accomplished in one of his immortal plays; but debts to nature must be paid on demand unless days of grace be obtained through the use of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." It is not a "cure-all" but invaluable for sore throat, bronchitis, asthma, catarrh, consumption, and all diseases of the pulmonary and other organs, caused by scrofula or "bad blood." Scrofulous ulcers, swellings and tumors are cured by its wonderful alterative action. By druggists.

WHAT light may be safely recommended as the cheapest and best?—Daylight.—N. Y. Telegram.

DR. PIERCE'S "Favorite Prescription" is a most powerful restorative tonic, and combines the most valuable nervine properties; especially adapted to the wants of debilitated ladies suffering from weak back, inward fever, congestion, inflammation, or ulceration, or from nervousness or neuralgic pains. By druggists.

THE match is a modern invention, but the match-maker is older than history.—Chicago Tribune.

Throw Away Trusses

when our new method, without use of knife, is guaranteed to permanently cure the worst cases of rupture. Send 10 cents in stamps for references and pamphlet, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE dude, judging from his conversation holds every thing in "ah."—Pacific Jester.

AS TIME advances the hair becomes gray, unless prevented by Hall's Hair Renewer.

Ayer's Pills are the best laxative medicine in use. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

FOGG boasts that his wife is enm—that is to say, a good figure.—Boston Transcript.

PIKE'S TOOTHACHE DROPS cure in 1 minute, 25c. Glenn's Sulphur Soap heals and beautifies. 25c. GERMAN CORN REMOVER kills Corns & Bunions.

WHILE two heads are always better than one—In a base drum.—Boston Traveler.

3 months' treatment for 50c. Piso's Remedy for Catarrh. Sold by druggists.

A MAN of his word—An orator.—National Weekly.

Vigor and Vitality

Are quickly given to every part of the body by Hood's Sarsaparilla. The blood is purified, enriched, and vitalized, and carries health instead of disease to every organ. The stomach is toned and strengthened, the appetite restored. The kidneys and liver are roused and invigorated. The brain is refreshed, the mind made clear and ready for work. The whole system is built up and rejuvenated by this peculiar medicine.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

"I was in bad condition with fainting spells and general debility. I was run down, ate hardly any thing, and hardly dared go out on the street alone for fear of having a fainting spell. Hood's Sarsaparilla has done me a wonderful amount of good, as I am now in good health again. My appetite has been good ever since taking the medicine, and I can eat a square meal with relish." MRS. MOLLIE COTTER, 110 Eleventh St., Covington, O.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

Try it.

I was troubled with chronic catarrh and gathering in head, was deaf at times, had discharges from ears, unable to breathe through nose. Before the second bottle of Ely's Cream Balm was exhausted I was cured.—C. J. CORBIN, 923 Chestnut St., Phila.

I am cured of catarrh and deafness by Ely's Cream Balm. My aunt was deaf. It restored her hearing.—F. D. MOORE, Insurance, Elizabeth, N. J.

CATARRH

HAY-FEVER

A particle is applied into each nostril; is agreeable to use. Price 50 cents by mail or at Druggists. Send for circular. ELY BROTHERS, Druggists, Owego, N.Y.

The Red School House Shoe.

IF you wish to purchase a shoe for your Boy or Girl that will stand the wear and tear of every-day usage, that is made of honest leather throughout, and on common sense ideas, ask your dealer for Henderson's "SCHOOL SHOE," known everywhere by the Trade Mark of the Little Red School House found on the bottom of each pair. (None genuine without it.) Ask also for the HENDERSON $2.50 WOMAN'S GOAT BUTTON, Stitched with Silk and every way solid. Made only by C. M. HENDERSON & CO., the Celebrated Manufacturers of Boots and Shoes, Chicago. Write for a Set of Our Fancy School Cards.

Bull's Sarsaparilla.

THE LIVER

Secretes the bile and acts like a filter to cleanse impurities of the blood. By irregularity in its action or suspensions of its functions, the bile poisons the blood, causing jaundice, sallow complexion, weak eyes, bilious diarrhea, a languid, weary feeling, and many other distressing symptoms generally termed liver troubles. These are relieved at once by the use of DR. BULL'S SARSAPARILLA, the great blood resolvent.

DR. JOHN BULL.—I have been for a number of years severely afflicted with a mercurial headache and a dull, heavy pain in my liver. Three bottles of BULL'S SARSAPARILLA gave me more relief than all the others combined. T. H. OWENS, Louisville, Ky.

DR. JOHN BULL.—I have examined the prescription for the preparation of DR. JOHN BULL'S SARSAPARILLA, and believe the combination to be an excellent one, and well calculated to produce an alterative impression on the system. I have used it both in public and private practice, and think it the best article of Sarsaparilla in use. M. PYLES, M. D., Louisville, Ky. Res. Phys. at Lou. Marine Hosp.

KIDNEYS

Are the great secretory organs of the body. Into and through the Kidneys flow the waste fluids containing poisonous matter taken from the system. If the kidneys do not act properly this matter is retained and poisons the blood, causing headache, weakness, pain in the small of back and loins, flushes of heat, chills, with disordered stomach and bowels. BULL'S SARSAPARILLA acts as a diuretic on the Kidneys and bowels, and directly on the blood as well, causing the great organs of the body to resume their natural functions, and health is at once restored.

DR. JOHN BULL.—I have used BULL'S SARSAPARILLA for rheumatism and kidney trouble, and my son has taken it for asthma and general debility. It has given us both great relief. Yours truly, THOS. H. BENTLEY, Roseville, Ill.

THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE.

DYSPEPSIA

Variable appetite, faint, gnawing feeling at pit of the stomach, heartburn, wind in the stomach, bad breath, bad taste in the mouth, low spirits, general prostration. There is no form of disease more prevalent than Dyspepsia, and it can in all cases be traced to an enfeebled or poisoned condition of the blood. BULL'S SARSAPARILLA by cleansing and purifying the blood, tones up the digestive organs, and relief is obtained at once.

DR. JOHN BULL.—I have no hesitation in saying that I believe your SARSAPARILLA to be the best medicine manufactured for the cure of Scrofula, Syphilis and many other cutaneous and glandular affections, having used it with entire success in numbers of the above cases. JAMES MOORE, Louisville, Ky.

DR. JOHN BULL.—I procured one bottle of BULL'S SARSAPARILLA for my eldest son. Among the remedies and various prescriptions that he has tried for weak lungs and chest, this one bottle has been of more benefit to him than all. It has cured him of dyspepsia as well. JOHN S. McGEE, Horse Cave, Ky.

SCROFULA

Is a peculiar morbid condition of the system, caused directly by impurities in the blood or by the lack of sufficient nourishment furnished to the system through the blood, usually affecting the glands, often resulting in swellings, enlarged joints, abscesses, sore eyes, blotchy eruptions on the face or neck. Erysipelas is akin to it and is often mistaken for Scrofula as it comes from the same cause, impure blood. BULL'S SARSAPARILLA, by purifying the blood and toning up the system forces the impurities from the blood and cleanses the system through the regular channels.

DR. JOHN BULL.—It is my opinion that your preparation of SARSAPARILLA is decidedly superior to any other now in use, and I will take great pleasure in recommending it for the cure of Scrofula and all diseases of the blood and kidneys. B. B. ALLEN, M. D., Bradford, Ky.

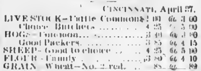
BULL'S SARSAPARILLA.
BULL'S WORM DESTROYER.
BULL'S SMITH'S TONIC SYRUP.
THE POPULAR REMEDIES OF THE DAY.

PRINCIPAL OFFICE:
831 West Main Street, Louisville, Ky.
Price, $1.00; Six Bottles for $5.
For Sale by all Druggists.

KEEP THE BLOOD PURE.

FREE FARMS IN SUNNY SAN LUIS.

The most Wonderful Agricultural Park in America. Surrounded by prosperous mining and manufacturing towns. FARMER'S PARADISE! Magnificent crops raised in 1885. THOUSANDS OF ACRES OF GOVERNMENT LAND, subject to pre-emption & homestead. Lands for sale to actual settlers at $3.00 per Acre. Long Time. Park irrigated by immense canals. Cheap railroad rates. Every attention shown settlers. For maps, pamphlets, etc., address COLORADO LAND & LOAN CO., Opera House Block, Denver, Colo. Box, 2890.



Is the finest toned and most durable in the world. Warranted to stand in any climate. Ask your nearest dealer for them. Illustrated catalogues mailed free by the manufacturers, LYON & HEALY, 162 STATE ST. CHICAGO, ILL

I CURE FITS!

When I say cure I do not mean merely to stop them for a time and then have them return again, I mean a radical cure. I have made the disease of FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS a life-long study. I warrant my remedy to cure the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a Free Bottle of my infallible remedy. Give Express and Post Office. It costs you nothing for a trial, and I will cure you. Address Dr. H. G. ROOT, 183 Pearl St., New York.

WANTED SALESMEN! Traveling or local to sell LUBRICATING OILS. E. F. Dieterich, Cleveland, O. Enclose stamp for reply.

THE MARKETS.

CINCINNATI, April 27.
LIVE STOCK—Cattle Common	$2 00	@ 3 00
Choice Butchers	4 25	@ 5 00
HOGS—Common	3 40	@ 3 90
Good Packers	3 85	@ 4 15
SHEEP—Good to choice	4 25	@ 5 00
FLOUR—Family	3 80	@ 4 10
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red	88	@ 89
No. 3 red	82	@ 86
Corn—No. 2 mixed		@ 39
Oats—No. 2 mixed	33½	@ 34
Rye—No. 2	67	@ 68
HAY—Timothy No. 1	12 00	@ 12 50
TOBACCO—Common Lugs	8 00	@ 8 40
Good Mediums	11 55	@ 12 25
PROVISIONS—Pork—Mess	10 25	@ 10 37½
Lard—Prime steam	6 12½	@ 6 25
BUTTER—Choice Dairy	12	@ 14
Ohio Creamery	21	@ 25
APPLES—Prime	1 35	@ 1 65
POTATOES—per bushel	55	@ 60
NEW YORK.
FLOUR—State and Western	$3 25	@ 3 60
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 Chicago		@ 91
No. 2 red	92½	@ 92¾
Corn—No. 2 mixed	42	@ 47¼
Oats—mixed	41	@ 46
PORK—Mess	10 00	@ 10 50
LARD—Western steam		@ 6 22
CHICAGO.
FLOUR—State and Western	$4 50	@ 4 75
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 3 Spring	66½	@ 68½
No. 2 Chicago Spring	78½	@ 79
Corn—No. 2	36¾	@ 37¼
Oats—No. 2		@ 29¾
Rye		@ 61½
PORK—Mess	8 90	@ 8 95
LARD—Steam		@ 5 90
BALTIMORE.
FLOUR—Family	$4 60	@ 5 00
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		@ 91¼
Corn—Mixed	48½	@ 48¾
Oats—Mixed	38	@ 39
PROVISIONS—Pork—Mess	10 00	@ 11 00
Lard—Refined		@ 7¼
CATTLE—First quality	5 00	@ 5 25
HOGS	5 50	@ 6 00
INDIANAPOLIS.
Wheat—No. 2 red	$	@ 87
Corn—mixed		@ 35
Oats—mixed		@ 30½
LOUISVILLE.
Flour—A No. 1	$4 00	@ 4 50
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 87
Corn—mixed		@ 38
Oats—mixed		@ 32
PORK—mess		@ 10 50
LARD—steam	7 50	@ 8 00

CONTAGIOUS!

I am a native of England, and while I was in that country I contracted a terrible blood poison, and for two years was under treatment as an out-door patient at Nottingham Hospital, England, but was not cured. I suffered the most agonizing pains in my bones, and was covered with sores all over my body and limbs. Finally I completely lost all hope in that country, and sailed for America, and was treated at Roosevelt in this city, as well as by a prominent physician in New York having no connection with the hospitals.

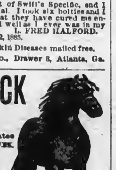
I saw the advertisement of Swift's Specific, and I determined to give it a trial. I took six bottles and I can say with great joy that they have cured me entirely. I am as sound and well as I ever was in my life. L. FRED HALFORD.

New York City, June 12, 1885.

Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed free.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Drawer 3, Atlanta, Ga. N. Y., 157 W. 23d Street.

LIVE STOCK CUTS.



We will furnish duplicates of LIVE STOCK CUTS or any other Cut shown in any Specimen Book, at or below quoted prices for same.

A. N. Kellogg Newspaper Co.
Electrotypers and Stereotypers,
177 & 179 Elm Street,
CINCINNATI.

FRENCH DECORATIVE ART DESIGNS.

New method of decorating Silks, Satins, Vases, Plaques, Lampshades, etc. Can not be detected from hand painting. Easily applied. Send for price-list and full directions. HOFFMANN BROS., 165 Main Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

DIKE'S BEARD ELIXIR

Forces luxuriant Mustache, Whiskers, or hair on bald heads in 20 to 30 days. Extra Strength. Quick, Safe, Sure. No other remedy. 2 or 3 Pkgs. does the work. Will prove it or forfeit $100.00. Price per Pkg. with directions sealed and postpaid 25 cts. 3 for 50 cts. stamps or silver. Smith Mfg. Co., Palatine, Ills.

LIST OF DISEASES
ALWAYS CURABLE BY USING
MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT.

OF HUMAN FLESH.	OF ANIMALS.
Rheumatism,	Scratches,
Burns and Scalds,	Sores and Galls,
Stings and Bites,	Spavin, Cracks,
Cuts and Bruises,	Screw Worm, Grub,
Sprains & Stitches,	Foot Rot, Hoof Ail,
Contracted Muscles,	Lameness,
Stiff Joints,	Swinny, Founders,
Backache,	Sprains, Strains,
Eruptions,	Sore Feet,
Frost Bites,	Stiffness,

and all external diseases, and every hurt or accident. For general use in family, stable and stock-yard, it is

THE BEST OF ALL
LINIMENTS

That Tired Feeling

Which affects nearly every one at this season is entirely overcome by Hood's Sarsaparilla, which has the peculiar merit of building up and strengthening the system while it eradicates disease.

"I have been in poor health several years, suffering from indigestion, restlessness in the night, and in the morning I would get up with a very tired feeling. After taking only a part of the first bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla I could rest well all night and feel refreshed when I woke up. I must say that Hood's Sarsaparilla is all it is recommended to be." MRS. H. D. WINANS, 210 East Mason Street, Jackson, Mich.

Now is the Time

To take Hood's Sarsaparilla, the popular spring medicine and blood purifier. Why?

Because the body is now more susceptible to the beneficial effects of this peculiar medicine than at any other season.

Because the impurities in the blood should be expelled and that tired feeling overcome before the additionally debilitating effects of warm weather are felt.

Because the thousands of people who have tried it pronounce Hood's Sarsaparilla the very best medicine to take in the spring.

Because delays are dangerous. A dollar spent for this peculiar medicine now may prevent illness which will be expensive and hard to bear.

Because, as now is the time when you may derive the greatest good, it is certainly economy to take Hood's Sarsaparilla now.

Do Not be Imposed Upon.

The great and increasing popularity of Hood's Sarsaparilla has led some unprincipled men to use it as a bait to draw customers to their stores, and then by unfair representations endeavor to sell other kinds. It is unnecessary for us to caution those who have tried Hood's Sarsaparilla and know its peculiar merit. But to those who have never taken it we say, Don't be imposed upon. Insist upon having Hood's Sarsaparilla and no other. The men who claim that their preparations are "as good as Hood's," by so doing admit that Hood's is the standard, and possesses peculiar merit which they try in vain to reach.

Immense Amount of Good.

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat distressed me, or did me little good. In an hour after eating I would experience a faintness, or tired, all-gone feeling, as though I had not eaten anything. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced. It relieved me of that faint, tired, all-gone feeling. I have felt so much better since I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, that I am happy to add my recommendation." GEORGE A. PAGE, Watertown, Mass.

New Life and Energy.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla has done me a very great deal of good. It has built up my general health, given me a regular appetite, and made me full of new life and energy. The sores on my face with which I have suffered many years are also much better." MARY ATKINSON, Summerfield, Pa.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

DR. RADWAY'S Sarsaparillian Resolvent,

The Great Blood Purifier, for the Cure of all Chronic Diseases.

Chronic Rheumatism, Scrofula, Syphilitic Complaints, etc. (see our book on Venereal, etc., price 25 cents), Glandular Swelling, Hacking Dry Cough, Cancerous Affections, Bleeding of the Lungs, Dyspepsia, Water Brash, White Swellings, Tumors, Pimples, Blotches, Eruptions of the Face, Ulcers, Hip Diseases, Gout, Dropsy, Rickets, Salt Rheum, Bronchitis, Consumption, Diabetes, Kidney, Bladder, Liver Complaints, etc.

SCROFULA,

Whether transmitted from parents or acquired, is within the curative range of the Sarsaparillian Resolvent.

Cures have been made where persons have been afflicted with Scrofula from their youth up to 20, 30 and 40 years of age, by DR. RADWAY'S SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT, a remedy composed of ingredients of extraordinary medical properties, essential to purify, heal, repair and invigorate the broken down and wasted body. Quick, pleasant, safe and permanent in its treatment and cure.

Sold by all druggists. One dollar a bottle.

RADWAY'S READY RELIEF

For the relief and cure of all Pains, Congestions and Inflammations.

DR. RADWAY'S PILLS

For DYSPEPSIA and for the cure of all the disorders of the Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Constipation, Biliousness, Piles, Headache, etc. Price 25 cents.

DR. RADWAY & CO., 32 Warren Street, N. Y.

DROPSY TREATED FREE.

DR. H. H. GREEN & SONS,
Specialists for Eleven Years Past,

Have treated Dropsy and its complications with the most wonderful success; use vegetable remedies, entirely harmless. Remove all symptoms of dropsy in eight to twenty days.

Cure patients pronounced hopeless by the best of physicians.

From the first dose the symptoms rapidly disappear, and in ten days at least two-thirds of all symptoms are removed.

Some may cry humbug without knowing anything about it. Remember, it does not cost you anything to realize the merits of our treatment for yourself. In ten days the difficulty of breathing is relieved, the pulse regular, the urinary organs made to discharge their full duty, sleep is restored, the swelling all or nearly gone, the strength increased, and appetite made good. We are constantly curing cases of long standing, cases that have been tapped a number of times, and the patient declared unable to live a week. Give full history of case. Name sex, how long afflicted, how badly swollen and where, are bowels costive, have legs bursted and dripped water. Send for free pamphlet, containing testimonials, questions, etc.

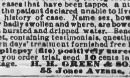
Ten days' treatment furnished free by mail.

Epilepsy (fits) positively cured.

If you order trial, send 10 cents in stamps to pay postage. H. H. GREEN & SONS, M. Ds., 55 Jones Avenue, Atlanta, Ga.

WEBSTER.

With or without Patent Index.



IT IS THE STANDARD

Authority with the U. S. Supreme Court and in the Gov't Printing Office, and is recommended by the State Sup'ts of Schools in 36 States.

To its many other valuable features we have

GET THE BEST AND LATEST.

JUST ADDED
A New Pronouncing
GAZETTEER
OF THE WORLD,
Containing over 25,000 Titles, briefly describing the Countries, Cities, Towns, and Natural Features OF EVERY PART OF THE GLOBE.

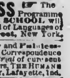
It is an invaluable companion in every School, and at every Fireside.

G. & C. MERRIAM & CO., Pub'rs, Springfield, Mass.

Gladstone's Peaceful Revolution.

Gladstone, Great Britain's greatest statesman, is giving freedom to Ireland, stands in the front rank with Washington, Lincoln and Grant. But Dr. Wm. Hall has bestowed a greater boon to humanity with his DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS, the only cure of coughs, colds, consumption.

No Rope to Cut Off Horses' Manes.



Celebrated "ECLIPSE" HALTER and BRIDLE Combined, can not be slipped by any horse. Sample Halter to any part of the U. S. free, on receipt of $1. Sold by all Saddlery, Hardware and Harness Dealers. Special discount to the Trade. Send for Price-List. J. C. LIGHTHOUSE, Rochester, N.Y.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is the Best, Easiest to Use, and Cheapest.

CATARRH

Also good for Cold in the Head, Headache, Hay Fever, &c. 50 cents.

SEND YOUR ADDRESS The Programme of the SARATOGA SUMMER SCHOOL will be mailed to you free. Sterns' School of Languages of New York City, 27 East 44th Street, New York.

OPIUM Habit, Quickly and Painlessly cured at home. Correspondence solicited and free trial of cure sent honest investigators. THE HUMANE REMEDY COMPANY, Lafayette, Ind.

CUT THIS OUT and return to us with 10c. and you will receive the best book you ever read on LOVE, COURTSHIP & MARRIAGE. Address the UNION PUBLISHING CO., Newark, N. J.

SOLDIERS NEW LAWS; Officers' pay from commissions; Deserters relieved; Pensions and increase; experience 20 years; success or no fee. Write for circulars and laws. A. W. McCORMICK & SON, Cincinnati, Ohio.

$250 A MONTH. Agents Wanted. 90 best selling articles in the world. 1 sample FREE. Address JAY BRONSON, DETROIT, MICH.

CANCER Treated and cured without the knife. Book on treatment sent free. Address F. L. POND, M.D., Aurora, Kane Co., Ill.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. Dr. J. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio

A. N. K.—E 1080

TELEGRAPHY Learn here and earn good pay. Situations furnished. Write VALENTINE BROS., Janesville, Wis.

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOLUME XI. BURLINGTON, KY., WEDNESDAY, MAY 5, 1886. NUMBER 26.

THE SENTIMENT.

How the Montgomery Demonstration is Regarded.

Favorable and Unfavorable Comments on the Speech and Reception of Jefferson Davis.

COLUMBUS, O., April 30.—The demonstration in honor of Jefferson Davis, and his utterances at the Montgomery (Ala.) demonstration, have been the subject of severe criticism here to-day. The Times (Dem.) headlines the indignation meeting of Soldiers at Albany, last night, as follows, but says nothing editorially: "Wanted, at Albany, a fool-killer, with his club, and wanted quick. The Empire Capital advertises itself the biggest fool of the season. Ready to declare war on the South." The Dispatch (Independent) this evening thinks the demonstration at Montgomery all right, but condemns Jeff Davis' utterances. The State Journal (Republican) will say to-morrow that it is hard to tell whether the demonstration at Montgomery is the funeral of the Confederacy or an attempt at its resurrection, and that it appears too lively for a funeral.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—The reception given the ex-President of the Confederacy at Alabama's capital was the general topic of conversation among members of Congress, and with few exceptions were there any comments favorable to Mr. Davis allowing himself to be the the object of so great prominence. General Singleton, of Mississippi, said: "It is not within the power of the people of the South to keep Jefferson Davis caged, and prevent his being honored by those who made him their leader in 1861. It is natural that he should be given the ovation that he was, but if he says things unpatriotic in his address he should be hung before he leaves town. It may be the means of starting the Republican press at the North in saying that the South is still in rebellion, and the Confederate flag is floating from the staff of every building." "The ovation means but one thing," said another prominent Southerner. "It is to commemorate the brave and heroic dead of the South, and it was but fit that Mr. Davis should deliver the address. He has outlived all his enemies, and in his declining years he can do the country neither harm nor good. He asks nothing from the Government; and is but a private citizen."

VICKSBURG, MISS., April 30.—Commenting on the Montgomery celebration the Vicksburg Commercial Herald, the leading Democratic morning paper of the State, says: "Mr. Jefferson Davis is not of the new South. He is of the old South. He said things at Montgomery that would have been better unsaid, and did not say things he, of all men, ought to have said."

Saved the Hangman a Job.

HUDSON, N. J., April 30.—Guiseppe Scoma, the Italian convicted yesterday of the murder of Antonio Rocco, at the Jones Quarry, this city, and sentenced to be executed on June 4 next, committed suicide in his cell at 10 o'clock last night by strangulation. When conducted from the court-room to his cell a bottle of poison was found upon his person concealed in a paper of smoking tobacco. Four hours afterwards he was found hanging in his cell dead. He used a small cord which he had worn about his waist to hold his trousers up. He had threatened self-destruction frequently.

The Oleomargarine Bill.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—By the new bill in Congress regulating the manufacture and sale of oleomargarine, manufacturers are required to pay a special tax of $600, wholesale dealers $480 and retail dealers $48. Tax-paid stamps are to be affixed to all packages containing oleomargarine. Manufacturers of domestic oleomargarine shall pay a tax of ten cents per pound, and on the imported article, in addition to the duty, there shall be imposed a tax of fifteen cents per pound.

More Murderers Sentenced.

FORT SMITH, ARK., April 30.—Four more Indian Territory murderers have received their death sentences, and unless the President interferes will be hanged July 23. They are Blue Duck, a Cherokee convict, murderer of a white man named Wyrick, June, 1884. Kit Ross, white, who killed Davies, also white, last December; Calvin James, negro, who killed Tony Love, negro, in Chickasaw Nation, July last; Lincoln Sprolla, white, who killed Clark and his father, also white, in Chickasaw, last May.

Badly Burned.

CAIRO, ILL., April 30.—A singular accident occurred at the Singer works to-day. A damper in the chimney of the furnace turned suddenly, shutting off the draft, and causing flames to puff out of the furnace doors. Tress Brown, fireman, and Harry Wilson, engineer, were standing in front of the fire doors, and the flames burned Brown badly in the face and Wilson on the left arm, from shoulder to wrist. Brown may be injured internally.

Mysterious Murder of a Child.

NEBRASKA CITY, NEB., April 30.—At 5 o'clock last evening Della Shellenberger, eleven-year-old girl, was told to scrub a flight of stairs leading to a cellar. Ten minutes afterward her father found the girl lying at the foot of the steps with her throat cut from ear to ear, and a bloody carving-knife lying beside her. It was a murder, as is proved by the character of the wound, but there is no clew by which the mystery can be solved.

Frightful Double Accident.

BRIDGEPORT, CONN., April 30.—At 7 o'clock this morning the first passenger train from New York struck and killed August Wachalowski, aged fifty-eight years, and his daughter Mary, twenty years, at the Warren avenue crossing of the Consolidated road. Two horses which the unlucky man was driving were also killed.

Triumphal Tour of Davis.

ATLANTA, GA., April 30.—Jefferson Davis was conveyed from Montgomery to Atlanta to-day in great state and pomp. The special train was profusely decorated with flags, ribbons and flowers, the Confederate colors being conspicuously displayed. At various points along the line there were great shows of military, cannon, flags and blossoms. Mr. Davis briefly addressed the cheering crowds, followed in each instance by General Gordon. At Atlanta there was a grand reception. Here Mr. Davis will assist to-morrow in unveiling the monument to Senator Ben Hill. Sunday he will go to Macon and Savannah.

The Week's Failures.

NEW YORK, April 30.—The business failures throughout the country during the last seven days, number for the United States 189, and for Canada 18, or a total of 207, as compared with a total of 194 last week, and 182 the week previous to the last. The Western and Pacific States this week, furnish about one-half of the entire number of business casualties reported.

Evictions.

DUBLIN, April 30.—Statistics show that during the last three months 608 families, comprising 3,477 persons, were evicted from holdings in Ireland. During the same period 256 outrages were committed.

Post-office and Ten Buildings Burned.

KEYSTONE, IA., April 30.—Keystone was visited by a terrible fire last night. The postoffice and ten other buildings were destroyed. The post-office records and valuable mail matter were saved. Much of the unimportant mail was destroyed. The fire expanded itself after destroying most of the business portion of the town.

Want Fish Pardoned.

NEW YORK, April 30.—A petition is in circulation in this city asking for the pardon of James D. Fish. The petition is said to be signed by over 900 depositors in the Marine Bank, and by many officers of banks in this city and throughout the country.

THE HILL STATUE.

A Great Day for the People of Georgia—The Northern Soldier Kindly Spoken of, and Grant and Lincoln Eulogized.

ATLANTA, GA., May 1.—The unveiling of the Hill monument to-day drew thousands of strangers to Atlanta. The city is brilliant with decorations, especially along the line over which the procession passed. Dr. Spalding presented the statue to Governor McDaniel for the people of Georgia. He alluded touchingly to Senator Hill, and when the cloth which covered the statue was raised, revealing the familiar form and features, a great shout arose from the multitude. Mr. Davis received a great ovation, people fairly swarming about him. After the oration, which was delivered by Hon. J. C. C. Black, Mr. Davis returned to the residence of Mrs. Hill, and will remain there until to-morrow, when he will start for Savannah to attend the Centennial. Every incident of the day, showing a fond memory for the old war associations and an assertion of rectitude in every thing that was done, developed nothing hostile, either to the Union or the people of the North. Federal soldiers were spoken of in the most respectful terms. Lincoln and Grant were repeatedly eulogized in the personal presence of Mr. Davis, and nothing but kindly feeling was expressed. The negroes were fully as enthusiastic as the whites, and mixed up with them and crowded for places with the whites. Mr. Davis and his daughter, Miss Minnie, were lost night, and will be again to-night, the recipients of all manner of social attentions.

A PITCHED BATTLE

Follows an Attempt to Make Grand Rapids Workmen Stop Work.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH., May 2.—Yesterday about 100 men, who wanted every one to observe a holiday and work only eight hours a day hereafter, marched from place to place, making their demands known and receiving recruits as they marched along. Some carried bock beer banners. On arriving at Fuller & Rice's mill, outside the city limits, they started to interfere with the workmen. One leader of the party drew a revolver and ordered every one to stop work. There being hesitation at this demand the procession soon made a break in a body, driving all hands from the mill. Quickly they were met by clubs in the hands of the mill workmen. This changed the aspect of affairs, and the mob took refuge behind some freight cars and renewed the battle with stones. At this point the proprietors attempted to make the men withdraw, but they refused, and a pitched battle resulted. During the melee one man was hit in the abdomen with a large stone and another was seriously injured. A perfect hail of stones was showered upon the mill workmen by the mob. The police and sheriff's force were called out and quiet restored. The employes profess to be entirely satisfied, and say had no desire to strike.

Public Debt Statement.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 1.—The following is a recapitulation of the debt statement issued to-day for the month of April:

Interest-bearing debt—
Bonds at 4½ per cent	$ 250,000,000 00
Bonds at 4 per cent	737,756,200 00
Bonds at 3 per cent	163,775,350 00
Refunding certificates at 4 per c	210,700 00
Navy Pension Fund at 3 per ct	14,000,000 00
Pacific R. R. bonds at 6 per ct	64,623,512 00
Principal	$1,230,365,762 00
Interest	9,279,697 00
Total	$1,239,645,459 00
Debt on which interest has ceased since maturity—
Principal	$5,856,795 00
Interest	206,854 00
Total	$ 6,063,649 00
Debt bearing no interest—
Gold dem'd & legal-tender notes	346,738,521 00
Certificates of deposit	11,515,000 00
Gold certificates	84,715,225 00
Silver certificates	90,733,141 00
Frac'al currency, less $8,375,934 estimated lost or destroyed	6,954,557 00
Principal	$ 540,656,717 00
Total debt, principal	1,776,879,001 00
Interest	9,486,551 00
Total	$1,786,365,552 00
Less cash items available for reduction of the debt	202,307,706 00
Less reserve held for redemption of United States notes	100,000,000 00
Total	$1,484,057,847 00
Total debt, less available cash items	$1,484,057,847 00
Net cash in Treasury	77,030,999 00
Debt, less cash in Treasury, May 1, 1886	$1,407,026,848 00
Debt less cash in Treasury April 1, 1886	$1,417,992,235 00
Decrease of debt during the month	$10,965,387 00
Cash in Treasury available for reduction of the debt—
Gold held for gold certificates actually outstanding	$84,715,225 00
Silver held for silver certificates actually outstanding	90,733,141 00
United States notes held for certificates of deposit actually outstanding	11,315,000 00
Cash held for matured debt and interest unpaid	15,343,347 00
Fractional currency	993 00
Total available for reduction of the debt	$ 202,307,706 00
Reserve fund—
Held for redemption of United States notes, acts of January 14, 1875, July 12, 1882	$100,000,000 00
Unavailable for reduction of the debt:
Fractional silver coin	$28,864,482 00
Minor coin	496,391 00
Total	$29,360,873 00
Certificates held as cash	$83,762,930 00
Net cash balance on hand	77,030,999 00
Total cash in Treasury as shown by Treasurer's general account	$ 492,462,510 00

Want of Brotherly Unity.

MILWAUKEE, WIS., May 2.—A special to the Sentinel from Green Bay announces a fatal quarrel between three brothers named DeLarde, near that city. An altercation over property interests led to a battle among the brothers, during which one was pounded to death with a heavy chair, and another probably fatally stabbed.

The Eight-Hour Day.

CHICAGO, May 2.—The number of individual strikes in the country yesterday is too great to summarize. They occurred in varied industries in all the large cities, with occasional movements of a similar nature in smaller towns. The most general and serious inauguration of the demand for shorter hours and increased pay occurred in this city, where practically all manufacturing and producing concerns are involved, as well as the railways through the action of the freight handlers, who have taken steps to form a union, and announce their unalterable purpose of securing what they ask.

A Fatal Trestle.

LOVELAND, O., May 2.—As freight train No. 23, on the C., W. & B. R. R., was crossing the trestle east of Pleasant Plain, Charles Haynes, one of the brakemen, fell between two cars and had an arm and leg cut off, and then fell from the trestle to the ground below, fracturing his skull, from the effects of which he died. He resides at Chillicothe, with his wife and one child. The remains were taken to Blanchester. One of the brakemen on the same train was thrown between the cars near the same spot yesterday, and instantly killed.

Swallowed a Strychnine Pill.

ROCKLAND, ME., May 2.—Three little children at South Hope obtained some pills of Rev. M. M. Stevenson, and playing they were sick, swallowed several. One of the girls, aged six, the daughter of P. P. Rakes, died in great agony. The others are very sick, but will recover. The pills are supposed to have contained strychnine.

Stanley Matthews to be Married.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—It is announced that Hon. Stanley Matthews, of the U. S. Supreme Court, is to be married to the widow of Judge T. C. Theaker, who was Commissioner of Patents under President Lincoln.

RIOT AT CHICAGO.

Six Thousand Men Attack the Workmen at the McCormick Reaper Works.

Several Persons Are Shot in the Subsequent Encounter With the Police.

CHICAGO, May 3.—After listening to an inflammatory harangue on the prairie at Robey street, a large crowd began to throw stones at the surrounding buildings. Then, as if moved by one spirit, the six thousand men started toward McCormick's reaper works, half a mile west. It was about 3:30 o'clock when the crowd arrived there. With yells and fierce imprecations the now frantic men attacked the building with bowlders and stones that lined the railroad track that extends past the works. Reaching the McCormick gates the howling mob met the workmen coming from their benches carrying their lunch pails. Immediately they began an attack on the McCormick employes, applying vile epithets and stoning them without mercy. There were only two policemen on the scene. Several revolver shots were fired, but so far as is known no one was shot. Many were struck with stones. The McCormick crowd then retreated within the gates, but one of their number, who was so unfortunate as to be left behind, fell into the hands of the assailants and was nearly beaten to death. The attacking party now entered the gates and pelted the windows and walls of the factory, whither the employes had retreated. A little later some of the imprisoned workmen attempted to escape by the rear, but were met and baffled in the attempt. They were compelled to go within the works again for safety. Superintendent Averill, of the McCormick Works, immediately telephoned for the police. A patrol wagon full of officers responded from the Hinman street station. On arriving at the scene of the riot the police charged upon the strikers, using their clubs and firing a few shots in the air. The crowd scattered, but soon reorganized in force and moved once more toward McCormick's. The police telephoned to Lieutenant Crook, of the West Thirteenth street District. He soon appeared on the scene with a wagon load of officers. Immediately after the arrival of the wagon the mob again attacked the factory, hurling stones and sticks, shouting and carrying on in the wildest manner possible. Another detachment of police came up almost immediately and opened a brisk fire with their revolvers, apparently shooting high and without noticeable effect. The mob seeing that none of their number were injured, simply jeered at the officers, but Captain O'Donnel and a squad of twenty-six men from Twelfth street appearing on the scene gave promise of more serious business. Firing then began from the mob's side. Another detail of sixteen officers at this time came down Blue Island avenue at a double quick, and the police then numbering over fifty, began firing in earnest, and the mob began to scatter. They ran in all directions for two or three blocks, and then turned and threateningly regarded the situation. At 5 o'clock the police formed a hollow square, inside of which they escorted the McCormick men up beyond Twenty-second street, without trouble, except from an occasional stone, hurled from safe hiding-places. Four men were found wounded with bullets. Two of them were taken away in a wagon, one shot through the hip and one through the leg. It is expected that several more wounded will be found to-night. There were many badly damaged heads. Officer Casey, taking a wounded man to his home, was seized by the mob and narrowly escaped being hung to a lamp-post.

FRATRICIDE AND SUICIDE.

A Young Man Goes from Sunday-School to Commit a Terrible Crime.

LINCOLN, ILL., May 3.—Charles Deane, a respected young farmer, residing two miles east of Elkhart, in this county, shot and instantly killed his brother, Leverette Deane, last evening. He then went to his home, locked himself in his room, and shot himself through the heart. The brothers were 33 and 35 years respectively, and bore an excellent reputation as peaceful and quiet citizens. There had been ill feeling between them for some time, but the cause of it is unknown. Leverette received one shot in the head and three in the abdomen. Charles had just returned from Sunday-school at Elkhart when he did the shooting. While at the school he showed no signs of being in anything but his usual state of mind.

Four Prisoners Escape From Jail.

CINCINNATI, May 3.—On making his rounds through the corridor of the county jail this morning Turnkey Reynolds discovered that he was four prisoners short in the person of Moses Murphy, Wm. Moore, John Scott and Wm. Kennedy. The men gained entrance to the halls by sawing the grating over the windows of their cells, and descended on a gas pipe to the floor below. This gave them an entrance to the first floor of the jail on the north side. The saws were again brought into use on the bars of the outer window. Thus the men made a way to the court yard, from whence they passed into the street.

Eight-Hour Movement at Chicago.

CHICAGO, May 3.—It was estimated last night that 40,000 of the 225,000 wage workers of Chicago have already profited by the eight-hour movement. About 65,000 are supposed to be out on a strike this morning. In many instances, where large bodies of men are solidified under a trade movement, long strikes are threatened if the present attitude of the employers is maintained. Previous to Saturday 1,000 brewers, as many bakers, 800 furniture workers and 1,600 clothing cutters had secured a reduction of the working hours.

Escaping Convicts Killed.

LOUISVILLE, KY., May 3.—While the convicts were going out of the stockade at the Kensee coal mines, near Jellico, Tenn., this morning, three of them attempted to escape. A white convict was shot dead, and Wm. M. Bradley, colored, was fatally shot through the body. A plot for the escape of all the convicts was also discovered in time to frustrate it.

The Missouri Pacific Strike Ended.

ST. LOUIS, May 3.—The Knights Executive Board will issue an order to-morrow morning declaring the strike on the Gould Southwest System of railways at an end, and the striking Knights will present themselves for employment to the different railroads.

—A striking similarity to black walnut, it is said, can now be manufactured from poor pine by the following method: One part of walnut peel extract is mixed with six parts of water, and the wood is coated with the solution. When the material is about half dry, a solution of bichromate of potash with water is rubbed on it, and then your walnut is ready. In this way excellent walnut can be made from poor pine, and it is said to defy detection except upon very close examination.—Boston Globe.

—One of the most recent enterprises brought to the notice of the New York public is the manufacture of a so-called stone brick. The process consists in grinding quicklime and silicious sand together, and then mixing intimately with more sand in the presence of moist steam. The mixture is then molded under heavy pressure and blows, and the bricks stacked up and plentifully sprinkled while hardening. They are not put on the market until at least three months old.—Troy Times.

—Nothing reduces a man's income like a visit from an assessor.

CONFEDRATE MONUMENT.

Laying of the Corner-stone at Montgomery, Ala.

MONTGOMERY, ALA., April 29.—The Capitol grounds at 11 o'clock to-day presented an animated scene. The whole hill-top and premises were covered with people, gathered to witness the laying of the corner-stone of the Confederate monument. The foundation of the monument only was ready, presenting a surface of thirty-five feet square. Near at hand stood the corner-stone, on which, in raised letters, was the inscription: "Corner-stone laid by ex-President Jefferson Davis, April 29, 1886." Opposite this was a large platform for the speakers. The procession formed in front of the Exchange Hotel. Mr. Davis, his daughter, ex-Governor Watts and Hon. H. C. Tompkins, Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements, were in a carriage drawn by four white horses, each led by a negro in livery. The next carriage contained General and Mrs. Gordon, his daughter and Mrs. and Clement C. Clay, and was surrounded by survivors of the Sixth Alabama and other Confederate veterans. The procession was preceded by a cavalry and artillery escort, and was further made up of other local military, the uniform rank Knights of Pythias, Grand Commandery of Knights Templar, and Masonic bodies from different parts of the State. The demonstrations along the route were enthusiastic. The ex-President was cheered enthusiastically. He took his seat with the Committee of the Memorial Association, behind him Mrs. Goodwin, the Misses Davis and Gordon on his left and General Gordon on his right. Ex-Governor Watts, officers of the Sixth Alabama and others were on the platform. The Sixth Regiment was present also, as were the trustees of the Soldiers' Monument Association, Colonel W. L. Bragg, Mayor Reese, General W. W. Allen, Colonel Wm. R. Jones, Colonel W. W. Screws and Governor O'Neal. Before the services began Colonel Bragg presented Mr. Davis with an elegant basket of flowers from Major Boling Hall, who lives near this city. Major Hall is a descendant of Georgia's Lyman Hall. He was a noted opponent to secession, but had eight sons in the war, seven of whom gave their lives to the Confederacy, and the eighth carries lead in him as evidence of his devotion. An earnest prayer was offered by Rev. Andrew, of the M. E. Church. Mr. Davis was presented by Ex-Governor Watts, and the former made a brief speech, mainly reviewing the events of the late war. In conclusion he said: "Permit me to say that though the memory of our glorious past must ever be dear to us, duty points to the present and the future. Alabama having resumed her place in the Union, be it yours to fulfil all the obligations devolving upon all good citizens seeking to restore the General Government to its pristine purity, and as best you may promote the welfare and happiness of your common country." [Long applause.] Mr. Davis then paid a glowing tribute to the love and devotion of the Southern women to the Confederate soldiers during the four years' conflict. Governor Watts then turned over the rest of the proceedings to the Grand Lodge of Masons, who laid the corner-stone according to Masonic rites. The first article deposited in the stone was a Confederate battle-flag by Miss Davis.

BURIAL OF THE MANIAC.

The Husband, Under Guard of Two Men, Attends the Funeral of Mrs. Smith, the Child-Brainer.

PORT MONMOUTH, N. J., April 29.—The funeral of Mrs. Smith, the maniac murderess and suicide, who brained her four children, at Harmony, near this place on Friday last, took place this morning. Her remains were interred in the same grave with that of her baby girl, Edna, who was murdered by the insane mother. The heart-broken husband and father, guarded by two men, was allowed to attend the funeral. He seemed not to realize the fact that his wife was dead, and inquired several times for her. Before the mourners returned from the funeral of Mrs. Smith the thirteen-year-old boy, Rufus, whose head was split open from the forehead to the back of the right ear, died, making the second victim of his mother's frenzied act. The physicians are now sanguine that the lives of the other two children will be saved.

More Shooting at East St. Louis.

EAST ST. LOUIS, ILL., April 29.—About six o'clock to-night a disturbance, which almost assumed the proportions of a riot, occurred in East St. Louis. A freight-handler named August Brondtoes and Belt Line Engineer John Gibson were walking along Missouri avenue, when they were suddenly attacked by four men. Both were knocked down and badly beaten with brass knuckles and billies. Gibson succeeded in drawing his revolver, and as the men fled he fired four shots, two of the bullets passing through a saloon across the street. He did not bring down any thing. Several hundred people flocked around in a moment, and the militia were summoned to protect the wounded men. There were no arrests, but Gibson recognized two of the men who assaulted him as Tom Stenton and James Ellis, strikers under indictment.

Troops Pursuing the Apaches.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—The Adjutant General of the Army has received the following telegram from General Miles, dated at Tucson, Ariz.: "The Apaches in small numbers have been committing serious depredations in the country east and adjacent to the Sonora railway, from thirty to one hundred and fifty miles south of the boundary, and to-day (April 27) killed one man north of the line, near Calabasis, Ariz. Our troops and thirty men of the Mexican troops, under Major Reis, have been in active pursuit, both crossing the line and following the raiding parties."

Saturday Half Holiday.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 29.—The Governor signed Mr. Cantor's Saturday half holiday bill to-day. The standard gas bill became a law to-day without the Governor's signature, the time having expired.

The Cincinnati Election Trouble.

COLUMBUS, April 29.—The report made to the Ohio Senate to-day by the Republican section of the non-partisan investigating committee, makes a review of the evidence of 550 witnesses, and an inquiry consuming forty-five days, and concludes that the four Republican candidates were elected by majorities ranging from 392 to 1,488, and are entitled to seats. The Democratic members of the committee, on the other hand, throw out precincts which are retained by the Republicans, and claim that the four Democratic candidates were elected by majorities ranging from 200 to 800. The reports are made the special order for next Wednesday.

Wife Murder and Suicide.

RACINE, WIS., April 29.—This forenoon Joseph Uhlier, a farmer aged seventy-nine years, and residing in the town of Caledonia, proceeded to the home of his son-in-law and shot his wife through the body, inflicting a mortal wound. He then proceeded to his own home, one quarter of a mile distant, and shot himself through the head, dying instantly. Uhlier married his wife June, 1884, but they lived unhappily together, and a few weeks ago she commenced proceedings for divorce on the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment.

An All-Night Heavenly Visitor.

PHELPS, N. Y., April 29.—Prof. Brooks, of the Red House Observatory, obtained observations again last night of the new comet discovered by him on Tuesday night. The comet is large, with a slight condensation. It is situated in the constellation of Cassiopei in the northern heavens, and remains visible the entire night.

A Strange and Terrible Malady.

ROWLESBURG, W. VA., April 29.—A mysterious and fatal illness has broken out in this place, and physicians are powerless so far to save the lives of any attacked. The victims are first seized with a severe pain in the head, and are corpses within twelve hours. After death the bodies become spotted.

XLIXTH CONGRESS.

First Session.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—SENATE.—The report of the Payne investigation from the Ohio Legislature was submitted. Mr. Payne made a personal statement, after which the report was referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections. At 2 p. m. the Inter-State Commerce bill was taken up. Messrs. Beck, Call, Cullom, Grover, Sherman, Conger and Miller discussed Mr. Camden's amendment. At 5:30 p. m. the Senate went into executive session and at 5:55 p. m. adjourned.

HOUSE.—A Senate bill was passed extending for two months from the 30th of April, 1886, the duties of the clerk of the Alabama Claims Court. The 4th and 5th of May were set apart for the consideration of business reported from the Committee on Military Affairs. Chairman O'Neil, of the Labor Committee, and Mr. Foran had a controversy over an alleged misrepresentation by the former of the latter's remarks on the labor troubles. The bill to establish a Sub-Treasury at Louisville, Ky., was considered and action postponed until May 15. The river and harbor bill was taken up, and a motion to strike out the paragraph accepting as a gift the Muskingum river improvements in Ohio was defeated.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Mr. Call denied certain published statements regarding his connection with land claims in Florida. Several bills were passed authorizing the construction of bridges across Western rivers. Mr. Logan reported favorably his bill for the reorganization of the army with five thousand increase omitted. A bill was introduced granting fifteen days' leave of absence each year with pay to Navy-yard employes. The Inter-State commerce bill was laid aside for the post-office appropriation bill at 2 p. m. The subsidy clause was debated by Messrs. Beck, Plumb and others until 5 p. m., when the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—A conference committee was appointed on the bill to protect the rights of the United States in the Potomac flats. The Committee on Agriculture reported a bill imposing a tax on oleomargarine and regulating its sale. The river and harbor bill was taken up and discussed until 5:40 p. m., when the House adjourned.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—SENATE.—A bill was passed appropriating $9,000 for the purchase of a strip of land for the post-office building at Fort Wayne, Ind. The 4th of July claims bill was taken up and passed, with an amendment allowing the Merrill estate in Mississippi $67,000 for supplies taken during the war. The post-office appropriation bill was discussed at length by Senator Beck, who spoke in opposition to the subsidy clause. Messrs. Frye and Edmunds took part in the debate. At 5 p. m. the Senate went into executive session, and adjourned in about an hour. The nomination of Associate Justice Pollard, of Montana, was rejected on charges of questionable law practice in Indiana.

HOUSE.—The clerkship of the committee on public buildings and grounds was made an annual office. A bill was reported ratifying an agreement made between commissioners appointed by the States of New York and New Jersey respecting the boundary lines of the States. A bill was reported for the retirement and recoinage of trade dollars. The river and harbor bill was taken up. An amendment to place the Missouri river appropriation under the control of the Secretary of War without the intervention of the Missouri River Commission was lost. A motion to strike out the appropriation for continuing the reservoirs at the headwaters of the Mississippi river was lost. An effort was made to increase from $500,000 to $600,000 the appropriation for the Mississippi from the mouth of the Illinois river to the Ohio river, but it failed. The Lower Mississippi paragraph of two and a quarter millions had been reached when the committee rose. A bill was reported granting a right of way through public lands to any canal or ditch company formed for the purpose of navigation, after which the House, at 5:30 p. m., adjourned.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—SENATE.—The President's veto on the bill to give the unclaimed bodies of paupers to medical colleges was sustained. The objection made was that certain provisions of the bill were indefinite. The private calendar was taken up and a number of bills passed. The post-office appropriation bill was then taken up and considered until 6 p. m., when the Senate adjourned over until Monday.

HOUSE.—A bill was passed appropriating $6,492 to supply a deficiency for a survey at South Pass, Mississippi river. A resolution was adopted, fixing May 13 for the consideration of bills from the Committee on Agriculture, including the oleomargarine bill. The river and harbor bill was then taken up and considered down to the last item. To prevent its going on the calendar a motion to adjourn was carried, at 6:45 p. m., before the bill was completed, making it the unfinished business for Tuesday next.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—SENATE.—Not in session.

HOUSE.—Mr. Findlay (Md.) from the Committee on Civil Service Reform, submitted a report against the resolution offered by Mr. Taulbee (Ky.), directing the Secretary of the Treasury to inform the House by what authority the practice of permitting the employes in his department to appoint substitutes is allowed. Debate followed by Messrs. Taulbee, Millard, Cannon and Findlay. The resolution was tabled—114 to 113. Reports were heard from committees, followed by a brief debate on the Oklahama bill by Messrs. Hill and Baker.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—SENATE.—A joint resolution was reported and placed on the calendar extending the Presidential term until April 30 instead of March 4, 1889, and providing that the term of the Fiftieth Congress be similarly extended. An original bill was reported providing for the report of all preemption and timber culture laws. Senators Riddleberger and Ingalls denied a statement in a Washington paper that the opposition to the confirmation of Matthews, the new Register of Wills for the District, was on account of his color. They also denied conversations on this subject attributed to them. The post-office appropriation bill was taken up and debate upon the subsidy amendment continued. Mr. Vest and Mr. Beck spoke in opposition, Senators Eustis, Ingalls and Miller in favor. The arrangement for a vote to-day at 4 o'clock was postponed until to-morrow. At 6 o'clock the Senate went into executive session, and at 6:10 p. m. adjourned.

HOUSE.—Conference reports on the Indian appropriation and the 4th of July claims bills were adopted. The House sessions on and after May 10 were fixed at from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m. The States were called for the introduction of bills and joint resolutions. Under a suspension of the rules, bills were passed making appropriations for completing and enlarging the public buildings at Hannibal, Mo., and Des Moines, Ia., and for the adjustment of land grants in Kansas. The House adjourned at 6:15 p. m.

Foreign Notes.

SIR CHARLES DILKE, in a speech at Chelsea, said the charges of immoral conduct against him were cruel and baseless, and caused himself and wife many sleepless nights, and having asked the Queen's Proctor to intervene in the case, he would deny on oath the unfounded charges.

THE Powers have sent a collective reply to Greece's answer to the ultimatum demanding a positive promise of early reduction of the army to a peace footing.

NUMEROUS British Liberals have signed a memorial to Mr. Gladstone, favoring the retention of Irish representatives at Westminister and the imperial control of the customs, asking that the property qualifications and £25 franchise be dropped, and the rights of Ulster be safeguarded.

THE King of Shoa, in consequence of threats of the Abyssinian Government, has expelled all Catholic missionaries from his territory.

—In California it is customary with some orange-growers to wrap the trees exposed to a "scalding" sun with old newspapers, so that the bark will not peel off. It is found that the trees make less growth when exposed to the hottest sun.

—"Circumbicycling the world" at first strikes one with amazement, but perhaps "circumnavigating" seemed equally as queer when first used. Neither are a circumstance to "circumpedestrianating," if that should ever catch on.—Peck's Sun.

—The London Lancet and other European medical journals are presenting Prof. Buisson's treatment for hydrophobia as more efficacious than Pasteur's. It is asserted that Buisson's method effects cures even after rabbies have been developed.

—The managers of a railway in Kansas, seeing the danger ahead of a scant supply of wood for ties, have planted a square mile with catalpa and ailanthus trees. The president of the road has also planted the same area as a private speculation.—Chicago Mail.

THE COMMONWEALTH.

Louisville Leaf Tobacco Market.

We quote 1885 tobaccos as follows for full weights and sound packages:

	Dark and Heavy.	Burley.
Trash	$1 00@ 2 25	$1 25@ 3 25
Common lugs	2 25@ 3 25	3 50@ 4 25
Medium lugs	3 50@ 4 25	4 75@ 5 50
Good lugs	4 50@ 5 00	6 00@ 6 75
Common leaf	5 00@ 5 50	6 00@ 7 00
Medium leaf	5 75@ 6 50	8 50@ 9 75
Good leaf	7 25@ 8 25	10 00@13 00
Selections	9 00@10 50	13 50@15 50
Wrappers	12 00@18 25	16 00@18 00

Proceedings of the Legislature.

FRANKFORT, April 24.—SENATE.—Nothing of importance was transacted.

HOUSE.—Among the bills passed were the following: Senate bill incorporating the Southern Contract Company; act amending charter of the City of Louisville; act authorizing the City of Louisville to raise funds necessary to enable her to purchase the gas-works of the Louisville Gas Company at the termination of said charter; act amending the charter of the town of Bardwell, in Ballard county; act for the benefit of the lessee and owner of the ferry at Ashland, Ky.; act to prevent the drifting and floating of saw-logs down Licking river below Saylersville; act incorporating the Victor Emmanuel Club of Louisville; Senate bill to incorporate the Exchange Insurance Company of Covington, Ky.; Senate bill authorizing the board of councilmen of the city of Newport, when sitting as a court, to compel the attendance of witnesses and the giving in of testimony; act rechartering the town of Birmingham, in Marshall County; Senate bill authorizing the city of Newport to issue bonds for refunding bonds issued under an act approved February, 1880; act incorporating the Grainers' and Painters' Company of Louisville; act incorporating the Funeral Directors' Association of the Falls City.

FRANKFORT, April 26.—SENATE.—No quorum—no business.

HOUSE.—Several veto messages of the Governor were reported from the Judiciary Committee, and the vetoes sustained. Mr. Jackson, from the Revenue and Taxation Committee, reported an act to tax and license sleeping-car companies operating in this State, and it was made a special order for Wednesday next. Mr. Cline reported a bill to continue the Geological Survey. On his motion it was recommitted, with leave to report at any time. The bill appropriates $12,500 per annum to pay the expenses of the survey for the next two years. The bill to prevent the use of merchandise checks in coal mines was called up. A motion to lay it on the table prevailed. The bill to repeal the law passed last session requiring county attorneys to assist commonwealth attorneys in prosecutions in circuit courts was called up and pending discussion the House adjourned.

FRANKFORT, April 27.—SENATE.—A bill was passed repealing the fish law in Adair, Wayne, Green, Taylor, Larue, Hart, Ohio and Butler Counties. The Revenue bill was discussed in committee of the whole.

HOUSE.—A resolution was passed for a sine die adjournment May 10. Dixon's high license bill was discussed at length.

FRANKFORT, April 28.—SENATE.—A House resolution relating to the removal of the remains of Lieutenant Colonel Ezekiel Fields was concurred in. Two House bills, incorporating the Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Colored Knights of Honor of Lexington and the Supreme Lodge of the Brotherhood of Honor, were passed. The Senate went into committee of the whole on the revenue bill. The substitute offered by Mr J. R. W. Smith for the article levying a tax on banks was lost. Mr. Gilbert's substitute, which is the one most antagonistic to the banking interest, was next reported, and was amended by striking out the last section.

HOUSE.—Bills introduced: To authorize the citizens of Lancaster precinct in Garrard County to vote prohibiting the sale of liquors in October, 1886, and fixing a penalty for selling liquors in said precinct. To prevent the destruction of fish in the streams of this Commonwealth by use of dynamite and other explosives. To prohibit the sale, barter and traffic in spirituous, vinous and malt liquors in Boyd County. To amend an act to establish a road district in Jefferson County, approved May 12, 1884. To provide for the arbitration of labor disputes. Establishing colonial schools in this Commonwealth. [This bill proposes to establish common schools in the various Swiss and German colonies of the State in which the course of instruction shall be the same as in other schools, but each of said colonial schools may be conducted through the medium of language common to its colony, and the English language shall be daily and duly taught to every pupil.] The Dixon high-license bill was reported. Mr. Newman spoke at length against the bill. Colonel Dick Jones made an earnest eloquent speech in opposition, and other speeches were made by Mr. Spalding and Mr. W. M. Reed. Mr. Straus, who introduced the bill into the House, closed the debate in one of the best arguments he has made during the session. The vote was then taken on the motion to strike out the enacting clause. The motion was lost. Voting on amendments began, and all amendments reported were voted down.

FRANKFORT, April 29.—SENATE.—Mr. Bush called up the House bill allowing defendants in criminal cases to testify. An amendment by Mr. Bryan that the defendant in cases of homicide shall only testify where the dying declaration of the murdered person has been taken as evidence, was defeated. Several other amendments were offered and lost. A motion to recommit to the Committee on General Statutes was also defeated. The bill was then passed by a vote of 20 to 8. The revenue bill was taken up. Mr. Gilbert's substitute was lost. Several amendments were offered but defeated. The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund returned last night from their trip to the Greenwood and Kensee mines. They bring back with them a vast mass of testimony collected from many sources. Four hundred convicts were questioned, and the written statement of each is preserved. Whether the testimony of a convict concerning masters to whose custody he is to be returned as soon as he finishes his story is to be relied upon is a matter of doubt with many people.

HOUSE.—A resolution was offered appointing a committee to prepare and report to this House a bill to provide for the future management of convicts in this State, and such bill, when so reported, shall be considered from day to day and hour to hour until disposed of, and they are hereby granted leave to report at any time. Consideration of the resolution was postponed one day in order to make way for a special order. The House spent almost an hour in discussing a veto of Governor Knott of a Laurel County local bill forbidding the sale and manufacture of liquor in certain precincts. The veto was sustained by a vote of 48 to 28. The Dixon High-license bill won the toss and the members began to discuss it. Six or eight amendments were offered and speedily defeated. The opponents of the bill began systematic filibustering, and the proceedings dragged slowly along.

Miscellaneous Items.

A FOUR-YEAR-OLD son of John Golden, of Covington, was shot by Mrs. Rosa Strickland, who lives in the same house with Golden. Mrs. Strickland was in the room with the child when, chancing to meet with a pistol in an old trunk, she took it out, pointed at the boy, and shot. The ball entered the boy's upper lip near the nose, breaking the upper jaw-bone and thence passing down, as it is supposed, in the neck, producing probably a fatal wound. Mrs. Strickland was placed under arrest. She cried somewhat but took the affair coolly enough otherwise. To Detective Maurer, she said she did not know what a pistol was for, that she had no intention to injure the child. She admitted that she had pointed the pistol at the child's face, and said it went off while she had it so.

THE boiler in the brewery of John Seiler at Lewisburg, Kenton County, exploded a few days since, wrecking the boiler house and machinery. No one was hurt.

"OLD AUNT" JANE COOPER, widow of James Cooper, long since deceased, died the other day at the ancient homestead near Newport. She had attained the advanced age of ninety years, and was born and lived all of her life in Campbell County. She was an inveterate smoker, and a moment before she breathed her last she was enjoying a hearty smoke, and she still clung to the pipe when life was extinct. The old lady had not been to Newport for fifty years, although but seven miles distant, and she had never seen either a steam or street car in her life.

A FOUR-YEAR-OLD cow in Kentucky is the mother of ten calves—twins, triplets and a quintet.

IN the year 1861 Mr. Robt. Wilson, living six or eight miles north of Owingsville, had a horse stolen. He traced the theft to a man by the name of A. R. Crouch, of the same neighborhood, finally locating him near Stockton, Mo. Crouch had settled down and accumulated some property, and instead of prosecuting him for felony Mr. Wilson brought suit for the value of the horse, and a few days ago obtained judgment for the debt, interest and cost, amounting to about $400. The debt is good.

GREENBAUM'S distillery was burned at Nicholasville. Loss $15,000; insured.

HE IS VINDICATED.

The Passage of the Post-office Appropriation Bill a Sufficient Answer to Monopoly Attacks upon the Postmaster-General.

Ever since Mr. Vilas refused to yield to the insolent demands of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company to hand over the mail subsidy which they had so persistently lobbied for at the last Congress, he has been the object of fierce and unreasoning attack. Not only that swash-buckler organ of rabid Republicanism, the New York Tribune, but newspapers which should know better, have assailed the Postmaster-General for what they were led to believe by the disappointed lobbyists was a blow against American shipping interests.

Mr. Vilas complied with the full requirements of the law. There was no mandatory clause in it, obliging him to submit to the demands of the Pacific Mail Company, and his action in resisting the bulldozing course of that monopoly has been sustained by public sentiment. His exhaustive explanation of the question in his annual report convinced every fair-minded reader of the wisdom and prudence that governed his action.

The passage of the Post-office Appropriations bill in the House of Representatives is a striking vindication of the course pursued by Mr. Vilas. The wise discretion he had exercised was eloquently explained by Messrs. Holman and Randall. That remarkable specimen of New Jersey statesmanship, William Walter Phelps, made a most amusing misstatement of the question between Mr. Vilas and the subsidy grabbers, bringing in entirely irrelevant subjects, from the Presidential succession to the silver question. He made no effort to explain away the discretionary power left to the Postmaster-General by the very bill about which he talked so glibly and he was suggestively silent on the desperate efforts made by the subsidy lobby and the manipulation of the Conference Committee. The Pacific Mail Company was evidently disheartened this time and abandoned the field to Mr. Phelps, who was any thing but comfortable in his isolation. The subsidy lobby in Washington have discovered that this is not the kind of Administration calculated to give them any consolation and that the temper of the House was decidedly against them. Even Mr. Bingham, of Pennsylvania, was forced to acknowledge that the Post-office bill without a subsidy was the best reported in his experience as a member of the House in a period of eight years. It now remains to be seen what disposition will be made of the bill by the Senate. If that body attempt to load it down with objectionable amendments it will find more opposition in the House than was encountered last year.—Albany Argus.

THE HOUSE IN 1888.

A Forecast of the Result of the Next Congressional Elections.

Under ordinary circumstances the majority of the House of Representatives will be Democratic, as it has been at every election since 1872, save one, and as it would then have been had the districts been arranged as they now are in the several States.

During this time the Southern States have sent at each election practically the same number of Democratic Representatives, except that the Missouri Democrats in 1880 lost several districts through a Greenback-Republican alliance. Decided political changes have been confined mainly to the Northern States, and the disastrous effects were felt only by Republicans. The Democrats, sure of more than one hundred Southern members without any considerable expense of time or money, found it no very difficult matter to secure a sufficient number from the Northern States to give them a majority, which, in such years as 1874 and 1882, ran well into the seventies.

The present House has 184 Democratic members, of whom 108 are from the South, 32 from the East and 44 from the West, considering all the late slave States the South, New England, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, the East, and the rest of the States the West. The dividing line between parties runs now—as it has for years—East and West, the Democrats carrying the House because their members from the North outnumber the Republican members from the South. Formerly this same line was drawn in all important votes in Congress. Latterly, however, and especially now, the line is purely imaginary, and, if drawn at all, is rather North and South than East and West, thus tending to divide both parties, instead of welding together the discordant elements in each.

It is this fact which makes sagacious politicians of both parties apprehensive of the result of the coming Congressional elections. Democrats suffer from no monopoly of the prevailing uneasiness. However serious the dissatisfaction may be in the Democratic party, Republicans are no less concerned. The only consolation they have lies in their confidence that for once in this generation they are not the only party liable to be hit by a political cyclone.—Washington Post.

Not a Politician.

There is not so much talk in political circles as there was a few weeks ago, about the President's failure as a party leader. The President was not a politician, in the ordinary sense of the word, before he entered the White House, and he has not developed much of the politician's talent since he has been there. The management of the Government is to him a business matter. He would like to transact the affairs of the people in the executive office as he attended to the interests of a client in Buffalo before he became the President of the United States. He does not take to the dicker and trade of politics as practiced by many of the gentlemen in Congress. The talk about his want of leadership originated in two different quarters. It largely came from men with whom he had refused to enter into small political bargains for their private benefit. This is the trouble with many of the members of Congress. They are uncertain about their re-election. They are plagued by importunate constituents, who look to them to secure consulships and other fat places. They are bothered by competitors who are ready to seize on every fact that can be used to their disadvantage, and who carefully stir up disaffections against them at home. They want the President to turn over to them the patronage of their respective localities. The President will not do it, and his refusal is called "a lack of leadership."—Boston Herald.

THE PAYNE CASE.

Having Failed in Their Attempt to Smirch His Character Senator Payne's Republican Enemies Propose to Lay Old Exploded "Rumors" Before the United States Senate.

For three months a committee of the Ohio Legislature have been investigating Sim Donavin's charge that the nomination of Hon. Henry E. Payne for United States Senator was accomplished in the Democratic caucus by the bribery of certain members. A majority of this committee are Republicans, and with partisan zeal they have explored every quarter except one for evidence in support of Mr. Donavin's story.

The exception is notable. As long ago as January 22 Mr. Payne wrote to the committee asking for an opportunity to appear and to be examined under oath, and offering to submit his account books and private correspondence to the most thorough scrutiny. Mr. Cowgill, the chairman of the committee, replied on January 25 to Mr. Payne's letter, assuring the Senator that he would be summoned in case the inquiry developed any fact tending to inculpate him in any degree with any questionable transaction. Mr. Payne has not been summoned; his private letter books and accounts have not been asked for by the committee.

The majority and minority reports are now before the Legislature, together with a mass of inconclusive testimony filling eight thousand printed pages. No proof of bribery has been discovered. The Democrats of the committee report that "there has been absolutely nothing found in any way compromising the four members charged." The Republican majority "find that the charge against four members of this House—Shultze, Seigler, Baker and Hunt—named in the resolution, has not been sustained." Yet, although exonerating the members of their own body who were charged with bribery, and practically admitting that they have failed to discover any fact tending to inculpate Mr. Payne in any degree, the majority report carries partisanship to such an extent that it proposes to turn the case over to the United States Senate, and to ask the Republicans of that body to attack anew Senator Payne's right to the seat which he occupies.

Here are the extraordinary grounds on which Mr. Payne's enemies in Ohio, after three months of futile search at home, ask a renewal of the investigation in Washington:

"1. That the candidacy of Henry B. Payne for United States Senator was not made known publicly until a considerable time after the general election of 1883, at which members of the General Assembly were chosen.

"2. That suspicion and charges of the employment of illegal means to secure the election of the successful candidate for Senator were very prevalent near the time of, and for weeks after, the Senatorial election, and that in many instances the suspicion amounted almost to conviction.

"3. That as to choice of Senatorial candidates among members of the General Assembly there were numerous remarkable changes difficult to account for without assuming the use of unusual inducements."

Senator Payne's attitude from the first has been manly and honorable; and we do not believe that this attempt to dump into the United States Senate chamber, for his further annoyance, the rumors and unsubstantiated charges of the Columbus lobby, will meet with the approval of fair-minded men of either party.—N. Y. Sun.

PRESIDENTIAL SUPPORT.

There Has Been Nothing in the Present Administration to Drive the People From It—Mr. Cleveland Will Not Trim.

Were the President as versatile in making political changes of base as the correspondents and other interested parties are in making them for him, he would not have time to give that assiduous attention to the great interests of the country that has so conspicuously marked his very successful Administration. He has been recently credited in some quarters, with a purpose to pursue a "policy" that would "unite the party." This idea is based upon the assumption that certain Republican gains in various city and town elections indicate division and disruption, and it is hinted by some of the malcontents, that unless Mr. Cleveland does something startling, and does it pretty soon, the next National House of Representatives will be wrested from Democratic control.

That is something for the Democratic party to guard against if possible. But we do not believe that, much as the President would regret such a result of the fall elections, he accepts the responsibility for the danger, or intends to do any sail-trimming or pipe-laying to meet it. He has conducted the Administration with a strong hand, a wise brain and an honest heart. He has shown the people of the country that a change of Administration was not a thing to be dreaded, but something to be welcomed. He has proved that the great National trust reposed in him is as absolutely safe as it has been under any Administration ever in power. He has run the Government with greater efficiency and economy than any of his recent predecessors. He has been ready to correct errors when he has made them, but when convinced that he was right he has been as firm as the great monument that towers the giant structure of the Capital city. There is certainly nothing in all this to disaffect the people or drive his party from his support.—Boston Statesman.

The Facts in the Case.

The Republican calculations about being able to capture the vote of New York State do not appear to be very well founded on basis of facts. The abuse of Governor Hill does not seem to have amounted to much, while the blunders of the Republican Legislature have made it somewhat notorious. The Herald, which generally knows "how the wind blows," says: "If the Governor does not spoil the good record he has made since January, and the Republican majority of the Legislature do not improve their bad one, the Democratic majority of ten thousand in the election of 1885 may easily run up to fifty thousand in the election of 1886. New York is a State in which such changes happen very rapidly."—Des Moines Leader.

—A Blaine Republican organ observes that "the Mugwumps seem to be in hiding," and asks, "isn't it about time for them to be fixing a date for a National conference." You just go ahead and nominate James G. Blaine for President again, and the Mugwumps will swarm out without any further invitation.—Boston Herald

—Senator Edmunds feels that he is as great a failure in leadership as Jones is at courting that Detroit girl.—Alta Californian.

THE RECORDER.

WEDNESD'Y, MAY 5, 1886.

RIDDELL & HALL,
Proprietors.

Rates of Subscription.

One year	$1 50
Six months	75
Three months	40

Payment invariably in advance.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1 Column	1 year	$80
1 "	½ "	40
1 "	¼ "	20
½ "	1 "	20
½ "	½ "	10
½ "	¼ "	6

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

Augest Election 1886.

For Circuit Judge
WARREN MONFORT.
For Commonwealth's Attorney
JOHN S. GAUNT.

For Circuit Clerk
W. L. RIDDELL.
For County Judge
E. H. BAKER.
For County Attorney
S. W. TOLIN.
For County Clerk
M. T. GARNETT,
For Sheriff
J. R. CLUTTERBUCK.
For County Superintendent
J. P. RYLE.
For Surveyor
W. E. VEST.
For Jailer
SAMUEL COWEN.
For Assessor
G. M. RILEY.
For Coroner
Dr. A. A. MURAT.

Subscribe for the Recorder.

THE strike is regularly on now in Cincinnati and the wheels of industry are locked.

THE great railroad strike in the southwest has been declared off, the troubles to be arbitrated.

THE Louisville Commercial credits Auditor Hewitt with the good features of the new Revenue bill.

THE month of May has come and that howling mob at Frankfort is not dispersed. Call out the militia, governor.

MR. MANNING will not resign as Secretary of the Treasury. Mr. Cleveland is given authority for the statement.

WE are in receipt of the official programme of the spring meeting of the Latonia Jockey Club, which commences on the 27th inst.

THE appointment of postmasters in this State is an infernal machine with which it is exceedingly dangerous for Congressman to meddle.

AT Richmond, Va, Prohibition met with an overwhelming defeat. The election resulted in a majority of 5,681 in favor of licensing the sale of liquor.

JERRY LILLARD, after a month's severe illness, is able to mount the tripod editorial again, from the summit of which he is pouring hot shot into the prohibition move.

THE proposed new revenue law is calculated to ascertain the correct value of property. It abounds in iron clad provisions, prescribing the duties of both the assessor and the assessed.

THE eight leading base ball organizations of the country employ this year over 700 men whose salaries will aggregate $300,000. There seems to be something besides fun in base ball.

THE prospect of an Ohio river railroad is creating considerable excitement in the Indiana towns along the proposed route. Much interest is manifested, and the probability is it will be built.

THE present legislature undertook some legislation of great importance to the State, but for the want of caliber or loss whisky, it has not been able to expedite matters, and has almost bankrupted the treasury.

THE cost of licking a New Jersey State Senator is $50; at least that's the amount the court charged Miss Louisa Blackman, a young and pretty school teacher, for thrashing ex-State Senator Ephraim Emson.

No work for the convicts confined in the penitentiary—the State guard presiding over those leased out—the branch penitentiary is not finished—the State treasury depleted—the which bumfoozles the legislature.

Three red blossoms on note paper is the Japanese symbol of happiness. One red blossom on the nose is the Kentuckian's symbol.—Washington Sunday Gazette.

It's a fine thing that you are at a safe distance.

THE SPRING STOCK OF GOODS HAS ARRIVED AT

W. E. PIPER & BROTHER,

BURLINGTON, - - - - - - KENTUCKY.

WHITE GOODS, DRESS GOODS AND
SEERSUCKERS,

We feel entirely above contradiction when we assert that no one ever presented to the public, in one town, a more complete and gratifying selection of the above,

Also Spring & Summer
PRINTS,
LAWNS,
DOMESTIC,
AND GINGHAMS.

In every Quality and at the Lowest Prices. In connection with the above, we have an Elegant Line of LACES, BASTISTE, INSERTING, HAMBURG EDGINGS, white and colored, SCRIM for window curtains, and CHEESE CLOTH.

Table Linens, Black and Brown Cotton, Sheeting, Toilet Towels, Napkins, Chiviot Shirting & Cottonades.

Our assortment of these is so complete and varied, that any one can be suited in taste and price.

W. E. PIPER & BROTHER.

It Is
Our Pleasure to Announce

That we have added an entirely new feature to our business, i. e.

A FULL AND COMPLETE assortment of Ladio's Dress

STAW HATS
& BONNETS,

We are the first who ever introduced Millinery Goods here, outside a Milliner, and having had experience of pleasing the Trade in the Fall, and the best advice in selecting our

SPRING GOODS.

We do not hesitate to say we can please you, so

COME AND TRY US

LADIES, MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S HOSE
In all the Durable Spring and Summer Shades. Ladies' Misses' and Children's Fine Dress

SHOES AND SLIPPERS,
and the most satisfactory Line of Mens' and Boy's
PLOW SHOES
Ever Exhibited.

GLASSWARE, QUEENSWARE AND TINWARE,
Is of the best Quality and Latest Patterns throughout.

Our Line of GROCERIES is Complete And Fresh. Standard Sugars, Green and Brown Coffees AT THE LOWEST PRICES.

We are Headquarters for the best FLOUR PATENT and FAMILY.
LIME, WHITE WASH BRUSAES AND GARDEN IMPLEMENTS.

W. E. PIPER & BROTHER.

In conclusion we beg ot ask you to Call and Examine for Yourself the Articles Enumerated and all others We carry, and if not as we say ,we then Submit. Until then however, we are with an always willing desire to please when permitted to attend you.

YOURS VERY TRULY, W. E. PIPER & BROTHER.

THE high license law with which the legislature has been laboring for so long finally reached a vote and a defeat the other day. Some of its advocates are living in hopes of a reconsideration.

IT now seems that Desha, of Harrison county, has the inside tract for circuit judge in the twelfth judicial district. Two counties will send contesting delegations to the convention and the final result may hing on the organization of the district convention. W. E. Arthur has not abandoned all hopes of success.

WE received a letter from Hon. Reuben Conner one day last week. He says if the people of Boone have anything they want him to do to forward the information at once. Mr. C's. letter has the tone of a man who thinks the legislature has outlived its usefulness, and the proper thing for it to do is to adjourn instantur.

THE press gang, or those members who had money enough to pay their expenses and could spare the time, met in convention in Henderson, one day last week. The dead-head feature being eliminated confined the attendance to bona fide newspaper men, and the meeting partook of the nature of a business meeting instead of a debauch.

THOSE Democrats who opposed the reappointment of Mrs. Thompson as postmistress at Louisville, are marshaling their forces to defeat the reelection of Congressman Willis, who recommended her again. Willis and Beck claim that she is a Democrat, but being given the office first under a Republican administration is pretty good evidence that her democracy is not above suspicion.

FOUR thieves escaped from the Cincinnati jail Monday morning by sawing out bars to their cells. Tuesday night a strange man stayed in Burlington and from the picture and description given by the Enquire Tuesday, all who saw the stranger are satisfied that he is one of the escaped prisoners. He acted as a lunatic and pretended to have no money. He left Tuesday morning for Lawrenceburg—he said.

IT seems that Mr. Peter Nedler is not the man who can manipulate (draw the salary) the mail at the Covington post office in a manner satisfactory to all. A strong opposition has materialized, and indignation is wafted about the city, and, in density, rivals the smoke that daily hovers over the town. We have not heard it charged yet that Mr. Carlisle's action in the matter would visit defeat upon him in his next canvass for congress.

A PETITION asking the legislature to do away with the court of levy and claims in this county, and substitute therefor a board of three commissioners to act in conjunction with the county judge, was being circulated Monday and signed by every body to whom it was presented. It was forwarded to Hon. Reuben Conner in Tuesday morning's mail. It is to be regretted that the move was not made earlier in the session, as at this late date the chances for it to culminate in a law are not so good. THE RECORDER has at all times been an advocate of the measure, believing that it will be much the cheapest and more satisfactory way of disposing of the business which now comes before the court of claims.

STATE NEWS.

The tobacco crop of Allen county will be greatly increased this year.

In Paris three colored women are working out fines on the city rock pile.

The farmers of Madison county are turning their attention to corn and hogs.

A farmer near Bowling Green says his 65 acres of oats have been literally eaten up by the army worm.

The unanimous verdict of the farmers is that they never saw wheat looking better at this time than it does now.

Senator Stanford, the California millionaire, has sent his stable of trotters to Lexington, to participate in the coming races.

J. I. Case, the owner of Jay Eye See, has sold Phallas, the running mate of the king trotter, to a Minneapolis turfman for $50,000.

J. B. Sprague, of Lexington, has sold his four-year-old blooded stallion, Wilks Sprague, to B. H. Neal, of Richmond, for $2,000.

The delinquent list of the tax payers of Bourbon county, as returned by the Sheriff, for 1885, shows 2,705 delinquents; 1,399 whites and 1,306 blacks.

Frank Clift had four horses to die of pleuro-pneumonia and two others not expected to live. This makes a clean sweep of all of Mr. Clift's horse stock.

Capt Desha has called a meeting of the citizens of Cynthiana for May 8, for the purpose of taking steps for the entertainment of the "Orphan Brigade" August 18th.

Many peach trees were killed during the winter. A few are in bloom. The prospects for apples and some other small fruit is good. There is a heavy strawberry bloom.—Ex.

Bennett Woodhead, a twelve-year-old boy, fell through a stable loft at Falmouth, and stuck a steel pitchfork through his right lung. He was dangerously but not fatally hurt.

An English capitalist has recently invested $100,000 in mineral lands in Eastern Kentucky, where coal and iron are found together in inexhaustable quantities and of the finest quality.

Robt. Cunningham, of Clark county, has purchased several crops of growing wheat in the Pine Grove neighborhood at 85 cents per bushel. The engagement was made for a Lexington party.

John O'Neal residing on the Elkfork, in this county, gave his deposition in a suit pending in the Morgan Circuit Court, in which he stated that he is 105 years old.—Licking Valley Scorcher.

Gen. Wolford says he is not inclined to run for Congress in the Eleventh district but will not make a an announcement in any direction until he has consented his friends after returning home.

Jno. Bright had 182 pounds of his Brazillian corn that would not do for seed ground and the result was 85 pounds of fine flour, 30 of second grade and 54 of bran, the latter rich enough for bread after sifting.—Stanford Journal.

It may not be known generaly that Kentucky embraces some of the most earnest workers in the cause of woman-suffrage to be found in this country. Gen. Cassius M. Clay was not a stronger advocate of emancipation during the days of slavery than are his daughters of the enfranchisement of their sex.

John Boyd, colored, was arrested in Hopkinsville, charged with stealing $16,000 from T. J. Fuller, of Jackson, Tenn. The latter had buried that amount in gold during the war, and fancying that style of special deposit, left it untouched. Finally, parties learning of the buried treasure, dug it up and fled. Boyd is believed to have secured a portion of the money.

Mr. William Miller, a citizen of Coopers creek in this county, was in town yesterday, the first time for many years. He was 100 years old on the 4th day of this month, and was a soldier of the war of 1812. He has been living in Tennessee for many years, but has lately returned to his old home in this county.—Somerset Reporter.

Ike Hampton, formerly a slave of Gen. Wade Hampton, passed through here Sunday night on the train from Iowa, where he has been living for the past nineteen years. He said that he acted as body servant to his old master for nearly three years in the war, and was going home to die with him. He had a through ticket to his old home in South Carolina, and but fifty cents to spend on the trip. Had he met with any of the old confederate soldiers here, they would have chipped in freely for his benefit —Bourbon News.

County Directory

OFFICERS.

Assessor—G. M. Riley.
Jailer—Samuel Cowen.
County Surveyor—W. E. Vest.
Coroner.—Dr. A. A. Muret, Constance.
Superintendent of Schools—H. J. Foster

COURTS.

CIRCUIT COURT meets the 2d Monday in April and first Monday in October, P. U Major, Judge; W. L. Riddell, Clerk A. G. DeJarnette, Commonwealths Attorney; W. L. Riddell, Trustee Jury Fund.

COUNTY COURT meets the first Monday in every month. L. H. Dills, Judge; S. W. Tolin, County Attorney. M. T. Garnett, Clerk; J. R. Clutterbuck, Sheriff, T. W. Finch and W. T. German, Deputy Sheriffs.

QUARTERLY COURT meets the first Monday in March, June, September and December. The officers of the County Court preside.

COURT OF CLAIMS meets the first Monday in November.

MAGISTRATES' COURTS are held in March, June, September and December, as follows:

Bellevue—M. B. Green, first Saturday, and T. H. Sutton, third Monday. J. M. Moody, Constable.

Burlington—E. H. Baker, Thursday after first Monday, and Oscar Gaines, fourth Monday. C. W. Saxton, Constable.

Carlton A. G. McConnell, Wednesday after second Monday, and B. H. Ryle, Saturday after third Monday Charles H. Acra, Constable.

Petersburg—Jos. Hensley, Wednesday after first Monday, and L. A. Loder fourth Saturday. Geo. Comer, Constable.

Beever—W. M. Rouse, Friday after the third Monday, and Andrew Ellis, Fiday after 1st Mnonday—T. J. Coyle, Constable.

Union—M. C. Norman, Thursday efter third Monday, and H. Bannister, Thursday after second Mondny. H. G. Blanton, Constable.

Hamilton—F. M. Howlett, Tuesday after second Monday; W. W. Garnett, Wednesday after third Monday. R. L. Roberts Constable.

Walton—T. F. Carley, second Friday. S. T. Johnson, Tuesday after second Friday Al Arnold, Constablo.

Verona—W. E. Sleet, Tuesday after first Monday. J. J. Brumback, Tuesday after third Monday, J. H. Callahan, constable.

Florence—T. K. Dixon, third Saturday, Joo Wagstaff, second Saturday. Craig Pettit, Constable.

Taylorsport—A. B. Whitlock, fourth Monday, W. A Goodridge, third Saturday Thos. Watts, constable.

AGENTS WANTED for DR. SCOTT'S beautiful Electric Corsets. Sample free to those becoming agents. No risk, quick sales. Territory given. Satisfaction guaranteed. Address DR. SCOTT, 842 Broadway, NEW YORK.

I. C. STEINHARTER,
416 & 418 Pike St.
COVINGTON, - KENTUCKY.

Highest price paid for sheared Wool and Sheep-skins. Ed Golloway, of Florence, Buyer.

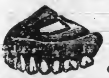
ROBERT B. REED
Attorney at Law.
OFFICE AT - - UNION, KY

F. RIDDELL. H. P. STEPHENS.
RIDDELL and STEPHENS,
ATTORNEYS at LAW
BURLINGTON, KY.
Office over Dudley Rouse's Store.

W. E. VEST,
COUNTY SURVEYOR
WALTON, KY.

Is prepared to do all kinds of surveying. All orders sent him through the mail to Walton, will receive his prompt attention.

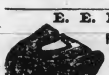
DR. A. B. HARRYMAN,



Resident Dentist.
Office over Post-Office
AURORA, INDIANA.

J. J. Landram. G. G. Hughes.
LANDRAM & HUGHES,
ATTORNEYS at LAW.
Will practice in the Boone Circuit Court and the Court of Appeals. Prompt attention given to Collections, on application to G. G. Hughes, Burlington, Ky.

E. E. IGOE,



Resident Dentist,
Rising Sun, Ind.
WITH
J. P. Ulrey.
Monday and Tuesday at Rising Sun. 2nd Wednesday and Saturday at Aurora, Ind. Thursday and Friday at Lewrenceburg.

S. W. TOLIN,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
BURLINGTON, - - - Y
Office in Court-house on 2d floor.

Will manage litigation in any of the Courts of the State, contracts and other legal instruments drawn up at reasonable rates. A prompt an studious attention given to business intrusted to my care. A trial solicited. 12-1y

W. J. RICE,
CARPENTER & BUILDER,
BULLITSVILLE, KY.

Is prepared Raise or Move
EITHER LOG or FRAME BUILDINGS
On Short Notice.
And at the Lowest Possible Figures.
33-tf Your orders respectfully solicited

LUMBER.

Goe. M. Bedinger & Co.,
Erlanger, - - Ky.

We keep constantly on hand all kinds of Lumber, Laths and Shingles. Also Builder's supplies of all kinds.

—Come and see Us—

WANTED—LADY Active and intelligent, to represent in her own locality an old firm. References required. Permanent position and good salary. GAY & BROS., 12 Barclay St., N. Y.

Subscribe for the RECORDER.

—Haskins—"I don't think much of Dr. Ague's school of medicine. He don't seem to have any luck in curing people." Robb—"No, and that's not the worst of it. I heard him admit to Dr. Henderson that he couldn't cure a ham."—Toledo Blade.

—Uncle Mose—Lemme 'splain hit ter yer. D's heah bucket am de sun, and my head am de yarf. De bucket, when hit goes round and round, sheds light on de inhabitants of my head. Does yer understan'?—N. Y. Mail.

FARM IMPLEMENTS.

Buy your Farming Implements, Fence Wire, Cutting Boxes, Feed Grinders, Corn Shellers, Road Scrapers, Excavating Carts, Sewing Machines, Mowers and Reapers and

Deering TWINE Binders,
GROCERIES, &c.
READY MIXED PAINT.
—of—
J. C. Smith,
Successor to W. H. Hill & Co.
22 and 24 EAST THIRD STREET,
Cincinnati, Ohio.

Or of our local Agent C. W. RILEY, North Bend, Ohio, (Ky. Box). All goods sold strictly on their merits.

ATTENTION!
TOBACCO
Shippers and Raisers, you can buy
Tobacco Hogheads,
Set up or Knock Downs,
AT THE COMPANY'S MILLS
At Lawrenceburg or Aurora, Ind.
Orders by mail will meet our prompt attention.

LAND FOR SALE.

50 acres good land near Constance, this county. All in grass and well watered. Terms easy—apply to this OFFICE.

FOR SALE!

Henry County Farm of 120 acres, situated on pike 1 mile from Smithfield, on Louisville & Lexington Railroad, 3½ miles from Louisville. Said farm has on it a good frame house, of 8 rooms, good barn and all other outbuildings, and never failing water, convenient to good schools and churches. The land is first-class, all in grass but 25 acres, which is in wheat, 25 acres of fine tobacco land which has never been cultivated. Terms reasonable. For further information apply to
B. D. SPURGIN, Smithfield, Ky.
Henry county. 52-3m

DeLAND & CO'S

SODA
Best in the World.
For Sale by Dudley Rouse,
Burlington, Ky.

The Combined Stallion,
RECTOR

Will make the season of 1886, Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays at Harvy Marshalls at Waterloo, and the rest of the week at my stable at Bellevue, at $10 to insure a mare with foal, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Rector is a beautiful black, 7 years old, 15½ hands high, and a good all-purpose horse. He was sired by Cris, dam Black Nose.

Not responsible for accidents should any occur. ROBT. CLORE, Bellevue, Ky.

Take tho Reecoreer.

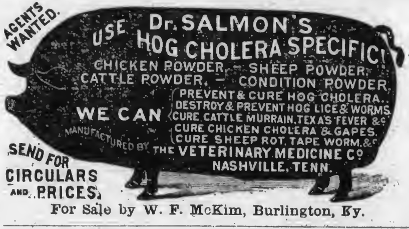
THE
COMBINATION FENCE

A fence that is wanted, and in time will be used by every one that wants a fence, either around the House, Garden or Farm, as it is cheap, durable and servicable, to keep in check horses, cattle, sheep, hogs, chickens, etc., and restrain wolves, dogs, and rabbits, etc.

Having all the advantages of a picket fence in restraining animals from jumping, and not so liable to decay, and at much less cost, and no barbs to injure valuable stock, thus placing it far in advance of any other fence now in use, hence it must be the fence of the future; all who have it want more.

It is portable and can be removed from field to field by drawing staples from posts, taking out the splice lath and rebundling it. We offer this fence for sale in bundles of five and six rod at Burlington.

DILLS & CRISLER,
Burlington, Ky.



AGENTS WANTED.
USE Dr. SALMON'S
HOG CHOLERA SPECIFIC!
CHICKEN POWDER. — SHEEP POWDER.
CATTLE POWDER. — CONDITION POWDER.
WE CAN
PREVENT & CURE HOG CHOLERA.
DESTROY & PREVENT HOG LICE & WORMS.
CURE CATTLE MURRAIN, TEXAS FEVER &c
CURE CHICKEN CHOLERA & GAPES.
CURE SHEEP ROT, TAPE WORM, &c
MANUFACTURED BY THE VETERINARY MEDICINE Co
NASHVILLE, TENN.
SEND FOR CIRCULARS AND PRICES.

For Sale by W. F. McKim, Burlington, Ky.

The fine harness and saddle stallion
Young WOODPECKER

Will make the season of 1886, Saturdays and Mondays at J. W. Gaines' stable at Burlington, Tuesdays and Wednesdays at Gainesville, Thursdays and Fridays at J. W. Gaines' farm near Plattsburg, at $10 to insure a colt to stand up and suck, any person parting with a mare after being bred forfeits the insurance money.

Young Woodpecker was sired by Nat Carpenter's Star of the West; he by Woodpecker; he by Bertrand; dam imported Buzzard. Young Woodpecker's dam was a 3 minute mare, by Jeff Davis, g. d. by Russell's Pilot; he by old Sir William.

Not responsible for accidents.

TEN BROCK. This fine young Jack will make the season at the same time and places and on the same terms.

He is black with mealy nose, 15 hands high. He was sired by Espartero; he by a large Spanish jack; dam of Ten Brock, Mollie McCarty, was sired by Longfellow. Perry Tucker's jack; g. d. by A. S. Pratt's jack, the best breeder ever in this county.

F. C. Wingate, J. W. Gaines,
J. J. Lillard, C. A. Gaines.

DENMARK CHIEF, JR.,

Will stand the present season at my stable et Sand Run, at $10 to insure, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with. Not responsible for accidents. I will reserve a lien on all colts until the insurance money is paid.

Denmark Chief, jr. is a bright mahogany bay, 10 yrs old, 15½ hands high, fine length, with as fine hip loin and quarter as ever put on a horse. His blood-like head is full of expression, indicative of the finest disposition; and, take him all in all, he is one of the finest models of the Ky. horse.

He was sired by Old Denmark Chief; he by Old Black Denmark, formerly owned by A. R. Alexander, of Woodford county, Ky.; Old Denmark was sired by the old race-horse Imported Hedgeford; Wm. Allen's dam sorrel Betty, a Copperbottom mare, sired by Daniel Boone; he by Tom Crowder; he by Black Pilot, the old horse Alexander. CHRISTOPHER BARLOW.

Riddell's Hambletoni'n

Is a bay, 15½ hands high, 8 years old, and will make the season of 1886 at mo stable, 2 miles from Anderson's Ferry, and 2 miles from Hebron, and will serve mares at $10.

He is by Strader's Hambletonian; dam Rachie Sanders; she by Green's Bashaw. He is one of the best breeders in the county his colts are good size, good workers and trotters. J. A. RIDDELL.

I had a colt by this horse which I sold for $300, unbroke, Geo. Gaines.

The fine harness and saddle horse,
Young Hedgeford,

Will make the season of 1886, at my stable 1½ miles from Petersburg, at the forks of the Burlington and Woolper pike, and will serve mares at $10 to insure a colt to stand up and suck, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

DESCRIPTION & PEDIGREE.

He is a dark mahogany bay, 4 years old, 16 hands high, and has fine style and action. He was sired by Old Hedgeford, the premium saddle and general purpose horse, who was sold to Joe Emmet for $1,000. Young Hedeford's dam was a fine mare from Burbon county, Ky.

Not responsible for accidents.
J. W. HERKSHIRE.

OHIO VOLUNTEER,

Will stand the season of 1886, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of each week at David Clements', near Jeff Utz's, on the Union & Rising Sun grade, 4 miles from Union, and the rest of the time at my stable in Burlington, at $10 to insure, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with. Not responsible for accidents.

Ohio Volunteer is a beautiful dark brown has fine form and action, is a sure foal getter and a good trotter. His many colts prove him a model breeder.

Ohio Volunteer was sired by Goldsmith's Volunteer; he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian, dam Forrest Telltale, by Edwin Forrest; 2d dam Toleman. C. W. SAXTON.

JENKINS'

ALMONT,

This renowned trotting stallion and sire of trotters will make the season of 1886, at the stable of John D. Norris, ½ mile from Petersburg, Boone county, Ky., at $30 the season, with the privilege of returning in 1887 should the mare fail to get with foal, money due July 1st, 1886.

Jenkins' Almont was sired by Wither's Almont, the sire of 26 horses with records of 2:30 or better. 1st dam by Toledo; 2nd dam Sonsby Grays Highlander; 3d dam by Coner de Leon, a noted pacer.

Jenkins' Almont is the sire of Bessie G. 2:25½; Grafton, 2:28½; Will Heath, trial, 2:21, and others gifted with great trotting speed.

Pasture furnished at $1 per month. Care will be exercised to prevent accidents or escapes, but will not be responsible should any occur. We are endeavoring to give the people of Boone Co., a chance to get a fine colt at a low price. J. D. NORRIS & Co.

BILL CHEERE

Will make the season at the stable of John G. Bradford in Union, Ky, at $15 to insure Bill Cheere was bought of Mr. W. Duncan, of Illinois, who imported him. He is the most perfect draft horse in the county.

GUIZOT

Will make the season at my stable in Petersburg, Ky, at $10 to insure, Guizot was imported from France, and is a fine breeder. GEO. W. TERRILL, Petersburg, Ky.

The fine stallion, Conner's
ALMONT

Will make the present season at my stable at Bullittsville, Ky., and will serve mares at $10 to insure, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Care will be taken to prevent accidents, but will not be responsible should any occur.

ALMONT is 6 years old, a beautiful rich mahogany bay, black mane and tail, with two white ankles behind, stands 16 hands high, and shows much style and speed.

ALMONT was by Bidwell's Almont, jr., bred by Col. West; got by Almont, son of Alexander's Abdallah; dam Belle Forrest, by Edwin Forrest. Almont is a half brother to Sensation; 1st dam Topsy, the fine premium mare, by Topgallant; g.d. a Belle Founder mare, g. g. d. a Copperbottom mare that possessed all the fine saddle qualities. J. D. CONNER,

CRIGLER'S ALMONT,

Will make the season of 1886 at my stable on Gunpowder Creek 1½ miles above Limaburg and at Florence, Ky., at $20, to insure a mare with foal, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Will be at Florence the first three days of each week, and the rest of the time at my stable. Not responsible for accidents.

ALMONT is a dark chestnut sorrel, 15½ hands high, with fine style, and has trotted his mile in less than 2:30; he is by Almont jr., he by Wither's Almont; he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian; Almont's 1st dam Goodwood; 2d dam Daniel Boone; 3 dam Blacknose.

REX DENMARK.

Will make the season at the same time and places, at $10 to insure a mare in foal.

He is a beautiful brown with fine mane and tail, style that cannot be beaten, is 16 hands high. He has been shown 11 times and taken 10 ties, in Missouri.

He is by Crigler's Denmark; he by Denmark Chief; he by Black Denmark; Old Denmark by Imported Messenger. Rex Denmark's 1st dam Woodpecker Star of the West; 2d dam Mohawk; 3d dam Tom Crowder. W. A. CRIGLER.

1886. STALLIONS FOR 1886.

SAM HARRIS.

DESCRIPTION—Bay, no white, 16½ hands; fine style, good trotting action, 5 years old, with six weeks breaking and handling trotted a full mile over Chester Park in 2:58, full brother to Royalmont, who has a record 2:32 with a private trial 2:22 in his 5 year old form.

PEDIGREE—By Bidwell's Almont, dam Louisiana by Tornado; he by Tempest; he by Royalgeorge; her dam by Old Mazeppa; she was sold in 1874 and delivered in Buffalo for $1,500, and afterwards shipped south. She trotted the Buffalo track in 2:35 the day of sale.

SAM HARRIS will make the season of 1886 for $25, payable when the service is rendered, with the privilege of breeding till a colt is obtained.

JOHN S.

DESCRIPTION—Dark iron gray, 5 yrs. old, very stylish, good action, 16 hands high.

PEDIGREE—By Bidwell's Almont; 1st dam by Ohio Volunteer; he by Goldsmith's Volunteer; he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian; 2d dam White Eagle. John S. will make the season of 1886 for $10 to insure, due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Bidwell's Almont by Wither's Almont; he by Alexander's Abdallah; he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian; 1st dam by Edwin Forrest; Bidwell's Almont sired Judge Lindsay with a 5 yr. old record 2:21½, Annie W. 2:22½, and two others with public record below 2:30; also Royalmont with a public record 2:32 and private trial 2:22 Pasture furnished at $3 per month, but not responsible for accidents.

These two stallions will make the season of 1886, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at Bullittsville and the rest of the week at my stable 1½ mile west of Anderson's Ferry.

JAS. L. RILEY, Bullittsville, Ky,

Local News.

Maying parties are in order.

Some corn has been planted.

Fine prospects for tobacco plants.

Court adjourned last Wednesday evening.

The English sparrow does not cease to multiply.

Owen Rogers is quite sick at Mrs. Emily Campbell's.

Mrs. Stephen Clore, of Florence, died one day last week.

Occasionally you can find a farmer who is done planting corn.

The contest for the Covington postmastership has Petered out.

The Baptist church at this place had a called meeting last Saturday.

The widow of Isaac Cooper, of Covington, died one day last week.

A coal spell dropped in on this section of the country again last week.

Tobacco plants in uncanvased beds are being devoured by the bugs in some neighborhoods.

For five consecutive Mondays there has been court in this county—four in April and one in May.

Sheriff Clutterbuck is suffering with his right jaw, which is swollen until his face is badly out of shape.

The Burlington and Bellevue turnpike company reelected the old board of directors at its annual election.

The squirrel hunter goeth forth now early in the morning and cometh home at night dunk, hungry and squirrelless.

The Baptist congregation at this place are making some internal improvements on their church building.

For Sale—Wm. Frit'z best Corn Beef at 8 cents per pound at B F. Zimmers, Constance, Boone county, Ky. 26tf.

In some localities the earth is alive with cut-worms, and the farmers will defer planting their corn for several days.

W. O. Kirtley passed through town Friday with a large drove of stock hogs which he bought of J. C. Hughes, near Beaver.

While in the city last week we met Professor Stephenson. He is well and hearty and is located at Milton, Trimble county.

Big fish fry in Burlington last Friday. Henry Meyers, of Petersburg, supplied the town with fine perch and cats that day.

In the Presbyterian congregation at this place there is but one male member; nevertheless they have preaching once a week.

For Rent—To a responsible person, a well located blacksmith shop, in the town of Florence, Ky. Apply to

A. C. Graves, Florence.

The entertainment for the benefit of the Presbyterian church will be on the Friday and Saturday nights of next week, May 14th and 15th.

Attending county court from Kenton were: Wm. Respass, Joseph Cleveland, Frances and George Kreylich, Mex Cleveland and Joe Laile.

John W. Grubbs, who is confined in the jail at this place is in very poor health, having been confined to his bunk ever since Circuit Court.

Wanted—1,000 men with 40 cents each to buy a pound of Ligett & Meyers best Star Tobacco, at B. F. Zimmer's, Constance, Boone county, Ky.

Next Saturday at one o'clock in Florence, there will be a colt show, the get of Crigler's Almont. Any aged colt of his get will be allowed to exhibit.

At the last term of the Boone Circuit Court the grand jury cost $144; petit juries, $495, making a total cost of $639. Juries come high, but we must have them.

E. H. Baker's big black Newfoundland dog left home Sunday, and has not been heard of since. Any information leading to his recovery will be thankfully received.

Wm. Kirkpatrick, son of Thos. Kirkpatrick, and who works at Conner's livery stable, got his hand badly lacerated by a cutting-box while cutting oats last Thursday.

The jury to which the Moore will case was submitted failed to agree, and was discharged last Wednesday at noon. The jury stood 10 for breaking and 2 for sustaining, the will.

John J. Berkshire talks fruit thusly: There will be dead loads of cherries; an abundance of grapes; a few peaches; a small crop of pears; too early to speak advisedly as to the apple crop.

Emma, daughter of Peter Zimmerman, of Petersburg, eloped to Lawrenceburg last week with Jack Smith of the same place, and was married. Peter was forninst the wedding.

One day last week Mr. Alfred Cason caught in one of his ponds a German Carp about two feet long. It was put in the pond about three years ago, at which time it was a very diminutive specimen of the fish tribe.

The supposed contemplated marriage of President Cleveland is an exuberant theme for the Washington reporters, who pretend to be about as well informed on the subject as if they are the President's confidential friends.

J. M. Conner's fine harness and saddle stallion is a perfect picture of a horse, and is admired by all who chance to see him when being exercised. He is exceedingly docile, which is commented on by all. He's simply a blue grass dandy.

Uncle John Beall is anxious to hear from his brother Orrin who receives this paper in the far west, and to whom he has repeatedly written, but has received no answer. Orrin, you or some member of your family must write to him at once.

Remember that Geo. Huschart & Co. of Lawrenceburg, Indiana, can always give satisfaction both as to price and style of work, so when you want to buy a tombstone or a monument go to their yard or call on John Beall, of Hebron, Ky., their agent.

The weather, Monday, was very favorable for the May exhibiton ot stallions, and quite a number of the finest in the county were shown and attracted much attention; especially is this true of the display of speed by Riddell's Richwood, and Conner's Sensation.

Last Thursday three men engaged in a shooting scrape in the Circuit Clerk's office in Williamstown. One man was killed out right, and another fatally wounded. The trouble grew out of a constable's levy upon a horse belonging to the man who was killed in the office.

Elder Cox, of Indiana, will preach at Gunpowder church on the third Saturday and the Sunday following, in this month. There will also be a meeting commencing at same place on Friday before the third Saturday in June. Elders Wallingford and Gatehouse will be present.

Capt. DeJarnette put in his appearance on Wednesday of last week, and disposed of about all the indictments in which there was any thing for the Commonwealth's Attorney, leaving short picking for the next term. The captain had done all the work and was entitled to the fees and commissions.

Carlton Nelson, son of William Nelson, formerly of this county, was an applicant for a cadetship at West Point; and was examined, among a number of others, in Lawrenceburgh, a few days since, coming out third in the examination, which was very rigid. He is a young man who has made good use of his opportunities.

In our last issue we failed to announce the death of William C. Tanner, of Florence. He had been a sufferer from consumption for a long time, and notwithstanding his friends realized that he could live but a short time, his death was unexpected. Mr. Tanner was not out of his thirties, and so long as health would permit he was an active business man.

County Court.

In the county court Monday George Stamler was granted license to keep hotel in the Southern hotel in Florence.

Cy Crisler granted license to keep a hotel in Burlington.

Viewers appointed on Boone Rogers' motion to close Steep gut road.

The following wills were probated: W. H. Chapen's, Elizabeth Garnett's.

John Conner appointed guardian for Harrison Carder.

S. P. Brady, Sam Hind and J. W. Duncan appointed supervisors of tax.

Church Entertainment: The entertainment for the benefit of the Presbyterian church in Burlington, will be given in the church at that place, Friday and Saturday nights, May 14th & 15th, 1886, with an entire change of programme each evening. Opening address by Dr. J. G. Furnish.

Programme:

Full Chorus:—Good Night; Viva and Song of Spring.

Quartetts:—Come Where the Lilies Bloom; Boat Ride.

Duettes:—Over Hill and Dale; Blessed are the People; Come where the Missed are Sleeping; Billy Grimes the Rover; Life's Dream is O'er.

Solos:—White Wings; Cricket on the Hearth; Ah! I Have Sighed Thee to Rest; Bird of the Wild Wood; Ye Merry Birds; Pretty Pond Lillies; Come where the Violets Grow; Merry Mountain Maid; Must I Leave the Old Home, Mother?—by Perry Stephens, O. F. Bang, Everett Hall, Fannie Duncan, Mattie Winston; Matie Riggs and Mrs. Grant. Also the following solos by Joe Reed: Going Home to Clo; Irish Dude; Speak a Kind Word when You Can.

Besides the Solo singers the following will take part in the singing.

Soprano—Miss Gussie Kirkpatrick.

Alto—Misses Annie Winston, Nettie Gardner, Lucy Gaines and Mrs. Hettie Piper.

Tenor—J. W. Crizler and J. E. Botts.

Bass—L. M. Whitehead, Thos. O. Cowen and Georgie Piper.

Recitations:—By Joe Reed, Rankin Revill, Miss Nellie Blythe and the May Queen by 16 children.

Piano Solo—I'll take You Home Kathleen. Organ Solo—Selection from Mendelssohn—Miss Fannie Rice.

Violin Obligato—W. E. Piper.

The Fischer Piano will be used, furnished by D. H. Baldwin. J. W. Parrish, agent.

Doors open at 7:30.

Admission, 25 cents. Children under 12 years old, 15 cents.

Personal Mentions.

Gaines Rice spent Saturday night and Sunday at home,

Mrs. Ida Hall, of Covington, is visiting relatives at this place.

I. C. Stenharter, a Covington wool dealer, was in town Monday.

Ed Chaplin and Attorney Collins, of Covington attended county court.

Alonzo Graves, the Covington Pike street hardware merchant, was in town Monday.

W. L. Scott and wife, of Covington, were visiting friends in Burlington last Monday.

John Kirkpatrick is the proprietor of a brand new 14 pound boy, about a week old.

Mrs. H. J. Casey, of Richmond, Virginia, is visiting her parents at Bullittsville.

Mrs. B. L. Gaines, of Carrollton is visiting her relatives and many friends in this part of the county.

Simeon Terrill and family, of the Big Bone neighborhood, were visiting Dr. Grant's Friday night and Saturday.

James M. Riddell, of Williamstown, arrived here Saturday at noon, on a visit to his daughter, and remained until Monday.

Mrs. Laura and Miss Kittie Riddell were called to Riverside, Ohio, one day last week by a telegram announcing the dying condition of Horace Zinns.

A Visit to the Frankfort Penitentiary.

Last Thursday morning Judge Dills, Thos. O. Cowen and the writer, accompanied by Sheriff Clutterbuck who was conveying John Drinkard and James Woods, col'd, to the penitentiary the former under a 20 years sentence for murder and the latter 2 years for house-breaking, left Burlington at 7:30 a. m., on the Conrad line for Erlanger, where we boarded the south bound train on the Southern road, and after about an hour's ride the hills of old Boone were soon lost to view, and Grant county was reached, through which we passed into the famous blue-grass section of Kentucky, noted for its fast horses and pretty women. At Donerail, a little station above Georgetown, we saw Isham and Dan Hamilton, formerly of Boone, who have a nice little store at that place.

The depot at Lexington was reached about 11:30, when we took a street car and were soon landed at the Ashland House. After the inner man had been refreshed it was about time for us to continue our journey for the Capitol of Kentucky, which place was reached about 2 o'clock, when our prisoners were soon incarcerated in the penitentiary. Being relieved of our prisoners, we were shown through that institution, of which we have heard and read so much, by one of the guards. The place we expected to find so dirty and filthy, was a great surprise to us. The majority of the convicts were sitting around, doing nothing, the cells and bunks were so clean and white they looked as though they were new and had never been occupied. The lessees of the penitentiary deserve praise for the manner in which it is kept.

After viewing the sights of the great Pen. and bidding Drinkard and the colored boy good-bye, we repaired to the Auditor's office where we met quite a number of the State officials.

When the Sheriff had finished his business with the Auditor, we visited Capt. L. C. Norman's office, who greeted us with a hearty welcome, and after a short chat, Mr. N. accompanied us to the Legislative Hall, where the great solons of the country were grinding out laws for this grand Old Commonwealth. We spent about an hour at this place, where everything seemed to be in a buzz and uproar, the Speaker, Mr. Jackson, having his hands full trying to preserve order. Our representative Hon. Reuben Conner, discovering our presence, came over to where we were and chatted sometime about how the Legislature was killing time, and said the way they were now going on, that body would not be likely to adjourn before the middle of June, although he was about worn out and ready to come home and had been for the last month. While here, Senator McDannell joined us and gave us an introduction to Attorney General Hardin, whom we found a very pleasant gentleman. The Senator then invited us to his room at the Capitol Hotel, where he passed around his box of Havannas which we enjoyed, of course.

As the time to start home was drawing nigh we strolled toward the depot where we again met with Hon. Reuben Conner and Capt. Norman, who introduced us to quite a number of distinguished gentlemen (just now we had almost forgotten who we were, and from whence we came, but, recognizing our friends, Clutterbuck and Cowen we were set right,) among whom were Basil Duke, Senator Al Berry, Judge Bowman, Judge Phil Thompson and quite a number of others whose names our memory fails to call. Bidding these gentlemen farewell we were soon again seated behind the iron horse and on our way back to Lexington, and the great Capitol was soon out of sight. About an hour's ride landed us in Lexington, where we registered at the Hotel for the night. This city is a much larger place than we had any idea, and the majority of its citizens seemed as though they had been colored.

Having seen so much and met so many big men, our nights rest was very short and not very pleasant. We breakfasted about 6 o'clock, and after taking a farewell look at the city and viewing Clay's monument, we were soon homeward bound. After doing the Queen City we reached home about 7 p. m., Friday evening.

Taken all in all, it was a most enjoyable trip, and one that will never be forgotten, and to our genial Sheriff, we desire to tender our heartfelt thanks for the courteous manner in which he treated us, and we promise never to say anything to the boys about those "Mushyroons." Now, keep away from them.

The Williamstown Tragedy.

Williamstown, county seat of Grant county, was the scene of a tragedy last Thursday, in which one man lost his life and another seriously if not fatally wounded. It was a triangular affair, taking place in the Circuit Clerk's office in the presence of Jas. T. Willis, present Circuit Clerk, and Clay Conrad, a deputy sheriff and the democratic nominee for Circuit Clerk. The particulars are about these: A gentleman by the name of Holbrook had a judgment against one of his countymen named Wainscott and on which he had an execution issued. Wilson, who is a nephew of Mrs. R. E. Bruce, of this place, was appointed deputy constable to collect the execution. Monday he went to the residence of Wainscott to levy the execution on a horse, when he was met by Wainscott armed with a double barreled shot-gun. Wilson, seeing that a fight was iminent did not levy on the horse at that time, but, in a day or two, having summoned a posse, he returned to make the levy, when they were met by a nephew of Wainscott, armed with a revolver. One of the posse leveled his pistol on the young man, who was soon disarmed, after which the officer took charge of the horse and the parties departed. Thursday Wainscott went to Williamstown to replevy the horse and going to the Circuit Clerks office, he met Willis, Conrad, Wilson and Holbrook. He remarked that he wanted to replevy his horse that had been levied on, when the deputy constable responded: "You will have to give a d—d good bond if you do." This last remark seems to have precipitated the trouble, Willis and Conrad taking in the situation at once and grabbing Wilson and Wainscott who were the first to make hostile demonstrations, the latter with a knife at first and the former with a pistol, his pistol hand being grabbed by Willis who so controled it as to render harmless the three shots he fired. Willis saw Holbrook approaching Conrad and Wainscott from their rear, with a pistol in hand, when he directed Conrad's attention to him, when he released his hold on Wainscott and grabbed Holbrook. By this time Wainscott had drawn his pistol, and placing it under Conrad's arm, discharged it, the ball taking effect and making an ugly wound in Holbrook's side. By this time the shooting became so promiscuous, and seeing that they could not quell the affray, Willis and Conrad retired to a more congenial place than the Clerk's office was just then. The firing ceased after 10 rounds, and those who had collected in the vicinity of the battle ventured in the office, where they found Wainscott dying, having been shot in the small of the back, the thumb on the right hand nearly shot off, the bone in his right arm between the elbow and shoulder badly shattered, and a bullet hole in his throat. He was carried into the Court-house yard and laid upon the grass and lived but a short time. Holbrook's only wound was that mentioned above, and though in a very dangerous locality, at last accounts he was getting along very well. The only marks of battle that Wilson bore was a powder burn on one hand.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

GUNPOWDER.

Born April 27 to George Barlow and wife, a boy.

Barnett Utz sold his lambs to Alf Gaines at $4 25.

The stock needs the grass which is growing so nicely since the rain,

The past week the farmers have been very busy planting corn.

Alf Gaines has bought W. H. Barlow's lambs at $4 25 per head. Noah Barlow and son sold their lambs to Tim westbay at same figures.

Aunt Ellen Rouse, our oldest inhabitant is 86, and is able to visit among her children and grand-children who are always glad to see her.

RABBIT HASH.

Mrs. Mary Carlton has been very poorly for several days.

Gardening has been resumed since the high water receded.

Aunt Betsy Holmes and daughter are very sick at this writing.

Smith Riggs and wife are visiting his father-in-law's at Milton, Indiana.

Joe Riggs was down from the city, Saturday. He will not get through with his job before fall.

The commencement of the Rising Sun high school was well attended by the Hashers. Carlton Nelson was one of the graduates. He will now turn his attention to the law.

HEBRON.

Milton Gaines is able to ride out.

Farmers are under full headway planting corn.

Preaching at this place Sunday evening at 7 o'clock.

The bridges on the North Bend road are in bad a condition.

A large number of sheep will lose their fleeces this week.

Cut worms by the million are standing ready to devour the corn crop.

John Henderson has shipped his tools to Ludlow, where he will work at his trade.

Aaron Carter left his family one day last week and no one knows where he has gone.

A large crop of irish potatoes planted—An average crop of corn will be planted in this section—A fine prospect for a good oats crop.

OPIUM and WHISKY HABITS cured at home without pain. BOOK of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.

SPRING STOCK!

I have Just received a Large and well Selected Stock of Spring Goods, consisting of All the Latest

Styles of Dress Goods

SUCH AS

Lawns,
Basties,
Chambrays,
Crinkled Seersuckers,
Normandie Ginghams,
Persian Suitings,

AND A FULL LINE OF FANCY PRINTS.

The Latest Syles in White Dress Goods

Stamped and Plain Scrims. I have the Largest and most Beautiful Assortment of the Latest Parisian Styles of

STRAW HATS AND BONNETS

Ever offered to the people of this Community.

COARSE SHOES & FINE SHOES.

My stock in this line is complete, consisting of Men's and Boys' Plow Shoes, Ladies, Misses' and Children's fine Lace and Button Shoes. Come in and see for yourself, I am more than glad to show my GOODS whether you wish to purchase or not. Very Truly Yours,

DUDLEY ROUSE, Burlington, Ky.

CLORE'S SONS,

Manufacturers of Agricultural Implements,

SUCH AS

Steel Turning & Side Hill Plows

Road Plows, Double Shovels, Single Shovlse, Bar Shovel Gophers, Harrows, Jumping Shovels and Rolling Colters.

RISING SUN, - - IND.

☞Send for Illustrated Price List. 13-3m

Exposition Medal Awarded for 1884.

$5.00 and Upwards

For a Beautiful Single Set of Teeth. Extracting without pain included.

DR. DeJOHNS.

In attendance at the office. Gold fillings $1 and upwards. Amalgon 50c. Gas and Spray used. All work warranted.

Will be in Burlington the first Monday in each month, County Court.

J. C. ALLEN, 327 Vine Str., Cor. 9th, Cincinnati, Ohio.

FOR SALE.

My farm of 250 acres one mile from Richwood Station, near the Cin. Southern Railroad. This farm has 50 acres of timber and is all strong land, and under good fence, has three never failing ponds, good stable and a large tobacco barn. The improvements consist of a two story frame dwelling of 8 rooms, in first-class order, and all necessary out buildings. These premises front on the Hamilton & Richwood pike which intersects the Richwood & Beaver pike, also on the premises. Taking into consideration the quality of improvements and land and convenience of pikes and railroads, schools and neighborhood, there is not a more desirable farm in Kentucky. Will sell on reasonable terms, ⅓ cash and the balance on time, or will trade for desirable city property. For particulars address

L. B. Stephens, Richwood, Ky.
Or H. P. Stephens, Burlington, Ky.

INSURE AT HOME

The Farmers' Mutual Fire

INSURANCE COMPANY

Of Boone County

Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.

Its Rates are Lower

Than those of any other Company, and it gives the farmers of Boone County a

HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE

In keeping their property insured.

EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY

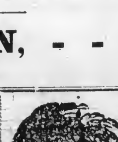
should take a policy at once.

J. A. Gaines, President, Burlington, Ky.
J. H. Walton, Secretary, Constance, Ky.
R. Randall, Treasurer.

DIRECTORS.

Leoran Gaines, B. L. Rice.
Jno. Stephens.
Oscar Gaines, Agent.
R. S. Cowen, Assessor

Subscribe for the Recorder.



AURORA MARBLE AND GRANITE WORKS, Aurora, Ind

Will have constantly on hand

Marble and Granite Monuments, Italian & American Headstones, &c.

I am ready to do all kinds of Stone Work on short notice and at low prices Hoping to receive the patronage of Boone County, I am respectfully,

F. W. KASSEBAUM.

IMMUNITY from ANNOYANCE

Made only of the finest and best quality of Glass for withstanding heat.

Every good thing is Counterfeited, and consumers are CAUTIONED against IMITATIONS of these Chimneys made of VERY POOR GLASS. See that the exact label is on each chimney as above. The Pearl Top is always clear and bright Glass.

Manufactured ONLY by

GEO. A. MACBETH & CO.

Pittsburgh Lead Glass Works.

FOR SALE BY DEALERS.

City Flouring Mills,

—RISING SUN, INDIANA.—

FLOUR EXCHANGED FOR WHEAT OR CASH. THE HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR GOOD WHEAT.

J. W. TALBOTT.

OHIO STEAM DENTAL CO.

ESTABLISHED 18—

47 WEST SEVENTH STREET, CINCINNATI, O.

TEETH EXTRACTED WITHOUT PAIN by using Fresh Nitrous Oxide Gas.

ARTIFICIAL TEETH made of the best quality and workmanship finish, with guaranteed fit.

OPERATIVE DEPARTMENT handsomely finished and well lighted—the principal having had a life-long experience in the treatment and filling of the natural teeth.

L. ROBERTSON, D.D.S., Principal.

Office and Residence, 47 W. 7th St., two blocks north of Fountain Square, (formerly 7th Walnut and 6th & Vine). Office open at all hours.

FRYE'S COMBINATION

FARM, GARDEN & ORNAMENTAL FENCE

It combines the advantages of every fence, and is free from any objections. Our combination fence is composed of five two-strand cables of the best ancaled bessemer steel wire firmly interwoven with pickets at a uniform distance of 2 to 5 inches apart, and the diagonal supporting wire which is interwoven as represented, enables us to hold each and every picket up off the ground with perfect ease, keeping them even on top and the entire fence always in the open air, making the lower ends of the pickets just durable as the upper ends. Sagging is utterly impossible, as we have a direct vertibal tensil strength of 1700 lbs, to each pannel which alone is three times as strong as an ordinary pine board fence. Our five cables, which gives a combined strength of more than fifteen times that of a pine board 1x6, all interwoven in such a manner with the pickets that one wire cannot be broken without breaking 11. Thus giving us a fence 18 times stronger than a barb wire. The pickets are oak of first quality, and soaked in hot Alkalies, making them last many years. The pickets are supported every 10½ inches by the cables so that breakage is impossible, giving us a fence that will turn all kinds of stock, from the smallest pig to the meanest mule, without endangering the life of any. It is a portable fence, can be removed by drawing the staples and the fence rolled up and removed without the slightest injury. It is dog proof, keeps sheep in and dogs out. It will protect your orchards from the ravages of rabbits, and your gardens from chickens. It is endorsed by over 200,000 of our farmers, as filling every claim we make for it. No farmer can afford to do without this fence that has means to buy it. Any party wishing fence or any information in regard to this fence will address.

T. H. SUTTON, Grant, Boone county, Ky.

N. B.—This fence can be sold and delivered at any landing on the river in Boone county, at the following reduced prices: Pickets 5 in. a part 55c 4½ in. apart 60c; 4 in. apart 65c, 3½ in. a part 70c; 3 in. a part 75c; 2½ in apart 80c; 2 in. a part 85c. We have strechers expressly for our fence which we will furnish to any parties ordering fifty rods or more, and will furnish one hand to assist in putting it up, after the posts have been set.

JAMES S. WAYNE, President. JNO. L. SANDFORD, Cashier

CAPITAL $300,000.

FARMERS AND TRADERS

NATIONAL BANK.

Covington, Kentucky.

DIRECTORS.

James S. Wayne, M. C. Moteb, Sam Hind, E. J. Hickey, E. J. Green
J. S. Matson; J. H. Mersman, J. L. Sandford, L. H. Dills, F. P. Helm
L. C. Stephens.

The general operations of banking transacted upon the most favorable term Collections made on all points in the United States.

The Business and Accounts of Farmers are Especially Solicited by this Bank.
dec. 20-6m

COME AND SEE FOR YOURSELF.

—(o)— We've got them from the lowest price to the finest. —(o)—

None disappointed or dissatisfied in five years business. We keep constantly on hand all sizes of

Burial Cases, Caskets and Robes,

ALSO A SPLENDID

HEARSE AND TEAM.

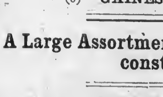
You can always come to us with the assurance of getting what you want in this line. We guarantee our prices 20 per cent. less than city prices. J. W. Davis has charge of this business at Hebron, and T. W. Finch is our agent at Burlington.

J. J. RUCKER & CO, Hebron, Ky.

BUGGIES! BUGGIES!!

Pfalzgraf & Wingate,

DEALERS IN



Carriages, Buggies

AND

Spring Wagons.

—(o)— GAINESVILLE, KENTUCKY. —(o)—

A Large Assortment of Buggies and Carriages constantly on hand.

ANY STYLE TO ORDER ON

SHORT NOTICE

We call the attention of the People of Boone County to our stock on hand, made in the latest styles and of the best material. All work warranted to give satisfaction. Special attention given to

REPAIRING WITH NEATNESS & DISPATCH,

☞At the Lowest possible prices.☜

Old work taken in exchange for new

Pfalzgraf & Wingate,

GAINSVILLE, KENTUCKY.

TAKE THE COUNTY PAPER.

THE RECORDER.

RIDDELL & HALL, Publishers.

BURLINGTON, : : KENTUCKY

THE KINGDOM OF LOVE.

In the dawn of the day, when the sea and the earth
Reflect the sunrise above,
I set forth with a heart full of courage and mirth
To seek for the Kingdom of Love.
I asked of a poet I met on the way
Which cross road would lead me aright,
And he said: "Follow me, and ere long you will see
Its glittering turrets of light."

And soon in the distance a city shown fair:
"Look yonder," he said, "there it gleams!"
But alas! for the hopes that were doomed to despair,
It was only the Kingdom of Dreams.
Then the next man I asked was a gay cavalier,
And he said: "Follow me, follow me,"
And with laughter and song we went speeding along
By the shores of life's beautiful sea.

Till we came to a valley more tropical far
Than the wonderful Vale of Cashmere,
And I saw from a bower a face like a flower
Smile out on the gay cavalier,
And he said: "We have come to humanity's goal—
Here love and delight are intense."
But alas! and alas! for the hope of my soul—
It was only the Kingdom of Sense.

As I journeyed more slowly I met on the road
A coach with retainers behind,
And they said: "Follow us, for our lady's abode Belongs in the realm you will find."
'Twas a grand dame of fashion, a newly-wed bride,
I followed, encouraged and bold;
But my hopes died away, like the last gleams of day,
For we came to the Kingdom of Gold.

At a door of a cottage I asked a fair maid,
"I have heard of that realm," she replied,
"But my feet never roam from the Kingdom of Home,
So I know not the way," and she sighed.
I looked on the cottage — how restful it seemed!
And the maid was as fair as a dove,
Great light glorified my soul as I cried:
"Why, home is the Kingdom of Love!"
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

AN AMERICAN KING.

The Empire of Chilili and "Henry the First."

Romance Surrounding His Realm in New Mexico—A Clergyman Interviews him Slavery, an "Institution"—Two Miners Penetrate the Kingdom.

[Original.]

How little we really know of our own vast country, though we think we understand its history and geography thoroughly. The man or woman residing in the New England States may by a few weeks' travel visit every important city or pleasure resort, but he has only become acquainted with a very small portion of that scope of country known as the United States and Territories. A single Territory in the vast West is as large as all New England. One may be thought insane to assert that we have within the limits of the United States a living Emperor and a real Empire, which in area at least is considerable, but such is the fact. This Empire, like many of the enchanted cities of the "Arabian Nights," is known to but few. Newspaper men have not invaded the fair domain of this monarch, and he lives in peaceful security and royal dignity, swaying the scepter with an iron will. The Emperor's word is law, and his is as absolute a monarch as can be found in the most despotic countries of the earth. He makes his own laws, is the Chief Executive and judiciary of the realm. Such is the "Emperor of Chilili." Way out on the Southwest, where the sun blazes on the white sand dunes as far as the eye can see, where the air quivers with heat, is the Empire of Chilili. One may travel hundreds of miles over the desert and alkali lands without seeing a human habitation save the rude adobe huts and pueblos of two ancient and dying races.

Chilili is a certain tract of land comprising some sixty thousand acres in the southeastern portion of the Territory of New Mexico. It is isolated and remote from all lines of travel. About forty thousand acres of it is timber and eight or ten thousand arable land, and the remainder is desert, like the desert which stretches for a hundred miles around it. It is so distant, so difficult of access, that it seldom has a visitor. Occasionally a lost vaquero or hunter may stray thither, but those visits are rare, and the population rarely leave it. It is a vast oasis where men can live, and perhaps be happy, and grow old and die without ever having stepped their feet on the great world beyond. There are many human beings living in this strange empire who know little or nothing of the outside world. The scope of land is an ancient Spanish grant and was purchased nearly forty years ago by a man named Henry. It was then fully fifteen hundred miles from the outposts of civilization. Henry owns it still, and no man disputes his title. He is its Emperor and acknowledges no other name than Henry. Every human being who lives there addresses him as "your Majesty" and pays him tribute, and knows no law but his will.

It is only recently that this Empire of Chilili has become a fixed certainty. For years rumors of it have been whispered about over the plain of a small nation of people under a king, living within the limits of the United States, but it has been regarded as a myth. Fifteen years ago a Western speculator named Michael Hogarth, having heard some stories of the empire which in richness in minerals and wealth and beauty equaled an El Dorado, set out to find it with six men and four pack mules. Hogarth and his little band have never been heard from since, and whether they perished on the desert, were murdered by the Indians, or still exist in a state of slavery to the cruel Henry, is not known and probably never will be. But of late the existence and locality of the empire are fixed facts. Rev. A. J. Palmer, in a letter recently published in the Christian Advocate, New York, states that he met this man Henry, the Emperor of Chilili, on the train between Santa Fe and Lamy. The Emperor had ventured to leave his domain for a few days to visit the Tertio-Millenial Exposition which then was in progress at Santa Fe, in celebration of the three hundred and thirty-third anniversary of the founding of that ancient Aztec city. Mr. Palmer was introduced to His Majesty, whom he found half drunk and quite talkative. He describes him as a "little wizen-faced old man of perhaps seventy, with cheeks sunburned brown by exposure to southern suns, but with keen blue eyes, and very short stature, not more than five feet three inches in height." The minister concludes his description by saying he was "by no means a fool." So many others have met him and given accounts of his country that there is abundant testimony as to the existence of an Empire in our midst.

He is described by all as a man of marked intelligence and speaks the English language and is doubtless an Englishman. At times he is very frank, but always profane. He will not go back in his history further than the purchase of the old Spanish grant, this oasis of 60,000 acres. The population, which is about twelve or fifteen hundred, were originally half-breed Mexicans, and Indian peons who know not that they are free from bondage, and never will if he can prevent it. He says they know nothing of the rightful President and ruler of the land. He has confessed that they pay him tribute and live in perfect obedience to his will. He says his rule is a blessing to them and they would die for him.

Rev. Mr. Palmer asked the Emperor if his subjects did not sometimes meet with human beings somewhere on the desert and learn the fact that they were really slaves no longer. He answered: "Well, yes, it is getting so now that once in a while a young buck does get it into his head."

"Is there not danger that he will sow dissension in your realm. (He insisted on being addressed in language that acknowledged his pretentions, like the above.)

"Not much;" he answered, "because I exile him."

"My knowledge of the old Mexican law of peon slavery being very limited," Rev. Mr. Palmer continues, "I asked him to explain it, which he did, about as follows:

"Well, you understand, peon slavery was a sort of servitude in which the creditor held the debtor. For instance, if A sold B a bag of flour, B was A's peon until he had paid for it, he had canceled his debt, but the slavery generally became perpetual, for the reason that the creditor paid the debtor such poor wages that before his debt was paid he was compelled to buy more flour, and in a little while the debt became so great that B's slavery was practically life-long."

Many strange stories have been told of the King of the desert and his domain, which has been variously described. Some report it as an eldorado; that there are the purest crystal waters, the greenest hills and plains, the richest soil and densest forests. That gold and silver mines abound there, and all is wealth, ease and luxury; that the royal palace of Emperor Henry is inlaid with gold, that his throne is of solid gold, and that he has a trained retinue of servants or court train, all costly attired; that he has a standing army about the palace of several hundred men, and that it is a domain one would be willing to enter, never to leave again. It is reported as so healthy that old become young, and death is seldom known. All this fairy story stuff is, of course, ridiculously absurd, but it is the natural outgrowth of man's active imagination. The tendency to exaggerate is strong in the American mind, and it so much more pleasant to believe the romantic than the common-place theory, that people sometimes grow over credulous. The plain, practical mind at once rejects the idea as ridiculous and untrue.

A more practical and perhaps correct version of affairs at Chilili, and a more complete description of customs and manners of the people, is given by two prospectors, George S. Smith and William Aiken. They set out early in the year 1882, according to their own statement to explore some mining lands lying between New Mexico and Arizona. They had two hardy mustangs and four pack mules. The miners and travelers invariably avoid the desert when they can. Our two friends would not have approached it had it been possible to have kept away, but on the third day of their journey they were chased by a party of Indians, supposed to be hostile Apaches, whose real object, doubtless, was to steal their mules. They were forced to go out upon the great sandy plains. The white sand dunes rose up on all sides, the mules lagged behind, and the Indians pressed up so close upon them that they were forced to abandon the mules, retaining only saddle-horses. They traveled all day and the first half of the night. It was not until both man and beast were almost completely exhausted that they halted in the desert and lay down. A strong breeze blew all the latter part of the night, and at times the sand swept over them like pelting rain. When morning came there was no sign of their pursuers, and to their horror they soon found they had lost their way. The tracks made the day before by their horses had been obliterated, the wind filling them up with sand. The sun rose and the heat soon grew intense. The travelers wore blue goggles, or they would surely have been blinded by the fierce rays of the sun beating upon the white sand. The sufferings of these men were beyond description. They had two canteens of water with them, and, consumed with a raging thirst, drank it all before noon. Their horses were so slow that they could scarcely force them along at even four miles an hour. All day long they traveled and at night were out of heart. Not a sign of tree or shrub was in sight. The cruel mirage had disappointed and misled them two or three times during the day. They were suffering from the fearful pangs of hunger and thirst, such as can only be experienced on the desert.

How far they had traveled, or where they were, they had no means of knowing. The sun was their only guide. Their judgment told them they must cross the desert, as it would be certain death from the savages to return. They were almost crazy with suffering, but managed to sleep a little that night. The next morning they were early astir. At ten o'clock one of their horses gave out and was left to die. With the other they continued their journey. At noon something like hills and woods were in sight. They at first feared it was only a deceiving mirage, but it did not recede or disappear at their approach. It seemed to be a reality, and it was. They were in the land of Chilili, and met dark-faced men and women who spoke both the English and Spanish language with a dialect peculiar to themselves. They were taken to a stream of clear, cool water where their thirst was slaked, and then for hours they lay under the spreading branches of a palmetto, the delightful breeze from an orange grove fanning their cheeks, and bearing the sweetest odors they had ever known.

The soft tones of maidens in the mellow Spanish language seemed soothing to the sufferers, and they could half believe themselves in the land of fairies and enchantment. Had they been permitted to eat as much of the fruits, bread and roasted meat, as they desired, doubtless both would have died, but a prudent old man who was doubtless a doctor of the realm, forbid their eating more than just enough to aggravate their cravings. They were conveyed to houses of some kind and put on beds. The long fast and journey through the sun without water had brought on nervous fever. Their brains were reeling, even as they were conducted through the streets of the small hamlet. The distant mountains seemed wobbling, the houses turning topsy-turvy, "greasers" grinning and rolling apparently in every direction, while the senoritas seemed to go sideways or on their heads, waltzing along the narrow streets in most unnatural attitudes. The old Mexican doctor felt their pulse, temples and feet and made his professional diagnosis:

"Caraja; Tres dies y noches en carroza Mal de cabeza y desarre glio de los nervos." He began administering strange drugs which soon produced a refreshing sleep. They awoke after several hours very much refreshed, and after eating a sparing meal were all right, except very weak. The people regaled them with strange, curious stories. There were some almost white, but the majority were mixed with the Indian—what is commonly known as greasers. Though nearly all spoke the Mexican language, the better class also spoke English quite fluently. The majority were miserably ignorant, but a few were quite intelligent. In answer to inquiries as to where they were, they were informed in Chilili. To them Chilili was Greek, until they heard the name of the Emperor Henry mentioned. They had heard the floating rumors of this absolute monarchy in the heart of the desert, but this was the first time they had believed in its existence. Here it was—a strange nation, a new world, an unexplored region to outsiders, and yet something like civilization. As they walked out upon the streets they beheld houses of adobe, wood and stone. They were built chiefly on the Mexican plan, but one was evidently English architecture of what is called the Queen Elizabethan period. They saw several carts, one or two wagons and an old carriage, which they were informed belonged to the Emperor. This house, they were informed, was His Majesty's residence. The palace, a large building of stone, with some pretensions to elegance, stood upon an eminence at the end of a village. It was surrounded by a stone wall about eight feet high, and with a gate entering at the front and one at each side. Half a dozen soldiers, in a uniform which was a mixture of Mexican, English and of the United States, sat in front of each gate. They were an ignorant-looking set of knaves, and, in fact, a well-drilled company of United States infantry could put the entire army of the Emperor to flight. Four or five old rusty pieces of artillery lay in niches made for them in the wall about the palace. The Emperor had taken the utmost caution for his own safety.

As the two Americans were walking about the village, a dark-skinned officer, with a heavy saber dangling at his side and a brace of pistols sticking in his belt, came to the front and, saluting them, said in very good English:

"His Excellency, the Emperor, has sent for you to come to his palace."

The prospectors could only assent, and yet, with their hearts fluttering in their bosoms, they hesitated. There was nothing better than to comply with the request. If rumors were true concerning this petty tyrant of the desert, he was subject to fits of cruelty. He might be incensed at this invasion of his country, as he might term it, and have them put to death, imprison them, or worse, condemn them to slavery. They were satisfied that they might pass a life time in slavery in this strange land with no hope of ever being rescued. They expressed their willingness to meet his Majesty, and were conducted by the officer toward the great front entrance. The soldiers, six in number, rose at their approach and stood at a "present arms," until the officer and two Americans had passed within.

They found a spacious lawn, very beautiful, with paths of white pebbles leading through it. There were ornamental trees of almost every variety—the palm and cedar, the paradise tree, the pine and fig tree. Rare exotics bloomed on every hand Two fountains were playing on each side of the main path leading to the front door of the palace. About one hundred soldiers, mostly peons, were lounging about the front premises or sleeping under the great walls. This, they learned, was almost half the army of the Emperor.

They entered the front door, which was a massive affair, with a great portcullis in front, and they were in a spacious hall. There were a great many doors on either side of them. A chandelier was in the hall to light it at night. Ascending a flight of stairs, they entered a large chamber somewhat rudely constructed and yet with some degree of elegance. Its walls were tapestried with cloth made of the hair of wild animals and feathers of birds ingeniously woven by Indian women. Seated upon a sort of throne, but made of wood instead of gold, though ornamented with gay plumage, furs and tapestries, was the Emperor of Chilili. The old man's brow was clouded, and he, beyond a doubt, was in no enviable mood. He glared a moment at them with his little pale blue eyes, and demanded:

"Who are you?"

George Smith, being the coolest of the two, answered they were American prospectors.

"What are you doing here?" was the next query.

"We were going to the mines in Lower Arizona when we were attacked by a band of Indians. They stole our mules and chased us so far out on the desert that we lost our way and have wandered here. We were almost dead with thirst and burning with fever, when we came. Your people have been very kind to us, your Majesty."

The term "your Majesty," was like pouring oil on troubled waters. The petty tyrant, under the subtle flattery of the shrewd prospector became somewhat affable. They remained standing, not daring to seat themselves in a monarch's presence, and the Emperor proceeded to interrogate them fully as to their intentions and as to their own country. He was very much interested in the United States, regretted that Garfield had been assassinated, and expressed his gratification that the rascally Giteau had been hung.

"It's the only way to serve such rascals," he declared. "I believe we rulers of the nation can not be too severe in punishing them. A rascally peon attacked me once with a hoe because I had the villain whipped. I had him tied and shot him myself. Then I had his body hung for three weeks to a tree as a warning to the others. It has been a lesson to the rascals."

The Americans were dismissed and told to come again the next day. The Emperor seemed very sociable on this occasion and talked very much, displaying a remarkable degree of intelligence. Smith asked him if he had ever engaged in war with any country. He answered three times. Twice with Indians and once with Mexicans. That each time he had been successful, and prided himself very much on his military skill. He said that during one war his realm had been invaded by an army of hostile savages. His skillful artillerists kept them away from the palace, but they destroyed a part of the town and some fields for him. "I then marched at the head of my infantry and cavalry at night," he said, "and attacked them as soon as it was daylight. We fought them for an hour and put them to flight, when we charged on them and cut down many before they escaped to the desert. The next day we buried a hundred and thirty-nine of the enemy."

"How many wounded and prisoners did you take?" Smith asked.

"None."

This short answer showed the prospectors the true character of the man. If ever they saw a shrewd, bold, cruel wretch, he was one, and though they left him in a very good humor, they were still uneasy and knew nothing as to what their fate would be. Smith, possessing a great deal of curiosity, asked the officer if the Emperor had any family and whether there would be a son to inherit the throne. The officer, fixing his great black eyes on him, said it would be best for him to ask no questions on that subject, and they never knew whether the Emperor Henry had one wife or twenty. A week passed and they saw no more of the Emperor. One day his carriage rolled down the street, and, very anxious to get away from Chilili, Smith was approaching it when an attendant seized him by the shoulder and hurling him back, said something in the Mexican tongue which he could not understand. The Americans were alarmed. Their arms had been taken from them on their arrival, and they were utterly defenceless. They sought the next day to gain an audience with the Emperor, but were refused. He seemed for a month to ignore them, and they began to fear they would either become slaves or be put to death.

One night a small squad of soldiers came to them and led them away to the extreme western boundry of their country They were mounted on two hardy mustangs like their guard. At dawn they came to the desert, which they at once proceeded to cross. It was fully a day's ride. Their guard was silent and morose, and scarcely a word was spoken. At night they came to an end of the desert. There were signs of vegetation, trees, streams of water and green grass for their horses. Here they encamped and remained all night. At early dawn the officer in command gave them their rifles and revolvers, and told them to keep down the stream a day or two and they would come to a camp of American miners. Then they all mounted their horses and galloped away, and in two hours had disappeared on the great desert. Smith and Aiken have never been inclined to another visit to the American Emperor.

Whether this story and the many stories told of this Empire are true or not, it is an undoubted fact that Henry, the "Emperor of Chilili," rules his realm to-day within the territory of the United States, twenty years after the emancipation proclamation.—John R. Musick.

FORCE-FEEDING.

A Very Comprehensive Subject and Its Various Degrees.

From the initial improvement upon nature by means of generous feeding, to the topmost height of forcing, the practice of the stock-keepers comes within its range. We often hear, nevertheless, just as if the subject lay in a nut-shell, either indiscriminate disapproval, or not less undiscerning defense, of "the system of high feeding."

To this system, in some of its degrees, we owe much of that alteration from the natural state by which animals became adapted to the use of man in various ways. As man, by his systems of culture, makes two blades of grass grow where one blade grew before, so by his systems of stock-keeping, he makes two or ten pounds of beef, or mutton, or wool, grow where one pound grew before, and increases, likewise, the milk-flow of the cow. With these systems, food, liberally allowed, has much to do. The animal's natural power of converting vegetable food into flesh, into milk or into wool is enlarged, and the necessary food supplied in sufficient abundance to satisfy the increased power of conversion: otherwise we should have no improved breeds.

A great deal of learned nonsense has been uttered from time to time about the destruction of vital power being effected by the work of improvement, until the argument, followed to its logical consequence, has reached the question whether all so-called improvers of stock are not really receding from the best instead of advancing to better conditions. To this, of course, common sense returns a prompt and decided negative. There is, however, for this side of the question a certain amount of support in truth. High feeding, in its minor degrees, does not destroy, it only directs, the vital powers. For the original conditions of life, from which its ancestors were reclaimed, the animal improved by high feeding is totally unsuited. As regards them, its "degeneracy" must be admitted; but as regards the condition of what we term, and rightly term, improvement, its adaptation to those conditions is effected. Its vital powers are conquered and held under control to the task of acting healthfully under them. The extreme of high feeding, upon the other hand, especially when it is extended over many consecutive generations, is unquestionably ruinous to the constitution of breeding stock. It founds and establishes hereditary obesity, which is a disease, and a companion of other diseases. For special purposes it has been considered a necessity. In the preparation of fat stock for exhibition, high pressure to develop the animal to its utmost capability, and within the shortest possible time, is allowed to be fair feeding, and as fat stock are for slaughter, and not for breeding, the forcing can do no harm to future generations. In animals competing as breeding stock, over-feeding may be an evil. It is true enough that if we search the annals of the show yard in in countries where breeding stock have been subjected to the highest forcing, we shall often find generation after generation of prize-winners in one family, winners producing or begetting winners. But what does this mean? It means certainly that high force feeding does not necessarily extinguish a family within two or three generations; and it means further, that such offspring of a highly forced family as do come into the world, and remain in it long enough, may develop the characteristics of their parents. It does not mean that the animals thus winning are the most suitable for the ranch, the farm or the consumer's table; that they are free from constitutional taint or weakness; nor that they are as prolific as may be desirable for usefulness and profit in the common lines of stock-keeping. If a fat cow, for example, luxuriously fed and bedded, breeds regularly, the fact does not assure us that if turned out to find her living, she would continue to do the same, nor that the daughters of her sons will all take kindly to life of activity on grass. To the men of ordinary business remains the question, whether, for improvement of their herds and flocks, they will prefer males from pampered parents, from parents whose stunted and poverty-stricken frames illustrate "natural" treatment, or from parents managed upon the principle of general assistance, not high pressure.—National Live-Stock Journal.

LARGE YIELDS.

A Few Words Regarding the Productive Capacity of the Soil.

Before estimating upon the prospective yield of a location some consideration must be given that which the crops will take from the soil and the amount of fertilizing material necessary for securing the results desired. There are sections in which two, and even three, crops may be grown in one year upon the same soil, nor is it a difficult matter to grow two crops in nearly all portions of the United States, provided the soil is rendered capable of with-standing the double taxation upon it. We often hear of the exhaustion of the soil. Such a term should become obsolete. True scientific agriculture does not admit of soil exhaustion. Progress is the order of the day, and he who undertakes farming without determining to have each succeeding year witness his soil increase in fertility, no matter what kind of crops are grown, will have something to learn in regard to his calling. In the use of a piece of land we have the advantage of the material upon which to operate. If we take from it we must add to it. It is only the agent for our use, and can only be expected to produce by changing the complexion and character of the substances given it for the purposes desired. Hence, we may grow an early crop of some quickly maturing plants, to be followed by those that may be planted later in the season. And by good cultivation and the systematic use of fertilizing food, there is no limit known as yet regarding the productive capacity of the soil. —Farm, Field and Stockman.

—Edith—Aunt Hannah, there's something I can't understand. You are always talking about Mrs. B. and yet you continue to call on her once or twice a week. Aunt Hannah—Of course, Edith. You wouldn't have me for ever repeating the same things against her, I only call upon her to get fresh evidence of her disagreeableness.—N. Y. Telegram.

HOME AND FARM.

—Boil a heaping half peck of potatoes, mash them, add two quarts of a mixture of bran and shorts, a tablespoonful of salt, hot water enough to mix into a stiff mass, and you have a breakfast for your forty fowls.—Montreal Witness.

—W. C. Steel advises farmers to make a greater use of copper wire. It can be used to easily mend tools. A spool of it carried in the wagon will be of great assistance in case of an accident to a trace or other parts of the wagon or harness.—Troy Times.

—Potato salad is more generally liked than formerly. Boil the potatoes with their jackets, then slice thin, salt, pepper, and either add a dressing or simply salad oil and vinegar. Garnish with parsley, olives and capers.—Toledo Blade.

—Mr. D. M. Lewis mentions as among objections to tin packages, instead of wood, in which to ship butter: "They are not so easily opened, and if not sold at first, always advertise to the next buyer the fact that somebody else has looked at them."—N. Y. Tribune.

—A sloppy wet floor in a hen-house is an abomination and invariably brings on cramp, colds and croup. It may be too late now to raise your floor if it is of that description, but you can put boards in and cover them with litter.—Western Rural.

—Brown Potatoes: Boil and peel some large potatoes; three-quarters of an hour before a piece of roast meat is taken from the oven, skim the fat from the gravy, dredge the potatoes with flour, and put them with the meat; baste often with the gravy and bake till brown.—Cincinnati Times.

—Sanded Cookies: One teacup of butter, one and a half cups of sugar, two eggs well-beaten, four teaspoons of water, a half teaspoon of soda, flour enough to roll them. Brush the tops with partly-beaten egg and sprinkle granulated sugar on them and bake.—The Caterer.

—Fried Bread: Cut the crust from slices of stale bread; dip each in a thin batter made of a cup of milk, two eggs, and a heaping tablespoonful of flour salted slightly, and fry in lard or clarified drippings to a yellow brown. Drain off the fat from each piece as you take it up. Serve hot.—Chicago Tribune.

—The craving for salt in animals is natural, and not a result of the care of man. When this country was wild every salt spring was frequented by deer, a fact that was taken advantage of by the hunters for their capture. Near the ocean less salt is required than further inland, owing to the fact that the atmosphere is in a degree charged with salt, and this is imparted to the growing crops through the dews and rain.—Prairie Farmer.

—Mrs. L. Harrison, in the Indian Farmer, states that honey made from apple blossoms is dark, but fine flavored; that from the raspberry is light, but of a delicate flavor. White clover honey, light, with the comb delicate; that from the linden or basswood is light brown and rich in vegetable oil: golden rod produces thick, golden-colored honey. Each source apparently gives the honey obtained from it some particular characteristic.

LARGE FISH.

A Matter of Interest to Believers in the Sea Serpent's Existence.

I will not insist upon any of the numerous creatures such as manatees, seven foot turtles, gigantic squids and huge swimming lizards, which may have gone sometimes to make up elements in various sea serpents, new or old, but will content myself with a few true fish, quite big enough to add their mite to the general mystification of the ocean. One hundred and forty different kinds of sharks are known to Dr. Gunther, of which the blue shark attains twenty-five feet and the porbeagle ten. But the huge carcharodon, the most formidable of all its family, reaches the length of forty feet; it is strictly pelagic in its habits, and occurs in all tropical and sub-tropical seas. Forty feet is a fair length; but the Challenger dredged up from the deep ooze of the Atlantic the teeth of a still larger shark, at least double that size; and if the owners of those huge fangs are now extinct, they must at any rate have become so within a very recent period. Our own North Atlantic basking shark reaches thirty feet; and the hammerhead also attains an extremely creditable size. Vastest of all, however, is the enormous rhinodon, a gigantic shark-like fish of the Indian ocean and the Pacific, which is known to exceed fifty feet, and is said to have arrived at as much as seventy. The tunnies and sun fishes, though far smaller, may yet some times have helped in forming good sea serpents. A long-nosed whale pursued by threshers has also doubtless done good service more than once in the same fashion.

The final question is just this: In an ocean teeming with so many known animals of huge size, ought we to set down any uncaught specimen as a new species, on a cursory examination, under eminently deceptive and unsatisfactory circumstances? And if we do are we not in all probability more or less directly influenced by surviving memories of the great extinct krakens and fire-breathing dragons? Are we not, in short, trying to make a serpent out of it? Let us rest satisfied with our big cuttlefish and huge whales and monstrous sharks for the present, and whenever any body catches us an enaliosaurian or a zeuglodon or an immense marine snake, let us accept their new addition to zoology with all acclamation. Meanwhile let us urge once more on all theorists, "First catch your sea serpent;" then proceed to classify him.—Cornhill Magazine.

FANCY NECK-WEAR.

Exquisite Tints and Lovely Effects of Fashionable Neck-Dressings.

The daintiest of laces, ribbons and delicately-embroidered fabrics will be brought into requisition for fashionable neck-dressings the coming season. A large portion of the summer's invoice of novelties in dress goods invite the use of simple, beautiful and inexpensive fabrics, but there appears to be no diminution in the demand for elegant accessories with which to adorn these materials. Exquisite tints and very lovely and artistic effects characterize the general display of summer goods, but with these are also brought out a tempting array of garnitures, which of themselves transform the simplest gown into one most charming in effect. Among these are embroidered laces, but wrought upon diaphanous crepe lisse or India silk gauze, as upon net or tulle. The work is executed in silk with seed and round mother-o'-pearl beads introduced. These laces come in all fashionable colors and in black and white. Other importations in lingerie show graceful Spanish and Russian short jackets of flounce lace made up over surah, the edges of the jacket formed of the well-defined scallops of the lace, these opening over plaited or shirred vests of the silk. There are also shown cream-colored sets of Irish point lace, which include gilet cuffs and deep Charles IX. collars, ready for use at a moment's notice, and always dressy and becoming. Also marine collars with scarf ends attached, in beaded nets and in all the fancy white and cream laces, to say nothing of legions of beautiful devices in lace, from the stately Medici fraise to the simple ruche and frills of etamine net.—N. Y. Evening Post.

—The Fuegians are the lowest human beings in the scale of existence. Their language contains no words for any number above three; they are unable to distinguish one color from another; they have no religion and no funeral rites, and they possess neither chiefs nor slaves. Their only weapons are bone-pointed spears, and, as they grow neither fruits nor vegetables, and their country is naturally barren, they are obliged to live entirely on animal food. Even these savages possess, however, some social virtues. They are not cannibals; they ill-treat neither the women nor the old, and they are monogamous. —Chicago Journal.

"Some of the hackmen of this city are a scaly set," grumbled a traveler at the central depot yesterday morning. "My wife and I got in from Chicago late last night, and I asked one of the Jehus outside the depot where we could find a good hotel. 'Try the Continental, it isn't far off. Take you there for a dollar,' said he. I jewed him down to seventy-five cents, and we got in. He drove about ten minutes, turned seventeen corners and finally left us at our inn. Perhaps my dander wasn't up when I found out this morning that the hotel is next to the depot."—Buffalo Courier.

—A Georgia gentleman, who makes a living poisoning rats and tanning dog's hides, advertises for a wife. He frankly describes his charms as consisting principally of a bald head and a cork leg. As he has an income of only from three dollars to five dollars per week, he must be a student of Edward Atkinson's system of domestic economies.

TOOTHACHE, headache and other aches are cured by St. Jacobs Oil. Price, 50 cents.

Prompt to cure and safe to take is Red Star Cough Cure. No poisons, no opiates. Price, twenty-five cents a bottle.

SHOE-DEALER—What size, madam? Madam—I—er—think twos. Shoe-dealer (taking her measure)—Ah, yes, twos. A pair would be two twos, four altogether. To boy —"James, a pair of ladies' French kids, No. 4."—Chicago Mail.

Protecting Their Rights.

Probably no concern in the country has adhered more strictly to the determination to achieve success by the liberal use of printer's ink than has the Brown Chemical Company of Baltimore, Md. Starting business about five years ago, they have expended over $1,500,000 in the preparation and circulation of printed matter, more than half of which has been paid for newspaper advertising. All this has been done to make known the virtues of their celebrated Iron Bitters.

As might be expected, very large sales have resulted from this enormous outlay, making it about as staple in many drug stores as is flour at the corner grocery. Like all good things, it has been largely imitated. They claim there are unscrupulous manufacturers who cater to just this sort of trade, and some dealers so lacking in principle, that because a greater profit can be made on fraudulent than on genuine medicines, are willing to delude the public by pushing off Iron Tonic Bitters and other Tonic Medicines in place of genuine Brown's Iron Bitters. The company, finding these frauds practiced so extensively and all other means inadequate, have at last determined to try a little cold law to put a stop to them. Suits for heavy damages have therefore been commenced against Non-Secret Medicine Manufacturers, for selling Iron Tonic Bitters; and others for selling Brown's Iron Tonic; a druggist in Baltimore, for selling Iron Tonic Bitters with his name upon the label, which medicine was made by Non-Secret Medicine Manufacturers, and also claimed as an imitation. The Brown Chemical Company deserve success in these suits, as it is high time those who have built up large enterprises to success, should be protected from those who live not by their own genius and effort, but by copying and counterfeiting things that have been made standard and valuable by others.

THERE are some things harder to keep than a diary. A three-dollar pocket-knife, for instance.

There Shall Be no Alps.

When Napoleon talked of invading Italy one of his officers said: "But, sire, remember the Alps." To an ordinary man these would have seemed simply insurmountable, but Napoleon responded eagerly: "There shall be no Alps." So the famous Simplon pass was made. Disease, like a mountain, stands in the way of fame, fortune and honor to many who by Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" might be healed and so the mountain would disappear. It is specific for all blood, chronic lung and liver diseases, such as consumption (which is scrofula of the lungs), pimples, blotches, eruptions, tumors, swellings, fever-sores and kindred complaints.

IT is a difficult thing to make the lens of a large telescope. It is also often a difficult thing when a man lends his last dollar to get it back again.—Pacific Jester.

THE new advertisement on this page of Le Page's Liquid Glue warns everybody to beware of a deceiving bottle. The wise will buy Le Page's only. First, because they get double the worth of the money in quantity; and second, because Le Page's is a tried and not-found-wanting glue. It is used by the Smithsonian Institute and other Government departments, and by extensive manufacturers, such as the Pullman Palace Car Company, as well as by people generally. Its popularity is based on its merits as a glue, and until rival manufacturers can produce a glue that will do more than Le Page's did at New Orleans, when a block of Georgia pine, one inch square, butted, registered 1,612 pounds on a Riehle testing-machine before parting, they will be unable to overtop its pre-eminence.

YES, dear girl, the man to whom you gave the mitten is free. He's a man-you-mitted.—N. O. Picayune.

Despise Not the Day of Small Things.

Little things may help a man to rise—a bent pin in an easy chair for instance. Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" are small things, pleasant to take, and they cure sick-headaches, relieve torpid livers and do wonders. Being purely vegetable they can not harm any one. All druggists.

A BUTCHER is known to be very prompt in all his engagements, especially those in which he promises to meat a man.—Chicago Mail.

IF afflicted with Sore Eyes use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye Water. Druggists sell it. 25c.

IF a girl wants to get married she generally says so to her popper.—Chicago Telegram.

THE MARKETS.

CINCINNATI, May 4.

LIVESTOCK—Cattle—Common	$2 25	@	3 00
Choice Butchers	4 25	@	5 00
HOGS—Common	3 40	@	3 80
Good Packers	3 90	@	4 20
SHEEP—Good to choice	4 25	@	5 00
FLOUR—Family	3 80	@	4 10
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red	88	@	89
No. 3 red	82	@	86
Corn—No. 2 mixed	38½	@	39
Oats—No. 2 mixed	31½	@	32
Rye—No. 2	66	@	67
HAY—Timothy No. 1	12 00	@	12 50
TOBACCO—Common Lugs	8 00	@	9 20
Good Mediums	10 25	@	14 25
PROVISIONS—Pork—Mess	10 00	@	10 12½
Lard—Prime steam	6 12½	@	6 25
BUTTER—Choice Dairy	10	@	13
Ohio Creamery	22	@	23
APPLES—Prime	1 00	@	1 50
POTATOES—per bushel	55	@	60
NEW YORK.
FLOUR—State and Western	$3 25	@	3 60
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 Chicago		@	90
No. 2 red	91½	@	91¾
Corn—No. 2 mixed	40	@	47½
Oats—mixed	39	@	46
PORK—Mess	10 25	@	10 50
LARD—Western steam		@	6 20
CHICAGO.
FLOUR—State and Western	$4 50	@	4 75
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 3 Spring	68¼	@	70
No. 2 Chicago Spring		@	78½
Corn—No. 2	35	@	35½
Oats—No. 2		@	29¼
Rye		@	62
PORK—Mess	9 02½	@	9 10
LARD—Steam		@	5 85
BALTIMORE.
FLOUR—Family	$4 50	@	5 00
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2	90½	@	91½
Corn—Mixed	46½	@	46¾
Oats—Mixed	37	@	39
PROVISIONS—Pork—Mess	10 00	@	11 00
Lard—Refined	[illegible]	@	7¼
CATTLE—First quality	5 25	@	5 50
HOGS	4 25	@	4 40
INDIANAPOLIS.
Wheat—No. 2 red	$	@	86
Corn—mixed		@	34½
Oats—mixed		@	30½
LOUISVILLE.
Flour—A No. 1	$4 00	@	4 50
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@	87
Corn—mixed		@	36
Oats—mixed		@	32
PORK—mess		@	10 50
LARD—steam	7 50	@	8 00

BRASH and wiry hair becomes soft and pliant by using Hall's Hair Renewer.

Many a mother has found Ayer's Cherry Pectoral invaluable in cases of croup.

THE pleasantest way to take cod liver oil is to fatten pigeons with it, and then eat the pigeons.—N. Y. Telegram.

On and after May 1st, the C. B. & Q. R. R. will put on sale round trip excursion tickets to Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo. These tickets are good going west for fifteen days from date of sale, and to return until October 31st, 1886. Round trip tickets, limited as above, are also for sale at low rates, via this route, to Las Vegas, Hot Springs and other prominent tourists' points. For tickets, rates and general information inquire of the agent at the C. B. & Q. R. R. Station.

ALWAYS what it is cracked up to be—Ice. —Life.

DR. PIERCE'S "Favorite Prescription" is everywhere acknowledged to be the standard remedy for female complaints and weaknesses. It is sold by druggists.

WHEN the car-drivers strike, they do not brake any thing.—N. Y. Graphic.

PIKE'S TOOTHACHE DROPS cure in 1 minute, 25c. Glenn's Sulphur Soap heals and beautifies. 25c. GERMAN CORN REMOVER kills Corns & Bunions.

THE shoe-maker will certainly be the last man.—N. Y. Mail.

PISO'S Remedy for Catarrh is agreeable to use. It is not a liquid or a snuff. 50c.

Poisoned by Scrofula

The taint of scrofula in the blood should be got rid of or serious consequences may result. Consumption is undoubtedly scrofula of the lungs, and in its early stages may be cured by purifying the blood and building up the system. For this Hood's Sarsaparilla is unequaled. It also cures scrofula when it appears in the form of running sores, boils, bunches in the neck, catarrh, or in any other manner. While it purifies, Hood's Sarsaparilla also vitalizes and enriches the blood. Give it a trial.

"I have been taking Hood's Sarsaparilla for about three months. Before that time my blood was in a terrible condition. After using it for about one month my appetite was better and my general health greatly improved. For a medicine as good as Hood's Sarsaparilla too much can not be said." L. L. LINSEY, Bugbee House, Putnam, Ct.

"I have been troubled with scrofula for three years, having running sores on my leg. After taking one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla I am getting well rapidly." ASA ELKEL, South Bend, Ind.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

FRAZER AXLE GREASE.

Best in the world. Get the genuine. Every package has our Trade-mark and is marked Frazer's. SOLD EVERYWHERE.

CONSUMPTION

I have a positive remedy for the above disease; by its use thousands of cases of the worst kind and of long standing have been cured. Indeed, so strong is my faith in its efficacy, that I will send TWO BOTTLES FREE, together with a VALUABLE TREATISE on this disease, to any sufferer. Give Express and P. O. address. DR. T. A. SLOCUM, 181 Pearl St., N. Y.

ARTISTS' MATERIALS. Lustra and Kensington Colors. Repousse Work. Wax Flower Supplies. Send for our various catalogues. Mail orders solicited. HOFFMANN BROS., 165 Main Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

LOVE COURTSHIP and MARRIAGE. This most wonderful and handsome book of 160 pages mailed for only 10c. Ads. UNION PUB. CO., Newark, N. J.

CANCER Treated and cured without the knife. Book on treatment sent free. Address F. L. POND, M. D., Aurora, Kane Co., Ill.

LADIES! Send for sample copies of the Philadel'a Ladies' Home Journal and Practical Housekeeper.

WOMEN

Needing renewed strength, or who suffer from infirmities peculiar to their sex, should try

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS THE BEST TONIC.

Trade Mark QUALITY P PURITY NOT QUANTITY On Every Bottle.

This medicine combines Iron with pure vegetable tonics, and is invaluable for Diseases peculiar to Women, and all who lead sedentary lives. It Enriches and Purifies the Blood, Stimulates the Appetite, Strengthens the Muscles and Nerves—in fact, thoroughly Invigorates.

Clears the complexion, and makes the skin smooth. It does not blacken the teeth, cause headache, or produce constipation—all other Iron medicines do.

MRS. MARY K. COLLINS, Steubenville, Ohio, says: "I used Brown's Iron Bitters for Female Weakness with great benefit, after having been treated by two physicians without relief. I now am in better health than I have been in years."

MRS. WM. H. WOODS, Lehighton, Pa., says: "I used Brown's Iron Bitters for loss of strength from nursing a strong, healthy baby. I could not do my work without this valuable tonic, and cordially recommend it.

Genuine has above Trade Mark and crossed red lines on wrapper. Take no other. Made only by BROWN CHEMICAL CO., BALTIMORE, MD.

M. EHRET, JR. & CO.

—MANUFACTURERS OF—

FOR FLAT AND STEEP ROOFS. GUARANTEED CHEAPEST & BEST IN USE. ABSOLUTELY WATER, FIRE & WIND-PROOF. PUT ON BY ANYBODY.

W. O. BURGESS, Agt., 8 and 9 Public Landing, - CINCINNATI, O.

No Rope to Cut Off Horses' Manes. Celebrated "ECLIPSE" HALTER and BRIDLE Combined, can not be slipped by any horse. Sample Halter to any part of the U. S. free, on receipt of $1. Sold by all Saddlery, Hardware and Harness Dealers. Special discount to the Trade. Send for Price-List. J. C. LIGHTHOUSE, Rochester, N. Y.

Buckeye Folding Binder.

The lightest running elevator binder in the world. Folds so as to pass through farm gates. Requires less storage room. Never misses a bundle. Mention this paper when you send for our Catalogue. C. Aultman & Co., Canton, Ohio.

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

WANTED SALESMEN! Traveling or local to sell LUBRICATING OILS. E. F. Dieterich, Cleveland, O. Enclose stamp for reply.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. Dr. J. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio

HAIR Wigs, Bangs and Waves sent C. O. D. anywhere. Wholesale and retail price-list free. B. C. Strehl & Co., 173 Wabash-av., Chicago.

BULL'S SARSAPARILLA.

THE LIVER

Secretes the bile and acts like a filter to cleanse impurities of the blood. By irregularity in its action or suspensions of its functions, the bile poisons the blood, causing jaundice, sallow complexion, weak eyes, bilious diarrhœa, a languid, weary feeling, and many other distressing symptoms generally termed liver troubles. These are relieved at once by the use of DR. BULL'S SARSAPARILLA, the great blood resolvent.

DR. JOHN BULL.—I have been for a number of years severely afflicted with a mercurial headache and a dull, heavy pain in my liver. Three bottles of BULL'S SARSAPARILLA gave me more relief than all the others combined. T. H. OWENS, Louisville, Ky.

DR. JOHN BULL.—I have examined the prescription for the preparation of DR. JOHN BULL'S SARSAPARILLA, and believe the combination to be an excellent one, and well calculated to produce an alterative impression on the system. I have used it both in public and private practice, and think it the best article of Sarsaparilla in use.
M. PYLES, M. D., Louisville, Ky.
Res. Phys. at Lou. Marine Hosp.

DYSPEPSIA

Variable appetite, faint, gnawing feeling at pit of the stomach, heartburn, wind in the stomach, bad breath, bad taste in the mouth, low spirits, general prostration. There is no form of disease more prevalent than Dyspepsia, and it can in all cases be traced to an enfeebled or poisoned condition of the blood. BULL'S SARSAPARILLA by cleansing and purifying the blood, tones up the digestive organs, and relief is obtained at once.

DR. JOHN BULL.—I have no hesitation in saying that I believe your SARSAPARILLA to be the best medicine manufactured for the cure of Scrofula, Syphilis and many other cutaneous and glandular affections, having used it with entire success in numbers of the above cases.
JAMES MOORE, Louisville, Ky.

DR. JOHN BULL.—I procured one bottle of BULL'S SARSAPARILLA for my eldest son. Among the remedies and various prescriptions that he has tried for weak lungs and chest, this one bottle has been of more benefit to him than all. It has cured me of Dyspepsia as well.
JOHN S. McGEE, Horse Cave, Ky.

THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE.

KIDNEYS

Are the great secretory organs of the body. Into and through the Kidneys flow the waste fluids containing poisonous matter taken from the system. If the Kidneys do not act properly this matter is retained and poisons the blood, causing headache, weakness, pain in the small of back and loins, flushes of heat, chills, with disordered stomach and bowels. BULL'S SARSAPARILLA acts as a diuretic on the Kidneys and bowels, and directly on the blood as well, causing the great organs of the body to resume their natural functions, and health is at once restored.

DR. JOHN BULL.—I have used BULL'S SARSAPARILLA for rheumatism and kidney trouble, and my son has taken it for asthma and general debility. It has given us both great relief. Yours truly,
THOS. H. BENTLEY, Rossville, Ill.

SCROFULA

Is a peculiar morbid condition of the system, caused directly by impurities in the blood or by the lack of sufficient nourishment furnished to the system through the blood, usually affecting the glands, often resulting in swellings, enlarged joints, abscesses, sore eyes, blotchy eruptions on the face or neck. Erysipelas is akin to it and is often mistaken for Scrofula as it comes from the same cause, impure blood. BULL'S SARSAPARILLA, by purifying the blood and toning up the system forces the impurities from the blood and cleanses the system through the regular channels.

DR. JOHN BULL.—It is my opinion that your preparation of SARSAPARILLA is decidedly superior to any other now in use, and I will take great pleasure in recommending it for the cure of Scrofula and all diseases of the blood and kidneys.
B. B. ALLEN, M. D., Bradford, Ky.

BULL'S SARSAPARILLA.
BULL'S WORM DESTROYER.
BULL'S SMITH'S TONIC SYRUP.
THE POPULAR REMEDIES OF THE DAY.

PRINCIPAL OFFICE:
831 West Main Street, Louisville, Ky.
Price, $1; Six Bottles for $5.
For Sale by all Druggists.

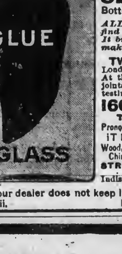
KEEP THE BLOOD PURE.

LOOK AT THESE BOTTLES

and see which you had rather have—the big "10-cent bottle" with 5 cents' worth of glue, or the honest bottle with

DOUBLE THE QUANTITY, AND BETTER QUALITY.

This is an exact reproduction of a bottle of glue extensively advertised as a "10-cent article."



DON'T BE DECEIVED BY Outside Show OR High Sounding Names.
GLUE
GLASS

IT IS NOT LePAGE'S.

This cut shows the smallest size of LEPAGE'S LIQUID GLUE bottle, outside and inside.

THE TOTAL QUANTITY of LePAGE'S LIQUID GLUE sold during the past five years in all parts of the world amounted to over 32 MILLION Bottles. Everybody wants it.

ALL KINDS of DEALERS find it a good thing to handle. It brings new customers, and makes the old ones STICK.

TWO GOLD MEDALS London, 1883; New Orleans, 1885. At the New Orleans Exposition joints made with it endured a testing strain of over 1600 POUNDS TO A SQUARE INCH. Pronounced the Strongest Glue Known. IT MENDS EVERYTHING, Wood, Leather, Paper, Ivory, Glass, China, Furniture, Bric-a-Brac, etc. STRONG AS IRON, SOLID AS A ROCK. Indispensable in every household.

YOU GET THIS BOTTLE FULL WHEN YOU BUY LEPAGE'S.
CONTENTS OF THE OTHER BOTTLE POURED INTO ONE OF LEPAGE'S BOTTLES.

If your dealer does not keep it, send his card with five 2-cent stamps for sample by mail. RUSSIA CEMENT CO., Gloucester, Mass.

MUSTANG

Survival of the Fittest.

A FAMILY MEDICINE THAT HAS HEALED MILLIONS DURING 35 YEARS!

MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT.

A BALM FOR EVERY WOUND OF MAN AND BEAST!

The Oldest & Best Liniment EVER MADE IN AMERICA.

SALES LARGER THAN EVER.

The Mexican Mustang Liniment has been known for more than thirty-five years as the best of all Liniments, for Men and Beast. Its sales to-day are larger than ever. It cures when all others fail, and penetrates skin, tendon and muscle, to the very bone. Sold everywhere.

EPITHELIOMA!

OR SKIN CANCER

For seven years I suffered with a cancer on my face. Eight months ago a friend recommended the use of Swift's Specific, and I determined to make an effort to procure it. In this I was successful, and began its use. The influence of the medicine at first was to somewhat aggravate the sore; but soon the inflammation was allayed, and I began to improve after the first few bottles. My general health has greatly improved. I am stronger, and am able to do any kind of work. The cancer on my face began to decrease and the ulcer to heal, until there is not a vestige of it left—only a little scar marks the place.
MRS. JOICIE A. McDONALD.
Atlanta, Ga., August 11, 1885.

Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed free.
THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Drawer 3, Atlanta, Ga.
N. Y., 157 W. 23d Street.

FREE FARMS IN SUNNY SAN LUIS.

The most Wonderful Agricultural Park in America. Surrounded by prosperous mining and manufacturing towns. FARMER'S PARADISE! Magnificent crops raised in 1885. THOUSANDS OF ACRES OF GOVERNMENT LAND, subject to pre-emption & homestead. Lands for sale to actual settlers at $3.00 per Acre. Long Time. Park irrigated by immense canals. Cheap railroad rates. Every attention shown settlers. For maps, pamphlets, etc., address COLORADO LAND & LOAN CO., Opera House Block, Denver, Colo. Box, 2890.

OPIUM Habit, Quickly and Painlessly cured at home. Correspondence solicited and free trial of cure sent honest investigators. THE HUMANE REMEDY COMPANY, Lafayette, Ind.

A.N.K.—E. 1081

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOLUME XI. BURLINGTON, KY., WEDNESDAY, MAY 12, 1886. NUMBER 27.

FUSSY GREECE.

Her Soldiers Cheered as They March to the Front.

The Allied Powers Give Orders for a Blockade of Grecian Ports—Turkish Troops Advancing.

ATHENS, May 7.—The soldiers at the garrison here received with cheers the orders to march to the frontier. Two battalions have already started for the frontier. The soldiers went out with great enthusiasm. The regiment designated as the King's escort is ready to start for the front. The government has announced its intention of defending Greek territory against any and all advances by foreign soldiers. The movements of the Turkish army threaten to make Thessaly the scene of the first warlike operations. The indications now point to a Turkish advance by way of Larissa. The Greek reserves at Volo and Valestino have been pushed to the front. The populace are enthusiastic over the prospect of war with Turkey. Soldiers are parading the streets singing patriotic songs. They are everywhere cheered and are at present the most popular persons in the city. A large number of soldiers remain here. The foreign squadron has returned to Suda Bay. The Greek fleet has left Salami and, it is believed, has gone to Poros. It is not believed here that Russia will take any share with the other powers in the ulterior work of coercion against Greece. Tewfik Bey, the Turkish Minister, when he departed hence to-day, took with him all the members of the staff of the Turkish Legation and caused all his and their personal effects to be removed. The secretaries of the other foreign legations will remain in an unofficial capacity for a time at least. The Russian Minister did not leave when the other ministers departed, not having been instructed to do so. The Peloponesian army has been ordered to Thessaly. All the foreign ministers have embarked on vessels of their respective nations to depart from Greece. The powers have given orders to the fleets to blockade the Greek ports. The troops at Kalamata have been sent to replace the Athens garrison. Turkish troops are massing a Prevesa.

CONGRESSMAN KELLEY

Says a Few Words on the Labor Troubles.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Congressman Kelley, of Pennsylvania, is quoted as saying: "These labor troubles are primarily caused by the capitalists, who, refusing to pay fair wages to American laborers, have gone abroad and brought to this country the vilest and lowest class of European laborers to take the places of men who can not and will not live the same as these ignorant and brutal creatures do. The thing to be done is to make eight hours a day's work and put in the penitentiary the capitalist who will permit his machinery to run a longer period than eight hours per day. Then legislate to exclude from this country the class of men who are responsible for such outrages as have occurred in Chicago. I have no sympathy with Anarchists, dynamiters or Communists, nor have I any sympathy with the capitalists who will import labor of this class rather than pay good wages to American workmen." Congressman Rice, of Massachusetts, said: "I believe that the Government should put down with the strong arm of power every attempt at violence such as has been fomented in Chicago by those who have come from Europe."

THE DEATH PENALTY

Hangs Over the Heads of the Anarchist Leaders in the Chicago Riot.

CHICAGO, May 7.—State's Attorney Grinnell has stated that he has obtained ample legal evidence implicating Spies, Fielden and Schwab as the leaders in getting up the terrible riot on Desplaines street, which resulted in the destruction of several lives and the maiming of many persons. This evidence will be very damaging to the three men named when they shall come to be tried before the criminal court. In order to find out whether the opinion of other prominent members of the bar sustained or not the conclusions of the State's Attorney, several well-known members of the bar have been interviewed. The opinion of all of them, without any exception, is that so far as they know what the evidence is, it is fully sufficient to secure the conviction of all three men. They also hold that the evidence is sufficient to secure their conviction for murder and the infliction of the death penalty.

The Cloakmakers.

CHICAGO, May 7.—About 3,000 cloakmakers who work only six months out of the year at an average salary of $3 per week, have made a demand on the contracting cloakmakers for eight hours' work and an increase of twenty-five per cent. on their wages. One of the contractors admits that the cloakmakers have been miserably paid, and he asserts that the wholesale dealers have grown rich out of the profits on their work. The contractors number about 700, and they are organized as Assembly No. 5,129 of the Knights of Labor. At a meeting held last night they expressed their willingness to grant the demands of their employes, providing they can induce the wholesale dealers to pay an advance on the present price of the goods. A committee was appointed to lay the matter before the leading houses.

Prominent Minnesotan Cremated.

PITTSBURGH, May 7.—The remains of Thos. J. Barnay, a wealthy and leading citizen of St. Paul, Minn., arrived in this city last night, accompanied by a relative of the deceased. A few minutes after, the body, which weighed two hundred and forty pounds, was placed in the retort of Sampson's natural gas crematory on Sixth avenue. Two hours later the gas was turned off. The receptacle was removed to-day, and the ashes, weighing eight pounds, placed in an urn and delivered to the friend, who at once left for St. Paul.

Large Pension Allowed.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Secretary Lamar has rendered a decision in the pension case of Samuel W. Robertson, of Seneca, Kas., an appeal from the Commissioner of Pensions, reversing the commissioner's decision and ordering that the claimant's name be placed on the pension rolls at $72 per month, and that he be paid the sum of $10,760, the amount due at the rate specified, from date of final discharge from military service. This decision affirms the action of Secretary Teller of February 23, 1885. The alleged principal cause of disability is total blindness, which, from the evidence, the Commissioner held was contracted prior to enlistment.

A Week's Failures.

NEW YORK, May 7.—The business failures occurring throughout the country during the last seven days number, for the United States, 167, and for Canada 25, or a total of 192, as compared with a total of 207 last week, and 194 the week previous to the last.

Double Suicide.

ST. PAUL, MINN., May 7.—The community this morning was startled by the rumor of a double suicide, the victims being Charles P. Woerner and a domestic in his family, with whom Mrs. Woerner charged her husband with being too intimate.

Arms Captured at Milwaukee.

MILWAUKEE, May 7.—The arrests of Socialists who have been instrumental in urging on the riots have been continued this afternoon. In the houses of two of these were found a number of guns, pistols and a large amount of ammunition concealed in bedding. Governor Rusk has informed Drudinski that the latter will be held responsible for any trouble which may hereafter arise from the doings of Polanders who have been prompted to the act by Rudinski's advice.

Fatally Burned.

RUSSELLVILLE, ILL., May 7.—Mrs. Louise Ice, a demented woman, saturated her bedding with coal oil, and then lighted them with a match. She was fatally burned.

VICTIMS OF THE RIOT.

Two More Officers Dead—Anarchists Dying From Draughts of Carbolic Acid.

CHICAGO, May 9.—Two more of the wounded police officers are dead—Flavin and Shehan, making five altogether. The latter died to-day and the former last night at the county hospital. The circumstances of Flavin's death were particularly distressing. His faithful wife, who has constantly stood at his side and watched him grow weaker from day to day, came from his room in ward five a few minutes after four o'clock almost distracted. In a pitiful voice, while tears dropped from her sleepless eyes, she moaned: "He has gone! he has gone! Oh, my darling; if I could only go with him! What shall I do!" A Sister of Charity tried in vain to comfort the bereaved woman, but her loss was too great to listen to kind words. Late last night a startling story was circulated relating how a just, speedy and terrible retribution had overtaken a number of the foremost rioters of Tuesday night. The story is now confirmed by the police, and is the source of no little satisfaction to the comrades of the martyred policemen. When the drug store of Samuel Rosenfield, on the corner of Center avenue and Eighteenth street, was raided by the mob of Anarchists last Wednesday, some of the leaders took the opportunity to rob the store of all the liquor it contained, and it is now asserted by the police, upon the evidence of physicians in the neighborhood, that not content with the whisky and wine stolen, the rabble seized upon every bottle that had the appearance of being the receptacle of spirits. A large bottle of carbolic acid was among the others carried away, and, owing to its color and general resemblance to whisky, it was passed from hand to hand after the raid, and drank by a half-dozen or more of the mob. The acid began to take effect as soon as it entered the stomachs of the rioters, and in spite of the best efforts of doctors and emetics two of the drinkers are dead and three more are at death's door.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY of Knights' Called by Grand Master Powderly to Meet at Cleveland, May 25.

BALTIMORE, May 9.—General Master Workman Powderly, of the Knights' of Labor, acting under the authority vested in him by the General Executive Board, has issued a call to the various assemblies of the order for a special session of the General Assembly to be held in Cleveland, O., Tuesday, May 25. The causes leading to the calling of the session are given as follows: 1. The rapidly increasing membership of the order requires changes in the laws which the General Executive Board have no authority to make. 2. The laws in relation to the government of boycotting are wholly inadequate to compel obedience on the part of assemblies that believe in boycotting for every offense, whether great or small. 3. The laws in relation to strikes do not give the general executive board power to interfere in such matters until after the strike has been inaugurated. 4. The order has become involved in difficulties with trade societies and an effort is being made to create a rupture between these societies and the Knights of Labor.

A Honolulu Disaster.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., May 9.—Advices just received by the steamer Alameda from Honolulu give an account of a disastrous conflagration which occurred there April 18. The fire started in a coal house in the Chinese quarter, where Chinamen, starting a fire in a stove, carelessly set fire to the walls of the building. The fire soon got beyond control. The fire department was inadequate, and efforts were directed toward staying the fire's progress by blowing up buildings. It was not until eight entire squares, comprising sixty acres, of the most thickly populated portion of the Chinese quarter had been destroyed that the fire's advance was stayed. About eight thousand people, mostly Chinese, are left homeless. The loss is estimated at $1,500,000; insurance $230,000. Only two lives were lost, a native woman and an unknown person whose charred remains were found. The King visited the scene of the conflagration and greatly encouraged the men, often assisting with his own hands.

Fatal Fall of a New Iron Bridge.

UTICA, N. Y., May 9.—The new iron bridge being built at Lyonsdale, Lewis County, gave way yesterday, precipitating seven workmen and a wreck of twisted iron into Moose river, twenty feet below. Two men escaped by jumping on a pier. One workman, W. A. Wilcox, of Port Leyden, in leaping to an abutment, lost his foothold and was fatally injured. The others swam ashore, although some of them had sustained severe injuries. The accident was caused by the giving way of a temporary trestle.

Republican Senators Sworn In.

COLUMBUS, O., May 9.—In the Ohio Senate the report and resolutions submitted by the Republican members of the Investigating Committee were taken from the table yesterday, the resolutions adopted, and the oath of office administered to the Hamilton County Republican Senators, after which the Senate proceeded with the regular business.

Loaded Coal Barges Sunk.

PITTSBURGH, May 9.—A sudden rise of thirteen feet of water in the Monongahela river occurred to-day. Marmet's loaded coal fleet broke loose, sweeping off with it O'Neil & Co.'s twenty-three of their loaded coal fleet, one-half of which were lost. Keeling & Co. lose three, W. H. Brown Sons and Sneathan & Co. one each, entailing a loss of thirty-one barges of coal.

Kills Her Husband and Herself.

PATERSON, N. J., May 9.—Perlko Fernandez, a rich Cuban of Hawthorne, N. J., was shot in the right breast last night about 12 o'clock by his wife Belle. The woman then placed the pistol to her right temple, blowing her brains out. Both are dead. No cause is known for the deed.

Tragedies in East Tennessee.

KNOXVILLE, TENN., May 6.—Mrs. Jane Fairbanks, of Roane County, wife of a miner, committed suicide to-day by taking "Rough on Rats." Ten-year-old son of Riley Mills shot himself to death near Rogersville, because his father refused him a drink of liquor.

Geologist Killed.

WHEELING, W. VA., May 9.—John Pass, a Tucker County school-teacher, while out on a geological excursion, was instantly killed in Thomas' mines by having his head caught between a loaded coal-car and a post. He was married only a few weeks since.

Children Burned.

JACKSON, MICH., May 9.—Frank Banoit's farm house, twelve miles west of Jackson, was burned. Nothing was saved. In the house were three children, aged one, three and five years. All perished in the flames. The mother, working on a distant part of the farm, on seeing the house burning, ran to the house, and would have rushed into the fire had she not been restrained by a neighbor who arrived at the same moment.

The St. Louis Anarchists.

ST. LOUIS, May 9.—The Anarchists of this city met to-day and adopted resolutions indorsing the action of their brothers in Chicago, and denouncing the police of that city.

Highway Murderers.

BRADY'S BEND, PA., May 9.—Charles Glann, of this place, was riding through a lonely piece of woods, near Petrolia, when two men attacked him and demanded his money. Glann refused, when both men fired at him, the bullets taking effect, one shattering an arm and the other entering the shoulder, producing a fatal wound. They then relieved Glenn of $400 in cash, a gold watch, killed his horse and escaped into the woods.

A mob made an attack on a Salvation Army meeting near Zurich, Switzerland, and demolished the building in which the meeting was being held. Several persons were injured.

HORRIBLE DEATH.

A Man Killed and Devoured by Millions of Buffalo Gnats.

Horses, Cattle and Mules Goaded to Death by These Insects.

MEMPHIS, TENN., May 10.—For several days past the buffalo gnats, the pest of the Lower Mississippi Valley, have been doing their work of destruction among the stock of this section. Reports of horses, cattle and mules having been goaded to death by these insects are received daily. Yesterday information was received here that Bill Sneiss, a colored tenant on President Hadden's plantation in Crittenden County, Ark., had been stung and choked to death by the pests. He was found dead on the McDaniel place Friday, evidently a victim to the gnats which swarmed about the corpse. Gnats were crawling in and out of his ears and nose. His mouth and nostrils were filled with gnats. Swarms of gnats had settled in his wide-stretched eyes, and were feeding on the sightless orbs. His clothing was filled with gnats, and a halo of gnats hovered around the dead man. Sneiss had been in the L'Anguille swamp, and is supposed that tried to run away from the gnats. The insects were so thick, however, that they drove him wild, and, finally, becoming exhausted, he fell prostrate, then was smothered by the swarms of gnats. The death of Sneiss must have been horrible—choked into eternity by seething, living myriads of insects. This is the second case on record where buffalo gnats have destroyed human life. In 1884 a man met death in the same horrible fashion that Sneiss did, near Haynes' Station, St. Francis County, Arkansas.

STRANGE SIGHT.

Thousands of Dead Birds Strew the Streets Below an Electric Tower Light.

CHICAGO, May 10.—A singular phenomenon occurred during the storm of Saturday night in the vicinity of the Board of Trade Tower Light. It was none other than a shower of birds. Yesterday when the watchman made his rounds he found the sidewalks and streets in front of the tower fairly covered with dead birds of all sorts. A little later the electrician came down, and when he saw the great pile of birds, he said that it was the electric light at the top of the tower. When he went up to the lantern with several members of the Board of Trade, the roof was found to be covered with dead birds, and each of the lamps in the big circle of light was filled with them, one globe having eight birds in it. These birds are of every known variety, and many unknown, or rather, unfamiliar species are among the lot. All shades and colors are there—scarlet, blue, pink, red, canary, mottled, black and white, and there were some snipe and plovers among them. The theory is that they were migratory flocks going from south to north, and were attracted by the great light, which the moment they touched killed them. The birds are all of the small species. There was a countless number of them, enough to trim all the ladies' hats in Illinois. Many Bohemians were in the street with bags and baskets, and in less than two hours the street was clear of every vestige of the bird shower, but the roof of the Board of Trade is now covered, and the janitors will remove them to-day.

The Kentucky Convict Miners.

LOUISVILLE, May 10.—A Courier-Journal special reports a bad state of affairs still existing at Greenwood, Ky., where a company of State troops protect the convicts worked in the mines from the threatened violence of the free miners. During the past week eight houses belonging to the mine-owners have been burned by incendiaries, and last night a grocery and dwelling belonging to Wm. Lewis were destroyed. The free miners are thought to be the incendiaries. The troops have been on guard for several months, and it is thought the convicts would be summarily dealt with by the infuriated miners.

A Monster Petition.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Representative Morrow has received a monster petition from the Knights of Labor of California. It is over two thousand feet long, and contains the names of over fifty thousand persons. Every State, county and municipal officer and every Knight of Labor of California has signed the petition. Every male adult in many of the counties of the State has put his name to it. It prays for action on the part of Congress either by appropriate legislation or by a change in the present treaty with China, as may be necessary, to forever prohibit the further immigration of Chinese to the United States.

Killed in a Thunder Storm.

BURLINGTON, IA., May 10.—This section was visited last evening by one of the most terrific thunder storms known for years. The thunder and lightnings were very severe. The rain fell in torrents and the wind blew a hurricane. The storm was of short duration. During its prevalence four young men were seated under a porch, when lightning struck the buildings. One of them was instantly killed and another seriously injured. The storm did considerable damage to building and crops outside the city.

A Bread Famine Existing at Pittsburgh.

PITTSBURGH, May 10.—There is a bread famine to-day among those who depend upon the bakers. Of the 160 bakeries in the two cities 120, comprising nearly all the larger establishments, are closed. About 300 bakers are on strike. The bake shops in operation, with but one or two exceptions, are small, and can only supply their regular customers. The demands are twelve hours and all day work.

Mormon Cases in the Supreme Court.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—The Supreme Court of the United States has dismissed the three Snow polygamy cases for want of jurisdiction. It has also recalled the mandate in the polygamy case, set aside the former judgment and dismissed it for want of jurisdiction.

A Lee to Become a Countess.

VIENNA, May 10.—Agnes Carroll, step-daughter of General Lee, has been betrothed to Count Antony Huseenstamm.

Returning to Work at Chicago.

CHICAGO, May 10.—A large number of the striking workmen returned to work this morning.

A SUGAR SUBSTITUTE

A Substance Extracted from Coal Tar Which Is Sweeter Than Sugar.

Mr. Ivan Levinstein, the President of the Manchester section of the Society of Chemical Industry, calls attention to a new substance which is extracted from coal tar, and possesses sweetening properties far stronger than the best cane or beet-root sugar. This substance, he says, seemed likely to enter into daily consumption. According to Mr. Levinstein, one part of it will give a very sweet taste to ten thousand parts of water, for it is two hundred and thirty times sweeter than best sugar, and taken in the quantities added to food as sweetening material, has no injurious effects whatever on the human system. Patients suffering from diabetes have been treated for the last few months in one of the principal hospitals in Berlin with saccharin without feeling in the least inconvenienced by its use. The use of saccharin would, therefore, Mr. Levinstein said, be not merely a probable substitute for sugar, but it might even be applied to medicinal purposes where sugar was not permissible.—Scientific American.

XLIXTH CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—SENATE—A letter was read from Emmet Tompkins, Secretary of the Ohio Legislative Committee, regarding matter surreptitiously interpolated in the Payne report, and asking for an investigation. The letter was referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections, and distribution of the incorrect copies ordered stopped. The Senate then proceeded to the consideration of private claims on the calendar. The post-office appropriation bill was taken up, and the subsidy clause debated. It was finally adopted by a vote of yeas 30; nays 19. The vote on the passage of the bill, as amended, was yeas 45, nays 10. At 5:20 p. m. the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—The resignation of Congressman Pulitzer was received from the Secretary of State, of New York. A resolution was adopted inquiring into the delay in the publication of the annual report of the Bureau of Animal Industry. Also one calling on the Secretary of the Navy, for a copy of the special report made by Lieutenant Kimball on the progress of the Panama Canal. The contested election case of Campbell vs. Weaver, of Iowa, was taken up in preference to the river and harbor bill by a majority of one. After debate of an hour and a half the resolution of the majority of the Committee on Elections was adopted. It confirms the right of the sitting member, J. B. Weaver, to the seat. At 5:15 p. m. the House took a recess until 7 p. m., the night session being for the consideration of bills and reports from the Military Committee.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—SENATE.—A letter from the Public Printer was read, attributing certain delays in printing to insufficient appropriations. A resolution was reported in relation to the cattle troubles on the Mexican border, and recommending an arrangement with Mexico for their suppression. A resolution was agreed to inquiring of the Secretary of State the necessity for charging citizens of the United States five dollars for passports to foreign countries. Mr. Logan inquired in reference to his bill to provide a commission for investigating the condition of the colored people of the South. It was discovered that it had been referred to a subcommittee of the Committee on Education. Mr. Blair promised to have the subject considered and reported if possible. The Inter-State commerce bill was taken up, and Mr. Camden's amendment adopted—yeas, 29; nays, 21. At 4:30 p. m. the Senate went into executive session, and at 5:30 p. m. adjourned.

HOUSE.—A letter of the Secretary of the Navy was read, containing an estimate of $91,137 to supply a deficiency in the appropriation for the armament of the new steel cruisers. A bill was passed for the relief of the heirs of the late James C. Wintersmith, appropriating the funeral expenses and a year's pay. A bill was reported to extend the free delivery system. An adverse report was made on the Senate bill providing for a commission on the alcoholic liquor traffic. The Ways and Means Committee reported a bill repealing as much of Section 3314 as allows commissions to Internal Revenue Collectors for taxes collected on distilled spirits. Bills reported from the Committee on Military Affairs were then considered. The first one called was the veterans' bounty bill. Messrs. Laclede, Bragg, Hepburn and Goff spoke in favor of the measure, and Messrs. Hewitt, Reagan and Breckinridge opposed it. Amendments were adopted extending the provisions of the act to the widows and such reenlisted volunteer soldiers as may be deceased, and to enlisted men in the navy and the marine corps. Pending further action the committee rose, and at 5 p. m. the House took a recess until 7:30 p. m.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—SENATE—On motion of Mr. Sherman, it was agreed that the anti-Chinese immigration bill and the Chinese indemnity bill should be special orders for May 10. The Pacific railroad funding bill was made the special order for May 11. The inter-State commerce bill was called up, and after considerable debate, it was agreed that a vote should be taken on the bill next Tuesday. Mr. Miller, from the Committee on Education and Labor, reported favorably a bill making eight hours a day's work for letter carriers. Mr. Logan, during the afternoon, offered an amendment for the Mexican pension bill which, among other things, proposes to repeal the restriction upon the payment of arrears of pensions to soldiers and sailors of the late war whose claims are filed prior to July 1, 1888, and conferring a pension upon all soldiers disabled from any other cause than their own careless or vicious conduct, who served three months. The amendment also increases all classes of existing pensions.

HOUSE.—An adverse report was made by the Judiciary Committee on the joint resolution proposing a constitutional amendment providing for female suffrage. The bill to create a department of agriculture and labor was called up, but dilatory motions prevented its consideration during the morning hour. The House then went into committee of the whole on the river and harbor bill. After some discussion the committee rose and reported the bill to the House. An amendment was offered, and agreed to, providing that appropriations for the improvement of the Lower Mississippi and of the Missouri river shall be expended under the direction of the Secretary of War, without the intervention of the Mississippi and Missouri River Commissions. The bill was finally passed—yeas, 143; nays, 102—and the House adjourned at 5:30 p. m., after an unsuccessful attempt to get up an electoral count bill.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—SENATE—Not in session.

HOUSE—A Senate bill was passed granting right of way to a local railroad through the arsenal grounds at Philadelphia. The military academy bill was set aside for private business, and the House considered a number of claims. Considerable discussion was occasioned by a bill to pay F. W. Haldeman $200 for services as a scout and bugler during the war, the claimant being at the time too young to be mustered into the service. When a vote was taken the opponents of the bill raised the point of no quorum, and at 5 o'clock a recess was taken until 7:30 p. m. At the night session fifty private pension bills were passed, and the House adjourned at 10 o'clock.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—SENATE.—Not in session.

HOUSE.—A bill was passed authorizing the Kansas City, Fort Scott and Gulf Railroad Company to construct a road through the Indian Territory. The military academy bill was passed. The army appropriation bill was taken up and finished in committee of the whole ready for action in the House.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—SENATE.—Mr. Frye introduced a bill "to limit the commercial privileges of vessels from foreign countries in the ports of the United States." The fisheries dispute with Canada was discussed, and resolutions calling for information in relation thereto were introduced by Mr. Davis. Mr. Van Wyck introduced a bill to authorize the Union Pacific railroad to construct branch roads. The Inter-State commerce bill was then discussed by Messrs. Walthall, Gorman, Stanford and Sewell. At 5:50 p. m. the Senate adjourned without action.

HOUSE.—A number of bills and resolutions were introduced under the call of States, after which the House proceeded to the consideration of business reported from the District of Columbia. Several bills of a local character were passed, and the House adjourned to 4:40 p. m.

SIR CHARLES DILKE, in a speech at Chelsea, said the charges of immoral conduct against him were cruel and baseless, and caused himself and wife many sleepless nights, and having asked the Queen's Proctor to intervene in the case, he would deny on oath the unfounded charges.

THE Russian Minister of War has gone to Livadia to confer with the Czar.

THREE thousand workmen held a meeting in Vienna and adopted a resolution demanding of the Liberal Deputies that they oppose the Socialist law.

—Two men were arrested in St. Louis the other day. It was alleged that the men had perfected a means of taking the change out of the cash boxes in the street cars, and upon one of them was found an instrument for abstracting the coins. It consists in a long and moderately stiff strap split at the end, into which are fitted two pieces of zinc or tin, which are moderately flexible. Pushing this down into the boxes the coins were easily caught between the two pieces of tin and abstracted.—St. Louis Post.

—A young man in a large company was descanting very flippantly on a subject his knowledge of which was evidently superficial, and a lady present asked his name. "'Tis Scarlett," replied a gentleman. "Indeed," said the lady, "then I am certain he belies his name, for I am sure he is not deep read."—N. Y. Telegram.

—The first American establishment for the exclusive manufacture of edged-too's was founded by Samuel Collins, at Collinsville, Conn., about 1826, when the product of a day's labor was the forging and tempering of eight broad-axes.—Hartford Post.

THE TROUBLE OVER.

The Congressional Investigating Committee at Galveston Taking Evidence of Business Men.

Vigilance of the Chicago Police in Looking After Anarchists Has Not Relaxed a Particle—Several of Them Run in Sunday.

INVESTIGATING THE LABOR TROUBLES.

GALVESTON, TEX., May 10.—At the investigation of the labor troubles by the Congressional sub-committee here Saturday night, R. B. Hawley, a jobber in groceries and grains, testified that his firm did a business amounting to from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000 per annum. It sold goods, but because of the labor troubles their credits were almost entirely cut off. It sustained a loss in its business of from thirty to forty per cent. Witness was not opposed to organization of labor.

S. L. Finley, upholsterer of the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe railroad, testified that he formerly occupied two official positions with the Knights of Labor. He said it was the intention of the Knights to strike on all the Texas roads, but better judgment prevailed. He was opposed to strikes.

P. W. Farrell, a carpenter, described the form of the mandate which was issued by the Knights to the freight clerks in the Texas Pacific railroad office at Fort Worth, ordering them to strike.

W. P. Burk, editor of the Labor Advocate and county treasurer, testified to the fact of the demoralizing effect of the strike on the Gould system. He said that the condition of the laboring men in the South was better than that of the northern workingmen. There was not such a surplus of labor in the South. The absence of employment for labor in the South during several months of the year was the most serious drawback. He believed the only remedy was the introduction of manufacturers in Texas. He attributed much of the trouble to the want of confidence between employers and the men and thought that workmen were not outspoken enough about their grievances. In reply to the question as to who was benefited by the seizure of the engines and the destruction of property by the strikers, witness said that he thought about the only person benefited was the sheriff. The committee left for Marshall last evening.

HUNTING FOR ANARCHISTS IN CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, May 10.—The vigilance of the police in looking after suspected Anarchists has not relaxed a particle since the occurrence of the outrage that first induced it. The various stations contain the usual extra detail inaugurated a week ago and a strict watch is kept along the streets on suspicious parties. The anticipation of incendiary fires has caused citizens and property-owners to be doubly on the lookout so that, no matter from what quarter trouble may spring, preparation will have been made for it. Yesterday a fellow riding on a West Side car attracted the attention of the passengers by talking loudly in defiance of the Socialists engaged in Tuesday night's riots. He proclaimed himself a rampant Anarchist and denounced the police for the part they had taken in suppressing the outrage. A police officer locked him up at the Des Plaines street station where he gave the name of J. M. Hart.

A third raid was made on the nest at No. 71 West Lake street by a squad of twenty-five men from the Central detail. In the hall upstairs a meeting of hod-carriers was found in session and the members were searched. Nothing was found on them to indicate connection or sympathy with the lawless element and they were allowed to proceed unmolested. A few red-flags left in the hall by parties unknown were carried away. In the saloon underneath the hall, kept by Albert Florus, three red-hot Anarchists were arrested and jailed. In the saloon was found a copy of the platform of the Socialists, which essentially embodies the well-known utterances of Spies, Fielden, Schwab & Co., together with a partial directory of "groups" outside of Chicago.

The "groups" according to the paper are in existence as far east as Holyoke, Mass., and extend through Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania and neighboring States. The three men taken are George Bartels, alias Loranz, Franz Smidt and Fred Benteen. Like their comrades in trouble they betrayed the most craven terror when confronted by the representatives of justice, and seemed entirely bereft of the boasted courage of their kind.

A short time after they had been locked up a fellow, giving his name as Charles J. Franks, called at the station to see Smidt. When asked what he was Franks admitted that he was a Socialist and that he and Smidt worked together on an Anarchist paper that suspended publication about a year ago. In answer to further questions the fellow said that if the intended parade had taken place yesterday he would have walked in the ranks and carried a red flag. He had scarcely uttered the words when he was hustled down stairs and given quarters in a cell to repent that he had been led into making a hasty declaration.

At a meeting of the freight handlers yesterday, after an animated debate, decided to go to the railroad officials to-day as individuals and endeavor to arrange for an end of the strike now in progress.

OBJECTING TO THE RED FLAG.

CINCINNATI, May 10.—At a largely attended meeting of Typographical Union No. 3 yesterday afternoon, resolutions were adopted denouncing the red flag of the Commune as symbolic of anarchy and revolution and antagonistic to the welfare of every true American. The union calls the attention of capitalists to the recent riots at Chicago and Milwaukee, reminding them that the importation of foreign labor to supplant American workmen at cheaper rates of pay may prove dangerous policy in the end.

The strike situation remains unchanged. The men stand well together and seem determined to hold out. The manufacturers, on the other hand, maintain the same position. Many have announced that they will open their factories to-day and the Mayor has assured them that all men who want to go to work will be given full police protection. Four regiments of the Ohio National Guard, with a strengthened police force, are at his disposal and it is hardly probable that there will be any trouble.

NEW YORK, May 10.—The striking piano makers have returned at the old scale.

—Love letters at breach of promise suits are usually amusing, but none more so than one written by an English young man, which was of such a strain as the following: "Dearest, most charming, superlative Sally—I am longing really for the time to come when I shall have you in a home, a bower of lovers' bliss, where we can coo and bill all the day long. We soon shall have a splash, dash-up wedding of our own, and then we shall take the shine out of them."

—How much of cheer and comfort is derived from the brilliant flowers that surround our pathway. Who is there that is so regardless of the beauties of nature that in rambling through the fields in the spring will not pluck and admire the lovely wild flowers?—Albany Journal.

—Aiguilettes have become so fashionable that it is no uncommon sight to see a woman prancing along with a hammock looped over her dress front.—N. Y. Mail.

—A man in Cambridge, Mass., who was arrested for swindling, has spent $207,000, left him by his father, in the last seven years.—Boston Post.

THE COMMONWEALTH.

Louisville Leaf Tobacco Market.

We quote 1885 tobaccos as follows for full weights and sound packages:

	Dark and Heavy.	Burley.
Trash	$1 75@ 2 25	$1 75@ 3 25
Common lugs	2 25@ 3 25	3 75@ 4 50
Medium lugs	3 75@ 4 50	5 25@ 5 75
Good lugs	4 75@ 5 25	6 25@ 7 00
Common leaf	5 00@ 5 50	6 00@ 7 25
Medium leaf	6 00@ 6 75	8 75@10 50
Good leaf	7 50@ 8 25	10 00@13 00
Selections	9 00@10 50	13 50@15 50
Wrappers	12 00@18 25	16 00@22 00

Proceedings of the Legislature.

FRANKFORT, May 4.—SENATE.—The Senate this morning adopted a resolution fixing next Monday week, May 17, as the date of final sine die adjournment, and the House unanimously concurred therein. Mr. J. B. Read made several efforts to postpone consideration of the resolution, but was unsuccessful. A motion to reconsider was tabled. Mr. Hays moved to reconsider the vote by which the bill appointing a steam boiler inspector for Jefferson County was adopted. His motion prevailed, and the bill was recommitted to the Committee on General Statutes. The revenue bill was taken and considered until adjournment. The bill was adopted down to the tenth section of the Sixth Article. The Senate adjourned at 1 o'clock.

HOUSE.—Harvey Meyars called up his bill to tax sleeping car companies. The license of such companies as wish to do business in this State was fixed at $1,000 per annum. A bill was passed requiring persons who float logs down the Kentucky river to brand them. The following resolutions were unanimously adopted: "Resolved, that we do hereby express our earnest approval of the spirit and purpose of Mr. Gladstone's proposed Irish home rule measures, our admiration of the wisdom and love of justice which conceived it, and our sincere hope that it may meet with the approval of the British Parliament. Resolved, further, That we congratulate Hon. Charles S. Parnell and his associates upon the measure of success which has already crowned their efforts on behalf of the Irish people, and we pledge to him and them our earnest and warmest sympathy in their heroic struggle for constitutional liberty." The resolutions were at once reported to the Senate, and on motion of J. R. W. Smith unanimously adopted by that body. The bill to continue the geological survey was reported. Very strong speeches in favor of the bill were made by Bullitt and Worthington. There was much disorder during the debate. A motion to lay on the table was defeated. Before voting on the bill the house adjourned.

FRANKFORT, May 5.—SENATE.—A bill for the benefit of the Kentucky Institution for the Blind was made a special order for to-morrow. A bill to quiet land titles in Eastern Kentucky was laid on the table. The Senate went into committee of the whole, Mr. Berry in the chair, and listened to an address from Francis W. Ratcliffe in behalf of the Kentucky manufacturing establishment for the blind. The revenue bill was considered until adjournment. Considerable opposition to the bill is developing in the Senate. A motion to table the bill this morning received eight affirmative votes.

HOUSE—The unfinished order was the bill to continue the Geological Survey. The main question was ordered. All amendments were voted down except that offered by Mr. Owens. It reduces the appropriation to $1,000 per annum, and was adopted. The bill then passed with ease, 55 votes being cast in its favor. Mr. Owens' amendment to the rules, limiting all future speeches on any measure to ten minutes' duration, was adopted. The education bill was then reported as a special order. Mr. Owens spoke earnestly in favor of his amendment, allowing supplementary taxation by counties in aid of the State fund. The House adjourned without disposing of the bill.

FRANKFORT, May 6.—SENATE.—The House bill taking from graduates of normal schools the right to teach in common schools without certificate was called up and referred to the Committee on Education. The Revenue bill was taken up. Mr. Clay offered an amendment that the rate of taxation on the $100 be 55 cents instead of 47 cents, and all after section 2 be struck out. This was simply to reject the Revenue bill and raise the rate of taxation. Amendment rejected. The report of the Sinking Fund Commissioners on the condition of the convicts at Greenwood and Kensee was filed this morning. It was a very lengthy document.

HOUSE.—A resolution was adopted beginning the regular session of the House at 9:30 a. m., and closing at 2 p. m. The School bill was then taken up. Several amendments were offered and rejected. The bill as reported by the Committee on Education was then passed. The principal features of the bill are those providing for taxation by districts instead of counties, to be levied by vote. Any widow, spinster and alien residing in the district who is a tax-payer and has children of the school age shall be qualified to vote. The above is the language of the bill, although it is to be presumed that spinsters do not have children of the school age. Mr. Strauss called up his motion to reconsider the vote by which the High License bill was defeated, and a motion to table that motion was defeated by a vote of 42 to 39. The motion was discussed until adjournment.

FRANKFORT, May 7.—SENATE—Mr. Hays called up a bill relative to the Sinking Fund of Louisville. Hitherto the commissioners were allowed to deposit the surplus only in State banks. The present bill permits it to be placed in National banks also. The Committee on Claims reported favorably on a bill for the benefit of E. H. Taylor, warden of the penitentiary. It was to give him $630 he paid as house rent while Barry South had possession of the house belonging to the State and built for the warden's use. The bill was lost for want of a constitutional majority. The Senate, by a vote of 19 to 6, defeated the bill taking from graduates of normal schools the right to teach without a common school certificate. The Senate made rapid progress on the revenue bill this morning. A great many sections were adopted unchanged, but when it came to taxing farming tools Mr. Bush moved to exempt them to the extent of $400. An amendment by Mr. Hill that it be $250 was adopted. Libraries of professional people to the extent of $250 were also excepted. Nothing more of importance was done before adjournment.

HOUSE.—The Senate bill regulating subordinate offices in the Superior Court and the Court of Appeals was passed. The committee on the judiciary reported a bill to appoint a commission to investigate the books, papers and accounts of the offices of Auditor of Public Accounts and the State Treasurer. The commission was to be composed of three persons to be appointed by the Governor. The examination is to be completed in six months, and report to be published in six or more newspapers having the largest circulation in the State. Mr. Ramsey, the Republican member from Laurel, offered an amendment that the commission be four in number, two Republicans and two Democrats. Mr. Ramsey's amendment was adopted by a vote of 71 to 13. The bill, as thus amended, was passed. Mr. Straus called up his motion to reconsider the vote by which the Dixon high license bill was defeated. A vote was taken, and the motion was defeated by 50 to 39. Mr. Owens arose and requested to be released from serving on the committee to which the report of the Sinking Fund Commissioners was referred. He was released, and in his stead was appointed Mr. Nesbitt. The House passed the bill for the benefit of A. G. Morgan, of Fayette County, a member of the State militia, who was wounded while on duty. The bill gave him $515. The Committee on Appropriations reported favorably on the Senate bill giving Carl Scheuck, of Newport, $427 for services rendered the Geological Survey. The bill was defeated, and the House then adjourned.

Miscellaneous Items.

THE post-office at Thornburg, Webster County, has been abolished.

WEEDEN BOWEN, one of the best known citizens of Powell County, was probably fatally injured by being thrown from his horse and dragged several hundred yards.

AT Licktown, Tom Howard shot and killed Kelsey Selyers, without any provocation.

RICHARD PRATT, of Mount Washington, has been appointed an Internal Revenue Storekeeper for the Fifth Kentucky District. Also James K. Powell, of Washington County, and J. P. Wilkinson, of Liberty, storekeepers and gaugers for the same district. J. B. Ingels, of Berry, James Matthews, of Rutland, and George H. Huston, of Berlin, have been appointed storekeepers for the Sixth Kentucky District.

MR. KINKAID, a rich lumberman, was waylaid near Mt. Sterling, and riddled with buckshot and robbed of $500, by unknown parties.

JOHN LEIGHTON was hanged at Paintville, for the murder of Daniel Leighton, his cousin.

RICHARD SANFORD, a somnambulist, at Mt. Sterling, fell (while walking in his sleep) through an elevator shaft in that place, sustaining probably fatal injuries.

WM. SANDIAGE, on trial for murder at Harrodsburg, was convicted, and a verdict of seven years in the penitentiary rendered.

ELIJAH HINES, an aged gentleman, dropped dead while walking in the yard at his home in Saltwall, three miles west of Owingsville.

BIRDS OF ILL OMEN.

New York Journals Who Are Saddest Over the Condition of the Democracy—Their Souls Uselessly Harrowed.

One or two of our contemporaries seem to have found their vocation. They have taken to unburdening their prophetic souls. They see somewhere above their political horizon a cloud no bigger than a man's hand, and thereupon they proceed to utter melancholy vaticinations of a direful flood. The New York Tribune is especially solicitous about the welfare of the Democratic party. It fears that it may lose its vantage ground and its prestige of victory. It becomes comically lugubrious over the lack of union in the Democratic ranks and makes a pretense of being quite low-spirited over Democratic prospects. Alas! poor Tribune!

The New York Sun, which is ordinarily equal to any occasion, now and then gets discouraged. Things are not arranged in the way it would like to have them. It opposed the election of the Presidential candidate of the Democratic party, and ever since it has done its utmost to justify its prevision by disparaging the Administration both in its policy and personnel. Indeed, the Sun is so little satisfied with the President and with his unswerving adhesion to the pledges which were made to the country in the name and by the authority of the Democracy that it sometimes looks back with regretful longing to the time when that astute and versatile statesman, Hon. Benj. F. Butler, was its ideal Democratic leader.

But the fact that these two sympathetic and disinterested journals look blue when contemplating the present state of the Democratic party is really no reason for despair in regard to its future. We notice that they anxiously magnified the importance of some Democratic reverses in one or two Western cities—reverses perfectly explicable on other than political grounds—but that they were suspiciously silent about the decisive successes of the party in the recent elections of New York and New Jersey. We fear our esteemed contemporaries sometimes utter thoughts that answer to the parentage of their wishes, that they observe through an obscuring medium the events and conditions from which they forecast the future, and that the dark prophecies in which they indulge are due mostly to the proverbial blindness of those who won't see.

It is very certain that there is a considerable lack of fairness and candor in dealing with facts in this connection. The New York Commercial Advertiser, for instance, quoted at great length from an interview with an Indiana Representative, which was originally published in the Post. That Congressman gave a gloomy picture of the discontent of the disappointed office-seekers with whom he had come in contact. But when Representative Townshend, of Illinois, returned from a visit to his State, and reported that he found members of the Democratic party entirely satisfied with the course of the Administration, our contemporary did not seize upon the facts in the case with equal earnestness.

The fact is, the Democratic party is not an organization of either expectant or disappointed office-seekers. It is made up, instead, of the great body of the people who desire an economical, capable and honest Government. And when these see the credit of the country maintained at its highest point, the Administration pursuing an honorable policy, and the public service being steadily improved, they are apt to conclude that the intrusting of power to the Democratic party has not been in vain.

Our contemporaries may continue to represent all the phases of disappointment, and to make mountains out of mole-hills; but they will find it difficult to persuade the people that what has thus far worked so well is not in itself good. There is a lack of concerted action among Democrats in Congress which we sincerely deplore; but it is greatly exaggerated by sensational or hostile writers. At any rate it is not of a character to weaken the faith of the people in Democratic principles or lead them to withdraw their confidence from the trusted leaders of the Democratic party.—Washington Post.

A Sensible Message.

President Cleveland's special message to Congress on the labor question will be attacked by the croakers and do-nothings, as a matter of course, but it is full of sound sense and good advice. In recommending the establishment of a voluntary board of arbitration he fortifies his position with the same suggestion that has been advanced repeatedly in these columns, that "the very existence of such an agency would invite application to it for advice and counsel, frequently resulting in the avoidance of contention and misunderstanding." Public opinion could be depended upon to do the rest. The implacable, the tyrannical, the lawless, whether representing organized capital or organized labor, would be attended to in due time.

The sentiment of the American people is unalterably opposed to the idea that it is beneath anybody's dignity to take these demands of labor into respectful consideration. It is hostile to the autocratic assumption that organized labor is to be defeated at all hazards on all occasions, and it is more than half-inclined to believe that the police and the military are not maintained solely for the purpose of assisting exacting and grasping employers in coercing their men or in taking advantage of the necessaries of idle labor. With a National board of arbitration of high character in existence, reasonable men will appeal to it, and the unreasonable men who do not appeal to it will be reached by this public sentiment if they defy it.

Mr. Cleveland's message indicates an appreciation on his part of the gravity of the issues now presented, and it is to be hoped that Congress, viewing them in the same light, will act wisely and speedily.—Chicago Herald.

——Either "intimate" friends of Mr. Blaine are trying a deep game or they are being played upon by the wily politician. One of the number asserts that "Mr. Blaine's friends are still loth to believe his political career is completed," and another friend is equally certain he does not desire renomination. This confusion of opinion must eventually lead to trouble. If Blaine really wishes the Presidency, but fails to receive notice by the convention, he will present one of the saddest spectacles in the gloomy pageantry of the times. He should get his forces in hand and not permit them to refuse the crown if he intends making a grab for it. Many a good man is wrecked on the rocks of modesty.—Chicago News.

A HARD DEATH.

The Spoils System Being Strangled by an Honest Leader of the True Democracy—Impotent Republican Clamor.

The spoils system dies hard. President Cleveland has as much trouble with it as the strong man of mythology had with the hydra. It starts up in a threatening shape at each new appointment. Somebody conceives himself slighted and wronged when a Government office is filled by a different person than the one he recommended. There are idle threats and childish denunciations because the President's choice, made after due deliberation and impartial investigation, happens not to agree with the preference of some local leader. The Republican organs eagerly seize upon the circumstance as a notable instance of Democratic disaffection, forgetting that the great Democratic party is heart and soul with the President in his honest efforts to make appointments conducive to the best interests of the public service. The Democratic party is essentially the party of the people, and the people recognize the soundness of the policy which aims only at a better administration of the offices of the Government.

President Cleveland looks to capability rather than personal preference as a qualification for office and, confident in the integrity of his motives and his desire to fill the offices with the best material he can find, he can afford to disregard the petty complaints of interested politicians. He has been subjected to a pressure such as no President has heretofore encountered to depart from the wise, cautious course of making appointments in accordance with the dictates of his better judgment and not of those who sought to control him. The professional office-seekers form but an infinitessimal part of the community, although they make such a great noise and their influence on the people is very small indeed. There has been a constant cry of Democratic disaffection towards the President, kept up by the Republican press, aided by a few newspapers which wear the mask of Democracy to conceal their real designs. Yet the popularity of Mr. Cleveland not only remains unshaken, but is constantly gaining ground. The Democratic party recognize in him a strong, fearless, prudent leader, who puts into practice the true principles of Democracy, and presents to the Nation the unaccustomed example of a Chief Magistrate's adherence to ante-election promises, reform and honesty. There will be always clamor in interested quarters against such a course, but it will be drowned in the mighty voice of the American people proclaiming their indorsement of such a faithful, steadfast servant.—Albany Argus.

HER PRESIDENT TOO.

The Harmony and Affection Existing Between Grover and Miss Rose Cleveland.

One of the ladies who has been a White House guest during the latter part of the winter is my authority for a pleasing insight into the ways and incidents of its life. Like all bachelors, the President is a little indifferent to family intercourse and amenities as a change and rest from his work. About all he sees of the ladies of the White House is at his meals. Then he appears the jovial, jesting man of the world, always ready to make each passing moment the pleasantest. Miss Cleveland addresses him almost without exception as "Mr. President."

When her friend said: "Why do you always call him Mr. President?" she replied: "He is my President as well as everybody else's."

Rarely does she call him Grover. The brother and sister evidently have a deep affection for each other, although little is manifest on the surface. He looks after her wants as faithfully as it is possible to imagine, and many apparently volunteer services from the attendants of the Executive Mansion are suggested by the President. His use of the White House stables is always modified by his regard for Miss Cleveland's wishes. If by any chance he learns that she desires to take a ride, he first learns which carriage and what horses she wants before making his own selection.

Miss Cleveland attends to the duties of her mistressship in the most methodical way, and has lost much, it is said, of her old-time blithesome manner and freedom. One of the curiosities of her situation, which amused her a good deal, is that whenever she goes about the house she is expected to lead the way. If she passes from one room to another with a company of her friends they all stand back and make way for her to pass first, a custom probably as ancient as the English court, by which she, with her democratic notions, was at first a good deal shocked. Evidently all that she does in her position is prompted by a most dutiful desire to be to her brother all that a sister could be. A great deal of nonsense is printed about her monitorship over his public policy and one thing and another. It may be accepted as approximately true that Miss Cleveland does not attempt to interfere or recommend or request any information of her brother on any particular question of the day. Her first aim is to do her duty, simply, modestly and unpretentiously, which explains her success.—Chicago Mail.

DEMOCRATIC ITEMS.

——The Republicans of Wisconsin have carried nearly all the spring elections, even sweeping Milwaukee. The Democrats say it is all the fault of Vilas and Bragg.—N. Y. Mail and Express.

——Of the total number who successfully passed the Civil-Service examination during the year eighty-six per cent. were educated in the common schools, while the other fourteen per cent. had either received a partial or a complete college training. This speaks volumes in favor of the public schools of the land.—Philadelphia Call.

——Land Commissioner Sparks, by last accounts, is doing well. His famous order arresting land entries and the granting of patents in an extensive region of the West has been revoked, it is true, but patents to land speculators are not issued any faster on that account. The triumph of the land pirates over the Commissioner was more apparent than real.—Philadelphia Record.

——We understand that Judge E. R. Hoar, who stands at the head, or near the head, as a lawyer in Massachusetts, believes that President Cleveland is right in the contest forced upon him by the Republican majority of the Senate. Judge Hoar had a similar contention with the Senate when he was Attorney-General in President Grant's Cabinet.—Boston Herald.

THE RECORDER.

WEDNESD'Y, MAY 12, 1886.

RIDDELL & HALL, Proprietors.

Rates of Subscription.

One year	$1.50
Six months	75
Three months	40

Payment invariably in advance.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1 Column	1 year	$80
1	½ "	40
½	1 "	20
½ "	½ "	20
¼ "	1 "	10
¼ "	½ "	6

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

August Election 1886.

For Circuit Judge
WARREN MONFORT.
For Commonwealths Attorney
JOHN S. GAUNT.

For Circuit Clerk
W. L. RIDDELL.
For County Judge
E. H. BAKER.
For County Attorney
S. W. TOLIN.
For County Clerk
M. T. GARNETT.
For Sheriff
J. R. CLUTTERBUCK.
For County Superintendent
J. P. RYLE.
For Surveyor
W. E. VEST.
For Jailer
SAMUEL COWEN.
For Assessor
G. M. RILEY.
For Coroner
Dr. A. A. MURAT.

Subscribe for the Recorder.

THE strikes are a thing of the very recent past.

THERE are 117 moonshiners in the Covington jail.

THE legislature has resolved to adjourn on the 17th inst.—the best resolution adopted during the session.

HON. O. F. ROBERTS, of Dearbon county, Indiana, is a candidate for State Senator in his district.

THE high license bill was finally disposed of in the House by a refusal to reconsider the vote by which the bill was rejected.

THE strikes did not extend to this office, there being no conflict between capital and labor here, the latter being our only acquaintance and companion.

So soon as we can obtain a copy of the Boone county prohibition law, which is to be voted on at the next August election, we will publish it. We have written for a copy.

A CIRCUS is advertised to give a performance in Frankfort at an early date. Would not think it would be extravagantly patronized, a large monkey show having been giving exhibitions there all winter.

THE Cincinnati authorities had the militia in close call that their services might be brought to bear immediately upon the appearance of any trouble with the strikers. Monday was the day upon which violence was anticipated.

NO ONE has received a commission as postmaster in Covington as yet. The public generally has not been, and probably never will be, informed why the office so unexpectedly deflected from the course it was certain (?) to go at first. There are reasons it is said.

THE Senate has amended the revenue bill, which sends it back to the House, and its consideration there may necessitate an extension of the session beyond the 17th inst., the date heretofore agreed upon for adjournment. The convict trouble is also before the House, another matter that is likely to require much time.

IT will be but a short time now before candidates for State offices will be as thick as blackberries. Occasionally a locality pops up, demanding that Hon. Thos. L. Jones be given the office as a matter of right accruing from his treatment in the last gubernatorial convention, but we fail to notice this spontaneousness from the sections opposing Mr. Jones in the last campaign.

HON. W. E. ARTHUR was nominated for circuit judge in the twelfth district. There was a split in the convention, the bolters nominating Desha, of Harrison county. Arthur is the nominee of the regularly constitued convention, according to the decision of such men as Judge O'Hara. The indications are that Desha is realizing that he is in the wrong political harness, and will probably not make the race.

AT the last election of representatives the people made a very grave mistake when they chose as members of the General Assembly so many candidates for Congress. About one-half of the members of the present legislature have the Congressional bee in their hats where it will remain a long time before some of the would-be Congressmen will go to Washington at Uncle Sam's expense.

IT is doubtful about the amendment proposed to the Boone county prohibition law, passing. The amendment proposed to refund to those taking out licenses to sell whisky, the money they are out in proportion to the time the law curtails their privilege if ratified by the county at August election. The committee to which the amendment was referred will not report favorable on it.

WE have been watching the Capital's portraits of the Senators and Representatives, and have read, with considerble interest, the biographies, or obituaries, following them, and can't conceive how it is that such an able set of men as the Capital represents them to be, has managed to fall so far below what statesmen of the first water should prove to be when given an opportunity to distinguish themselves.

THE Anarchists in this country take advantage of every labor strike and give vent to their devilish, and destructive desires, which they dare not display under any other circumstances. Anarchists, under the guise of laboring men, advocate the destruction of property and life, and the poor laborer gets credit for the advocacy of incendiary measures. The destruction of property the laboring classes can not afford to advocate.

THE petition asking the legislature to pass a law substituting three commissioners to transact the business of the court of claims and levy of this county, has culminated in a law. After receiving the petition asking its passage, Hon. Reuben Conner had it put through both houses without delay. If the act is in the proper shape it will expedite the county's business, and keep matters in a shape that the county may know at short intervals exactly what the obligations of the county are. With three good commissioners and the county judge, with the law in the proper shape, the financial affairs of the county will not suffer. Who will be commissioners? Don't all speak at once.

Amendment to Boone Co. Road Law

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

SEC. 1. That an act entitled an act relating to opening, repairing, keeping in repair, and levying and collecting taxes for the benefit of the public roads in Boone county approved February 22, 1884 be amended as follows: That whenever the County Court of Boone county orders a new road opened, as by law required, it shall be the duty of all persons who are now subject to road service to meet the Supervisors of roads at the time when and place where such Supervisors may so order in their respective districts, with such tools and implements as to him may seem proper, and proceed with the work of opening such new road until the same is ready for public travel.

SEC. 2. It shall be the duty of all persons owning land and a team of horses, who are subject to road service to furnish such team of horses and also such plows, scrapers and wagons as may seem necessary to do the plowing, scraping and hauling on said new road, until the same is completed. The persons enumerated in this and the proceeding section, shall perform the duties required of them, after having received a verbal notice for two days before the time they are required to so work. Said notice shall inform the person notified, of the time when and the place where they are required to labor, and any one failing to work or furnish teams and wagons, scrapers, &c., shall at once be reported to the Judge of the County Court, who shall have the power to fine them for contempt, in any sum not exceeding $30, and if the same be not paid or replevied at once, the person so fined shall be committed to jail until the same be paid at the rate of one day for each $2 of said fine.

SEC. 3. This amendment shall take effect from and after its passage.
Approved March 6th, 1886.

The storm Monday night was pretty lively so far as heard. A barn on N. W. Botts' farm was struck by lightning, and injured considerbly.

Adam Kahr invested $2 on the Lexington races Thursday, and drew out $329 on a combination ticket.—Capital.

Another big corn crop will be raised in Robertson this season, and it is probable the acreage and yield will be greater than last year, as a stronger quality of land will be seeded.—Tribune.

Secretary Manning continues to improve slowly but steadily every day, and his physicans now speak confidently of his nearly complete recovery, His closest friends say that he has no thought of resigning, and as yet has made no arrangements for his summer vacation.

The Teachers' Duty to his Profession.

The position of the teacher is a peculiar one. It is not only responsible but exceedingly difficult to fill. To a certain extent he holds the future welfare of the State in his power; if his work is awkwardly or unskillfully done, the bad effects are apt to be perpetuated. Any remissness on his part may result in irreparable harm. He should constantly study for higher culture, and not only be well educated, but should strive to possess the necessary qualification for successful teaching. He may have all the education requisite but be unable to impart it understandingly; much depends on the manner of communicating intelligence.

He owes it to himself and those in his authority to keep enlightened in regard to methods of instruction, inculcating principles, and whatever efforts are being made for progressive education; a library of books on education teaching, will in a measure supply this demand. From them we may get fresh food for thought and add to our store-house of knowledge, but we should not fail to develope our intellectual growth in other branches, read current and standard literature, and give our minds something to assimilate besides the ever present subject of, how shall I teach these pupils in the best way?" Train them mentally, morally, physically and fit them for the active business of life. Educational periodicals supply a deficiency that could not well be reached by other means. One or more of these every teacher would find it profitable to take and thoroughly peruse, and by this means they keep informed about educational affairs of the State. It is necessary in order to maintain our standing, and be successful that we be conversant with the movements of the majority of our profession and be able to consider intelligently what others are attempting to accomplish for pedagogical reform. The association of higher minds, and more advanced thinkers will elevate us and cause us to wander in more fertile fields and give more interest in our work.

The principal duty of the teacher is to keep the best school possible, according to our surroundings, well organized, disciplined and governed, to do all in his power to render study interesting and investigation profitable. The plan of telling a scholar to do as you say and not, as you do, will never be carried out or obeyed, the teacher should be all he expects his scholars to be, persevering in whatever endeavors he makes; pure, if he wishes the lessons of virtue he is to instill to take root; honest in all his words and actions if he wishes obedient and reliable pupils; genial and considerate that he may keep the love, respect and consideration of those in his care; knowledge seeking, if he would lead others in the paths he must walk before, prepare the way and not act as driver, but, by presenting the inducements, profits and pleasures to be gained from learning cause them to be willing followers. He may not realize immediate returns for the qualities involved but they will enrich the soil even if it is not in a favorable condition to germinate them.

The teacher should endeavor to work in harmony with his profession, lay aside bickering, and labor for whatever means will result in professional improvement, keep his mind prepared for fresh impressions, and not be too ready to reject an old and successful method until he find a new one that can better fill its place. Even then it should only be adopted after a careful study of the system introduced; but a teacher should never degenerate into a mere copyist, a follower of methods simply because they are recommended, but should decide for himself whether it would be applicable to his school and situation. We should aim at originality and individuality in our efforts, where others have succeeded we may fail, where they have met with obstacles we may face them with a bold front and overcome them.

We need to have free, honest and earnest discussions, to lay aside dogmatism, the thought that our way is the best, and continually search for something better. Hold to that we find good, but reject whatever we find unpracticable, there is much to be found by research and investigation, a zealous striving for better things will result in conspicous growth.

By attending teachers meetings, even if we do not desire or cannot aid in the discussions, we will most certainly learn something from the remarks of our colaborors, profit from the mistakes they have made, and be saved the trouble of the experience. All discussions should be entirely free from personal animosity, and be designed to foster and uphold the great cause of education. We should not absent ourselves from our county association simply from the wish to escape the responsibilities of the meetings, or because it will cause us some trouble to prepare ourselves on the subject assigned us. Simply looking on, or even passively participating in the exercises, has much good in it, and may be the beginning which will result in conspicuous worth. The meetings furnish a means of recreation, interchange of tested ideas and views, and give you a more extensive acquaintance with other teachers. If any one has reached such a high state of perfection that he imagines interchange of thought, would be of no benefit to him; that his methods are so thorough they cannot be improved upon, evidently if he is an ardent educator he should have sufficient consideration for his fellow laborers to give them the benefit of his knowledge. The world will never be so situated that he can have all the children directly under his supervision and educate them all. The surest way of bringing fame in his line would be to lend his energies to educate the educators, wherever and whenever opportunity presents itself, even though if it only in his county association, he should have pride enough to want his county to stand in the front ranks of education and culture, and assist in doing it, and not sneer at the rest of us for trying to improve ourselves as teachers.

Let us all thoughtfully study the great science of education, and not be like too many now are, drifting aimlessly with no feeling but apathy in our work, but with a desire to vanish ignorance and up-build character, set up our standard and work to reach the desired perfection. Eminent attainment in any particular line demands concentration.

STATE NEWS.

Out of 120 counties in the State, only sixty have turnpikes or gravel roads.

The 21 acre crop of tobacco of Jas Russell, of Bourbon county, sold for $2,440.

The bill making the counties pay for their own blank books passed the Senate by a vote of 14 to 10.

John H. Wren, for the killing of Wm. Ross, of Paris, has been sentenced to the penitentiary for life.

According to the April report of the commissioner of agriculture the wheat crop throughout the State is promising a better yield than for a great many years past.

There is general complaint among farmers that the tobacco fly is devouring all the plants. Beds that contained large and thrifty plants a week ago are perfectly barren now, and a great many are resowing, hoping yet to raise plants in time for setting.—Owen News.

W. R. Cook, of near Hammond's Mill, in the New Columbus precinct, had a mare to drop twin colts on the 20th of April, one of which was a black mare mule, about two feet high, and the other was a sorrel horse colt. The mule colt only lived three or four days, but the horse colt is still alive and doing well.—Owen News.

Judge Cooper adjourned the Breathitt circuit court upon the unanimous petition of the people and bar, because of the fact that the recent floods in the Kentucky river and its confluents had swept away the fences and the entire physical force of the country was demanded to replace them, that crops might be planted in time to mature.—Scorcher.

Mat Wilson, aged sixteen, was driving a loaded wagon about six miles below Warsaw, one day last week, when the horses became frightened and ran off. Wilson was thrown on the horses' heels and his feet catching on the singletrees, he was dragged on the ground about one-quarter of a mile, his head being mashed into a jelly, and his body frightfully mangled.

Will Hansford, jr., has discovered a man who fishes in a novel and successful way by which he keeps his geese out of mischief. He ties short lines with baited hooks to their feet and drives them into the water, and they become frightened when the fish jerk the lines and run out on the bank with the fishes faster than two men can take them off and bait the hooks.—Stanford Journal.

Press Opinions.

The Chicago press comments on strikes as follows:

Inter-Ocean: The shutting up of the flannel-mouthed professional agitator would result in the shutting down of fewer industries.

Tribune: One howling anarchist is the cause of greater evil in this country than a hundred Chinamen.

News: It is every man's privilege to be independent; it is every man's duty to be law-abiding. One hour's rioting costs more than a month of arbitrating.

Herald: The Trades Assembly committeemen are the true friends of labor. The socialistic brawlers are the worst enemies of labor. Intelligent men will not be slow in recognizing the difference between them.

Tribune: Let our authorities take a lesson from those of New York City; who have promptly met and stamped out every form of anarchical agitation as soon as it came to the surface or showed its ugly head anywhere in sight.

News: As for the incitors of this riot—the men of the Spies-Parsons kidney—no mercy should be shown them. It is pretty well known that the bloodthirsty circulars distributed on the North Side Monday night and throughout the city yesterday, came from the printing office of the anarchist Spies. They are of a piece with his speeches he has been delivering, and the inflammatory articles he has been printing for the last 12 months.

Inter-Ocean: Strikes and strikers are lost sight of now. There can be no difference between employer and employe when it comes to the condemnation of such outrages as that of last night. Laboring men must disentangle themselves from the circumstances that have been thrown about them by the anarchists. They are less than men if they will permit themselves to be used in any way to forward the schemes of the enemies of society and government.

SHERIFF'S SALE FOR TAXES.

By virtue of taxes due the Sheriff of Boone Co, I or my deputy, will on Monday, June 7th, '86,

between the hours of 12 o'clock m. and 2 p. m., at the Court-house door in Burlington, Boone county, Ky., expose to Public sale to the highest bidder, for cash in hand the following property, (or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the amount of taxes due, thereon and cost,) to wit:

A house and lot in the town of Petersburg, Boone county, Kentucky, adjoining the lot now occupied by Jos. Jarrell. Levied on as the property of Mariah Parker, for taxes for the years 1883-4-5.
Amount to be raised by sale, $5.45.

A house and lot in the town of Petersburg, Ky. Levied on as the property of Jane Wills, for taxes the years of 1883-4-5.
Amount to be raised by sale, $6 85.

A tract of land containing 49½ acres in Boone county, Ky, adjoining Morgan Rice the Willis heirs, Hartman, & c. Levied on as the property of C. D. Platt, for taxes for 1885.
Amount to be raised by sale $32 84.

A lot in the town of Taylorsport, Boone county, Ky. Levied on as the property of Patrick Crosby, for taxes for the years of 1883-4-5.
Amount to be raised by sale $9 10.

One house and lot on the waters of Gunpowder Creek, near Limaburg Post-office, Boone county, Ky. Levied on as the property of John Wilson, col., for the years of 1883-4-5.
Amount to be raised by sale $7 00.

About 70 acres of land at Big Bone Springs, Boone county, Ky. Levied on as the property of C. A. McLaughlin, for taxes for the years of 1884-5.
Amount to be raised by sale, $20 30.

One horse and lot near Gunpowder Post office, Boone county, Ky. Levied on as the property of John Brumback, for taxes for the years of 1883-4-5.
Amount to be raised by sale $12 55.

J. R. CLUTTERBUCK, S. B. C.
May 7, 1886.

NOTICE.

The delinquent Poll Tax List for 1885 will be sold by districts on the first Monday in June, 1886, at 1 o'clock or thereabout in the Court-House by an order of the Levy Court and Court of Claims. S. W. TOLIN, Co. Atty.

I. C. STEINHARTER,
416 & 418 Pike St.
COVINGTON, - KENTUCKY.

Highest Price paid for sheared Wool and Sheep-skins, Ed. Golloway, of Florence, Buyer.

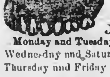
ROBERT B. REED
Attorney at Law.
OFFICE AT - - UNION, KY

F. RIDDELL. H. P. STEPHENS.
RIDDELL and STEPHENS,
ATTORNEYS at LAW.
BURLINGTON, KY.
Office over Dudley Rouse's Store.

W. E. VEST,
COUNTY SURVEYOR
WALTON, KY.
Is prepared to do all kinds of surveying. All orders sent him through the mail to Walton, will receive his prompt attention.

DR. A. B. HARRYMAN,
Resident Dentist.
Office over Post-Office
AURORA, INDIANA.

J. J. Landram. G. G. Hughes.
LANDRAM & HUGHES,
ATTORNEYS at LAW.
Will practice in the Boone Circuit Cour and the Court of Appeals. Prompt atten tion given to Collections, on application t G. G. Hughes, Burlington, Ky.

E. E. IGOE,


Resident Dentist,
Rising Sun, Ind.
WITH
J. P. Ulrey.
Monday and Tuesday at Rising Sun. Ind
Wednesday and Saturday at Aurora, Ind.
Thursday and Friday at Lawrenceburg.

S. W. TOLIN.
ATTORNEY AT LAW
BURLINGTON, - - Y
Office in Court-house on 2d floor.
Will manage litigation in any of the Courts of the State, contracts and other legal instruments drawn up at reasonable rates. A prompt an studious attention given to business intrusted to my care. A trial solicited. 12-1y

W. J. RICE,
CARPENTER & BUILDER,
BULLITSVILLE, KY.
Is prepared Raise or Move EITHER LOG or FRAME BUILDINGS On Short Notice,
And at the Lowest Possible Figures.
33-tf Your orders respectfully solicited

LUMBER.
Geo. M. Bedinger & Co.,
Erlanger, - - Ky.
We keep constantly on hand all kinds of Lumber, Laths and Shingles. Also Builder's supplies of all kinds.
—Come and see Us—

AGENTS WANTED for DR. SCOTT'S beautiful Electric Corsets. Sample free to those becoming agents. No risk, quick sales. Territory given. Satisfaction guaranteed. Address DR. SCOTT, 842 Broadway, NEW YORK.

County Directory

OFFICERS.

Assessor—G. M. Riley.
Jailer—Samuel Cowen.
County Surveyor—W. E. Vest.
Coroner—Dr. A. A. Murat, Constance.
Superintendent of Schools—H. J. Foster

COURTS.

CIRCUIT COURT meets the 2d Monday in April and first Monday in October, P. U. Major, Judge; W. L. Riddell, Clerk A. G. DeJarnette, Commonwealths Attorney; W. L. Riddell, Trustee Jury Fund.

COUNTY COURT meets the first Monday in every month: L. H. Dills, Judge; S. W. Tolin, County Attorney, M. T. Garnett, Clerk; J. R. Clutterbuck, Sheriff, T. W. Finch and W. T. German, Deputy Sheriffs.

QUARTERLY COURT meets the first Monday in March, June, September and December. The officers of the County Court preside.

COURT OF CLAIMS meets the first Monday in November.

MAGISTRATES' COURTS are held in March, June, September and December, as follows:

Bellevue—M. B. Green, first Saturday, and T. H. Sutton, third Monday. J. M. Moody, Constable.

Burlington—E. H. Baker, Thursday after first Monday, and Oscar Gaines, fourth Monday. C. W. Saxton, Constable.

Carlton A. G. McConnell, Wednesday after second Monday, and B. H. Ryle, Saturday after third Monday Charles H. Aera, Constable.

Petersburg—Jos. Hensley, Wednesday after first Monday, and L. A. Loder fourth Saturday. Geo. Comer, Constable.

Beaver—W. M. Rouse, Friday after the third Monday, and Andrew Ellis, Fiday after 1st Monday— T. J. Coyle, Constable.

Union—M. C. Norman, Thursday after third Monday, and H. Bannister, Thursday after second Monday. H. G. Blanton, Constable.

Hamilton—F. M. Howlett, Tuesday after second Monday; W. W. Garnett, Wednesday after third Monday, R. L. Roberts Constable.

Walton—T. F. Carley, second Friday, S. T. Johnson, Tuesday after second Friday Al Arnold, Constable.

Verona—W. E. Sleet, Tuesday after first Monday, J. J. Brumback, Tuesday after third Monday; J. H. Callahan, constable.

Florence—T. K. Dixon, third Saturday, Joe Wagstaff, second Saturday. Craig Pettit, Constable.

Taylorsport—A. B. Whitlock, fourth Monday, W. A. Goodridge, third Saturday Thos. Watts, constable.

FARM IMPLEMENTS.
Buy your Farming Implements, Fence Wire, Cutting Boxes, Feed Grinders, Corn Shellers, Road Scrapers, Excavating Carts, Sewing Machines, Mowers and Reapers and
Deering TWINE Binders,
GROCERIES, &c.
READY MIXED PAINT.
—of—
J. C. Smith,
Successor to W. H. HILL & Co.
22 and 24 EAST THIRD STREET,
Cincinnati, Ohio.
Or of our local Agent C. W. RILEY, North Bend, Ohio, (Ky. Box). All goods sold strictly on their merits.

ATTENTION!
TOBACCO
Shippers and Raisers, you can buy
Tobacco
Hogheads,
Set up or Knock Downs,
AT THE COMPANY'S MILLS
At Lawrenceburg or Aurora, Ind.
Orders by mail will meet our prompt attention.

LAND FOR SALE.
50 acres good land near Constance, this county. All in grass and well watered. Terms easy—apply to this OFFICE.

FOR SALE!
Henry County Farm of 120 acres, situated on pike 1 mile from Smithfield, on Louisville & Lexington Railroad, 85 miles from Louisville. Said farm has on it a good frame house, of 8 rooms, good barn and all other outbuildings, and never failing water, convenient to good schools and churches. The land is first-class, all in grass but 25 acres, which is in wheat, 25 acres of fine tobacco land which has never been cultivated. Terms reasonable. For further information apply to
B. D. SPERGIN, Smithfield, Ky.
Henry county. 52-3m

DeLAND & CO'S

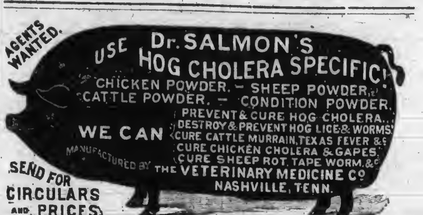
SODA
Best in the World.
For Sale by Dudley Rouse,
Burlington, Ky.

The Combined Stallion,
RECTOR
Will make the season of 1886, Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays at Harvy Marshalls at Waterloo, and the rest of the week at my stable at Bellevue, at $10 to insure a mare with foal, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.
Rector is a beautiful black, 7 years old, 15½ hands high, and a good all-purpose horse. He was sired by Criss, dam Black Nose.
Not responsible for accidents should any occur. ROBT. CLORE, Bellevue, Ky.

WANTED—LADY Active and intelligent, to represent in her own locality an old firm. References required. Permanent position and good salary. GAY & BROS., 14 Barclay St., N. Y.

Subscribe for the RECORDER.

THE
COMBINATION FENCE
A fence that is wanted, and in time will be used by every one that wants a fence, either around the House, Garden or Farm, as it is cheap, durable and servicable, to keep in check horses, cattle, sheep, hogs, chickens, etc., and restrain wolves, dogs, and rabbits, etc.
Having all the advantages of a picket fence in restraining animals from jumping, and not so liable to decay, and at much less cost, and no barbs to injure valuable stock, thus placing it far in advance of any other fence now in use, hence it must be the fence of the future; all who have it want more.
It is portable and can be removed from field to field by drawing staples from posts, taking out the splice lath and rebundling it. We offer this fence for sale in bundles of five and six rod at Burlington.
DILLS & CRISLER,
Burlington, Ky.



AGENTS WANTED.
USE Dr. SALMON'S HOG CHOLERA SPECIFIC!
CHICKEN POWDER. — SHEEP POWDER.
CATTLE POWDER. — CONDITION POWDER.
WE CAN
PREVENT & CURE HOG CHOLERA.
DESTROY & PREVENT HOG LICE & WORMS.
CURE CATTLE MURRAIN, TEXAS FEVER &c
CURE CHICKEN CHOLERA & GAPES.
CURE SHEEP ROT, TAPE WORM, &c
MANUFACTURED BY THE VETERINARY MEDICINE CO
NASHVILLE, TENN.
SEND FOR CIRCULARS AND PRICES.
For Sale by W. F. McKim, Burlington, Ky.

The fine harness and saddle stallion
Young WOODPECKER
Will make the season of 1886, Saturdays and Mondays at J. W. Gaines' stable at Burlington, Tuesdays and Wednesdays at Gainesville, Thursdays and Fridays at J. W. Gaines' farm near Plattsburg, at $10 to insure a colt to stand up and suck, any person parting with a mare after being bred forfeits the insurance money.
Young Woodpecker was sired by Nat Carpenter's Star of the West, he by Woodpecker; he by Bertrand; dam imported Buzzard, Young Woodpecker's dam was a 3 minute mare, by Jeff Davis, g. d. by Russell's Pilot; he by old Sir William.
Not responsible for accidents.
TEN BROCK. This fine young jack will make the season at the same time and places and on the same terms.
He is black with mealy nose, 15 hands high. He was sired by Espertero; he by a large Spanish jack: dam of Ten Brock, Mollie McCarty, was sired by Longfellow, Perry Tucker's jack; g. d. by A. S. Piatt's jack, the best breeder ever in this county.
F. C. Wingate, J. W. Gaines,
J. J. Lillard, C. A. Gaines.

DENMARK CHIEF, JR.,
Will stand the present season at my stable at Sand Run, at $10 to insure, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with. Not responsible for accidents. I will reserve a lien on all colts until the insurance money is paid.
Denmark Chief, jr., is a bright mahogany bay, 10 yrs old, 15¾ hands high, fine length, with as fine hip loin and quarter as ever put on a horse. His blood-like head is full of expression, indicative of the finest disposition; and, take him all in all, he is one of the finest models of the Ky., horse.
He was sired by Old Denmark Chief; he by Old Black Denmark, formerly owned by A. R. Alexander, of Woodford county, Ky.; Old Denmark was sired by the old race-horse Imported Hedgeford; Wm. Allen's dam sorrel Betty, a Copperbottom mare, sired by Daniel Boone; he by Tom Crowder; he by Black Pilot, the old horse Alexander. CHRISTOPHER BARLOW.

Riddell's Hambletoni'n
Is a bay, 15½ hands high, 8 years old, and will make the season of 1886 at my stable, 2 miles from Anderson's Ferry, and 2 miles from Hebron, and will serve mares at $10.
He is by Strader's Hambletonian; dam Richie Sanders; she by Green's Bashaw. He is one of the best breeders in the county his colts are good size, good workers and trotters. J. A. RIDDELL.
I had a colt by this horse which I sold for $300, unbroke, Geo. Gaines.

The fine harness and saddle horse,
Young Hedgeford,
Will make the season of 1886, at my stable 1½ miles from Petersburg, at the forks of the Burlington and Woolper pike, and will serve mares at $10 to insure a colt to stand up and suck, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.
DESCRIPTION & PEDIGREE.
He is a dark mahogany bay, 4 years old, 16 hands high, and has fine style and action. He was sired by Old Hedgeford, the premium saddle and general purpose horse, who was sold to Joe Emmet for $1,000. Young Hedeford's dam was a fine mare from Burbon county, Ky.
Not responsible for accidents.
J. W. BERKSHIRE.

OHIO VOLUNTEER,
Will stand the season of 1886, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of each week at David Clements', near Jeff Utz's, on the Union & Rising Sun grade, 4 miles from Union, and the rest of the time at my stable in Burlington, at $10 to insure, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with. Not responsible for accidents.
Ohio Volunteer is a beautiful dark brown has fine form and action, is a sure foal getter and a good trotter. His many colts prove him a model breeder.
Ohio Volunteer was sired by Goldsmith's Volunteer; he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian, dam Forrest Telltale, by Edwin Forrest; 2d dam Teleman. C. W. SAXTON.

JENKINS'

ALMONT,
This renouned trotting stallion and sire of trotters will make the season of 1886, at the stable of John D. Norris, ½ mile from Petersburg, Boone county, Ky., at $30 the season, with the privilege of returning in 1887 should the mare fail to get with foal, money due July 1st, 1886.
Jenkins' Almont was sired by Wither's Almont, the sire of 26 horses with records of 2:30 or better. 1st dam by Toledo; 2nd dam Soushy Grays Highlander; 3d dam by Coner de Leon, a noted pacer.
Jenkins' Almont is the sire of Bessie G. 2:25½; Grafton, 2:28½; Will Heath, trial, 2:21, and others gifted with great trotting speed.
Pasture furnished at $3 per month. Care will be exercised to prevent accidents or escapes, but will not be responsible should any occur. We are endeavoring to give the people of Boone Co., a chance to get a fine colt at a low price. J. D. NORRIS & Co.

BILL CHEERE
Will make the season at the stable of John G. Bradford in Union, Ky. at $15 to insure Bill Cheere was bought of Mr. W. Duncan, of Illinois, who imported him. He is the most perfect draft horse in the county.

GUIZOT
Will make the season at my stable in Petersburg, Ky. at $16 to insure, Guizot was imported from France, and is a fine breeder. GEO. W. TERRILL, Petersburg, Ky.

The fine stallion, Conner's
ALMONT
Will make the present season at my stable at Bullitsville, Ky., and will serve mares at $10 to insure, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.
Care will be taken to prevent accidents, but will not be responsible should any occur.
ALMONT is 6 years old, a beautiful rich mahogany bay, black mane and tail, with two white ankles behind, stands 16 hands high, and shows much style and speed.
ALMONT was by Bidwell's Almont, jr., bred by Col. West; got by Almont, son of Alexander's Abdallah; dam Belle Forrest, by Edwin Forrest. Almont is a half brother to Sensation; 1st dam Topsy, the fine premium mare, by Topgallant; g. d. a Belle Founder mare, g. g. d. a Copperbottom mare that possessed all the fine saddle qualities. J. D. CONNER.

CRIGLER'S ALMONT,
Will make the season of 1886 at my stable on Gunpowder Creek 1½ miles above Limaburg and at Florence, Ky., at $20, to insure a mare with foal, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.
Will be at Florence the first three days of each week, and the rest of the time at my stable. Not responsible for accidents.
ALMONT is a dark chestnut sorrel, 15¾ hands high, with fine style, and has trotted his mile in less than 2:30; he is by Almont jr., he by Wither's Almont; he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian; Almonts 1st dam Goodwood; 2d dam Daniel Boone; 3 dam Blacknose.

REX DENMARK.
Will make the season at the same time and places, at $10 to insure a mare in foal.
He is a beautiful brown with fine mane and tail, style that cannot be beaten; is 16 hands high. He has been shown 11 times and taken 10 ties, in Missouri.
He is by Crigler's Denmark; he by Denmark Chief; he by Black Denmark; Old Denmark by Imported Messenger. Rex Denmark's 1st dam Woodpecker Star of the West; 2d dam Mohawk; 3d dam Tom Crowder. W. A. CRIGLER.

1886. STALLIONS FOR 1886.
SAM HARRIS.
DESCRIPTION—Bay, no white, 16¼ hands, fine style, good trotting action, 5 years old, with six weeks breaking and handling trotted a full mile over Chester Park in 2:58, full brother to Royalmont, who has a record 2:32 with a private trial 2:22 in his 5 year old form.
PEDIGREE—By Bidwell's Almont, dam Louisiana by Tornado; he by Tempest; he by Royal-george; her dam by Old Mazeppa; she was sold in 1874 and delivered in Buffalo for $1,500, and afterwards shipped south. She trotted the Buffalo track in 2:35 the day of sale.
SAM HARRIS will make the season of 1886 for $25, payable when the service is rendered, with the privilege of breeding till a colt is obtained.
JOHN S.
DESCRIPTION—Dark iron gray, 5 yrs. old, very stylish, good action, 16 hands high.
PEDIGREE—By Bidwell's Almont; 1st dam by Ohio Volunteer; he by Goldsmith's Volunteer; he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian; 2d dam White Eagle. John S. will make the season of 1886 for $10 to insure, due when the fact is known or mare parted with.
Bidwell's Almont by Wither's Almont; he by Alexander's Abdallah; he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian; 1st dam by Edwin Forrest; Bidwell's Almont sired Judge Lindsay with a 5 yr. old record 2:21¼, Annie W. 2:22½, and two others with public record below 2:30; also Royalmont with a public record 2:32 and private trial 2:22. Pasture furnished at $3 per month, but not responsible for accidents.
These two stallions will make the season of 1886, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at Bullittsville and the rest of the week at my stable 1½ mile west of Anderson's Ferry.
JAS. L. RILEY, Bullittsville, Ky.

Local News.

Strawberry festivals are in order.

Dr. Gill Rice is very sick, his condition gradually growing worse.

Our local butcher has provided himself with a daily market wagon.

Rain called another halt in the gardening business night before last.

Nicholas Schwartz, of the Bellevue neighborhood, is in very poor health.

WANTED—A good farm hand—married man only. G. T. GAINES.

Last week the rain began growing monotonous with the farmers.

The Sheriff has again called the RECORDER to his assistance in collecting taxes.

The farmer who has planted no corn yet is considered slightly behind with his work.

Erlanger and McVille communications came to hand to late for last week's issue.

The County Superintendent reports 3,401 children in this county within the school age.

A great many watermelons have been planted in the Bellevue neighborhood this season.

Prof. Mack's school at Gainesville was out last Friday. He will now return to the hub.

Dickey Stephens, of East Bend, delivered a drove of cattle at this place Saturday afternoon.

Monday the Supervisors of tax commenced their inspection of the Assessor's book for 1886.

A small, green bug has attacked the maple leaves, from the effect of which many of the leaves are dying.

We understand that W. J. Rice has purchased a lot in Burlington, and will build on it in the near future.

According to the old sign, this will not be a good crop year. There is not a great abundance of locust bloom.

For Sale—Wm. Fritz's best Corn Beef at 8 cents per pound at B. F. Zimmers, Constance, Boone county, Ky. 26tf.

Everybody in the Petersburg neighborhood is investing in a patent churn power. Butter will be cheap down there.

Monday night the lightning struck and burned a hay stack for Richard Blankenbecker, of the Sugartit neighborhood.

The infant child of Mrs. Simeon Terrill, who has been at Dr. Grant's for several days, has been quite sick all the time.

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Garnett was preached in the Bellevue Baptist church last Sunday by Rev. R. E. Kirtley.

The Southern Hotel in Florence is now in operation, with that popular landlord, Geo. Stamler, late of Walton, proprietor.

The extensive garden firm of Rouse & Cowen, organized last winter, (while the weather was very cool,) have struck, (sun.)

Furnish & Piper have sold their saw-mill on the Petersburg pike, near Lee Gaines', to a Mr. Kennedy, of Brown county, Ohio.

A trio of lone fishermen from the city were doing Gunpowder creek last week. The fishing was good but the catching very poor.

WANTED—1,000 men with 40 cents each to buy a pound of Ligett & Meyers best Star Tobacco, at B. F. Zimmer's, Constance, Boone county, Ky.

The date of holding the Ministers and Deacons' meeting has been changed to the Friday before the fifth Saturday in this month, at Independence.

Wilson, one of the parties to the recent Williamstown tragedy is under bail in the sum of $5,000 for his appearance of the Grant Circuit Court at its next term.

The Odd-Fellows Lodge at this place will give a picnic in Walton's woods at the junction of the Woolper and Bellevue pike on the second Saturday in next month.

A boy will expend more hard labor moving heavy stones in hope of finding a nickle, than you can induce him to perform in the garden or over a sawbuck for five nickles.

There was a strike among the cooks in Burlington, yesterday morning, a large number of them going to the city. The strikers returned that evening and resumed work, at the old wages.

J. M. Conner is the busiest man in all these diggings. He has made a very large purchase of this year's clip of wool, and it is a crop which comes in with a rush when delivery time arrives

Jim Westbay has quit trying to run grey-hounds down for $5 reward, and taken a contract for hauling pianos for church entertainments. Jim goes on the principal that variety is the spice of life.

A specimen of Lustro painting, executed by Mrs. Mary Green, has been on exhibition for several days at Dudley Rouse's store. It is a very handsome piece of work, and is admired by all who have seen it.

Geo. H. Walton was in town Friday driving one of his steppers. Mr. Walton has given much attention to the breeding of fine horses, always keeping a sire that proves its good qualities by its representatives.

From the number and variety related in Rouse's store the other evening, one would judge that the season for first-class snake stories had arrived. R. H. Sandford captured the entire bakery, and went up head of the class.

Remember that Geo. Huschart & Co. of Lawrenceburg, Indiana, can always give satisfaction both as to price and style of work, so when you want to buy a tombstone or a monument go to their yard or call on John Beall, of Hebron, Ky., their agent.

Last Thursday night quite a number of the young folks of the town assembled in Morgan Academy Hall, where they enjoyed themselves tripping the light fantastic for several hours. Piper and Sandford made music for the occasion.

About midnight Monday a heavy wind and rain storm swept over this part of the country. The lightning was very bright followed by heavy peals of thunder, driving sleep from the eyes of the timid. The wind did considerable damage to shade trees along the streets.

The regular annual meeting of the Universalist church at this place will commence on Friday evening before the fourth Saturday in this month. Election of church officers Saturdey afternoon. Rev. R. N. John is expected to be present and assist the pastor, Rev. Gibson.

The usual quietude of the Scattersville neighborhood has recently been disturbed, and one of her citizens is now worth $5 and trimmings less than he was before. Esquire Baker sat in judgment last Monday. Geo. Aylor was the assaultant and Willie Star, the assaultee.

Clinton Gaines and W. O. Kirtley purchased a large number of the town hogs one day last week, but there are plenty remaining to make it very interesting for the cultivators of the village gardens. Those taken off by Gaines and Kirtley were very fine specimens of the swine population of Burlington.

Passing Owen Tanner's one day last week, we concluded from observation hastily made that Owen was getting impatient, waiting, for his garden to become sufficiently dry to plant, and had commenced putting a roof over it. Owen has the enterprise of a half a dozen ordinary, men, anyhow.

James L. Riley's Almont stallion ranks among the best horses in the county. In fact, by some, he is pronounced the best, having style, size and action to correspond. Jim has a good and valuable animal and he is fully aware of the fact. It would take a round sum of filthy lucre to buy Almont.

On the night of May 21st, the ladies of the Bullittsville Christian church will give a strawberry festival at Bullittsville church. The proceeds will be devoted to church use, and the supper will be sauced with song and other attractive features. Every body is invited, and a good time is guaranted. Go and see that this promise is fulfilled, and yourself filled full.

Charley Clore says, while planting corn last week, he and his hired hand caught and killed, in a piece of ground a foot square, sixty-five cut worms, and after the sixty-fifth one had been killed, he told his hand to quit and not kill any more. It is said since the advent of that fine boy at Charleys house that he will exagerate a little. He is a jolly, good natured fellow, and we don't believe he would joke about a little thing like that. Chas. finished planting corn allee samee.

Last Sunday the funeral of James Gray, colored, was preached in Burlington, and a very large portion of Boone's colored population were in attendance. About forty representatives of the race chartered the two busses in Florence and when they approached the town it looked like a great, black cloud, which was rendered the more ominous by the rumbling of the wheels.

Mr. Owen Rogers, whose illness was mentioned in this column, died last Thursday morning. The remains were taken to the family burying ground on the Warren Rogers homestead Sunday and interred. The deceased was born in 1818, and was a citizen of this county most of his life. He leaves several children, all of whom are grown, S. D. Rice's and Benjamin Corbin's wives are his daughters.

Last Tuesday night the large tobacco barn of James Thompson about two and one-half miles above Bellevue was destroyed by fire, supposed to be the work of an incendiary. Between 25,000 and 30,000 pounds of tobacco which Thompson and Rogers had bought and bulked in the barn burnt. The building was insured for $500 in the Farmers' Insurance Company of this county; the tobacco was insured by some agency in Cincinnati, we understand, but for what amount cannot say.

Those who are taking part in the entertainment booked for Friday and Saturday nights, are engaged in nightly rehearsals this week. The fine piano which is being used was loaned to the company by Mr. Baldwin, dealer in musical instruments in Cincinnati. It is for sale and J. W. Parish is agent. The organ was kindly furnished by Mr. S. A. Palmer. The organ and piano presided over by Miss Fannie Rice, and the violin in the hands of W. E. Piper are leading features of the programme.

Messrs. Whitehead and Mack, two young men of enterprise and industry will, this fall, endeavor to establish at this place something long needed here—a good school in the Morgan Academy, proposing to teach any branch required. These two gentlemen have been teaching in the county, and we believe have given satisfaction. We bespeak for the gentlemen a liberal patronage, and trust that those directly interested in good schools will give them the encouragement at their command.

Last Friday morning we made a flying visit to the residence of Hon. J. H. Walton, who lives in the Point Pleasant neighborhood, near the Kenton county line. Mr. Walton besides being the Secretary to the Boone County Farmers' Insurance Company, a flourishing institution, is engaged in the farming and dairy business having quite a number of fine Alderneys. He is also giving some attention to rearing Norman horses, having several handsome fillies that will soon be ready for use. There we met Scott Walton, who is the owner of a Norman horse, the sire of none but the best colts. Scott has given that particular stock considerable attention, and, at a glance, sees all the good points about one of the popular breed of draft animals.

A review of the local legal fraternity a few days after the adjournment of court developed this: Stephens had donned his farmer's uniform and was building garden with all his might; Hughes had slipped into a pair of overalls and was planting post and repairing fences; Riddell was dispatching sundry jobs about his premises; Foster was on duty in his business pertaining to popular education; Tolin—Tolin—the only bachelor of the crowd was—well, he was watching the daily papers to see how the Louisville's are holding their own on the diamond. One would judge from the manner of the above named "members of the bar" that mankind is at peace one with another.

Last Friday evening the following officers were installed in Fidelity Lodge No. 1760, I. O. G. T.:

W. C. T., S. A. Palmer.
P. W. C. T., Samuel Hall.
W. V. T., Miss Maud Kirkpatric.
W. R. S., G. F. Piper.
W. A. R. S., Miss Mattie Huey.
W. F. S., Clarence Kirkpatrick.
W. T., Miss Nellie Blythe.
W. M., R. H. Sandford.
W. D. M., Miss Mamie Hawes.
W. C., Joseph Hodge.
W. I. G., Miss Lulie Conner.
W. O. G., J. W. Palmer.
R. & L. S., Misses Rosie Dempsey and Pearl Kirkpatrick.

The installation ceremonies took place under the immediate supervision and direction of Bro. Oscar Gaines, Lodge Deputy, and was the most creditable and best conducted installation ceremony performed since the organization of the lodge. It shows progress, and indicates that the members of the lodge are becoming more proficient and interested in their work and speaks well for the future success and prosperity of the organization. It clearly indicates that the whole membership are alive to the work before them and are imbued with the spirit of, and bound more firmly together by the triple bonds of Faith, Hope and Charity. MEMBER.

Church Entertainment: The entertainment for the benefit of the Presbyterian church in Burlington, will be given in the church at that place, Friday and Saturday nights. May 14th & 15th, 1886. Opening address by Dr. J. G. Furnish.

PROGRAMME:

Full Chorus:—Good Night; Viva and Song of Spring.

Quartetts:—Come Where the Lilies Bloom; Boat Ride.

Duettes:—Over Hill and Dale; Blessed are the People; Come where the Missed are Sleeping; Billy Grimes the Dover; Life's Dream is O'er.

Solos:—White Wings; Cricket on the Hearth; Ah! I Have Sighed Thee to Rest; Bird of the Wild Wood; Ye Merry Birds; Pretty Pond Lilies; Come where the Violets Grow; Merry Mountain Maid; Must I Leave the Old Home, Mother?—by Perry Stephens, O. F. Bang, Everett Hall, Fannie Duncan, Mattie Winston; Matie Riggs and Mrs. Grant. Also the following solos by Joe Reed: Going Home to Clo; Irish Dude; Speak a Kind Word when You Can.

Besides the Solo singers the following will take part in the singing.

Soprano—Miss Gussie Kirkpatrick. Alto—Misses Annie Winston, Nettie Gardner, Lucy Gaines and Mrs. Hettie Piper.

Tenor—J. B. Crigler and J. E. Botts. Bass—L. M. Whitehead, Thos. O. Cowen and Georgie Piper.

Recitations:—By Joe Reed, Rankin Revill, Miss Nellie Blythe and the May Queen by 16 children.

Piano Solo—I'll take You Home Kathleen. Organ Solo—Selection from Mendelssohn—Miss Fannie Rice.

Violin Obligato—W. E. Piper.

The Fischer Piano will be used, furnished by D. H. Baldwin. J. W. Parish, agent.

Doors open at 7:30.

Admissian, 25 cents. Children under 12 years old, 15 cents.

Personal Mentions.

Dr. Gordon, of Hebron, was in town Monday.

Miss Abbie Scott, of Florence, was the guest of Mrs. Kirb Conrad last Thursday night.

Mr. Orvill Williams arrived Saturday and is now the guest of his son-in-law at this place.

Miss Venia Ranyan returned home last week, after a visit with friends and relatives in Covington.

Miss Kate Bradford, of Florence, was visiting her cousin, Mrs. Lillie Hall, last Thursday and Friday.

Mrs. Mattie Walker, of Marion, Crittenden county, has been visiting relatives in this county for several days.

Miss Tupman, of San Francisco, Cal. is visiting her sister, Mrs. W. E. Walton, of the Point Pleasant neighborhood.

Mrs. Ida Hall after a pleasant visit of several days with relatives at this place, returned to her home at Covington, last Friday.

Thos. J. Ellis, Sheriff of Kenton Co., and wife, spent Saturday and Sunday in Burlington, the guests of his brother-in-law, Jo C. Revill and family.

Well Pleased.

We, as teachers, were well pleased this afternoon at meeting our friend Ryle and reading his certificate of examination signed by P. U. Major, Judge of the 11th Judicial Circuit of Kentucky, and take this, our earliest opportunity, of congratulating his supporters on securing so worthy a man for so worthy a place. Success to him.

TEACHERS.

"Squire Gaines, are you going to be a candidate for re-election as Justice of the Peace?"

"No sir; do not want the office any longer."

We have heard the following mentioned in connection with the race in this district for justice: O. W. Gaines, D. M. Hewitt, J. F. Weaver, O. P. Conner, J. D. Cloud and T. D. Goodridge, all good men.

Jim Conner would make a good justice if he could find time to hold court.

Jo Reed would wear the ermine with much dignity as long as Jim Westbay was out of sight.

The only objection urged against Cy Crisler is, the chairs in the court-house are too small for him.

Edgar Cropper was in town yesterday and looked like he could fill a justice's breeches with dignity.

SPRING STOCK!

I have Just received a Large and well Selected Stock of Spring Goods, consisting of All the Latest

Styles of Dress Goods

SUCH AS

Lawns,
Basties,
Chambrays,
Crinkled Seersuckers,
Normandie Ginghams,
Persian Suitings,

AND A FULL LINE OF FANCY PRINTS.

The Latest Syles in White Dress Goods

Stamped and Plain Scrims. I have the Largest and most Beautiful Assortment of the Latest Parisian Styles of

STRAW HATS AND BONNETS

Ever offered to the people of this Community.

COARSE SHOES & FINE SHOES.

My stock in this line is complete, consisting of Men's and Boys' Plow Shoes, Ladies, Misses' and Children's fine Lace and Button Shoes.

Come in and see for yourself, I am more than glad to show my GOODS whether you wish to purchase or not. Very Truly Yours,

DUDLEY ROUSE, Burlington, Ky.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

ERLANGER.

Born to Mr. D. Crowin and wife, on the 3rd inst., a boy.

We regret to announce the intended removal of Judge Straub to Cincinnati in the near future.

A comical sight to see: Uncle James Ross behind a loaded cigar. He says he always knew it was loaded.

The machinery of the Southern Railroad is in readiness to begin changing the cars from a broad to a standard gauge, and will begin operation to-day.

Quiet a large number of young folks from Cincinnati and Florence, spent an enjoyable time last Sunday week at Erlanger. All went away in the evening pronouncing John L. Conner's skating rink one of the finest in this part of the country.

Mr. Ed Garvey, Thos. Morris and Ben Bedinger went out to Bank Lick to fish a few nights ago. Have not heard whether they caught any fish or not. Ben Bedinger says he saw one on the riffles a little longer than his arm, which in Erlanger's estimation is quite a long fish story.

Kirb Conrad, the genial bus agent from Florence, brought a party of young folks to the rink last Sunday week. Kirb says the only objection he has to the boys coming here is, John Conner gets all their spare change and he must wait for his fare till their golden ship comes in.

TRUTH.

The Commodity, Though Scarce, Is Mighty and Will Prevail.

Will Coon is a truthful traveler, who is at present selling baking powder. Not long since William called on a customer in Northern Ohio and wanted to sell him a case.

"Never heard of it," said the merchant, curtly.

"Course not," replied William, smiling confidently, "if you had, and had used it, your standard of intelligence would have been raised. Why, sir," rattled away the valuable traveler, "we sent five barrels of it to Pittsburgh in February of last year, and that's what raised the river so. Our house was in the Cincinnati flooded district at the time, but we left only one barrel in the cellar and as soon as it got wet, it raised the house clear above the water. It is—"

"Hold on!" interrupted the dazed merchant, "you are the infernalest—"

"As I was saying," he went on, "it is the best powder in the market. We sent two barrels to New York in November, and raised the Democratic majority enough to beat Blaine."

"Well I don't want such a ——"

"Of course you don't. You don't want a baking powder that will raise money enough in a day to pay for itself for six months. No man does! Why, sir, I—"

"What did you say was the price?" interrupted the merchant, becoming interested.

"Well, I don't know what it is exactly, now. You see when I get warm talking about it the dampness gets in and raises the price. That's why I always want to sell quick, so I won't have to make any discounts on the new figures."

"Do you give any premiums?"

"Of course. The best one is my new Waker. Every subscriber—no every purchaser of a case gets one. This machine is a graduated tube, with the hours marked on it. Say you want to get up at seven a. m.; you load the machine for that hour, set it under the bed rail and by seven o'clock the powder has raised the bed up and turned you out on the floor. Then the cook takes the machine, empties the powder into the bread pan, and makes beautiful biscuits for breakfast. No waste of powder, either. See?"

"No, but I hear," said the merchant, "and you may send me a case; and—and if your house hasn't got another dar to raise your place in case you should leave, it had better put in some baking powder to raise your salary, and make a perpetual contract with you."—Merchant Traveler.

OPIUM and WHISKY HABITS cured at home without pain. BOOK of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.

Take the Recorder.

CLORE'S SONS.

Manufacturers of Agricultural Implements,

SUCH AS

Steel Turning & Side Hill Plows

Road Plows, Double Shovels, Single Shovlse, Bar Shovel Gophers, Harrows, Jumping Shovels and Rolling Colters.

RISING SUN, - - IND.

Send for Illustrated Price List. 13 3m

Exposition Medal Awarded for 1884.
$5.00 and Upwards
For a Beautiful Single Set of Teeth. Extracting without pain included.
DR. DeJOHNS,
In attendance at the office. Gold fillings $1 and upwards. Amalgon 50c. Gas and Spray used. All work warranted.
Will be in Burlington the first Monday in each month, County Court.
J. C. ALLEN, 327 Vine Str., Cor. 9th Cincinnati, Ohio.

FOR SALE.

My farm of 250 acres one mile from Richwood Station, near the Cin. Southern Railroad. This farm has 50 acres of timber and is all strong land, and under good fence, has three never failing ponds, good stable and a large tobacco barn. The improvements consist of a two story frame dwelling of 8 rooms, in first-class order, and all necessary out buildings. These premises front on the Hamilton & Richwood pike which intersects the Richwood & Beaver pike, also on the premises. Taking into consideration the quality of improvements and land and convenience of pikes and railroads, schools and neighborhood, there is not a more desirable farm in Kentucky. Will sell on reasonable terms, ¼ cash and the balance on time, or will trade for desirable city property. For particulars address

L. B. STEPHENS, Richwood, Ky.
Or H. P. Stephens, Burlington, Ky.

INSURE AT HOME

The Farmers' Mutual Fire
INSURANCE COMPANY
Of Boone County

Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.

Its Rates are Lower

Than those of any other Company, and it gives the farmers of Boone County a

HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE

In keeping their property insured.

EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY

should take a policy at once.

J. A. GAINES, President, Burlington, Ky.
J. H. WALTON, Secretary, Constance, Ky.
R. RANDALL, Treasurer.

DIRECTORS.
LEORAN GAINES, B. L. RICE.
JNO. STEPHENS.
OSCAR GAINES, Agent.
R. S. COWEN, Assessor

Subscribe for the Recorder.

AURORA MARBLE AND GRANITE WORKS, Aurora, Ind

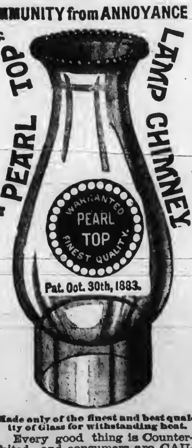
Will have constantly on hand

Marble and Granite Monuments,
Italian & American Headstones, &c.

I am ready to do all kinds of Stone Work on short notice and at low prices Hoping to receive the patronage of Boone County, I am respectfully,

F. W. KASSEBAUM.

IMMUNITY from ANNOYANCE



Made only of the finest and best quality of Glass for withstanding heat.

Every good thing is Counterfeited, and consumers are CAUTIONED against IMITATIONS of these Chimneys made of VERY POOR GLASS. See that the exact label is on each chimney as above. The Pearl Top is always clear and bright Glass.

Manufactured ONLY by
GEO. A. MACBETH & CO.
Pittsburgh Lead Glass Works.
FOR SALE BY DEALERS.

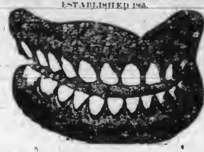
City Flouring Mills,
—RISING SUN, INDIANA.—

FLOUR EXCHANGED FOR WHEAT OR CASH. THE HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR GOOD WHEAT.

J. W. TALBOTT.

OHIO STEAM DENTAL CO.

ESTABLISHED 185



47 WEST SEVENTH STREET,
CINCINNATI, O.

TEETH EXTRACTED WITHOUT PAIN by using Fresh Nitrous Oxide Gas.
ARTIFICIAL TEETH made of the best quality and workmanship finish, with guaranteed fit.
OPERATIVE DEPARTMENT handsomely finished and well lighted—the principal having had a life-long experience in the treatment and filling of the natural teeth.

L. ROBERTSON, D.D.S., Principal.

Office and Residence, 47 W. 7th St., two blocks north of Fountain Square, (formerly 271 Walnut and 6th & Vine). Office open at all hours.

FRYE'S COMBINATION
FARM, GARDEN & ORNAMENTAL FENCE

It combines the advantages of every fence, and is free from any objections. Our combination fence is composed of five two-strand cables of the best anealed bessemer steel wire firmly interwoven with pickets at a uniform distance of 2 to 5 inches apart, and the diagonal supporting wire which is interwoven as represented, enables us to hold each and every picket up off the ground with perfect ease, keeping them even on top and the entire fence always in the open air, making the lower ends of the pickets just durable as the upper ends. Sagging is utterly impossible, as we have a direct vertibal tensil strength of 1700 lbs. to each pannel which alone is three times as strong as an ordinary pine board fence. Our five cables, which gives a combined strength of more than fifteen times that of a pine board 1x6, all interwoven in such a manner with the pickets that one wire cannot be broken without breaking 11. Thus giving us a fence 18 times stronger than a barb wire. The pickets are oak of first quality, and soaked in hot Alkalies, making them last many years. The pickets are supported every 10½ inches by the cables so that breakage is impossible, giving us a fence that will turn all kinds of stock, from the smallest pig to the meanest mule, without endangering the life of any. It is a portable fence, can be removed by drawing the staples and the fence rolled up and removed without the slightest injury. It is dog proof, keeps sheep in and dogs out. It will protect your orchards from the ravages of rabbits, and your gardens from chickens. It is endorsed by over 200,000 of our farmers, as filling every claim we make for it. No farmer can afford to do without this fence that has means to buy it. Any party wishing fence or any information in regard to this fence will address.

T. H. SUTTON, Grant, Boone county, Ky.

N. B.—This fence can be sold and delivered at any landing on the river in Boone county, at the following reduced prices: Pickets 5 in. a part 55c 4½ in. apart 60c; 4 in. apart 65c, 3½ in. a part 70c; 3 in. a part 75c; 2½ in apart 80c; 2 in. a part 85c. We have strechers expressly for our fence which we will furnish to any parties ordering fifty rods or more, and will furnish one hand to assist in putting it up, after the posts have been set.

JAMES S. WAYNE, President. JNO. L. SANDFORD, Cashier
CAPITAL $300,000.

FARMERS AND TRADERS
NATIONAL BANK.
Covington, Kentucky.

DIRECTORS.
James S. Wayne, M. C. Motch, Sam Hind, E. J. Hickey, E. J. Green,
J. S. Matson, J. H. Mersman, J. L. Sandford, L. H Dills, F. P. Helm
L. C. Stephens.

The general operations of banking transacted upon the most favorable term Collections made on all points in the United States.

The Business and Accounts of Farmers are Especially Solicited by this Bank.
dec. 20-6m

COME AND SEE FOR YOURSELF.
—(o)— We've got them from the lowest price to the finest. —(o)—

None disappointed or dissatisfied in five years business. We keep constantly on hand all sizes of

Burial Cases, Caskets and Robes,

ALSO A SPLENDID

HEARSE AND TEAM.

You can always come to us with the assurance of getting what you want in this line. We guarantee our prices 20 per cent. less than city prices. J. W. DAVIS has charge of this business at Hebron, and T. W. FINCH is our agent at Burlington.

J. J. RUCKER & CO, Hebron, Ky.

BUGGIES! BUGGIES!!

Pfalzgraf & Wingate,

DEALERS IN

Carriages, Buggies
AND
Spring Wagons.

—(o)— GAINESVILLE, KENTUCKY. —(o)—

A Large Assortment of Buggies and Carriages constantly on hand.

ANY STYLE TO ORDER ON SHORT NOTICE

We call the attention of the People of Boone County to our stock on hand, made in the latest styles and of the best material. All work warranted to give satisfaction. Special attention given to

REPAIRING WITH NEATNESS & DISPATCH,

At the Lowest possible prices.

Old work taken in exchange for new

Pfalzgraf & Wingate,
GAINSVILLE, KENTUCKY.

Gates Patent TOBACCO SAW.

TOBACCO GROWERS!

Buy the GATES TOBACCO SAW. The only adjustable Tobacco Saw in the World. Illustrated Circulars free. GOODSPEED MANUFACTURING CO., East Haddam, Ct.

THE RECORDER.

RIDDELL & HALL, Publishers.

BURLINGTON, : : KENTUCKY.

CURRENT TOPICS.

PAPIER mache coffins are the latest.

SAM JONES is to be invited to visit Minneapolis.

WHITE robins are attracting attention down East.

ALL the States have divorce laws except South Carolina.

ARABI PASHA is teaching school at Colombo in Ceylon.

MR. GLADSTONE's big speech on home rule contained 24,000 words.

THE Semiru Volcano in the Island of Java is in a state of eruption.

A TEXAS woman has given birth to a boy covered with scales like a fish.

A SOCIETY has been formed in Pittsburgh to suppress vicious literature.

MISS PALM, with whom Senator Jones was infatuated, is to be married.

THE total expenditures from the Senate for Senator Miller's funeral were $7,380.

THERE are now in force in this country more than 225,000 patents for inventions.

THERE is more undeveloped land in the State of Maine than in any Western State.

A VICIOUS horse bit off the upper lip of Michael Christophan, living near Tuscola, Ill.

HUGGING sociables at so much a hug, ministers free, are very popular in Butte, M. T.

A TUNNEL under the Irish Channel is now talked of. The distance is twenty-two miles.

FIFTEEN States of the Federal Government have the eight-hour day for public work.

CHICAGO's big and costly new court-house is being pulled down to keep it from falling down.

LEYDEN UNIVERSITY is the richest in the world, with real estate which is valued at $4,000,000.

THE co-operative society of Trenton, N. J., has declared a quarterly dividend of ten per cent.

SENATOR HAWLEY is said by stenographers to be the most rapid speaker in Congress.

LABORERS are advised to keep away from the Panama canal by United States Consul Adamson.

IT is reported that the great Lick Observatory in California will be completely equipped by 1888.

THE gentle oyster will now lay him down in his little bed and peacefully slumber till September comes.

A CO-OPERATIVE stove factory has been started at Phillipsburg, N. Y., by the Knights of Labor.

THE Broadway boodle paid to New York aldermen in 1884 is said to have amounted to $20,000 per man.

OF the forty-seven men arrested in New York the other day for boycotting not one was American born.

CHINCH bugs are reported to have appeared in the wheat fields near Centralia, Ill., in enormous numbers.

THE old Senate House in Kingston, N.Y., of historical renown, was sold at mortgage sale a few days ago for $3,160.

THE mayor of Burlington, N. J., issued a proclamation forbidding the public wearing of Mother Hubbard dresses.

THERE are 234 divorce cases on the docket of the Supreme Court for Suffolk County, Mass., to be tried at the May term.

THERE is said to be more money in the small hard clams now caught in Oyster Bay, L. I., harbors than in oysters.

FLORIDA watermelons have appeared in the New York market, and $1.50 and $2 each is considered the proper quid pro quo.

LITTLE bees so made that they tremble with the slightest motion of the wearer, are among the new things in French jewelry.

THE rooms that John Brown occupied at Windsor Castle have been kept strictly closed since the death of that faithful servant.

CERTAIN portions of New York City are represented as overrun with rats of monstrous size that gnaw through lead-pipes and tin-lined cellars.

THE average daily attendance in the common schools of the United States, according to the last report of the Bureau of Education, is 6,500,582.

MICHIGAN parties are experimenting with mineral wax from Utah mines. It is claimed to be the best material for insulating wires yet discovered.

THE largest locomotive in the world is said to be the Decapo, built last year by the Baldwin Locomotive Works in Philadelphia. It weighs 144,000 pounds.

IT is said that the new Washington sewer is the largest in the world. It is large enough for a team of horses and load of hay to be drawn through the entrance.

ADAM A. GOSLOW, of Spirit Lake, Iowa, has written to the superintendent of Castle Garden, New York, for a wife. He is twenty years old, a farmer, and well to do, and prefers a widow or spinster.

BRIGADIER GENERAL THOMAS H. RUGER has been assigned to the command of the department of Dakota, and Brigadier General J. H. Potter to the command of the department of the Missouri.

EIGHTY girls employed in Gwernand's ink mill in Union Hill, N. Y., struck for a reduction of their working hours, and, to lend emphasis to their protest, they threw the foreman out of the window.

CONGRESSMAN JAMES A. LOUTITT, of the Second California district, boasts that he was born in a stable in New Orleans, was brought up in a blacksmith shop, and was educated in a common school. He is now a lawyer, but can still strike a good blow on the anvil.

THE prisoners in the jail at Helena, M. T., dug out through a brick wall one night, went to a saloon, captured a lot of whisky, returned to the jail, and were found safe in the morning, but all very drunk.

CHARLES GREER, of Brooklyn, separated from his young wife sometime ago because she was in the habit of using morphine. They met by appointment a few days since, and were reconciled, when she fell dead in his arms.

IT is said that Russia is about to undertake the growth of cotton on a large scale. The south of Russia has a similar climate to that of the Southern American States, and is supposed to be adapted to the cotton crop.

ABOUT $1,000,000 worth of bristles are imported annually, consisting largely of those found in Russia and the colder latitudes, where they are coarser and longer than those upon American-bred hogs.

JOHN MUZZY, of Portland, Me., who is now ninety-eight years old, is the owner of a piece of property, and he is awaiting the expiration of the present lease, which has five years to run, in order to build the handsomest block in Portland.

THE theory that the Indians are decreasing in number is not sustained by information from Sitting Bull's people. During the month of February among those enrolled at Standing Rock, D. T., there were seventeen deaths and twenty-one births.

TWO colored girls in Georgia recently fought a dual for the possession of a certain young colored man, of whom they were both enamored. The fellow took up with and married the defeated one. Had he married the other, he might have got whipped himself some day.

A WISCONSIN lumberman was caught by a rolling log the other day and held so fast that he was unable to get away. He yelled in vain for help. While lying there a big bear came up to him. He drew his revolver and fired six shots, killing the bear, and these shots were heard by a lumberman, who went to see what was going on, and released the prisoner.

RIOT REIGNS.

Lawless Element at Chicago Industriously at Work Fomenting Trouble.

A Number of Outbreaks of the Strikers Quelled by the City Police.

Anarchist Throws a Dynamite Bomb Among a Squad of Policemen, Killing Four Outright.

The Mob Then Attacks the Officers with Knives and Pistols as if by Preconcerted Action

Martial Law Prevails in the Vicinity of the Conflict and all Persons are Searched.

The Wisconsin Militia Called Out at Milwaukee to Suppress the Disturbance at That Place—News From Other Points.

MOB VIOLENCE AT CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, May 4. Fully twelve thousand strikers, composed of lumber shovers, moulders, planing mill men and boxmakers, congregated near Clark Bro.'s planing mill, in the Twenty-second street district, yesterday afternoon. They were nearly all foreigners, and many wore bits of red ribbon on the lapels of their coats. Shortly after two o'clock a man, coatless and hatless, mounted an empty freight car standing near the throng and proceeded to address the men in German. He said: "Let every man stand shoulder to shoulder and we will win this fight. We must have our rights. Strike while the iron is hot. Drive the scabs out of the yards and let us show McCormick that he can not hire non-union men and keep them at work while we, the bone and sinew of Chicago, are forced to hear our wives and children crying for bread. Arm yourselves and prepare for the worst."

The speaker's harangue was greeted with deafening cheers. At this moment one of the proprietors of the Hinglington planing mill thrust his head out of the window to learn the cause of the uproar. Almost instantly a thousand men burst into the yard of the company and surrounded the building from which the head had protruded. A storm of stones and brick beat upon the roof and the windows were demolished as though by an earthquake. This work of destruction having appeased their wrath the mob turned to the car from the top of which a member of the Lumbermen's Union was trying to quell the disturbance. Mr. August Spies, the fiery editor of the Arbeiter Zeitung, was then introduced. While he was in the midst of a virulent attack upon capitalists the tolling of the bell in the distant tower of the McCormick reaper works broke upon the ears of the 12,000 men.

"Now for the scabs," shouted one, "lets drive 'em out of the building and kill 'em" roared another.

The excitement was electric. There were cheers from a thousand throats and then the noise grew into a mighty roar.

"Off to McCormick's," was the cry.

The men and boys then rushed down the tracks in a restless body and swept over the vacant lots in solid phalanx. The roar grew mightier in volume as the mob poured down upon the huge sombre building at Western avenue. Myriads of women and children swarmed from the side streets and were borne along by the maddened men.

At 3:30 the mob inundated the large grass plot in front of the McCormick works. Officer West, who was on duty at the big gate, warned the invaders to leave. He faced the howling horde and placed his hand upon the handle of the revolver in his hip pocket. Before he had time to draw the weapon a thousand rocks filled the air and fell about him like hail. They crashed against the high board fence behind him with terrific noise and sang a warning as they sped past his helmeted head.

The storm was too hot for the officer. He dodged the missiles as best he could but the mob drawing nearer he at last bent his head and tried to make his escape by dashing through the ranks of his assailants. He rushed forward in a perfect storm of stones. When he reached the first line of the strikers he was subjected to a merciless beating, but being a man of splendid physique he continued his race until he pierced the last ranks of the mob. Then he started west on Blue Island avenue. He was pelted with stones at every stride until he fell exhausted nearly a block away.

Emboldened by the flight of the brave officer the strikers surged up against the walls of the factory. "Kill the scabs," roared one of the leaders, as he hurled a boulder through one of the windows where a second before a pale face had been pressed.

"Tear down the building," shouted another, who was waving a huge club in his hand. Almost instantly the great factory was subjected to an ominous siege. Stones crashed through the windows and clubs carried away the sash. Nothing escaped the fury of the mob.

"Now let us drive out the scabs," roared a man with a red handkerchief knotted about his neck.

The mob pressed forward with a yell. Just as it was about to burst into the yard the Hinman street patrol wagon dashed down the dusty road. Twelve officers were in the body of the wagon and sitting beside the driver was Sergeant Enright. Shouts of derision greeted the officers as they clambered out of the blue vehicle and drew up in line before the strikers who were now massed on the sidewalks and in the road. The officers stood shoulder to shoulder for a moment and then the command to march was given. The dozen officers stepped toward the twenty thousand angry people before them. Each man carried a revolver in his right hand. The mob remained firm.

"Disperse or we will fire," shouted Sergeant Enright.

His reply was a shower of stones that whistled unpleasantly about the little band of blue. The officers wavered for a moment before the onslaught and then levelled their revolvers at the crowd. The barrels of the weapons glistened in the sunlight, there was a flash and then an explosion followed that startled the horses in the car barns two blocks away. The first shot of the strike had been fired but nobody was hurt. The bullets flew over the heads of the strikers and buried themselves in the prairie to the northward. Another volley was fired by the officers with the same effect. The strikers contested every inch of ground until the blue coats reached the sidewalk when they retreated to the roadway. There they made a stand and hurled stones and clubs at their antagonists.

During this fusilade Officer Tom Condon was hit in the back with a brick. Enraged at the misfortune of their comrade the officers fell upon the mob with revolver and club. The rioters were prepared to retaliate. They fired at the officers from ambush with weapons of all patterns and caliber. Bullets whistled right and left, and off to the southward a half-dozen men on a shed kept up a plunging fire. At times it was a square stand-up fight. Policemen and strikers shot at each other at a distance of twenty paces, yet so defective was the marksmanship of the latter that not an officer was hit.

While the firing was the hottest the Twelfth street patrol wagon, laden with a dozen men, rattled down the street. The officers ran to the rescue of their comrades, who were in many instances engaged in hand-to-hand combat. Reinforced by the Twelfth street contingent the handful of men from Hinman street raced up the grade to the road. Here they formed in line twelve abreast under a desultory fire from windows, roofs and sheds and charged east on the street car tracks.

The rioters at first made a sullen resistance. They faced the approaching officers and the slender, glistening line of revolver barrels held on a level with their heads, as though it was all play. But when the hurrying officers curled the index finger of their right hands and a streak of fire as long as a telegraph pole flashed through the air, there was an exciting hegira and a general go-as-you-please race for cover. During the charge officers Pat Kelly and Kaiser were badly hurt. The former was hit in the head with a brick and the right hand of Kaiser was crushed by a stone. The patrol wagons of the Lake street, Twenty-second street, Harrison street and Desplaines street stations followed each other in quick succession.

Although the rioters had been driven from the McCormick works they still lined Blue Island avenue from Robey street to Western avenue. As the patrol wagons dashed through the lines, they were made the targets for all kinds of missiles. The officers were compelled to duck their heads to escape injury. When the last patrol wagon had emptied its load at the factory, Captain O'Donnel ordered that the streets be cleared. The 200 officers were again drawn up in line and commanded to make the charge. In the midst of an annoying fire the men left the yards and plunged right and left. Revolvers cracked continuously, and occasionally the loud report of a blunderbuss or ancient shotgun loaded with slugs split the air.

Four strikers dropped during the charge, two of them being shot through the groin. They were picked up by comrades and borne away before the police could overtake them. One of the victims was a boy. He was shot while in the act of throwing a stone. Five men caught him as he fell and bore him to the car barns where he called for a drink of water. It was given him and then he moaned piteously and begged to be taken home. An express wagon was secured and the dying boy placed in it. His comrades would not give his name.

After the streets in the vicinity of the McCormick works had been cleared the objectionable scabs employed there were marched out into Blue Island avenue and told that they would be escorted to their homes by the police. They were pale and their knees knocked together as they walked. One hundred officers were placed on either side of the scabs and in this position they marched to the city. As they passed a high board fence near the entrance to the McCormick yards an old man with a gun nearly six feet long crept to one corner of the barrier and dropped on his knees. He then took deliberate aim at one of the officers and fired. The charge went wide of its mark and tore a hole as large as a man's hand in a board standing near the street. The aged Anarchist then slunk out of sight.

As the procession marched east on Blue Island avenue the walkers were jeered in a most exasperating manner. Women, with bare arms and red handkerchiefs tied about their heads, screamed imprecations from windows; children hid behind chimneys and pelted pebbles and eggs at the objects of their venom and from time to time bricks and stones were hurled at officers and "scabs" by men secreted in attics of the many small buildings on the line of march.

When the procession reached the corner of Ashland and Blue Island avenue fully sixty thousand people were massed along these thoroughfares and upon the housetops. The cry of "rats" and "scabs" was continuous and deafening. At times the officers were compelled to charge to the right and left in order that the procession might pass. The women were even more obstreperous than the men. They ran out into the gutters and shook their fists and spat at the scabs. The latter tried to smile but they could not. They hugged each other as though they expected to be swept away by some unknown agency.

At five o'clock the fag end of the procession reached the Blue Island avenue viaduct. But seven scabs remained, the rest having been escorted to their home by details from the ranks of the officers. Those who remained were now taken charge of by four officers and a moment later were lost to sight among the buildings on Rebecca street.

During the riot five strikers were shot, two fatally. Four officers were slightly injured and assistant superintendent C. J. Bewby, of the McCormick works, was hit with a stone in the face and badly hurt.

ST. LOUIS, May 4.—In response to an earnest appeal from the citizens' committee, to which is added a letter from the members of the Curtin Committee, the General Executive Board of the Knights of Labor last night issued an order to the members now on strike upon the Gould system and upon the various lines in East St. Louis, to return to work to-day. The following is the correspondence:

SOUTHERN HOTEL,
ST. LOUIS, May 1, 1886.

To the General Executive Board Knights of Labor of America:

The testimony taken to-day by the Congressional Investigating Committee shows conclusively that very serious losses to the commercial, agricultural and other interests of the entire country have resulted from labor troubles upon the lines of railroads belonging to the Southwestern system and other railroads in the States of Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas and Texas, and that by reason of said troubles a large number of persons not directly connected therewith have been thrown out of employment. Unwilling at this time to express any opinion in regard to the causes which produced this lamentable condition of affairs or to indicate where the blame lies for its continuance, and animated solely by a desire to render all the assistance in our power in the endeavor to restore peace, individual happiness and commercial prosperity to the citizens of the country, and particularly of the five States above-named, we do hereby respectfully, but earnestly request you, as American citizens, having the welfare of our common country at heart, to advise, through the proper official channels, a discontinuance of the strike, upon the railways heretofore mentioned, and to leave the question whether the employes or the officers of the corporations were justifiable to the decision that public opinion may form when the Congressional Committee, which has that matter under investigation, shall have completed its work. Feeling assured that a compliance with this request will merit for your boards and for those who may act in conformity with your counsel, the approbation of the people of the United States, we remain your obedient servants,

A. G. CURTIN,
W. H. CRAIN,
JAMES H. OUTHWAITE,
A. X. PARKER,
JAMES BUCHANAN,
J. W. STEWART.

HURST'S HOTEL,
ST. LOUIS, May 2, 1886.

To Hons. A. G. Curtin, W. H. Crain, James H. Outhwaite, A. X. Parker, James Buchanan and J. W. Stewart:

GENTLEMEN—Your communication of May 1 was placed before the joint executive board and the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That the communication from the Congressional Committee be received and their request granted.

The time for calling the strike off be left to the General Executive Board. In view of the fact that the business interest of the country is suffering and the Knights of Labor having the interest of the whole people at heart willingly comply with the request of the Nation's representatives and that of the citizens committee of St. Louis, declare this strike at an end, to take effect Tuesday morning, May 4, 1886.

Trusting that this action will meet with the approval of the public and assist in bringing capital and labor into closer relationship, we remain very truly,

The General Executive Board of the Knights of Labor. JOHN W. HAYS.

NEW YORK, May 4.—In accordance with the apparent general understanding among labor unions for the inauguration of an eight-hour movement on May 1, the employes in several branches of trade yesterday demanded shorter hours at the rate of wages heretofore received. The waiters in the employ of a number of the first-class restaurants, hotels, etc., demanded shorter hours and succeeded in most cases in obtaining them. Seven hundred furriers, all members of the union, demanded eight hours. Fifty firms are involved and they are considering the question. No strikes or lock-outs were reported in the building trade. The men in several of the marble yards are out for the enforcement of a nine-hour rule, and it is believed they will be conceded in their demands. The employes of the principal piano factories demanded eight hours work and the employers are considering it. Several furniture manufacturing establishments locked out their men because of the latter's demand for shorter hours. The men are confident of winning. No trouble is reported from any part of the city from strikes or lock-outs.

PITTSBURGH, May 4.—Some of the trades reported yesterday that individual settlements had been affected while numbers of workmen are still out and new strikes have been declared. There are fully 1,000 stonemasons idle, whose demands are $3.25 for nine hours' work. One Allegheny stone contractor is said to have acceded to the demands. There are 800 plasterers striking for eight hours. A large number of upholsterers struck for a restoration of the CHICAGO, May 5.—The lawless element was still industriously at work yesterday in the lumber region. One or two threatening crowds were dispersed by the police without bloodshed. The police entered upon their service with spirit and the engagements were short, sharp and decisive. Yesterday afternoon in a rain storm about seven hundred strikers marched upon the paint works of Cary, Ogden & Parker, 276 to 284 West Eighteenth street. The four special policemen on duty were pelted with stones and bricks and soon fled for their lives. One of them stumbled and fell and while lying on the ground fired into the approaching rabble. The rioters halted for a moment until one of the leaders waved a rusty sabre over his head and urged his companions to kill the prostrate officer.

About this time the Hinman street and Twelfth street patrol wagons, filled with officers, rattled down the street. When the blue vehicles neared the rioters the officers took aim over each others shoulders and fired volley after volley over the strikers' heads. The effect was amusing. Men with their pockets filled with stones and men with Slavonic boards and wooden swords huddled behind barricades no more substantial than a picket fence; the others darted down Eighteenth street to Center avenue near which is a sort of a rendezvous for the thousands of foreign strikers in the neighborhood. Here the mob made a desperate stand.

Officer Small, of the Hinman street station, leaped out of his wagon and started after one of the leaders of the riot, who was yelling to his comrades to blow up the police with dynamite. He ran into the crowd and grabbed the Anarchist by the neck. The latter screamed for help. The crowd surged about the officer and his struggling prisoner and then fell upon the former with stones and clubs. Officer Small, to defend himself, fired several shots into the crowd, but without effect. The shooting then became hot and indiscriminate. Small's comrades ran to his assistance, but before he was rescued from his perilous position he was shot through the hand. His prisoner escaped.

Reports of exploding cartridges came from every quarter and the air was filled with smoke. "Kill the hirelings," bawled a man with red whiskers, as he pointed an ancient revolver at Officer Small. Before he could pull the trigger Detective Michael Granger struck his hand and the weapon fell to the ground. The mob then pounced upon Granger and dragged him into the muddy street. A rock as large as a cocoanut whizzed past his cheek and a brick hit him in the forehead. The detective fell to the ground with a stream of blood pouring from a jagged wound.

The remainder of the officers becoming exasperated at the resistance displayed by the rapidly growing mob, fired a score of shots into the surging, howling mass. One man was seen to drop, but his comrades picked him up and hurried through a neighboring alley. The sight of Anarchist blood seemed to fill the rioters with fear, for as soon as they learned that one of their number had been shot they fled precipitately. The officers then charged upon them and captured seven of the leaders. They were taken to the Twelfth street and Hinman street stations. Rain fell incessantly during the fight.

Three thousand men and boys stood around three barrels and boxes on Desplaines street, between Randolph and Lake, at eight o'clock last evening. August Spies, the editor of the Arbeiter Zeitung, the Anarchist organ in this city, stood upon one of the barrels. He made a brief speech to the crowd and then introduced A. R. Parsons, one of the pronounced leaders of the movement. The latter told his hearers that instead of getting ten hours' pay for eight hours' work statistics proved that workingmen to-day were only getting two hours' pay for ten hours' work, and if they worked eight hours at the same wages they would only be getting three hours' pay for eight hours' work. He warned his audience that the time would come when the brutal oppression of the capitalists would drive everyone save themselves into the ranks of Socialism. There was more danger to capitalism from the Knights of Labor outside of the organization, known by that name, than from the organization itself. The existing social order was founded in fraud and maintained by force, and he counseled his hearers to arm themselves and to be prepared to meet force by force, for they were in the majority and could not but triumph. He did not wish to incite to bloodshed, but if blood were spilled the capitalists would be responsible for it, for they kept up the perpetual panic in the homes of the poor by their ever increasing and grinding exactions. In a little while, the speaker said, the American capitalist will reduce the American sovereign, the freeman and voter, to a condition lower than that of the Chinaman. In order to prevent this he advised the proletariat to be prepared for all emergencies. The battery was full of militia to shoot workingmen down. They had gatling guns and munitions for which singularly enough the people paid. They would be turned upon them to-morrow because whenever the laborer makes a prayer or petition to the capitalist for equity, the capitalist appealed to the military. The people also paid for the police who shot them down at the order of the capitalists. There was revolution organized by a powerful association of a few against the many. The Anarchist closed his remarks by advising the working people to be prepared for all emergencies

Samuel Fielden, another Anarchist, followed in a similar incendiary tone. While Fielden was talking a dark cloud rolled out of the northern horizon. It swept to zenith and had the appearance of a cyclone. The great crowd of Socialists fearing that a tornado was approaching began to seek shelter. The Anarchist leaders urged the men to adjourn to Zepf Hall which is only about half a block away. The ominous cloud had now passed over the crowd. The vast audience was encouraged to remain by Fielden who said he would detain them but a few moments as it was getting late and threatening rain.

As the Anarchist concluded a body of men were dimly seen approaching in measured tread. It appeared like a phalanx of masons returning from a private assembly or drill. The stillness of their approach was ominous and appalling. The 3,000 Anarchists crept closer to the barrels. Then a hundred stars and a thousand brass buttons flashed in horizontal and perpendicular lines at the street intersection. They were under command of Lieutenant Ward, who immediately proceeded to read the riot act to the Anarchists. He had hardly concluded when some one outside of the crowd threw a bomb in close proximity to the policemen. A terrific explosion followed and, as if by a preconcerted arrangement, the mob closed in on the police with knives, pistols and fire-arms of all descriptions. The police had no alternative but to mow them down. The scene that followed can not be described. Blood flowed as freely as water and men dropped on every hand. The latest reports state that three policemen have since died from their injuries and probably a dozen of the mob. Patrol and ambulance wagons have been busy picking up dying and wounded men and taking them to hospitals.

At the present writing martial law prevails in the vicinity of the conflict and it is worth a man's life to appear out of doors. Any one caught on the street is commanded to throw up his hands and an immediate search of the person is made to see if he has concealed about him any dynamite or explosive.

At 1:30 a. m. it was impossible to obtain a list of the casualties. Officers Henson, O'Day, McCarthy and Deagon, and a striker, a Bohemian, whose name could not be learned, are known to be dead. A telephone report from the hospital where the injured are being conveyed, says that no strikers brought there have as yet died although a number lie in a precarious condition.

Very little freight was handled by the railroads yesterday. The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy received what little freight was offered and their men were not molested. A visit of the striking freight handlers to the St. Paul depot resulted in all of the men employed there, some 250, quitting work. At the houses of the Lake Shore road full forces of the handlers are at work pending an answer to their demands from the company. The Rock Island houses were closed and the Wabash, under protection of United States Marshals, handled freight in a small way. At the Grand Trunk depot fifteen members of the G. A. R. did guard duty and little business was done. The Eastern Illinois did no business and at the Northwestern freight houses consignees were allowed to cart off car-load lots. The Louisville, New Albany & Chicago freight depot is closed. The Michigan Central houses were kept open with the aid of twenty-five delicate looking young clerks. At the Alton the out-freight house was entirely closed while a number of special police guarded a few clerks who were trying to wheel out boxes. At the Chicago & Atlantic the desertion was complete. The Baltimore & Ohio men have given their officials until Friday night to answer their demands. The Fort Wayne railroad has suspended work entirely to care for that which is perishable.

At the Stock Yards all the large packing houses have satisfactorily adjusted the differences with their employes. The big packers have agreed to eight hours a day with ten hours' pay for all. The four hundred employes of J. S. Kirk & Co.'s soap factory have accepted the offer of ten hours' pay for nine hours' work. Twenty-three foundries have conceded eight hours' work with eight hours' pay and the remainder of the firms, with five exceptions, are negotiating.

The eight-hour committee of the Trades Assembly has issued the following circular:

To the Workingmen of Chicago:

If ever there was a time in the history of the labor movement when prudence should control your councils and actions, the present is that time. A false or ill advised move at this juncture may defeat the very object you have in view. Under these circumstances we deem it our duty to request you to keep this important fact in mind, and shape your demands accordingly. Our advice is, that where a disagreement as to terms exist, interview the employer or employes through a committee composed of your most trusted, discrete and reliable representatives. Base your demands on justice. Present a united front. Determine to secure the adoption of the eight-hour system, even if concession to obtain it must be made. Act like rational men, as law-abiding citizens should. Discountenance all resort to violence, remembering that you can not afford to offend that public sympathy which is essential to your success. Remember, also, that if you refuse to act upon these suggestions you will have yourselves to blame if the present golden opportunity passes unimproved.

MILITIA CALLED OUT AT MILWAUKEE.

MILWAUKEE, May 5.—Since the bank riots twenty years ago Milwaukee has never experienced such exciting scenes as yesterday. The whole city was in a state of commotion all day and insurance agents report unparalleled business. Bands of drunken rioters were at work till late at night and compelled hundreds of men to lay down their work. With the exception of Miller's brewery, all the brewers have given in and granted the demands of the strikers, and will start up again to-day.

At seven o'clock in the morning a motly crowd, mostly Poles, and numbering about five hundred, left the Polish quarters and marched towards Bay View, where they first closed up the Malable iron works. Three patrol wagons with fifty men were dispatched to the scene. They collided with the armed mob, but a serious affray was prevented eventually. The crowd was now at the city limits and the police could not follow further. The mob had now increased to 2,000, and as it rolled on towards the North Chicago rolling mills deputy sheriffs were in waiting. They quietly stepped back, however, when they saw the threatening attitude of the multitude.

Superintendent Parks had a long consultation with a committee of the rioters. They demanded for the employes of the mills the introduction of the eight-hour system. This Mr. Parks positively refused to comply with, adding that all his men had expressed satisfaction with the wages paid and the present arrangements. He further denied the committee permission to enter the grounds and speak to his men. His reply caused wild threats. Amidst the jeers and howls of the mob he was finally persuaded to permit the committee to talk to the men while they were inside of the works.

Governor Rusk, who is in the city personally advising the authorities, yielded to the demand of the sheriff and sent two companies of the State militia down to Bay View. Their arrival made the men frantic with rage. Insults were offered freely by them.

After several hours the committee returned and reported that the directors of the mills had positively refused to grant the demands and had concluded to shut down immediately. This was received with cheers. Soon after the 2,000 employes left the premises and the militia filed in immediately, a shower of bricks, rocks and clubs flying after them, injuring many seriously. The venom of the strikers seemed to be directed mainly toward the Kosczuiska Guards, consisting of Polanders. Without command they turned around and fired one volley. Three men were shot, but not fatally. The militia took up a position inside of the grounds.

At six o'clock last evening the entire First regiment, comprising eleven companies, from outside of the city had reported here and it is expected that nine more companies will arrive during the evening.

Soldiers are stationed at the St. Paul railroad shops, Allis & Co.'s works and the freight houses, while reinforcements have been sent out to Bay View. Rioting is going on on the West Side of the city and the police are doing yeoman service.

E. P. Allis has announced his intention of opening his works to-day in spite of the mob and will be protected, by the order of the Governor, by two companies of militia.

RETURNING TO WORK AT ST. LOUIS.

ST. LOUIS, May 5.—About 200 men sought employment from the Missouri Pacific yesterday and about forty were employed. The Wabash employes in North St. Louis, numbering forty or fifty yardmen, did not go to work, but say that most of them will be at work to-day. Mr. Hoxie is still confined to his house on account of illness. In East St. Louis the strikers were surprised, and not altogether pleased, when the official order was received. A number of officials of the railroads centered there declare they will keep all their new employes if they desire to remain. Two companies of militia from Galesburg and Moline left for home in the afternoon.

Reports from different points west and southwest are to the effect that but a small percentage of the men succeeded in obtaining re-employment yesterday, but it has been arranged that a larger number will be put to work.

Martin Irons, by whom the Gould Southwestern strike was ordered, when asked what effect he anticipated the method of ending the trouble would have upon the Knights, said: "We were fighting for recognition and we got it from Congress, which represents all citizens of the United States. Is not that complete recognition? Our order will grow after this, even more rapidly than it has during the past few weeks, when applications for charters have been so numerous that we could scarcely find time to consider them."

NEW YORK, May 5.—The great struggle in this city for shorter hours inaugurated Monday continues, and thus far has been fought only with strikes and lock-outs. No violence has occurred. There are about 3,000 men out, principally piano-makers, marble-cutters, furniture-worker, machinists and metal-workers. One thousand two hundred silk-weavers are out at Union Hill, N. J., for increase of wages and shorter hours. Nine waiters, charged with conspiracy and coercion in boycotting Theiss' Garden, on Fourteenth street, where they were formerly employed, were arrested and lodged in police headquarters.

Twelve hundred men belonging to the Varnishers' Union, employed in the building and furniture trades, struck yesterday. They demand a uniform scale of three dollars per day for nine hours' work. One hundred and sixty-five shops, employing 3,600, of a total of 3,700 men belonging to the Furniture Makers' Union, have conceded the men's demand for eight hours a day at their present rate of pay.

One hundred and twenty-five men employed in the machine and boiler shops of McWilliams & Brown, Jersey City, were refused their demand yesterday for shorter hours. A general strike is probable in all the machine shops of the city.

Everything is quiet in the Williamsburg and Greenpoint sugar house district. A number of men with red ribbons move up and down the streets making vain efforts to punish the men who returned to work.

At the offices of the Third avenue railroad the strike is now regarded as practically over, so far as its effect on the operations of the road are concerned. The first car was started at 4:30 yesterday morning and sixty-two cars were run up to noon. A number of new drivers were taken on. The company's officials say cars will be run all night.

Speaking of the notice of the Knights that the strike on the Missouri Pacific was at an end, Mr. Gould said: "This notice is all well enough as far at the striking employes and the Knights are concerned. From their standpoint the strike was not ended till yesterday. As was said some weeks ago, as far as the Missouri Pacific railroad was concerned there has been no strike for three weeks. The strike ended on the day that Mr. Powderly and his associates sent word to me that they desired to have the differences submitted to arbitration."

WASHINGTON, May 5.—But little change occurred yesterday in the building trades eight-hour lock-out. It is reported that several of the bosses have yielded and will set their men to work to-day. The president of the Builders' Association says the situation is unchanged and with no prospect of the builders yielding, while on the other hand leaders of the various trades organizations involved say that the builders are giving in and that in a few days all the locked out men will be at work on the terms and hours demanded by the strikers.

COHOES, N. Y., May 5.—Every business house there, with the exception of saloons, has signed an agreement with the Clerks' Protective Association to close at seven p. m., three nights a week, all the year round. The agreement takes effect to-day.

ERIE, PA., May 5.—The greater portion of the village of Fairview was destroyed by fire on Monday. The loss is about $50,000

THE COMING NOVELIST.

He Must Have His Birth-Place on the Soil of the United States.

When we come to formulate our demands of the coming American novelist, we will agree that he must be native born. His ancestors may come from where they will, but we must give him a birth-place and have the raising of him. Still, the longer his family has been here the better he will represent us. Suppose he should have no country but ours, no traditions but those he has learned here, no longings apart from us, no future except in our future—the orphan of the world, he finds with us his home. And with all this suppose he refuses to be fused into that grand conglomerate we call the "American type." With us, he is not of us. He has suffered every thing a poet, a dramatist, a novelist need suffer before he comes to have his lips anointed. And with it all he is in one sense a spectator, a little out of the race. How would these conditions go toward forming an original development? In a word, suppose the coming novelist is of African origin? When one comes to consider the subject, there is no improbability in it. One thing is certain—our great novel will not be written by the typical America. After a time the Yankee type will be replaced by some new combination from the effect of our life on the nations swarming to our shores; and, as far as nationality goes, the novel might as well then be written by the African as by this new combination. Thus far he has given us the only national music we have ever had. Indeed, we may go further and assert that the plantation songs are the only melodies in our day that are not growths from Handel or Beethoven. They are far more original than Wagner, because he is a legitimate result of progress in logical lines. Given Gluck, and Beethoven, and Wagner, is certain after a time. Of course by "plantation songs" such music as Foster's "Old Folks at Home" is not meant, but the song of the African himself, not the one written for him and then sung by the white people. Whether the peculiar swing and rhythm of his melodies is a vague recollection of Africa or the offspring of his civilization, it is distinctive in musical history.—Lippincott's Magazine.

—The village of Jamestown, N. Y., has became transformed into a city by provisions of the new charter. The affairs of the village were transferred to the custody of the common council, and after fifty years of existence, in which the population has grown from 300 or 400 to 15,000, the village is shelved and the city government becomes operative.

HON. BILLA FLINT, Life-Senator of the Dominion Parliament, Canada, found St. Jacobs Oil to act like a charm.

THE oarsmen now cultivate a row-bust physique.—Pittsburgh Chronicle.

A LUXURIANT head of hair adds to beauty and comeliness. Use Hall's Hair Renewer.

Remember! Ayer's Ague Cure is warranted to cure fever and ague. It never fails.

THE thermometer gains notoriety by degrees, so to speak.

PIKE'S TOOTHACHE DROPS cure in 1 minute, 25c. Glenn's Sulphur Soap heals and beautifies. 25c. GERMAN CORN REMOVER kills Corns & Bunions.

A LITTLE boy who wanted a kite wanted it made of "the best kind of fly-paper."

SAVE your wagons, your horses and your patience by using Frazer Axle Grease.

A BANK official's life is a hard one at best. He is always receiving checks.

IF a cough disturbs your sleep, take Piso's Cure for Consumption and rest well.

A WOMAN's glory is her hair. Now, it is different with hash.—Peck's Sun.

THE MARKETS.

CINCINNATI, May 11.
LIVE STOCK—Cattle—Common	$2 00	@ 2 75
Choice Butchers	4 25	@ 5 00
HOGS—Common	3 40	@ 3 75
Good Packers	3 85	@ 4 15
SHEEP—Good to choice	4 00	@ 4 75
FLOUR—Family	3 75	@ 4 05
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red	87	@ 88
No. 3 red	80	@ 85
Corn—No. 2. mixed	37	@ 37½
Oats—No. 2 mixed	31½	@ 32
Rye—No. 2	67	@ 68
HAY—Timothy No. 1	12 00	@12 50
TOBACCO—Common Lugs	8 00	@ 8 80
Good Mediums	10 50	@12 75
PROVISIONS—Pork—Mess	10 00	@10 25
Lard—Prime steam	5¾	@ 6
BUTTER—Choice Dairy	10	@ 13
Ohio Creamery	16	@ 20
APPLES—Prime	1 00	@ 1 50
POTATOES—per bushel	50	@ 60
NEW YORK.
FLOUR—State and Western	$3 25	@ 3 60
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 Chicago	89¾	@ 91
No. 2 red	89½	@ 90
Corn—No. 2 mixed	35	@ 48½
Oats—mixed	37½	@ 44
PORK—Mess	10 25	@10 50
LARD—Western steam		@ 6 20
CHICAGO.
FLOUR—State and Western	$4 50	@ 4 75
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 3 Spring		@ 67
No. 2 Chicago Spring	75⅜	@ 76
Corn—No. 2	34⅛	@ 34½
Oats—No. 2		@ 29
Rye		@ 60½
PORK—Mess	8 65	@ 8 70
LARD—Steam	5 82½	@ 5 85
BALTIMORE.
FLOUR—Family	$4 50	@ 5 00
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2		@ 89¼
Corn—Mixed	46⅜	@ 47
Oats—Mixed	37	@ 39
PROVISIONS—Pork—Mess	10 00	@11 00
Lard—Refined		@ 7¼
CATTLE—First quality	5 50	@ 5 62½
HOGS	5 00	@ 5 62½
INDIANAPOLIS.
Wheat—No. 2 red	$	@ 85½
Corn—mixed		@ 34½
Oats—mixed		@ 30½
LOUISVILLE.
Flour—A No. 1	$4 00	@ 4 50
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 86
Corn—mixed		@ 37½
Oats—mixed	31¼	@ 32
PORK—mess		@10 50
LARD—steam	7 75	@ 8 00

Two Reasons

why everybody needs and should take a good spring medicine, viz.:

1st, The body is now more susceptible to benefit from medicine than at any other season.

2d, The impurities which have accumulated in the blood should be expelled, and the system given tone and strength, before the prostrating effects of warm weather are felt.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best spring medicine. It purifies the blood. It sharpens the appetite. It tones the digestion. It overcomes debility. It builds up the whole system. Try it this spring.

"When in the spring I felt all run down and debilitated, I found Hood's Sarsaparilla just the medicine to build me up. My wife also, after much physical prostration, found in its use new life and lasting benefit. Upon our little girl, who had been sick with scarlet fever, its effect was marvelous, entirely removing the poison from her blood and restoring her to good health." E. G. STRATTON, Swampscott, Mass.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

S.S.S.

Relieved at Last!

"We know a gentleman in this county who, six months ago, was almost a hopeless cripple from an attack of rheumatism. He could scarcely hobble across the room, used crutches, and said himself that he had little if any hope of ever recovering. We saw him in our town last week, walking about as lively as any other man, and in the finest health and spirits. Upon our inquiry as to what had worked such a wonderful change in his condition, he replied that S. S. S. had cured him. After using a dozen and a half bottles, he has been transformed from a miserable cripple to a happy, healthy man. He is none other than Mr. E. B. Lambert."—Sylvania Telephone.

Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed free.
THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Drawer 3, Atlanta, Ga., or 157 W. 23d Street, N. Y.

AVOID QUACKS As you would a pestilence. If suffering from disease, DO NOT ... THE WHAT IT MAY BE, send stamp for sealed FREE ADVICE from the world-renowned Polypathic School of Medicine. 50,000 CORRESPONDENTS ANNUALLY. POLYPATHIC MED. CO., INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

CUT THIS OUT and return to us with 10c. and you will receive the best book ever published on LOVE, COURTSHIP & MARRIAGE. Address the Union Publishing Co., Newark, N. J.

"ISN'T that Mrs. Holmes? I thought the doctors gave her up. She looks well now."

"She is well. After the doctors gave up her case she tried Dr. Pierce's 'Favorite Prescription' and began to get better right away. I heard her say not long ago, that she hadn't felt so well in twenty years. She does her own work and says that life seems worth living, at last. 'Why,' said she, 'I feel as if I had been raised from the dead, almost.'" Thus do thousands attest the marvelous efficacy of this God-given remedy for female weakness, prolapsus, ulceration, leucorrhœa, morning sickness, weakness of stomach, tendency to cancerous disease, nervous prostration, general debility and kindred affections.

WHEN do one's teeth usurp the functions of the tongue?—When they are chattering. —N. Y. Ledger.

IF you experience a bad taste in the mouth, sallowness or yellow color of skin, feel stupid and drowsy, appetite unsteady, frequent headache or dizziness, you are "bilious," and nothing will arouse your liver to action and strengthen up your system like Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." By druggists.

"WHAT bell are you ringing?" he asked of the colored sexton. "Dis is de second ring of de fus bell."

* * * * Delicate diseases of either sex, however induced, speedily and permanently cured. Book of particulars 10 cents in stamps. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

ENGAGED in the hop business—The dancing master.—Boston Traveller.

ELY'S CREAM BALM.

We have never handled a catarrh remedy that has increased so rapidly in sales as Ely's Cream Balm or that has given such universal satisfaction.—C. N. Crittenton, 115 Fulton St., New York City.

CATARRH
ELY'S CREAM BALM CURES COLD IN HEAD CATARRH ROSE-COLD HAY-FEVER DEAFNESS HEADACHE
EASY TO USE PRICE 50 CENTS ELY BRO'S. OWEGO N.Y. U.S.A.
HAY-FEVER

A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable to use. Price 50 cts. by mail or at druggists. Send for circular. ELY BROTHERS, Druggists, Owego, N.Y.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. Dr. J. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio

$250 A MONTH. Agents Wanted. 90 best selling articles in the world. 1 sample FREE. Address JAY BRONSON, DETROIT, MICH.

A QUESTION ABOUT
Brown's Iron Bitters
ANSWERED.

The question has probably been asked thousands of times, "How can Brown's Iron Bitters cure everything?" Well, it doesn't. But it does cure any disease for which a reputable physician would prescribe IRON. Physicians recognize Iron as the best restorative agent known to the profession, and inquiry of any leading chemical firm will substantiate the assertion that there are more preparations of iron than of any other substance used in medicine. This shows conclusively that iron is acknowledged to be the most important factor in successful medical practice. It is, however, a remarkable fact, that prior to the discovery of BROWN'S IRON BITTERS no perfectly satisfactory iron combination had ever been found. BROWN'S IRON BITTERS does not injure the teeth, cause headache, or produce constipation—all other iron medicines do. BROWN'S IRON BITTERS cures Indigestion, Biliousness, Weakness, Dyspepsia, Malaria, Chills and Fevers, Tired Feeling, General Debility, Pain in the Side, Back or Limbs, Headache and Neuralgia—for all these ailments Iron is prescribed daily. BROWN'S IRON BITTERS, however, does not cure in a minute. Like all other thorough medicines, it acts slowly. When taken by men the first symptom of benefit is renewed energy. The muscles then become firmer, the digestion improves, the bowels are active. In women the effect is usually more rapid and marked. The eyes begin at once to brighten; the skin clears up; healthy color comes to the cheeks; nervousness disappears; functional derangements become regular, and if a nursing mother, abundant sustenance is supplied for the child. Remember Brown's Iron Bitters is the ONLY iron medicine that is not injurious. Physicians and Druggists recommend it.

The Genuine has Trade Mark and crossed red lines on wrapper. TAKE NO OTHER.

DROPSY
TREATED FREE.
DR. H. H. GREEN & SONS,
Specialists for Eleven Years Past,

Have treated Dropsy and its complications with the most wonderful success; use vegetable remedies, entirely harmless. Remove all symptoms of dropsy in eight to twenty days.

Cure patients pronounced hopeless by the best of physicians.

From the first dose the symptoms rapidly disappear, and in ten days at least two-thirds of all symptoms are removed.

Some may cry humbug without knowing anything about it. Remember, it does not cost you anything to realize the merits of our treatment for yourself. In ten days the difficulty of breathing is relieved, the pulse regular, the urinary organs made to discharge their full duty, sleep is restored, the swelling all or nearly gone, the strength increased, and appetite made good. We are constantly curing cases of long standing, cases that have been tapped a number of times, and the patient declared unable to live a week. Give full history of case. Name sex, how long afflicted, how badly swollen and where, are bowels costive, have legs bursted and dripped water. Send for free pamphlet, containing testimonials, questions, etc.

Ten days' treatment furnished free by mail.

Epilepsy (fits) positively cured.

If you order trial, send 10 cents in stamps to pay postage. H. H. GREEN & SONS, M. Ds., 55 Jones Avenue, Atlanta, Ga.

BULL'S SARSAPARILLA.

THE LIVER

Secretes the bile and acts like a filter to cleanse impurities of the blood. By irregularity in its action or suspensions of its functions, the bile poisons the blood, causing jaundice, sallow complexion, weak eyes, bilious diarrhœa, a languid, weary feeling, and many other distressing symptoms generally termed liver troubles. These are relieved at once by the use of DR. BULL'S SARSAPARILLA, the great blood resolvent.

DR. JOHN BULL.—I have been for a number of years severely afflicted with a mercurial headache and a dull, heavy pain in my liver. Three bottles of BULL'S SARSAPARILLA gave me more relief than all the others combined. T. H. OWENS, Louisville, Ky.

DR. JOHN BULL.—I have examined the prescription for the preparation of DR. JOHN BULL'S SARSAPARILLA, and believe the combination to be an excellent one, and well calculated to produce an alterative impression on the system. I have used it both in public and private practice, and think it the best article of Sarsaparilla in use.
M. PYLES, M. D., Louisville, Ky.
Res. Phys. at Lou. Marine Hosp.

KIDNEYS

Are the great secretory organs of the body. Into and through the Kidneys flow the waste fluids containing poisonous matter taken from the system. If the Kidneys do not act properly this matter is retained and poisons the blood, causing headache, weakness, pain in the small of back and loins, flushes of heat, chills, with disordered stomach and bowels. BULL'S SARSAPARILLA acts as a diuretic on the kidneys and bowels, and directly on the blood as well, causing the great organs of the body to resume their natural functions, and health is at once restored.

DR. JOHN BULL.—I have used BULL'S SARSAPARILLA for rheumatism and kidney trouble, and my son has taken it for asthma and general debility. It has given us both great relief. Yours truly,
THOS. H. BENTLEY, Roseville, Ill.

DYSPEPSIA

Variable appetite, faint, gnawing feeling at pit of the stomach, heartburn, wind in the stomach, bad breath, bad taste in the mouth, low spirits, general prostration. There is no form of disease more prevalent than Dyspepsia, and it can in all cases be traced to an enfeebled or poisoned condition of the blood. BULL'S SARSAPARILLA by cleansing and purifying the blood, tones up the digestive organs, and relief is obtained at once.

DR. JOHN BULL.—I have no hesitation in saying that I believe your SARSAPARILLA to be the best medicine manufactured for the cure of Scrofula, Syphilis and many other cutaneous and glandular affections, having used it with entire success in numbers of the above cases.
JAMES MOORE, Louisville, Ky.

DR. JOHN BULL.—I procured one bottle of BULL'S SARSAPARILLA for my eldest son. Among the remedies and various prescriptions that he has tried for weak lungs and chest, this one bottle has been of more benefit to him than all. It has cured me of Dyspepsia as well. JOHN S. MCGEE, Horse Cave, Ky.

THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE.

SCROFULA

Is a peculiar morbid condition of the system, caused directly by impurities in the blood or by the lack of sufficient nourishment furnished to the system through the blood, usually affecting the glands, often resulting in swellings, enlarged joints, abscesses, sore eyes, blotchy eruptions on the face or neck. Erysipelas is akin to it and is often mistaken for Scrofula as it comes from the same cause, impure blood. BULL'S SARSAPARILLA, by purifying the blood and toning up the system forces the impurities from the blood and cleanses the system through the regular channels.

DR. JOHN BULL.—It is my opinion that your preparation of SARSAPARILLA is decidedly superior to any other now in use, and I will take great pleasure in recommending it for the cure of Scrofula and all diseases of the blood and kidneys.
B. B. ALLEN, M. D., Bradford, Ky.

BULL'S SARSAPARILLA.
BULL'S WORM DESTROYER.
BULL'S SMITH'S TONIC SYRUP.
THE POPULAR REMEDIES OF THE DAY.

PRINCIPAL OFFICE:
831 West Main Street, Louisville, Ky.
Price, $1; Six Bottles for $5.
For Sale by all Druggists.

KEEP THE BLOOD PURE.

I CURE FITS!

When I say cure I do not mean merely to stop them for a time and then have them return again, I mean a radical cure. I have made the disease of FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS a life long study. I warrant my remedy to cure the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a Free Bottle of my infallible remedy. Give Express and Post Office. It costs you nothing for a trial, and I will cure you.
Address Dr. H. G. ROOT, 183 Pearl St., New York.

FREE FARMS IN SUNNY SAN LUIS.

The most Wonderful Agricultural Park in America. Surrounded by prosperous mining and manufacturing towns. FARMER'S PARADISE! Magnificent crops raised in 1885. THOUSANDS OF ACRES OF GOVERNMENT LAND, subject to pre-emption & homestead. Lands for sale to actual settlers at $3.00 per Acre. Long Time. Park irrigated by immense canals. Cheap railroad rates. Every attention shown settlers. For maps, pamphlets, etc., address COLORADO LAND & LOAN CO., Opera House Block, Denver, Colo. Box, 2890.

RADWAY'S PILLS!
The GREAT LIVER and Stomach Remedy

For the cure of all disorders of the Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Kidneys, Bladder, Nervous Diseases, Loss of Appetite, Headache, Costiveness, Indigestion, Biliousness, Fever, Inflammation of the Bowels, Piles, and all derangements of the internal viscera. Purely vegetable, containing no mercury, minerals or deleterious drugs.
Price, 25 cents per box. Sold by all druggists.

DYSPEPSIA!

DR. RADWAY'S PILLS are a cure for this complaint. They restore strength to the stomach and enable it to perform its functions. The symptoms of Dyspepsia disappear, and with them the liability of the system to contract diseases. Take the medicine according to directions, and observe what we say in "False and True" respecting diet.
☞ Send a letter stamp to DR. RADWAY & CO., No. 32 Warren Street, New York, for "False and True."
☞ Be sure to get RADWAY'S.

DR. RADWAY'S
Sarsaparillian Resolvent,

Builds up the broken-down constitution, purifies the blood, restoring health and vigor. Sold by druggists. $1 a bottle.

RADWAY'S READY RELIEF.

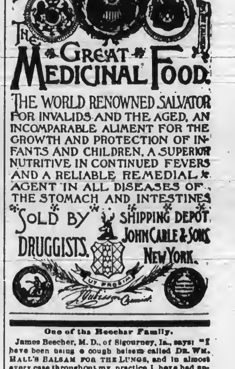
For the relief and cure of all Pains, Congestions and Inflammations.
DR. RADWAY & CO., 32 Warren Street, N. Y.

6c.
A Beautiful Panel Picture.

In order to advertise Mellin's Food in every home, we will mail, on receipt of 6c. in stamps, to pay postage, a beautiful panel picture, printed in twelve colors. Size, 18 x 28 inches.
DOLIBER, GOODALE & CO.,
40, 41, 42 & 43 Central Wharf, Boston, Mass.
☞ Please mention this paper.

MUSTANG
Survival of the Fittest.
A FAMILY MEDICINE THAT HAS HEALED MILLIONS DURING 35 YEARS!
MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT.
A BALM FOR EVERY WOUND OF MAN AND BEAST!
The Oldest & Best Liniment EVER MADE IN AMERICA.
SALES LARGER THAN EVER.

The Mexican Mustang Liniment has been known for more than thirty-five years as the best of all Liniments, for Man and Beast. Its sales to-day are larger than ever. It cures when all others fail, and penetrates skin, tendon and muscle, to the very bone. Sold everywhere.



THE WORLD RENOWNED SALVATOR FOR INVALIDS AND THE AGED, AN INCOMPARABLE ALIMENT FOR THE GROWTH AND PROTECTION OF INFANTS AND CHILDREN, A SUPERIOR NUTRITIVE IN CONTINUED FEVERS AND A RELIABLE REMEDIAL AGENT IN ALL DISEASES OF THE STOMACH AND INTESTINES
SOLD BY DRUGGISTS. SHIPPING DEPOT, JOHN CARLE & SONS NEW YORK.

One of the Beecher Family.

James Beecher, M. D., of Sigourney, Ia., says: "I have been using a cough balsam called DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS, and in almost every case throughout my practice I have had entire success. I have used and prescribed hundreds of bottles since the days of my army practice (1863), when I was surgeon of Hospital No. 7, Louisville, Ky." Cures colds, coughs and consumption.

THE NEW DEPARTURE DRUMS are made with patent double acting rods and folding knee rest. Light, substantial and handsome. Used in the best Bands and Orchestras. Unequaled for tone, surpass all other in finish and appearance. If nearest Music dealer does not keep them, write to us for illustrated catalogue.
LYON & HEALY, Chicago, Ill.

No Rope to Cut Off Horses' Manes.
Celebrated "ECLIPSE" HALTER and BRIDLE Combined, can not be slipped by any horse. Sample Halter to any part of the U. S. free, on receipt of $1. Sold by all Saddlery, Hardware and Harness Dealers. Special discount to the Trade. ☞ Send for Price-List.
J. C. LIGHTHOUSE, Rochester, N.Y.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is the Best, Easiest to Use, and Cheapest.
CATARRH
Also good for Cold in the Head, Headache, Hay Fever, &c. 50 cents.

12 DOLLARS each for New and Perfect SEWING MACHINES. Warranted five years. Sent on trial if desired. Buy direct and save $15 to $35. Organs given as premiums. Write for FREE circular with 1,000 testimonials from every State. GEORGE PAYNE & CO., 48 W. Monroe St., Chicago.

DYKE'S BEARD ELIXIR

SOLDIERS NEW LAWS; Officers' pay from commissions; Deserters relieved; Pensions and increase; experience 20 years; success or no fee. Write for circulars and laws.
A. W. McCORMICK & SON, Cincinnati, Ohio.

OPIUM Habit, Quickly and Painlessly cured at home. Correspondence solicited and free trial of cure sent honest investigators. THE HUMANE REMEDY COMPANY, Lafayette, Ind.

FRENCH DECORATIVE ART DESIGNS.
New method of decorating Silks, Satins, Vases, Plaques, Lampshades, etc. Can not be detected from hand painting. Easily applied. Send for price-list and full directions. HOFFMANN BROS. 105 Main Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

CANCER Treated and cured without the knife. Book on treatment sent free. Address F. L. POND, M.D., Aurora, Kane Co., Ill

TELEGRAPHY Learn here and earn good pay. Situations furnished. Write VALENTINE BROS., Janesville, Wis.

A.N.K.—E. 1082

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOLUME XI. BURLINGTON, KY., WEDNESDAY, MAY 19, 1886. NUMBER 28.

A MIDNIGHT CALL.

Kenton County, O., Scourged by a Wind storm.

Four Dead Bodies Found—Narrow Escape of an Express Train and Passengers.

FORT WAYNE, IND., May 14.—A cyclone swept up the Blanchard river at eleven o'clock to-night, doing great damage. Blanchard river runs through the eastern part of Hardin County, O., and crosses the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago road two miles west of Forest. Here it blew down several trees. One of them swept the side of the fast express train east, breaking all the windows on one side of the train, injuring twelve passengers. One of them had an eye put out and one leg broken. Can not get names of injured at this hour. The water house of the road at this point was blown to pieces. The Hardin County cyclone struck the town of Dunkirk, blowing down and entirely destroying several buildings and unroofing many others. Up to this writing four people killed have been found, and doctors and citizens are out with lanterns hunting for more. The storm has passed, but it is very dark and raining hard. The names of the killed at Dunkirk, O., are William McElree and two children and Mrs. Rufus Lease. Fifteen or twenty are known to have been seriously wounded.

A PACK OF IDIOTS

Who Allowed a Suicide to Choke to Death Before Their Eyes.

CHICAGO, May 14.—Early this morning an expressman named Blas, fifty years old, adjusted a rope and hanged himself from a rafter in the barn in the rear of his home at No. 733 Milwaukee avenue. His wife found him in this situation, and her screams brought a crowd of neighbors to the scene, but no one interfered or attempted to cut the rope, owing to the frantic efforts made by the suicide to release himself by throwing his legs and arms apart. Crowds from the street came in to view the appalling sight, but none ventured to attempt a rescue. Finally, after a lapse of ten or fifteen minutes, a policeman appeared and cut the man down. He was then cold in death.

A FEARFUL EXPLOSION.

Five Men Killed or Fatally Hurt by the Bursting of a Boiler.

ZANESVILLE, O. May 14.—At Sarahsville, Noble County, this afternoon, the boiler of a portable saw-mill engine exploded, killing Engineer Lafayette Tuttle, Ed. Hill, an off-bearer, and Louis Bates, a bystander. The proprietor, James Herron, and an off-bearer named Nathan Butler were fatally injured and can not live. Engineer Tuttle was only 17 years old. Bates and Hill were literally blown to pieces, their heads being picked up 200 feet from where the boiler stood.

Here's Your Imported Labor.

ST. LOUIS, May 14.—Another strike has been commenced in the Belcher Sugar Refinery in this city. Some time ago a large number of Poles and Germans were imported to work in the refinery and they have remained in their places without joining in any demand for shorter hours or more wages until the present eight hour agitation, when they demanded an increase of pay of fifteen cents per day. Their demand has never been replied to, and yesterday the entire number—fifty or sixty—struck. In the afternoon several new men were engaged to fill their places. This they objected to, and collecting around the refinery, attacked and beat every new man they could lay their hands on. The policemen were summoned and dispersed the crowd, who retreated muttering vengeance. A detail of officers guard the works to-day.

To Be Tried For Conspiracy.

PITTSBURGH, PA., May 14.—The grand jury of Washington County has returned true bills against ninety-one of the striking coal miners, who were charged with conspiracy. Their trials will come up at the present term of court in that county. The miners' officials are determined to test the conspiracy laws in the most thorough manner, and for that purpose have retained the best counsel available. Should the decision of the lower court be unfavorable, the cases will at once be carried to the Supreme Court. The indictments found against the miners are the result of the rioting which occurred in the fourth pool several months ago.

Wants to Hire a Hall.

NEW YORK, May 14.—Schultz, who secured the release of Herr Most, says that the Anarchists propose to give Most a reception to-night at Beethoven Hall, in Sixth street, where "society" will be handled without gloves. The proprietor of Beethoven Hall shook his head grimly when informed of Schultz's plans, and said that he would "fire" the gang out if they dared to request the use of his hall. John Stimmel, the proprietor of Germania Hall, where Most made his rabid utterances which led to his being indicted, said: "Never more again dose viellens gooms in hose."

The Date is Set.

BOSTON, MASS., May 14.—A Washington special says that a private letter received yesterday from William S. Bissell states that the President's wedding, according to the present programme, will occur in Buffalo June 12. The latest advices from Europe are to the effect that Miss Folsom was suffering from a relapse of the Roman fever, but that if she is able to travel there will be no delay in the date of the wedding. On the other hand, if the wedding should be postponed on account of Miss Folsom's illness, it will occur within a week after their return to America.

A Horrible Find in a Chicago Suburb.

CHICAGO, May 14.—The coroner received a dispatch this morning from the town of Cicero, near this city, which said that nine boxes containing the bodies of children and adults had been found about half a mile south of Oak Park. A close examination discloses the fact that they were taken from the dissecting room of one of the medical colleges in the vicinity. As near as could be ascertained there were portions of the bodies of twelve persons, including a woman and two infants.

Cartridges for Dublin.

LONDON, May 14.—The Government has just forwarded two million rounds of ball cartridges to Dublin.

The Week's Failures.

NEW YORK, May 14.—The business failures occurring throughout the country during the last seven days, as reported to R. G. Dun & Co. to-day, number for the United States 156, and for Canada 20, as against a total of 193 last week and 207 the week previous.

American Bible Society.

NEW YORK, May 14.—The annual meeting of the American Bible Society was held here yesterday. The receipts of the year were $523,910; expenses, [illegible]. There had been 1,437,440 Bibles, Testaments, etc., issued, of which 584,601 went to foreign lands.

Death From Hydrophobia.

NEW YORK, May 14.—Jacob Hentlin, the Brooklyn builder, who was bitten by a mad dog, died of hydrophobia this morning. His last moments were apparently painless. After bidding his wife and four children good-bye, he placed his hand on the shoulder of Felix Ballalero, who has been with him constantly during the past two days, and said: "You have been a true friend to me. Good-bye." Then he sank back, dead.

Sisters Killed by Cars.

WORCESTER, MASS., May 14.—Elisa and Maggie St. Dennis, daughters of Mrs. Joseph St. Dennis, of North Bridge, were this morning run over and killed at Riverside Crossing by a passenger train.

GERONIMO.

The Hostiles Surprised and Their Camp Captured.

TUCSON, ARIZ., May 16.—A special from Huachuca says: Captain Hatfield, with a troop of cavalry, struck Geronimo a heavy blow yesterday morning, ten miles southeast of Santa Cruz, but a few hours later received a heavy blow in return. Friday afternoon the hostiles, about seventy strong, struck Milepias Ranch, rounding up thirty horses. Hatfield arrived half an hour later and followed the trail until dark. Yesterday morning he surprised and stampeded the hostiles, capturing their entire camp outfit and horses. He started for Santa Cruz. In passing through Box Canyon a galling fire was suddenly poured upon his little command. The men dismounted and made a gallant fight for an hour, losing two killed, three wounded. Many Indians fell, but the number is not known. Captain Hatfield reached Santa Cruz, where he will be joined by Lieutenant Cooks, with Dorst's troop. Major Rinz, with a large Mexican force, reached Santa Cruz last night and joined in the pursuit this morning. General Miles, Captain Lebo and Lieutenant Davis are with the troops. Governor Torres, of Sonora, and Prefect Rivero, of the Magdalena District, are here in consultation. Governor Torres, has just received a dispatch from the Prefect of Guymas, stating that General Martinez routed the Yaquis from their stronghold in Sierra Bacatche on the 13th, killing 100 and capturing 200. The Mexicans lost twenty killed and fifty wounded. Cajemme escaped, but is being pursued by troops on land and gunboats on the river. This virtually ends the Yaquis war.

A SUCCESSFUL EXPERIMENT.

Shad Transported 3,000 Miles and Hatched on the Way.

PORTLAND, ORE., May 16.—The United States Fish Commissioners' car arrived here to-day. It started with 1,000,000 shad, of which about 300,000 died, half a million placed in the Columbia river at Wallula Junction and the remainder will be placed in Willamette, at Albany, to-night. However, this was of trifling consideration as compared with another experiment which will be of interest to science. An attempt was made to hatch shad in the car while en route, and was a complete success, on both the 6th and 7th inst. Six hundred thousand eggs were taken into the car at Havre de Grace and placed in four MacDonald jars. A pump kept constantly at work moving the water and kept it fresh, and the result was that fully ninety-five per cent. of the eggs were hatched. Fresh water was obtained at every available point. Of the five per cent. lost most of was due to premature birth. All of the hatched shad will be planted in the Willamette at Albany. The experiment which ended to-day solves the problem of transporting young shad 3,000 miles.

A FLORIDA LYNCHING.

Two Brothers Strung Up for Shooting an Officer, Who Will Recover.

JACKSONVILLE, FLA., May 16.—Dan and Lon Mann, who murdered Marshal Campbell and wounded Officer McCormick at Bartow on Saturday, were lynched late last night. A crowd of 200 men surrounded the jail, disarmed the sheriff, took the keys and took the prisoners to a tree near by. While stringing Dan Mann, Lon got loose and ran. He was promptly "winged" and strung up to the same limb. The coroner cut them down and a verdict was rendered of "death by violence at the hands of unknown parties." Very little secrecy was observed by the mob. McCormick will recover.

Fighting Anarchists.

ST. LOUIS, May 16.—The anarchists of North St. Louis held a meeting this afternoon at the North St. Louis Turner Hall to collect a fund for the wounded Anarchists in Chicago and Milwaukee, and had an extremely lively meeting. One of the principle speakers was Carl Bergmann, a schoolmate of Reaaheifer, one of the Anarchists executed in Germany about a year ago. He made a very violent speech, declaring that McCormick was responsible for the slaughter of the brethren in Chicago. They were first attacked by the police, and he did not blame them for bringing field artillery to the Haymarket meeting and using it when attacked. While Bergmann was speaking he was interrupted by the entrance of Joseph Reifgarber, editor of the Anarchist organ, Die Parole, who was expelled from the society last week for refusing to publish resolutions adopted by the Anarchists after the Chicago trouble. As soon as Bergmann saw Reifgarber he rushed at him and knocked him down, dislocating four of his teeth. Two or three of Reifgraber's friends rushed at Bergmann, and several of the latter's friends at once took a hand in the melee. Reifgraber was picked up and thrown down stairs. No one else was hurt, but the confusion lasted for some time. Copies of Herr Most's book were distributed, and about $800 were collected for the suffering Anarchists.

Destructive Winds.

COLUMBUS, O., May 16.—A terrible tornado swept over the southern part of Hancock and northern part of Hardin County, O., Friday night, carrying death and destruction in its path. The storm was most disastrous in its effect near Forest, where William McElvee, a wealthy farmer, was instantly killed, while a lady named Higgins, in the same house was fatally injured. The wife of Rufus Lease was also killed and a number of buildings were completely demolished and a great number of persons were severely injured. The loss in Hardin County is estimated at $1,000,000. Three persons were killed during a storm Friday night in Hopewell Township, Mercer County.

TOPEKA, KAS., May 16.—Menden, Kas., was struck by a tornado, Friday, and part of the town swept away. Eighteen or twenty persons were more or less injured.

Hard to Believe.

GREEN BAY, WIS., May 16.—An insane woman named Julia Muzer yesterday jumped from a third-story window of the county-house. She got up from the ground and walked alone into the house. Her body, in striking, made a depression in the earth two inches deep. Her collar bone was broken, but there were no other injuries.

Alderman Jaehne Guilty.

NEW YORK, May 16.—In the case of Alderman Jaehne, of this city, charged with taking a $20,000 bribe from the Broadway Surface railroad, the jury brought in a verdict of guilty.

Keely Motor Farce Again.

PHILADELPHIA, May 15.—The Keely Motor stockholders had another disappointment to-day, the trial of the motor which was to have taken place having to be again postponed, owing to Mr. Keely's inability to get things ready in time.

The Sixth Victim.

CHICAGO, May 16.—Police Officer Thomas Redden will without doubt be the sixth victim of the bomb explosion, May 4, on Haymarket Square. Blood poisoning has developed, and his physicians says he can not live.

Marrying a Stranger on Trust.

FARGO, DAK., May 16.—About two months ago Jno. Dowdright, a farmer at Iakster, in Grand Forks County, went to Pennsylvania for a wife. An introduction was had to a maiden lady nearly thirty years of age, who at once married him and came to Dakota. Friday they went to Fargo, the wife understanding that they were on their way to Washington Territory. They put up at a hotel, leaving their buggy at the depot. During the night the man took the baggage, with every cent belonging to them, mostly the wife's—some $6,000—and left on one of the trains alone. She is left destitute, a thousand miles from her home, with abundant experience of marrying a Dakota stranger on trust.

THE RED FLAG.

A Judge's Charge to the Grand Jury to Investigate the Chicago Riot.

The Anarchists Must be Held Responsible for What They Incite Other Men to Do.

CHICAGO, May 17.—The grand jury that was called to investigate the charges against the Anarchists met to-day. The court-room was crowded with people. Comment was freely made on the appearance of the jurors who responded to the call of their names. The impression was that they were a good-looking, intelligent body of men. Judge Rodgers made his charges, substantially as follows: "We hear a good deal lately of what constitutes freedom of speech. There is no constitutional right for men to assemble and engage in wild harangues and incendiary speech. These men must be held responsible for what they incite others to do. That is the spirit of the law. It is only your province to deal with crimes, with acts that have been committed, nevertheless, the history of the last few days will make it necessary for me to advert to other matters than the actual commission of crime as well as the commission of offenses against the law. The Bill of Rights of the State of Illinois incorporates the general principles of the Constitution of the United States. Men may assemble and discuss these matters, the constitutional right of freedom of speech, but they are held responsible for what they say. If men are incited to riot, arson and other unlawful acts the men responsible for this may be held answerable for the results. Mere lookers on are not the ones only, but the man who advised the commission of the crime are the guilty parties as well. The principles of law inculcate the doctrine that men who teach riot, who incite unlawful gatherings to incendiary acts, are responsible for the effects of these rantings. A red flag is a public menace. It is an emblem that no quarter will be given. The police have a right to suppress these people to prevent the commission of crime. They have the right to quell all such disturbances. And the police and chief magistrate of the city did their duty when the time came, and acted like men, the noblest work of God." Before quoting the law on the subject Judge Rogers adverted to the recent labor troubles. He said: "They have attracted the notice of the country at large, but I do not want to lay the trouble to any one nationality. It is not nationalities, but individuals that are to blame. It is not the Irish, nor the Germans, nor the Bohemians. As a nationality, all these people love peace. Men have a right to strike. They have a right to quit work if they please, but when they go one step further and say that others have not the right to work they violate the law and can be punished. It is not only the principals that may be held responsible, but the accessors as well—he or they who stand idly by after having advised the violence committed may be held equally to blame with the principals."

SLOWLY DYING.

The Condition of Ex-President Arthur One of Hopelessness.

NEW YORK, May 17.—The Times this morning says: Ex-President Arthur's condition has been steadily growing worse during the past week, but he has not relapsed so far as to have lost all the ground gained during his unexpected rally of about ten days ago. Some of the more enthusiastic of his friends believed that the turn for the better had come, but the steady decline since then has dampened this enthusiasm and there are few, if any, who now believe that the ex-President will ever again leave his house alive. Sudden and unexpected rallies, followed by gradual but steady declines, are peculiarities of Mr. Arthur's disease, well-known to physicians, and watched by them with grave fears. The danger is ever present that the poisoned blood of the patient will suffuse the brain, and when that happens the victim of Bright's disease feels the last of his sufferings. Mr. Arthurs bears his confinement patiently and bravely, and knowing, as he does, the hopelessness of his case, makes the labor of love of his attendants as light as possible by his gentleness and unvarying cheerfulness.

Dastardly Attempt at Arson.

ST. LOUIS, May 17.—An attempt was made last night to burn the East St. Louis approach to the St Louis Bridge. The approach is nearly a mile long. At 9 o'clock a watchman discovered a large section covered with a strong smelling liquid which proved to be a combination of gasoline, coal oil and other liquids. Trains were stopped and men put to work scrubbing the bridge. It is supposed a spark from a locomotive was intended to set the stuff afire.

The Largest Aerolite Ever Found.

WASHINGTON, PA., May 17.—After months of search Prof. Jonathan Emery, of William and Mary College, has discovered the aerolite which fell in Washington County September 14, 1885. It was found imbedded deep in the soil on Frederick Miller's farm, two miles north of Clayville. Prof. Emery says it is the largest aerolite on record, and weighs fully two hundred tons. Its composition is chrominium, nickel, aluminium, copper, magnesium and tin.

New Heir to the Throne of Spain.

MADRID, May 17.—Queen Christina today gave birth to a son. In response to a summons there had assembled at the Palace to await the accouchment all the Cabinet Ministers, the foreign diplomatic representatives, the principal civil and military magnates, a deputation of members of the Cortez, and other distinguished persons.

A Rowdy Shot by a Brave Girl.

ST. LOUIS, MICH., May 17.—Last night Adel Vliet, a drunken rowdy, broke into the house of Samuel Fetters, a crippled ex-soldier. Fetters attempted to defend his home, but was getting the worst of it, when his daughter Nora, aged 17, shot Vliet in the side of the head. She was placed under arrest. The wounded man died this morning.

Damage to Fruits.

CHICAGO, May 17.—Dispatches from various points in Illinois, Iowa, Northern Indiana and Western Michigan, report quite a heavy frost yesterday morning, which did a great deal of damage to small fruits. In some places the cold wave was quite severe, and farmers are anxious about the corn, which is not yet up.

Japanese Legislation.

The Japanese Government, in its anxiety to complete the occidentalism of the nation, is passing very paternal measures. Its latest piece of legislation prohibits the favorite practice of tattooing. No doubt the habit is a little barbarous; but it boasts an honorable antiquity, and its results are extremely picturesque, as was shown by the Greek nobleman who exhibited the charms of his figured person to Londoners a year or two ago. The suppression of artistic development is seldom advisable, and, except in the case of sumptuary laws, the limits of such interference are surely reached when the right of personal adornment is infringed. And tattooing can scarcely be styled sumptuous, though doubtless one effect of its abolition will be to throw a number of artists out of employment. But what seems likely to prove a graver objection to the new law is that the Japanese, without the assistance of the family totem pricked on the skin, will experience considerable difficulty in distinguishing one another.—St. James' Gazette.

XLIXTH CONGRESS.

First Session.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—SENATE.—Mr. Hoar presented a memorial of the Republican Central Committee of the State of Ohio, charging that the election of Henry B. Payne was secured by bribery, fraud and corruption, and requesting that the Senate investigate the matter. Referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections. A number of petitions were presented praying Congress to enact legislation against oleomargarine. The Inter-State Commerce bill was then considered and finally ordered printed. Without arriving at any conclusion about taking a vote, the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—Business from the Committee on Private Land Claims being the special order, a bill providing for a commission to ascertain and settle private land claims in New Mexico and Arizona was passed. The Committee on Elections made a report on the contested election case of California, confirming the right of the sitting members from that State. A bill was reported authorizing the construction of a bridge across the Mississippi river at St. Louis; also a bill to allot the lands of the Seneca Indians in New York. The army appropriation bill was then considered until adjournment.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—SENATE.—A concurrent resolution was presented by Mr. Mitchell of Oregon, for a modification of the Chinese treaty. Consideration of the Inter-State commerce bill was resumed, and a number of amendments proposed and rejected. One by Mr. Edmunds was adopted restoring to the long and short haul clause the words struck out by Mr. Camden's amendment. The bill was then passed—yeas 47, nays 4. Those voting in the negative were Messrs. Brown, Colquitt, Morgan and Ransom. The bankruptcy bill gave way to the pension bill, which remains the unfinished business for 2 o'clock to-morrow. At 8:47 p. m. the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—An invitation from the Grand Army of the Republic to attend Decoration Day ceremonies at Arlington was referred; also, an invitation from the Fifth Army Corps of the Army of the Potomac to visit the battle-grounds of South Mountain and Antietam on the 17th and 18th inst. A bill was reported from the Judiciary Committee extending the jurisdiction of the court of claims over claims for the use of patents and patented inventions by the United States; also a bill to simplify the pleadings and procedure in criminal cases in the Courts of the United States and the District of Columbia. The joint resolution providing an indemnity to certain Chinese for losses sustained in Wyoming Territory was called up and debated until the morning hour expired. The army appropriation bill was debated and finally passed. Attention being called to the absence in the record of the word "arch," in the language of Mr. Wheeler yesterday characterizing E. M Stanton as an "arch-conspirator," the House ordered a correction to be made. Mr Wheeler admitted he had struck the word out because it had stirred up some feeling. The consular and diplomatic bill was taken up. A motion to reduce the increased appropriation for a steam launch at Constantinople from $1,800 to $1,000 was lost—yeas 58, nays 87. Mr. Morrison, who made the motion, said he would not raise the point of no quorum. Pending further discussion the House adjourned, 5 p. m.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—SENATE.—Bills on the calendar were taken up in regular order and a number passed. The first annual report of the Commissioner of the Labor Bureau was received from the Secretary of the Interior. The bill to give military telegraphers in the late war a certificate of honorable discharge and rank was recommitted to the Military Committee. Blair's general service pension bill was called up and debated by Messrs. Blair, Berry and Logan, Senator Vest having the floor for to-morrow.

HOUSE.—A resolution was adopted calling upon the President for information in regard to seizure of the Adams in Canadian waters. Debate on the Chinese indemnity joint resolution was resumed. The morning hour expired before a vote could be taken, and the measure was relegated to its place on the calendar. The diplomatic and consular appropriation bill was taken up and passed. The bill to create a Department of Agriculture was then taken up and considered. Pending further discussion the House adjourned.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—SENATE.—A petition was presented from Iowa for the abolition of "the American House of Lords." Mr. Frye's bill was favorably reported, limiting the privileges of foreign vessels in the ports of the United States to the privileges accorded American vessels in foreign ports. Mr. Hoar's resolution was agreed to, requiring that the committee, when reporting the river and harbor bill, to state the facts that show the national importance of the several pieces of work, and why each item of appropriation is advisable. At 2 o'clock the Senate took up the Mexican pension bill. After considerable debate without action the Senate went into executive session, and after an hour and a half the doors were opened, and the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—The House refused to take up the bill making the Department of Agriculture an executive department, and spent the day on the private calendar.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—SENATE.—No session.

HOUSE.—The House passed the bill establishing a sub-treasury at Louisville. The discussion over this bill led into a prolonged debate upon the silver question. The House then discussed Mr. Holman's bill for a commission to visit the Indian Territory, and the evening session was devoted to eulogies upon the late Michael Hahn, of Louisiana.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—SENATE.—The Shipping bill was passed, with the Fay bill as an amendment. This latter limits the privileges accorded to foreign vessels in our ports to the privileges given our ships in foreign ports. The Pension bill was debated as the regular order, but was not presented at the executive session. Mrs. Thompson was confirmed as postmaster at Louisville.

HOUSE.—Numerous bills were introduced in the House under the call of States. The urgent deficiency bill was passed. The rules were suspended, and the 5th and 8th of June were set apart for the consideration of measures from the Pacific Railroad Committee. A Senate bill providing for the study in the public schools of the Territories and the District of Columbia of the effects of alcoholic drinks and narcotics was passed.

Foreign Notes.

COUNT HERBERT BISMARCK has been appointed Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs.

THE Orangemen of Lurgan, County Armagh, Ireland, are enrolling themselves in military association organised for the purpose of resisting home rule government. It is stated that in the event of an Ulster rebellion, a Loyalist expedition will be ready to march on Dublin, leaving strong garrisons in Ulster and an army of observation on the Shannon.

THE O'Donoghue has abated the rents of his Glenflesk estates in County Kerry fifty per cent.

A FARMER named Quigley, of Knockjames, near Tulla, County Clare, Ireland, was shot dead while sitting at his fireside. He had recently taken a boycotted grazing farm.

SIR THOMAS ERSKINE MAY, who was recently elevated to the peerage with the title of Baron Farnborough, is dead.

TWO SPINNING mills in Lara, County Monaghan, Ireland, have been closed owing to depression in business. One thousand persons have been thrown out of employment.

—A new law in New Jersey prohibits any person from catching black bass less than seven inches in length, or trout less than six inches, under a penalty. Fish smaller than these must be thrown back.

—A San Antonio paper is responsible for the statement that the remains of a man killed forty years ago were discovered while busily plowing in Central Garden.

—There is a law in Massachusetts which enacts that any person selling short lobsters shall be fined five dollars. Short lobsters are those that are ten inches in length or less.

—The notorious Chatham street, in New York, has been rechristened, the aldermen having named it Park row at the request of one of their number.—N. Y. Sun.

—The Virginia Enterprise states that a farmer in the vicinity has bored a well that "sucks in air and make a loud, whistling noise."

—The latest novelty announced is a Bible printed in short-hand and illustrated.

THE COMMONWEALTH.

Louisville Leaf Tobacco Market.

	Dark and Heavy.	Burley.
Trash	$1 75@ 2 25	$1 75@ 3 25
Common lugs	2 25@ 3 25	3 75@ 4 50
Medium lugs	3 75@ 4 50	5 25@ 5 75
Good lugs	4 75@ 5 25	6 25@ 7 00
Common leaf	5 00@ 5 50	6 00@ 7 25
Medium leaf	6 00@ 6 75	8 75@10 00
Good leaf	7 50@ 8 25	10 00@13 00
Selections	9 00@10 50	13 50@15 50
Wrappers	12 00@18 25	16 00@22 00

Proceedings of the Legislature.

FRANKFORT, May 8.—SENATE.—The Senate was in session only a few minutes this morning. Mr. Frederick entered a motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill amending the act in relation to the sale of fertilizers, extending the date on which it is to go into effect, was passed. The bill was reconsidered and referred to the Committee on Agriculture. The Senate passed bills creating a common pleas court for the counties of Bourbon, Bath, Montgomery, Madison and Clark, and to incorporate the Southern Guarantee Company of Louisville. It is now said that the Legislature will not adjourn Monday week in accordance with the resolution adopted by both houses. The business now on hand can not be finished, and it will probably take a week or two longer. The Senate is progressing slowly with the revenue bill, and will not dispose of it until the latter part of next week. It has been stated that Governor Knott has said that if the Legislature adjourns without settling the convict question he will call it together again. Under these circumstances it is probable that the session will yet last two or three weeks.

HOUSE.—Mr. Strauss called up the following bill: Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That appeals shall be to the circuit court and courts of similar jurisdiction from orders and judgments of quarterly courts in civil actions when the amount in controversy, exclusive of interest and cost, is $25 or over. Appeals shall be to circuit courts and courts of similar jurisdiction from judgments and orders of justices of the peace and police courts when the amount in controversy, exclusive of interest and cost, is over $50. Appeals shall be to quarterly courts from orders and judgments of justices of the peace and police courts in civil cases when the amount in controversy, exclusive of interest and cost, is $10 and not more than $50. The time of taking appeals from such courts shall be governed by the provisions of the civil code of practice regulating appeals from said courts. All laws or parts of laws in conflict with this act are hereby repealed. The bill was passed. On call of counties, Mr. Scott offered a bill to amend chapter 64 of the General Statutes, so that in addition to other duties of processioners of the State they shall be given power to accurately survey and definitely fix the boundary lines of surveys and patents of lands issued by the State.

FRANKFORT, May 10.—SENATE.—Fifteen members were present in the Senate this morning and a number of local bills were passed before the Revenue Bill was taken up. Section after section was passed without change. It was expected that the Senate would vote upon the entire bill to-day, but in the absence of a quorum it was not done.

HOUSE.—A number of local bills were passed. Mr. Dawson called up the first general bill. It was an act to amend the law of the State in order to punish persons for fraudulently selling and disposing of mortgaged personal property. It makes the offense a felony, punishable by confinement in the penitentiary from one to three years. Through a lack of a quorum voting, it fell into the orders of the day. Mr. Reed called up a bill to punish any one who has contracted to sell personal property and has received the price, or a portion of the price, and afterward disposes of it to another. The penalty attached is a fine of from $10 to $100 and imprisonment in the county jail from ten to thirty days, or both. The contract has to be in writing. The bill was passed.

FRANKFORT, May 11.—SENATE.—The Senate passed all the sections of the revenue bill except the first, which provides the general rate of taxation. A vote on the bill will be reached to-morrow, and it is thought it will pass.

HOUSE.—The House passed the bill appropriating $500 to establish a State weather service; also a bill to appropriate $7,000 for a colored normal school.

FRANKFORT, May 12.—SENATE.—A bill appointing a commission of three to investigate the books of the Auditor and Treasurer was adopted. Several unimportant local bills were attended to and the revenue bill was called up. A motion to reconsider the vote by which the bank clause was adopted was voted down. The article fixing the general rate of taxation at 44 cents was adopted. The entire revenue bill was then voted on and passed. The bill will now have to be sent back to the House in order that the latter body may concur in the amendments. The House fixes the general tax rate at 47 cents and the Senate at 44. The House bill amending the common school laws, in order to allow taxation by districts, instead of counties, was called up and passed by a vote of 28 to 1. The bill also provides that the school superintendent shall be elected for four years, and before he is eligible he must have a certificate from the State Board of Education.

HOUSE.—Sixteen new bills of a local and private nature were introduced. A bill allowing graduates of the Dixon, Slaughterville and Providence high schools to teach without obtaining a certificate was passed. A bill providing that any person who brings a libel suit against the publisher of a newspaper shall bring the suit in the county where the paper is issued or in the county where the person alleged to be libeled resides was passed.

FRANKFORT, May 13.—SENATE.—The first part of the session this morning was devoted to passing local bills. The bill relating to record books for county officers was called up. A substitute offered by Mr. Triplett was adopted. It limits the cost of such books to the price now fixed by law governing record books furnished by the public printer. After the bill was amended it was passed. The bill regulating the transportation of freight on railroads was called up. It is intended to prevent the railroad companies from charging more for a short haul than a long haul. An amendment, that all kinds of freight be included, was adopted. The bill was then passed. The Senate then adjourned.

HOUSE.—Mr. Thorne called up his Railroad Fence bill. It provides that fences shall be erected on each side of the railroad, and half shall be paid by the land owner and half by the railroad company. Mr. Cox offered an amendment that when the land owner furnishes the right-of-way free of cost the railroad shall pay all the cost of fencing. The amendment was adopted. The bill was passed. Mr. Cravens' Senate resolution to investigate the mutilated license bill and the other missing bills was called up and unanimously adopted. The Senate bill for the benefit of the lunatic asylums of the State was called up, but the House declined to suspend the rules in order to consider it. The Senate bill prohibiting the sale of liquors within one mile of any lock or dam in course of construction by the General Government in the rivers in this State was passed. Wherever this provision comes in conflict with any city or incorporated town it has no effect.

FRANKFORT, May 14.—SENATE.—The Senate passed the House bill establishing the Covington police district. Also the following: Authorizing Anderson County to subscribe stock to the Louisville Southern Railroad Company. House bill incorporating the Central Kentucky Mutual Insurance Company. House bill incorporating the Cumberland Gap and East Kentucky Railroad Company. Incorporating the Russellville bank. House bill making seduction a felony. House amendment concurred in.

HOUSE.—The House passed a resolution this morning extending the session till May 24, but the Senate, after voting down all amendments, defeated the resolution by a vote of 22 to 13. A motion to lay a motion to reconsider on the table was lost, and there is yet a chance that the session may be extended a few days at least. The House refused to concur in the Senate amendment to the bank clause of the revenue bill; also in that fixing the pay of assessors at fifteen cents per list.

Miscellaneous Items.

FRED HANNY, hostler on Bennett's farm, near Newport, was found dead in the stable the other night. Heart disease.

THE post-office at Arabi, Lincoln County, has been abolished.

A POST-OFFICE has been established at Thurston, Daviess County, with S. M. Lockhart as post-master.

THE name of the post-office at Lutherheim, Lincoln County, has been changed to Otentheim.

MRS. ENSWEILER, who resides on the Alexandria pike, near Newport, was standing in her garden, the other day. A man on Jones Hill fired a shot at a mark and the ball passed through Mrs. Ensweiler's bonnet.

A POST of the G. A. R., composed of colored men, has been mustered in at Covington.

AN attempt was made to rob the post-office at Franklin, a few nights ago. Deputy Marshall Wright, who lodges in rooms over the post-office, was awakened by the noise, and fired a couple of shots at the would-be burglars, who fled.

A DESTRUCTIVE hail storm passed over Versailles, the other morning, playing havoc with small grain, fruit trees and all kinds of vegetables. The farmers are apprehensive that the oat crop is entirely destroyed.

THE next conclave of the Knights Templars of Kentucky will be held at Danville.

THE STORM-KING.

Disastrous Effects of a Cloud-Burst at Xenia, O.

A LITTLE BROOK BECOMES A MIGHTY, RAGING RIVER,

Sweeping Every Thing Movable Before It

Hundreds of Houses Wrecked and Whole Families Drowned—Thrilling Incidents and Many Narrow Escapes—The Miami Valley Visited by a Wind Storm, Doing Great Damage.

XENIA, OHIO, May 13.—The bright May sun of this morning shone on a desolate and stricken Xenia. After a night of darkness and terror it is grateful to have light and sun, but what an awful scene they reveal! Homes laid waste and property swept away, and, worse than all, the wholesale destruction of life. About eight o'clock last night a mighty rain, wind and electric storm came up, which continued with unabated fury for fully three hours. The wind came in a continual gale, with a continual gust which would down trees, loosen shutters and do other damage. The rain fell in sheets, while the sky was livid with wave after wave of electricity, and the mutterings of the thunder were hoarse and continuous. Most families were huddled together in fright, for no one knew at what moment the storm might prove to be a cyclone. But few persons dreamed that a flood was coming which would sweep away part of the town and drown many souls.

About ten o'clock the fire-bells rang out their wild alarm, but no great number of people responded to the call, as they thought it was only a fire, and that it could not do much harm in such a rain and storm. But directly the second alarm came, and brought out the whole town. The streets were dark and the rain was coming down in torrents, but it was soon learned what the trouble was—that Shawnee creek, a heretofore harmless little stream, had become mad, and was out of its banks and sweeping every thing before it. Men rushed in the darkness to the scene, anxious to do what they could. The waters had completely submerged the district along the Shawnee from the place above where it enters the east end of town to its exit. For a distance of from one hundred to two hundred yards on each side of Water street, clear down to Detroit street, was completely under. Standing on the banks of this mighty stream in the rain and darkness it was an appalling situation. There was no light, and above the roar of the angry waters came the cry for help from frightened and in many instances drowning people. Men rushed frantically from the shore into the waters; others ran in other directions for ropes, ladders, lights and boats to assist with. The situation was at once horrifying and frightful in the extreme. The little stream that runs through the town, called Shawnee creek, never known to do any harm before, which follows a bed laid out for it between stone walls six feet high and ten feet wide, had become a veritable river, sweeping along in many places two squares wide and from fifteen to thirty feet deep. The gas works had been submerged and everywhere was darkness, while the screams of people in the water were most piteous and heart rending. The first thing to do was to get lights, and this was partially accomplished by building great bonfires in the streets adjacent to the flood. Then, with ropes, boats, ladders and such other things as could be obtained, the work of saving lives began, and the number of people rescued in this way would probably reach one hundred. From one house, which had torn loose and floated down two squares, four or five young men rescued the family of Aaron Ferguson, nine people in all. They had no more than got safely out until the house went to pieces. At other points along the line of the flood, more than a mile in distance, like scenes were enacted.

But while the good work of rescuing was going on many poor souls were going down beneath the angry waters—how many God only knew. In Barr's bottom—a low, narrow tract of land along the creek—the scene was terrible, and here the destruction to life and property was greatest. Of more than twenty houses only four or five withstood the flood, the rest being swept down and wrecked against the Cincinnati pike bridge, a massive structure. At this point later on several bodies were recovered from the debris. At the Main-street bridge—two squares further—the terrible tide had fairly piled the debris of ruined houses in an awful mass, among which several dead bodies were found this morning. Orrin Morris, wife and seven children lived in a little frame house on Second street. It was raised from its moorings and floated toward the bridge. Cries came from it, and a man was seen at a window with a light. When it struck and mashed, partly sinking, the light went out and all was still. Mr. Morris and his family had met their awful fate. From the shore there was no way to reach them, and there was no way for them to escape. Afterward two of his little girls were rescued alive, clinging to debris down the creek, but the father and mother and five children were lost.

From ten o'clock until daylight such scenes as here described were witnessed, and when morning came eight bodies had been recovered. By this time the waters had subsided, and the work of taking out the bodies of the dead began in earnest. In the course of two hours twenty-one had been recovered, and at this hour we hear of four more being found some miles down the stream, where it joins the Little Miami river, and there are still some eight or ten missing.

The scene at the mayor's office this morning is beyond all description, for here were conveyed the bodies of the dead. Some were in their night clothes, and had evidently been caught in their beds, and most of them bore evidence of having been injured by crashing timbers. Many were in their clothes, and probably died struggling to save themselves. When your reporter looked in upon the awful sight twenty victims lay in that solemn silence we call death, on the floor. The undertakers and other kindly hands were engaged in dressing the dead and arranging them in families, for here were whole families who had found a simultaneous death.

The family of Orrin Morris, father, mother and five children, were dressed and laid side by side, one of the most touching sights the human eye ever witnessed. Some were apparently composed and peaceful in death, while others wore a distorted look as though they had died struggling. They ranged in age from the two-year old child to upward of sixty years in age and were of both colors, all on a common level in the dread silent halls of death. After the bodies were all arranged the dense throng of people who had gathered at the City Building were allowed to pass through and take a look at the harrowing spectacle. This afternoon, also, large numbers of people were allowed to visit the morgue.

Three bridges between here and Spring Valley, on the Little Miami, are out, and as much as five miles of track gone. The first section of the late train from Cincinnati reached this place. The next section got caught between bridges and there it lies. A large amount of track below the valley is out, and the loss will be $50,000 or more. The D. & I. railroad between here and Trebein's is washed out badly, and the Little Miami track is in the same condition all the way to Dayton. It is impossible to gather the full extent of the damage, but it will take days and probably weeks to repair.

The excitement in the second section of the train from Cincinnati was terrific. The women huddled together and the men paced the cars with blanched faces, as the water rose higher and higher on the track. The conductor soon reported that the fires were out, and it looked as though the train would surely be swept away, as there was nothing to be seen but a vast sea. Health Officer Rowland, of Cincinnati, who was on the train, asked the engineer why he had stopped the train with such a sudden jerk. The engineer replied: "I saw ahead of me a raging, rushing body of water, that roared as loudly as a heavy peal of thunder. If I had gone a hundred feet further we would all have been killed." It was a big break in the track he saw.

Mr Rowland was perfectly satisfied with the explanation. The water, it can now be seen, twisted the railroad tracks into all sorts of shapes, just as a man could twist a small wire.

The surrounding country is also greatly devastated. Bridges are out in every direction, and a large number of farm houses near Goe's Station were destroyed, though without loss of life. The Miami Powder Mills at Goe's suffered several thousand dollars' loss from the hurricane that swept over that region.

The greatest cause of the destruction of life and property in Xenia was a small culvert, where the little stream passed under a high embankment of the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and St Louis railroad in the east end of town. The culvert would not allow the vast amount of water that was falling to pass through, and it gathered in a vast lake against the embankment, which suddenly gave way, and let the water into the town like an avalanche, running in waves ten and twenty feet high. Two more bodies have been found, and the total loss of life will not fall below thirty souls.

The railroads in all directions are so washed out that travel will not be resumed for several days, and the town is full of travelers anxious to get out.

The town to-night is enveloped in almost total darkness, the only light visible being that afforded by a clouded moon. The town is patrolled by a force of special police appointed by the mayor, but a somber quiet prevails, and the gloom is appalling. The mayor's office, where the corpses of the victims of the disaster are laid out, is visited by a constant stream of relatives, friends and sight-seers, and arrangements have been made for the funerals to commence at nine o'clock in the morning. They will continue all day. The expenses will be borne in great part by the township. The city council met this morning and appropriated $1,000 for immediate relief, and authorized the street committee to employ every one that wanted to work at clearing away the debris. The mayor was instructed to appoint a relief committee of ladies and gentlemen from each ward to begin work as soon as possible. The Mayor appointed a committee to provide relief. Miss Bertha Richter did a noble thing last night in rescuing her mother. The waters rose rapidly in the house and their terror was great. They had about $300 in money in the house, and Miss Bertha secured this and picked her mother up in her arms and carried her out of the house. The water was up to her armpits, but she struggled along, and finally reached the residence of Samuel Hypes, where she sank exhausted. Her mother fainted away from sheer exhaustion.

While George Thompson was trying to get his mother and grandmother, Mrs. Dr. Crum, across Water street, through the stream, they came near being swept away by the current. George, while holding up Mrs. Crum, fell, but soon recovered himself, and managed to get them all out.

George Witmer had a miraculous escape. He was attempting to cross the Springfield bridge when the bank gave way under him and he was hurled down into the raging waters of the Shawnee. He was swept down below the Cincinnati pike, where he managed to catch onto a tree and climbed to a place of safety. He called to a passer-by and told him he was an Xenian, but would not give his name until he was rescued for fear word would reach his parents.

Harry Arnold made a narrow escape from drowning. He had been working at the scene of destruction this side of the depot, and knowing that his father's family would be uneasy started to cross the bridge on the Springfield track to go and tell them he was safe. As he stepped on the bank it caved in with him, and he fell into the raging torrent beneath. His long rubber coat was so wrapped around him that it was almost impossible to help himself. He crowded against the side wall, and with almost superhuman effort managed to get off his coat. He called for help and some one to bring him a rope. But before he got a rope some one came to his rescue, and he threw up his coat, which just reached to the top of the bank. By that means he was drawn out of his unpleasant quarters. Harry says he thought his last hour had come, sure.

The list of the dead is as follows: Mrs. Nellie Anderson and sister, Lydia Casey (colored), both widows past sixty years of age; lived in Barr's Bottoms. Mrs. Samuel Corehoran and two sons, aged about twelve and twenty-five years, widow and sons of the late Samuel Corehoran, better known as "Sam Patch;" lived just across the creek, on King street, in the bottoms near the depot. Mat Evans (colored), day laborer, wife and child, lived on the creek just west of Whiteman street. The child is missing. Orrin Morris, white, laborer, wife and five children, three girls and two boys, the oldest a girl fifteen years of age, and the youngest a babe of ten months, lived on West Second street, near the creek. Stephen Donton, colored, laborer, lived in Barr's Bottoms. William Powell, cart driver for Sam Clark, wife and six or eight children, lived on Detroit street, between the north and south forks of Shawnee. One child escaped from the house, as did Henry Brazelton, son-in-law. Powell and two children were found this morning, the rest missing. Lewis Anderson and wife, colored, lived in Barr's Bottoms; Mr. Anderson is missing. Mrs. Ed Lindsay, lived on the foot of the creek, near the depot; Mr. Powell and two children.

The incidents of an exciting nature are almost beyond description. A lineman was standing on an embankment, and before he could realize his danger he was in the flood and swept a mile by the raging waters. A telegraph operator got into the water, and after floating some distance he caught onto a tree. A house came down in the flood and sank the tree he was perched on. He climbed on the house and started down with the current until he came across another tree. He clinched it, and remained there until he was rescued several hours later.

M. E. J. Smith, of Pittsburgh, worked nobly all night assisting the suffering. A lady went into a house to help another, and soon advised the woman to leave. She refused, and the lady who was there to help rushed out and was caught in the deluge. Mr. Smith caught her, and, after she was pulled ashore, she was nearly dead from exhaustion. He drew a flask from his pocket and poured a good, stiff slug of whisky down her throat, thereby bringing her to and saving her life.

A man's wife called to her husband that she thought water was running into the cellar of their house. The husband lighted a lamp and started to go down to the cellar, but in an instant the water was up to his chin in the room where he and his wife had been sleeping.

When it was learned that the gas works had been disabled and rendered useless and the electric wires were down, the citizens gathered wood and started bonfires to enable them to see how to carry on the work of rescuing the sufferers.

The electrical display on Wednesday night is described as being perfectly grand and magnificent in its awful play. Flash after flash followed so fast and furious that it really was a constant illumination so brilliant as to be blinding; the sky was one immense bright sheet of lightning, interspersed with vivid streaks that seemed to tangle with each other, so closely were they blended.

Joe Walton is one of the unheralded heroes who risked his life more than once by taking a boat and rescuing people. He took the Ferguson family of nine people out of the waters, and landed them safely on the shore, immediately after which their house tumbled to pieces as though it were a shell.

HAMILTON, O., May 13.—The wind and thunder storm which passed over Butler County Wednesday night cut off Hamilton from all telegraph, telephone, railroad and mail communication with the outside world except Cincinnati. Reports from the surrounding country come in slowly and are very meager. Four barns were struck by lightning, and the buildings and contents were lost. Several bridges in this vicinity were carried away. Two railroad bridges on the C., R. & C. and two bridges on the C., H. & D. were carried away. No trains are running on the C., R. & C. or C., H. & D. The loss to grain, trees houses, etc., in Butler County is very heavy.

In this city the Schwab brewery and Kahn stove foundry were submerged. The Methodist church and public school at Seven Mile were badly wrecked. Throughout the country there are reports of houses unroofed. The barn of Isaac Dick at Millville was destroyed by fire, together with all the implements and contents. It was the finest barn in the county; insured for $2,100. The barn and contents of Samuel Datzell, in the western part of the county, were also struck by lightning and destroyed; loss unknown. A number of fine groves have been laid waste, and small losses innumerable go to make up an aggregate that will fall not far short of $100,000.

DAYTON, O., May 13.—At 8:20 last night a sharp thunder-storm came up, and rain almost immediately fell in torrents, alternated with hail, the hailstones ranging in size from a hazel-nut to an almond, and were gathered in as great curiosities. Reports came in gradually of disasters near the center of town and matters grew serious, but about 11 o'clock the message came to the center of news that Wolf creek levee, which protects Miami City (or West Dayton), had broken, and Kemptown, as it is called, being the lower part of Miami City, was swept away. People hurried to the scene only to find that the disaster was more than was told. Some six hundred feet of the levee had been broken by the sudden torrent which came rushing down Wolf creek, and 150 acres of that part of the city were covered with water.

In Kemptown terrible distress occurred. A score or more houses with their sleeping occupants were swept away from their foundations and overturned, or lodged against walls, or carried into the Miami and borne away, no one knows where. That portion of the city was aroused, and the entire male population that dare engage in the business, were groping their way through the flooded district carrying out the distressed and shrieking women and children to places of safety. It was in vain to telephone for aid to the east side of the Miami, for it was apparently impossible, and at least highly dangerous to attempt to reach the scene with horses and carriages. There was not much to do but wait for dawn. To add to the distress the electric light works were flooded, and all portions of the city, lighted by electricity, including Kemptown, were in total darkness. Flashes of lightning afforded the only light for the distressed and rescuers. To-day thousands of people are visiting the spot and wonder that any of the unfortunates escaped alive. In almost all the houses in that part of town the water rose to the height of a bed or even a table. In one beautiful little one-story cottage, a man and wife lay asleep. Awakened by the rush of water and the shrieks of neighbors, the husband rose to find himself and wife in a floating house and no means of escape. The water rose higher every minute, and the only way to air and safety was through the roof. With a penknife he cut the ceiling above him, while standing on his floating bed. Through a hole in the ceiling he clambered into the attic and drew his wife after him. Then he cut his way to the roof, and there the couple sat in the driving storm until daylight brought relief, being powerless to do anything but pray. The house was caught by a wall about two blocks from its foundation, or it would undoubtedly have been carried to the Miami and lost. It is the chief point of curiosity to-day.

ALBANY, O., May 13.—A tornado passed through Columbia Township, Meigs County, about five miles from this place, last night, carrying death and destruction with it. Mrs. Margaretta McComas, aged sixty, was instantly killed; also her nephew, Hathman McComas, aged twenty-one. Lizzie McComas was seriously injured, but will probably recover. The house in which the McComases were killed was entirely demolished, and splintered into kindling-wood. A stone mantel-piece weighing nearly two hundred pounds, was carried a distance of fifty yards. The household goods were carried a distance of nearly three miles. Many houses throughout the county were wrecked or partially so.

OREGONIA, O., May 13.—A violent tornado passed one mile south of here last night. One dwelling was entirely destroyed, and many barns and dwellings unroofed and otherwise damaged. Orchards were completely uprooted, and much damage done to timber and crops.

LEBANON, O., May 13.—The storm came howling from the southwest in mad fury, toying with the trees, breaking some off, uprooting others and filling the air with an indescribable mass of flying foliage, awnings, bricks and roofs of houses with a crash and wild rushing noise that was most appalling. The first building struck was the old Lebanon tannery, on Main street, the roof of which was torn off and scattered. It jumped next to the Lebanon House, three squares to the northwest, tearing off the tin roof, which lies in a huge ball on Broadway. From this point it went down Broadway mowing down beautiful shade trees on both sides of the street, and unroofing many houses on the east side. When it reached Davis & Greely's mill it jumped down in the hollow by the reservoir and struck a frame dwelling, completely leveling it to the ground. The house was occupied by two colored families, consisting of four grown persons, two young men and two little children. Strange to say, every one escaped, the two young men, Ed. Grimes and Jim Johnson, being blown from the room upstairs, where they were asleep, a distance of more than a hundred yards against the bank of the reservoir. The Union school-house and many other buildings in town were damaged.

CINCINNATI, May 13.—The storm reached Cincinnati about 10 o'clock, and was violent, consisting of rain, wind and hail. The rain fell in torrents, and the streets were deluged with water. There was less of hail than in the morning, but it fell with great force. The damage, however, is inconsiderable. The suburbs report slight damage. Reports come of damages by the storm from Middletown, Piqua, Wilmington, Washington, C. H., Albany, Greenville, Marietta, Lancaster and other Ohio points.

LATER FROM THE STORM.

XENIA, O., May 14.—To-day the work of clearing away the debris of the Wednesday night flood has progressed with considerable effect. Large gangs of men are at work in the stream, cleaning out the lumber, household goods, etc., with which it is filled, working waist-deep in the muddy water. The remains of the destroyed houses are being carted back to the lots from whence they came, and where houses were not swept from their foundations, but only flooded, the people have been busy shoveling out the mud and sand that cover the carpets a foot deep. On East Water street several dwellings containing fine furniture were flooded badly, the rich carpets and costly household goods being utterly ruined, silverware floated away, fine stoves demolished and elegantly papered walls ruined. Many of the residents of the flooded part of the city are making arrangements to move to higher parts of the city as soon as possible. The homeless who are without friends or relatives here, and who are principally colored people, are being taken care of at the skating rink, where the committees are at work distributing food and clothing, large quantities of which have been handed in by kindly-disposed people. The word from the country is growing worse all the time. Houses on nearly all the roads leading to the town have suffered severe damage, and many houses and barns have been utterly destroyed. On the road leading to the Soldiers' Orphans' Home, the houses are all damaged, the plank walks a thing of the past, and the timbers block up the road badly and have damaged the bridges. The office of the Xenia Manufacturing Company lies against the railroad bridge on the road to the Home, as well as great masses of timbers, planks. The bridges all over the county, with few exceptions, are gone, and great holes washed in the road-beds.

Houses, fences and trees, on the Cooley farm (Goe's Station), occupied by John P. Lesourd, late of the Cincinnati horse markets, were swept entirely away. The family escaped by being in the cellar. The orchard on this place yielded an income of about $700 a year. Near this place the mills of the Miami Powder Company are located, and they are damaged badly, materials ruined and houses floated away. The loss will be very heavy. The fences between Yellow Springs and Clifton are about all gone, and most of the orchards, barns and out-buildings destroyed and houses unroofed.

At Beaverstown, several miles west of Xenia, the United Presbyterian Church was destroyed, and the usual number of barns, fences, etc., as well as a number of valuable horses killed, which was also the case in many places east of town. The damage to cornfields was such that they will all have to be replanted.

Morris, who with his wife and five children was drowned, was warned by a neighbor in time to have escaped with his family, but laughed at the idea of danger. But a few moments afterwards they were all in watery graves.

DAYTON, O., May 14.—The losses by the storms and floods of Wednesday night in the nine counties of Greene, Clarke, Madison, Miami, Darke, Preble, Montgomery, Butler and Warren are estimated to foot up $10,000,000.

Edw. Morehouse, a Narrow-guage conductor, anxious about his mother, who lives in Xenia, walked from here there to-day and back again, because by reason of the fallen timber, debris and wreckage, no one can even ride horseback, and the streams are swollen and the bridges are gone. At Trebein station, while being ferried across the Little Miami river, he and the oarsman discovered a living boy child in a drifted tree top, and rescued the child, who had an arm and leg broken. He had drifted four miles down Shawnee creek from Xenia into the Little Miami. Hurriedly they started in a buggy with the child, but it died before they got to Xenia.

Many incidents of the disaster are related now. In the angle formed by the railroad and Detroit street the house of the Stoker family tottered dangerously, and lusty calls drew the crowd around it. Planks would not reach, but soon a ladder was brought from the wrecked fire truck and the family rescued. Scarcely had the last member landed safely when the house turned over, and a moment after went to pieces. The crowd looked at it in astonishment, and a stampede followed the crashing of a portion of Bradley's flax mill which stood near by.

In Bar's Bottom, a stretch of low land north of the railroad, was a scene of terrible destruction. Of the fifteen or twenty houses that occupied the flat, only two or three could be seen, the rest having gone with the tide. Here a man dashed into the water, reached a floating house just as it turned over, but, nothing daunted, he crept in and came out with a babe. A sudden crash sent the house in pieces and he struck for the shore with his precious burden when he disappeared beneath a mass of debris. When he reappeared he was hurling through the culvert and called out, "I have lost the baby; catch it; it is right down there; I can't reach it." A few rods below he reached land, but the baby was not found until next day. It was dead. Six others went down in this bottom, three in the same house that the baby was taken from.

As terrible as the scene was along Detroit and Water streets and Bar's Bottom, the mad sweep of the waters was worse below. West Shawnee had caved out the railroad bank, and the leaping waters vied with East Shawnee in the work of destruction. Nearly two hundred houses were overturned and demolished west of the railroad, and the current quickly covered its track of devastation by sweeping every trace of the buildings and covering the foundations with sediment. Several hundred yards below much of the debris was stopped by the Main-street bridge, and an indication of the destruction is given by the piled-up mass. At this bridge most of the lives were lost. Those who were able to hang to a plank, or the house that remained firm and supported its inmates to this point, went to pieces here, and they were either dashed to pieces or relentlessly held under to drown; or, if they were spared this terrible fate by succumbing sooner, they were buried under the debris.

At this place lodged the house of Orrin Morris, wife and seven children. The house came for two squares with terrible rapidity on to its fate, and just before the crash came, Morris appeared at the window with a light. The crash unbalanced him, and as the house turned and twisted and all life disappeared, and the house went to pieces, the family of nine went down. Next day seven were found dead and two appeared alive. One, a child of 8, had been washed ashore a few rods below, the other, a lad of 13, made a gallant swim of a mile and caught the abutment of the last bridge. He says he could not find a piece of timber to catch hold of so he swam for the shore.

THE RECORDER.

WEDNESD'Y, MAY 19, 1886.

RIDDELL & HALL,
Proprietors.

Rates of Subscription.

One year	$1 50
Six months	75
Three months	40

☞Payment Invariably in advance.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1 Column	1 year	$80
1 "	½ "	40
1 "	¼ "	20
½ "	1 "	20
½ "	½ "	10
½ "	¼ "	6

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

August Election 1886.

For Circuit Judge
WARREN MONFORT.
For Commonwealth's Attorney
JOHN S. GAUNT.

For Circuit Clerk
W. L. RIDDELL.
For County Judge
E. H. BAKER.
For County Attorney
S. W. TOLIN.
For County Clerk
M. T. GARNETT.
For Sheriff
J. R. CLUTTERBUCK.
For County Superintendent
J. P. RYLE.
For Surveyor
W. E. VEST.
For Jailer
SAMUEL COWEN.
For Assessor
G. M. RILEY.
For Coroner
Dr. A. A. MURAT.

Subscribe for the Recorder.

Jeptha Wilhoite has a cow that dropped a calf last Friday that weighed 144 lbs. when only 24 hours old.—Owen News.

A New Mexico obituary closes with the words: "Her tired spirit was released from the pain-racked body, and soared aloft to eternal rest in the realms of celestial glory at 4:30, Denver time."

A destructive tornado swept over Kansas City last Tuesday week. A school building was blown down, and the superintendent and eleven children killed. The upper part of the court-house was destroyed and some of the officials killed.

THE amendment to the road law for this county gives the supervisors in districts where a new road is being opened all the control of the hands that legislation can give. The time that the hands can be compelled to work is only limited by the number of days required to complete the road.

WHEN Monday the 17th inst. arrived, instead of the happening of an anticipated event, for which the entire State would have returned thanks, the legislature continued on as though an adjournment was the one thing it did not intend to allow. Barnum's show exhibits in Frankfort on the 22d, and probably the members wanted to remian and attend.

Those who want to have plenty of water-maple trees for shade can have them with very little trouble by gathering the seed now as they fall from the trees and plant them in their gardens as they do peas. Keep them free from grass and weeds, and in a few years they will be beautiful trees for transplanting. The seeds are falling now, and the fresher and quicker they are gathered and planted the better.—Danville Advocate.

It is doubtless not generally known that there are at least forty persons in Madison county the average value of whose estates is a hundred thousand dollars.—This is a total of $4,000,000.—Register.

And its doubtless well known that Madison county's assessor returned a total valuation of only $7,460,920 as the entire wealth of the county last year, and then when the State Board raised the boys a holy howl was heard in the land of Madison from Berea to Boonsboro.—Capital.

And although the State Board unearths just such frauds every year, there are those who say its mission is a failure.

ON Monday of last week at St. Louis an intensely interesting murder trial was begun. It is the trial of Maxwell, who is charged with the murder of Preller. The two had been boon companions for a time, and what was supposed to be Preller's body was found in a trunk. Maxwell, as is too often the case, has developed into a hero, and during the recesses of court the spectators surround him and eagerly press forward for the purpose of obtaining the honor of shaking his hand. An English female tourist sketched him on the first day of the trial, and he kindly signed his name to the picture.

HENDERSON, is said to handle one-third of all the tobacco strips put up in the world. The Gleaner says that one thousand hands are employed in the sixteen tobacco stemmeries, two chewing tobacco manufactories and two cigar factories of that place, which handle during the year 25,000,000 pounds of tobacco, whose first cost is estimated at $1,925,000.

IN all criminal and penal prosecutions the defendant, if he requests it, shall be allowed to testify in his own behalf. If he does not desire to avail himself of the privileges, his failure to do so shall not be commented on by the attorney for the Commonwealth in the argument of the case: nor shall it create any presumption against him. If he testifies his evidence must be given before the introduction of other witnesses for the defense. When two or more are jointly indicted they may testify for each other except when a conspiracy is charged and proven. If a conspiracy is alleged and established, they can still testify in their own behalf. This is now the law of the Commonwealth; and applies not only to cases occurring after its passage, but to all cases pending.

THE Daily Capital of Frankfort has presented a bill to the Legislature for $939 49 for 154 copies of that paper furnished daily to the members during the session. The Capital advertised its rates as $1 per copy during the session which would make its bill $154; but as it has dosed the members with an unusual amount of taffy, which required a special talent to prepare, it thinks a copy of the Capital read by a legislator is worth at least five cents. The trouble is the Capital "bit off more than it can chaw," when it advertised its session rates, and the only way by which it can remunerate itself is by an appeal to those who have been soft-soaped by it during the session. The Capital has taken too much for granted and will profit by its experience when the next Legislature meets. Besides the Capital's bill the State is called upon to pay $1,500 for other newspapers.

BY a card published in the Shelbyville Times it is learned that Judge Durham has designs on the office of Governor of Kentucky, and announces himself in this modest manner:

"If the people desire to call me to that position, without the usual modes resorted to by candidates, I can not say that I would disregard their wishes in the matter."

Wouldn't have you think for a moment, Judge, the people of Kentucky suspicion you in the least in that direction; but we will whisper this in your political auricular with your consent, viz.: If you don't get off of that platform you will never get to be "high kockalorum" in this Commonwealth. Mark what we tell you.

"I had rather have the position which I now occupy than to be Governor of Kentucky, except that it might gratify some of my friends to have me Governor."

Oh, Judge! what a self-sacrificing mortal your are. The State rises up as one man and implores—beseeches you to remain where you are. We will try and rough it along with out you.

"I have accepted this office here and entered upon the discharge of its duties, and I am determined to carry out the purposes and plans of the administration, and to make it popular and I shall leave nothing undone within my power to accomplish the same. I do not know whether the President would be willing to give me up or not."

No, no, Judge, Grover arnt going to give you up. How could you expect such a thing when he selected you as the only man in these United States fit to occupy the cushioned chair he has provided you. Please don't hint to Grover anything about a resignation until after his nuptials, for it might work a delay of that important event; and after he marries you should not disturb his honeymoon by intimating the disabling of his administration by a ruthless withdrawal of so important a factor. No, don't do it, Judge, it would be cruel in the extreme. Yes, Judge, do make the old thing popular—there will be more glory in that than in being Governor of Kentucky.

"I am satisfied in my own mind that he is pleased with the manner in which I am conducting the office, while every one can not discharge the duties of this office acceptably, although I say it my self."

Being satisfied in your own mind, Judge, is conclusive evidence of your proficiency, and as anybody will make a good Governor for Kentucky, our advice to you is to stick to the office you now hold like grim death to a dead "nigger."

"I think you need a good financier for your next Governor, one who knows how to provide a revenue without oppression to the people, sufficient to carry on the legitimate expenses of the State."

Correct, Judge. That is the very kind of a Solomon the State has been in search of for lo, these many years, and it is humiliating to her to think that Uncle Sam has adopted her only son who was likely to be endowed with that amount of unadulterated wisdom.

Judge, it is our unanimous opinion that you want to be Governor of Kentucky about as badly as any of her noble sons, but if you wait for the office to be handed to you on a plate you will never "git thar Eli."

STATE NEWS.

The county board raised the assessed value of property in Mason county, $100,000.

Tobacco plants are up and growing nicely, and the ground is being put in condition for transplanting when the time arrives.—Milton Free Press.

The extreme cold last winter has killed nine-tenths of the blackberry bushes in Crittenden county and the citizens fear a famine.

Wm. F. Webb bought of William Smith a yoke of oxen weighing 4,170 pounds, and one yoke of Jas. Smith weighing 3,670 pounds. How is this for big oxen?—Williamstown Cour.

Jerry S. Dean, a prominent farmer of Gallatin county, was accidentally shot and killed while out hunting last Friday. He was climbing a fence when his gun was accidentally discharged, the entire load of shot took effect in the head, almost blowing it off.

Reports from all sections of the county are to the effect that tobacco plants look finer than usual and that there are plenty of them. Wheat never looked better than at present with the prospect for a large yield. The oat and hay crop is splendid. The farmers have much to encourage them.—Madisonville Times.

In Marion county the cut worms have appeared as thick as the locust of Egypt. They destroy every blade of corn as fast as it comes up. Many farmers to evade their ravages have decided to postpone planting until the hot weather sets in. The crop in consequence will be very late. Similar complaints are made by the farmers of Washington county, but the trouble is not so great as in Marion.—Leader.

Three persons will be sent to the Pen. from here. They are Wm. Jenkins, two years for assaulting Mrs. Long; John Rice, three years for killing George Craddock, and Bud Carroll, colored, one year for breaking into the store of Henry Lieberman. The verdict in the Rice case was a great surprise to the prisoner, as he felt sanguine of being acquitted, and thought the shooting was done in self defense.—Owen News.

A large part of the corn crop has been planted, but a good deal of planting remains to be done yet. Some of the farmers have not finished breaking their ground. Work is going on rapidly. Good rains have fallen throughout the county, and the ground is in good condition. In some localities cut worms are said to be doing much damage. Wheat and oats look well, and spring grass is unusually forward.—Lebanon Standard.

Our farmers complain that they have never known the cut worm to be as destructive as this season. Fields of corn that had been planted early, with good stands, have been literally ruined, and a great deal of re-planting was a necessity. On the farm of Mr. Ben Spears, north of Danville, the army worm has appeared in a field of oats and completely devoured them. The festive potato bug is now ready for work, and countless numbers of them will be sucking the life out of the plants as soon as they get well through the earth. It is such pests as these that put the bitter with the sweet in every farmers cup of joy.—Danville Advocate.

THE following is the cost of the running-gear of the Kentucky Legislature:

Ministers for services, $350.
Guy Barrett for newspapers, $1,500
The Capital for papers, $300.
Enrolling clerks per day, $8.
Clerks and assistants per day, $10.
Chief and first assistant clerk of House for keeping accounts and issuing certificates to members, $100.
Chief and assistant clerks of Senate for same purpose, each $80.
Sergents at Arms per day, $5.
Doorkeepers per day, $5.
Cloak-room keepers per day, $3.
Pages per day, $3.
Janitors per day, $4.
Speakers per day, $10.
I. A. Spalding, speaker pro tempore of the House, $55,
R. G. Hays, speaker pro tempore of the Senate, $40.
Assistant cloak-room keepers per day, $2.

GEN. BOLIVER BUCKNER in due season will be traveling up and down the State in search of his old comrades in arms with a view to rallying them once again, but not for the purpose of carnage, but that they may assist him in capturing the gubernatorial chair of this Commonwealth. In the soldier element he will have a strong following, and with what other assistance he will receive, the old gentleman is bound to be a formidable competitor for the office of Governor.

The members of the Good Templars lodge at this place are arranging for a mass temperance meeting in the Court-house in the afternoon of the first Monday in June. They expect to have some of their ablest orators to make speeches.

NOTICE.

The delinquent Poll Tax List for 1885 will be sold by districts on the first Monday in June, 1886, at 1 o'clock or thereabout in the Court-House by an order of the Levy Court and Court of Claims. S. W. TOLIN, Co. Atty.

An Act to Prohibit the Sale, Barter, Loan, Giving and Traffic in Spirituous, Viacus and Malt Liquors in Boone County.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

Sec. 1. That it shall be unlawful for any person to sell, barter, loan or traffic in any spirituous, vinous or malt liquors or any mixture thereof, in Boone county. Any person so offending shall for the first offense be fined in any sum not less than fifty nor more than two hundred dollars, and for each subsequent offense such offender shall be fined not less than one hundred, nor more than five hundred dollars, or imprisonment in the county jail not less than thirty nor more than one hundred and twenty-five days or both so fined and imprisoned at the discretion of the jury. The prosecutions under this section may be instituted and carried on before any Justice of the Peace of said county as other cases of misdemeanor, or by indictment in the Boone Circuit Court, and the County Attorney shall represent the Commonwealth in prosecutions before a Justice of the Peace or the County Judge, and receive the same per cent. of the fines collected as in other cases so prosecuted by him.

Sec. 2. That it shall be unlawful for the County Judge of Boone county, or the trustees or council of any town in said county or any court or other tribunal or authority in said county, to grant or issue any license to any person or persons or corporation to sell any spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, or any mixture thereof in said county, or in any town or towns in said county or elsewhere therein, and any such license shall be void.

Sec. 3. The foregoing section one shall not prohibit any regular practicing physician from prescribing or supplying any patient under his treatment with any such liquors as far as he may in good faith deem the same necessary as a medicine for the proper medical treatment of such patient. Neither shall it prohibit a regular druggist from filling in good faith, any prescription for such liquors, made out and signed by a regular practicing physician stating that it is for medical use, and the quantity, and for whom. No prescription shall authorize but one sale, and every prescription shall be filed and preserved by the druggist. Neither shall said section apply to any distiller who sells only in quantities of not less than thirty-six gallons at any one time in said county.

Sec. 4. Before the foregoing provisions of this Act shall be enforced in the said Boone county, an election shall be held therein to take the sense of the legal voters of said county on the question whether, spirituous, vinous, or malt liquors shall be sold therein? Said election shall be held on the first Monday in August, 1886, and the officers holding the election at that time for county offices shall take the vote on said question. The County Clerk of the said county shall furnish poll books for each voting precinct in the said county with two columns—one to be headed "For the sale of spirituous, vinous and malt liquors." "Against the sale of spirituous, vinous or malt liquors." In these columns the vote shall be entered as polled. Those voting against the sale of spirituous, vinous or malt liquors shall be construed as voting in favor of this Act. The officers conducting the election shall certify the result, and cause the poll-books to be returned to the County Clerk's office within three (3) days after the election. And the same officers whose duty it is to compare the vote and polls for candidates voted for at said election shall on the same day compare the polls and vote on this question. And if it shall appear that a majority of the votes cast on this question are against the sale of spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, they shall make a certificate of the fact, showing the vote given—and they or a majority of them shall sign the same and deliver it to the Clerk of the county court forthwith, and the same shall be preserved by him as a part of the records of his office and shall be spread with its indorsement at large upon the order-book of the county court and this Act shall be in force fully in said county in all of its provisions from the delivery of the said certificate to the said clerk, who shall indorse thereon the date and time of its delivery to him.

Sec. 5. That if this Act fails to be put in force in the said county then those districts, and parts of said county wherein the sale of liquors is not allowed under previous laws or the act known as "Local Option Act" shall not be effected by this Act: but the previous laws and acts prohibiting the sale therein shall remain in force as if this Act had not been passed.

Sec. 6. That any license granted in the said county, authorizing the sale of spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, after the approval of this Act by the Governor shall become null and void at the time the provisions of this Act prohibiting the sale of spirituous, vinous and malt liquors go into effect in said county.

Sec. 7. This Act shall be in force from and after its passage.

SHERIFF'S SALE FOR TAXES.

By virtue of taxes due the Sheriff of Boone Co, I or my deputy, will on Monday, June 7th, '86,

between the hours of 12 o'clock m. and 2 p. m., at the Court-house door in Burlington, Boone county, Ky., expose to Public sale to the highest bidder, for cash in hand the following property, (or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the amount of taxes due, aforesaid and cost,) to-wit:

A lot in the village of McVille, Boone county, Ky., near Bellevue, and known as the McMullen warehouse lot. Levied on as the property of A. H. Walker, for taxes for the year 1886.

A house and lot in the town of Petersburg, Boone county, Kentucky, adjoining the lot now occupied by Jas. Jarrell. Levied on as the property of Mariah Parker, for taxes for the years 1883-4-5.

Amount to be raised by sale, $5 45.

A house and lot in the town of Petersburg, Ky. Levied on as the property of June Wells, for taxes the years of 1883-4-5.

Amount to be raised by sale, $6 85.

A tract of land containing 125 acres, in Boone county, Ky, adjoining Morgan Rice the Willoughbys, Hartman, &c. Levied on as the property of C. D. Pott, for taxes for 1885.

Amount to be raised by sale $32 81.

A lot in the town of Taylorport, Boone county, Ky. Levied on as the property of Patrick Crosby, for taxes for the years of 1883-4-5.

Amount to be raised by sale $ 9 10.

One house and lot on the waters of Gunpowder Creek, near Limaburg Post-office, Boone county, Ky. Levied on as the property of John Wilson, cold., for the years of 1883-4-5.

Amount to be raised by sale $7 00.

About 70 acres of land at Big Bone Springs, Boone county, Ky. Levied on as the property of C. A. McLaughlin, for taxes for the years of 1884-5.

Amount to be raised by sale, $26 30.

One house and lot near Gunpowder Post office, Boone county, Ky. Levied on as the property of John Brumback, for taxes for the years of 1883-4-5,

Amount to be raised by sale $12 55.

J. R. CLUTTERBUCK, S. B. C.
May 7, 1886.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

F. M. Howlett, &c. Plff.
vs } Notice of sale in equity
J. T. Johnson, &c. Defendants.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the April term thereof, 1886, in the above cause, the undersigned will, on Monday, the 7th day of June, 1886, at 1 o'clock p. m., or thereabout (being County Court day) proceed to offer for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder, on a credit of 6 and 12 months at the Court-house door, in the town of Burlington, the property mentioned in the judgment to-wit:

[illegible] acres of land on the waters of Big Bone Creek bounded by the lands of J. A. Story, J. H. Slater, and others. Also 2 houses and lots, and a warehouse and store room in Hamilton, this county. For a more particular description see judgement herein.

Or sufficient thereof to produce the sums of money so ordered to be made. The purchaser will be required to give bonds with approved security, for the payment of the purchase money, to have the force and effect of a judgment, bearing legal interest from the day of sale, according to law. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms. Amount to be raised by sale, $3239 90

Bonds payable to the undersigned.

W. L. RIDDELL, M C B C C.

I. C. STEINHARTER,
416 & 418 Pike St.
COVINGTON, - KENTUCKY.

Highest price paid for sheared Wool and Sheep-skins. Ed Golloway, of Florence, Buyer.

ROBERT B. REED
Attorney at Law.
OFFICE AT - - UNION, KY

F. RIDDELL. H. P. STEPHENS.
RIDDELL and STEPHENS,
ATTORNEYS at LAW
BURLINGTON, KY.
☞Office over Dudley Rouse's Store.☜

W. E. VEST,
COUNTY SURVEYOR
WALTON, KY.

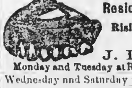
Is prepared to do all kinds of surveying. All orders sent him through the mail to Walton, will receive his prompt attention.

DR. A. B. HARRYMAN,

Resident Dentist.
Office over Post-Office
AURORA, INDIANA.

J. J. Landram. G. G. Hughes.
LANDRAM & HUGHES,
ATTORNEYS at LAW.
Will practice in the Boone Circuit Cour and the Court of Appeals. Prompt attention given to Collections, on application t G. G. Hughes, Burlington, Ky.

E. E. IGOE,



Resident Dentist,
Rising Sun, Ind.
WITH
J. P. Ulrey.
Monday and Tuesday at Rising Sun. Ind. Wednesday and Saturday at Aurora, Ind. Thursday and Friday at Lawrenceburg.

S. W. TOLIN,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
BURLINGTON, - - Y
Office in Court-house on 2d floor.
Will manage litigation in any of the Courts of the State, contracts and other legal instruments drawn up at reasonable rates. A prompt an studious attention given to business intrusted to my care. A trial solicited. 12-1y

W. J. RICE,
CARPENTER & BUILDER,
BULLITSVILLE, KY.
Is prepared Raise or Move
EITHER LOG or FRAME BUILDINGS
On Short Notice.
And at the Lowest Possible Figures.
$8-tf Your orders respectfully solicited

LUMBER.
Goe. M. Bedinger & Co.,
Erlanger, - - Ky.

We keep constantly on hand all kinds of Lumber, Laths and Shingles. Also Builder's supplies of all kinds.

—Come and see Us—

AGENTS WANTED for DR. SCOTT'S beautiful Electric Corsets. Sample free to those becoming agents. No risk, quick sales. Territory given. Satisfaction guaranteed. Address DR. SCOTT, 842 Broadway, NEW YORK.

County Directory

OFFICERS.

Assessor—G. M. Riley.
Jailer—Samuel Cowen.
County Surveyor—W. E. Vest.
Coroner.—Dr. A. A. Murat, Constance.
Superintendent of Schools—H. J. Foster

COURTS.

CIRCUIT COURT meets the 2d Monday in April and first Monday in October, P. U. Major, Judge; W. L. Riddell, Clerk A. G. DeJarnette, Commonwealths Attorney; W. L. Riddell, Trustee Jury Fund.

COUNTY COURT meets the first Monday in every month. L. H. Dills, Judge; S. W. Tolin, County Attorney. M. T. Garnett, Clerk; J. R. Clutterbuck, Sheriff, T. W. Finch and W. T. German, Deputy Sheriffs.

QUARTERLY COURT meets the first Monday in March, June, September and December. The officers of the County Court preside.

COURT OF CLAIMS meets the first Monday in November.

MAGISTRATES' COURTS are held in March, June, September and December, as follows:

Bellevue—M. B. Green, first Saturday, and T. H. Sutton, third Monday. J. M. Moody, Constable.

Burlington—E. H. Baker, Thursday after first Monday, and Oscar Gaines, fourth Monday. C. W. Saxton, Constable.

Carlton—A. G. McConnell, Wednesday after second Monday, and B. B. Ryle, Saturday after third Monday Charles H. Aern, Constable.

Petersburg—Jos. Hensley, Wednesday after first Monday, and L. A. Loder fourth Saturday. Geo. Comer, Constable.

Beever—W. M. Rouse, Friday after the third Monday, and Andrew Ellis, Friday after 1st Monday—T. J. Coyle, Constable.

Union—M. C. Norman, Thursday after third Monday, and H. Bannister, Thursday after second Monday. H. G. Blanton, Constable.

Hamilton—F. M. Howlett, Tuesday after second Monday; W. W. Garnett, Wednesday after third Monday. R. L. Roberts Constable.

Walton—T. F. Carley, second Friday, S. T. Johnson, Tuesday after second Friday Al Arnold, Constable.

Verona—W. E. Vest, Tuesday after first Monday, J. J. Brumback, Tuesday after third Monday, J. H. Callahan, constable.

Florence—T. K. Dixon, third Saturday, Joe Wagstaff, second Saturday. Craig Pettit, Constable.

Taylorsport—A. B. Whitlock, fourth Monday, W. A. Goodridge, third Saturday Thos. Watts, constable.

FARM IMPLEMENTS.

Buy your Farming Implements, Fence Wire, Cutting Boxes, Feed Grinders, Corn Shellers, Road Scrapers, Excavating Carts, Sewing Machines, Mowers and Reapers and

Deering TWINE Binders,
GROCERIES, &c.

READY MIXED PAINT.
—of—
J. C. Smith,
Successor to W. H. Hill & Co.
22 and 24 EAST THIRD STREET,
Cincinnati, Ohio.
Or of our local Agent C. W. RILEY, North Bend, Ohio, (Ky. Box). All goods sold strictly on their merits.

ATTENTION!
TOBACCO
Shippers and Raisers, you can buy
Tobacco
Hogheads,
Set up or Knock Downs,
AT THE COMPANY'S MILLS
At Lawrenceburg or Aurora, Ind.
Orders by mail will meet our prompt attention.

LAND FOR SALE.

50 acres good land near Constance, this county. All in grass and well watered. Terms easy—apply to this OFFICE.

FOR SALE!

Henry County Farm of 120 acres, situated on pike 1 mile from Smithfield, on Louisville & Lexington Railroad, 3½ miles from Louisville. Said farm has on it a good frame house, of 8 rooms, good barn and all other outbuildings, and never failing water, convenient to good schools and churches. The land is first-class, all in grass but 25 acres, which is in wheat, 25 acres of fine tobacco land which has never been cultivated. Terms reasonable. For further information apply to

B. D. SPURGIN, Smithfield, Ky.
Henry county. 52-3m

DeLAND & CO'S

SODA
Best in the World.
For Sale by Dudley Rouse,
Burlington, Ky.

The Combined Stallion,
RECTOR
Will make the season of 1886, Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays at Harvy Marshalls at Waterloo, and the rest of the week at my stable at Bellevue, at $10 to insure a mare with foal, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Rector is a beautiful black, 7 years old, 15½ hands high, and a good all-purpose horse. He was sired by Criss, dam Black Nose.

Not responsible for accidents should any occur. ROBT. CLORE, Bellevue, Ky.

WANTED—LADY Active and intelligent, to represent in her own locality an old firm. References required. Permanent position and good salary. GAY & BROS., 14 Barclay St., N. Y.

Subscribe for the RECORDER.

THE
COMBINATION FENCE

A fence that is wanted, and in time will be used by every one that wants a fence; either around the House, Garden or Farm, as it is cheap, durable and serviceable, to keep in check horses, cattle, sheep, hogs, chickens, etc., and restrain wolves, dogs, and rabbits, etc.

Having all the advantages of a picket fence in restraining animals from jumping, and not so liable to decay, and at much less cost, and no barbs to injure valuable stock, thus placing it far in advance of any other fence now in use, hence it must be the fence of the future; all who have it want more.

It is portable and can be removed from field to field by drawing staples from posts, taking out the splice lath and rebundling it. We offer this fence for sale in bundles of five and six rod at Burlington.

DILLS & CRISLER,
Burlington, Ky

AGENTS WANTED.
USE Dr. SALMON'S
HOG CHOLERA SPECIFIC!
CHICKEN POWDER. — SHEEP POWDER.
CATTLE POWDER. — CONDITION POWDER.
WE CAN
PREVENT & CURE HOG CHOLERA.
DESTROY & PREVENT HOG LICE & WORMS
CURE CATTLE MURRAIN, TEXAS FEVER &c.
CURE CHICKEN CHOLERA & GAPES.
CURE SHEEP ROT, TAPE WORM, &c.
MANUFACTURED BY THE VETERINARY MEDICINE Co.
NASHVILLE, TENN.
SEND FOR CIRCULARS AND PRICES.

For Sale by W. F. McKim, Burlington, Ky.

The fine harness and saddle stallion
Young WOODPECKER
Will make the season of 1886, Saturdays and Mondays at J. W. Gaines' stable at Burlington, Tuesdays and Wednesdays at Gainesville, Thursdays and Fridays at J. W. Gaines' farm near Plattsburg, at $10 to insure a colt to stand up and suck, any person parting with a mare after being bred forfeits the insurance money.

Young Woodpecker was sired by Nat Carpenter's Star of the West; he by Woodpecker; he by Bertrand; dam imported Buzzard. Young Woodpecker's dam was a 3 minute mare, by Jeff Davis, g. d. by Russell's Pilot; he by old Sir William.

Not responsible for accidents.

TEN BROCK. This fine young Jack will make the season at the same time and places and on the same terms.

He is black with mealy nose, 15 hands high. He was sired by Espartero; he by a large Spanish jack; dam of Ten Brock, Mollie McCarty, was sired by Longfellow, Perry Tucker's jack; g. d. by A. S. Pott's jack, the best breeder ever in this county.

F. C. Wingate, J. W. Gaines,
J. J. Lillard, C. A. Gaines.

DENMARK CHIEF, JR.,
Will stand the present season at my stable at Sand Run, at $10 to insure, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with. Not responsible for accidents. I will reserve a lien on all colts until the insurance money is paid.

Denmark Chief, jr., is a bright mahogany bay, 10 yrs. old, 15½ hands high, fine length, with as fine hip loin and quarter as ever put on a horse. His blood-like head is full of expression, indicative of the finest disposition; and, take him all in all, he is one of the finest models of the Ky., horse.

He was sired by Old Denmark Chief; he by Old Black Denmark, formerly owned by A. R. Alexander, of Woodford county, Ky.; Old Denmark was sired by the old race-horse Imported Hedgeford; Wm. Allen's dam sorrel Betty, a Copperbottom mare, sired by Daniel Boone; he by Tom Crowder; he by Black Pilot, the old horse Alexander. CHRISTOPHER BARLOW.

Riddell's Hambletoni'n
Is a bay, 15½ hands high, 8 years old, and will make the season of 1886 at my stable, 2 miles from Anderson's Ferry, and 2 miles from Hebron, and will serve mares at $10.

He is by Strader's Hambletonian; dam Rachie Sanders; she by Green's Bashaw. He is one of the best breeders in the county his colts are good size, good workers and trotters. J. A. RIDDELL.

I had a colt by this horse which I sold for $500, unbroke, Geo. Gaines.

The fine harness and saddle horse,
Young Hedgeford,
Will make the season of 1886, at my stable 1½ miles from Petersburg, at the forks of the Burlington and Woolper pike; and will serve mares at $10 to insure a colt to stand up and suck, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

DESCRIPTION & PEDIGREE.

He is a dark mahogany bay, 4 years old, 16 hands high, and has fine style and action. He was sired by Old Hedgeford, the premium saddle and general purpose horse, who was sold to Joe Emmet for $1,000. Young Hedgeford's dam was a fine mare from Burbon county, Ky.

Not responsible for accidents.

J. W. BERKSHIRE.

OHIO VOLUNTEER,
Will stand the season of 1886, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of each week at David Clements', near Jeff Utz's, on the Union & Rising Sun grade, 1 miles from Union, and the rest of the time at my stable in Burlington, at $10 to insure, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with. Not responsible for accidents.

Ohio Volunteer is a beautiful dark brown has fine form and action, is a sure foal getter and a good trotter. His many colts prove him a model breeder.

Ohio Volunteer was sired by Goldsmith's Volunteer; he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian, dam Forrest Telltale, by Edwin Forrest; 2d dam Telemon. C. W. SAXTON.

JENKINS'

ALMONT,
This renowned trotting stallion and sire of trotters will make the season of 1886, at the stable of John D. Norris, 1 mile from Petersburg, Boone county, Ky., at $30 the season, with the privilege of returning in 1887 should the mare fail to get with foal, money due July 1st, 1886.

Jenkins' Almont was sired by Wither's Almont, the sire of 26 horses with records of 2:30 or better. 1st dam by Toledo; 2nd dam Sousby Grays Highlander; 3d dam by Coner de Leon, a noted pacer.

Jenkins' Almont is the sire of Bessie G. 2:25½; Grafton, 2:28½; Will Heath, trial, 2:21, and others gifted with great trotting speed.

Pasture furnished at $3 per month. Care will be exercised to prevent accidents or escapes, but will not be responsible should any occur. We are endeavoring to give the people of Boone Co., a chance to get a fine colt at a low price. J. D. NORRIS & Co.

BILL CHEERE
Will make the season at the stable of John G. Bradford in Union, Ky. at $15 to insure Bill Cheere was bought of Mr. W. Duncan, of Illinois, who imported him. He is the most perfect draft horse in the county.

GUIZOT
Will make the season at my stable in Petersburg, Ky. at $10 to insure, Guizot was imported from France, and is a fine breeder. GEO. W. TERRILL, Petersburg, Ky.

The fine stallion, Couner's
ALMONT
Will make the present season at my stable at Bullittsville, Ky., and will serve mares at $10 to insure, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Care will be taken to prevent accidents, but will not be responsible should any occur.

ALMONT is 6 years old, a beautiful rich mahogany bay, black mane and tail, with two white ankles behind, stands 16 hands high, and shows much style and speed.

ALMONT was by Bidwell's Almont, jr., bred by Col. West; got by Almont, son of Alexander's Abdallah; dam Belle Forrest, by Edwin Forrest. Almont is a half brother to Sensation; 1st dam Topsy, the fine premium mare, by Topgallant; g. d. a Belle Founder mare, g. g. d. a Copperbottom mare that possessed all the fine saddle qualities. J. D. CONNER.

CRIGLER'S ALMONT,
Will make the season of 1886 at my stable on Gunpowder Creek 1½ miles above Limaburg and at Florence, Ky., at $20, to insure a mare with foal, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Will be at Florence the first three days of each week, and the rest of the time at my stable. Not responsible for accidents.

ALMONT is a dark chestnut sorrel, 15¾ hands high, with fine style, and has trotted his mile in less than 2:30, he is by Almont jr., he by Wither's Almont; he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian; Almont's 1st dam Goodwood; 2d dam Daniel Boone; 3 dam Blacknose.

REX DENMARK.
Will make the season at the same time and places, at $10 to insure a mare in foal.

He is a beautiful brown with fine mane and tail, style that cannot be beaten, is 16 hands high. He has been shown 11 times and taken 10 ties, in Missouri.

He is by Crigler's Denmark; he by Denmark Chief; he by Black Denmark; Old Denmark by Imported Messenger. Rex Denmark's 1st dam Woodpecker Star of the West; 2d dam Mohawk; 3d dam Tom Crowder. W. A. CRIGLER.

1886. STALLIONS FOR 1886.

SAM HARRIS.

DESCRIPTION—Bay, no white, 16½ hands, fine style, good trotting action, 5 years old, with six weeks breaking and handling trotted a full mile over Chester Park in 2:58. full brother to Royalmont, who has a record 2:32 with a private trial 2:22 in his 5 year old form.

PEDIGREE—By Bidwell's Almont, dam Louisiana by Tornado; he by Tempest; he by Royalgeorge; her dam by Old Mazeppa; she was sold in 1874 and delivered in Buffalo for $1,500, and afterwards shipped south. She trotted the Buffalo track in 2:35 the day of sale.

SAM HARRIS will make the season of 1886 for $25, payable when the service is rendered, with the privilege of breeding till a colt is obtained.

JOHN S.

DESCRIPTION—Dark iron gray, 5 yrs. old, very stylish, good action, 16 hands high.

PEDIGREE—By Bidwell's Almont; 1st dam by Ohio Volunteer; he by Goldsmith's Volunteer; he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian; 2d dam White Eagle. John S. will make the season of 1886 for $10 to insure, due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Bidwell's Almont by Wither's Almont; he by Alexander's Abdallah; he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian; 1st dam by Edwin Forrest; Bidwell's Almont sired Judge Lindsay with a 5 yr. old record 2:21½, Annie W. 2:22½, and two others with public record below 2:30; also Royalmont with a public record 2:32 and private trial 2:22. Pasture furnished at $3 per month, but not responsible for accidents.

These two stallions will make the season of 1886, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at Bullittsville and the rest of the week at my stable 1½ mile west of Anderson's Ferry.

JAS. L. RILEY, Bullittsville, Ky.

Local News.

Fire was appreciated Sunday.

Some tobacco has been set out.

Conner made a big shipment of wool from here Monday.

W. E. Clutterbuck, of Florence, was in town yesterday.

WANTED—A good farm hand—married man only G. T. GAINES.

Don't forget the strawberry festival at Bullittsville Christian church Friday night.

That elegant Fischer Piano used at the entertainment is for sale by J. W. Parish, agent.

A delegation of Constance land traders opened up business in the county clerk's office this week.

Saturday was an unusually lively day in Burlington, and the merchants report large sales of goods.

Those who have been delivering their wool here this spring have found the bank to be a great convenience.

Sunday Dr Grant was called to Petersburg to see Bessie, daughter of J. Frank Grant, who is very sick.

C. L. Crisler bought a fine Alderney cow about a week ago, since which she dropped a fine heifer calf, and died.

For Sale—Wm. Fritz's best Corn Beef at 8 cents per pound at B F. Zimmers, Constance, Boone county, Ky. 26tf.

WANTED—1,000 men with 40 cents each to buy a pound of Ligett & Meyers best Star Tobacco, at B. F. Zimmer's, Constance, Boone county, Ky.

Last Saturday Jim Conner received, weighed, unsacked, handled and resacked 12,000 pounds of wool at this place. That is genuine business.

A young Perry Clonc passed north of us last week. Nothing like living in a country where there is nothing to disturb one but the payment of taxes.

Anyone wanting rough or dressed lumber, or anything in builder's line, will do well by calling on M. E. Leming, Petersburg, Ky. See his card in this issue.

The Frankfort Capital says: "Insurance Commissioner L. C. Norman, purchased the residence of Hon. S I. M. Major, at Commissioner's sale a few days since.

Friday the supervisors completed their work on the assessor's book for this year, and Saturday morning the county clerk commenced making a copy for the auditor.

Mr. James Hogan has built quite a cosy little dwelling on the Petersburg pike, just at the edge of town, which will be occupied in a few days by Mr. Frank Kirk and wife.

WANTED—Some good man to canvass Boone county for Nursery Stock, raised near Delhi, Ohio,

H. B. HORNADAY,
Box 125 Delhi, Ohio,

We learn from the Williamstown Courier that Jas. T. Willis has been granted a certificate of character, etc., to practice law. We retain you Jim, for the first case we have in the Grant Circuit Court.

The Big Bone Grange Hall has, for several days, been the scene of a very interesting meeting conducted by an evangelist whose name we are not able to call to mind. Very large congregations attend every night.

This is the season of the year when all males between the age of 16 and 50 receive this kind of an invitation. "You are invited to work the roads on Thursday and Friday of next week."

—Committee.

Saturday night a couple of persons who were running their horses on the street, ran over Hubert, son of G. T. Gaines, knocking him down and bruising him up considerably. It is not yet known who the horsemen were.

Last Friday Wood Miller and Mr. White, merchant at Big Bone Springs, engaged in an altercation, resulting in White's skull being fractured by a stone used by Miller. At last accounts the injured man was in a precarious condition.

The protracted wet weather has delayed cornplanting very much. The heavy showers have washed the land very much in some neighborhoods. The farmers, at least some of them, have an indigo cast about their countenances.

The Dame is authority for the statement that one of Burlington's young gentlemen and a charming young lady not a thousand miles distant will, in the very near future, join their travels through this life.

Remember that Geo. Husehart & Co. of Lawrenceburg, Indiana, can always give satisfaction both as to price and style of work, so when you want to buy a tombstone or a monument go to their yard or call on John Beall, of Hebron, Ky., their agent.

Early Monday morning Kirb, son of W. P. Sullivan, who lives on Gunpowder, was chopping wood when his axe struck a limb over his head, sending the blade into his instep and severing three of the bones, making a ghastly wound which will disable him for several months. Dr. Grant dressed the wound.

John Roulaud and Miss Lettie Bradford, of the lower Gunpowder neighborhood, were married in the county clerk's office last Thursday about eleven o'clock, by Rev. James A. Kirtley. They were accompanied by Robert Bradford and wife and George Smith, of the same neighborhood. The bride and groom will accept our congratulations.

O. W. Gaines, son of Hon. Joseph A. Gaines, will accept the office of justice of the peace in this district, and may now be considered a candidate for the position. Ott is a man who will inform himself and take pride in the proper conduct of his official duties, and if elected will make a good officer. His neighborhood is entitled to one of the justices, and it could not present a more suitable man.

The Entertainment.

The entertainment for the benefit of the Presbyterian church at this place last Friday and Saturday nights was a complete success in every particular, and those who participated in the exercises as well as those who acted in the capacity of managers of the entertainment are highly complimented for the manner in which the programme, so enjoyable to the lovers of music, was presented. The pieces sung were fine selections and their execution in every instance displayed a superior talent on the part of the performers, who had made themselves perfectly familiar with every difficult strain they had encountered. The programme was quite lengthy, and consisted of choruses, solos, duets, quartettes, recitations and tableaux. The several choruses were particularly fine, there not being a discord in a single instance, showing that the several participants had carefully drilled themselves in both time and harmony.

Dr. Furnish, in his usual happy style made a neat opening address, and acted in the capacity of master of ceremonies each evening. He was the right man in the right place.

The duet, Blessed are the People, was a beautiful song, well rendered by Mrs. Grant and Miss Fannie Duncan.

Life's Dream is o'er, a very difficult and beautiful duet, was presented by Misses Lucy Gaines and Fannie Duncan, in a manner that was highly appreciated by the audience as evidenced by the hearty applause that followed the closing lines.

Come where the Mist is Sleeping—duet by Miss Mattie Winston and Mrs. Grant was a selection well executed and appreciated by the audience.

The quartettes, The Boat Ride, and Come where the Lilies Bloom, showed by the manner in which they were sung, dilligent practice and the most careful training had been spent upon them.

White Wings—solo by O. F. Bange assisted in the chorus by L. M. Whitehead, T. O. Cowen and G. F. Piper, bass; J. B. Crigler, James Botts, tenor; Frank Kirk, alto, received a hearty applause from the audience.

Birds of Song, is a beautiful solo, and being sung by Mrs. Grant is a guarantee that it lost none of its charms in the execution.

Pretty Pond Lilies—solo by Miss Fannie Duncan, was done ample justice by the singer, who has a voice capable of bringing out all the music in any song.

Evangeline—solo, Miss Mattie Winston, assisted in the chorus by Miss Annie Winston, Reed and Whitehead, is an old but lovely song of which the people never grow tired when sung as sweetly as it was by the above named Cricket on the Hearth—solo, by Everett Hall, who has an elegant voice, was sung in a style that captivated the audience.

Must We Leave the Old Home, Mother, by Perry Stephens, assisted by chorus, took so well the first night, that by request it was sung the second night.

The Last Rose of Summer, one of the four solos sung by Miss Matie Riggs could not have been surpassed.

I'll take The back Kathleen—Piano solo, by Miss Fannie Rice, a very difficult piece of music was performed in a manner that could be excelled by the fewest.

In Irish Dude and I'll Wait until the Bull Dog dies, Joe Reed took the house by storm, and was encored to the echo. The little gag he gave Jim Westbay in the latter piece threw the audience into convulsions as it were. His make up in these two songs was simply immense and decidedly appropriate. Joe's recital of the burial of Moses was heartily applauded, and the tableau at the close was beautiful.

Mrs. Hettie Piper and Misses Gussie Kirkpatrick and Nettie Gardner, the first and last, alto, and the second soprano singers, took part in all the choruses and some of the quartettes. These ladies had taken much pains and care in preparing their parts, and contributed largely to the excellent rendition of the songs in which they took part. The tenor by Messrs Crigler and Botts in the several songs was particularly fine, and many compliments were passed on that particular part.

The recitations by Miss Nellie Blythe and Master Rankin Revill were a feature which added much to the entertainment of appreciative audiences.

In crowning the May Queen, Miss Rosa Dempsey, Queen; Olga Kirk, crowner; Alfa Hawes, sceptor bearer; Rankin Revill, genius of glory; Stanley Clutterbuck, gipsy boy; Arthur Rouse, sailor boy; Owen Hewlett, temperance; Calvert Kirk, good wishes; Katie Huey, flower girl; Fannie Finch, queen of fairies; Kirb Conner, page; Ella and Hattie Palmer, Hettie Riddell and Gracie Grant, four little stars; Earl Sandford, cupid, all deserve praise, and particularly the last five, who, considering their age did unusually well. A very beautiful tableau closed this scene.

Miss Fannie Rice and W. E. Piper, the first on the piano and the latter on the violin furnished instrumental music for the occasion, and labored hard from the first rehearsal to the last falling of the curtain on Saturday night, that the entertainment should in their particular department be a success, and we are pleased to say that they succeeded admirably as did all the performers on other parts of the programme.

The entertainment was greeted with a large audience Friday night, and on Saturday night, more came than could be accommodated with room and several left without getting in the house. Good order prevailed throughout, and everybody seemed satisfied that they had gotten the value of their money.

Receipts, $115.

For some time the Burlington boys who have base ball proclivities have been hearing that Bellevue had a club which defied any nine players in the county; so last Saturday five of the Burlington boys, E. E. and Kirb Foster, John Mack, Clarence Kirk and Grant Dempsey, concluded they would go down to Bellevue and recruit four players from the crowd they would chance to meet, and see if they could not make a score or two some where in nine innings. Soon after their arrival they had selected the requisite number from the bystanders and the game commenced, and was a very exciting contest throughout, the mixed nine winning the game in a score of 10 to 9, and leaving the Bellevue club's first victory a defeat. The same club's will play at this place next Saturday.

Personal Mentions.

B. W. and Dr Adams were in town Monday.

Esq. Loder, of Petersburg, was in Burlington Monday.

Emmet Gullion, of Carrollton, arrived here last Friday.

Mrs. Piper is visiting her sister, Mrs. Helfo, at Taylorport this week.

James Tolin, the Woolper dry goods merchant was in town Sunday.

E. E. Foster is assisting county clerk Garnett copy the assessor's book.

Miss Mary Thompson and Miss Hosimi, attended the entertainment.

John S. Gaines, of Bullittsville, made the hub a short visit the other day.

J. Huey and wife, of Union, were the guests of H. P. Stephens and wife Monday.

We were glad to see John I. Bruce able to come to town again one day last week.

Miss Ella Duncan, of Bullittsville, was the guest of Nellie Blythe several days last week.

W. H. Rice, of Sugartit, and B. H. Stephens, of Big Bone neighborhood, were in town yesterday.

Miss Lottie Riggs, of Covington, was the guest of Miss Rosa Dempsey the latter part of last week.

Gaines Rice came out from the City Saturday and took in the "festival," and remained over Sunday.

Miss Lizzie Stephens, of Bullittsville, was the guest of H. P. Stephens and wife the latter part of last week.

Miss Sallie Hind and Dr. Duncan, of Walton, were the guests of Judge Dills and wife Saturday night and Sunday.

J. M. Conner and Tim Westbay made a flying visit up the Southern road one day last week, and received a large lot of wool.

Mrs. Lou Hulett is at Lagrange this week, a witness in a will case that is to be tried at the present term of the Oldham circuit court.

J. Dudley Smith, agent for the N. Y. Life Insurance Company, has been in the county for several days in the interest of that company.

Misses Mamie Gedge, Susie Kyle and Mollie Tupman, of Kenton county visited friends in Burlington, last week, and attended the festival.

From a postal received from W. H. Baker, of New Orleans, last week, we risk the statement that he is now at his daughter's in Florence, this county.

LATER—He is there. Latter Still—was in Burlington Monday.

By a letter from Dr. I. R. McKenzie, last week, we are informed that he will visit Burlington about the middle of next month. His address is 352 Ontario street, Chicago, Illinois.

James Metcalf, of Cincinnati, came out from the city last Wednesday evening. Jim is a Knight of Labor, but is as bitter in his denunciation of the anarchist as anybody can be.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

MCVILLE.

Gardens look fine.

Cut worms plentiful.

Colorado potato bugs plentiful.

G. B. McMullen spent Saturday and Sunday at home with his family.

D. G. Rice is very poorly at present.

John P. Ryle is contemplating moving to this place.

C. E. Plummer has moved into the house he recently purchased.

LIMABURG.

James Horton has tobacco plants large enough to plant.

Colorado bugs are destroying the Irish potatoes.

Some fields of clover are badly used up by the grasshoppers.

This place sent a piscatorial excursion to Erlanger one evening last week, to land some of the small fry at that place.

Several of the young men have organized a picnic company and will put down a good floor for dancing at Green Grove.

N. B. Stephens and several others seined Jonas Rouse's pond the other day, but made only a water haul. None there—a mystery where they have gone to.

Corn not all planted in this neighborhood. Quite a number of those who have finished planting will have to plant over, the worms having cleaned it out.

Since the publication of Joe Lail's challenge, report has it that quite a number of our sturdy farmers have put on their jocky caps and have drawn the reins over some of their fine steppers.

Last Thursday Parson Stephens united Will Houston and Ida Crigler, of this place, in marriage. That night Prof. Crigler's brass band serenaded them. This was followed by a performance by Capt. Joe Souther and his band of wild men, commonly called charlvaiers, who made the woods and hills reverberate with their war-whoop, after which they were treated to cake and cigars.

PLATTSBURG.

Good fishing in the backwater.

What corn has been planted is coming up nicely.

Johnny Oberding is attending school at Lawrenceburg.

Bessie, little daughter of J. Frank Grant, is quite sick with dropsy.

John C. Sebree has gone to Eureka Springs, Ark, for benefit of his health.

Miss Lida Terrill, of Swings Ferry, was visiting Miss Lou Wingate last Thursday.

Miss Lizzie Voshell is very sick with brain fever at her uncle's near Manchester, Indiana.

The cause of Ben Grant's fleshy appearance is that he came in contact with the business end of a wasp.

Charles Voshell received as a present from his mother, on the occasion of his 21st birth day, a fine gold watch.

J. B. Tolin and Chas. Schramm saw the Louisville base ball club do up the Cincinnatis in fine style the 5th inst.

Edwin Botts has the finest young colt we have seen this spring. It is an Almont and Ed says will be another Grafton..

W. T. Grant, of Petersburg, has been appointed as U. S. storekeeper by Collector Davison, in this district. A good selection.

Two dead bodies were taken out of the river opposite Lawrenceburg, Friday, supposed to be victims of the Xenia, Ohio flood.

Scott Johnson is engaged extensively in duck culture this season. He has nearly one hundred hatched out and a lot more eggs setting.

Died—Tuesday, May 11th, Samuel Eggleston of consumption. His remains were interred in the family burying ground on Dr Hill Rice's farm.

Carter Graddy and Alf Gaines, of blue grass region of Boone, were in our city one day last week. Alf says the grass aint agreeing with the young sheep this spring—too much sap.

Prof. W. L. Gaines will give an exhibition at the close of his school on Woolper. Joe Reed will most likely appear in the olio. Now if you know what that is you know what part Joe will be booked for.

J. C. Wiles, of Lawrenceburg, and one of the participants in the Cincinnati May festival, was over here squirrel hunting last week. Juke is a fine musician, and at one time was leader of the St. Louis orchestra. He also help make the music at the New Orleans Cotton Exposition. To hear him play "In the sweet by and by" on the violin, sounds like the chorus of a dozen voices.

We have no preaching, no Sunday-school or anything religious in this community at present, and all the small boy has to do Sunday is to shoulder his fishing pole and strike for the mill-dam, where he will roll in the sand all day, and swear when he jerks and don't catch a chub. We use to fish on Sunday and know all about it.

Coming down from the city on an O. & M. train the other day we met our friend Frank Walton of Gainesville. Frank was demonstrating to an audience the anatomy of the fishing-worm. He says from what he can learn that ninety per cent of a fishing-worm is water, yet he says a hog will waste three hours of his short life rooting for one of these worms, when there is so little nourishment in them. Frank has got the hog and worm down to a fine point and it is interesting to hear him.

The suit of Frances Tolin and others of Boone county, against the administrator of Abigal Lewis, deceased, of Cincinnati, involving an estate of one hundred thousand dollars, is docketed for next week. The suit is to be tried before Judge Harmon, of the Superior Court. Should the heirs in Boone come into possession of the estate. It will be quite a help to them as they are all in just moderate circumstances.

A young collegiate from Petersburg was strolling along the banks of Woolper the other day when he spied a small boy fishing, said he: "Young America, doth you desire to angle the finny tribe which inhabit these placid streams?"

Small boy—"No, you d—n fool, I'm fishing."

Exit, College gent.

A Card of Thanks.

We take this method of thanking all the ladies, gentlemen and children, who took part in the entertainment, for their assistance in aiding us to raise funds to repair our church. And especially do we thank those who came from a distance for their kindness. We also extend thanks to all those who aided us in selling tickets and circulating our posters; to the doorkeepers and ushers; to the RECORDER; and to the public generally for a kind and liberal patronage.

THE CHURCH MEMBERS.

Monday night found the Presbyterian church bearing no evidence of their having been a May festival there last week. The ladies had had every vestige of the stage moved and everything "set to right." It would have taken men about three days to dispatched the like amount of work, and then have hired all the colored help in town.

The regular annual meeting of the Universalist Church at this place will commence on Friday evening before the fourth Saturday in this month. Rev. R. N. John is expected to be present to assist the pastor, Rev. Gibson. Preaching Saturday evening and Sunday morning and evening.

One day last week Dick Utz caught five young foxes, and gave them to one of his neighbors, who kept them for several days and getting tired of them and their barking killed them.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

Paxton Bros. & Co. Plft. vs
and Elizabeth C. Kenner, Defts.
Levy Bros. Plfts. vs } Notice of sale in equity.
Elizabeth C. Kenner, &c. Defts

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the April term thereof, 1884, in the above cause, the undersigned will, on Monday, the 7th day of June, 1886, at 1 o'clock, p. m., or thereabout, (being County Court day) proceed to offer for sale, at public auction, to the highest bidder, on a credit of 6 months, at the Court-house door, in the town of Burlington, the property mentioned in the judgment, to-wit:

The undivided 1-2 interest of the defendant Elizabeth C. Kenner in the following two parcels of land, being same allotted to Mrs Carlisle Ward as and for her dower in the lands of her deceased husband, Maltby Smith, said lands are in Boone County, Ky., in the East Bend bottoms. The first parcel is bounded thus: Beginning on the bank of the Ohio river where the Burlington and East Bend road strikes the river upper corner of the tract formerly owned by B. F. Crutchfield, thence n 11¼ w 67¼ poles to a stone, thence with a line of fence n 78 1-4—61¼ poles to a stake in J H O'Neal's line, thence s 12¼ w 54¼ poles to a stone on the bank of the river corner with O'Neal, thence down the river binding thereon s 68 e 28 poles, s 70¼ e 35 poles to the begining containing 25 1-4 acres. The 2d tract is bounded thus: Beginning at a stone corner with the land formerly belonging to Daniel Piatt in J H O'Neal's line, then with sd line s 12¼ w 44 3-4 poles to a stone, thence s 78 e 58 1-4 poles to a stone in line of the Thos Jones tract to the center of the said Burlington and East Bend road, then with the center of said road n 12 e 30 poles to the corner of said Piatt land, thence with a line thereof n 61 1-4 w 57¾ poles to the beginning, containing 17 acres.

Or sufficient thereof to make the sum of money so ordered to be made.

The purchaser will be required to give bond with approved security for the payment of purchase money, to have the force and effect of a judgment, bearing legal interest from the day of sale according to law. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

Amount to be raised by sale $315 12.

Bonds payable to the undersigned.

W. L. RIDDELL, M. C. B. C. C.

NOTICE.

All persons are notified that Clarence Hoover has no right to represent the firm of Overhelman & Hoover, lately retail grocers at Florence, Boone county, Kentucky, in any manner whatever. All persons are notified not to make any purchase of him at the grocery house in Florence, nor to pay to him any money belonging to or going to said firm; and also not to pay Geo. Hoover anything owing said firm.

DRUCILLA OVERHELMAN.

Take the Reccoreer.

CLORE'S SONS,

—o— Manufacturers of —o—

Agricultural Implements,

—(— SUCH AS —)—

Steel Turning & Side Hill Plows

Road Plows, Double Shovels, Single Shovlse, Bar Shovel Gophers, Harrows, Jumping Shovels and Rolling Colters.

RISING SUN, - - IND.

☞Send for Illustrated Price List. 13-3m

POPLAR, OAK, HEMLOCK

For all kinds of

ROUGH AND DRESSED

LUMBER

Laths, Tobacco Hogsheads, &c., &c.

Go to the Petersburg Saw-mill.

M. E. LEMING, Pro.

PETERSBURG, KY.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

Boone Circuit Court Kentucky

Jessie L. Glenn, &c., Plffs.
vs — Notice of sale in equity.
Crawford Glens heirs, &c. Deft.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the April term thereof, 1886, in the above cause, the undersigned will, on Monday, June 7th, 1886, at 1 o'clock p. m. or thereabout, being County Court day, proceed to offer for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder, on a credit of 12 months at the Court-house door, in the town of Burlington, the property mentioned in judgment, to wit:

A house and lot in Burlington, Boone Co., Ky., bounded thus: Beginning in Jefferson street at the northeast corner of lot No. 17; thence southwardly with eastern line of said lot 145 1-2 feet to alley No. 1; thence with the northern line of said alley westwardly 118 1-12 feet to the corner of Paschal Rucker's lot; thence with his line northwardly 144 1-2 feet to Gallatin street, at a point 118 1-12 feet from Jefferson street; thence westwardly with the south line of Gallatin str. 118 1-2 feet to the place of beginning excepting out of said boundary the Methodist church lot 40 by 50 feet. Also a tract or parcel of land on Gunpowder Creek in this county, being lot No. 4 in the division of Wm. M. Crisler's lands among his heirs and bound thus: Beginning at a stone in a line of lot No. 1; thence s 41 poles with line of lot No. 3; thence s 78 w 75 poles to a stone; thence 36 2 ⅗ w 143 1-2 poles passing a stone on the bank, to the center of Underhill's branch; thence s 42 e 9 poles to a white Oak tree; s 98 e 26 poles; n 72 e 20 poles; n 49 e 22 poles to a Beech tree on the north and 2 Elm trees and a Sycamore on the south side of said branch a corner of lot No. 3; thence with a line thereof n 78 e 138 poles to the beginning containing 40 acres, excepting 5 acres 3 roods and 11 poles bounded thus: Beginning at a water Beech in the center of Underhill's branch thence n 15¾ w 19 poles 10 1-2 links to a stake on top of the hill; thence down the hill n 53 1-2 w 9 poles 13 links to a Sycamore in Crisler's line; thence with his line s 62 n 40 poles 21 links to the edge of said branch, Weldon's line; thence with his line s 48 1-2 e 9 poles to a White Oak stump; thence s 85¼ e 27 poles 10¼ links; thence n 3 e 20 poles 20 links to the beginning.

The purchaser will be required to give bond with approved security, for the payment of the purchase money, to have the force and effect of a judgment, bearing legal interest from the day of sale, according to law. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms. Bonds payable to the undersigned.

W. L. RIDDELL, M C B C

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

Davis Bros, assignee, &c. Pltff.
vs } In Equity.
Davis Bros, &c. Defts.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the April term thereof, 1886, in the above cause, the undersigned will, on Monday, June 7th, 1886, at 1 o'clock p. m or thereabout, being County Court day, proceed to offer for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder on a credit of 6 and 12 months equal installments, at the Court-house door, in the town of Burlington, the property mentioned in the judgment to wit:

A house and about three acres of land situated in the town of Hebron this county, beginning at a stake in the east edge of the old North Bend road a corner with Cornelius Quick's heirs; thence with said road or nearly so S 12½ E 10¼ poles—S 23 E 13 poles 15 links to a stake in the Bullittsville and Dry Creek turnpike in front of the Blacksmith's shop at or near James Davis' corner; thence with said road N 88¼ E 18½ poles to a stake; thence N 24 W 31 poles 24 links to a stone in said Quick's line; thence with said line S 51 W 15¼ poles to the beginning. The scales thereon will not be sold.

The purchaser will be required to give bonds with approved security for the payment of the purchase money, to have the force and effect of a judgment, bearing legal interest from the day of sale, according to law. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms. Bonds payable to

W. L. RIDDELL, M C B C C.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE,

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

C. C. Roberts, Plffs.
vs | Notice of sale in equity.
Robert C. McManama, Defts.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the April term thereof, 1886, in the above cause, the undersigned will on Monday, the 7th day of June 1886 at 1 o'clock p. m, or thereabout (being County Court day), proceed to offer for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder, on a credit of 6 and 12 months at the Court-house door in the town of Burlington the property mentioned in the judgment, to wit:

Two tracks of land near Verona, this county One containing 31 acres on Big Bone Lick Creek bounded by the lands of Lewis Morris, George O'Neal, W. L. Roberts and others. One containing 47 acres and 9 poles bounded by the lands of Sam'l Taylor, J. W. Cleek, C. C. Roberts and others. For a more particular description see judgement herein.

Or sufficient thereof to make the sums of money so ordered to be made. The purchaser will be required to give bonds with approved security, for the payment of the purchase money, to have the force and effect of a judgment, bearing legal interest from the day of sale, according to law Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

Amount to be raised by sale, $1718 91

Bonds payable to the undersigned.

W. L. RIDDELL, M C B C C.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

Boone Circuit Court, Kentucky.

R. O. Jones, Guard., &c. Plff
vs | Notice of sale in equity.
R. O. Jones, &c. Defts

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the April term thereof, 1886, in the above cause, the undersigned will, on Monday, the 7th day of June 1886, at 1 o'clock p. m., or thereabout (being County Court day) proceed to offer for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder, on a credit of 6 and 12 months, equal installments, at the court-house door in Burlington, the property mentioned in the judgment, to-wit:

Being lot "B" of lot No. 4 in the division of the lands of Nancy Snyder, on Gunpowder, and bounded by the lands of Stephens, Hagish, Robbins, &c. and containing 7 acres.

The purchaser will be required to give bonds with approved security, for the payment of the purchase money, to have the force and effect of a judgment, bearing legal interest from the day of sale, according to law. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

W. L. RIDDELL, Master Commissioner.

Exposition Medal Awarded for 1884.

$5.00 and Upwards

For a Beautiful Single Set of Teeth. Extracting without pain included.

DR. DeJOHNS.

In attendance at the office. Gold fillings $1 and upwards. Amalgam 50c. Gas and Spray used. All work warranted.

Will be in Burlington the first Monday in each month, County Court.

J. C. ALLEN, 327 Vine Str., Cor. 9th, Cincinnati, Ohio,

FOR SALE.

My farm of 250 acres one mile from Richwood Station, near the Cin Southern Railroad. This farm has 50 acres of timber and is all strong land, and under good fence, has three never failing ponds, good stable and a large tobacco barn. The improvements consist of a two story frame dwelling of 8 rooms, in first-class order, and all necessary out buildings. These premises front on the Hamilton & Richwood pike which intersects the Richwood & Beaver pike, also on the premises. Taking into consideration the quality of improvements and land and convenience of pikes and railroads, schools and neighborhood, there is not a more desirable farm in Kentucky. Will sell on reasonable terms, ¼ cash and the balance on time, or will trade for desirable city property For particulars address

L. B. STEPHENS, Richwood, Ky.
Or H. P. Stephens, Burlington, Ky.

INSURE AT HOME

The Farmers' Mutual Fire

INSURANCE COMPANY

Of Boone County

Is now completely organized and receiving applications for insurance.

Its Rates are Lower

Than those of any other Company, and it gives the farmers of Boone County a

HITHERTO UNKNOWN ADVANTAGE

In keeping their property insured.

EVERY FARMER IN THE COUNTY

should take a policy at once.

J A. GAINES, President, Burlington, Ky.
J. H. WALTON, Secretary, Constance, Ky.
R. RANDALL, Treasurer.

DIRECTORS.

LEORAN GAINES, B. L. RICE.
JNO. STEPHENS.
OSCAR GAINES, Agent. | R S. COWEN, Assessor

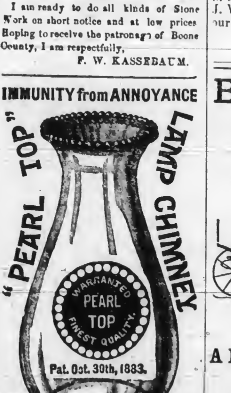
AURORA MARBLE AND GRANITE WORKS, Aurora, Ind

Will have constantly on hand

Marble and Granite Monuments, Italian & American Headstones, &c.

I am ready to do all kinds of Stone Work on short notice and at low prices Hoping to receive the patronage of Boone County, I am respectfully,

F. W. KASSEBAUM.



IMMUNITY from ANNOYANCE

Made only of the finest and best quality of Glass for withstanding heat.

Every good thing is Counterfeited, and consumers are CAUTIONED against IMITATIONS of these Chimneys made of VERY POOR GLASS. See that the exact label is on each chimney as above. The Pearl Top is always clear and bright Glass.

Manufactured ONLY by

GEO. A. MACBETH & CO.

Pittsburgh Lead Glass Works.

FOR SALE BY DEALERS.

OPIUM and WHISKEY HABITS cured at home without pain. BOOK of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.

City Flouring Mills,

—RISING SUN, INDIANA.—

FLOUR EXCHANGED FOR WHEAT OR CASH. THE HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR GOOD WHEAT.

J. W. TALBOTT.

OHIO STEAM DENTAL CO.

ESTABLISHED 18—.

47 WEST SEVENTH STREET, CINCINNATI, O.

TEETH EXTRACTED WITHOUT PAIN by use. Fresh Nitrous Oxide Gas.

ARTIFICIAL TEETH made of the best quality and workmanship finish, with guaranteed fit.

OPERATIVE DEPARTMENT handsomely finished and well lighted—the principal having lead a life-long experience in the treatment and filling of the natural teeth.

L. ROBERTSON, D.D.S., Principal.

Office and Residence, 47 W. 7th St., two blocks north of Fountain Square, (formerly 271 Walnut and 6th & Vine). Office open at all hours.

FRYE'S COMBINATION

FARM, GARDEN & ORNAMENTAL FENCE

It combines the advantages of every fence, and is free from any objections. Our combination fence is composed of five two-strand cables of the best annealed bessemer steel wire firmly interwoven with pickets at a uniform distance of 2 to 5 inches apart, and the diagonal supporting wire which is interwoven as represented, enables us to hold each and every picket up off the ground with perfect ease, keeping them even on top and the entire fence always in the open air, making the lower ends of the pickets just durable as the upper ends. Sagging is utterly impossible, as we have a direct vertibal tensil strength of 1700 lbs. to each pannel which alone is three times as strong as an ordinary pine board fence. Our five cables, which gives a combined strength of more than fifteen times that of a pine board 1x6, all interwoven in such a manner with the pickets that one wire cannot be broken without breaking 11. Thus giving us a fence 18 times stronger than a barb wire. The pickets are oak of first quality, and soaked in hot Alkalies, making them last many years. The pickets are supported every 10½ inches by the cables so that breakage is impossible, giving us a fence that will turn all kinds of stock, from the smallest pig to the meanest mule, without endangering the life of any. It is a portable fence, can be removed by drawing the staples and the fence rolled up and removed without the slightest injury. It is dog proof, keeps sheep in and dogs out. It will protect your orchards from the ravages of rabbits, and your gardens from chickens. It is endorsed by over 200,000 of our farmers, as filling every claim we make for it. No farmer can afford to do without this fence that has means to buy it. Any party wishing fence or any information in regard to this fence will address

T. H. SUTTON, Grant, Boone county, Ky.

N. B.—This fence can be sold and delivered at any landing on the river in Boone county, at the following reduced prices: Pickets 5 in. a part 55c 4½ in. apart 60c; 4 in. apart 65c, 3½ in. a part 70c; 3 in. a part 75c; 2½ in apart 80c; 2 in. a part 85c. We have strechers expressly for our fence which we will furnish to any parties ordering fifty rods or more, and will furnish one hand to assist in putting it up, after the posts have been set.

JAMES S. WAYNE, President. JNO. L. SANDFORD, Cashier

CAPITAL $300,000.

FARMERS AND TRADERS

NATIONAL BANK.

Covington, Kentucky.

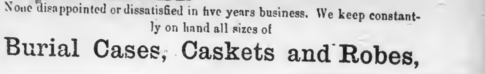
DIRECTORS.

James S. Wayne, J. S. Matson, M. C. Motch, J. H. Metsman, Sam Hind, J. L. Sandford, L. C. Stephens, E. J. Hickey, L. H Dills, E. J. Greer, F. P. Helm

The general operations of banking transacted upon the most favorable term Collections made on all points in the United States.

The Business and Accounts of Farmers are Especially Solicited by this Bank.

dec. 20-6m



COME AND SEE FOR YOURSELF.

—(o)— We've got them from the lowest price to the finest. —(o)—

None disappointed or dissatisfied in five years business. We keep constantly on hand all sizes of

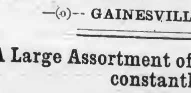
Burial Cases, Caskets and Robes,

— ALSO A SPLENDID —

HEARSE AND TEAM.

You can always come to us with the assurance of getting what you want in this line. We guarantee our prices 20 per cent. less than city prices. J. W. DAVIS has charge of this business at Hebron, and T. W. FINCH is our agent at Burlington.

J. J. RUCKER & CO, Hebron, Ky.



BUGGIES! BUGGIES!!

Pfalzgraf & Wingate,

—DEALERS IN—

Carriages, Buggies

— AND —

Spring Wagons.

—(o)— GAINESVILLE, KENTUCKY. —(o)—

A Large Assortment of Buggies and Carriages constantly on hand.

→ANY STYLE TO ORDER ON←

— SHORT NOTICE —

We call the attention of the People of Boone County to our stock on hand, made in the latest styles and of the best material. All work warranted to give satisfaction. Special attention given to

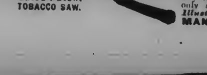
REPAIRING WITH NEATNESS & DISPATCH,

☞ At the Lowest possible prices. ☜

Old work taken in exchange for new

Pfalzgraf & Wingate,

GAINSVILLE, KENTUCKY.



Cates Patent TOBACCO SAW.

TOBACCO GROWERS!

Buy the CATES TOBACCO SAW. The only adjustable Tobacco Saw in the World. Illustrated Circulars free. GOODSPEED MANUFACTURING CO., East Haddam, Ct.

THE RECORDER.
RIDDELL & HALL, Publishers.
BURLINGTON, : : KENTUCKY.

THE YELLOW DOG.

I never had a kennel,
I never owned a name,
Yet everywhere I wander
I'm not unknown to fame.
The year round I go tramping
O'er highway, field and bog,
And no one cares about me,
For I'm a yellow dog.

No nice bell ever tinkled
About my shaggy neck,
Nor have I any blanket
My scanty sides to deck.
If anything is missing
When by the farm I jog—
A fowl or leg of mutton—
Oh, its the yellow dog!

I oft in parlor windows
See pugs and poodles trim;
They perk their silky ears up,
And snarl out: "Look at him!"
For sticks and stones a target,
As if I were a frog,
Oh, life is very stirring
If you're a yellow dog.

So up and down I'm tramping,
But one thing is my gain
As I'm considered worthless,
I never wear a chain
Some kindly hand will feed me
While carelessly I jog,
I'm not so black as painted,
Though I'm a yellow dog.

—George Cooper, in Harper's Young People.

HOW TO ECONOMIZE.

Don't Get Articles Which Require Expensive "Fixings."

"Why is it so difficult to economize?"

The wrinkles on Mrs. Lorton's brow were very deep, and it was with an air of weariness amounting almost to despair that she laid down the pencil wherewith she had been checking off a series of accounts.

Aunt Abby lifted her eyes from the stocking which she had been darning with such exquisite neatness, and gazed sympathetically at her distressed friend.

"I am afraid you don't quite know how."

Mrs. Lorton looked astonished, and we girls, who were spending the holidays with our friend, wondered also what the little lady could possibly mean.

"Don't know how! Political economy, I am willing to admit, is a most difficult science: but I did not fancy that domestic economy involved any thing deeper than simply self-denial and the avoidance of unnecessary expenditure."

Aunt Abby smiled. "It may seem that way in the beginning; but I really doubt if there is any part of our daily living that requires more tact, judgment and experience than this same business of economizing successfully."

"The results of my last year's work incline me to suspect something of the same kind," sighed Mrs. Lorton. "I clearly must have made a great many mistakes somewhere; but just where I am at a loss to discover. I certainly have tried very hard, and have done without a great many things I used to think were quite necessary to the comfort and happiness of the household; yet here the figures are, and really the sum total is very little less than it was a year ago, when our income was so much larger."

Mrs. Lorton looked thoroughly discouraged. We, who admired her so much and took such pleasure in the intimate friendship to which she had admitted us, sympathized with her most thoroughly. She evidently saw how we felt from the expression of our faces, for she turned to us laughingly and said:

"You young ladies must be very much interested in my financial troubles. It is too bad to entertain you with my laments over these unruly ends that seem to require such an undue amount of stretching in order to meet."

We hastened to reply that any thing which concerned her could not fail to interest us, when Aunt Abby (a relative, it should have been explained, of Mrs. Lorton's husband, a gentle little lady whose life had been spent in a distant city) riveted our attention at once by saying:

"I was just about the age of these young ladies when I first made acquaintance with what I am now inclined to call the science of domestic economy, though, like you, when I first found myself under the necessity of mastering it, I thought there was little in it, save doing without many things I was accustomed to, and bearing the discomfort as heroically as possible."

"Well," smiled Mrs. Lorton, "what are the great underlying principles (isn't that the phrase?), also the operative processes whereby we are to arrive at practical results—namely, the bringing of our expenses within my husband's means?"

"Well," echoed Aunt Abby, "one of the leading principles is the abandonment of that velvet cloak I saw you working at so industriously this morning, and all garments of a similar character."

"What can you mean? Why, I have worn that cloak two winters, and now I have put new sleeves in it, and it is quite as good as new. Surely nothing could be more economical than that. Why, I take immense credit to myself for that performance."

"Precisely. It would have been very extravagant to give or throw the cloak away. You would have blamed yourself greatly, would you not?"

"Of course I should."

"Well, let us emulate the famous cow and 'consider.' The cloak is of Lyons velvet: the new sleeves required a yard of the same material, costing ten dollars. The cloak now is 'quite as good as new;' but, new or old, it can only be worn in fair weather. There must be a cheaper one to 'save it.' Again, this velvet cloak requires a handsome dress under it, and a cheap bonnet would be quite incompatible with it. You require, therefore, to complete the operative process resulting from the underlying principle of this velvet cloak, the repairing of which was such an economical measure, an expenditure of anywhere from fifty to one hundred dollars to produce the harmony in your toilet which your cultivated taste demands, and perhaps fifty dollars more for another suit in which to go out on cloudy days, to wear shopping, and for all the ordinary, commonplace business of life. Would it not, then, have been much more economical to let the velvet cloak go, and purchase a substantial cloth one, trimmed with fur, we will say, so that it shall be handsome enough for visiting, suitable for church, not too frail to stand a sprinkle of rain, and requiring to go with it nothing more elaborate than a well-made cashmere dress and a tasteful bonnet of felt, or some material as enduring?

Aunt Abby paused, and following her suggestion, we all emulated the cow, and "considered." Mrs. Lorton's wrinkled forehead relaxed, and after a few moments she broke into a merry laugh:

"Why did you not read me that lecture a week ago? I believe that is the way in which I have been 'economizing' the whole of this past year."

"I have no doubt of it. It is the way in which every one begins, I fancy."

Aunt Abby amused us for the next half hour with merry stories of the things she had bought to match other things in her early days of economizing and Belle and I thought guiltily of some elaborate gauze overdresses, broad sashes and expensive artificial flowers which we had recently purchased with a view to arranging some cheap evening toilets over two old silk skirts.

"I believe I have been doing the same thing with the children," sighed Mrs. Lorton.

"I believe you have," smiled her friend, "for only last Sunday I heard Jenny tell her sister, very gravely that mamma was going to lengthen her blue silk by putting on a new flounce."

"That was my plan."

"Yes, and then the blue silk would demand a plush jacket, and that would call for a bonnet with ostrich plumes, or some other bit of frail magnificence."

"What shall I put on the girls?"

"Two pretty tailor-made suits."

"And waste the silk frocks because they are a trifle short?"

"Decidedly, or else they will waste a great deal of money, and the children be left without any suitable, serviceable garments for half the occasions on which they wish to go out."

Aunt Abby was growing very eloquent with her theme.

"I think," she said, "that a great many of the worries, the wrinkles and the gray hairs that vex the days and destroy the beauty of our American matrons grow out of this very want of harmony and arrangements in our domestic affairs. Wealth has been bestowed so lavishly upon our American people in the past: we have enjoyed so much luxury, and gratified our tastes and longings so habitually, that as a Nation we know very little of domestic economy. To use a rather vulgar saying, if we economize anywhere we are apt to "save at the spigot and let out at the bung." We are wasteful in our kitchens, extravagant in our wardrobes and careless of our furniture. Our attempts at saving when the necessity comes suddenly upon us are apt to be violent and spasmodic, and productive of very small results."

Aunt Abby smiled suddenly. "I remember one instance," she went on, in explanation of her amused expression, "when I proclaimed to my father, whose household was the scene of my early experiments in domestic economy, that for the three last months I had not spent but fifty cents a day for food, and with a household of six. 'Well, and what have you now in the house in the way of provisions?' he inquired, mildly. What had I? I investigated my closets, and found—well, an empty flour barrel, an empty sugar barrel, a butter firkin with scarcely a pound of butter in it, no rice, no soap, no starch, no potatoes, no coffee, no tea. In fact, I had simply gone on exhausting our supplies until every thing had to be bought at once. My fifty cents per day had simply paid for milk, meat, vegetables, and such things as must be purchased day by day. I shall never forget the glance of inquiry wherewith my patient parent went over my accounts, which read, 'January, February, March, fifteen dollars per month; April, sixty-five dollars.' Our income was a very small one, and for sometime I had to endure the impatience of tradesmen who kept asking 'when I would please settle that little bill?'

"Another of my mistaken fancies," Aunt Abby proceeded, "was in regard to laundry work. What is so pretty about a house as white curtains, fine toilet tables with muslin drapery, and so on? And the muslin 'costs so little.' Alas, yes! But when the bill of one dollar for each window comes in from some Celestial, and Ah Wang, or Chu Wah, or Lang Fu shakes his long queue and 'mus babee him moonee,' then one begins to realize what luxuries these pure white hangings are.

"Another point where economy is apt to press sorely is in the entertainment of one's friends. One does so long to give them something a little better than the ordinary fare, some one dainty dish to do them honor and to show what an accomplished housekeeper and cook presides over the table! But when that dainty dish must be shared by all at the table, those terrible bills will show it if the luxury is often indulged in."

"But one must entertain one's friends."

"Indeed one must. But then, if we reflect that it is affection for ourselves, and not the reputation of our cuisine, that brings them, we shall feel less solicitude about producing any culinary triumphs for their delectation."

"But, Aunt Abby," sighed Mrs. Lorton, "would not life be very dreary with only brown stuff dresses, bare windows and a diet of roast beef and cottage puddings?"

"No, I think not. Luxuries cease to be pleasures when they bring care and worry us to how they are to be paid for with them. Besides, there can be a great deal of variety in the stuff dresses; all drapery does not require semi-annual refreshing in the laundry; beef and cottage pudding are but two of the healthy, nourishing and inexpensive varieties of food our markets provide.

"But I must finish my sermon. It is getting too long, and only that my audience is too polite to yawn, they would certainly do so. I will simply 'sum up,' as old-fashioned ministers used to say at the conclusion of 'eighthly.' If you want to economize, think well whether the thing you propose to do will not, in addition to the original expenditure, bring with it a train of expensive consequences. Remember that nothing is cheap if it is not durable. Do not fancy that you are economizing if you are simply using up supplies that must be renewed at some time. Remember that in living beyond your income you harass yourself much more than you impress others.

"There, good people," laughed Aunt Abby as she gathered up her knitting, "you have results of a great many severe lessons that I once learned in a very severe school."—Mary E. Vandyne, in Christian Union.

FISHING FOR PEACOCK.

How an English Officer Secured a Dainty Morsel for His Table.

I remember once, when campaigning with the Turkish army in the provinces of the Trans-Caucasus, arriving at Sugdidi, the capital of Mingrelia, the day after the battle of the Ingour, only to find it deserted, and provisions scarce, and going out on a foraging expedition. Thinking that, as the palace had only just been abandoned by the Princess Dadiani, I might find something in the larder, I directed my steps in that direction, but found Turkish sentries at every ingress. Suddenly I heard the scream of a peacock, and my Ceylon experience recurred vividly to my mind. What a contribution to our mess he would be, I thought, if I could only get hold of him! Shooting him in the gardens of the palace was out of the question; indeed I found that the one he was in was inclosed with a high wall. Scrambling to the top of it by the aid of the branches of a tree, I saw several members of his family strutting about. Now, it so happened I had provided myself with a hook and line with the view of also trying my luck in the river, and as I had a piece of bread also in my pocket, the notion occurred to me of fishing for one of these majestic birds from the top of the garden wall. This idea I immediately put into practice, and in a few moments my efforts were rewarded, and I was gingerly hauling up a tender young hen, in an agony lest her weight and struggles should break the line before I got her safely landed. A night or two afterward I was dining with Omar Pasha, and recommended him to try one of the Princess' peafowls, a hint which resulted in my partaking of one at his table shortly afterward.—Blackwood's Magazine.

—A Maine bibliographer has collected the titles of three thousand books and pamphlets printed in Maine or by Maine men, and is still collecting.

THE VERMONT CANVASS.

The Plan of Campaign Against Senator Edmunds and its Chance of Success.

If the anti-Edmunds crusade is not to end in smoke the first open fight in the Republican campaign against the Senator will have to be made at the State convention. It will be a fight for position by the Senator's enemies, and will occur in this way: Chairman Gibbs was appointed the member of the State Committee for Chittenden County two years ago when he resided in Burlington, and was elected chairman of the committee upon the refusal of Hon. George Nichols, of Northfield, to serve longer in that place. But Mr. Gibbs is now a resident of Franklin County, and is the grinder-in-chief of Governor Smith's own hand-organ, the St. Albans Messenger. It is therefore an apparent matter of course that he can not again represent Chittenden County on the committee. But he can represent Franklin, if the delegates from that county to the convention select him as committeeman. Will they?

Franklin is Governor Smith's own county, and there, if anywhere, his influence ought to be potent. If his influence is such, its first manifestation in the campaign will naturally be to secure the election to the convention of delegates who will unite in naming Mr. Gibbs as the member of the new committee for Franklin County. This ought not to be a hard job for Governor Smith and his friends to accomplish, and if they succeed in the undertaking the next step in the programme will be to get Gibbs re-elected chairman of the committee. That will prove a more difficult job, as it is highly improbable that Smith's friends will be in the majority in the committee, and even if they should be some of them would undoubtedly hesitate to show their hands at so early a stage in the struggle. Of course Smith's adherents will argue that the choice of a chairman of the State committee should have and can have no relation to the matter of the Senatorial succession. "Gibbs has been chairman only two years," they will say. "Why not re-elect him? There was General W. W. Granedy, of Vergennes, for instance. He held the chairmanship for twenty-five years, and his successor, Dr. George Nichols, of Northfield, served until he got sick of it. Why, then, should we not re-elect Gibbs, as has been the custom? Because he doesn't like Edmunds? Pooh! That's no reason. Lots of people don't like Edmunds."

If, then, Gibbs succeeds in getting on the committee, a desperate effort will be made to make him its chairman, on the ground that he ought to have it, and that, as between Edmunds and Smith in the Senatorial contest, the election would have no significance whatever. But should the effort prove successful, the Edmunds haters would immediately and joyfully proclaim Gibbs' election a Smith triumph, and would proceed to make the most of their victory. In the event of Smith's strikers seeing that it will be impossible to re-elect Gibbs, they have an easy way to let themselves down. Gibbs will be put in nomination to the committee merely for the purpose of giving him an opportunity to withdraw his name in a pretty little speech explaining that, while he is grateful for past honors, his onerous editorial duties will not permit him longer to retain the chairmanship. And then the Smith whipcrackers will still have a chance to assert that the election of chairman was without significance.—N. Y. Sun.

GOOD TIMES SOUTH.

A Section Where Capital and Labor Seem to Be at Peace.

It is gratifying to observe that there is one section of the country in which industrial growth does not seem to be paralyzed by strikes, lock-outs and other forms of war between the capital that gives employment to labor and the labor that should be glad to be employed at remunerative wages by capital. For some reason the South has been fortunately free from these ruinous disputes between labor and capital and the result is that the industrial growth of the South is phenomenal.

The first three months in the year 1886 show that the new manufacturing and mining enterprises in the South, together with some important extensions of old concerns, will employ capital to the amount of thirty-six and a half millions of dollars. This capital has been drawn largely from the North and East and from Europe, although Southern capitalists have invested very liberally. The new growth is not confined to a few industries, but extends over almost the entire range of human industry, from iron furnaces and cotton mills to fruit canneries and ice factories. The list is largely made up of small factories and workshops, in each of which a small capital and a few workmen are employed, although there are a few large concerns, one of which invests two millions in new iron and steel furnaces.

In only two of the fourteen States in which portions of this thirty-six millions of new capital is being invested have there been any serious troubles of late. They are Texas and Maryland, and it is worth noting that in Maryland the amount of new capital invested is more than a million dollars less than during the same time last year, although the aggregate capital invested in the whole fourteen is nearly double what it was in the first three months of 1885. The South is to be congratulated on this wonderful showing and it is ardently to be hoped that the evident prosperity of that section may not turn out to be a spasmodic boom, but a steady and continuous growth.—Philadelphia Times.

A Naval Hint.

A meeting of the Institution of Naval Architects was recently held in London. It was attended by many of the leading navy constructors of Great Britain. One of the most important subjects discussed was the speed of war vessels. Admiral Sir Astley Cooper Key said that during the last six years it had been the purpose of the British naval authorities to make their ironclads faster by one knot an hour than like vessels of any other nation; and the weight of opinion was against making any sacrifice in speed for the sake of other qualities.

This fact is well worthy of attention on the part of those charged with the duty of constructing a new navy for the United States. A high rate of speed is insisted upon by the greatest naval power in the world. Should we not follow the example of England in this respect? Instead of building slow tubs, ought wo not to have war vessels, if their number be few, which can overtake any other war vessels afloat? The possession by Italy of a few armored vessels which are faster than any English iron-clads seems really to excite some disquietude in England, and we may be sure the British fleet will soon have similar ships of equal or greater speed. If superiority in speed is deemed so important in a great navy, can it safely be disregarded in building a small one?—N. Y. Sun.

—The only statesman in Pennsylvania is a man by the name of Quay. We disremember whether he has ever been in the penitentiary. If he has never been he soon will, be for it is the way the Republican statesmen of Pennsylvania dedicate themselves to the public.—Atlanta Constitution.

FORSAKEN EDMUNDS.

No Balm for His Soreness in Washington and Nothing But Gall for His Bitterness in Vermont.

What has become of that noble phalanx of Republican Senators who met in solemn conclave and bound themselves by the most earnest asseverations to follow the mandates of the sexagenarian Green Mountain boy, never, never to confirm the successor of any poor, persecuted Republican turned out in the cold by the unfeeling Democratic President? Where is that wonderful Senatorial vehmgericht, before whom the unconfirmed officeholders were to tremble, and the Administration to shake in its collective and individual boots? All gone away, as Hans Breitman would say, in the ewigkeit. When the doors of the Senate were locked and Mr. Edmunds called upon every Republican to do his duty, and sit down on a South Carolina internal revenue collector, not less than two-thirds of his forces not only went over to the enemy, but intimated in effect that his judgment was as unreliable as the walls of some of the Rutland marble quarries. Other instances of mutiny against the self-constituted leader from Vermont have been recorded in the secret sessions, and that too confident objector finds all his painfully constructed plans of obstruction go the way of his King Charles speech and end in derision and inextinguishable laughter. Even the congenial companionship of that unseemly talker, Ingalls, fails to relieve poor Mr. Edmunds from a crushing sense of loneliness.

The visions of a boom increasing in dimensions by the unquestioning acquiescence in his leadership in the Senate until it should attain its full growth, in 1888, are fast fading away. The Senators kicked in their traces, not once but several times, and the fragments of the boom are now strewn over the floor of the Senate. And, worse than all, in another year Mr. Edmunds will have to cast his eyes Vermontward to ascertain whether he is wanted for another term. He knows that a powerful opposition is building up in the Green Mountain State against him, and that his hopes of overcoming it lie in showing his power in the United States Senate. Thus far he has only proved his weakness. His pettish, childish conduct has done much towards obliterating the good opinion of him held by his brother Republicans, and he now sadly exclaims: "My high-blown pride at length broke under me." Poor Edmunds! He never got over the shock of that terrible message which was sent from the White House. He ventured beyond his depth, "like little wanton boys that swim on bladders." There is no balm for him in Washington, and nothing but gall in Vermont.—Albany Argus.

EXPOSING CONKLING.

An Amusing and Embarrassing Scene in Which New York's Ex-Senator Figures.

The threat of some of the Senators to investigate newspaper men and their methods of obtaining the secrets of executive sessions revive many stories in regard to former attempts at this thing, and one especially is interesting, as it relates to Mr. Conkling and marks the starting point of the coolness between himself and the press here. A Senator who was in a talkative mood gave me an interesting account of the proceedings in the Senate at the time—1874. The Senate had just completed their work on the Washington treaty and the great points of settlement between Great Britain and this country had been decided, but were not ready for publication. The day after the session several papers published the entire proceedings of the executive session. An investigation followed and two correspondents were arrested and locked up in the capital because they would not testify. During one of the sessions Roscoe Conkling drew up some resolutions in regard to the investigation and Senator Carpenter, of Wisconsin, offered them. Next day they were published. Conkling was in a towering rage, and took occasion to get up in the Senate and deny having written the resolutions. The Senate galleries and floor were crowded. The whole thing worked like a play. Mr. Conkling was most dramatic, as well as emphatic, in his denial of authorship of the resolutions, and declared that the papers tried to place him in a wrong light. Having had his say, Mr. Conkling walked into the cloak-room. He had hardly gone therein before Senator Henry Wilson, afterward Vice-President, entered the chamber by the main door. He walked to his seat, and, before he had time to find out what was going on, he arose and addressed the chair in reference to these resolutions, drawn by the Senator from New York (Mr. Conkling) and offered by the Senator from Wisconsin (Mr. Carpenter) in the last executive session. He got no further, for some one arose in a hurry and choked the Senator off by saying he was giving away executive secrets. The galleries looked aghast. Mr. Conkling came from the cloak-room looking like a sheet, so white and pale. He was caught. The press gallery fairly shook with suppressed laughter at his discomfiture. He made an explanation, but it was a lame one. This killed the investigation. The men were discharged, and Conkling lost ground with the press for the side he took against them that he has never regained—at least in Washington.—Wash. Cor. Indianapolis Journal.

DEMOCRATIC TID-BITS.

——It will save the Democratic party a great deal of money if the Republicans can be fooled into renominating Mr. Blaine.—N. Y. Star.

——Senator Edmunds is still mentioned occasionally as a Presidential possibility; but the mention appears to be only from force of habit.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

——The demand for open executive sessions of the Senate should be kept up. It is the only cure for the political huckstering which makes the Senate unclean.—Buffalo Express.

——Logan has received an invitation to join the Knights of Labor. He can't afford to go to sleep over it. Blaine is already a member of one of the Maine lodges and Sherman has knocked at the door of half a dozen in Ohio.—Brooklyn Eagle.

——If the land-grabbers of the past can not be reached by law, then the people of this country should be protected in future from the wholesale misappropriation of our public domain. This country is increasing so rapidly in population that all the public domain should be carefully guarded and reserved for worthy and industrious citizens, the bread-winners, who are anxious and willing to make their living and improve their condition by honest toil.—Augusta Chronicle.

——When Congressman Jim Campbell, of New York City, called on the President to tell him that the boys wouldn't stand it any longer, he was told to tell the boys that it would be "all right in time." When the Congressman who is or is not to be re-elected in a month or so tried to make it appear that there was no time left, the conversation closed by a return to the first proposition, and if the boys can't wait, they can consult together and see what they propose to do about it. But they'd better wait.—St. Louis Republican.

HOME AND FARM.

—Trees grafted last year will need attention. All suckers should be removed.

—Never let a calf go hungry because it will not drink cold milk. If you have not time or patience to warm the milk sell the calf to some one who will do it.—Troy Times.

—For breakfast rolls without soda: Take two eggs, one and one-half cupfuls of sweet milk, a teaspoonful of salt, and flour enough to make a thick batter. These must be baked in an iron gem pan to be a success, and a quick oven is desirable.—Boston Globe.

—An exchange says that a teaspoonful of dry soda administered to a sheep within twelve hours after it has eaten of poison weed will invariably counteract the poison and save such sheep from dying.

—The granulation or "candying" of honey is retarded by keeping it in a warm place, and hastened by storing it where it will be cold. This rule applies generally, for some kinds of honey granulate sooner than others.—Chicago Journal.

—Baked Indian Pudding: One quart of milk, boiling; sift in meal to make a thick batter, and one handful of flour. Before the milk boils put in one cup of molasses, one teaspoonful of salt and one teaspoonful of ginger. Remove from fire and add two quarts cold milk and raisins. Bake three hours.—Boston Budget.

—There is more waste in the potato crop than in any other, but if the smaller and scabby potatoes are boiled and mixed with meal for pigs they will pay nearly or quite as well as the sound potatoes, which have been marketed at low prices the two years. Other vegetables may be added to give variety to the diet.—Toledo Blade.

—Wool-growing presents a feasible means of improving and making profitable the poor and rough lands in different sections of this country. Such lands are abundant, and are unsuited for pasturing heavy cattle and for tillage, and many poor owners of rough and thin lands could be relieved from distressing circumstances if they would stop plowing and stock up with good sheep.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

—Grain is always less injured by dry weather than is at first supposed. If the plant is somewhat pinched up, nature concentrates her efforts on perfecting the seed, thus insuring reproduction. The straw may be short, but the berry will often be plumper than when much moister, causing excessive growth of straw, also inducing mildew, rust and other fungus attacks which feed on the juices of the straw that should go to perfect the grain.—Prairie Farmer.

—To make glossy starch take two ounces of white gum arabic powder, put into a pitcher and pour on it a pint of boiling water, according to the degree of strength you desire, and then, having covered it, let it stand all night. In the morning pour it carefully from the dregs into a clean bottle—keep it for use. A tablespoonful of gum water stirred into a pint of starch that has been made in the usual manner will give lawns, either black or printed, a look of newness, when nothing else can restore them after washing. It is also good, much diluted, for thin white muslin and bobbinet.—Boston Globe.

SURAH DRESSES.

The Most Popular Material for Stylish Summer Costumes.

Silk surahs—not satin surahs—are largely imported for summer dresses, either for the house or out-of-doors; in the latter case they are often combined with canvas. Plaid and striped surahs are used for the basque and skirt, with sleeves and long drapery of plain canvas. Thus a blue and white plain surah is made up in a surplice basque with blue canvas sleeves, a lower skirt of seven straight gathered breadths of the plaid silk over which is a deep drapery of the wide blue canvas made in one piece, with selvage at the foot, forming a deep apron front, and draped in high plaits far back on the tournure, where it is attached to the point of the basque, and drops in two long pointed wings. Some gilt braid as shoulder straps is laid along the shoulder seams of such dresses, and a blue satin ribbon two inches wide is worn around the waist like a military sash, falling low on the left side of the skirt, where it is completed by gilt tassels. Blue and red plaid surahs are similarly made with blue canvas, also beige with green, and mastic with red. Small rough straw pokes peaked in front and back are brought out with such dresses in red, blue or beige colors, trimmed with many high loops of ribbon only an inch wide, or else with still narrower quarter-inch ribbons of many colors in one rosette.

Black surah dresses for summer are made up with a white gathered vest of silk or dotted silk-muslin, and revers and sash of artistic stuffs and new soft silks in pale olive shades, or peach-blow, pale yellow or copper red, or else with garnet bead passementerie for trimming. To introduce a little color is the modiste's object in such dresses, and the favorite designs have the plaited or shirred basques with revers and a soft sash, while the drapery is many long breadths forming the second skirts now so much in favor. A charming design for a young lady's dress has the second skirt of six breadths of the black surah dropping down from the belt, and caught up in a square corner on the left side to show two rows of scallops, one of black, the other of olive surah, on the foot of the lower skirt; the right side has a funnel-shaped plait, and on the straight full gathered breadths in the back hang two sash ends of pale olive silk canvas fringed at the foot, and their upper end concealed by the basque. The short basque gathered on the shoulders has a gathered plastron of white silk wrought with rose-buds from the neck to a wide soft girdle of green like the sash which crosses it at the waist line; beside this white plastron are green revers, which extend as a collar in the back, while in front is a gathered band of the white silk about the throat. A gathered cuff of green surah strapped with the white silk trims the black coat-sleeves. Other full basques of black surah are in box plaits as the waist line under a belt, but the fullness is gathered at the neck and in the shoulder seams. The effect of a Norfolk jacket is given by rows of garnet galloon or of jet passementerie extending down between the fullness, which does not, however, assume defined plaits. The galloon is then used for a dog-collar, as wristbands, and through the middle of the belt, which is a fastened by a rosette.—Harper's Bazar.

Best Paint for Barns.

After painting several barns and advising in regard to painting many others, I have fixed on the metallic paint and linseed oil as the very best. The color is a dark reddish brown, which matches naturally and pleasantly with green fields; the iron oxide forms a most desirable chemical compound with the oil, which is absorbed by the wood and lasts for ten years or longer; the paint does not show stains of soil or manure, and it is fire-proof. The paint is the cheapest to be procured and covers the surface well. Any one can lay it on. Asbestos is an excellent material for paint and better than lead; but lead is lead no longer as the adulterator mixes barytes and other cheap stuff with it, and it is also the dearest paint to be bought.—Cor. N. Y. Tribune.

A PAYING TRADE.

Why So Many People in Cities Prefer Begging to Working.

"Catching" is a new term for that very species of street-begging which is being carried on extensively on our streets at this time. Hardly any one who has occasion to be on the large thoroughfares of the city after six o'clock in the evening escapes the vigilant eye of the "catcher." The term arises perhaps from the fact that this species of begging is outlawed, as it is made a business of, and the person who contributes his mite to these people would be surprised and hurt if he really knew that his charitable intentions are entirely misplaced, and that the mendicants spent the nickels and dimes in some convenient saloon for beer or drinks of some other kind. These "catchers" seldom ply their vocation until the shades of night begin to fall, and they are encountered oftener in the vicinity of some public place. One can hardly pass on Broadway without being tackled, and where the bright rays of the electric light verge into shadows and darkness a short distance from the door of some "all-night" eating-house, or around and near to the entrances of the great caravansaries of the down-town thoroughfares, these mendicants are sure to be found. Sometimes they go into partnership and "whack" on the proceeds of the evening's begging tournament.

A "catcher" wishes for no greater snap than a man who has just stepped out of some eating-house with a tooth-pick between his teeth and a look of satisfaction on his countenance and a feeling of contentment with himself and with the world filling his soul.

These "catchers" learn to be good judges of human nature, and can tell when, if ever, and under what circumstances, a man's charitable feeling will assert itself. They invariably have some pathetic story to relate, in which the details of the circumstances which forced them into this humiliating position are eloquently and feelingly portrayed—if the chance passer-by is willing to listen to it.

Sunday is harvest day for the "catchers," and they "work" the down-town streets during the whole day. Often on Sunday the "catcher" appears as a little girl, almost respectably clad and heavily armed with a heartrending story of a bed-ridden and widowed mother and not less than six or seven little famished brothers and sisters. Woe to the nice young man who dares to promenade Fourth or Fifth streets Sunday afternoon with his "best girl," for ho is tackled at every corner and in the middle of the block. He could easily give away his week's salary in donations of five cents each in a promenade of fifteen or twenty blocks. Of course the nice young man with his best girl wouldn't wish to appear stingy and uncharitable, but on the other hand would wish to appear rather the opposite. These street "catchers" know this, and the nice young man falls their prey accordingly."—St. Louis Republican.

—The most remarkable wedding on record, perhaps, occurred recently in Indiana. A young Colorado cattle man named W. D. Knox, visiting in Jeffersonville, got into a carriage and told the hackman to drive him where he could see a pretty girl. The hackman started up town and met Lizzie Miller. The hackman hailed her and introduced her to Knox, who was greatly pleased with her good looks, and invited her into the carriage. A license was obtained and the wedding solemnized. Knox pulled out an immense roll of bills when he paid the justice. The newly-made wife asked him where he was going, and he said back to Colorado. "Am I going with you?" she asked. "No," he said, "I have no further use for you."—Chicago Herald.

—An exchange is able to record another case of the cure of erysipelas by the simple application of raw cranberries pounded fine. The patient was a young lady, one side of whose face had become so much swollen and inflamed that the eye had become closed and the pain excessive. A poultice of cranberries was applied, and after several changes the pain ceased, the inflammation subsided, and in the course of a couple of days every vestige of the disease had disappeared.

—A traveler in Mexico gives the following cheerful sketch of the country through which he passed: "Gigantic rattlesnakes, deadly asps, and a hundred other deadly species glide away at our approach, reptiles play upon each other in the miasmatic lagoons, where fatal calenturas lurk under every leaf; enormous lizards bask in the hot sunshine, tarantulas, scorpions, centipedes and xins-xins abound in the burning sands."

—The first essential to attain to true womanhood is to commence the work at home. The home circle is the place for you in which to lay a solid foundation. No place on earth must be as dear and sacred to you as home—the fireside, be it ever so homely. The father's fireside is the safest spot on which to spend your leisure hours. Appreciate it aright and you will not have cause for sighs and reproaches and bitter lamentations in after life.—Western Rural.

—An English literary paper asks a conundrum apropos of dress reform: "Why shouldn't women dress rationally without making a fuss about it? It is not for men, groaning under the tyranny of the tall hat and the black coat, to reproach women with subordination to fashion."

REV. W. M. LEFTWICH, D. D., Nashville, Tenn., publicly endorses Red Star Cough Cure, which costs only twenty-five cents a bottle.

THE best cobblers do not talk. "Least said, soonest mended."—N. O. Picayune.

PIKE'S TOOTHACHE DROPS cure in 1 minute, 25c
Glenn's Sulphur Soap heals and beautifies. 25c.
GERMAN CORN REMOVER kills Corns & Bunions.

"THROUGH by daylight"—The housebreaker.—Life.

IF afflicted with Sore Eyes use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye Water. Druggists sell it. 25c.

WHEN a man falls down his temper generally gets up before he does.

BRONCHITIS is cured by frequent small doses of Piso's Cure for Consumption.

Down East singing-masters always look out for the Maine chants.

Get the Best

Is a good motto to follow in buying a spring medicine, as well as in everything else. By the universal satisfaction it has given, and by the many remarkable cures it has accomplished, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven itself unequaled for building up and strengthening the system, and for all diseases arising from or promoted by impure blood. Do not experiment with any unheard-of and untried article which you are told is "just as good," but be sure to get only Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I consider Hood's Sarsaparilla the best medicine I ever used. It gives me an appetite and refreshing sleep, and keeps the cold out." JOHN S. FOGG, 106 Spruce Street, Portland, Me.

"I find Hood's Sarsaparilla the best remedy for impure blood I ever used." M. H. BAXTER, ticket agent, P. & R. Rd., Bound Brook, N. J.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla takes less time and quantity to show its effect than any preparation I ever heard of." MRS. C. A. HUBBARD, N. Chili, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

$500,000,000.

Many splendid fortunes lie in the English Court of Chancery, which belong to American citizens. The court has held possession in some cases, for more than one hundred and fifty years. Cox & Co., London, England, have with great care and diligence compiled a book containing the names of fifty thousand heirs and their descendants who have been advertised for to claim these fortunes. The book gives Christian and surnames, and instructions how to proceed for the recovery of money and estates. Sent free to all parts of the world upon receipt of one dollar. Remittance may be made by registered letter or money order. Address COX & CO., 41 Southampton Buildings, London, England. Cox & Co. refer by permission to the Kellogg Newspaper Company, New York.

WHEN is a bridle like a ship? When it ides over the bounding mane.—N. Y. Telegram.

Human Calves.

An exchange says:—"Nine-tenths of the unhappy marriages result from human calves being allowed to run at large in society pastures." Nine-tenths of the chronic or lingering diseases of to-day originate in impure blood, liver complaint or biliousness, resulting in scrofula, consumption (which is but scrofula of the lungs), sores, ulcers, skin diseases and kindred affections. Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" cures all these. Of Druggists.

A WOMAN refused to feed a dwarf, because she was opposed to dine-a-mite.—Boston Globe.

THE best preparation for coloring the beard is Buckingham's Dye for the Whiskers.

To strengthen and invigorate the stomach, and to stimulate the appetite, take Ayer's Pills.

ALWAYS goes round with a long face—an alligator.—Peck's Sun.

THE MARKETS.

CINCINNATI, May 18.

LIVE STOCK—Cattle—Common	$2 00	@ 3 00
Choice Butchers	4 25	@ 5 00
HOGS—Common	3 40	@ 3 80
Good Packers	3 90	@ 4 20
SHEEP—Good to choice	3 85	@ 4 50
FLOUR—Family	2 70	@ 4 00
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red	87	@ 88
No. 3 red	78	@ 82
Corn—No. 2 mixed	37	@ 37½
Oats—No. 2 mixed	31½	@ 32
Rye—No. 2		@ 70
HAY—Timothy No. 1	12 00	@ 12 50
TOBACCO—Common Lugs	8 30	@ 9 75
Good Mediums	10 25	@ 13 25
PROVISIONS—Pork—Mess	10 00	@ 10 12½
Lard—Prime steam		@ 5 85
BUTTER—Choice Dairy	10	@ 13
Ohio Creamery	18	@ 18
APPLES—Prime	2 00	@ 3 00
POTATOES—per bushel	35	@ 50
NEW YORK.
FLOUR—State and Western	$3 25	@ 3 80
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 Chicago	87½	@ 88
No. 2 red	87½	@ 88¾
Corn—No. 2 mixed	38	@ 50
Oats—mixed	37	@ 45
PORK—Mess	10 00	@ 10 25
LARD—Western steam		@ 6 22½
CHICAGO.
FLOUR—State and Western	$4 50	@ 4 75
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 3 Spring		@ 65
No. 2 Chicago Spring		@ 74¾
Corn—No. 2		@ 35⅜
Oats—No. 2		@ 28
Rye		@ 60
PORK—Mess	8 72½	@ 8 80
LARD—Steam	5 95	@ 6 05
BALTIMORE.
FLOUR—Family	$4 50	@ 5 00
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2	87½	@ 88
Corn—Mixed	47½	@ 47½
Oats—Mixed	38	@ 39
PROVISIONS—Pork—Mess		@ 10 50
Lard—Refined		@ 7¼
CATTLE—First quality	5 62½	@ 5 75
HOGS		@ 5 75
INDIANAPOLIS.
Wheat—No. 2 red	$	@ 80
Corn—mixed		@ 33¼
Oats—mixed		@ 29½
LOUISVILLE.
Flour—A No. 1	$4 00	@ 4 50
GRAIN—Wheat—No. 2 red		@ 86
Corn—mixed		@ 38
Oats—mixed		@ 32¼
PORK—mess		@ 10 50
LARD—steam	7 75	@ 8 00

RED STAR
TRADE MARK.
COUGH CURE
Absolutely
Free from Opiates, Emetics and Poison.
SAFE.
SURE.
PROMPT.
25 Cts.
AT DRUGGISTS AND DEALERS.
THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO., BALTIMORE, MD.

ST. JACOBS OIL
TRADE MARK.

THE GREAT GERMAN REMEDY
For Pain
Cures Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Backache, Headache, Toothache, Sprains, Bruises, etc., etc.
PRICE, FIFTY CENTS.
AT DRUGGISTS AND DEALERS.
THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO., BALTIMORE, MD.

How Women Differ from Men.

At least three men on the average jury are bound to disagree with the rest just to show that they've got minds of their own; but there is no disagreement among the women as to the merits of Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription." They are all unanimous in pronouncing it the best remedy in the world for all those chronic diseases, weaknesses and complaints peculiar to their sex. It transforms the pale, haggard, dispirited woman, into one of sparkling health, and the ringing laugh again "reigns supreme" in the happy household.

THE watering cart man is always ready to "down with the dust."—Fall River Advertiser.

SICK and bilious headache, and all derangements of stomach and bowels, cured by "Dr. Pierce's Pellets"—or anti-bilious granules. 25 cents a vial. No cheap boxes to allow waste of virtues. By druggists.

CHIEF TWO-BELLY, of the Crow tribe, is dead. There is rejoicing at his old boarding-house.—Boston Post.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS—THE BEST TONIC.
QUALITY P PURITY NOT QUANTITY. Trade Mark. On Every Bottle.
PHYSICIANS AND DRUGGISTS RECOMMEND IT.

This medicine, combining Iron with pure vegetable tonics, quickly and completely Cures Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weakness, Impure Blood, Malaria, Chills and Fevers, and Neuralgia.

It is an unfailing remedy for Diseases of the Kidney and Liver.

It is invaluable for Diseases peculiar to Women, and all who lead sedentary lives.

It does not injure the teeth, cause headache, or produce constipation—other Iron medicines do.

It enriches and purifies the blood, stimulates the appetite, aids the assimilation of food, relieves Heartburn and Belching, and strengthens the muscles and nerves.

For Intermittent Fevers, Lassitude, Lack of Energy, etc., it has no equal.

☞ The genuine has above trade mark and crossed red lines on wrapper. Take no other.
Made only by BROWN CHEMICAL CO., BALTIMORE, MD.

FRAZER AXLE GREASE.
Best in the world. Get the genuine. Every package has our Trade-mark and is marked Frazer's. SOLD EVERYWHERE.

Buckeye Folding Binder.
The lightest running elevator binder in the world. Folds so as to pass through farm gates. Requires less storage room. Never misses a bundle. Mention this paper when you send for our Catalogue.
C. Aultman & Co., Canton, Ohio.

NUMAN'S LAWN PUMP.
Patented July 30, 1878, August 18, 1884, and January 19, 1886. A perfect Pump; used by Farmers, Gardeners, Housekeepers, Store-keepers, Liverymen, Druggists, Bottlers, Machinists, Plumbers, &c. Pays a big profit and sells everywhere on its merits. Agents wanted in every county. State and county rights for sale. Price $3.00, express charges prepaid by us. For descriptive circular and terms to agents, address, ELBEL & CO., Canton, O.

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.

CONSUMPTION
I have a positive remedy for the above disease; by its use thousands of cases of the worst kind and of long standing have been cured. Indeed, so strong is my faith in its efficacy, that I will send TWO BOTTLES FREE, together with a VALUABLE TREATISE on this disease, to any sufferer. Give Express and P. O. address. DR. T. A. SLOCUM, 181 Pearl St., N. Y.

SEEDS FOR TRIAL. PEARL CORN, best yielder known, 3 eared stalks; CANNON BALL CABBAGE, sure to head, winter keeper; HONEYSUCKLE WATERMELON, very early and sweet; SWEET POTATO PUMPKIN, extra good for eating. These are all very superior new seeds, which I wish introduced, and mail all for dime or any one for nickel. JAMES HASLEY, Seed Grower, MADISON, ARK.

12 DOLLARS each for New and Perfect SEWING MACHINES. Warranted five years. Sent on trial if desired. Buy direct and save $15 to $35. Organs given as premiums. Write for FREE circular with 1,000 testimonials from every State. GEORGE PAYNE & CO., 48 W. Monroe St., Chicago.

FACE, HANDS, FEET, and all their imperfections, including Facial Development, Superfluous Hair, Birth Marks, Moles, Warts, Moth, Freckles, Red Nose, Acne, Black Heads, Scars, Pitting and their treatment. Dr. JOHN H. WOODBURY, 37 N. Pearl St. Albany, N. Y. Est'b'd 1870. Send 10c. for book.

ARTISTS' MATERIALS. Lustra and Kensington Colors. Repousse Work. Wax Flower Supplies. Send for our various catalogues. Mail orders solicited. HOFFMANN BROS., 165 Main Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

LOVE COURTSHIP and MARRIAGE. This most wonderful and handsome book of 160 pages mailed for only 10c. Ads. UNION PUB. CO., Newark, N. J.

OPIUM Habit, Quickly and Painlessly cured at home. Correspondence solicited and free trial of cure sent honest investigators. THE HUMANE REMEDY COMPANY, Lafayette, Ind.

HAIR Wigs, Bangs and Waves sent C. O. D. anywhere. Wholesale and retail price-list free. B. C. Strehl & Co., 173 Wabash-av., Chicago.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. Dr. J. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

BULL'S SARSAPARILLA.

THE LIVER
Secretes the bile and acts like a filter to cleanse impurities of the blood. By irregularity in its action or suspensions of its functions, the bile poisons the blood, causing jaundice, sallow complexion, weak eyes, bilious diarrhea, a languid, weary feeling, and many other distressing symptoms generally termed liver troubles. These are relieved at once by the use of DR. BULL'S SARSAPARILLA, the great blood resolvent.

DR. JOHN BULL.—I have been for a number of years severely afflicted with a mercurial headache and a dull, heavy pain in my liver. Three bottles of BULL'S SARSAPARILLA gave me more relief than all the others combined. T. H. OWENS, Louisville, Ky.

DR. JOHN BULL.—I have examined the prescription for the preparation of DR. JOHN BULL'S SARSAPARILLA, and believe the combination to be an excellent one, and well calculated to produce an alterative impression on the system. I have used it both in public and private practice, and think it the best article of Sarsaparilla in use. M. PYLES, M. D., Louisville, Ky. Res. Phys. at Lou. Marine Hosp.

KIDNEYS
Are the great secretory organs of the body. Into and through the Kidneys flow the waste fluids containing poisonous matter taken from the system. If the Kidneys do not act properly this matter is retained and poisons the blood, causing headache, weakness, pain in the small of back and loins, flashes of heat, chills, with disordered stomach and bowels. BULL'S SARSAPARILLA acts as a diuretic on the Kidneys and bowels, and directly on the blood as well, causing the great organs of the body to resume their natural functions, and health is at once restored.

DR. JOHN BULL.—I have used BULL'S SARSAPARILLA for rheumatism and kidney trouble, and my son has taken it for asthma and general debility. It has given us both great relief. Yours truly, THOS. H. BENTLEY, Rossville, Ill.

THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE.

DYSPEPSIA
Variable appetite, faint, gnawing feeling at pit of the stomach, heartburn, wind in the stomach, bad breath, bad taste in the mouth, low spirits, general prostration. There is no form of disease more prevalent than Dyspepsia, and it can in all cases be traced to an enfeebled or poisoned condition of the blood. BULL'S SARSAPARILLA by cleansing and purifying the blood, tones up the digestive organs, and relief is obtained at once.

DR. JOHN BULL.—I have no hesitation in saying that I believe your SARSAPARILLA to be the best medicine manufactured for the cure of Scrofula, Syphilis and many other cutaneous and glandular affections, having used it with entire success in numbers of the above cases. JAMES MOORE, Louisville, Ky.

DR. JOHN BULL.—I procured one bottle of BULL'S SARSAPARILLA for my eldest son. Among the remedies and various prescriptions that he has tried for weak lungs and chest, this one bottle has been of more benefit to him than all. It has cured me of Dyspepsia as well. JOHN S. MCGEE, Horse Cave, Ky.

SCROFULA
Is a peculiar morbid condition of the system, caused directly by impurities in the blood or by the lack of sufficient nourishment furnished to the system through the blood, usually affecting the glands, often resulting in swellings, enlarged joints, abscesses, sore eyes, blotchy eruptions on the face or neck. Erysipelas is akin to it and is often mistaken for Scrofula as it comes from the same cause, impure blood. BULL'S SARSAPARILLA, by purifying the blood and toning up the system forces the impurities from the blood and cleanses the system through the regular channels.

DR. JOHN BULL.—It is my opinion that your preparation of SARSAPARILLA is decidedly superior to any other now in use, and I will take great pleasure in recommending it for the cure of Scrofula and all diseases of the blood and kidneys. B. B. ALLEN, M. D., Bradford, Ky.

BULL'S SARSAPARILLA.
BULL'S WORM DESTROYER.
BULL'S SMITH'S TONIC SYRUP.
THE POPULAR REMEDIES OF THE DAY.

PRINCIPAL OFFICE:
831 West Main Street, Louisville, Ky.
Price, $1; Six Bottles for $5.
For Sale by all Druggists.

KEEP THE BLOOD PURE.

Scrofula of Lungs.

I am now 49 years old, and have suffered for the last fifteen years with a lung trouble. I have spent thousands of dollars to arrest the march of this disease; but temporary relief was all that I obtained. I was unfit for any manual labor for several years. A friend strongly recommended the use of Swift's Specific (S. S. S.), claiming that he himself had been greatly benefited by its use in some lung troubles. I resolved to try it. The results are remarkable. My cough has left me, my strength has returned, and I weigh sixty pounds more than I ever did in my life. It has been three years since I stopped the use of the medicine, but I have had no return of the disease, and there are no paler or weakness felt in my lungs. I do the hardest kind of work. T. J. HOLT.
Montgomery, Ala., June 25, 1885.

Swift's Specific is entirely vegetable. Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed free.
THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Drawer 3, Atlanta, Ga., or 157 W. 23d Street, N. Y.

FREE FARMS IN SUNNY SAN LUIS.
The most Wonderful Agricultural Park in America. Surrounded by prosperous mining and manufacturing towns. FARMER'S PARADISE! Magnificent crops raised in 1885. THOUSANDS OF ACRES OF GOVERNMENT LAND, subject to pre-emption & homestead. Lands for sale to actual settlers at $3.00 per Acre. Long Time. Park irrigated by immense canals. Cheap railroad rates. Every attention shown settlers. For maps, pamphlets, etc., address COLORADO LAND & LOAN CO., Opera House Block, Denver, Colo. Box, 2390.

No Rope to Cut Off Horses' Manes.
Celebrated "ECLIPSE" HALTER and BRIDLE Combined, can not be slipped by any horse. Sample Halter to any part of the U. S. free, on receipt of $1. Sold by all Saddlery, Hardware and Harness Dealers. Special discount to the Trade. ☞ Send for Price-List. J. C. LIGHTHOUSE, Rochester, N. Y.

MUSTANG
Survival of the Fittest.
A FAMILY MEDICINE THAT HAS HEALED MILLIONS DURING 35 YEARS!
MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT.
A BALM FOR EVERY WOUND OF MAN AND BEAST!
The Oldest & Best Liniment EVER MADE IN AMERICA.
SALES LARGER THAN EVER.
The Mexican Mustang Liniment has been known for more than thirty-five years as the best of all Liniments, for Man and Beast. Its sales to-day are larger than ever. It cures when all others fail, and penetrates skin, tendon and muscle, to the very bone. Sold everywhere.

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOLUME XI. BURLINGTON, KY., WEDNESDAY, MAY 26, 1886. NUMBER 29.

ANARCHISTS INDICTED.

Spies, Parsons and Fielding Charged With Conspiracy to Murder

At the Meeting at Chicago During Which the Bomb Was Thrown.

CHICAGO, May 21.—The grand jury is now in possession of all the material facts in the dynamite conspiracy, so far as the presumption shows the guilty parties to be August Spies, Schwab, Parsons and Fielding. Further testimony tended to indicate that Schnabel was the man who threw the bomb. He is a brother-in-law of Schwab. He formerly wore a long, flowing beard, but when apprehended after the massacre in the Heymarket was clean shaven. This morning Gustav Lehman was arrested. He is believed to be capable of giving the identity of the bomb thrower. In his possession and on the premises which he occupied were found three round dynamite bombs exactly similar to that used at the Haymarket riot, two boxes of dynamite giant powder caps, two coils of dynamite fuse, and two boxes of dynamite not made into bombs. The bombs had the fuse attached and seemed to be ready for immediate use. The Arbeiter Zeitung has again made its appearance in its old form—a large quarto—and is very similar in looks and contents to the old paper when Spies, Parsons, Schwab and the other Anarchists were personally conducting it. The paper recites at length how it has triumphed over all efforts to suppress it, and makes an urgent call for subscriptions for the defense of Spies and Schwab, who have written, spoken and battled long and bravely for the welfare of the workingmen and are now compelled to suffer. Do not forget your persecuted brothers, but help them, as they are always ready to help you. Indictments for conspiracy to murder and inciting to riot were informally decided upon this evening in the cases against August Spies, Sam Fielding and A. R. Parsons, the Anarchists. These three were the speakers at the Haymarket meeting which preceded the bomb-throwing and riot on May 4. Investigation as to others accused of complicity in the crime has not yet been completed.

POP-GUN WAR.

The Greeks and Turks Having Lots of Fun.

ATHENS, May 21.—Dispatches received from the frontier, whence they were sent at noon to-day, reports continued firing between the Turkish and Greek outposts. The Turks are attempting to occupy Analispis. They have been repulsed at Phiothendra, after severe fighting. The Greeks remain firm in their position. Their infantry are now pursuing the repulsed and retreating Turks near Saint Athanasius. Greek artillery has destroyed the Turkish earthworks opposite Analispis. The Turks, who were intrenched at Saltiosibla, are now retreating toward Hassan-Melina. The Greeks have reoccupied Bairaktori.

Hunting for Mormons.

GENEVA, May 21.—The war upon Mormon missionaries in Switzerland is being prosecuted vigorously. Many of them have fled, and others who have not heeded the warnings of the exasperated friends of their victims have been beaten and driven across the frontier. The police are taking them into custody upon the slightest pretext, and in almost every case magistrates find some excuse for committing them to jail. Every Mormon agent in Argovia and Zurich, including a number who had taken refuge in these places from the wrath of the inhabitants of other towns, has been arrested, and it is believed that within a week it will be impossible to find a single Mormon evangelist at large in all Switzerland.

Bishop Fabre and the K. of L.

MONTREAL, May 21.—Bishop Fabre has refused to consider the proposed amendments to the K. of L. Constitution offered by the delegates on remission. He says the spirit of the society is against the rules of the Roman Catholic Church, and that those members who persist in joining the Knights of Labor must suffer excommunication. This causes great excitement among the Knights here, as over 17,000 of that organization belonging to the church, of which Bishop Fabre is the head.

Anxiety for Minister Pendleton.

NEW YORK, May 21.—A Berlin dispatch states that Senator Pendleton was attending the great spring review of the Imperial Guards with his daughter Mary, and did not hear of his wife's death until Friday morning, by New York time. When he received the news he fell senseless to the floor. Anxiety is felt at the possible effect of so terrible a shock upon the nerves of the Minister.

A War Among the Lumber Men.

DETROIT, May 21.—There is a war among the lumber men of Isabella County over running logs in the Chippewa river. At Mt. Pleasant at 2 o'clock this morning a dynamite cartridge was exploded under the dam of Harris Brothers. The injury is several hundred dollars, while the loss to the log drivers will be up in the thousands. Other explosions are feared.

Seven Days Failures.

NEW YORK, May 21.—The business failures occurring throughout the country during the last seven days, as reported to R. G. Dun & Co., number for the United States 147, and for Canada 20, as compared with a total of 176 last week and 192 the week previous. Business casualties seem to be steadily decreasing in number throughout the country.

Presbyterian Centennial.

PHILADELPHIA, May 21.—The one hundredth Presbyterian General Assembly will be held in this city in 1888. The second Thursday of the session will be a day of jubilee in the churches all over the world. An effort will be made to raise a centenary church fund of $5,000,000.

General Durbin Ward Dying.

LEBANON, O., May 21.—General Durbin Ward, who has been prostrated at his home here for several weeks with an attack of acute rheumatism, and was thought to be recovering suffered a relapse and last night suddenly grew worse under a complication of difficulties. He spent a restless night, and to-day is lying very low. He is unconscious, and the gravest apprehensions of his friends have been aroused. A consultation of physicians has been called, a prominent member of the fraternity of Cincinnati having been telegraphed for.

11 P. M.—General Ward is just alive. Physicians say he can not last till midnight.

Gallows-Tree Fruit.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 21.—Louis Otto, the wife murderer, was hanged at 10:26 o'clock this morning.

LITTLE ROCK, May 21.—Lee Barnes was hanged at 10:30 a. m. to-day at Dover, Ark., for the murder of Charles Hollman. A large number of persons witnessed the execution.

New Orleans' New Congressman.

NEW ORLEANS, May 21.—N. D. Wallace, President of the Cotton Exchange, was elected to Congress from the Second District yesterday to succeed Mr. Hahn. His plurality is about 2,000.

He Bet on Blaine.

DOVER, N. H., May 21.—Daniel Hemenway, a messenger between Farrington and Dover for Meserve & Co.'s express, who disappeared January 2, 1885, leaving a shortage of $1,200, was arrested in bed at Watertown early this morning and brought to Farrington for a hearing. Hemenway admits his guilt, and says he bet the amount of the shortage on Blaine's election, thinking he was sure to win.

Naval Paymaster Absconds.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—Paymaster Watkins, of the U. S. steamer Ossipee, has disappeared. Charges were pending against him. Admiral Davis has offered a reward of $1,000 for his capture.

MRS. GEORGE H. PENDLETON

Meets Her Death While Riding in Central Park, New York.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Mrs. Alice Pendleton, 61 years old, wife of Ex-Senator Pendleton, of Ohio, and present Minister to Berlin, was thrown from her carriage while driving in Central Park this afternoon. The result was compound fracture of the skull and concussion of the brain, from which she died ten minutes after the accident. Mrs. Pendleton came from Berlin less than two months ago with her daughter, Miss Jane Francis Pendleton, to attend the funeral of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Frank K. Pendleton, who lived at No. 105 East Thirty-fifth street. Since the funeral of young Mrs. Pendleton the old lady and Miss Jane had remained with Mrs. Pendleton's son, who is a well-known lawyer of this city. It had been their practice since coming to New York to take a livery on pleasant days for a drive. Following this custom, they engaged a Victoria and driver this afternoon. As they were proceeding through Central Park the horses became unmanageable and ran away, draging the driver from his seat.

BUTCHERED BY INDIANS.

Forty-Two Lives Taken Within a Month Near Nogales, Arizona.

TOMBSTONE, ARI., May 20.—Fred Lutley and a wood corder named Dutch Charley were killed by Apaches at Harry Lutley's ranch, near here, yesterday. Harry escaped. A Mexican from the Wetstone Mountains brings news that the Apaches killed three Mexicans there this morning. The number of persons murdered by Apaches within gun-shot of Nogales, Ari., during the past four weeks, now number forty-two. The size of the raiding bands and their boldness leave no doubt that they have been recruited from the discharged scouts. There are well founded reports of further departures from the San Carlos reservation, and old settlers believe that if this outbreak is not quelled within thirty days Arizona will witness this summer some of the bloodiest depredations by Apaches ever known. There is a strong feeling here that the Government should let frontiersmen show what they can do by organizing a body of volunteers.

JAEHNE SENTENCED.

Almost the Full Extent of the Law—Stay of Proceedings Granted.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Ex-Alderman Jaehne was this morning sentenced by Judge Barrett to nine years and ten months' imprisonment in Sing Sing. No fine was imposed. The full penalty provided by law is ten years' imprisonment and $50 fine.

LATER.—Judge Daniels, of the Supreme Court, has granted a stay of proceedings in the case of Alderman Jaehne. Alderman Jaehne stood with flushed countenance during the delivery of his sentence, and at the close sat down surrounded by his counsel, the deputies having him in charge and a few friends. He was then escorted from the court.

Four Sets of Twins.

MATTOON, ILL., May 20.—At Neoga, in Cumberland County, a remarkable family has just arrived from Canada. The family includes a husband and wife and nine children. The remarkable part of the family is that among the children there are four sets of twins. The father, Solathiel Burke, is aged thirty-seven. He has been married thirteen years to his rosy-cheeked wife, who is a pleasant-looking, robust woman of thirty-six. The eldest twins are boys eleven years of age, Charles and Ransom. Next come two girls of nine years each, Clarinda and Sophronia. Following them are twin boys, aged seven Richard and Edward. After them, in quick succession, are two bright-eyed girls, aged five, Elmie and Abbie. The ninth child is a lovely baby girl, not quite a year old. All are sturdy children, especially the four boys. They have moved to Neoga to make their home with the wife's father who owns a large farm in the vicinity.

Mormons Proselyting in Pennsylvania.

PITTSBURGH, PA., May 20.—Seven Mormon missionaries from Utah have been holding services in a school-house near Fayette City, Pa., and have baptized several converts. The people became indignant, and overflowed the meeting. At its conclusion Justice Claybaugh denounced them as impostors, having first challenged them to drink a solution of arsenic, which they said they could do without harm, and which they declined to do. The meeting broke up with a great tumult, during which clubs, stones and other missiles were used on the missionaries. They fled for their lives, but were so closely pursued by the mob that they implored the protection of the justice, who succeeded in calming the turmoil and conducting them in safety to their stopping places.

Pursuing the Indians.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—A telegram was received at the War Department this morning from General Miles, dated at Fort Huachuca, May 18, stating that Lieutenant Brown, I Troop, Fourth Cavalry, struck the Indians Sunday evening, the 16th inst., and captured property—seven Winchester rifles, ammunition, saddles and a few horses. The Indians then turned westward again. They are being followed by Lawton's and Hatfield's commands. They were near Santa Barbara and Buena Vista yesterday (Monday).

The Eruption of Mount Etna Increasing.

CATANIA, SICILY, May 20.—The eruption of Mount Etna is increasing in proportions and there is serious danger to the town of Monte-Rosso from the flow of lava. Measures are being taken for the rescue of the inhabitants. Vast columns of flame are issuing from the crater of the volcano and present a most imposing spectacle. Torrents of lava are issuing from eleven craters. A stream in some places of 200 meters broad is flowing toward the town of Nicolosi.

Got His Money Back.

HURON, DAK., May 20.—Archie Reid, of Desmet, on Sunday bought a revolver, went home and shot himself in the left breast, the ball passing through his lung. He then went back to the store and said he did not want the revolver, got his money back, after which he walked to his room and went to bed, where his friends finally learned of his condition. He may recover. His father is a minister living at Fulton, Wis.

Yale's New President.

NEW HAVEN, CT., May 20.—Prof. Theodore Dwight was to-day elected President of Yale College.

Poisons His Child and Himself.

GREENFIELD, MASS., May 20.—Last evening Eugene Taylor, a young farmer, sprinkled strychnine on some candy which he gave to his two-and-a-half-year-old son and then swallowed some of the poison himself. The child died in great agony, but the father recovered and afterward attempted to cut his throat with a pocket knife. He had lost money in speculation.

Crime Expiated on the Gallows.

RONDOUT, N. Y. May 20.—Louis Willett, alias Charles Crosby, was hanged in the jail at Kingston at 9:15 o'clock this morning for the murder of Edwin Kelland on January 7, 1884. Willett died easily.

Edison's Machinists Strike.

NEW YORK, May 20.—The 350 machinists at the Edison Electric Works in Goerck street quit work Monday upon being refused various demands for less work, shorter hours and more pay. No work has been done at the shops thus far this week. The company claim that the men are the best paid in their line of business in the city.

Pension Bill.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Senator Blair introduced a bill to restore to officers of the army and their widows and minor children the rate of pension they received prior to July 26, 1868, at which date certain classes of pensions were reduced.

KEELY'S MOTOR GOES.

The Inventor Stores the Force in Slight Sounds and Makes it Work.

The Engine is put Together and set in Operation Before a Score of Scientists and Others.

PHILADELPHIA, May 24.—A successful test of the Keely motor was made Saturday by John W. Keely, the inventor, in the presence of a score of scientists, capitalists and others who were entirely unconnected with the Keely Company. The machine with which is generated the power of enormous energy, which he controls, lay dissected on a pedestal, and the bed of a lathe on which had been erected a "No. 8" lever. Mr. Keely announced that he had taken apart the "liberator," as he denominated his machine, in order that those present might see him build it up, unconnected with any other machinery except that for which it would be the motive power. When he had finished it was a machine circular in form, standing two feet high, weighing about seventy-five pounds, of which the striking parts seemed to be a circular, metallic, resonant disc, hanging suspended over a circular bed, around whose edge and connected therewith were large-sized tuning forks. Surmounting it all was a sphere, which was announced to hold a gill, whose outlet was controlled by a screw valve. Mr. Keely dipped into his secret so far as to say that the power which he was to invoke was an interatomic etheric force, which permeated the atmosphere. This he proposed to liberate and store up in "resonating" tubes by means of the vibrations caused by striking the disc with a hammer, tipped with rubber, and drawing a bow across the tuning forks. The intricacies of the mechanism, and the "how" of the liberation, Mr. Keely kept to himself, with the promise to make them known to the world when he shall have taken out his patent. The sphere on the top of the liberator was connected with a steel resonating tube, by means of a drawn copper tube, with an aperture of one-eighth of an inch. The resonating tube was about 18 inches long and 12 in circumference, with a three-inch bore, and a capacity of two pints. The violin bow was drawn across the tuning forks, the disc was hammered, and the valve at the end of the resonating tube was opened. A puff of white vapor, accompanied by a hissing sound, announced that the inventor had "made connections." The resonating tube was then connected by another eight-inch copper tube with a cylinder containing oil, which was connected with another cylinder in which moved a piston with one-half square inch of surface. The oil was intended to prevent the crystallization of the steel in the piston, which would follow the sudden imparting of the "force" upon it. The pressure was transmitted through the oil. The platen was connected with an arm at a point so near the fulcrum as to represent a leverage of 15 to 1. It was announced that it required a pressure of 1,600 pounds to the square inch to raise the naked lever. Connections was made, and the lever flew up. Weights of 112, 56 and 28 pounds were placed at the end. These were raised with equal ease. A brief mathematical calculation will show that this represented a pressure of 7,480 pounds to the square inch. These weights were removed, and in their stead a solid iron ball weighing 550 pounds was raised by pulleys into place on the lever. The bolt and iron loop by which it was held in place represented 5 pounds additional. In 30 seconds, including all manipulations of the liberator, the power to raise this was generated. The expert mathematician will show that this meant a pressure of 18,250 pounds to the square inch.

THE FISHERIES TROUBLES.

A British Schooner Seized at Portland on the Same Ground as the Doughty.

PORTLAND, ME., May 24.—There is great excitement here. This morning the British schooner Sisters, from Yarmouth, N. S., with a cargo of 20,000 mackerel, was seized by the collector of customs. The captain of the schooner did not have a manifest and the usual fine of $500 was imposed on him, and as he could not pay it his vessel and cargo were seized. Secretary Bayard and the Maine Congressmen have been informed of the seizure. O. B. Whittre, secretary of the Portland Fishing Exchange, said: "Coming at this time, the seizure of the Sisters will do good. She comes here from a port so near Digby the fellows up there will hear of it. The matter having been referred to Secretary Bayard he will be obliged to take notice of it." Captain Ellis this afternoon placed his case in the hands of Vice-Consul Starr, Her Majesty's representative here. He says if the troubles at Digby had not occurred he would not have been molested.

A COAL OIL CREMATION.

Three Children Roasted to Death in Their Home.

MT. PLEASANT, PA., May 24.—Intelligence has just been received here of a heart-rending accident which happened yesterday morning to three children of Michael Feehan, a miner, who resides at Moyer's works, south of this place. The youngest child was taken to a neighbor's house early in the morning, where it was to be christened. During the parents' absence the three other children who had been left at home got hold of the oil can and poured its contents into the grate. The fire communicated to the contents of the can, which exploded and enveloped the children in flames, burning their clothes from their bodies and literally roasting two of them alive. The third was also so terribly burned that it will die. When assistance arrived it was too late to save the children.

Sensation in the Trunk Murder Case.

ST. LOUIS, May 24.—A detective who was confined in the St. Louis jail claims to have obtained a confession from Maxwell. The latter wanted Preller to go with him to Australia. Preller said he had only enough money to see himself through, and for his meanness Maxwell concluded to kill him. Preller came to Maxwell's room and complained of pains, which Maxwell agreed to relieve with hypodermic injections. These put Preller to sleep, and then Maxwell employed chloroform to kill his victim. The statement of the detective produced a profound sensation.

Condolence With Minister Pendleton.

BERLIN, May 24.—All the American Ministers in Europe and most of the other foreign representatives have tendered condolence to Minister Pendleton. The Empress Augusta telegraphed expressions of sympathy from her summer retreat at Baden.

—Philadelphia's marble pile, the city hall, is still unfinished. Between $11,000,000 and $12,000,000 have been expended upon it since the laying of the corner stone in 1872. It is the largest building, finished or in course of completion, in the United States, and is estimated to cover 2,800 more square feet than the capitol at Washington. The tower on the north side will be surmounted by a statue of Penn, and its extreme height when completed will be 535 feet. It has now reached a height of 270 feet.—Philadelphia Press.

—Porpoise-catching is developing as an industry in North Carolina. Steamers have been purchased and everything made ready for a large haul this summer. The oil is extracted from them and the meat is used as a fertilizer. The fins are made into gelatine and the hide is turned into an excellent leather.

—Some enterprising lover of excitement recently climbed to the apex of the Exeter (Mass.) town hall, a distance of one hundred feet, and painted the statue of Justice there situated a beautiful red. He left the paint pail on one of the scales.—Boston Post.

THE ELEMENTS.

A Wind and Rain Storm, in Which Trees are Twisted Up by the Roots, Roofs Carried Away and Horses and Cattle Killed.

DANVILLE, IND., May 23.—A terrific rain and wind storm passed over this place at half-past one o'clock this afternoon, and the damage done here was much greater than by any storm ever known here or in this county. This town, however, suffered but little, and seemed to be on the southern edge of the storm's track. The clouds, as they passed, seemed to be one immense wheel, which kept continually rolling and made a noise that resembled that of a heavily-loaded railroad train. North about four miles the timber is blown down in every direction, as though the trees were but weeds. Reports come in that many horses and cattle are killed by the falling timber. Along the track of the storm the hail did more damage than the wind. Mr. Isaac Christie, of this place, was visiting three miles north of town, and says that after the storm not a single window-light was left in the house, being torn out by the hail, and that hail-stones were from one inch to two inches in diameter and lay six inches deep on the ground. The fate of that house is the fate of all houses in the track. The greater loss perhaps is the wheat crop, which is now in full head, owing to the early season, and wherever the hail struck it is wholly ruined. The Western Union Telegraph wires between here and Indianapolis have refused to work this afternoon, on account of trees across the lines. Two miles east accounts have it the towns of Brownsburg and Lizton, in the north part of this county, have suffered heavily, but nothing definite can be learned. So far as known no lives have been lost. Many citizens of this place took to their cellars, in order to be at home if the houses should be called away. The storm was heading in the direction of Indianapolis. Several houses have been reported blown down in the country northeast, but the damage not great.

ROCKVILLE, IND., May 23.—Shortly after one o'clock this afternoon a terrible wind and hail-storm struck this town. It came from the southwest and was traveling fast. Two business rooms on the East Side containing Howell's grocery store and Stevenson & Sons' dry good, and Mrs. Johnson's dress-making shop, were unroofed and fragments of the second stories carried a distance of a hundred feet. The damage to the buildings will be over $1,000, and the stocks contained in them are slightly injured. The hail was as large as marbles, and cut off small fruits and totally destroyed garden vegetation. In many places corn and wheat are greatly damaged.

ANTI-ANARCHISTS.

They Hold a Meeting and Denounce Herr Most

NEW YORK, May 23.—This afternoon an anti-Anarchist association of Bohemians, five hundred strong, met in National Hall, Fifth street. Speeches denouncing Herr Most and his followers and the recent Anarchist movement in this city, Chicago and other places were made. During the progress of the meeting a number of Most's followers entered the hall and tried to break up the meeting. A strong body of police came to the rescue and ejected the disturbers. After a number of speeches had been made resolutions were adopted denouncing the Chicago Anarchists and declaring it to be the determination of the association to obey and defend the laws that protect them, and pledging themselves to do all in their power to rout out Most and his followers and all Anarchists that may show themseves in this vicinity. At the close of the meeting it was learned that Most and a number of his followers were in a saloon close by drinking beer. The police raided the saloon, drove Most and his gang out, and arrested the proprietor of the place for violating the excise law.

Fighting on the Greek Frontier.

LONDON, May 23.—Advices received here say that severe engagements are taking place on the Greek frontier between Turkish and Greek troops. The fighting is intermittent and extends along the frontier for a distance of fifteen miles. The heaviest fighting is at Turnova. Many have been wounded on both sides. Prime Minister Tricoupis has telegraphed to the General in command of the Greek forces, instructing him to endeavor to arrange an armistice. The latter has evidently been unable to comply with his instructions, owing, probably, to the difficulty of securing an interview with Eyoub Pasha, the Turkish commander. The Greek Cabinet is in session at Athens, and great excitement prevails in the capital.

LONDON, May 24.—A dispatch from Athens, Greece, says a truce was affected at noon to-day, and there has been no fighting since that time. The casualties are heavy on both sides. An interview between the Turkish and Greek commanders has been arranged for 5 o'clock Monday morning, when an endeavor will be made to arrange an armistice.

An Anti-Monopolist Boycotted.

TIFFIN, O., May 22.—A few days ago the proprietor of Harmonia Hall announced by a placard that he had reduced the price of lager beer to three cents per glass. This caused action on the part of the other dispensers of the beverage in the city, and a real live boycott was laid on his place of business. He soon found himself unable to purchase bread, beer, ice, or any of the necessities to his business, and this morning a new placard appeared, stating that he had caved, and now wouldn't even sell a "pony" for less than a nickel.

Preparing for War.

ERIE, PA., May 23.—At 10:30 to-night trains came in from Buffalo and vicinity with over one hundred Polecks and others, and a like number of men are expected at any time on the Erie and Pittsburg. Over four hundred men are lying out in the open air or in box cars, waiting a signal for action. Pennsylvania authorities have sought the protection of the authorities, but they decline to interfere until some overt act is committed or until the courts take hold of the matter.

St. Louis Anarchists Arrested.

ST. LOUIS, May 23.—The four anarchists for whom warrants were issued yesterday, were arrested to-day and put in jail on the charge of having introduced and urged the adoption of, at an unlawful assemblage, resolutions indorsing the actions of the anarchists during the Haymarket riot in Chicago.

Great Oil Well.

WASHINGTON, PA., May 23.—The Cameron oil well was drilled in to-day and started off at the rate of 165 barrels an hour. The flow increased during the afternoon to 193 barrels an hour, or five thousand barrels a day. This is one of the largest wells on record.

Disastrous Runaway.

LOUISVILLE, KY., May 23.—This afternoon the horses attached to the vehicle containing Fred Weise and his three daughters became frightened and ran away, and all were thrown violently out. Weise, who is a carpenter, was instantly killed, his head striking a stone. Katie, his daughter, had three ribs broken. The others escaped with painful bruises.

A Farmer Shot Dead by Tramps.

CAIRO, ILL., May 23.—J. K. Waiton, one of the wealthiest men of Union County, was found dead in his barn at Anna, Ill., this morning, shot through the head. It is supposed to have been the work of tramps.

Talk of Lynching.

LOUISVILLE, KY., May 23.—Moses Dawson, a drunken colored "tough," refused to pay his fare on the Owensboro & Nashville road to-night and was ejected near Russellville, Ky. As the train moved off Dawson jumped on the platform and began firing his revolver through the crowded coach. Seven shots were fired, and A. G. Clinton, a farmer, received three of them, being fatally wounded. Dawson was captured and taken to jail. There is much indignation and some talk of lynching.

General Durbin Ward Dead.

LEBANON, O., May 23.—General Durbin Ward died at his home shortly before 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The remains will be interred at the Lebanon Cemetery Wednesday afternoon.

XLIXTH CONGRESS.

First Session.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—SENATE.—The Senate worked on the calendar until 2 o'clock, when Senator Coke spoke at length on the labor arbitration bill. The pension bill was the regular order.

HOUSE.—The House devoted the day to the ocean subsidy clause of the post-office bill.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—SENATE.—The Senate during the morning hour, discussed the bill for the B. & O. bridge from the Jersey shore to Staten Island. No conclusion was reached, Mr. McPherson, of New Jersey, consuming the time in opposing the bill. The Pension bill was taken up as the regular order, and passed. It pensions everybody who depends upon his own exertions for support, who honorably served three months, and is or becomes disabled so as to interfere with his labors for support. The minimum pension under the bill is to be four dollars per month.

HOUSE.—The House occupied the day in further discussion of the $800,000 ocean subsidy.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—SENATE.—Bills passed: Authorizing the Cheyenne and Northern Railway Company to build its road across the Fort Russell and Fort Laramie military reservation; detaching the counties of Howard, Little River and Sevier from the Western and adding them to the Eastern Judicial District of Arkansas, the change not to affect suits already entered; a similar bill detaching the county of Attila from the Western and attaching it to the Eastern division of the Northern Judicial District of Mississippi. The Staten Island Bridge bill was taken up and discussed. At 2 o'clock the bankruptcy bill was placed before the Senate and temporarily laid aside to permit the continued consideration of the bridge bill. After further debate, and the voting down of some amendments, the bill was voted down by a viva voce vote as reported from committee, with the sole addition of Mr. Vest's amendment. The bankruptcy bill was then laid before the Senate and the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—Mr. Breckenridge (Ark.) from the Committee on Ways and Means, called up a bill providing that, for a period of five years, no mackerel other than that known as Spanish mackerel, caught between March 1 and June 1, shall be imported or landed in the United States. The consideration of the bill was postponed until to-morrow, and the House went into committee of the whole (Mr. Hammond, of Georgia, in the chair) on the Senate amendments to the post-office appropriation bill. The amendment setting apart $40,000 of the appropriation for the free delivery service, for the establishment of the free delivery system in cities where it is not now established, was concurred in. The amendment was rejected which authorized the Postmaster General to contract for inland and foreign steamboat service when it can be combined in one route. Also the amendment increasing by $80,000 the appropriation for railway post-office car service. The amendment was concurred in increasing from $251,725 to $291,000 the appropriation for necessary and special facilities on trunk lines. The foreign mail service amendment having been reached, Mr. Blount (Ga.) moved a non-concurrence in it. Several amendments were offered and rejected. The Senate amendment was non-concurred in without division, and the committee rose and reported its action to the House. The House confirmed the action of the committee on the foreign mail service amendment by the vote of yeas 178, nays 80. The bill amendments will now be sent to the Senate, and then go to a conference committee.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—SENATE—The bill providing for closing the business of the Court of Alabama Claims was taken up. The reports of the majority and minority of the committees were read. The majority report maintains that the difference in value between coin and the currency at the time of the Geneva award, and afterward, at the sale of the Geneva award bonds, was and is the property of the U. S. Treasury, and should not form any part of the sum out of which the judgments of the court should be paid. The minority report contends, on the contrary, that the United States occupied the position of a trustee for the claimants, and could not sell the bonds named and credit itself with the difference between the gold and currency values. The bill was passed as it came from the House. The urgent deficiency bill was passed without debate; also a bill providing for the forfeiture of wagon-road land grants in Oregon. House bill establishing life-saving stations at the following places was passed: One at Plumb Island, Lake Michigan; one at South Manitou island, Lake Michigan; one at South Chicago, Ills.; one at Bois Blanc Island, Straits of Mackinaw; one at Duluth, Lake Superior; one at Point Adams, Oregon; one between Point Reyes and Point Diablo, Cal.; one between Point San Jose and Point Lobos, Cal.; and one on Lake Ontario, N. Y., at or near the mouth of the Niagara river. Adjourned until Monday.

HOUSE.—The bill prohibiting the importation of mackerel during the spawning season was passed. The consideration of private business was then proceeded with, and several bills reported to-day, and on previous Fridays, from the committee of the whole, were passed. Among the bills passed was one removing the charge of desertion from the record of Franklin Thompson, alias S. E. E. Seelye. [This is the case of a woman who for two years served in a Michigan regiment as a soldier without disclosing her identity.] The House then took a recess until 7:30 this evening, session to be for the consideration of pension bills. The House, at its evening session, passed thirty pension bills, and at 10 p. m. adjourned until to-morrow.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—SENATE.—No session.

HOUSE.—The Senate bill was passed extending the time for two years within which the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad Company may complete its line through the Indian Territory. The Senate Inter-State commerce bill was reported back with the House bill as a substitute and referred to the committee of the whole. After passing a few private bills the free ship bill was taken up and discussed for the rest of the day.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—SENATE.—The private calendar was taken up and a number of bills passed. Mr. Gibson (La.) spoke at length in favor of open executive sessions. The District appropriation bill was passed and the bankrupt bill taken up for debate.

HOUSE.—In the House a recommendation from the Shipping Committee was agreed to, non-concurring in the Frey retaliatory amendment to the shipping bill. Conferees were appointed on the part of the House on the Post-office appropriation bill. A bill to increase the pension of the widow of Commodore Craven was passed. Under the call of States a number of bills were introduced and referred. A bill was reported appropriating $25,000 for the erection of a monument to General Anthony Wayne at Stony Point. Also a joint resolution proposing a constitutional amendment on the subject of polygamy. After a struggle for priority, the bill taxing oleomargarine was taken up for consideration and debated during the rest of the day.

Foreign Notes.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S birthday was observed with the usual ceremonies in spite of the miserable weather which prevailed all day, on the 24th. The Prince and Princess of Wales visited the Queen, at Windsor, and tendered their congratulations.

THE French Government has notified the Vatican that France is willing to provide incomes for new French Cardinals. Accordingly the Pope will create three French Cardinals, postponing the intended creation of three Nuncios. Seven hats will be given at the next consistory. The creation of Father Masseila, who is a Jesuit, is much commented on.

—A report on the newspapers of the world has recently been laid before the Imperial German Diet. It would appear that there exist 34,000 newspapers, the total issues of which during the year amount to 592,000,000. Of these 19,000 papers appear in Europe, 12,000 in North America, 775 in Asia, and 609 in South America. Sixteen thousand five hundred are in the English language, 7,800 in German, 3,850 in French, and about 100 in Spanish.

—An abandoned oil well at McKeesport, Md., has been found to contain mineral water of a very valuable character. Several persons long afflicted with rheumatism are alleged to have been cured living in its waters, and the citizens are turning their residence into boarding-houses in anticipation of the arrival of a large number of afflicted visitors.—Philadelphia Record.

—The editor of this paper is under personal obligations, and holds in high esteem the kindness shown by the press of this State, in the favorable mention made of his candidacy for Congress-at-large. If not here, brethren of the quill, you will be rewarded up yonder.—Monongahela City (Pa.) Republican.

THE COMMONWEALTH.

Louisville Leaf Tobacco Market.

We quote 1885 tobaccos as follows for full weights and sound packages:

	Dark and Heavy.	Burley.
Trash	$1 75@ 2 25	$1 75@ 3 25
Common lugs	2 00@ 3 50	3 75@ 4 50
Medium lugs	3 75@ 4 75	5 25@ 5 75
Good lugs	5 25@ 5 75	6 25@ 7 00
Common leaf	5 50@ 6 00	6 00@ 7 25
Medium leaf	6 50@ 7 25	8 75@10 00
Good leaf	7 75@ 8 50	10 00@13 00
Selections	9 00@10 50	13 50@15 50
Wrappers	12 00@18 25	16 00@22 00

Proceedings of the Legislature.

FRANKFORT, May 15.—SENATE.—Bills passed: House bill providing for inspector and weigher of coal at coal mines; bill repealing an act providing for extra compensation of circuit clerks in this State: House bill regulating the admission of evidence in writing by comparison. The Governor sent in the following appointments which were approved: For commissioners of Lexington Asylum, Dr. J. H. Patterson, Z. Gibbons, Rodger D. Williams; for assistant physician, Dr. Alvin Duvall, of Frankfort. The Senate again refused to take up the House resolution to extend the session one week.

HOUSE.—The report of the Joint Conference Committee on the revenue bill was adopted and the bill only awaits the signature of the Governor to become a law. The penitentiary bill was then taken up and discussed till the hour of adjournment for dinner. Several local bills were passed.

FRANKFORT, May 17.—SENATE.—The appropriation bill was reported. Mr. Bryan objected to the third reading of the bill, and threw it into the orders of the day. He did this in order to secure an extension of the session for two or three days. After a contest of nearly two hours, the friends of extension secured a suspension of the rules in order to consider the resolution to prolong the session. An amendment to adjourn on Thursday was defeated by a vote of 23 to 5. Another to adjourn to-morrow evening at 3 o'clock, offered by Mr. Clay, was adopted by a vote of 20 to 13. The resolution was then adopted by a vote of 21 to 11. The resolution was at once carried into the House for concurrence, and there it met with bitter opposition, but was finally concurred in. Before the House had concurred in the resolution the Senate had passed the Appropriation Bill, and adjourned to meet again this afternoon.

HOUSE.—A bill was passed to amend the insurance law as so to provide that any person appointed by an insurance company to solicit insurance shall be held to the agent of the company and not of the person interested. The lost bill to place the clerk of the Jefferson County circuit court on an equality with the clerks in other counties has been found, and was called up this morning. It was passed. It reduces John Cain's fees to $750 per year. The Senate bill to permit the Kentucky Manufacturing Institute for the blind to sell its property and purchase property in other places were passed. A bill authorizing the State to sell its turnpike stock and invest the proceeds was sent into the orders of the day. A bill to except opticians from the law taxing sellers of spectacles was treated likewise.

FRANKFORT, KY., May 18.—The Kentucky Legislature closed its labors this afternoon at six o'clock and nearly all of its members are on their way home. The Senate, after two hours of filibustering, passed the House penitentiary bill, and it was signed by the Governor before the session closed. This bill, it is claimed, will, in a great degree, relieve the present trouble in the penitentiary matter, but opponents of the bill say it is virtually giving the present lessees—Mason, Foard & Co—a ten years' lease. The usual resolution of thanks were passed, and parting speeches of much feeling were made by Messrs. Mulligan, Read, Worthington, Thorne, and Speaker Offutt's farewell address moved nearly every one to tears. The General Appropriation bill was passed in the Senate and by the House with some amendments. The following salaries were allowed the officers: Clerks, assistant clerks and second assistant clerks, per day, $10; sergeant-at-arms and doorkeepers, per day, $6; pages, per day, $3; cloak-room keepers, per day $3; enrolling clerks, per day, $8; for carpenter, $3; for assistant Librarian, $3; Guy Barret, for two daily papers to each member and officer during the session, $1,654. Several other small amounts were appropriated for various purposes. The Revenue bill has been signed by the Governor, and is now a law.

Miscellaneous Items.

THE name of the post-office at Minks, Lincoln County, has been changed to Moreland.

J. T. BREEN & SON, druggists, of Mt. Sterling, have assigned.

AT Nicholasville, George, a little son of John Burnsides, councilman, in company with another boy, was accidentally shot while fooling with a pistol. The ball entered the lip, and ranged down through the chin into the shoulder and thence into his left side. It is a bad looking wound, but may not prove fatal.

IN the case of John B. Davis, of Harrodsburg, against the New Jersey Mutual Benefit Association, the Circuit Court jury at Louisville decided in favor of the plaintiff. Davis was insane, and was found dead in his stable. It was regarded as a suicide, as his discharged pistol was found at his side. The jury held that Davis was insane, and could not know that the shot would be fatal, and, therefore, was accidental, and instead of allowing only the premium he had paid to the insurance company, gave a verdict for the full amount of his insurance, $10,000, with interest. The decision has a precedent in a decision made by Judge Davis in Chicago a few days ago. Comptroller Durham represented the defense.

AT Nicholasville Moses Brumfield's damage suit for $2,500 against John W. Overstreet, Jessamine Journal correspondent, was disallowed by jury. Overstreet called Brumfield a "hoodlum."

THE decision of Judge Simrall, late of the Louisville law and equity court, in the important case of the City of Newport vs. the Deuber Light Company, has been affirmed by the court of appeals. The City of Newport entered into a contract with the Newport Light Company giving it the exclusive right to the use of the streets of the city for the purpose of putting down gas pipes. The Deuber Light Company, under a subsequent contract with the city, began to lay their pipes in the streets. An injunction was asked and obtained by the Newport Light Company, and the court of appeals, by Judge Pryor, affirmed the judgment of the lower court, which holds the contract of the city with the Newport Light Company valid.

THE drivers at the Covington stock yards made a demand for an increase of half a dollar per trip between the yards in that city and the Cincinnati stock yards, a few days ago. The company refused to grant this, and the men have stopped work. There are about fourteen of them. They have been getting $1.50 per trip heretofore. The stock-yards company insists that that is fair payment, and is not inclined to yield to the men. On the 22nd it was thought some compromise would be patched up in a day or so.

DAN'L L. SAFFARRONS, of Lexington, has been appointed an internal revenue gauger in the Seventh Kentucky District, and Robt. W. Lewis, of Louisville, a storekeeper in the Fifth District.

THE other evening in Edmonton, near the court-house door, William Slinker shot and severely wounded Bill Clymer. It appears that William's kindly remembrance of Bill emanated from an occurrence of a similar nature between those two worthies several months ago, during which Clymer shot Slinker, destroying his left eye and otherwise damaging him.

GEO. T. MOSELY, of Eminence, has been appointed a gauger of Internal Revenue for the Fifth District of Kentucky.

JAMES MORRISON, an old citizen of Scott County, was killed on the Elkhorn bridge, one mile north of Georgetown by the lightning express on the Cincinnati Southern railroad. He was knocked some thirty feet down an embankment.

THE revenue bill increasing the State tax on all who are engaged in selling liquors, fifty dollars will go into effect on the 14th of September.

IMMENSE damage to crops in the vicinity of Edmonton is being suffered from the cut-worm. Many farmers have and are replanting their entire crops.

THE NEW SITUATION.

The People Are Not Calling for Republican Rule to Any Alarming Extent.

A Republican organ at the West complacently observes, in view of the apparent failure of the Democratic House to accomplish what was hoped from it, that "it has served at least to show, by practical contrast, how much Republican rule was worth to the country, and to satisfy doubtful voters that the great duty of the times is to restore the old situation as soon as possible."

What was this "old situation?" It is well to recall it before accepting the assumption that it was something which it would be desirable to restore. The old situation must have been bad, or the people would not have decided to change it. It was bad. Without injustice, it may be said that every unsettled question which now troubles the Democracy, and every evil in the Government which they are striving to cure, is a legacy of Republican neglect or misrule. To restore the "old situation" is to restore a civil service thoroughly and intensely partisan throughout, and to permit its use as an adjunct of a party machine. One year of Democratic rule has brought a great improvement in this respect. The public service is being departisanized, and there is no complaint of the neglect of their duties by officials to engage in partisan work, nor of the interference of the people's servants in the management of elections. The new situation is vastly better than the old one in this respect.

Of the labor troubles the same thing is true. It was under Republican rule and Republican laws that cheap contract labor was introduced to this country, that over-production was stimulated by the bounties of protection, and that the wages of miners were forced down to eighty cents a day. It was the "old situation" that saw the panic of 1873 and the depression of 1881, and that ended with a million unemployed laborers in the United States. The rise of the many millions and the combination of gigantic corporations were both incidents of this former regime. In 1860 the men in this country who were worth $5,000,000 could be counted on the fingers of two hands. In 1884 fortunes of $20,000,000 and $50,000,000 were not surprising, and men, "rich beyond the dreams of avarice," were piling still higher their superfluous wealth. The rich have grown richer and the poor poorer, in spite of the better condition of some classes of working-men and the larger earnings of salaried persons. Tramps, strikes and labor riots are developments of the Republican era. The Credit Mobilier, the grand larcenous land grabs, the star route frauds, the decay of the navy, and the department thieveries were all incidents of the "old situation."

Coming down to matters of current interest, did not a recent Republican Congress fail to pass a national bankruptcy law, as well as bills for the relief of the Supreme Court, the regulation of the presidential count and presidential succession? Did not the last Congress of that complexion enact a river and harbor grab of $18,000,000 over the President's veto? Did not it and its successors run the pension up to a sum in excess of the entire expenses of the Government in the year before the war? The Republican party "as it was" did many great and beneficent acts. But the Republican party as it is offers no inducements to the people to "restore the old situation."—Boston Sunday Herald.

BLAINE STILL "BOSS."

The Pine Tree State Politician Has His Grip Yet on the Party—His Party, However, Not the Country.

According to our Washington dispatches, some significance is attached to the organization of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee on what is regarded as a Blaine basis. The selections of Congressman Goff as chairman and Edward McPherson as secretary are looked upon as directly in the interest of the late candidate for the Presidency. It is asserted that the efforts they are to make toward restoring Republican control in the House at the fall elections are to be coupled with a concerted movement to keep alive the Blaine sentiment throughout the country. Of course, the avowed object of the latter movement is the renomination of the Maine leader as the Republican Presidential candidate two years hence. The gossip on the subject is an interesting contribution to current political discussion. To similar outgivings from other quarters it makes a timely and suggestive addition. Moreover, it bears the unmistakable stamp of truth and indicates correctly the present condition and tendencies of the Republican organization in the Nation.

Whatever may be thought of Mr. Blaine either by critics or adherents, his strength with his party can neither be ignored nor denied. As the matter stands to-day he is, even in nominal retirement, the most conspicuous Republican in the country. Out of office his movements are more closely watched by the politicians of both parties than any representative of the minority who occupies official station. Defeat has not deprived him of the adhesion of a large body of followers in every State of the Union. The numerous body of partisans of his train do not necessarily represent the original Republicanism of the United States. Of that element much of the best has already passed over to the Democracy. A section not so large but still influential is irrevocably arrayed in antagonism to the Presidential aspirations of Mr. Blaine. Nevertheless, what remains of the old party stands firmly committed to his fortunes and looks upon him as its most capable and influential chieftain. Nor are the manifestations of sympathy and support confined to his original followers. They are as visible among the extremists of the old Stalwart school as they are in the circle formerly characterized as the Half-Breeds. Reverses at the polls may have impaired his standing with the multitudes of voters; his relations to machine men have been strengthened and solidified by his overthrow. His position in his party is such that it must inevitably, unless a complete change occurs, exert a potent and far reaching influence on the Republican campaign for 1888. * * *

Undoubtedly, Mr. Blaine and his adherents are giving careful attention to the possibilities of 1888. Undoubtedly, they mean to set him again in the field, if a reasonable prospect of success is presented. Can he be elected? Is the only question that disturbs or restrains them. It is the chief consideration which will govern their future operations. No intelligent person believes for a moment that Mr. Blaine himself would hesitate to make the effort, if he believed the prize within his grasp. If he conceives the consummation of the ambition of his life to be in the range of the possibilities, he will accept the nomination, if tendered. If to his practiced eye Republican triumph appears out of the question, as now seems probable, he will resolutely decline to serve as the standard bearer of an army doomed in advance to irretrievable defeat. Mr. Blaine has always been regarded as a sharp and shrewd politician. With all his sharpness and shrewdness, however, he learned some valuable lessons in the last campaign, and one of these was that a Presidential candidacy, unless a reasonable chance of success is involved, is not a thing to be coveted or willingly accepted.

Meanwhile, the opponents and supporters of Mr. Blaine are not inclined to permit him to rest, even though he were desirous of withdrawing altogether from political association. Discussions of his availability or unavailability go forward with increasing earnestness and frequency. The Independent Republicans who antagonized him in 1884 announce their readiness to repeat the operation in 1888, should he again enter the lists. The Blaine Republicans insist that he would be stronger two years hence than any nominee who could be submitted; that the fire of accusation has been withdrawn, and that he can concentrate the party forces and attract outside recruits to an extent that no other Republican could hope for. That these considerations are to be debated for many months to come is an accepted fact in politics. In the interval of discussion it is not probable that Mr. Blaine's hold on his party will be broken or loosened. His continued ascendency renders futile for the time being the aspirations of Logan, Hoar, John Sherman and their compatriots. It effectually shelves Edmunds and every other anti-Blaine Republican as a Presidential quantity. It will enable Mr. Blaine to nominate himself in the next Presidential struggle, if he desires the nomination. It will, in all human probability, empower him to dictate the nomination of his favorite candidate, if he does not desire it for himself. In fact, Mr. Blaine is obviously the boss of his party at this hour. But his party is not the country, and a nomination, as Mr. Blaine very well knows, is not invariably equivalent to an election.—Brooklyn Eagle.

AN OFFENSIVE PARTISAN.

How the Clerk of a New York Federal Court Undertook to Facilitate the Manufacture of Republican Voters.

The account given in another column of facts brought to light by an examination instituted by the Department of Justice into the affairs of the office of Mr. Samuel W. Lyman, clerk of the United States Court for the Southern district of New York, throws a strange light upon the relations of Federal officialism and Republican campaign management. Among several charges brought against Mr. Lyman, there is one which this very serviceable official can neither explain away nor excuse. His letters and statements are so explicit that they not only place his guilt beyond doubt, but they show in the clearest light the complicity of the Republican managers in the last campaign.

This interesting custodian of the records of a United States Court agreed with the Republican Executive Committee to furnish papers to all their foreign voters at something less than half the regular fees, and after the election rendered a bill to the committee for the whole lump. Not only is this collusive arrangement suggestive of voting urgency and various possibilities of haste and zeal, but it is clearly contrary to the express provisions of the revised statutes. But, in view of the continuance of the old regime, this probably seemed a small matter to the Republican managers and the Republican clerk of court. Mr. Lyman's case is now undergoing investigation in the Treasury Department. It may possibly be found that, in his zeal for his party, he has incurred the penalty of violated law; but in any case it would seem that his official head should be in immediate danger, if the phrase "offensive partisanship," with all that it implies, has not fallen into "innocuous desuetude."—Washington Post.

ON AN ISOLATED ISLAND.

Senator Fair's Scheme for the Removal of the Apaches to a Place Where They Will Be Well Off and Can Do No Harm.

Senator Fair, of Nevada, has written the following letter to the Secretary of the Interior, setting forth a plan for the settlement of the Apache question:

UNITED STATES SENATE, WASHINGTON, D. C., April 10.—L. Q. C. Lamar, Secretary of the Interior—DEAR SIR: I inclose the pamphlet of which I spoke to you yesterday. By examining the map you will see the exact position of the "Santa Catalina island." It is isolated and too far from the shore for any ordinary boat to reach it. My idea is that if the Apaches were put on this island they would require no guards, and all that would be needed would be a small steam tender and crew to run between the island and the port of Wilmington for the purposes of communication and supply. This would, in my opinion, set the Apache question at rest forever, would save the country many valuable lives and the Government millions of money. The title to the island is perfect. As near as I can remember the price asked by the owners is either three or four dollars an acre. Owing to the location of the island the climate is as mild and salubrious as can be found anywhere in the world. Should you look with favor upon my suggestion as to the value of this island for the purpose named I shall be glad at any time to go more into detail with you upon the subject. I am yours very truly,

JAMES G. FAIR.

Senator Fair when spoken to upon the subject said that he really believed the Indians would be pleased with Santa Catalina after they got there, although they might possibly fight against going. The island is situated in the Pacific Ocean, about twenty-five miles southwest of Los Angeles. The climate, he said, is delightful and the fishing excellent. Should this island be purchased and the Indians placed thereon it will forever put an end to the annual summer raids of these Indians upon the unprotected white settlers and their families; and the Government should take some steps in this direction looking to the protection of its citizens.—Washington dispatch.

—The President's message to Congress, recommending the creation of a national arbitration bureau, not only contains in itself good advice, but the action which it suggests is probably the limit of the power of Congress to interfere in or compose labor differences.—St. Paul Pioneer-Press.

—A marriage license was issued in Karns, Pa., the other day to Grover Cleveland. The recipient is a Polander, who lives in Shenandoah. His right name was too difficult for English-speaking people and he was rechristened and is now known altogether by his new name.

THE RECORDER.

WEDNESD'Y, MAY 26. 1886.

RIDDELL & HALL, Proprietors.

Rates of Subscription.

One year	$1 50
Six months	75
Three months	40

Payment invariably in advance.

ADVERTISING RATES.

1 Column	1 year	$80
1	1 ''	40
1	1 ''	20
[illegible]	1 ''	20
[illegible]	1 ''	10
[illegible]	1 ''	6

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

Augest Election 1886.

For Circuit Judge
WARREN MONFORT.
For Commonwealths Attorney
JOHN S. GAUNT.

For Circuit Clerk
W. L. RIDDELL.
For County Judge
E. H. BAKER.
For County Attorney
S. W. TOLIN.
For County Clerk
M. T. GARNETT.
For Sheriff
J. R. CLUTTERBUCK.
For County Superintendent
J. P. RYLE.
For Surveyor
W. E. VEST.
For Jailer
SAMUEL COWEN.
For Assessor
G. M. RILEY.
For Coroner
Dr. A. A. MURAT.

Subscribe for the Recorder.

The legislature has turned up its toes. Let's return thanks.

In three counties in this State last week 100,000 pounds of tobacco was destroyed by fire.

The Ohio legislature adjourned last week. Its session was noted for excitement throughout.

The Grant county Circuit Court commenced Monday. A large criminal docket is on hand.

The Cincinnati harnessmakers went on a strike Monday. Now, if that town's breeching should break, she would be in a critical condition.

There has been a great destruction of corn by the cut-worms this spring. A preparation that would destroy these pests would out sell a patent churn dash two to one.

The Commonwealth, no doubt, now thinks that Mr. Carlisle is about as apt to err as any other mortal man. This would not have been thus had the postoffice lightning struck its editor.

And now comes the Warsaw Independent with the belief that Mr. Carlisle is a very ungrateful politician. If too many come to that conclusion it will become monotonous to the Speaker.

Gen. Durbin Ward, of Ohio, is dead. He was a general in the Union army during the war, and for several years back he has been a very conspicuous political figure in the Democratic party in his State.

The Commonwealth charges Hon. John G. Carlisle with duplicity in regard to the appointment of the postmaster for Covington. Mr. Carlisle is furnished an ample field for an elaborate explanation, which the public awaits.

Last week the guards at the penitentiary in Frankfort discovered a plot among the prisoners to attempt an escape. The leaders were put under a close guard and the thing thoroughly squelched before anything serious resulted.

We beg leave to inform the immaculate editor of the Frankfort Capital that Boone is not a sassafras county, and, like the Daily Capital to members of the legislature, comes very high—too high, in fact, for a country editor to use a quart of it.

One of the employes in the Louisville postoffice, was arrested for theft the other day. Money he had been taking from a decoy letter was found on his person. There has been considerable complaint for some time about letters containing money getting lost in passing through that office.

Our young professors, Whitehead and Mack are trying to raise money by subscription to repair and furnish the Morgan Academy for use this fall, when they will open a first-class school in that institution. We see no reason why these young men should not succeed in their undertaking. There are plenty of scholars in a reasonable distance, and their parents are amply able to pay their tuition.

The candidacy of Gen. Buckner for governor is developing some opposition. It is hinted that he has nothing but his war record to depend on to carry him through, and at this late day it is thought that something more is required of a citizen who aspires to the position of Chief Magistrate of this grand old Commonwealth.

Judge Drane is a candidate for Judge of the Common Pleas Court in the district composed of Grant, Fayette, Franklin, Jessamine, Scott and Woodford counties, Grant having been recently put in that district. The primary election will be held on the 5th of next month. The Judge is entered against the bluegrass stock now.

Fred Douglas says: "My strongest conviction as to the future of the negro is that he will not be expatriated nor annihilated, nor will he remain forever a separate and distinct race from the people around him, but that he will be absorbed, assimilated and will appear finally, as the Phœnicians now appear on the shores of the Shannon, in the features of a blended race."

At a sale of Holstein-Friesian cattle, belonging to the estate of the late J. D. Guthrie, near Shelbyville, the Farmer's Home Journal says that 59 cows and heifers over a year old brought $9,726, averaging $164,77 Fourteen heifers under a year old, some of them very young calves, averaged $79 57. Eleven bulls over one year old averaged $102 73. Ten bull calves, some only a few weeks old, averaged $32 50. Aggregate 94 head sold, $12,274.

Jaehne, for bribery while an alderman of New York City, has been sentenced to hard labor in Sing Sing prison for nine years and ten months. From the time of the man's arrest it was insisted that nothing would be done with him. All of his companions in guilt believed that nothing would be done with him—that he would never be tried; but he has been tried, convicted and sentenced, and now uneasy rest the heads of the other aldermen who are indicted for the same offense.

The legislature after a 140 days session adjourned on the 18th inst. Notwithstanding all that has been said in regard to the ability of the body, no doubt it would compare favorably with any of its predecessors for many years. It had several intricate and important questions with which to grapple, and there is no question that it lacked confidence in its ability to cope with them, and the State is loser to the extent of its legislature's inefficiency. Kentucky is now at a point which demands the best talent for law makers, but securing it is another proposition altogether.

There is a good deal of alleged news which finds its way into print. A recent story of Democratic dissatisfaction with Speaker Carlisle is a specimen. The allegation is that the Speaker secured the appointment of an unsatisfactory postmaster at Covington. The truth seems to be that there arose such a bitter dispute between the rivals that the Speaker went outside of them and recommended another man. The old candidates are howling, and the newspapers say that there will be opposition to Mr. Carlisle's renomination. Well, there will not be. No man can stand up against Mr. Carlisle in the Covington district, and he is never nominated by a convention. Nominating conventions are rarely held in Kentucky. The Democrats just vote for Mr. Carlisle because they recognize that he is the best man in the district. He is not consulted about it, and he has never asked for the honor.—New York Star.

The stocks of tobacco held by 12 of the principal markets in this country May 1, were about 44,000 hogsheads in excess of the amount held by them at same date last year, which induces the Cincinnati Western Tobacco Journal to make the following very pertinent remarks: "Tobacco planters should take to heart, and be governed by these facts in planting the 1886 crop. It is evident that there should be a reduced acreage, and no planter should depend upon his neighbor for the reduction. Each and every one should do his share, and plant a less acreage than was put out last year. In this course only is there any hope of bringing tobacco culture back to anything like a paying basis. Less acreage means a better handled crop. In the past few years the average planter has attempted to cover too many nest eggs, and, like the hen who makes such a mistake, his efforts have not been fruitful of results. He had not the time or the labor to give to the hooing, worming, suckering and topping of his crop that is required to bring out a mature crop, and he had not the time when it was crowded into the barn to give to it that attention which is required for developing color and body, and for putting in good shape for marketing." This is all good advice, but it will be very difficult to get the tobacco growers to heed it. They don't stop to consider the results of an overproduction, but they put out all they can and abide the result.

STATE NEWS.

In Anderson county mad dogs are too numerous for safety to man and beast.

The Paris News nominates Gen. Buckner for Governor and State Senator James W. Bryan, of Covington, for Lieutenant Governor.

A recent statement showed that of 1,153 convicts in Kentucky 32 had a good education, 466 a common education, and 657 could neither read nor write.

We learn from the Crittenden Press that a number of farmers in that county, who contemplated going largely into tobacco planting this year, are hesitating whether to do so.

Scarlet fever is prevailing in this city to a large extent and it is the opinion of the physicians that our public schools is the breeding point of this malignant and very often fatal disease.—Newport State Journal.

People in Williamstown are getting very much alarmed about cyclones. Every time a black cloud appears in the sky the eyes of many are turned in that direction and grave fears are felt. It would be a good idea to dig cyclone pits and have everything in readiness for the reception of one.—Courier.

The Legislature passed a bill establishing a State Normal School for colored people, and in the bill it is provided that the school shall be located where the best offer of donation is made. Several of the colored citizens of Frankfort are trying to raise funds for this purpose. A similar attempt will be made at Lexington.

Campbellsville Times-Journal says There is a gentleman living in Columbia who received a check from an unknown party, last Saturday, signed by the president of a Louisville bank, for $200. The letter accompanying the check contained these words: "Please find enclosed check for $200 and forgive an erring friend."

The following from the Lebanon Times says: "The ravages of cut worms this season have surpassed all previous records. Farmers have been compelled to "furrow out" a great many fields of corn and plant them the second time, and gardens and meadows have suffered. The hot weather of last week somewhat discouraged the little pests, but the cool weather of the past few days gave them a new lease of life.

It is not true that the State has received nothing from banks. The receipts last year from the tax on banks were $102,247 94. Nor is it true that corporations, or "monopolies," as they are termed, pay nothing into the State treasury. Last year we received from railroads $127,574 39. If we had more banks and corporations we would have a larger income and a smaller deficit in the general expenditure fund, more work for employes and less pauperism in our midst.—Capitol.

The Columbia Herald says, about three years ago Messrs G. A. Thomas and W. H. Hudson plantey ponds and put in 30 German Carp; they now have plenty of large fish. Give them a warmly located pond with a muddy bottom, well supplied with aquatic plants, and free from all other fish and the common, small reptiles, protecting them from night kingfishers, fishhawks and bitterns, and before they are 30 months old there will be an ample supply of delicious fish, averaging at least four pounds in weight. They will reach this size with little or no artificial feeding.

The case of the Cincinnati Southern Railroad against O. P. Hogan, appealed from the Grant Circuit Court, was decided in the Court of Appeals, by Judge Holt affirming the decision of the lower court. The action was brought in the Grant Circuit Court by Mr. Hogan on an agreement made with him by the railroad company, when it agreed that in consideration of the right of way through his lands the company was to construct and build a turnpike through his lands. This they failed to do and suit was brought by Mr. Hogan through his attorney, J. J. Landram, claiming $10,000 damages. The jury assessed the damages at $5,000, and on this an appeal was taken with the result as above stated together with additional damages of $500, sustained by the appeal. It is understood that about twenty similar suits will be instituted in the Grant Circuit Court, this being made as a test case.—Warsaw Independent.

Mr. Wm. Daveiss has completed his fast, making 40 days and 20 hours. The fast was ended on Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. This fast is probably the most remarkable on record as the factor has kept on his feet during the entire time, and although losing much flesh he has never been prostrated. When about half through the fast the writer saw him hold out in one hand 29 pounds of weight and on Thursday of last week he walked three miles fishing. He has eaten absolutely nothing, but during the latter part of the fast sucked at intervals an orange, spitting out the juice, or rinsed his mouth with vinegar. For whatever nourishment he might have absorbed on this account he fasted 20 hours longer than 40 days. Immediately after the fast he began to take milk gradually, two table spoonfuls an hour, but does not now feel any appetite. He says that fasting is a very easy business and thoroughly rids the system of indigestion in all forms.—Harrodsburg Democrat.

Edward E. Walker was instantly killed near Glencoe, Tuesday morning by jumping from the passenger train bound for Louisville. Walker was forty-nine years old, and was a resident of Tollesboro, Lewis county, Ky. Last July he was overheated and became insane. He was taken to Cincinnati for treatment, but became worse and it was concluded to take him to the Anchorage asylum, to which place he was enroute when he jumped from the train. His brother and Major M. L. Middleton had him in charge and on getting on the train took off the handcuffs. Major Middleton who was sitting along side of the insane man moved back a seat when he made a sudden dash for the platform and leaped off. The train was going at the rate of sixty miles an hour and death was almost instantaneous. His head was crushed badly and his left arm and leg cut off. The remains were taken to Glencoe where 'Squire Sullivan held an inquest on the remains returning a verdict as above.—Warsaw Indpt.

The evidence in the Maxwell trial at St. Louis is fastening the guilt upon the accused tighter each day. It seems that he was planning a long time before he succeeded in dispatching his victim. Robbery was his intention. The opposing counsel in the case have been on the brink of battle two or three times during the progress of the trial, and any day they are liable to collide. "Let 'em fight, Judge."

There were 1,015,704 pounds more tobacco raised in this county last year than there were the year before. The 1885 crop amounted to 4,112,100 pounds, which at three cents per pound would bring into the county $123,000 in round numbers.

FOR SALE.

My farm of 250 acres one mile from Richwood Station, near the Cin Southern Railroad. This farm has 50 acres of timber and is all strong land, and under good fence, has three never failing ponds, good stable and a large tobacco barn. The improvements consist of a two story frame dwelling of 8 rooms, in first-class order, and all necessary out buildings. These premises front on the Hamilton & Richwood pike which intersects the Richwood & Beaver pike, also on the premises. Taking into consideration the quality of improvements and land and convenience of pikes and railroads, schools and neighborhood, there is not a more desirable farm in Kentucky. Will sell on reasonable terms, ½ cash and the balance on time, or will trade for desirable city property. For particulars address

L. B. Stephens, Richwood, Ky.
Or H. P. Stephens. Burlington, Ky.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

Eddie L. Seniour's, guardian, Plff.
vs | Notice of sale in equity
Eddie L. Seniour, &c. Defts.

By virtue of a Judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the April Term thereof, 1886, in the above cause, the undersigned will, on Monday, the 7th day of June 1886, at 1 o'clock p. m., or thereabout (being County Court day), proceed to offer for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder, on a credit of 6, & 12 months, equal installments at the Court-house door, in the town of Burlington, the property mentioned in the Judgment to wit:

16¾ acres, being lot "B" in the division of dower Mrs. Reuben Norman, bounded by Richard Madden and others.

The purchasers will be required to give bonds with approved security, for the payment of the purchase money, to have the force and effect of a judgment, bearing legal interest from the day of sale. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms. Bonds payable to the undersigned,

W L RIDDELL, M C B C C

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

C. C. Roberts, Plffs.
vs | Notice of sale in equity.
Robert C. McManama, Defts.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the April term thereof, 1886, in the above cause, the undersigned will on Monday, the 7th day of June 1886 at 1 o'clock p. m., or thereabout (being County court day), proceed to offer for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder, on a credit of 6 and 12 months at the Court-house door in the town of Burlington the property mentioned in the judgment, to wit:

Two tracks of land near Verona, this county. One containing 34 acres on Big Bone Lick Creek, bounded by the lands of Lewis Morris, George O'Neal, W. L. Roberts and others. One containing 47 acres and 9 poles bounded by the lands of Sam'l Taylor, J. W. Cleek, C. C. Roberts and others. For a more particular description see judgement herein.

Or sufficient thereof to make the sums of money so ordered to be made. The purchaser will be required to give bonds with approved security, for the payment of the purchase money, to have the force and effect of a judgment, bearing legal interest from the day of sale, according to law. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

Amount to be raised by sale, $1718 91 Bonds payable to the undersigned.

W. L. RIDDELL, M C B C C.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

Cyrus Kelley, Plff.
vs | Notice of sale in Equity.
Nellie Louden, Defts.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the April term thereof, 1886, in the above cause, the undersigned will, on Monday, the 7 day of June 1886, at 1 oclock p. m. or thereabout being County court day, proceed to offer for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder, on a credit of 6 & 12 months at the Courthouse door, in the town of Burlington, the property mentioned in the judgment, to wit:

10 acres 1 rood and 3 poles on the waters of Middle Creek, bounded by the lands of G. W. Rector, D. G. Rice, Mrs. Louden, &c.

The purchaser will be required to give bond with approved security, for the payment of the purchase money, to have the force and effect of a judgment bearing legal interest from day of sale. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with those terms. Amount to be raised by sale, $147 35. Bonds payable to the undersigned.

W. L. RIDDELL, M C B C C

NOTICE.

The delinquent Poll Tax List for 1885 will be sold by districts on the first Monday in June, 1886, at 1 o'clock or thereabout in the Court-House by an order of the Levy Court and Court of Claims. S. W. Tolin, Co. Atty.

SHERIFF'S SALE FOR TAXES.

By virtue of taxes due the Sheriff of Boone Co., I or my deputy, will on Monday, June 7th, '86,

between the hours of 12 o'clock m. and 2 p. m., at the Court-house door in Burlington, Boone county, Ky., expose to Public sale to the highest bidder, for cash in hand the following property, (or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the amount of taxes due, aforesaid and cost,) to wit:

A lot in the village of McVille, Boone county, Ky., near Bellevue, and known as the McMullen warehouse lot. Levied on as the property of A. B. Walker, for taxes for the year 1886. Am't. to be raised $9 05

A house and lot in the town of Petersburg, Boone county, Kentucky, adjoining the lot now occupied by Jas. Jarrell. Levied on as the property of Mariah Parker, for taxes for the years 1883-4-5.

Amount to be raised by sale, $5 45.

A house and lot in the town of Petersburg, Ky., Levied on as the property of Jane Willis, for taxes the years of 1883-4-5.

Amount to be raised by sale, $6 85.

A tract of land containing 195 acres, in Boone county, Ky., adjoining Morgan Rice the Willis heirs, Hartman, &c. Levied on as the property of C. D. Pratt, for taxes for 1885.

Amount to be raised by sale $32 81.

A lot in the town of Taylorport, Boone county, Ky. Levied on as the property of Patrick Crosby, for taxes for the years of 1833 4-5.

Amount to be raised by sale $ 9 10.

One house and lot on the waters of Gunpowder Creek, near Limaburg Post-office, Boone county, Ky. Levied on as the property of John Wilson, cold., for the years of 1884-5.

Amount to be raised by sale $7 00.

About 4½ acres of land at Big Bone Springs, Boone county, Ky. Levied on as the property of C. A. McLaughlin, for taxes for the years of 1881-5.

Amount to be raised by sale, $23 30.

One house and lot near Gunpowder Post office, Boone county, Ky. Levied on as the property of John Brumback, for taxes for the years of 1883-4 5.

Amount to be raised by sale $12 55.

J. R. CLUTTERBUCK, S. B. C.
May 7, 1886.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

Boone Circuit Court, Ky.

F. M. Howlett, &c Plff.
vs } Notice of sale in equity
J L. Johnson, &c. Defendatns.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Boone Circuit Court, rendered at the April term thereof, 1886, in the above cause, the undersigned will, on Monday, the 7th day of June, 1886, at 1 o'clock p. m., or thereabout (being County Court day) proceed to offer for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder, on a credit of 6 and 12 months at the Court-house door, in the town of Burlington, the property mentioned in the judgment to wit:

[illegible] acres of land on the waters of Big Bone Creek bounded by the lands of J. A. Storr, J. H. Slater, and others. Also 2 houses and lots, and a ware-house and store room in Hamilton, this county. For a more particular description see judgement herein.

Or sufficient thereof to produce the sums of money so ordered to be made. The purchaser will be required to give bonds with approved security, for the payment of the purchase money, to have the force and effect of a judgment, bearing legal interest from the day of sale, according to law. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms. Amount to be raised by sale, $[illegible] Bonds payable to the undersigned.

W L RIDDELL, M C B C C.

I. C. STEINHARTER,
416 & 418 Pike St.
COVINGTON, - KENTUCKY.

Highest price paid for sheared Wool and Sheep-skins. Ed Golloway, of Florence, Buyer.

ROBERT B. REED
Attorney at Law.
OFFICE AT - - UNION, KY

F. RIDDELL. H. P. STEPHENS.

RIDDELL and STEPHENS,
ATTORNEYS at LAW
BURLINGTON, KY.
Office over Dudley Rouse's Store.

W. E. VEST,
COUNTY SURVEYOR
WALTON, KY.

Is prepared to do all kinds of surveying. All orders sent him through the mail to Walton, will receive his prompt attention.

DR. A. B. HARRYMAN,

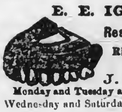
Resident Dentist.
Office over Post-Office
AURORA, INDIANA.

J. J. Landram. G. G. Hughes.

LANDRAM & HUGHES,
ATTORNEYS at LAW.

Will practice in the Boone Circuit Cour and the Court of Appeals. Prompt attention given to Collections, on application t G. G. Hughes, Burlington, Ky.

E. E. IGOE,



Resident Dentist,
Rising Sun, Ind.
WITH
J. P. Ulrey.

Monday and Tuesday at Rising Sun. Ind. Wednesday and Saturday at Aurora, Ind. Thursday and Friday at Lawrenceburg.

S. W. TOLIN.
ATTORNEY AT LAW
BURLINGTON, - - Y
Office in Court-house on 2d floor.

Will manage litigation in any of the Courts of the State, contracts and other legal instruments drawn up at reasonable rates. Aprompt an studious attention given to business intrusted to my care. A trial solicited. 12-1y

---

W. J. RICE,
CARPENTER & BUILDER,
BULLITSVILLE, KY.

Is prepared Raise or Move
EITHER LOG or FRAME BUILDINGS
On Short Notice,
And at the Lowest Possible Figures.
33-tf Your orders respectfully solicited

LUMBER.

Goe. M. Bedinger & Co.,
Erlanger, - - Ky.

We keep constantly on hand all kinds of Lumber, Laths and Shingles. Also Builder's supplies of all kinds.

—Come and see Us—

County Directory

OFFICERS.

Assessor—G. M. Riley.
Jailer—Samuel Cowen.
County Surveyor—W. E. Vest.
Coroner.—Dr. A. A. Murat, Constance.
Superintendent of Schools—H. J. Foster

COURTS.

CIRCUIT COURT meets the 2d Monday in April and first Monday in October, P. U. Major, Judge; W. L. Riddell, Clerk A. G. DeJarnette, Commonwealths Attorney; W. L. Riddell, Trustee Jury Fund.

COUNTY COURT meets the first Monday in every month. L. H. Dills, Judge; S. W. Tolin, County Attorney. M. T. Garnett, Clerk; J. R. Clutterbuck, Sheriff, T. W. Finch and W. T. German, Deputy Sheriffs.

QUARTERLY COURT meets the first Monday in March, June, September and December. The officers of the County Court preside.

COURT OF CLAIMS meets the first Monday in November.

MAGISTRATES' COURTS are held in March, June, September and December, as follows:

Bellevue—M. B. Green, first Saturday, and T. H. Sutton, third Monday. J. M. Moody, Constable.

Burlington—E. H. Baker, Thursday after first Monday, and Oscar Gaines, fourth Monday. C. W. Saxton, Constable.

Carlton A. G. McConnell, Wednesday afterssecond Monday, and B. H. Ryle, Saturday after third Monday. Charles H. Aera, Constable.

Petersburg—Jos. Hensley, Wednesday after first Monday, and L. A. Loder fourth Saturday. Geo. Comer, Constable.

Beaver—W. M. Rouse, Friday after the third Monday, and Andrew Ellis, Friday after 1st Monday—T. J. Coyle, Constable.

Union—M. C. Norman, Thursday after third Monday, and H. Bannister, Thursday after second Monday. H. G. Blanton, Constable.

Hamilton—F. M. Howlett, Tuesday after second Monday; W. W. Garnett, Wednesday after third Monday. R. L. Roberts Constable.

Walton—T. F. Carley, second Friday, S. T. Johnson, Tuesday after second Friday Al Arnold, Constable.

Verona—W. E. Sleet, Tuesday after first Monday. J. J. Brumback, Tuesday after third Monday, J. H. Callahan, constable.

Florence—T. K. Dixon, third Saturday, Joe Wagstaff, second Saturday. Craig Pettit, Constable.

Taylorsport—A. B. Whitlock, fourth Monesay, W. A Goodridge, third Saturday Thos. Watts, constable,

FARM IMPLEMENTS.

Buy your Farming Implements, Fence Wire, Cutting Boxes, Feed Grinders, Corn Shellers, Road Scrapers, Excavating Carts, Sewing Machines, Mowers and Reapers and

Deering TWINE Binders,
GROCERIES, &c.
READY MIXED PAINT.
—of—
J. C. Smith,
Successor to W. H. Hill & Co.
22 and 24 EAST THIRD STREET,
Cincinnati, Ohio.

Or of our local Agent C. W. Riley, North Bend, Ohio, (Ky. Box). All goods sold strictly on their merits.

ATTENTION!
TOBACCO
Shippers and Raisers, you can buy
Tobacco Hogheads,
Set up or Knock Downs,
AT THE COMPANY'S MILLS
At Lawrenceburg or Aurora, Ind.
Orders by mail will meet our prompt attention.

LAND FOR SALE.

50 acres good land near Constance, this county. All in grass and well watered. Terms easy—apply to this Office.

FOR SALE!

Henry County Farm of 120 acres, situated on pike 1 mile from Smithfield, on Louisville & Lexington Railroad, 35 miles from Louisville. Said farm has on it a good frame house, of 8 rooms, good barn and all other outbuildings, and never failing water, convenient to good schools and churches. The land is first-class, all in grass but 25 acres, which is in wheat, 25 acres of fine tobacco land which has never been cultivated. Terms reasonable. For further information apply to

B. D. Spurgin, Smithfield, Ky.
Henry county. 52-3m

SODA
Best in the World.
For Sale by Dudley Rouse,
Burlington, Ky.

The Combined Stallion,
RECTOR

Will make the season of 1886, Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays at Harvy Marshalls at Waterloo, and the rest of the week at my stable at Bellevue, at $10 to insure a mare with foal, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Rector is a beautiful black, 7 years old, 15½ hands high, and a good all-purpose horse. He was sired by Orlas, dam Black Nose.

Not responsible for accidents should any occur. ROBT. CLORE, Bellevue, Ky.

WANTED—LADY Active and intelligent, to represent in her own locality an old firm. References required. Permanent position and good salary. GAY & BROS. 14 Barclay St., N. Y.

Subscribe for the Recorder.

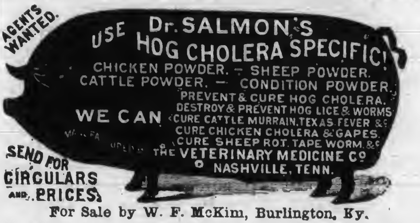
THE COMBINATION FENCE

A fence that is wanted, and in time will be used by every one that wants a fence, either around the House, Garden or Farm, as it is cheap, durable and servicable, to keep in check horses, cattle, sheep, hogs, chickens, etc., and restrain wolves, dogs, and rabbits, etc.

Having all the advantages of a picket fence in restraining animals from jumping, and not so liable to decay, and at much less cost, and no barbs to injure valuable stock, thus placing it far in advance of any other fence now in use, hence it must be the fence of the future; all who have it want more.

It is portable and can be removed from field to field by drawing staples from posts, taking out the splice lath and rebundling it. We offer this fence for sale in bundles of five and six rod at Burlington.

DILLS & CRISLER,
Burlington, Ky



AGENTS WANTED.
USE Dr. SALMON'S
HOG CHOLERA SPECIFIC!
CHICKEN POWDER. — SHEEP POWDER.
CATTLE POWDER. — CONDITION POWDER.
WE CAN
PREVENT & CURE HOG CHOLERA.
DESTROY & PREVENT HOG LICE & WORMS
CURE CATTLE MURRAIN, TEXAS FEVER &c
CURE CHICKEN CHOLERA & GAPES.
CURE SHEEP ROT, TAPE WORM, &c
THE VETERINARY MEDICINE Co
NASHVILLE, TENN.
SEND FOR CIRCULARS AND PRICES.

For Sale by W. F. McKim, Burlington, Ky.

The fine harness and saddle stallion

Young WOODPECKER

Will make the season of 1886, Saturdays and Mondays at J. W. Gaines' stable at Burlington, Tuesdays and Wednesdays at Gainesville, Thursdays and Fridays at J. W. Gaines' farm near Plattsburg, at $10 to insure a colt to stand up and suck, any person parting with a mare after being bred forfeits the insurance money.

Young Woodpecker was sired by Nat Carpenter's Star of the West; he by Woodpecker; he by Bertrand; dam imported Buzzard. Young Woodpecker's dam was a 3 minute mare, by Jeff Davis, g. d. by Russell's Pilot; he by old Sir William.

Not responsible for accidents.

TEN BROCK, This fine young jack will make the season at the same time and places and on the same terms.

He is black with mealy nose, 15 hands high. He was sired by Epartero; he by a large Spanish jack: dam of Ten Brock, Mollie McCarty, was sired by Longfellow, Perry Tucker's jack; g. d. by A. S. Pratt's jack, the best breeder ever in this county.

F. C. Wingate, J. W. Gaines,
J. J. Lillard, C. A. Gaines.

DENMARK CHIEF, JR.,

Will stand the present season at my stable at Sand Run, at $10 to insure, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with. Not responsible for accidents. I will reserve a lien on all colts until the insurance money is paid.

Denmark Chief, jr., is a bright mahogany bay, 10 yrs-old, 15½ hands high, fine length, with as fine hip loin and quarter as ever put on a horse. His blood-like head is full of expression, indicative of the finest disposition; and, take him all in all, he is one of the finest models of the Ky., horse.

He was sired by Old Denmark Chief; he by Old Black Denmark, formerly owned by A. R. Alexander, of Woodford county, Ky.; Old Denmark was sired by the old race-horse Imported Hedgeford; Wm. Allen's dam sorrel Betty, a Copperbottom mare, sired by Daniel Boone; he by Tom Crowder; he by Black Pilot, the old horse Alexander. Christopher Barlow.

Riddell's Hambletoni'n

Is a bay, 15½ hands high, 8 years old, and will make the season of 1886 at my stable, 2 miles from Anderson's Ferry, and 2 miles from Hebron, and will serve mares at $10.

He is by Strader's Hambletonian; dam Ruchie Sanders; she by Green's Bashaw. He is one of the best breeders in the county his colts are good size, good workers and trotters. J. A. RIDDELL.

I had a colt by this horse which I sold for $300, unbroke, Geo. Gaines.

The fine harness and saddle horse,

Young Hedgeford,

Will make the season of 1886, at my stable 1½ miles from Petersburg, at the forks of the Burlington and Woolper pike, and will serve mares at $10 to insure a colt to stand up and suck, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Description & Pedigree.

He is a dark mahogany bay, 4 years old, 16 hands high, and has fine style and action. He was sired by Old Hedgeford, the premium saddle and general purpose horse, who was sold to Joe Emmet for $1,000. Young Hedeford's dam was a fine mare from Burbon county, Ky.

Not responsible for accidents.

J. W. BERKSHIRE.

OHIO VOLUNTEER,

Will stand the season of 1886, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of each week at David Clements', near Jeff Utz's, on the Union & Rising Sun grade, 4 miles from Union, and the rest of the time at my stable in Burlington, at $10 to insure, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with. Not responsible for accidents.

Ohio Volunteer is a beautiful dark brown has fine form and action, is a sure foal getter and a good trotter. His many colts prove him a model breeder.

Ohio Volunteer was sired by Goldsmith's Volunteer; he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian, dam Forrest Telltale, by Edwin Forrest; 2d dam Telemon. C. W. Saxton.

JENKINS'

ALMONT,

This renowned trotting stallion and sire of trotters will make the season of 1886, at the stable of John D. Norris, ½ mile from Petersburg, Boone county, Ky., at $30 the season, with the privilege of returning in 1887 should the mare fail to get with foal, money due July 1st, 1886.

Jenkins' Almont was sired by Wither's Almont, the sire of 26 horses with records of 2:30 or better. 1st dam by Toledo; 2nd dam Sousby Grays Highlander; 3d dam by Couer de Leon, a noted pacer.

Jenkins' Almont is the sire of Bessie G. 2:25½; Grafton, 2:28½; Will Heath, trial, 2:21, and others gifted with great trotting speed.

Pasture furnished at $3 per month. Care will be exercised to prevent accidents or escapes, but will not be responsible should any occur. We are endeavoring to give the people of Boone Co., a chance to get a fine colt at a low price. J. D. Norris & Co.

BILL CHEERE

Will make the season at the stable of John G. Bradford in Union, Ky. at $15 to insure Bill Cheere was bought of Mr. W. Duncan, of Illinois, who imported him. He is the most perfect draft horse in the county.

GUIZOT

Will make the season at my stable in Petersburg, Ky. at $10 to insure, Guizot was imported from France, and is a fine breeder. Geo. W. Terrill, Petersburg, Ky.

The fine stallion, Connor's

ALMONT

Will make the present season at my stable at Bullittsville, Ky., and will serve mares at $10 to insure, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Care will be taken to prevent accidents, but will not be responsible should any occur.

Almont is 6 years old, a beautiful rich mahogany bay, black mane and tail, with two white ankles behind, stands 16 hands high, and shows much style and speed.

Almont was by Bidwell's Almont, jr., bred by Col. West; got. by Almont, son of Alexander's Abdallah; dam Belle Forrest, by Edwin Forrest. Almont is a half brother to Sensation; 1st dam Topsy, the fine premium mare, by Topgallant; g. d. a Belle Founder mare; g. g. d. a Copperbottom mare that possessed all the fine saddle qualities. J. D. Conner.

CRIGLER'S ALMONT,

Will make the season of 1886 at my stable on Gunpowder Creek 1½ miles above Limaburg and at Florence, Ky., at $20, to insure a mare with foal, money due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Will be at Florence the first three days of each week, and the rest of the time at my stable. Not responsible for accidents.

Almont is a dark chestnut sorrel, 15¾ hands high, with fine style, and has trotted his mile in less than 2:30; he is by Almont jr., he by Wither's Almont; he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian; Almonts 1st dam Goodwood; 2d dam Daniel Boone; 3 dam Blacknose.

REX DENMARK.

Will make the season at the same time and places, at $10 to insure a mare in foal.

He is a beautiful Brown with fine mane and tail, style that cannot be beaten, is 16 hands high. He has been shown 11 times and taken 10 ties, in Missouri.

He is by Crigler's Denmark; he by Denmark Chief; he by Black Denmark; Old Denmark by Imported Messenger. Rex Denmark's 1st dam Woodpecker Star of the West; 2d dam Mohawk; 3d dam Tom Crowder. W. A. Crigler.

1886. STALLIONS FOR 1886.

SAM HARRIS.

Description—Bay, no white, 16½ hands, fine style, good trotting action, 5 years old, with six weeks breaking and handling trotted a full mile over Chester Park in 2:58, full brother to Royalmont, who has a record 2:32 with a private trial 2:22 in his 5 year old form.

Pedigree—By Bidwell's Almont, dam Louisiana by Tornado; he by Tempest; he by Royalgeorge; her dam by Old Mazeppa; she was sold in 1874 and delivered in Buffalo for $1,500, and afterwards shipped south. She trotted the Buffalo track in 2:35 the day of sale.

Sam Harris will make the season of 1886 for $25, payable when the service is rendered, with the privilege of breeding till a colt is obtained.

JOHN S.

Description—Dark iron gray, 5 yrs. old, very stylish, good action, 16 hands high.

Pedigree—By Bidwell's Almont; 1st dam by Ohio Volunteer; he by Goldsmith's Volunteer; he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian; 2d dam White Eagle. John S. will make the season of 1886 for $10 to insure, due when the fact is known or mare parted with.

Bidwell's Almont by Wither's Almont; he by Alexander's Abdallah; he by Rysdyk's Hambletonian; 1st dam by Edwin Forrest; Bidwell's Almont sired Judge Lindsay with a 5 yr. old record 2:21¼, Annie W. 2:22½, and two others with public record below 2:30; also Royalmont with a public record 2:32 and private trial 2:22 Pasture furnished at $3 per month, but not responsible for accidents.

These two stallions will make the season of 1886, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at Bullittsville and the rest of the week at my stable 1½ mile west of Anderson's Ferry.

JAS. L. RILEY, Bullittsville, Ky.

Local News.

W. J. Cowen authorizes us to announce him as a candidate for Justice of the Peace in the Burlington district.

The week opened up with a good tobacco season.

H. P. Stephens and wife visited Union yesterday.

W. A. Crigler, of Limaburg, was in town yesterday.

Several Burlingtonites went to see Barnum Monday.

Grasshoppers have played havoc with some clover fields.

Mrs. Mary Runyan is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Revill, of this place.

The Good Templars contemplate having a lawn fete in the near future.

Prof. Mack taught school Friday and Monday in the absence of Mr. Whitehead.

E. H. Baker has been prizing and shipping some tobacco in the last ten days.

Cyclones have been trimming the edges arround, drawing a little closer ever and anon.

The sun has been warm enough to split the back of the cut worm if exposed to its scorching rays.

Mrs. W. F. McKim and Mrs. Thos O. Cowen, went to their father's, in Kenton county Monday.

The commissioners will this week divide the Wilhoit farm above Florence, on the Lexington pike.

Trimble county people are rejoicing and feeling exceedingly gratified. The blackberry bushes are full of bloom.

Saturday, June 12th, is the day of the Odd-Fellows' picnic. Paste this in your hat, so you wont forget the day.

For Sale—Wm. Fritz's best Corn Beef at 8 cents per pound at B F. Zimmers, Constance, Boone county, Ky. 26tf.

The shower Sunday afternoon was timely, and did much good in softening the ground so that the corn can come through.

